JACK FLYNN TO CONTINUE AS DOMINICAN BASEBALL COACH

Providence College Signs Popular Mentor for Another Season

The announcement that Jack Flynn, popular baseball authority of this city, would return as coach of that sport at Providence College for the coming season was made this morning by Graduate Manager John E. Farrell. Flynn has been mentor at the Smith Hill college for three of the past four years, holding that post in 1924 and 1925, then serving a season as manager of the New Haven Eastern League outfit before rejoining the Dominican baseball forces last spring.

The signing of Flynn for another season will be a popular one with local fans, and followers of the Black and White nines in particular, as he has been responsible in no small degree for the crack teams that have represented the local college in the past few years. Under his tutelage stars have been developed and championship aggregations have been fielded from mediocre material.

During his three years as mentor of the Dominican ball clubs he has made a record of 41 victories of the 66 games that have been played and with a wealth of veteran material on hand to carry out the 1928 schedule. He should experience a banner campaign. In his first year at the Smith Hill college Flynn won 11 tilts of the 20-game list, handing setbacks to such teams as Tufts, Springfield, Bates, Brown and Boston University, and at the same time developing such clever ball tossers as Charles Reynolds, who hurled himself into a world's record for scoreless innings pitched, winning the 20-inning fray that season. Johnnie Haloran, midget catcher, who was rated second best in the East after two seasons under the local lawyer.

The following year Flynn turned out a team which won 16 of its 22 games, and which brought the Dominican college into the foremost rank among the colleges holding sway at the head of the baseball world. Notable feats of that campaign were the triumphs over Villanova, Brown, New Hampshire and Boston College, marking the first victory of the locals over the latter institution.

Last spring, after his season with the New Haven Profs, the local mentor again developed a fine nine out of but little material, topping a fine season with wins over Boston College, Villanova, New York A. C., the Eastern Leaguers, Temple, Tufts and Yale. With all but four members of the squad that finished that season back in college he has hopes of a good record during the coming months.

Veterans who will be ready to start work in March include Capt. Leo Smith, Joe Whelan, Henry Daniels, Frankie Moran, Hal Bradley and Artie Quirk, as mound artists, while Chuck Murphy and Joe Harraghy will report for the backstop work.

The infield was the department worst hit by graduation last June, as Ray Doyle, second sacker for four years, and Bernie Norton, at shortstop, and at present coach at Cumberland high.

finished their collegiate careers at that time. Joe Duffy, Fall River first baseman, and Heck Allen, veteran hot corner guardian, will be the veterans who will form the nucleus for the inner works, according to present indications. Other infield possibilities are Joe Ray, Frank Capalli, Harry Main, Bill Norton and Pete Rzezniki, all of whom were substitutes on the squad last spring.

The outfield districts will have such capable performers as Ed. McLaughlin, "Nap" Fleurent, rated second best right fielder in the East last June; Frank Lally, rangy East Providence lad, and Vin Cummings, Cranston veteran, and Bill Flynn, letter man in 1926, aspiring for the three posts available.

With such a crop of promising ball tossers to work with Flynn hopes to have a snappy outfit wearing the Black and White colors when the nine swings into action next April. Although the schedule has not as yet been announced, it is known that Boston College, Dartmouth, Georgetown and Notre Dame will be among the feature tilts to be played on Hendricken Field.

The varsity baseball list for the Providence College team, announced today, includes 25 games with the fastest college aggregations in the East, and should Jack Flynn's charges come through with flying colors in their major tilts they will have a strong claim for Eastern college honors in the diamond pastime.

The list as announced by Graduate Manager Farrell, is unique in that it will send the Dominican ball tossers into action against the best college nines, not of the East alone, but of the entire country indirectly. Inter-sectional games have been arranged with Spring Hill College, southwestern champions for two years, Georgetown, rated the best club south of New York and Notre Dame, the leaders in the Middle West. The latter team will provide the Commencement Day attraction, June 14, at Providence.

Coach Jack Flynn, former Eastern League pilot, and one of the finest baseball mentors now handling a college assignment, will have a large number of veterans to start his campaign with, and from present indications he will need full strength by the time the middle of May rolls around, as the locals will meet continuous opposition from such strong nines as Villanova, Dartmouth, Boston College, Brown, Georgetown, Yale and Notre Dame.

THIRTEEN VETERANS

Thirteen letter men will be ready to start outdoor work this month, including all last year's batterymen. In the latter group are Hal Bradley, Lawrence, a hurler who bested Villanova and Yale among many others last spring; Leo Smith, southpaw hurler and captain who held the crack Harvard nine hitless for seven-innings only to lost a 10-inning tilt; Moran, local slabster, who handed Boston University a setback, and Whelan and Danis, two seniors. Both of the regular backstops of last year are available.

A feature of the commencement day week program will be an alumni game which promises to be the high spot of the year. The reason for this is the fact that practically all of the famous nine which handed Brown a 1 to 0 setback in a 20-inning game, a few years ago, will be in line.

DOMINICANS LIST 25 BASEBALL TILTS, 14 ON HOME DIAMOND

Notre Dame, Fordham, Villanova, Dartmouth, Georgetown
Boston College and Spring Hill of Alabama Are Coming Here.—Two Games With Brown At Aldrich Field

The finest collegiate baseball aggregations in the country will provide opposition for Jack Flynn's Providence College 'Varsity outfit, according to the diamond card announced by Graduate Manager John E. Farrell of the Dominican college. Twenty-five tilts are listed with 16 to be played in this city, 14 on Hendricken Field and the other two with Brown on Aldrich Field.

Outstanding in the imposing array of ball clubs that will be seen in action against the locals here are the Notre Dame nine, making its first Eastern invasion in many years; Spring Hill College of Mobile, Ala., which has finished its past two seasons without a setback, and the crack Georgetown University outfit, claimants of the Southern college championship. Other feature attractions include games with Fordham, Springfield, Connecticut, Bowdoin, Villanova, Dartmouth and Boston College.

After opening on April 7 with Northeastern University, the same team that handed Flynn's aggregation a setback in the opener at Boston last spring, the Smith Hillers make a three-day trip to New York. A week after their return from this trip the first of their inter-sectional tilts will be played when Spring Hill College makes its New England debut here, coming to this city from New York after playing Georgetown, Navy and Fordham.

For the first time in their history the locals will play a home and home series with Dartmouth, going to Hanover on May 1 and entertaining the Big Green nine here on May 18. The Dominicans have an edge in their rivalry in baseball with Dartmouth, having won two of the three tilts played with them. Two-game series will also be played with Northeastern, Boston College and Brown.

The appearance of the Georgetown aggregation in this city will be eagerly awaited as the Southerners have a veteran team which is determined to capture all collegiate honors this spring. They will come here the day after Memorial Day, engaging with Yale on the latter date at New Haven. Their last tilt here was when they defeated the locals by a 5 to 0 count back in 1923.

The new teams who will be meeting the White and Black diamond artists for the first time, in addition to Spring Hill and Notre Dame, are Connecticut State and Bowdoin. The latter team plays here while on its annual jaunt to play Yale. Trinity College of Hartford will oppose the locals after a lapse of six years, while Lowell and Springfield come back on the schedule after three years' absence.

Notre Dame replaces Vanderbilt University as the Commencement Day attraction, coming here on June 14. The Westerners were rated the leaders of the Middle West last spring and with such capable hurlers on their roster as the Walsh brothers, former St. John's Prep stars and sons of Big Ed Walsh of Chicago fame, they expect to make their invasion of this locality a memorable one.

To carry out the work of playing this ambitious schedule Coach Jack Flynn has 13 lettermen as a nucleus for his 'Varsity aggregation, and he will need everyone of them to keep the Dominicans at the top of the heap in the scramble for collegiate honors against such formidable foes.

In addition to the 'Varsity schedule three tilts were also announced for the Junior 'Varsity nine, the first being with Assumption College at Worcester on May 12, then Yale Junior 'Varsity at New Haven on May 17, and two days later St. John's Prep at Danvers.

The complete schedule is as follows: April 7, Northeastern University at Providence; 12, Upsala at East Orange, N. J.; 13, Manhattan, at New York; 14, C. C. N. Y., at New York; 20, Fordham, at Providence; 21, Springfield at Providence; 24, Spring Hill College (of Alabama) at Providence; 26, Colby at Providence; 28, Connecticut State at Providence.

May 1, Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H.; 2, Lowell Textile at Lowell, Mass.; 4, Bowdoin at Providence; 5, Northeastern at Boston; 10, St. Michael's at Providence; 12, Trinity at Hartford, Conn.; 16, Villanova at Providence; 18, Dartmouth at Providence; 22, Boston College at Boston; 26, Brown at Providence; 31, Georgetown at Providence.

June 2, Brown at Providence; 6, Boston College at Providence; 9, Yale at New Haven, Conn.; 12, Alumni; 14, Notre Dame at Providence.

The Junior 'Varsity list is as follows: May 12, Assumption College at Worcester; May 17, Yale Junior 'Varsity at New Haven; May 19, St. John's Prep at Danvers, Mass.

GOOD COLLEGE BASEBALL GAMES LISTED FOR THIS CITY

The cream of college baseball teams will be seen in action here this spring. Announcements of schedules by Providence College and Holy Cross made yesterday provide the information that both have arranged games with Brown. The Dominicans have one of the stiffest cards of any college in the East. Two tilts with Brown are included, as well as contests with Dartmouth, Villanova, Georgetown, Fordham, Boston College, Springfield, and Spring Hill, a Southern nine that was virtually unbeatable in its own section. Brown has drawn the Patriots Day date at Fitton Field, Worcester, with Holy Cross, and the Purple returns here to Aldrich Field nine days later.

Dominican Leader

Leo Smith Who Will Captain Providence College Through Hard Baseball Season

DOMINICANS DEFER OUTDOOR PRACTICE

The cold wind which swept across Hendricken Field yesterday afternoon kept the Providence College baseball aspirants from starting their outdoor work, and as a result the team that takes the field in the opening tilt two weeks from Saturday will have the shortest pre-season practice ever put in by a Dominican nine. Provided the weather is agreeable this afternoon, and the field is dry enough to permit the candidates to don their togs, Coach Flynn will hold a short session.

To keep in top condition while waiting warmer weather, which will send them into action, the Black and White ball tossers are limbering up as best they can indoors. Capt. Smith has been testing his hurling arm in the small gym at the college with his battery mate of last spring, Joe Harraghy of Taunton, doing the receiving. Several of the other pitchers have worked out in local parish halls, while a few have braved the elements outdoors.

Handball has proved the most popular method of loosening the muscles, and every day a series of contests has been staged at the college by the veterans, who are determined to retain their Varsity assignments again this spring.

The first game is carded for April 7, when the Northeastern University veteran nine will play here. Last year the locals opened up in Boston with the same club and suffered an 8 to 7 defeat, and as a result the Black and White aggregation will be anxious to reverse the order this time.

RECORD BASEBALL SQUAD AT PROV- IDENCE COLLEGE

More Than Eighty Candidates Report to Coach Jack Flynn

The largest turnout since baseball started at Providence College seven years ago greeted Coach Jack Flynn on Hendricks field yesterday afternoon when over 80 candidates reported to compete for assignments on the Varsity nine, which is slated to meet the best college outfits in the East this spring.

The work of weeding out the material will give the mentor many a busy hour during the next two weeks, as many of the aspirants appear of high calibre. The drill started shortly after 2 o'clock when Coach Flynn lined up two outfits and started a game, making replacements as the tilt progressed.

The first team to take the field had a veteran battery in Henry Danis, slim right-hander, who appeared in good form as the result of strenuous indoor work during the past two weeks, and Joe Harraghy, Taunton receiver. McGovern worked the first base post, Bieller, Everett mainstay last spring, played second, Maguire, former La Salle crack infielder, was at short, and Joe Fay, member of the Junior Varsity nine last year, and assistant coach at Central Falls high, handled the hot corner. The outfield was patrolled by Manley Zande, brother of Jim, sub backstop last spring, and ex-captain of Torrington high, Nick Oliver, Durfee high fly chaser, and Kennedy, Senior.

The opposition was provided by Frankie Moran, veteran slabster, and Jack Curran, a 185-pound catcher, who prepped at Nashua high and later at Tilton Seminary, as the battery, while Larry Wheeler, football and basketball player, worked at first, Johnny Notté, ex-Classical high leader at second, Bob Riccardo, New York Military product, at short, and Pete Rzezniak, Jayvee player last season, at third. The outer garden trio was Grebbin of Amherst in left, O'Leary of Taunton in centre, and McNamara of Norwich Free Academy in right.

The first named aggregation took a slight lead in the early innings of the tilt, but the fine stickwork of Wheeler, Moran and Riccardo soon evened the score. Then the mentor started replacements with new faces dotting both line-ups each inning, and as a result practically all the aspirants had a chance to show their ability.

As the session progressed several of the veterans were given the opportunity to break into the lineup, with Harry Main, Pawtucket youngster, showing the best form of the infielders. "Nap" Fleurent flashed a stellar game in the outer gardens.

Forrest, southpaw heaver from Pittsfield, shaped up well while working for Team A and managed to hold his opponents in check. His successor, Stanley Bednarczyk, another portsider, performed equally well. Flynn, former La Salle twirler, relieved Moran and was in turn spelled by Capt. Leo Smith in the waning moments of the drill.

Several of the candidates turned in some timely hits, with three veterans starting their season with homers. Harry Main lifted the ball over the left field fence for the first circuit blow of the campaign, and a short time later Bill Flynn, outfielder from New Haven, and Fleurent, leading hitter of the team last year, duplicated the feat. Bieller and Maguire, both contenders for the post vacated by Ray Doyle, chipped in with triples.

Just before the session ended Coach Flynn sent Lally, East Providence letterman, in at first base, which position he handled in high school, and gave Eddie Wineapple, rugged Salem youth, a chance to work at the centre field berth. The infield of Lally, Main, Cappali, and Allen strengthened the defence of Team B and prevented any damaging rallies.

This afternoon will witness another long session with the remainder of the large squad being given tryouts, after which the coach plans to make a cut to speed up the work in preparation for the opening tilt with Northeastern University two weeks from Saturday.

WHEN more than eighty candidates report for college baseball practice it does not begin to look as if the national pastime was going to the dogs in the halls of learning. It may be that conditions at Providence College are different from those prevailing at other institutions but those who are disturbed by the waning interest in diamond activities at various universities throughout the land should journey to Hendricken Field and see the small army working out daily under the direction of Jack Flynn, former Pittsburgh, Montreal and way stations long distance sticker.

If numbers mean anything the Dominicans will put on the field a championship aggregation. Flynn has as many hopefuls under his wing as the old lady who lived in the shoe had children. From this collection he aspires to mould a team which will get revenge for the two defeats suffered at the hands of Coach Dubuc's Brown club of 1927 and mop up things generally in the collegiate realm.

The Providence College nine opens its 1928 schedule on Hendricken Field this afternoon at 3 o'clock when it entertains the veteran Northeastern University outfit which handed the Dominicans an 8 to 7 setback in the curtain raiser a year ago at Boston. The game today marks the only appearance of the Dominicans here before their annual game with Fordham, which is carded for April 20.

The Huskies have a well-balanced aggregation according to advance reports and although without the services of Ernie Stuckert, ace of the twirling staff a year ago, have two clever slabsters in Leo Crowley, former St. John's Prep star and Ray Richardson, lanky southpaw. The latter has won varsity insignia for two successive years and is slated to handle the mound work this afternoon.

The only newcomer to the Northeastern outfit this spring is Roy Radcliffe of Gloucester, former Huntington School captain, who was a utility man with Rufus Bond's outfit last spring. As the result of his fine work in the past week of drilling he has won the third base post from Mader, letter man last year. The remainder of the starting lineup will be composed of veteran letter men.

Capt. Leo Smith is slated to ascend the hillock today for the locals in an effort to register the first win of the 1928 campaign, and if the veteran southpaw is in top form he should be able to silence the bats of the Back Bay collegians. Tom McElroy, whose work in the past week of activity has stamped him as the best bet among the right-handers, will be ready for relief duty.

The receiving end of the battery work will fall upon Joe Harraghy, in all probability, as the Taunton backstop handled Smith in all his games last spring with success, and so should have the same honor this year. Murphy, who alternated with Harraghy during 1927, will be ready, however, to don the mask and pads should the mentor need his services. Jack Curran, husky Nashua youngster, is another who is in line for the post.

The infield problem has settled itself with Frank Cappalli Classical high product, and Sophomore at the college, showing the best form of all the candidates aspiring for the honor. Cappalli is a good fielder, and, although weak at the bat, has shown a decided improvement in the past few days since the mentor has taken him in hand. Yesterday he collected three hits and as a result feels that he has reached his stride.

Harry Main will pair with Cappalli at the keystone sack, and if the former Pawtucket athlete flashes the form that made him the outstanding infielder in the Manufacturers' League last summer, Coach Flynn will have little to worry about his inner defence. Heck Allen, veteran of three campaigns, and Joe Duffy, clever Fall River first baseman, complete the infield quartet.

The outfield is still somewhat of a problem, with five youngsters staging a merry battle for the places in the starting lineup. Fleurent seems certain of his place in right field, although Nick Oliver, former Durfee high captain, has surprised with his fine hitting and fielding in the past three days. Marty Gibbons, Clinton southpaw, will either patrol left or centre, according to present plans.

Hebert, who aspires for the heavy hitting honors of the squad, worked in centre field yesterday in the final drill of the day, and in view of his prowess with the sticks, in addition to an exceptionally fine throwing arm, he is favored to force Gibbons into left. The other outstanding performer for work in this department is Johnny Krieger of Paterson.

This spring, with Fleurent, leading hitter of last year's nine, crashing the horsehide to all corners of the lot, and with the veterans Allen and Duffy contributing many a hard blow to the cause, in addition to the hitting strength contained in the new outfielders, the Dominicans have reason to believe that they will win the majority of their tilts.

Smith, Twirling, Allows but Three Hits.—Providence
Plays Errorless Ball.

Playing errorless ball behind Capt. Leo Smith, their southpaw hurler from Westerly, the Providence College nine registered its initial victory of the 1928 campaign yesterday afternoon on Herd-riken Field by taking the Northeastern University outfit into camp by a 3 to 0 score.

Smith gave a brilliant exhibition of hurling, allowing but three hits, two of which came from the bat of Neil Mahoney, backstop of the Huskies. In addition Smith helped out his new infield by flawless work in stopping hard grounders headed through the box, collecting no less than six assists.

The work of Harry Main, ex-Paw-tucket luminary, and Frank Cappalli, captain of Classical two years ago, at second and short, respectively, was a source of gratification to Coach Flynn, who had been troubled with the keystone sack problem for the past two weeks. Main featured with two hard singles, tallied one of the three markers and flashed in the field. Cappalli had but two chances all afternoon, but he handled them well.

The fielding gem of the tilt was engineered by Main, in the first inning, after Neil Mahoney had crashed a long double into right field. Larry Ranney, succeeding batter, caught hold of an inside shoot and poked it down the right field groove, but Main made a flying dive for the grounder, stopped it, although he pitched headlong to the ground in so doing, recovered himself and whipped the ball to Harraghy at the plate to nip Mahoney as he attempted to slide in with a score.

Two other newcomers to the Dominican roster also came to the fore yesterday, Marty Gibbons shining in the left field territory and Hebert, former Quincy player, taking the cleanup post in the lineup like a veteran. Both lads collected a single apiece and patrolled the outer gardens creditably.

It remained for Heck Allen, third baseman, to catch the Northeastern ball tossers napping to garner the initial marker of the day when he slid across the platter in the fifth inning. Allen dropped a pretty bunt down the third base line which Radcliffe picked up and threw wildly to first, Allen continuing on his way to second.

Gibbons gave Freeland trouble when he smashed a hard grounder which bounded off his shins, and before Richardson could cover the initial baserunner to take the assist Gibbons had cleared the bag and Allen had taken advantage of the miscue to romp across with the first run of the year.

With Harraghy holding up Smith in great style, the Huskies had little chance to get into the running, although they made a desperate effort to place men on the sacks after the locals had broken the ice with their score. But the Black and White pilot proved too clever and toyed with Rufe Bond's charges for the greater part of the tilt. But six men reached first, and except for Neil Mahoney, who reached second when he poked a double into right in the initial inning, not one of them trod on second base.

