

The next day, we marched from the college to the station and boarded a troop train. As usual we did not know our destination, but were quite sure that we were headed for some infantry outfit. It turned out to be a two and one-half day trip, and we debarked at Camp Forest, Tenn.