In the sixth frame the Smith Hillers garnered another run. Main singled but was forced at second by Cappalli, who a moment later pilfered the keystone cushion. Smith fouled out to Mahoney and Allen pumped a roller along the third base line which Radcliffe was slow in fielding, with the result that Allen reached first ahead of the throw. While this play was going on, Cappalli raced to third on the bunt, and when Freeland failed to keep his eye on the plate, he dashed down the final stretch to slide in with the second run.

In the eighth the Dominicans began to feel their hitting range and as a result really earned their first marker of the day. Main lifted his second hit into left and was moved to second on a pretty bunt by Cappalli. Smith counted his second successful bunt when Nutter allowed the ball to roll inside the line, Main taking third. After Allen skied out Gibbons singled past first to send in the third and final score.

Although the Northeastern athletes failed to shine at bat they proved clever fielders and by giving Richardson support in the pinches enabled him to keep the score down.

Richardson proved to be the hero of the day for the husky nine, as his fine twirling prevented several Dominican attacks from resulting in runs. In the third inning, after Smith had run out a bunt and Gibbons and Fleurent had drawn walks, he tightened to fan Hebert. His battery mate, Mahoney, was the only one able to nick Smith for hits, counting with a double in the first inning and a single in the seventh.

The Big Parade gets under way-

During Dominicans' Opening Triumph Over Northeastern

DOMINICANS LOOK FOR HARD WEEK-END

Ball Tossers to Take on Three Colleges in Sojourn to New York.

The Providence College nine will encounter stiff opposition when it makes its annual trip to New York this week, tackling Upsala on Thursday, Manhattan on Friday and City College of New York on Saturday.

Upsala College will present somewhat of a local atmosphere to the Dominicans when they reach East Orange, as Walt Potter, Pawtucket lad and ex-Middlebury College star athlete, is directing the destiny of the Jersey college nine, while "Bing" Miller of East Greenwich is captain.

Miller, a product of East Greenwich Academy, was the best bet that Upsala had last spring, his work in centre field, as well as his batting prowess being the only redeeming feature in his team's tussle with the Dominicans, who captured an 8-to-0 decision. Miller is also a star football performer with the East Orange collegians.

This spring Upsala has five twirlers who are ready to show their wares against the Black and White ball tossers, and from present indications, Farnson, letterman last year, or Ernie Cornelius, schoolboy slabster from Clifton, N. J., will be called upon to hold Jack Flynn's sluggers in check.

On Friday, the 13th, the Dominicans hope to avenge the 9 to 5 setback handed them a year ago by Manhattan when they tackle Ted Brogan's Jasper nine at the Catholic Prorectory Oval in the Bronx. Manhattan has a veteran team, and has had a battery turnout of 27, of which number 17 are twirlers. Florenza, clever right-hander, and Tuoti, classy portalsider, who worked in the game here last spring, are back and eager to repeat the win over the locals.

Lewishon Stadium will be the scene of the final game of the trip, when C. C. N. Y. will be host. Last May the Dominicans bested the New Yorkers up on Hendrickan Field by a 14 to 8 score in a slugfest which was not decided until the final inning. Two seasons ago the locals made their initial appearance in the stadium to register a 6 to 0 triumph, with Joe Whelan doing the honors.

Fourteen players will probably comprise the squad, which will make the three-day trip. This number will include two catchers, four pitchers, three outer gardeners and five infielders. The players who served in the tilt yesterday against Northeastern will undoubtedly be chosen for the coming games with the remainder of the personnel to be selected in the next three days.

Dominicans Pin 9-3 Defeat on Upsala By Hard Hitting

(Special to the Providence Journal)

East Orange, N. J., April 12.—The Providence College nine registered its second victory of the season by defeating Upsala College, 9-3, here this afternoon. McElroy was master of the tilt in all but the sixth frame when he was nicked for two runs. He struck out 12 of the Jerseymen.

Hitting honors went to Frank Cappalli, former Classical infielder, who connected for a double and a brace of singles which were instrumental in the Dominican's scoring. Marty Gibbons, left fielder, with a pair of triples took second high honors of the day for the invaders.

After scoring one run in the third on Cappalli's double, a sacrifice by McElroy, followed by a long fly off Gibbons's stick, the Dominicans crashed through with five more in the fourth to put the game away.

Hebert was hit in the leg, and with two away stole second. Main walked and Cappalli and McElroy singled. Allen was passed and Gibbons cleared the bases with a tremendous drive to deep centre. Fleurent walked but was caught off first for the third out.

Three more earned runs were scored by the Rhode Islanders in the ninth. Gibbons rapped out his second triple. Fleurent crashed the longest drive of the day into centre and Krieger, playing centre in place of Hebert, singled sharply to centre. Main, who followed, doubled.

Upsala tallied two runs on a pair of walks, a double and a single in the sixth, and one run in the eighth on three singles. Otherwise they were helpless before the slants of McElroy.

Today the Dominicans tackle Manhattan College, conquerors of Columbia, in New York.

Main's Homer with Bases Full Features Fast Game

Frankie Moran Stops New York
Rally in Ninth Which Nets
Two Runs.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
New York, April 13.—Frankie Moran's success in stopping a ninth inning rally after two runs had scored, enabled Providence College to defeat Manhattan College, 6 to 5, and thereby chalk up its third straight victory here this afternoon.

Five runs in the sixth and another in the eighth made up the Dominicans' total. Harry Main's rousing homer with the bases full was the all-important factor in the big sixth. Then in the eighth, after Main singled, Hal Bradley whacked out a timely hit that sent the former across the plate with the run that eventually won the game.

Bradley, star of the Providence staff last spring, who did the pitching today until relieved by Moran, was not in top form, being nicked for 10 hits during his tour of duty. When he became wobbly in the last frame, Coach Flynn rushed Moran to the mound and the later pulled the game out of the fire.

One run had been scored, two men were on the bases, and none was out when Moran made his appearance. Tuoti, who was on first, represented the tying run for the home team, but the South Providence slinger curved Donohue away from the plate and forced both Noon and Hinchcliffe to fly out to save the game for the Dominicans.

The game was the most exciting that has been played on the Protectory oval in some time. It was marked by some fine hitting and fielding on the part of both clubs. Murphy, Providence catcher, was the high stickler of the day with two doubles and a single, while Main with his circuit blow and a single was a close second. Providence collected 12 hits.

The fielding gems of the fray were turned in by Hebert and Cappall of the visitors, the former making a brilliant catch against the centre field stands in the seventh to rob Donohue of a homer, and the latter sparing Hinchcliffe's line drive in the eighth.

The first five innings marked a duel between Florenza, who defeated the Dominicans at Providence last spring, and Bradley. In the latter half of the fifth Manhattan came through with tallies when Powers, their hard-hitting right fielder, lifted a Ruthian blow over the left field fence to send Hayes across the plate ahead of him.

The Black and White ball tossers came back strongly the following inning. Fleurent opened with a double to left and Hebert was safe when Noonan made a wild peg to first on his grounder. Duffy rolled to the box and Florenza, thinking Fleurent was heading for the plate from third, tossed the ball to the home station while Duffy raced to first to fill the bases.

Murphy continued his hard hitting with a sharp single to right to score Fleurent, and incidentally to fill the bases and set the stage for Main. The new Dominican keystone sacker came through with a drive into the centre field stands. Cappall and Bradley fanned and Allen filed out to end the rally.

In the eighth Main was moved to second, after he had singled, by Cappall's bunt, and then Bradley crashed a hit through short to send his second baseman home with the sixth and winning run. Allen walked and the Jasper mentor sent Tuoti, a southpaw, to the mound.

Game played: April 13, 1928

The rally was halted when Hinchliffe pulled down Gibbons's bid for a hit and doubled Bradley off second.

In the ninth Powers opened with a double for Manhattan, Ryan was safe on Cappalli's boot, while the former Jasper ball tosser scored, and Tuoti walked. Bradley was benched for Moran. Donohue grounded out to the box, but Cohalan was safe on a close play at first which enabled Ryan to bring in the fifth run. With Tuoti on third and Cohalan on second, Moran forced the next two batters to fly out to clinch the verdict.

Tomorrow the Dominicans tackle the C. C. N. Y. aggregation at Lewisohn Stadium. Joe Whelan will pitch with Harraghy for his battery mate.

Dominicans Pound Out 16-3 Victory Over C. C. N. Y. Nine

Main, with Four Hits, Including
Homer, Leads Attack on New Yorkers.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
New York, April 14.—The Providence College nine finished its road trip here this afternoon by staging a slugfest at Lewisohn Stadium to rout the City College of New York aggregation by a 16 to 3 score. The Dominicans collected 18 hits during the fray and held the upper hand at all times.

Joe Whelan was on the hillock for the first seven innings and allowed the Lavender ball tossers but three runs. In the eighth he was relieved by Eddie Wineapple, who was pitching his first college tilt. Wineapple was nervous at the start and walked two men, but, with the bases full, tightened to prevent any scores.

Harry Main was again the hitting star for the Rhode Islanders. The slugging second baseman filled Ray Doyle's shoes capably by collecting four hits, one of which was a circuit blow into deep centre field. This homer was his second in two days. Fleurent, veteran right fielder, also came through with a four-base blow.

Artie Muscant, local twirler put himself in a hole at the very start of the fray when he filled the sacks and then walked Harraghy to fore in Gibbons with the initial counter. Herbert scored on an infield error for the second run.

In the second inning the Dominicans went on a rampage and batted the ball all over the lot. Whelan started with a ringing double against the centre field fence, and after Allen had grounded out, Gibbons lifted over the left field barrier for a double. Fleurent crashed his homer into centre to clear the bases. Herbert kept up the good work with a double but he was caught at the plate when trying to tally on Duffy's single. Successive singles by Harraghy and Main, and a double off the bat of Cappali added to the high total which registered six runs when the smoke had cleared.

Allen tallied in the third when Malter dropped his fly in left, and he moved around on Gibbons's walk and an error by Blum. In the fourth canto three more runs were shoved across, when Harraghy singled and ambled home on Main's circuit smash, and when Whelan made the home station on Gibbons's hit to short.

Malter took over the pitching in the sixth and managed to hold Jack Flynn's sluggers in check until the ninth when the run column was again dented.

In this inning Allen walked, went to second on Gibbons's sacrifice, held that post when Fleurent beat out an infield roller, moved to third on Krieger's walk and was forced in when Malter issued another free ticket to Duffy. Fleurent brought in the 14th run on a wild pitch, and Duffy stole home a moment later. Harraghy chalked up the final marker when he raced from second on Main's double.

The Lavender diamond artists were unable to do any damage except in the sixth when three hits, a walk and a sacrifice fly netted two runs.

Two undefeated nines, both with aspirations on the mythical Eastern college title, meet this afternoon on Hendricksen Field, where the Fordham University outfit makes its annual appearance in this city against Providence College. The first visit of the New Yorkers here was last spring when they carried away a 3 to 0 decision in 10 innings of good baseball.

The rainstorm in Boston yesterday, which prevented the Fordham team from ending its game with Boston College, the contest being called in the fourth with the score tied at one-all, may have worked to the advantage of the Maroon ball tossers. Cooney, who was pitching, will now be available to assist Murphy against the Dominicans should the latter twirler find the going rough.

Last night Coach Flynn was still undecided as to his starting pitcher, with the choice between Capt. Smith, who hurled the game last year, and who opened the 1928 campaign with a victory over Northeastern University, and Tommy McElroy, right-hander from this city, who turned in the 9 to 3 victory over Upsala last Thursday.

Should McElroy be given the assignment, and Smith saved for the Springfield tilt tomorrow afternoon on the Dominicans' field, he will have the honor of hurling against the team for which he competed two seasons for a pitching berth. McElroy transferred to the Smith Hill college from Fordham last year and under the tutelage of Jack Flynn has developed rapidly and now shapes up as the best right-hander on the locals' staff, even shading Hal Bradley, who was rated the ace for the Black and White a year ago.

That Fordham contemplates a busy afternoon is evidenced by the fact that Johnny Murphy, who has been responsible for two of the four victories turned in by the Bronx nine this spring, will be on the rubber. Murphy has a one hit to his credit, but will have to twirl a strong game to hold the Dominican hitters to a low score. No less than five of the local stickers have batting averages of better than .300 and all are anxious to continue the winning streak of the past two weeks.

The contemplated change in the outfield which would send Krieger into centre in place of Hebert was abandoned by Coach Flynn following the drill yesterday.

Harry Main, slugging second baseman from Pawtucket who has two home runs and a brace of doubles to his credit, as well as one of the highest individual batting averages in New England college ranks with a mark of .530, hopes to continue his fast pace this afternoon against the crack visitors from New York.

Coach Coffey of Fordham is far from optimistic over the outcome of the battle on tap for today, realizing that the Dominicans have a hard hitting outfit, and remembering the bitter struggle that was enacted just a year ago on the Capitol Hill diamond. Murphy will be his choice for the mound work, as the rugged Sophomore has been idle since his victory over the Navy last Saturday. Bob Cooney will be ready for relief duty, unless it is decided to save him for the Yale game tomorrow. In the latter case "Slim" Harrington, the speed ball artist who subdued Charlie Reynolds' outfit two seasons ago in New York, will take over the pitching.

Present indications point to a capacity crowd, as the game marks the only appearance of the Fordham team in this vicinity this year. In view of the fact that the Bronxites have topped Villa Nova, conqueror of Princeton and Cornell, the Navy, Catholic University, and Vermont, they are apparently headed for high ranking at the end of the present campaign, and undoubtedly several of their players will be in line for major league tryouts.

Dominicans Bat Out 14 to 8 Victory Over Fordham Nine

Three Home Runs, Three Two-Baggers and Two Triples
Enliven Contest.

Game played: April 20, 1928

Providence College nine registered its fifth straight victory yesterday afternoon on Hendricken Field by taking the Fordham University nine into camp 14-8 in a contest that was marked by free hitting and marred by some loose fielding on the part of both aggregations. The defeat was the first the New Yorkers have received this spring.

Three home runs, three two base hits, and a pair of triples provided the heaviest hitting that Hendricken Field has witnessed in some time. Individual honors went to Joe Duffy, Providence first baseman, who poled out a four-base smash in the opening inning and added a double in the fifth.

Captain Leo Smith started on the mound for the Dominicans and managed to hold his own for the first few innings although he was bothered by lack of control. In the first inning he walked three men but worked his way out of the hole by fanning Egan and Ryan. In the sixth, after a four run lead had been cut to a single marker, Coach Flynn withdrew the Black and White pilot and sent in Tom McElroy.

McElroy, who failed to make the grade as a ball player at Fordham two years ago, proceeded to hand his former teammates some fancy curves that completely smothered their late inning rallies and enabled the locals to maintain a comfortable lead.

Loose playing on the part of both nines contributed to the scoring, the Maroon infield being guilty of three miscues, while Liebl, right fielder, threw recklessly to the plate after catching Hebert's sacrifice fly to the eighth to add another run to the Providence score sheet. Main, second baseman of the Dominicans, muffed up two plays, and was caught napping on another occasion, when Neilan stole home during a conference at the keystone sack on a play on Egan.

However, the Dominicans flashed several exceptionally fine bits of fielding during the pastime which won the applause of the crowd. In the first inning Smith caught Liebl off first on a fast peg to Duffy, and in the third Cappalli broke up a Fordham rally when he scooped up Ryan's grass cutter, tossed to Main to force Loehwing at second, while the Pawtucket lad completed the double killing with an accurate toss to Duffy.

The most spectacular bit of work, however, was pulled off in the fourth frame. Murphy, visiting twirler, caught one of Smith's fast shoets and holsted it over Gibbons's head, the ball rolling to the fence. The fleet Black and White left fielder pegged the ball in to Cappalli, who in turn brought it nearer the plate by a fast toss to Allen. The latter pivoted and whipped the ball to Harraghy, who made the putout at the plate as Murphy slid in.

Providence started its scoring in the initial inning. Allen lined out to third, but Gibbons came through with a double past third. Fleurent walked. Hebert crashed a two-bagger to right centre and both runners dashed across the platter. Then Joe Duffy poked the longest hit of the day beyond the outfield, the ball bounding against the left field fence for his home.

In the third Gibbons walked and stole second and scored when Loehwing booted Duffy's roller. The latter brought in the sixth run when he sprinted from second on a hit-and-run play, with Harraghy chipping in with the needed base knock. The following inning Murphy tightened and fanned Cappalli, Smith and Gibbons. Two runs trickled over in the fifth on Hebert's walk, Duffy's double and an error by LaBorne.

In the first of the sixth the Maroons started the rally which sent Smith to the showers. Clancy opened with a single. Feaster fled out to Main, but Murphy came back with a sharp blow into right to advance Clancy. Liebel made two out when he holsted to Fleurent in right field, and then Main bobbed Neilan's grounder long enough to allow all the runners to reach their stations safely.

With the sacks loaded Egan rapped a single to centre to send in two runs and put Neilan on third. On the relay Allen pegged to Main to catch Egan who was trying to stretch his hit, and when the Providence second sacker protested the decision of the field umpire, Neilan made a break for the plate to score the third run of the inning. McElroy took over the pitching at this juncture and was greeted by Loehwin who singled to left to send across the last Fordham run, which at that time tied at 8-all.

In the latter half of the sixth Cappalli walked and came in ahead of Allen when the veteran third baseman connected for a homer into left field. The score mounted to 12 the following inning when Harraghy and Main singled and were brought home on a Texas leaguer by Cappalli. The last two runs were chalked up in the eighth frame when Gibbons beat out a bunt, went to third when Ryan pegged wildly to first on Fleurent's grounder, and scored on Hebert's long fly to right field, while Fleurent tallied on Liebl's wild throw in.

This afternoon the Dominicans tackle the Springfield College team on Hendricken Field, and Hal Bradley will be called upon to handle the pitching burden.

5 to 3 Score.

Game played: April 21, 1928

The undefeated Providence College nine registered its sixth straight victory of the season yesterday afternoon at Hendricken Field by taking the Springfield College outfit, conquerors of Dartmouth, into camp by a 5 to 3 score. The contest was well played in spite of the cold which made the handling of the ball a difficult task. The victory is the second in two days for the locals, as they tripped up Fordham here yesterday.

Hal Bradley, ace of the Black and White staff last spring, was on the pitching peak and the Lawrence had gave a fine exhibition, allowing but eight scattered hits. In the field, however, his two errors in the fifth inning gave the invaders a brace of tallies, but fine support in the pinches enabled the Dominican finger to hold the Gym Teachers in check after they had tied the score. In the last four frames but one hit was garnered off his delivery.

Jack Flynn's charges continued to hit the ball with a vengeance, and although their total of base knocks was but one over that of the Bay State outfit, yet they managed to connect with men on the sacks on several occasions. Hooper, visiting hurler, developed a sore arm in the sixth and yielded the job to Johnston, who finished up the Dartmouth tilt last Thursday. With the bases crowded in the sixth, Johnston forced Fleurent to hit to shortstop to end the rally without a score.

Providence counted one run in the first inning, another in the second canto, and then with the score tied, came through in the seventh with a pair of markers, which were sufficient to win the tilt. Another score was chalked up in the eighth inning for good measure.

Two double plays featured the fielding of the day, with the locals staging a fast bit of work in the first inning when Allen scooped up Duncan's grass cutter with Williamson on second, pegged to first for the out, and then took a fast return from Duffy to nip Duncan sliding into third. The visitors' double killing resulted when Fleurent and Gibbons left their bases on Hebert's terrific drive in the eighth frame, which was caught by Misar after a long run.

The Dominicans opened their scoring in the first inning when Allen reached first safely as Woods dropped a throw from short, went to third on Gibbons's hard drive which hit the Springfield third baseman on the foot and bounded into foul territory, and scored on Hebert's long riser to centre field. Duffy ended the rally by grounding out to the infield.

In the second frame Murphy poked a hit into deep short and stole second. Cappalli dumped a Texas Leaguer in back of short and Murphy went to third. Craig picked up Allen's grounder, but made a poor peg to first, on which Murphy tallied. Gibbons grounded to second for the third out.

For the first four innings Bradley held the Springfield club scoreless, and allowed but three scattered hits, but in the fifth he handed them a pair of markers of his own accord. To start the trouble in this inning, Misar singled into deep shortfield with one away, and proceeded to steal second. Craig was safe at first when Cappalli tried to catch Misar sliding into third. Craig stole second and then Steeves pumped a slow roller past the box, which Bradley muffed up, allowing Misar to register at the home station and Craig to go to third. Hooper dropped another roller in front of Bradley, and the Dominican hurler had difficulty in grasping the ball, finally making a wild heave to first to add to the loose playing. On the latter error Craig tallied. With two on Williamson skied to short left and James rolled out to the box.

In the first of the seventh the Springfield team took a one-run lead when Craig singled, stole second, and scored when Johnston, relief man for Hooper, dropped a single into centre field. This rally was the last to be uncorked by the visitors, however, as they failed to get a man past second for the remainder of the fray.

With the Providence cheers calling for a rally, Hebert responded in the seventh with a single to right, which bounded through Misar's legs and rolled to the fence, allowing the batter to travel to third. Duffy slammed a one-base ply into left to knot the score, and Murphy came through with his second hit, a line drive to centre. Main advanced the two runners with a sacrifice. Then Cappalli hoisted to Williamson in left, Duffy scoring the winning run on the sacrifice, while Murphy was thrown out at the plate trying to score from second when Steeves let the ball get past him.

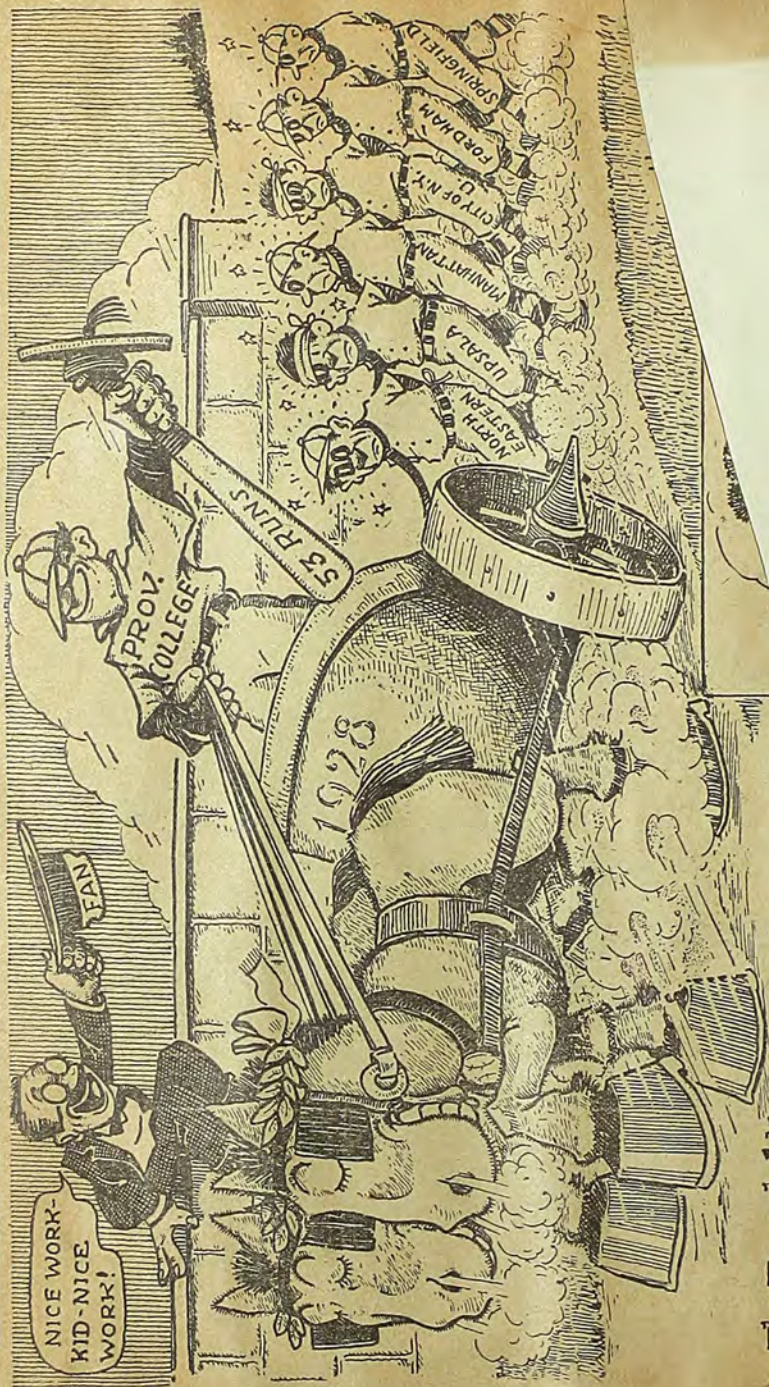

In the eighth stanza Allen reached first when Duncan failed to hold his riser into short centre, stole second, and tallied on Fleurent's double over third base. In this same inning Gibbons walked, but when Hebert sent a potential homer into right, Fleurent started from second and Gibbons took a short lead off third. Misar made a spectacular catch and relayed the ball to the infield in time to double up Fleurent.

SENSATIONAL SPRING HILL NINE PLAYS DOMINICANS HERE TUESDAY

With Tedasco, their stellar twirler who has lost but one game in three years of competition, on the mound, the Spring Hill College nine of Mobile Alabama, will head the list of opponents that will invade Hendricken Field this week to do battle with the undefeated Providence College outfit. The Southerners are slated to appear here Tuesday, with Colby College of Maine arriving on the scene Thursday, and Connecticut State, a newcomer to the White and Black lists, providing the opposition on Saturday.

The Spring Hill nine is making their first trip to this part of the country, after compiling string of wins in the far South. For two seasons the Hillians were defeated only by the pro teams of the American Association and by the Mobile team of the Southern Association, while all college opponents fell before the attack of this crack outfit.

Tedasco hurled the tilt with the Navy last Wednesday and was slated to take the mound against Georgetown over the week-end, and as a result will probably be ready for the assignment here Tuesday. Doubille, stellar flinger who has played no small part in the success of the Alabama aggregation, is due to hurl the Fordham game at New York to-morrow afternoon.

Another bright star in the lineup of the visiting aggregation is Buck Halloran, fleet footed, hardhitting second baseman who has been offered no less than four chances to flash his wares in pro company. According to present plans Halloran will join the St. Louis Americans when he is graduated from college next June.

Colby tripped up the University of Maine last week and will come here prepared to offer stubborn opposition to the Smith Hillers. Last year the Pine Tree lads dropped a 7 to 3 decision when Henry Danis held them in check.

The Connecticut tilt marks the first appearance of the Nutmeg nine on a Dominican baseball list. The two colleges met in basketball last winter, with the Dominicans finishing on the short end of a 29 to 21 score, and as a result, they will be on edge to continue their recent successes and avenge this defeat at the same time.

AS THE college baseball season enters upon its fourth week, stock-taking of games won and lost by the Eastern college nines reveals that New York University holds the top rung of the ladder with Holy Cross and Providence College immediately below, Fordham follows. In the same class with the Maroon is Harvard, Columbia, City College and St. Johns also appear within the first dozen listed.

Five teams are in the undefeated class, although only four are listed below. The Quantico Marines confine their competition to college opponents but are not themselves a college outfit. Harvard suffered its only defeat of the season at the hands of the Marines, and could therefore be classified as unbeaten. Army is in a similar position to Harvard, for their only defeat of the year was administered them by the New York Giants.

Fordham fell by the wayside for the first time last week when Providence College successfully defended its winning streak. The 14-8 defeat was one of the worst the Maroon has received since its defeat at the hands of Villanova in 1927. Georgetown, with a record of 10 won and 4 lost, has a commendable record which will most likely be improved.

George Manfredi leads Eastern hurlers with four won and none lost. He earned his fourth victory in a relief role against Manhattan College last Saturday. His other triumphs were over Yale, Vermont and Lehigh, the last of which was a no-hit, no-run victory.

Tied for second place are Fons of Holy Cross, Barbee of Harvard, Gillespie of Georgetown, and Kidd of the Marines. They all scored three victories apiece without a defeat registered against them. Any number of twirlers have turned in two triumphs without a defeat, some of whom are Cooney of Fordham, Nekola of Holy Cross, Gallagher of N. Y. U., Cerny of Columbia, and Puleo of City College.

In all, there are thirty-seven twirlers in the Eastern colleges who have not been defeated this year.

COMMENT and GOSSIP

by Charles B. Coppen

SCATTERED throughout the length and breadth of Uncle Sam's broad acres are hundreds of colleges the names of which rarely find their way into the columns of the daily press here. Energetic graduate managers in quest of attractive schedules keep tabs on the athletic teams of these colleges and when a baseball or football team begins to blaze a winning trail they make special efforts to bring the victorious outfits to the home fields.

John Farrell of Providence College read the past season of the brilliant work of the Spring Hill College nine of Mobile, Ala., the Southerners being engaged at the time in bowling over all kinds of opposition. Taking his trusty typewriter in hands Johnny wrote to the graduate manager of the Alabama college to find out if a Northern trip was being contemplated and suggested a battle with the Dominicans in the event of such a journey.

As a result a contest was scheduled and this afternoon at Hendricken Field the Spring Hillers will meet the Smith Hillers in a game that promises to be one of the best on the city's collegiate program this season.

ALABAMA's crack club has cleaned up everything on the Southern Inter-collegiate map for two seasons, but the Southern lads will find the rigorous spring climate of New England quite different from the hot weather of Dixieland and may split wide open. They will also be up against two especially high-powered combinations in Providence and Holy Cross, a contest with the Crusaders being one of the high spots of the New England invasion.

Jack Flynn's charges have reeled off six consecutive triumphs, one, achieved at the expense of the hitherto unbeaten Fordham team, being the brightest in the collection. Thus far there has been no sign of weakness in any department. The stickers are belting all kinds of pitching to the far corners of the lots, the defence appears to be rock-ribbed and the flinging corps the best ever at the college.

DOMINICANS MEET SPRING HILL TODAY

Postponed Game to Be Played at Hendricken Field.—Rest
Aids Both Clubs.

Providence College and Spring Hill nines meet this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock on Hendricken Field in a game postponed from yesterday because of the soggy condition of the playing field. Both teams took advantage of the sunshine in the late afternoon to hold brief workouts and at the conclusion of the practice both squads were reported in excellent condition.

Numbers of Providence followers watched the practice and were impressed by Buck Halloran, second baseman for the visiting Alabama team, whom, it is reported, may sign with the Cleveland Indians at the close of his college playing days. Halloran poled out several drives early to the right field fence.

All the visiting pitchers spent a busy hour warming up and reported their throwing arms in top condition. Capt. Joe Tedasco tossed them up to the batters for awhile, and later gave way to Doublille and Cazentre. The latter two are right-handers and according to his present plans Coach Daley will use one of the three, depending on the weather. The Providence Collegians also enjoyed a short drill and showed plenty of pep as they trotted through their paces.

From present indications the fray promises to be a free hitting affair, unless the rival twirlers show unexpected prowess. Both lineups are dotted with athletes who are clouting the ball for well over the .300 mark, with the rival second basemen leading the field. Main of the Dominicans is at present the outstanding college hitter in New England, while Halloran, the Badger star, has demonstrated his ability to use the war clubs to such an extent that he has attracted the attention of league scouts.

With either Doublille, who finished the Navy game, or Cazentre, who worked the Georgetown clash, facing them, the Dominicans will have their hands full to tack up their seventh victory. Coach Flynn plans to stick to his original lineup, however, and will send Frankie Moran to the firing line in an effort to topple the Mobile titleholders.

Following the game here this afternoon the Hillians will travel to Worcester, facing Jack Barry's team on Friday, and then to Boston to battle the Boston College outfit. Thence they move to Buffalo, where they are slated to meet the Niagara University nine on Sunday afternoon.

DOMINICANS RALLY TO SQUELCH SPRING HILL, 9-7

Gibbons's Single in Eighth Drives in Winning Run

McElroy Checks Visitors After
Moran Falters.—Seventh
Straight for Flynnmen.

Game played: April 25, 1928

Staging an eighth-inning rally after the score had been tied, the hard-hitting Providence College nine turned back the Spring Hill College outfit yesterday afternoon on Hendriken Field by a 9 to 7 count to register their seventh straight win of the season. The defeat was the fourth sustained by the Southerners over a three-year period of intercollegiate activity on the diamond.

It required the services of Tommy McElroy, clever local hurler, to turn the tide to the Dominican cause in the eighth stanza after Frankie Moran, who worked well for seven frames, faltered and had to withdraw from the tilt. At the time McElroy was rushed into the breach the Hillians were in the midst of a rally which had knotted the score at 7-all and which threatened to break the winning streak of the Black and White nine.

McElroy proved effective and struck out McEvoy for the third out in the eighth, and then forced the three heavy hitters of the Southern nine to pop up in their last attempt at bat in the ninth canto. The tilt marks the second appearance of McElroy in a relief role, as he also took over the reins last week in the middle of the Fordham clash.

The winning rally which enabled the Smith Hillers to keep their record unblemished, came in the latter half of the eighth frame with two out. Allen walked, and staged a pretty steal of second. Gibbons, with the count two and two, connected safely for a single into right field to send Allen across with the deciding tally. Gibbons proceeded to pilfer second a moment later and as a result was in scoring position when Fleurent lined safely into centre.

The outstanding hit of the day, however, was by Buck Halloran, star second baseman with the visitors. Halloran crashed one of the longest homers ever seen on the Smith Hill diamond when he lifted a drive over Gibbons head in the third inning, the ball bounding over the left field fence. Incidentally it marked the first time that a ball has ever passed over that barrier during a tilt.

The Dominicans opened the afternoon auspiciously by collecting seven tallies in the first two frames off Cazentre, who held Notre Dame to two hits, but they were unable to do anything with Douville's delivery until the latter stage of the contest. Although cutbitt by the invaders the Black and White athletes collected their blows with the sacks populated and therein lies the story of their seventh triumph of the season.

In the initial inning Spring Hill tallied two runs on the only loose playing of the entire tilt. With the high wind playing havoc with his curves, Moran walked Hertzog, and then Allen booted McEvoy's grass cutter in his haste to start a double killing. McEvoy stole second and when Murphy overthrew the base, the ball being deflected into left centre by Main, Hertzog scored and McEvoy followed him across the platter.

The Dominicans retaliated in no small measure that same frame. Allen walked, Gibbons fanned, Fleurent accepted a free ticket and then Hebert bided his time while Cazentre endeavored to locate the plate, finally strolling to the initial hassock to fill the cushions. Joe Duffy proved the hero of the day when he caught hold of a fast shoot and poked it over the left fielder's head for a triple, scoring three runs. Harry Main continued the good work with a one base rap into centre to score Duffy.

In the second inning the Providence outfit put the game away when they batted around. Cappalli and Moran drew walks and Allen filled the bases when he crossed up the infield with a pretty bunt along third on which no play was made. Gibbons dumped a Texas leaguer back of third on which Cappalli scored. Fleurent singled sharply to the same locality to give Moran and Allen the chance to scamper across the plate with the sixth and seventh runs.

After Halloran had collected his homer with McEvoy on first at the time to boost the Spring Hill tally sheet to four runs, the game became a nip and tuck affair with neither team able to do much damage. For three innings not even a hit was registered by either nine.

In the seventh the invaders opened with a rally which brought them within one run of the locals. Hertzog singled, Halloran banged a one-base blow into left, and with two out Delmas poked a hit into right field to score both runners. Allen ended the rally when he scooped up Petrovit's grounder to throw him out at first.

The Hillians knotted the count in the eighth after Blaise had fled out and Doublell had fanned. Roach hit into right field, Fleurent making a hard run against the wind and missing a catch by inches, the blow going for two bases. Hertzog singled sharply to centre and Roach dented the plate. Then Coach Flynn rushed McElroy into action and the Mt. Pleasant lad forced McEvoy to wave wildly at his curves for the third out.

YALE-PROVIDENCE SECONDS TIE, 4-4

Darkness Halts Battle in 13th.

Quirk and Flaherty, Rival

Twirlers, Effective.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)

New Haven, May 1.—The Yale and Providence College junior Varsity nines played a 13-inning 4-4 game this afternoon, darkness stopping the longest and most stubbornly fought contest upon a Yale diamond in several seasons.

Pitchers Quirk and Flaherty were in rare form and their effectiveness was the main reason for the inability of both teams to break the tie. The rival catchers, Curran for Providence and Brockelman for Yale, played brilliantly, while Thelan, left fielder for Yale, figured in several difficult catches and made three safe hits.

The teams lined up as follows:

Providence College—Rzeznik, 3b.; Oliver, r. f.; Lally, 1b.; Curran, c.; Krieger, l. f.; L. Bieller, 2b.; Zandy, c. f.; Skocylas, s. s.; Quirk, p.

Yale—Robert, r. f.; Quimby, 2b.; Thelan, l. f.; Mallory, 1b.; Schwartzburg, c. f.; Morgan and Brockelman, c.; Nanry, s. s.; Flaherty, p.; Cheney, 1b.

Dominicans Engage Lowell Textile Nine

The Providence College nine which has been idle for the past few days as far as real competition goes, invades Lowell this afternoon to tussle with the Lowell Textile outfit. A game with Connecticut State, slated for last Saturday and the Dartmouth tilt, carded for Hanover yesterday, passed by the boards as the result of the recent rain.

With all his hurlers available the Dominican mentor has hopes of tacking a win on the Bay State outfit to keep his machine in the winning groove. The tilt marks the ninth of the season for the Smith Hillers and every effort will be made to credit it as a victory.

With Bowdoin, the best outfit in Maine, appearing here next Friday afternoon, and the return tilt with Northeastern on tap in Boston Saturday, the Flynnmen have a busy week-end ahead of them and will do well if they can keep their record clear until next week. Bowdoin is on a five day trip to this vicinity, playing Amherst to-day, and Yale to-morrow. Northeastern held the locals to their lowest score of the season a 3 to 0 decision in the initial encounter of the season.

Wineapple, who was disappointed when rain robbed him of a chance to show his wares last Saturday, is the logical man to go on the rubber to-day against the Tech ball tossers. If the coach follows such an arrangement, Bradley will be on the peak against Bowdoin and Captain Smith will again endeavor to turn back the Huskies.

In Providence, Textile will face one of the strongest teams in the East. Providence has a great team and its recent victory over Fordham puts them in the same class with the undefeated Holy Cross team. The Providence club is composed of sluggers who can hit at any or all times. The reason Providence has such a smart ball club is that Jack Flynn, former Holy Cross first baseman and star first sacker for the St. Louis Americans, is the coach. Jack knows ball players and can develop them. Fordham, managed this year by George L. Duggan of Lowell, went through eight games undefeated until it met Providence, to be defeated 15 to 7 by Jack Flynn's sluggers. By virtue of this win Providence is in line for the college baseball supremacy of the country and is now in a triple deadlock for that honor. Harvard and Holy Cross are the other two colleges with undefeated nines. Thus local fans will have an opportunity to see one of the classiest teams in the East if they take in the game this afternoon, provided, of course, it doesn't rain.

Eddie Wineapple, one of the finest all-round athletes ever developed at Salem high is slated to toe the rubber against Textile.

Wineapple starred in all sports at Salem, and although serving as twirler, has also won recognition as an outer gardener because of his great hitting ability. Under Jack Flynn, well-known mentor of the Dominican nine, Wineapple is being developed into a first class mound artist. He showed fine form in the City College of New York tilt, and was slated to twirl against Connecticut State at Providence last Saturday until rain washed away his opportunity to show his wares.

EDDIE WINEAPPLE

Several Massachusetts lads dot the invaders lineup, with the outer garden trio being Bay Staters to a man. In right is Flaurent, Ware product, who has starred in three sports at the Rhode Island college for the past two years and who was chosen second to Noble of Yale fame as an outfielder last spring, while Hebert, husky Quincy high, and Dean Academy luminary, dominates in centre-field, and Gibbons, Clinton southpaw, patrols left.

Joe Duffy of Fall River, veteran first baseman, is rated as one of the best league prospects cavorting in college ranks. Already Duffy has attracted the attention of scouts, but as he has two seasons yet to serve under Flynn he is giving little thought to such advances. Standing over six feet, Duffy shapes up as an ideal first sacker, and to help the cause along he is a stickler that any outfit would be glad to possess.

Harry Main and Frank Cappalli, Rhode Island interscholastic stars, will work at the keystone sack, while Heck Allen, brilliant all-round athlete will knock down the liners along third. Allen has been chosen all New England halfback for two years, was captain of the varsity basketball team a year ago, and is a mainstay of the ball club.

Textile's strength in today's game is very uncertain. Rain has cheated Textile out of her last three scheduled games and Coach Yarnall has had no chance to see his revamped club in real action. Since the two serious road reverses earlier in the year, Coach Yarnall has rearranged his lineup, but unfortunately rain has prevented this new shift playing as a unit so it meets Providence and its heavy artillery today as a green aggregation. However, it was Textile that dented a powerful Holy Cross team with the one and only Owgie Carroll on the mound and it may give the husky Providence lads a surprise today. Stranger things have happened. Realizing this, Providence will go after the game from the very beginning, so that no slip-up can occur.

In revising the Textile lineup, Coach Yarnall will start an all-Lowell infield against Providence. Dick Burt will be on first base; Norman McKinnon at second base; Gerald Quigley, third base, and Joe Allard, shortstop. The outfield lineup is uncertain.

As this is the first home game for Textile, and because Providence College has the makings of a championship club this year, a fine crowd is expected to turn out to witness the contest.

JEWISH HURLER, STAR OF PROVIDENCE COLLEGE STAFF

EDDIE WEINAPPLE.

Former Salem High south-paw has turned in 20 scoreless innings on the mound for Jack Flynn's unbeaten Dominicans, who have won 13 successive victories. Weinapple worked in two innings against C. C. N. Y., then went the full route against Lowell Textile and St. Michael's College, holding Lowell hitless as well as runless.

DOMINICAN ROOKIE

TWIRLS NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME

Eddie Wineapple Turns Back Lowell Textile Nine 9 to 0

Game played: May 2, 1928

Only 30 Batters Face Providence College Southpaw. Gets Flashy Support.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
Lowell, Mass., May 2.—Eddie Wineapple, Providence College southpaw, and former Salem High star, entered the collegiate baseball Hall of Fame here today by twirling a no-hit, no-run game against the Lowell Textile team. The final score was 9 to 0 and the victory was the ninth straight for the Dominicans.

Wineapple, starting his first college game, was brilliant throughout, striking out 12. Only two balls were hit beyond the infield, both being easy flies which Hebert, Black and White centre-fielder, gathered in.

Only 30 men faced the new Providence twirling sensation, and in spite of the strong wind from across the Merrimac, he flashed fine control and gave but three bases on balls. Only one man reached second base, H. McKinnon walking and moving up on an infield out.

The Dominican nine played excellent ball behind Wineapple and committed but one error, this one on a line drive which Cappall dropped in the first inning to allow a runner to reach first. In the third a sparkling double play, Cappall to Main to Duffy, prevented a Tech rally after Woodbury had claimed one of the three passes issued by Wineapple.

Providence wheeled into action in the first frame to tally three runs, enough to win with Wineapple twirling such a fine brand of ball. Allen worked his way free to first and Gibbons moved him up with a bunt along third. Fleurent crashed a single into left on which Allen was forced to hold up at third. Hebert walked, filling the bases. Then Coffey, Tech moundsman, continued his wild streak and failed to locate the batter for Murphy, forcing in the initial run. Harry Main rapped out a long double into left to score two more runs. Cappall grounded out.

In the second Allen drew his second walk, went to second on Gibbons's sacrifice, and tallied when Fleurent slugged his second one base into left field. Hebert grounded to second to force Fleurent for the third out.

After a scoreless third inning the Rhode Islanders dusted the plate again, five runs trickling in. In this hectic canto Coffey was driven off the mound and was succeeded by Walker whose change of pace slowed up the Providence attack for the remainder of the fray.

The scoring in this inning was started when Cappall was safe on Allard's error and Wineapple crashed a hit through short. Allen again bided his time and drew four balls to fill the sacks. Coffey took no chance with Fleurent, who was walked to force in a run. Hebert singled sharply to left to score Wineapple, and when Ellis threw wild over third, Allen scampered all the way home with the seventh marker. Joe Duffy accounted for the last two counters when he poked a single into centre on which Fleurent and Hebert scored.

In only four of the nine innings did Wineapple fail to retire the local ball tossers in order. In the first Allard reached first on Cappall's error, in the third Woodbury walked but was doubled up a few moments later, in the fifth McKinnon strolled but was stranded on second while Woodbury was thrown out at first for the third out, and in the seventh when Ellis garnered one of the few first base passes issued.

Friday the Dominicans wheel into action on their own field against the Bowdoin College nine of Brunswick, Maine. Either Hal Bradley or George Forrest, Pittsfield portsider, will be called upon to climb the mound.

George Forrest, After Allowing Three Hits and Three Runs in Opening Inning, Holds Visitors Hitless and Runless During Remainder of Game.—Final Score 18-3

George Forrest, southpaw hurler from Western Massachusetts, is the latest member of the Providence College staff to flash to the fore, turning in a brilliant three hit game yesterday afternoon on the Smith Hill diamond against the Bowdoin College nine of Brunswick, Me., to win by an 18 to 3 score. The victory is the tenth successive one of the season for the Dominicans.

Forrest has shown to advantage in the practice session for the past month, and after his fine work against the Yale seconds last Tuesday when he relieved Quirk, Coach Flynn felt that he was ready for varsity action. In the first inning he was somewhat unsteady, and was nicked for three hits, but after that session he was never headed and twirled no hit no run baseball.

He retired the Maine ball tossers in order until the eighth frame, when on errors by Curran, substitute catcher, and Cappalli, placed men on the cushions, but no runs resulted as Main snatched a hard grounder for a force out unassisted at second. In the ninth Forrest hit Crimmins, pinch hitter for Lincoln, but Main again came to the rescue with a brilliant one-hand stab of a line drive in the air over second for the final out of the day.

While the invaders from the northern State were going hitless before the slants of the latest addition to the White and Black hurling staff, the Dominicans were making things very lively for Leech and Cole, visiting pitchers. The first-named retired in the hectic third inning and Leech was left with the task of holding Flynn's sluggers in check. He succeeded fairly well until the fifth when five hits netted two runs, and in the eighth when six hard bingles enabled the locals to boost their score sheet to 18.

Several fine bits of fielding featured the afternoon's play, with the Dominicans taking all the honors. Allen made several fine stops and equally fine pegs to first for outs. In the third he raced in back of the pitcher's box to scoop up Morrell's hard grounder one hand for a sensational play. Main also featured, covering all the territory between first and second in fine style.

It took the locals three innings to solve the offerings of the invading hurlers, but when they opened fire it was to flash a heads up brand of ball. Forrest opened with a single to right, and Allen walked. Gibbons laid down a bunt on which he reached first when a play on Forrest at third failed. Fleurent walked forcing in a run. Hebert hit to third and Allen tallied when Morrell dropped the peg for the forceout. Duffy singled, scoring Gibbons and Fleurent.

Harraghy greeted Leech with a hard drive which bounded off his shins and which he was unable to recover in time for a play at the plate on Hebert. Dwyer booted Main's roller and the bases were full again. Cappelli and Forrest went out in order, but Allen poled a long double into right to tally the sixth and seventh markers. Gibbons hit to Dwyer, who pegged to first so hard that Lincoln dropped the ball and Allen scored behind Forrest. When Schute booted Fleurent's hopper Gibbons raced home with the tenth run.

In the sixth Hebert singled and stole second to score on Duffy's single. Curran beat out a roller to short and Main hit to right field, Duffy registering at the plate. Cappalli fled out, but Forrest singled to centre, and poor coaching on third base stopped the scoring when Curran was held up, while Main and Forrest raced around the sacks. Morrell, Bowdoin backstop, raced into the infield and finally forced Curran to make a break for the plate where he was thrown out by Leech to end the rally.

Six more markers were chalked up in the eighth. Kreiger, hitting for Hebert, beat out a pretty bunt along third, and Duffy reached first while Krieger was being thrown out at second.

Curran doubled, and Leech uncorked a wild pitch to allow Duffy to score. Main strolled, and Cappalli lined to right to send in two runs. Allen smacked out his second two baser on which Cappalli rode home, and Gibbons continued the assault with a single past third to push Allen across. Fleurent put the finishing touch on the attack when he doubled into left to enable Gibbons to amble across the much dented rubber platter.

Manfredi Tops Eastern Hurlers With 9 Victories

Violet Star Won Two More Than Barbie and Kidd; N. Y. U. Nine Leads Teams

New York University retained its position at the head of the Eastern college baseball team standing with three victories in the last week. Holy Cross lost its runner-up position when it met defeat by Fordham last Saturday, but Providence still remains undefeated, as do the Quantico Marines.

George Manfredi, who headed the Eastern college pitchers last week, turned in two more victories, to run his total up to seven victories, which is two better than that of Barbee, of Harvard, and Kidd, of the Quantico Marines.

At the close of the week the undefeated pitchers numbered thirty-seven, as compared to thirty-four the week previous. The new pitchers on the list are Hebert, of Holy Cross; Wineapple, of Providence; Forrest, of Providence; Carter, of Colgate; Crans, of Villanova; Boles, of Cornell; Hockwaiser, of Temple; Hansen, of Temple; Powers, of Manhattan, and Lambert, of Syracuse.

At Fons, of Holy Cross; Charles Cerny, of Columbia; Ben Puleo, of City College; Bob Cooney, of Fordham; Zancosky, of Temple, are some of the pitchers who lost their undefeated standing last week. Gallagher beat Fons; Froehlich, of Cornell, defeated Cerny; Temple beat Puleo; Manfredi defeated Cooney, while Muhlenburg defeated Zancosky.

N. Y. U. Hurdled Fordham, Villanova New York University had to hurdle Fordham and Villanova to retain its position at the top of the standing and on each occasion Manfredi was the mound nominee. Providence defeated Lowell Textile and Bowdoin, while the Quantico Marines routed the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee and V. M. I.

Harbard, defeated but once this year, and that by the Quantico Marines, who are not classified as a college team, kept itself in the running by defeating New Hampshire and Michigan. Harvard is the only Eastern team, or, for that matter, the only team, Eastern or Western, which has beaten the Ann Arbor nine this season.

Penn State and Georgetown came up the list a few notches. The Nittany Lions took two the last week for a total of eight won and two lost. The Staters are undefeated in Eastern competition, their two defeats being suffered at the hands of Southern opponents. Georgetown has competed more than any other nine in the East. In sixteen games the Hilltoppers were triumphant in fourteen, which is a mighty good record.

Pennsylvania, Cornell, Princeton and Syracuse are hopelessly out of the running. The Quakers have a good team, as college teams go, but have not found themselves. Syracuse is in a decided slump, while Cornell is showing more fighting qualities now than it had at the start of the season, but eight defeats take too many victories to wipe out. Princeton is clearly below par.

Walker Now Penn's Best Hurler

Fred Gallagher, of New York University, came up the list in the pitchers' standing, and now has four victories and no defeats. Gillespie, of Georgetown, and Bradley and McElroy, of Providence, did not see service this last week, and therefore retain their previous standing. Walker, of Penn, is another new face at the top of the list. Walker is taking Foster Sanford's place as Pennsylvania's premier twirler. He is credited with three of his team's four wins of the season.

Harrington, of Fordham; Nichols, of Amherst; Garritt, of Rutgers, and Murburg, of Lafayette, are four other undefeated pitchers who merit watching. Harrington twirled great ball in relieving Cooney against N. Y. U., and then went ahead to hold Holy Cross. Nichols, of Amherst, scored both wins for his team, while Garritt, of Rutgers, turned in his second triumph of the year when he defeated the N. Y. A. C.

Many good pitchers are further down the list with only one defeat. Some of them are Hensil, of Villanova; Fogarty, of Georgetown; Froelich, of Cornell; Murphy, of Fordham, and Cutts, of Harvard.

The team and pitching standings follow:

AN IMPORTANT COG IN JACK FLYNN'S DOMINICAN MACHINE

"HECK" ALLEN

Veteran third baseman, one of the best hot corner guardians in college circles, possesses the throwing arm of a big leaguer, and his hard and timely batting has accounted for many a Providence College victory during the past three seasons. Apparently he has no fielding weakness, being strong going t oright or left as well as coming in on bunts, and it takes a clever slider to get away from him when he attempts to put the tag on a runner.

PROVIDENCE JUNIORS WIN SLUGFEST, 16-4

Providence College Junior Varsity had no trouble in defeating Mount St. Charles College at Woonsocket, 16 to 4, in seven innings yesterday afternoon. Heavy hitting by the Providence athletes coupled with wildness on the part of Mount St. Charles's pitchers, accounted for the one-sided score. Norton of the Junior Varsity hit a long home run as his contribution to the afternoon's sport while Szydla, also of the visitors, poled out two three-baggers.

11TH WIN IN ROW FOR DOMINICANS

Tommy McElroy Holds
Northeastern Safe
in 2-0 Shutout

Game played: May 5, 1928

Prov. Tribune

Boston, May 5.—The Providence College Varsity nine registered its 11th straight victory of the season here this afternoon by annexing a 2 to 0 decision over the Northeastern University aggregation at Huntington Field. The game resulted in a bitterly contested pitchers' duel between McElroy of the Providence outfit and Leo Crowley of the local nine.

McElroy had the better of the duel throughout, although Crowley, who shone at all sports while at St. John's Prep two years ago, twirled his best game in two years, being nicked for eight hits and only two runs. Incidentally the score was the lowest that the classy Rhode Island aggregation has accepted this campaign, and was a decided reaction from the overwhelming win they scored Friday over Bowdoin at Providence.

If one lad in particular aided McElroy in holding the hard hitting Huskies in check it was Harry Main, slugging key-stone sacker, whose work was the brightest that has been seen here in some time. Main miscued on his first chance, a hard roller in the opening stanza, but after that he played brilliantly, covering all the territory near the midway station, and making several seemingly impossible stops.

In the fifth he made a one-handed running stop of Perry Ranney's bid for a hit over second base, and recovered in time to make an accurate peg to first for one of the outstanding plays of the afternoon. Gibbons, left fielder, also featured with two running catches in the fourth canto.

Providence tallied its first and incidentally the winning run in their first time at bat. Allen, first man up, drew a free ticket to first from Crowley and proceeded to pilfer second a moment later. Gibbons and Fleurent both popped up, but Hebert came through in the crisis with a single to left on which Allen scampered around the bases. The rally ended with this blow, however.

In the sixth inning the contenders for the Eastern title made sure of the game by adding another tally for good measure. Duffy, second man to bat, dumped a Texas leaguer in back of first and stole second. Murphy's best effort was a high fly to centre, and then Main slashed a hard single into left, scoring Duffy with the second marker. Cappalli grounded out to short to stop the attack on Crowley.

Possessing fine control, McElroy had little trouble in keeping the Huskies bats silenced once he got under way, but for the first two sessions he had to travel at a lively clip to prevent a Northeastern score. Errors by Main and Cappalli in the opening stanza placed men on the cushions with but one out, but the Dominican slabster was equal to the occasion and fanned Pender, while Main took care of Freeland's roller for the third out.

In the second canto McElroy hit Richardson, and Goodwin moved him along with a well-placed sacrifice bunt along the first base line. Cappalli made a fine stop of Nutter's grounder, but dropped the ball when in the act of making a throw to first, allowing both runners to rest safely on the sacks. Crowley churned the breezes, and Ranney hit to the box, however, preventing a score.

Then came a complete transformation of the Dominicans, defence with all hands playing heads up ball, and stopping everything batted within reach. The Huskies made a valiant effort to break the winning streak with pinch hitters in the final inning, but McElroy's underhand shoots proved too puzzling.

COMMENT and GOSSIP

by Charles B. Coppen

WHAT'S in a name? Way back yonder on the trail leading to the dim and dusty past somebody asked this question. "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet," was the answer. In the vernacular of the baseball world Providence College has a sweet team, an outfit that is tearing down the line at breakneck speed and staging a drive that may give the Smith Hillers the mythical Eastern intercollegiate championship. And names do not mean a thing on Coach Flynn's club.

When the Dominicans faced Lowell Textile the past week the battery was composed of Murphy, a catcher with the blood of the old sod coursing through his veins, and Wineapple, a pitcher of Jewish descent. Main, who guarded second base, boasts that Harry Lauder and a lot of other noted Scotchmen are his cousins, and Cappall, who was in short field, speaks frequently of his blood relationship with Benito Mussolini.

Herbert, on duty in centre field, and Fleurent, patrolling right garden, hold their own with Cappall when discussing family trees by pointing to the fact that many years ago, before Kings went out of style in France, their ancestors were favorites at court.

* * * * *

DUFFY and Gibbons, on first and in left respectively at Lowell, are always ready to fight at the drop of the hat and there is never any question of the race with which they are aligned. Just where Allen, stocky guardian of the hot corner, fits in this cosmopolitan array is a question. When he matriculated at the college the belief was prevalent that he was a Cape Cod Yankee. Later it was reported he was of Polish extraction.

Asked yesterday in what kind of soil his ancestral tree was planted, he said: "I am trying to saw a lot of baseball wood like a regular fellow. See Johnny Farrell and he will give it to you straight, but do not ask Jack Flynn. I'd hate to tell you what coachie thinks I am when I boot one."

* * * * *

ELEVEN victories have been won by the Dominicans and with an even break in luck the string will be run to 13 before the curtain drops on the week's activities Saturday night. St. Michael's College from Vermont will furnish the opposition at Hendriken Field tomorrow and Trinity will entertain Providence at Hartford Saturday.

Villanova and Dartmouth will cross bats with the Dominicans here next week, and the home team will have to step at a lively clip to annex the decisions. Hal Bradley is slated for the hurling post tomorrow.

With Eddie Wineapple, sensational southpaw hurler holding the St. Michael's College nine to four hits, and Nap Fleurent, hard hitting outfielder hammering out two home runs, the Providence College outfit annexed its 12th straight victory of the season yesterday afternoon on Hendicken Field by a 6 to 0 score. The win was the second of the season for Wineapple, who blanked Lowell Tech a week ago.

Fleurent's first home run proved the turning point in the fray, breaking a brilliant pitching duel between the Dominican star and Ed Connally, rangy portsider of the St. Michael's team. Both hurlers showed plenty of class in turning in a no-hit game until the sixth frame when Connally weakened long enough for Jack Flynn's hard-hitting aggregation to get to work.

In shutting out the Green Mountain aggregation Wineapple rolled his total of scoreless innings pitched to 20, as he has two innings of the C. C. N. Y. tilt played in New York last April to his credit, in addition to the Lowell game of last week. The Salem product also boasts the unique record of having but four hits garnered off his delivery in the three times he has tolled on the mound.

Aside from the pitchers' duel some exceptionally fine plays were contributed by both clubs. Allen's pickup of Wood's potential hit through the box, for a putout at first, and Fleurent's diving catch of Heffernan's bid for a Texas leaguer in the sixth being the most spectacular. In the latter play, Fleurent came in fast and dove headlong onto the ground to clutch the ball as he fell. Capt. O'Connor of the visitors also contributed a fine running catch of a riser off Fleurent's stick in the fourth.

St. Michael's presented a stubborn foe for the Black and White ball tossers, and as was anticipated, it required every bit of offensive power that the Flynnmen possessed to keep the Providence team at the head of the Eastern college ranks. Wineapple solved the problem to a great extent by keeping the invaders off the base paths, only one man reaching second base, and that one in the ninth inning after two were out. Eleven of the Vermonters were retired via the strikeout route.

While Flynn's latest twirling sensation was holding the visitors from the North completely in check, Connally was doing a fine job on the highly-touted local outfit. For five straight innings they succumbed to his slants, although Allen got as far as third in the first frame, and Gibbons poked out a double in the fourth which went for naught.

In the sixth inning the storm broke, with Fleurent providing the thunder in the form of a terrific circuit blow into deep left field. To start the trouble in this canto, Wineapple singled to right, and Allen moved him up a peg with a neat bunt along third. Gorman lost one of Connally's shoots and the Providence twirler advanced to third. Gibbons walked. Then Fleurent collected his first homer to give the Dominicans a three-run advantage.

After Hebert had fled out to short, the rally started again when Duffy singled to centre making the 12th straight game in which he has connected safely, and moved to second when Klein booted Harraghy's roller. Main singled to left to bring in Duffy, but Cappalli's best effort was a grounder which Connally knocked down for a putout at first.

The lucky seventh was featured by Fleurent's second Ruthian blow after Gibbons had drawn a walk. At the time of this smash, Cross, another portsider, was on the slab for the invaders, as Connally was forced to retire after the bombardment in the sixth inning. Cross stopped any further attempts to score for the remaining inning and a half.

Tomorrow the Dominican Varsity nine travels to Hartford to tackle the Trinity College nine and according to present plans Hal Bradley will handle the mound assignment.

LONG CHEER FOR FLEURENT

They know their baseball up in Ware, Mass. Nap Fleurent, the Providence College rightfielder, says so. He not only will tell you about it if you can get him to talk, but he proves it on the diamond. In yesterday's 6-0 victory over St. Michaels this husky athlete accounted for five of the six runs scored by the Dominican athletes in their 12th straight triumph of the year, the best record by far of any college nine in the East today.

Fleurent belted out two home runs at Hendricken Field, one in the sixth inning with two men on the sacks and another in the seventh with one aboard. Such clouting coupled with the fine pitching of Eddie Wineapple, the rugged southpaw, is enough to win any old ball game.

P. C. will be tested to its fullest strength against Villa Nova here next Wednesday.

Jack Flynn seems to have uncovered a real mound star in Eddie Wineapple, southpaw flinger, who has turned in 20 scoreless innings for the Dominicans. In New York a month ago, he worked two innings against C. C. N. Y., last week he shut out Lowell Textile without a hit and yesterday he turned back St. Michael's with a row of goose eggs. With so many pitchers on the staff, Flynn must soon make a choice of his first string corps, and it is likely that the brunt of the work in the future will fall to Hal Bradley and Tommy McElroy, right-handers, and Wineapple and George Forrest, portsiders. With 12 straight victories already chalked up, the Dominicans go to Hartford to-morrow to play Trinity. Flynn's boys have two real opponents at Hendricken Field next week—Villanova on Wednesday and Dartmouth on Friday.

Crack White and Black Nine Goes to Work After Nutmeg Staters Push Across Five Runs; Bradley Relieved by Moran in Third Inning

Game played: May 12, 1928

(Special to The Sunday Tribune)
Hartford, Conn., May 12.—The crack Providence College nine, which is leading the East this spring showed its wares here to-day in an impressive manner when it crushed the Trinity College aggregation under a 22 to 10 score in a free hitting contest. The victory was the 13th straight for the Rhode Islanders, and the fourth defeat of the season for the locals.

Hal Bradley, star right-hander of the Dominicans, was on the mound at the start of the fray but was forced to retire in favor of Moran at the start of the third inning after he had been bombarded for four hits and five runs. It was the first time in over a year that Bradley has been driven from the slab.

In collecting their 20 hits which included triples by Gibbons and Duffy, and doubles by Fleurant and Main, the Dominicans showed a classy brand of stickwork, driving Pitcher Whitaker, ace of the local staff, from the mound after five innings of action.

Two Casualties

Two casualties marred the fray, the first coming in the second inning when Slossberg, Trinity left-fielder tripped over second base and broke his right ankle, and the second occurring in the fourth when Allen, third baseman of the visitors, suffered a severe head cut when struck with the mask of Cutler, local backstop as he threw it off when attempting to peg to second. Allen was treated by a doctor and was able to return to the game.

Trinity furnished plenty of fireworks for the crack invading outfit in the early stages of the tilt and for an inning had the White and Black followers on edge by their spirited rally. To start the trouble in the second, Slossberg singled, and went to second, where he received his injury, as Solms sacrificed. When the game was resumed after this mishap, Hardman singled to right, Gooding was safe on a fielder's choice, and Sturm reached first on Main's error of his roller. Whitaker dropped a Texas leaguer in right and Knurek followed with a blow into centre, Bradley allowed the fifth marker to trickle across the plate a moment later when he threw wild to first on Ebersold's bunt.

Moran Takes Slab

Moran took over the reins at the start of the third and managed to keep the Trinity batters in check, in spite of the high wind which made good pitching a difficult task. In the fourth he was nicked for two hits, and two walks, for three runs, while three successive singles netted a run in the sixth, and a single, and infield out, and a wild throw accounted for the mark hung up by the locals in the ninth.

Providence collected a run in the second inning when Duffy took first on Hardmark's error, stole second, and went to third while Murphy was being thrown out at first. When Hardman threw wild to third on the latter play Duffy continued home with the opening run.

Trailing by four runs the Rhode Island aggregation showed its real strength in the fourth by crashing the offerings of Whitaker all over the lot to collect 11 runs. In this hectic inning Coach Flynn's ball tossers batted around. Gibbons opened with a three base smash to center, and Fleurant followed with a line drive at the third baseman. Herbert strolled crowding the cushions. Duffy singled to left, his first of three safe blows, scoring two runs, and Murphy continued the good work with a sharp single to center, to tie the score.

Main forced Murphy at second, and then went to second himself when Sturm overthrew the base in attempting to make a double killing. Cappall connected safely and Moran lifted a sacrifice fly to left to put the Providence nine in the lead again. Then came Allen's injury which necessitated a 10-minute delay in the game.

Whitaker Wild

Allen walked and Gibbons bided his time to draw a free ticket to fill the sacks. Whitaker continued to find the high wind troublesome and walked Fleurent, forcing in Cappalli. Hebert next drew a gratis transportation and Allen strolled home. Duffy crashed his second hit to left and two more runs came in, and then Murphy hoisted a riser to short which Gooding dropped, allowing Hebert and Duff to bring in the Dominicans' 11th and 12th markers.

In the fifth frame Cappalli walked. Moran hit safely to third and Allen choked the bags when he burl safely along the third base line. Cappalli was tossed out at the plate on Gibbons' roller, but Fleurent drew another walk and Moran came home. Duffy cleared the bases with a triple to deep left field. Murphy pushed Duffy home with a single through short.

Mastronarde relieved Whitaker for the local outfit in the sixth and after fanning Moran and Allen, was greeted with singles by Gibbons and Fleurent. These blows unnerved him and he walked the next three batters to force in two runs. In the eighth the Providence nine rolled its score above 20 when Hebert beat out a roller to third, Murphy singled, Moran doubled, and Cappalli and Allen followed with one base blows to center.

PROVIDENCE JUNIORS DEFEAT ASSUMPTION

(Special to the Providence Journal)

Worcester, Mass., May 12.—The Providence College Junior Varsity nine defeated Assumption College here this afternoon, 8 to 2. Boule pitched a good game for the visitors, keeping six hits scattered and fanning 11.

Assumption got a two run lead in the opening frame when with two out Charlier walked and went to third on Moreau's Texas leaguer. Both men scored on Boyer's long two-base hit. The visitors came back in the second to score three runs on two hits and three errors and were never headed after this inning.

PROVIDENCE TOPS DOMINICANS HEAD NINES OF EASTERN COLLEGE H 13 WINS BASEBALL TEAMS

Prov. Bulletin, May 15, 1938

Providence College is now perched at the pinnacle of the standing of the leading Eastern college nines with 13 straight victories and no defeats. The Quantico Marines, though not strictly a college aggregation, are next in line with 12 straight wins and no defeats, with Holy Cross third, having 10 victories and one setback, that received from the Black and White ball tossers at Hendricken Field.

New York University, which led the college race for the first six weeks of the season, has been unceremoniously toppled from the top of the list and now occupies sixth place. George Manfred, hurler for the New Yorkers, has also been deposed from his berth as the leading pitcher in the college ranks and is now listed among those who are considered good.

Providence College previously was a runnerup to the Violet and although little known or heard of in New York has taken the measure of Fordham, Manhattan, C. C. N. Y., and Spring Hill College of Mobile, Ala., among others. The Quantico Marines, not strictly a college team, also remains undefeated and is therefore now second in line. The Marines can't possibly be awarded the Eastern title by virtue of being unlike the Naval Academy or West Point, but must be reckoned with the Eastern teams for they figure in many of the games.

Fordham, Holy Cross and Harvard are all bunched next in the standing and are all still conceded a chance of taking the championship. Fordham was beaten but twice this year, while the Crusaders met but one defeat. Harvard, besides losing to the Marines, was beaten by the Purple. Penn State is also well up in the standing while New York University, despite its three defeats, may yet forge to the front again. Villanova, St. John's of Brooklyn, Yale and Colgate all made fine recoveries from their former slumps last week and advanced themselves in the standings. Villanova captured three games last week and now rests immediately below New York University. St. John's also won three and is right below the first ten, Colgate, way down the list last week, added four victories during the past week and, as a consequence, is 15th. Yale jumped from the 21st position to 16th, with three victories last week.

EIGHT COLLEGES OF EAST STILL IN BASEBALL RACE

Games This Week Likely to Have Marked Effect on Standings

AS THE Eastern college baseball season enters upon the final two weeks of the 1938 campaign, the race for the diamond honors is as much an open one for at least eight of the teams who are now heading the contenders as it was when the season was only a week old.

New York University was badly crushed in its competition last week, assimilating three defeats which may prove their elimination from the championship list. Providence College of Providence, R. I., now is the only undefeated nine in the East.

Holy Cross, Fordham and Harvard are still up with the pack, and all stand an excellent chance of forging to the front. Other nines which have maintained their positions in the race are Penn State, undefeated in the East but a loser to Southern opponents, N. Y. U., Villanova, Georgetown and Temple.

Providence is scheduled to meet two hard opponents this week in Villanova and Dartmouth. A brace of victories will practically clinch the title for them. Two defeats would make the race all the tighter and postpone the final settlement for at least another week.

Holy Cross is scheduled to play the second game of its home and home series with Fordham this week and is also slated to engage Penn State. Both of the Crusaders' opponents are conceded a chance to take the title. A double killing will be most disastrous to the Purple's opponents and will probably remove them from the contenders.

New York University must defeat Princeton and Columbia this week or give up all hope for an Eastern championship this year. The Violet hit a slump in a crucial moment, falling before Lafayette, Boston College and Holy Cross, in that order. The Boston College nine and the Holy Cross outfit were the teams they had to get by but failed.

Pennsylvania and Cornell are tied for the Quadrangular Cup Trophy. Cornell scored twice over Columbia, while Pennsylvania defeated Columbia and Dartmouth. The Lion's three defeats eliminate it, while a second defeat for Dartmouth will also put it out. Columbia will engage the Green to-day in the only league game this week.

Hendricken Field will be the scene of one of the most important college tilts of the season this afternoon when the undefeated Providence College team, with a string of 13 straight victories, tests its mettle against Villanova College. The game starts at 3:15 and it is expected that the largest crowd of the season will be on hand.

Villanova has bowled over Princeton, Cornell, Boston College in 10 innings, Lehigh, Lebanon Valley, and Catholic University, among others, and is anxious to break the record of the Smith Hillers here today. Only three nines have been able to down the McGeehan-coached ball tossers, Fordham performing the feat in the opening game of the year by a 3 to 1 count, Bucknell winning a 1 to 0 overtime pitchers' duel, and New York University ekeing out a 3 to 2 decision in New York a week ago.

The invaders from Pennsylvania will bring a number of stars here, and in view of the fine work of the Dominicans also, several league scouts will be in the crowd this afternoon. Lolos, captain and left fielder of the invaders, is slated for minor league competition at least this June, while Allen, Dominican third sacker, is also in line for a league tryout.

Interest has been aroused over the competition of the rival first basemen today, as Duffy of the Smith Hill clan has hit safely every game this spring and is one of the leading batsmen in New England with an average of .407, while Johnny Curtin of the Villanova outfit is a protege of Herb Pennock, Yankee hurler, who rates him as a fine prospect.

M'ELROY DUE TO FACE VILLANOVA

Husky Olneyville Lad on Slab for Unbeaten Dominicans in To-morrow's Game

With the finest record of any college in the East, the Providence College nine swings into action on Hendricken Field to-morrow in what promises to be one of the most important college tilts to be staged in this city in many a day. With 13 straight wins to their credit, the Smith Hillers will test their mettle further against Villanova College, defeated in but two games this spring, in the mid-week attraction, while Dartmouth will furnish the fireworks on the same field on Friday.

Villanova is well known for its ball clubs, and this year's array of talent is no exception. A veteran twirling staff will be ready to open the Northern invasion here, and as a result the selection for the assignment against the locals is a matter of conjecture. Either Hensil, clever southpaw, or Kuczo, football captain last fall, or Hanzick, capable right hander, will get the call, and in either case the Flynn-coached aggregation will need its strongest war clubs to annex the verdict.

Outstanding in the work of the White and Black athletes this spring has been their strong offensive which has enabled them to place no less than eight of the regulars above the .300 mark for the season in hitting, while a run total of 125 speaks for itself. In view of this feature of the local's machine, Coach McGeehan of the invaders will bend every effort to break the winning streak of the Providence nine, which would be a feat that would top any other performance they could stage on their trip.

Tom McElroy is Jack Flynn's selection for the slab assignment and if the husky Olneyville lad shows the form he exhibited when Northeastern was being downed at Boston a week ago, the Pennsylvania collegians will be in for a strenuous afternoon. McElroy is one of the leading twirlers of the East, having won 14 four games.

Heck Allen, who received a head cut when accidentally struck by the catcher's mask at Hartford, will don his uniform this afternoon to keep himself on edge for the tussles this week. Heck has shown great improvement in his batting and is rapidly forging to the top of the list.

The Junior Varsity nine, which is also in the undefeated class, as the result of its impressive 8 to 2 win over Assumption College, is preparing for its final game with the crack St. John's Prep nine at Danvers this Saturday. The Jayvees have shown up exceptionally well and according to Coach Flynn will provide him with the nucleus for some of his varsity assignments another spring.

Villanova College, with one of the hardest hitting teams ever to perform in this city, stopped the march of the undefeated Providence College nine yesterday afternoon on Hendricken Field by winning a thrilling 10-inning encounter by a 4 to 3 decision. The game marked the first defeat of the Dominicans in 14 starts, and though it will undoubtedly have bearing on the deciding of the collegiate title, it does not remove the Smith Hillers from their vantage point at the head of the Eastern colleges.

With the score knotted at three all in the 10th, DeLuca, Villanova second baseman, singled to right, but was forced a moment later at second while Hanzk took first. Then Burnes, hitting star of the fray, came through with his second triple, scoring the deciding run and

The crowd of approximately 2500, the largest to witness a ball game on Hendricken Field in the past three years, was treated to a brilliant brand of ball. In spite of the low score, no less than five doubles, three triples and a home run rattled from the bats of the pastimers.

Villanova took kindly to the slants of Tommy McElroy and, although he managed to keep them well scattered most of the time, three timely blows in the sixth tied the score and two smashes in the 10th, one a triple, sewed up the decision and sent the Dominicans down the bitter alley of defeat.

The game abounded with sparkling plays, the most lustrous being Main's remarkable stop of a line drive from Cummings's stick in the ninth which he nailed directly in back of second base.

The Dominicans fought an uphill game after the fifth stanza, when Hanzk, clever hurler who was slated to oppose Harvard today, relieved Kuczo, and proceeded to keep the Smith Hillers from hitting safely, although they were able to place men on the cushions. In the eighth three men were left stranded when Cappalli was forced to churn the breezes, and then in the ninth Flurent's best effort was a foul twister to the catcher, leaving McElroy and Gibbons marooned on the sacks. Even in the 10th the Black and White nine continued its assault with Murphy reaching second when Hanzk threw wild to the plate on a fourth ball, but Forrest, pinch hitting for Cappalli, made the final out of the day.

McElroy showed fine control for the greater part of the fray, not issuing a single free pass to first, but the slugging tactics of the invaders from the South proved too much for him. Melanson with a homer and a double, and Burnes with two triples, provided enough fireworks alone to win an average ball game.

League scouts who travelled to the Smith Hill diamond to see Lolos, captain and star left fielder of the visitors perform, were well rewarded, for the aggressive Villanovan, playing his first college tilt after a three week's illness, starred in the field and poled a triple and a single in five trips to the platter. Allen, third baseman of the locals, also under the careful scrutiny flashed in the field and contributed a double as part of his team's offensive.

To start the scoring, Melanson, rugged centerfielder for the Southerners, lifted a drive over Gibbons head in the second inning, reaching third easily and travelling the rest of the distance, when the Dominicans hurried the ball loosely into the infield on the relay.

Jack Flynn's cohorts took the lead in the same canto by chalking up two runs. Duffy hit, safely, for the fourteenth straight game, and Murphy drew a free ticket. Main dropped a bunt along third base, but Kuczo heaved the ball into right field trying to make the out and Duffy registered at the home station. Cappalli grounded out, but McElroy came through with a one base smash to centre in which Murphy tallied the second run. With two men on Allen fanned and Gibbons skied to left field.

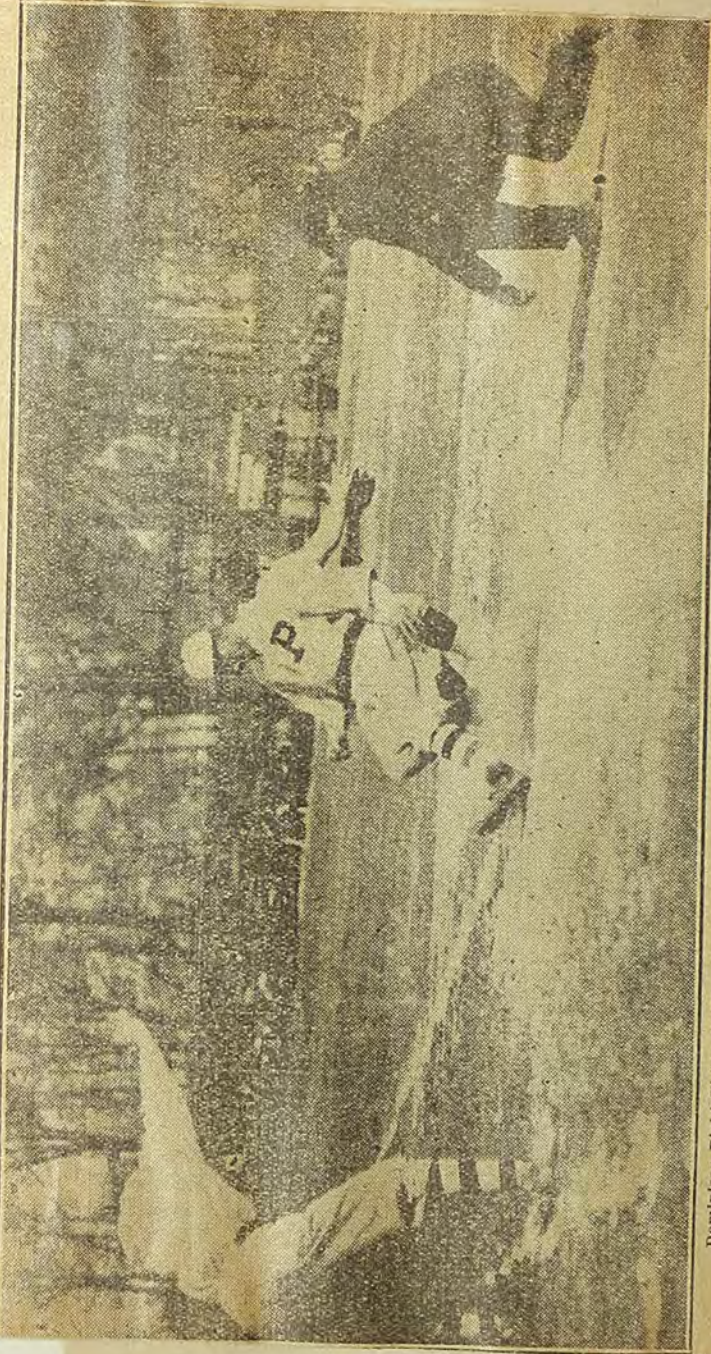

In the fifth inning, Allen opened with a double inside the third base cushion, and after Gibbons had grounded out, Flurent poked his triple into deep centre scoring Allen. Then Hanzk was rushed to the slab to relieve Kuczo, and the new hurler proceeded to show his class by fanning Hebert, clean-up batter of the locals, and forcing Duffy to ground out.

Villanova crashed out two runs in the sixth to tie the count and enable them to lay the foundation for their sensational win. Burnes started with a three-base crash into left, and after Curtin fanned Captain Lolos made fans take notice with a two-base blow into right. Gillespie's fly was gathered in by Main for the second out, but Melanson continued the assault with a double past third, scoring the tying counter. Cummings fled to the capping for the third out.

Providence placed three men on the cushions in the eighth, when Hebert and Murphy walked, and Main was hit and Murphy walked, and Main was hit and Murphy walked, all with two out, but Cappalli was unable to fathom Hanzk's speedy curves and was retired via the strikeout route. In the ninth, McElroy reached first on a roller to the infield and was advanced to second by Allen. Gibbons's single to short right sent him to third, but Flurent fouled to the catcher and Hebert grounded out. Another rally faded in the last of the 10th when Main fied and Forrest fanned with a runner on second.

Tomorrow the Dominicans are slated to tackle the Dartmouth nine which toppled Boston College for the second time Tuesday, on Hendricken Field.

Undefeated Pitchers Fewer as College Season Nears Close

Undefeated teams and undefeated pitchers among the Eastern College baseball nines can almost be counted on the fingers of both hands, excepting, of course, many of the pitchers who have worked but once and won. The only undefeated team in the East is the Quantico Marines, who completed their season last week with a perfect record of seventeen games won. The Marines also produced the best twirler of the season in Kidd, who is credited with nine victories in as many attempts.

The last week produced a complete revision of the Eastern leaders for the mythical title. Were the Marines eligible they would have undoubtedly captured the crown, but since they are not the race is still open, and it is very much so open by virtue of many games that are still to be played, and which will probably cause further changes in the present standings.

Providence College, leading the Eastern teams with a record of thirteen victories and one defeat, met its first setback of the season at the hands of Johnny Hensil, who pitched Villanova to a fine 4 to 3 victory. McElroy, undefeated until then, also failed to click for the first time this season. The Villanova nine continued by defeating Harvard and probably eliminated the Cambridge team. A Penn victory over the Crimson ended the Harvard hope for a title this year. Four defeats is just a little too much to make up in the remainder of the season.

Holy Cross in Running

Holy Cross put itself in the runner-up position by defeating Fordham and Penn State last week. Unfortunately Rutgers nipped the Purple.

After running up an eleven-game winning streak Penn State was checked by Holy Cross. The Nittany Lions also lost a chance to assume the runner-up position when they dropped that game but they were hardly given a chance, for at the end of the fifth inning the game was called on account of rain with Holy Cross in the lead.

St. John's crept up further in the standing and now has a record of ten won and four lost. Army should be rated higher in the list and should really only be charged with one defeat. The other defeats suffered at the hands of the Giants and Yanks cannot count in this average. Yale is another team that is asserting itself of late. The Ell is now in thirteenth position whereas it had been at the bottom of the standing two weeks ago, which, at the pace they are setting, is bound to get them much nearer the top.

There are now twenty-eight undefeated pitchers, a list which can be cut to about eighteen for pitchers who have won only one game are not to be reckoned. Last week resulted in a wholesale slaughter of the undefeated hurlers ranks; Gillespie, of Georgetown; Van Atta, of Penn State; Walker, of Penn; McElroy, of Providence; Harrington, of Fordham, and Herbert, of Holy Cross, all joined the defeated ranks.

Garritt Outstanding Pitcher

Garritt, of Rutgers, who defeated Holy Cross last week, is the outstanding twirler of the undefeated ranks, leaving Kidd, of the Marines, out of the picture. Manning, of St. John's, and Nekola, of Holy Cross, are other twirlers who are still unbeaten. Manfredi retained his lead over the defeated pitchers with a record of eight victories and one defeat. Hensil, of Villanova; Fons, of Holy Cross; Barbee, of Harvard; Van Atta, of Penn State, and others are still to be considered for there is a possibility that the undefeated ranks will be entirely depleted at the conclusion of the season.

With Gunnar Hollstrom, sensational Lawrence Sophomore on the pitching peak the Dartmouth College nine invades Hendricken Field this afternoon at 3:15 to test its strength against the Providence College outfit, which is leading the race for inter-collegiate honors at the present time. The Dominicans were not the least downhearted about their initial setback of the year at the hands of Villanova and will take the field today determined to fight their way back into the winning column.

Eddie Wineapple, Dominican southpaw, will endeavor to continue his unbroken string of 20 scoreless innings, but he has a difficult task on his hands to hold the Hanover athletes in check. Wineapple's last turn on the mound was against St. Michael's whom he subdued by a 6 to 0 count here last week and it was his fine showing against that nine that prompted Coach Flynn to give him the chance to work this afternoon's encounter.

The remainder of the Dominican lineup will remain intact, with the exception of the backstop assignment which will be handled by Joe Harraghy. Under the tutelage of Coach Flynn, Harraghy has come along very fast and is a much improved backstop. His ability to hit is another factor that will be valued in the tilt today. Joe Duffy, hard hitting first baseman who has one of the highest averages in New England this spring, will try to collect safely for his 15th game of the year.

Hollstrom has enjoyed great success as a twirler for Jeff Tesreau's aggregation, and has among his victories a 10 to 5 triumph over Brown, registered at Hanover over a week ago. While it is not definitely known which of the four twirlers coming here will draw the assignment, Hollstrom appears to have the edge in view of past performances. Other slabsters available for duty are Capt. Van Riper, Breckenridge and Marsh.

Bob Walsh, Woburn youngster, and brother of "Tweet" Walsh of Holy Cross fame, who starred at Hendricken Field when the Crusaders played here three years ago, will be at shortstop for the Big Green outfit. According to advance reports he is the best infielder on the invading nine and promises to be as fine a ball tosser as his brother. Walsh featured the Brown tilt at Hanover with a double and two singles, all his hits being factors in sending the Bruins down to defeat.

Al Fusonle, star end on the football team for the past two seasons, will be in the lineup somewhere, although Tesreau is still undecided where to play him. Fusonle's all-around ability enabled him to take over the first base post last week when Paige suffered a broken leg, but he will probably patrol an outfield post this afternoon, while Shea, former Cambridge star, worked the initial cushion.

PROVIDENCE IS COUNTING ON HEBERT'S BATTING, FACING B. C.

Boston Globe

FRANK HERBERT

Former Quincy High Player. Now With Providence College Team

Special Dispatch to the Globe

PROVIDENCE, May 20—Providence College, boasting a record marred by only one defeat this Spring, will invade Boston Tuesday afternoon to battle Coach Hughy Duffy's Boston College aggregation at Alumni Field in Newton with its strongest lineup.

The Dominicans have won 13 games this Spring. They have toppled every aggregation they have met this season except Villanova, forcing that team to travel 10 innings before losing, 4 to 3. Two games scheduled with Dartmouth were washed away.

The pitching burden for the locals will be shared by two Massachusetts boys, Hal Bradley of Lawrence and Eddie Wineapple of Salem. The former scored a 3-to-2 win over the Eagles among his triumphs last Spring and will be anxious for the assignment this week. Wineapple has a record of 26 scoreless innings to his credit since breaking into college baseball.

One of the outstanding performers with the Providence outfit is Frank Hebert, husky Quincy and Dean Academy athlete, who not only won a varsity assignment in his yearling year, but has the post of cleanup batter. His ability to wield the bludgeon has been a source of joy to Coach Flynn, himself one of the greatest hitters ever developed at Holy Cross and a former Pittsburg and Washington mainstay.

DOMINICANS MEET SECOND SETBACK; EAGLES WIN, 3-1

Boston, May 23.—Herb Stokinger, former Milton star, provided the winning punch which broke up a pitchers' duel here yesterday between "Lefty" Shea of Boston College and Eddle Wineapple of Providence College, to send the crack Dominican nine to its second defeat of the year. The final count was 3 to 1, Stokinger's blow driving in two runs to win for the Eagles in the eighth.

Joe Duffy, Providence first sacker, continued his record of hitting in every game, crashing out a single in the second inning for his 15th straight contest and maintaining his .400 average for the season. Hebert collected a hard hit to deep short to send in the only Rhode Island score, but, aside from this blow, he failed to flash his usual hitting form.

The Eagles scored in the first inning. Creedon, with two strikes on him, poked a Texas leaguer into left field. Morris was walked, and both runners advanced while Duffy was making a sensational stop just inside first base of Weston's bid for a hit, which was converted into an out. O'Day hit to Wineapple for the second out, and then the Providence southpaw loosed a fast one which shot under Harraghy and allowed Creedon to tally. Moncewicz ended the rally with a high riser to Hebert.

Then followed five innings of airtight baseball, with both clubs battling hard to score. Providence got Duffy as far as third in the second, but Main and Cappall grounded out to leave him stranded. Boston placed runners on third and second in the third, only to have Cappall make a fine stop of Gibson's bid for a hit through short.

Allen opened the sixth with his second safe hit of the day, a single through second base. After Gibbons had fanned and Fleurent had skied to right Allen started to steal second and had the base clinched when O'Brien's throw from the plate bounded off Creedon's legs and into deep short, allowing the Black and White third sacker to race to third. Hebert crashed a hit between third and short. Moncewicz making a fine stop by diving for the ball while Allen scored.

Game played: May 22, 1928

In the last of the eighth O'Day opened with a sharp single to left and was moved to second on Moncewicz's bunt. Gibson lined to right field, Fleurent making a desperate effort, and stopping the ball, but failing to hold it. O'Day went to third, while Gibson took advantage of the throw to reach second. Stokinger came through with his third hit of the day, a line drive into left, to push the winning markers across the plate.

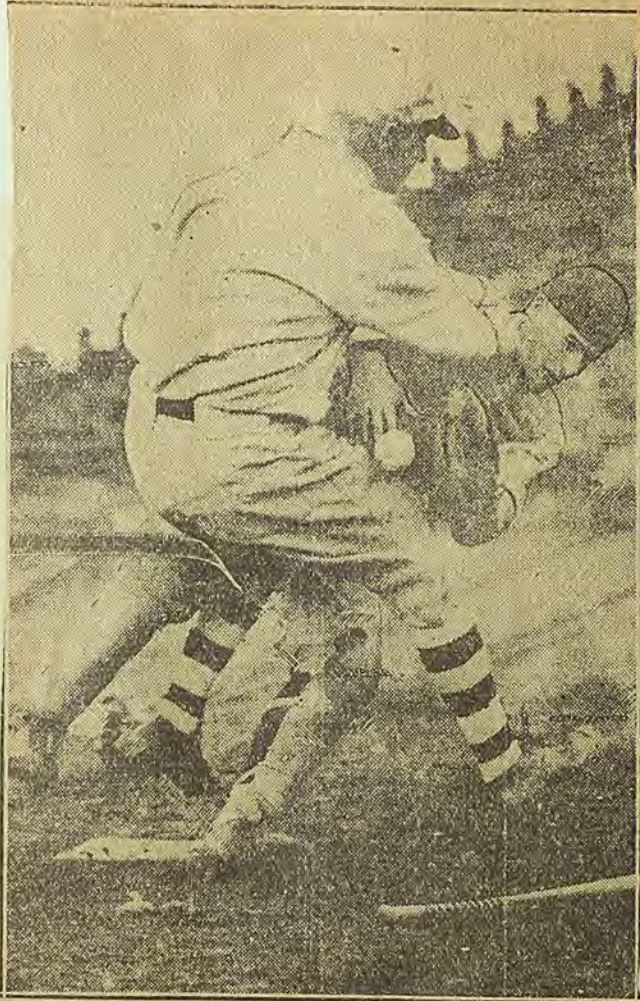

In their half of the same inning, the Dominicans had a good chance to break into the score column again when Allen singled for the third time, went to second on Gibbons safe roller along third, and to third when Shea made a wild throw into centre trying to catch Gibbons off first, but Fleurent and Hebert sent up short flies to centre and left to end the rally.

Tomorrow the Dominicans will tackle Connecticut State College on Hendrickson Field. Captain Leo Smith will probably pitch.

NUTMEG NINE EASY FOR DOMINICANS

Flynnmen, with Smith on Peak,
Roll Up 12 to 1 Victory Over
Connecticut Aggies.

Game played: May 24, 1928

With Captain Leo Smith at the helm, the Providence College nine climbed back into the winning groove on Hendricken Field yesterday afternoon to hand the Connecticut State outfit a 12 to 1 drubbing for the 14th triumph of the season. The Dominicans were superior in all stages of the game and again flashed their strong hitting attack, combing the offerings of McCombe, Aggie hurler, for 14 hits.

No less than 17 players took part in the fray for the Black and White, as Coach Flynn took advantage of the long lead to test his reserve ranks. The hitting of the tail-end of the local batting order, with Frank Cappalli, Sophomore shortstop, leading the attack with a home run, and Harry Main contributing a timely blow in the fourth to start a rally, was of such high order that the mentor may make a change in the batting order for the tilt with Brown tomorrow. Murphy, Senior backstop, also chipped in with a pair of safe hits to boost his average.

For the 16th straight game Joe Duffy, classy first baseman, who has already caught the eye of league scouts, collected a safe blow, dropping a double into left field in his first appearance at the plate to send the first Providence tally against the scoreboard. His second blow, a single to the same locality, paved the way for the rally in the fourth which netted five runs to sew up the game.

Capt. Smith was complete master of the Aggies at all times, and was able to keep them away from the plate in all but the fifth frame when Hooper caught hold of a fast shoot to ride it into deep centre for a triple to score Tombari from second. Smith fanned six and turned back the Storrs ball tossers in order in five of the eight innings he worked. Bradley finished the game by twirling the last canton when Flynn ordered a pinch hitter to the plate for Smith, in order to make a substitution.

The Dominicans broke the ice with a counter in the second when Hebert reached first on an infield error, went to third on Duffy's double and tallied when he knocked over the Aggie catcher in a close play at the plate when Hooper threw Main's roller to that station.

In the fourth the Flynnmen clinched the decision with five runs. Duffy singled and went to second on a hit and run play when Murphy grounded to deep short and beat the throw to first. Williams attempted to catch Duffy taking third on the play and overthrew the bag, allowing the Black and White first baseman to amble home. Main singled to left and Goebel let the ball roll through his legs, allowing the hard-hitting Pawtucket lad to make the circuit of the bases on the miscue. Smith beat out a bunt past the box. Allen strolled and Gibbons filled the sacks with a clever roller along third. Fleurent crashed a one-baser into left to score two runs.

HARRY MAIN, Second Base

by Charles B. Coppen

IT'S just as well for the box office receipts that King Bader's Grays are swinging their bats at Hartford instead of Kinsley's Park this afternoon. Judging from the gossip along the State's baseball trails every fan within easy motoring distance of Aldrich Field will be present when Coach Dubuc's Brown nine lines up to receive Coach Flynn's Providence College team.

Never in the history of diamond engagements between the clubs from the two hills has there been such keen interest in the opening game of their series. Dr. F. W. Marvel hopes to capitalize that interest and no one can attach any blame to him for his financial state of mind, the promotion of college baseball nowadays being precarious in the extreme.

A crowd of 5000 will be most satisfying; one of 8000 will not only help defray the expenses incurred in staging earlier games, but will also greatly enrich the Providence College treasury which is sadly in need of funds.

* * * * *

FLYNN'S Dominicans have been installed easy favorites on the strength of their brilliant record of 14 victories in 16 contests. Villanova and Boston College drove the team out of the undefeated class and put crimps in its bid for recognition as eastern intercollegiate champions.

Some of Brown's rabid supporters call attention to the fact that many of the triumphs of the Smith Hill boys were scored at the expense of teams of very mediocre calibre. This is a bit unjust as several combinations which fell before the sturdy stick-work, clever fielding and stout pitching of the Dominicans produced high-class baseball in other battles and it took real power to subdue them.

Brown's baseball has been very erratic, the Bruins following some very commendable exhibitions with outbreaks of wretched playing. The team was at its best in the abbreviated game with Dartmouth and at its worst in tussles with Yale and Holy Cross.

* * * * *

ACCORDING to bulletins from the rival camps yesterday, Coach Dubuc will open hostilities with Jit Ford, who looked like the proverbial million in the Dartmouth contest, bending his hooks across the plate, while Coach Flynn will saddle the pitching burden on the shoulders of Tom McElroy. In the event that these first choices fail to warm up well, last minute changes will be made with Rawlings eager to start for the Bears and Wineapple for the invaders.

Both teams have compiled batting records better than the average of college clubs, with the Dominicans looking a little stronger as the result of the presence on the roster of so many .300 stickers.

This is a battle, however, in which past performance will not cut a very wide swath. Rivalry is red-hot and several players from whom much is being expected may melt under the strain. A few boots may beat the better team.

* * * * *

FOR the first time in several seasons Brown has no talent on the roster for big league delivery, the gum-shoe men having wasted but little time in scouting trips to these preserves. On the other hill, however, reports are in circulation to the effect that two teams have been keeping close tabs on the work of Heck Allen, rugged third baseman, who has been enjoying his best season in college company.

Dad Meehan, who has umpired most of the home games in which Allen has played the past three years, is better qualified to judge his work than any other baseball man, Coach Flynn excepted, stated yesterday that he rated the guardian of the hot corner the greatest on that base in the Eastern collegiate field.

The veteran arbiter does not believe Allen is ready to step right into the Yankees' infield and crowd Dugan off third base but he is willing to wager his glasses that if given the opportunity to work daily Heck would look mighty good on the third sack of an Eastern League team.

DOMINICAN TEAM IS FAVORED; FORD AND McELROY MAY PITCH

Bruins Have Advantage in Victories of Annual Series

By J. W. NUTTER

Brown and Providence College open their baseball series tomorrow and on the strength of past performances the Dominican team will rule a heavy favorite, despite the fact that neither team has ever been able to show any great margin of superiority in the series. Never before have the two rivals come up to this game with one showing a string of victories equalling that of the Black and White team, with the other team showing a string of defeats such as that displayed by this year's Brown team. Providence College has been defeated by Villanova and Boston College, while Brown has lost two games to the Grays and one each to Holy Cross, N. Y. U., Dartmouth and Yale.

All that being true, we come to the other angle and admit that anything may happen in a Brown-Providence College game and just to that extent will the two teams take the field at 3 o'clock on even terms. In one sense two teams going into a game are always even, for at the moment that they start both have clean slates and either has the theoretical even chance of victory. Brown and Providence College have upset dope buckets before when they have met to battle out their game and statistics and data on the two teams have absolutely no meaning.

The two rivals came up to their final preparation today under entirely different circumstances, for while the Dominican team was polishing off the Connecticut Aggies' organization yesterday, Brown was watching the rain beat a steady downpour in Boston where the first game of the series with Harvard was scheduled.

The rival coaches were uncertain today just how they would assign the pitchers, but all other positions were fairly definite. Ford and Rawlings are the two Bruins who stand as eligibles for the assignment, with the favor leaning toward Ford, while McElroy and Bradley were the selections of Coach Flynn, with McElroy standing first in the order. Ford was going great guns in the Dartmouth game when he held the Green helpless for five innings only to have the rain put an end to the game while McElroy had his last turn in the Villanova game when the consecutive string of Dominican wins was stopped, 4 to 3.

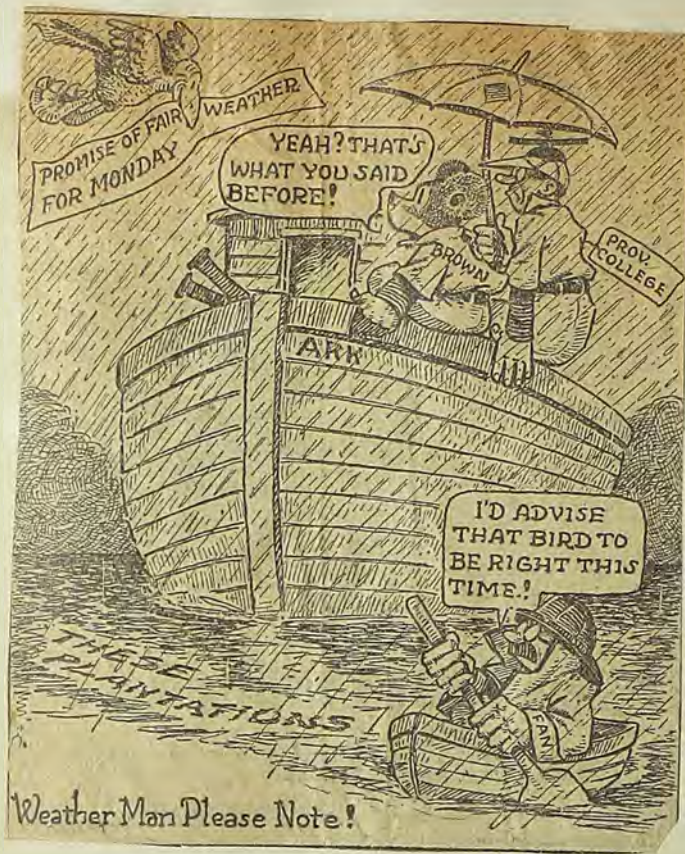

Dybcu will stand by the team that has resolved itself out of a series of shake-ups and will start Freedman, McGinley and Heffernan in the outfield; Gurney in the catching post, MacLean, Randall and Capt. Schuster on the bases and Wright in the short field.

Coach Flynn will have Allen, Main and Duffy on the bases; Gibbons, Hevert and Fleurent in the outfield, Cappelli on short and Murphy on the receiving assignment.

Last year was the first that either team has been able to make a clean sweep of the two-game series when Brown took both encounters. Brown scored first blood when she took the 1923 contest, 4 to 0. The 1924 games were split, Brown taking a 2 to 1 count and Providence College taking a 20-inning tilt, 1 to 0. The 1925 series was split, Providence College taking the 8 to 3 game and Brown getting the 2 to 0 contest, with the same order holding through 1926, when Brown took a 2 to 0 count and the Dominican team took an 18-inning encounter, 6 to 5. Last year Brown took both games, 7 to 1 and 3 to 2.

Brown-Dominican Clash Tomorrow

The Brown-Providence College clash, which was scheduled for yesterday afternoon on Aldrich Field but which had to be postponed owing to the heavy rain, will be staged on the same diamond at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon, as the result of arrangements completed last night by Fred Marvel, supervisor of Athletics at Brown, and John E. Farrell, graduate manager at the Dominican college.

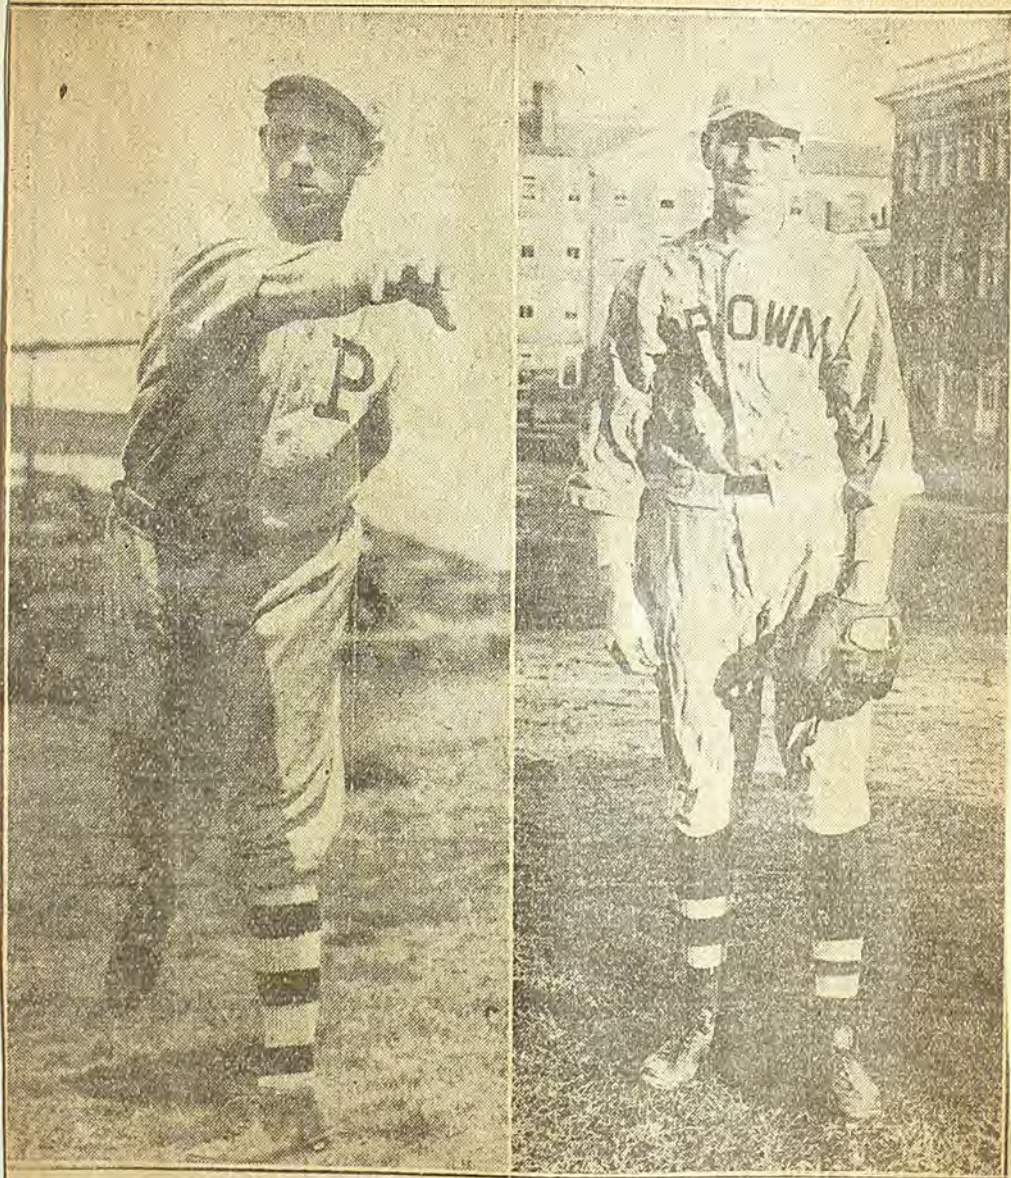

Weather Man Please Note!

WHILE the rain was doing a rushing business washing out ball games yesterday, Dr. F. W. Marvel of Brown and Graduate Manager Farrell of Providence College drenched several large bandannas with tears as they thought of the bitter disappointment suffered by several thousand fans who had planned to storm Aldrich Field, scene of the opening battle. Visions of the streams of gold pouring into other channels disturbed the managers not at all.

It was the third time this season that major games on Brown's home schedule have been spoiled by rainy weather. The first heavy washout was the engagement with Holy Cross. Dartmouth braved the elements for a five-inning joust with the Bears, but the customers remained at home. The setback yesterday was costly in the extreme.

An effort will be made to stage the contest tomorrow, but hundreds who could have attended the game yesterday will be forced to pass it up. It is expected that the hurlers selected to pitch yesterday—Jit Ford for the Bruins and Tom McElroy for the Dominicans—will be on the firing lines.

Brown University and Providence College will endeavor to play the first game of their sixth annual baseball series in a semi-twilight fashion at Aldrich Field late this afternoon. Postponed from Saturday because of the rain, the opening battle of the "crucial intracity series" will not start until 4:30 p. m.

While a capacity crowd of the like expected Saturday, had the game been played on schedule, is not anticipated today hundreds are expected to take in today's contest who could not otherwise if it were to commence at mid-afternoon. Consequently, a fine gathering is counted upon just the same.

No doubt Coaches Jean Dubuc and Jack Flynn will stick to their original plans of pitching Roland Ford against Tom McElroy. Today's game is the "home" contest for Providence College and so McElroy will take the mound first.

Because of the brilliant record of 14 victories in 16 games this season, the Dominicans are installed as the favorites. Nevertheless, past performances between the rivals indicate that reputations mean little and anything may happen. Seldom has there been more interest in the series than there is this year.

The same teams will play their second and last game Saturday afternoon. Under these arrangements, both have taxing schedules this week. Between now and Saturday, the Bruins oppose Harvard at Aldrich Field Wednesday and the Dominicans entertain Georgetown at Hendricken Field the following afternoon.

Tickets sold for the game that was scheduled for Saturday will be accepted this afternoon, according to the Brown management, but will not be of any use for the second game of the series.

BRUINS 4 TO 1

Score All Runs in Fourth on 3 Hits and Two Errors

Tommy McElroy Shades "Jit" Ford in Keen Mound Duel and Receives Perfect Support.—Winners Score Their Four Runs With Two Out in Fourth Inning

Successive hits by Harry Main, Frank Cappali and Tommy McElroy, with two out in the fourth inning, gave Providence College four runs and first blood in the two-game series with Brown University. The Bruins had tallied one run in the first half of that same inning, and since there was no more scoring in the other sessions the final reading was: Providence 4, Brown 1.

Tight fielding, heady pitching, ability to take advantage of the miscues of their opponents, a surprise bunt by Frank Cappali and timely bingles by Main and McElroy tell the story of the victory for the Dominicans—their fourth in the 10 contests played by these great rivals.

Roland ("Jit") Ford, who toed the slab for the Bruins, deserved a better fate. Although touched for five hits and three of these scratchy, he struck out seven and passed but two. Second guessers will say he made the mistake of intentionally passing Murphy in the fourth inning, with two out, to get at Main, and thereby open the gate for the flood of four runs that followed.

Aside from that one inning Ford went along even with McElroy, who held the Bears to three hits, one of which was a roller that Allen tried to field, but slipped and could not make a play. The other two were real base knocks in any man's league.

There was little of interest in the first three innings except the fact that Brown was credited with the only hit in that period. But at the start of the fourth the Hilltoppers went out and scored a run. Battering Dick Gurney opened with a neat left-field single and got to third on two infield outs before Capt. Win Schuster slapped one of McElroy's offerings to center to send the Brockton boy over the plate.

Then the blow-off. Marty Gibbons fanned for a starter, but Nap Fleurent skimmed a one-baser along the left field foul line. Herbert pounded to Howie Smith, who was subbing for "Red" Randall, and Smith erased Fleurent at second. Joe Duffy, who, incidentally, had failed to connect safely for the first time in 17 games, was safe when "Bucky" Wright tried a juggling stunt on his roller while trying to force Herbert at second. Murphy was walked to populate all the cushions, Main came through with a grass cutter close to second base. Wright made a dive for it, but missed and two runs were in.

Next came the surprise by Cappali, who dumped a bunt down the third base line. Schuster, Ford and Gurney tried for it, with Ford coming up with the ball so hurriedly there was no chance to get Cappali at first base and the third run cashed in at the plate. McElroy then put the decision in the frigidaire with a clean single to centre. Main racing to the rubber with the fourth and final marker of the pastime.

After the fourth inning neither club had much of an opportunity to score again, one Dominican reaching second and another being nabbed on an attempted steal, while two Bruins were left on first base.

There were no batting heroes yesterday unless Tom McElroy's single puts him in that class, but Marty Gibbons, Dave Friedman, Hebert and Capalli, each turned in at least one good fielding play.

The Dominicans' victory is their 15th in 17 games this season. Despite the fact that Brown errors took the edge off the Smith Hillers' ability to score runs, Providence College supporters were much elated over the success of Jack Flynn's snappy team. The Black and White outfit had more than its share of rooters in the banner crowd and they heartily approved all the efforts of the winning team.

While the playing field was soggy after the recent rain, the city rivals put on an exhibition that was certainly above par for Aldrich Field this season.

The whole story of the Providence College victory resolves itself to the fact that McElroy received perfect support while Ford was the victim of poor fielding on the part of Wright. Incidentally, the Brown shortstop, who was the "goat" of yesterday's setback, was the hero when Brown won the first game of the 1927 series, 3 to 2, by a ninth inning rally.

As far as clean-cut hits were concerned, each team got two, Nap Fleurant and McElroy for the Dominicans and Dick Gurney and Capt. Win Schuster for the Bruins. All of them came in the fourth. The other bingles of the contest were of the scratchy variety.

Duffy was the only runner to get as far as second base during the last five innings. In the sixth he was passed and reached second on a passed ball. Incidentally, Duffy went hitless for the first time this season. In his four trips to the plate, he flied out twice, reached first on Wright's error in the fourth, and got his base on balls.

After the fourth, Brown didn't hit a ground ball off McElroy's delivery. Gurney was the last Bruin to get on base at all, when he walked in the sixth. The next 12 batters to face McElroy went out in order, 11 of them lofting flies and Heffernan fanning in the eighth. McElroy's only slip from otherwise superb control was in the first, when he issued passes to McGinley and Gurney.

Ford pitched to only three batters in five of the eight innings, the Dominicans not going to bat in the ninth because it was their "home" game. He got Heck Allen, Gibbons and Murphy twice on strikes. Main was the other to whiff the breezes.

Freedman received credit for Brown's third hit. His slow roller to Allen in the third was fielded well by the Providence third baseman, but the latter slipped on the damp infield and had no chance to make a play at first. On the same scratchy type was Hebert's safety in the eighth, which Schuster came in fast on and scooped up cleanly, but could not make a put-out.

Capalli made one of the nicest stops of the game at the expense of Ford in the fourth. The Black and White shortstop was far over behind second base when he got the ball. The other fielding gems were contributed by Freedman on Capalli's fly in the sixth and by Fleurant and Hebert the Dominican fielders making seven nice catches between them.

Prov. Tribune

Coach Jean Dubuc of the Brown University nine, while a bit disappointed at the outcome of yesterday's game with Providence College, is not a whit downhearted. "We lost, but we proved we had pitching that could stop the Providence sluggers. One break went against us, and one might win for us next Saturday. As the teams performed yesterday they appeared to me to be evenly matched. Jack Flynn's boys were steadier in the field and Tommy McElroy twirled a heady, steady game."

Flynn had nothing to say. But he must have got quite a kick out of the two-out bunt play so nicely executed by Frank Cappalli in that fourth inning. I know I did, and I also got a kick at calling the play for my playmates in the press box. A few days ago, while Gene McCaan, scout for the New York Yankees, was in town he and Flynn and myself were lurching together and during the course of the gabfest Flynn said something about Johnny McGraw of the New York Giants making use of the two-out bunt. So that when the situation arose yesterday I had a hunch something was going to happen. It did. Some of the scorers in the press box gave Ford an error for his hurried throw on Capalli. But my score sheet credits Capalli with a base hit. That's my story, and I'm sticking to it. Ford had no chance to field the ball in time.

HEBERT SAFE AT FIRST BASE

Hebert, slugging centre fielder of the Dominicans, is shown sliding safely into first base in the fourth inning of the Providence College-Brown game at Aldrich Field yesterday afternoon. His grounder was taken by Howie Smith, who tossed to Wright, forcing Fleurent at second, but by fast sprinting Hebert beat the throw to first.

COMMENT and GOSSIP

by Charles B. Coppin

THERE'S no discounting the fact that a victory over a rival, be it team or individual, is a highly prized gem and that is why Providence College supporters are very much elated over the triumph scored in the first battle of the two-game series with Brown at Aldrich Field yesterday.

In spite of the setback, the Bears in general and Coach Jean Dubuc in particular are far from downcast. They entered the contest with a lot of respect for the batting prowess of the Dominicans who have been combing the slants of many clever hurlers with great abandon ever since the start of the season.

At the end of the ninth frame they voted the Smith Hill team one of the stoutest on defence they had ever encountered but were unwilling to toss any bouquets at the stickers whose batting averages were cut down many points by the elusive benders of Jit Ford. They hope nothing worse than a broken arm will put the clever Tom McElroy on the hospital list before next Saturday.

Judging from the comment of boosters for the Dominicans, the defence of the Bruins was expected to crack at a critical juncture and it did, the batting was weaker than had been anticipated and the pitching of Ford something in the nature of a revelation.

COACH Dubuc, reviewing the battle said:

"I had a hunch that the breaks of the game would turn the tide either for or against us. Providence got the break in the four-run inning, making all the tallies after the side should have been retired. That is a part of the old ball game, however, and I am not crying over spilt milk—just shedding a few crocodile tears.

"Ford pitched the kind of ball that wins a lot of games. I do not want to frame an alibi, but if his support had stood the strain Jit would undoubtedly have a shutout to his credit. I want to add also that McElroy pitched a superb game, one of the best exhibitions I have seen this season. Looks like this boy had a bright future.

"Providence is a finely coached team and it's easy to see how they piled up so many victories. Given the same kind of pitching next Saturday, I believe the victory will again hinge on the breaks. If we boot 'em we'll take a licking and if Providence falters on defence we should bore through for runs and square the series.

BARRING the round in which the Bears skidded so badly, the contest was played well and furnished the banner Monday turn-out with plenty of opportunities to wax enthusiastic. Several fine fielding feats were turned in despite the handicap of heavy footing.

It might be just as well to insert a line on the tendency of many fans to criticise harshly and in stentorian tones the shortcomings at times of college baseball players. These youngsters are not veterans of the diamond, they are not hard boiled and they receive no compensation for their services.

Some patrons may feel very badly over fumbles, muffs, wild throws and strikeouts by batsmen at critical moments, but their chagrin is not a marker to the wounds which scar these college boys' hearts.

Some day some college cheer leader may call for a few rah-rahs for the crestfallen athlete who has slipped from grace. The experiment might be well worth while at next Saturday's Brown-Providence contest.

Local College Tops Cross in Standing by One More Victory

The college baseball season will be brought to a close within the next two weeks, but despite this fact the race for the Eastern diamond honors is far from settled. Providence College holds a slight lead over the other candidates for titular honors with 15 victories against two losses.

Holy Cross stands second in the table with 14 wins and two defeats.

Although the probable winner was not produced by last week's competition, yet it did eliminate some of the possible contenders. New York University and Harvard, by losing to the New York Athletic Club and Michigan, respectively, are practically but not finally eliminated, while Villanova and St. John's, whose records are no better than that of the Violet, are also out of the race.

The 1928 championship resolves itself into a quadruple affair between Penn State. The first two mentioned Providence, Holy Cross, Fordham and have been beaten only twice, while the latter two received three setbacks. Providence and Holy Cross both have many hard games ahead, and if they drop more than two games they will revive the chances of some of the above that have been eliminated.

Many teams completed their seasons last week. In New York City College and St. John's will turn in their uniforms, while Manhattan and New York University both will complete their schedules this week. Georgetown, Army and Navy will also play ball for the last time this week.

St. John's completed its season with a record of thirteen won and four lost, which is fine for so small an institution. The Red nine wound up with a nine-game winning streak. The team was under the leadership of Coach Freeman, who not so long ago was the St. John's backstop. In addition, they produced an undefeated pitcher in Manning.

Many games this week will decide several issues. Georgetown will play Boston College, Harvard, Yale, Providence and Fordham in as many days. For Harvard, Providence and Fordham these will be crucial tests. They must defeat the Hiltoppers to maintain their positions, for it may be just this very encounter that will be enough to deny them the 1928 crown.

Fordham must defeat New York University. A Maroon defeat would enable the Violet to advance itself, but would probably have the same effect as the defeat of Georgetown. Harvard will also be tested by Brown, while Holy Cross has to get by Boston College or be passed by Providence.

DOMINICANS' LATE RALLY STOPS GEORGETOWN, 9-7

Wineapple Halts Visitors' Slugging Bee in 1st Frame

Locals, Outhit, Take Advantage of Miscues.—Graham Clears Sacks with Homer.

Game played: May 31, 1928

Driving another nail into its claim of the college baseball crown of the East, the strong Providence College nine came from behind yesterday on Hendricksen Field to wipe out a five-run lead and vanquish the crack Georgetown University outfit by a 9 to 7 score. The feat was the first sustained by the Southerners on their Northern jaunt, as Harvard and Yale fell before their attack earlier in the week, while the triumph marked the 16th victory out of 18 starts for the Dominicans.

Eddie Wineapple, clever southpaw, was the hero, taking over the mound duties in the first inning after Hal Bradley had his slants battered about the lot, with Graham, husky Georgetown first baseman, sending him to the showers with a terrific home run clout over the right field fence. Wineapple held the upper hand for the remainder of the game, being nicked for only four hits and two runs, and fanning seven. In addition, he collected two hits.

Trailing by two runs, the Dominicans uncorked a seventh inning rally, with Joe Duffy, veteran first baseman, leading the attack, which netted four runs and clinched the decision. Wineapple opened with a hard liner and went to second on a passed ball, but was caught between the keystone sack and third when Allen hit to O'Neill. Gibbons singled to left and in his haste to field the ball Duplin of Georgetown let it roll through his legs, Allen going to third and Gibbons to second. Fleurent walked to fill the bases.

Hebert, cleanup batter, hit a hard bouncer which Holmes pulled down too late to make a forceout at the plate, Allen scoring. Duffy came through with a single to left to send the tying and winning runs across the plate. Hebert tallied the final marker on Holmes's second wild pitch.

No less than 17 walks were issued, the Georgetown twirlers issuing 10 and the local boxmen contributing the remainder. Three batters were hit, both catchers had passed balls to their discredit, and Holmes, visiting hurler, added two wild pitches to increase his troubles.

The wildness of the Georgetown heavers, coupled with some heads-up baseball on the part of the Flynn-coached team, enabled the latter to chalk up four runs without a hit.

With Frank Cappalli out of the lineup because of an injury, the shortstop assignment went to Chick Bleiler, who came through with flying colors.

Georgetown started to smatter Bradley's offerings about the lot in the opening stanza. Bleiler made a fine stop in deep short of McCarthy's grounder too late to make a play at first. Glenn walked and Dunn dropped a Texas leaguer in centre field to fill the sacks.

Bleiler raced in back of second to make a fine stop of O'Neill's grass cutter and almost forced out Glenn at second. McCarthy scored on the play. Then Graham hit one of the longest drives ever seen on Hendricksen Field when he lifted one over the right field fence, to clear the bases and give his team a five run start.

Wineapple was rushed to the breach and retired the side without trouble. In the fourth he walked Donovan and Glenn, the former scoring on Dunn's double along the right field foul line. In the sixth Dunn reached first while Glenn was being forced out at second, and scored when O'Neill crashed into Duffy, as he was catching a throw from Allen, causing him to drop the ball.

The Dominicans took advantage of the wildness of Edmonston, who did not last the first round, and Holmes, who finished the tilt.

Holmes started to dig his own grave in the third when he issued free tickets to Fleurent and Hebert, the first men to face him. Duffy forced Hebert at second, but Fleurent moved up to third. While the infield stopped to encourage Pitcher Holmes, Duffy plfered second, and then Dunn added to the Dominican cause when he booted Harraghy's grounder, allowing Fleurent to score. Duffy brought in the third run while Main was being thrown out at first.

Tomorrow afternoon the Smith Hillers will move across the city to Aldrich Field for their second clash with Jean Dubuc's Brown aggregation. Tom McElroy, hero of the first tilt, will again be on the firing line for the Dominicans, and Frank Cappall, aggressive shortstop, will probably return to his regular assignment.

BRUINS UPSET DOMINICANS WITH 5-RUN RALLY, 5-4

Tide Changes When McElroy Weakens in Eighth Inning

Ford Holds Smith Hillers in Check After 4-Run Spurt in Second.

Game played: June 2, 1928

A rip-roaring five-run rally in the eighth inning overcame a commanding four-run lead and gave Brown University a much-cherished 5 to 4 victory over Providence College in the second game between the intricacy rivals before a capacity crowd of 6000 persons on Aldrich Field yesterday afternoon. By coming through with this garrison finish, the Bruins upset all advance calculations and gained for themselves an even split in the annual series.

The Dominicans apparently were on the road to a certain victory, and Tom McElroy, their clever pitcher, on the way to greater fame, when the whole complexion of the contest suddenly changed in the eighth inning. A Brown team, which had not won a game in four weeks, came to life and went on a rampage. When the excitement quieted down, it had crashed through the Black and White nine with surprising success.

It was a great game. Full of tension and excitement, a more thrilling contest has not been seen on Aldrich Field this season. It was well played and clean cut throughout. The Bruins played fighting baseball for the first time in many moons. They left their own supporters gasping for words—the rival rooters somewhat dumbfounded by their achievement.

Providence College scored its four runs in the second inning. That total looked unsurmountable when it went up on the scoreboard. The game continued for 7½ innings, during which the Dominicans failed to add any more profits and McElroy kept the Brown batters well under control.

The Smith Hill twirler had allowed only six scattered hits up to this stage. He received brilliant support in the field. He was progressing quite charmingly. But then came the sudden explosion. Bob McGinley, lead-off batter in the eighth, hammered his second double of the day to deep centre.

The wallop had its effect on McElroy because he next hit Capt. Win Schuster. Dave Freedman entered into the spirit of the occasion for Brown by beating out an infield hit to fill the bases. Up came Dick Gurney, Bruin catcher, who had clouted a triple on his last trip to the plate. He had a long session up there, but finally hit safely to left, scoring McGinley with Brown's first run.

That was the end for McElroy. With none out, the bases full and the tying run on first base, Eddie Wineapple, the Dominican twirler who only Thursday had done a great rescue job against Georgetown, entered the picture. He had his troubles getting his bearings and passed Jack Heffernan, the first one to face him, forcing in another tally.

The sacks were still loaded when Roy Randall strolled up to the plate. The spirited red-head, virtually carrying the real spark in the Bruin cause throughout the afternoon, looked over a couple of Wineapple offerings and then dropped a "hump-back" double into short right field. The hit scored both Schuster and Freedman and evened the score at 4-all.

Bucky Wright, the "goat" of the first game between the same teams Monday, lofted a long fly to Hebert in centre. Heffernan, who was on third, trotted home with the deciding run while Randall, who was on second, tried to make third. The Brockton red-head was thrown out, but the big tally had crossed the plate and the damage was done.

McElroy was first touched freely to start the rally but in the record-books, Wineapple goes down as the losing pitcher. In another few minutes, the Dominicans took their last turn at the bat, went out in order, and the game was over.

In many ways the Smith Hillers' rally in the second inning, which had given them their early lead, was similar to the still bigger one produced by the Bruins. They knocked George Rawlings, Brown's starting pitcher, out of the box with three successive singles and continued their assault of Roland Ford before the latter steadied down.

Hebert, Duffy and Murphy hit in order to start the second. Hebert scored and Duffy went to third on Murphy's single. Subsequently Rawlings went to the showers and Ford went to the mound. The latter passed Main to fill the bases and Cappall greeted him with a single to left, which drove in both Murphy and Duffy. After McElroy advanced Main and Cappall on a sacrifice, Ford uncorked a wild pitch and Main came home with Providence's fourth run.

Consequently, both rallies were featured by clean-cut hitting. Both saw the opposing pitcher withdraw in the middle of the assaults with none out and the bases crowded. In neither case did an error detract from the earnings of the scoring team.

In naming heroes of Brown's success, it is no easy task. It was virtually a team victory. Yet, quite a story is attached to the achievements of Jit Ford, who gets the credit of the victory. Ford was slated to start the game but it happened that he had to take a final examination yesterday afternoon. He was detained on the campus through these academic duties so that he was unable to get to Aldrich Field in time for the game.

That is why the Bruins began the game without him. As soon as he arrived, he went to the bull-pen to warm up but when he was called upon to enter the game as soon as Rawlings weakened in the second, he was not yet ready. Consequently, he got away to a bad start. Nevertheless, from the middle of the third until the end, he was complete master. During the last six innings, he yielded but two scattered hits.

So important and outstanding were the respective rallies in the second and eighth that the rest of the game is overshadowed, yet it should not be. Until the Bruins broke loose, it looked as though a sensational unassisted double play by Joe Duffy in the sixth was going to be an all-important factor in the outcome. The play was one of the brightest features of the day.

Captain Schuster opened the sixth with a single and then Freedman hammered a liner over first. Just as it appeared to be a labelled two-bagger, Duffy went high in the air and grabbed the drive one-handed. He came down almost landing on first base to double up Schuster. Since Gurney, the next batter, hit a triple to centre, Duffy's catch had considerable bearing on affairs.

Brown did not really threaten in any other inning. In the first, McGinley drove the first pitched ball to centre for a double, but trying to stretch it into a triple, he was nipped at third, Hebert to Allen. In the fourth, Hebert made a spectacular running catch over his head on Heffernan to save McElroy trouble.

The Dominicans came back strong in the third following their four-run rally but after Hebert and Duffy opened up with singles and were sacrificed along by Murphy, Ford put a stop to their actions. During the last six innings only 19 batters, one more than the minimum number faced Ford.

Captain Win Schuster played great ball in the closing stages, accepting seven chances perfectly. Wright and Randall also turned in banner performances scooping up everything that came their way without a slip and Dick Gurney culminated a busy afternoon by cutting down three Dominicans at second on attempted steals. For once, Brown's errors were of no consequence.

Despite the setback, the Dominicans looked the part of being the greatest team in Providence College history. They were wide awake at all times. They played errorless ball with Hebert, Duffy and Allen, the latter on a foul fly against the stands, turning in the fielding features. Gibbons, Hebert and Duffy got two hits apiece.

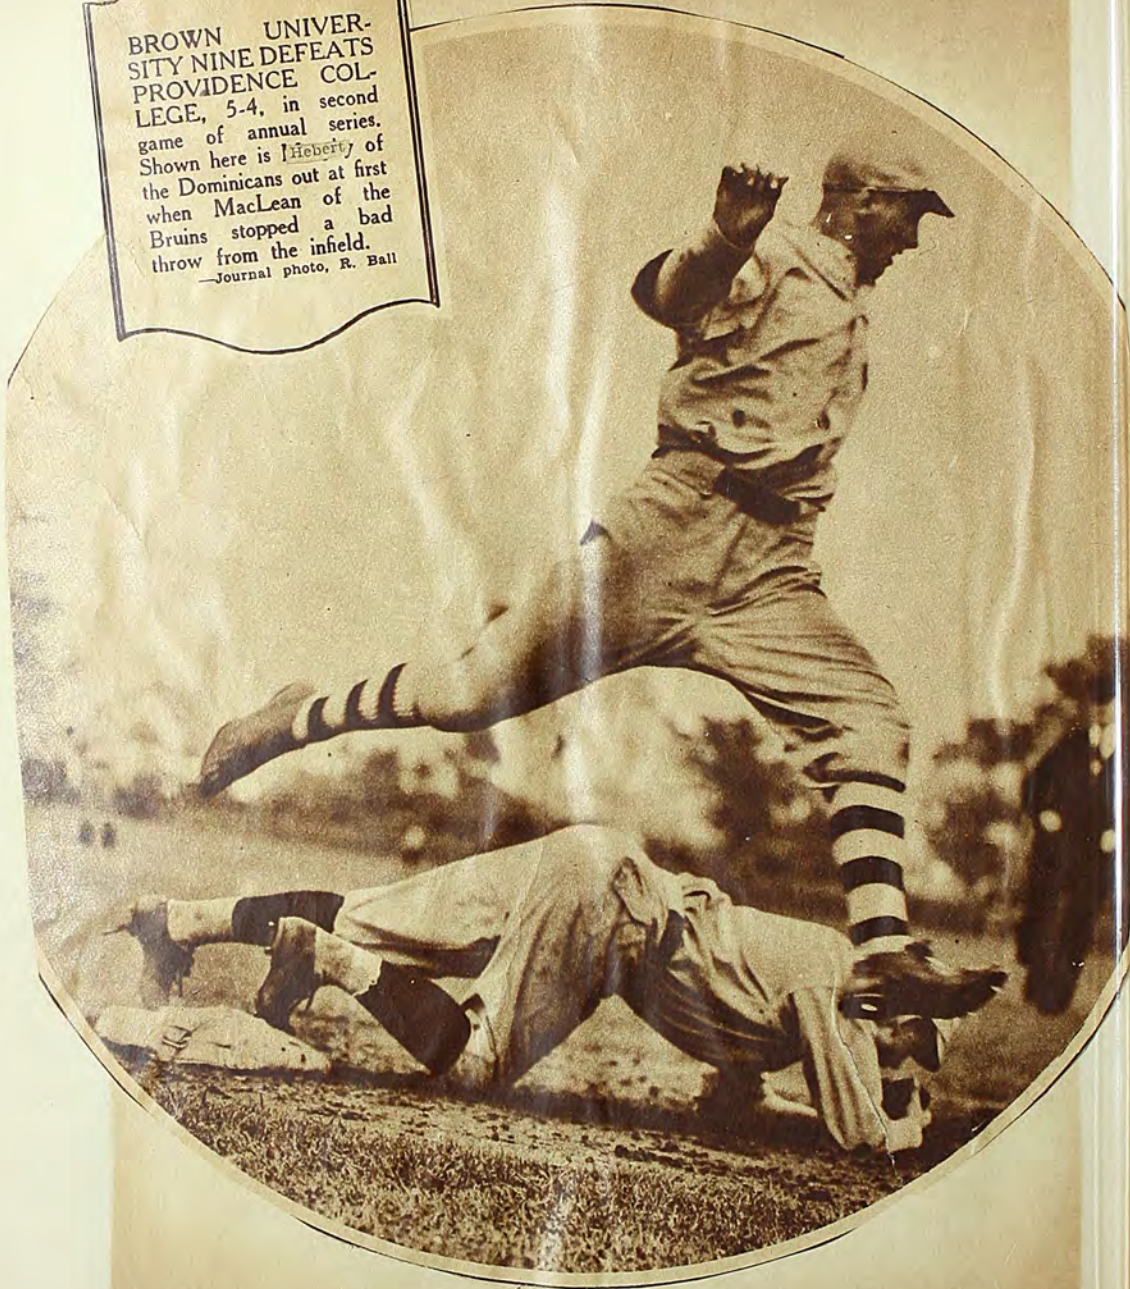

Just as it was in the eighth-inning rally, so it was for the whole game that McGinley, Gurney and Randall were the hitting heroes. They collected all the extra base wallops, each getting two hits apiece, along with Bob MacLean. Brown outhit the Dominicans, 10 to 8, and had one more runner left on the bases six to five being the count.

DOMINICANS FACE TWO TOUGH TEAMS

Villanova and Dartmouth Will Give Flynn Machine Severe Test This Week.

(Special to the Providence Journal)
The Providence College nine faces its hardest tests of the current season this week, when it faces Villanova College here on Wednesday, and Dartmouth on Friday. Both games assume major importance on the Dominicans' list, as they are the forerunners to a difficult schedule with strong nines which will culminate with the Notre Dame contest here in June.

Henzil, brilliant southpaw hurler, who has lost but one game this spring, a hard-fought affair with Fordham at the start of the season, will be on the pitching peak against the Dominicans Wednesday.

Pitted against Henzil will be Tom McElroy, star right-hander with the Capitol Hill outfit, who has four wins this season and at present is the fourth leading pitcher in Eastern college ranks. McElroy has shown steady improvement under the tutelage of Coach Flynn, and promises to be one of the best slabsters ever to wear the Black and White spangles.

With eight of his regulars hitting above the .300 mark the local mentor is not worrying about his offensive for the coming frays, but will be concerned over the ability of his mound staff to keep the Dominican machine at the top.

Following the Villanova invasion comes the Dartmouth game on Friday. The Big Green was carded to entertain the Dominicans at Hanover the first of May, but inclement weather caused the cancellation of that game, with the result that this week's tilt will be the only one to be staged between the two colleges. In view of the fact that Dartmouth toppled Brown, and has routed other strong aggregations, the game with the Smith Hillers will be watched with interest. Capt. Leo Smith, husky southpaw, is the logical man for this mound assignment.

Brown Would Play Dominicans Again

Following the Providence College-Brown game which left an even split in the series yesterday afternoon, Dr. Fred W. Marvel, Coach Jean Dubuc, and all members of the Brown team expressed willingness to play a third and deciding game, if arrangements can be made with the Dominicans. The Bruins could play any time this week, since they have no other contest scheduled until they meet Holy Cross here a week from Wednesday.

DOMINICANS MAY PLAY BROWN AGAIN

Managements Consider "Rubber" Game to Decide City College Title.

Brown and Providence College may meet in baseball again this week if reported arrangements can be successfully completed today between the managements of the two colleges. The Bruins have expressed their desire to take on the Dominicans in a "rubber" tilt for the city championship in view of the 5 to 4 triumph that they registered last Saturday. Providence College won the first game of the series by a 4 to 1 score last Monday.

While the Brown nine has no game listed for this week, and in fact will be idle until June 13 when Holy Cross comes here, the Dominicans, on the other hand will face one of the highest barriers in their battle for the collegiate title. Boston College is slated to come here Wednesday and the locals hope to obtain revenge for the 3 to 1 defeat that was tacked on them in Boston. The Yale nine, with a long string of victories, will be opposed in New Haven on Saturday.

In view of this fact the Smith Hillers will be undertaking a tremendous task if they endeavor to work in a game with the Bruins, especially because of the intense rivalry that such a game will promote. However, it is understood that Graduate Manager Farrell of the Dominicans is willing to play a third game on Friday afternoon, if satisfactory arrangements can be made. Whether Coach Flynn will be willing to consider such a plan, in view of the fact that he is anxious to turn back the Eagles and Yale, could not be learned last night.

Should such a plan become a reality it would mark the first time since the inauguration of athletics between the two colleges five years ago that three games have been scheduled in one season. Much dissatisfaction has been expressed in previous years over the fact that the colleges split even in their series, with the exception of last spring, and it has long been felt that a third game should be played.

If such negotiations are made, it probably would mean that the two teams will play another twilight affair, similar to the first game a week ago today. No doubt, the contest would start at 4 o'clock or 4:30. The reason is that Brown is in the midst of its final examinations this week and its athletes could not get to the field until around 4 o'clock.

Until word is received today regarding a third game, Brown's plans this week will not be decided. In any event they will not be able to give their usual amount of attention to baseball during the next few days because of the examinations.

DOMINICAN-BROWN CONTEST MONDAY

College Rivals Agree to Play
Off "Rubber" Game at Aldrich Field Next Week.

BY FRED KNIGHT

Brown University and Providence College will play a third and deciding game for the intracity baseball championship Monday afternoon at 4.30 on Aldrich Field. Final agreement on a "rubber" contest was reached last night by Dr. Fred W. Marvel, Brown's director of athletics, and Graduate Manager John E. Farrell of Providence College.

It was after giving the proposition much consideration yesterday that Dr. Marvel and Manager Farrell decided that for the interests of both teams it would be better to wait until next week. The fact that Brown is in the midst of final examinations and that the Dominicans already have two important games scheduled during the next four days, caused the officials to give up the idea of playing Friday.

Such a decision to have a third game sets a new precedent in athletic relations between the local colleges. Previously no attempt of scheduling a "rubber" contest was successful when the teams split even. That was the case in 1924, 1925 and 1926, the games being divided each of those years. Only once has either team made a clean sweep of the series, that being last year when Haskell Billings performed the feat of pitching Brown to two successive victories.

The coming contest is expected to attract the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game at Aldrich Field. Providence College won the first game a week ago Monday, 4 to 1, but Brown pulled a surprising upset last Saturday by winning the second contest, 5 to 4. Consequently, everything is at stake in the third game. Both sides welcome the opportunity to play again.

It will mark the 12th meeting between the city rivals. Thus far, the Bruins have won seven of the 11 contests.

COMMENT and GOSSIP by Charles B. Coppen

PROPOSERS of a third and deciding battle between Brown and Providence College for the college baseball championship of the city have had their wishes granted and next Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the rival arrays will wheel into action at Aldrich Field.

Announcement of the arrangements for the combat come as a very welcome tid-bit of news to the thousands who crowded the stand on the occasion of the second contest, the high spot of which was the slashing eighth round rally of the Bears who came from nowhere to square the series. That engagement incidentally produced enough thrills to satisfy the appetite of the most fastidious fan in these plantations.

Coach Dubuc stated yesterday before he learned the game was to be held that if a play-off was arranged he was confident his charges would emerge on the long end of the score. He has maintained ever since the first test of strength that his team is a greater combination than the Dominicans in every department except fielding.

"I am convinced that Ford can win from the Smith Hill lads every time he starts against them," stated Dubuc, "and he'll be in there bending his slants if Dr. Marvel puts his o. k. on the game."

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE'S sturdy outfit journeyed across the city far from discouraged over the totally unexpected garrison finish on the part of the Bruins. Every man will leap to the attack Monday afternoon with just as much confidence as was so much in evidence throughout the opening battle.

Two rugged barriers, the Boston College and Yale teams, will engage the attention of the Dominicans before the next drive against Brown, the contests being scheduled for this afternoon and Saturday, respectively. In all probability the burly Wineapple, who is a better pitcher than his work in the relief role against the Bears indicated, will be Coach Flynn's selection for the mound this afternoon. He performed finely in the first tilt with the Eagles in spite of the 3-1 defeat charged against him.

Boston's high-powered club will be in charge of Hughie Duffy, former owner-manager of the Providence Grays and one of the most skillful coaches in the collegiate realm. The Dominicans will find Yale just as tough a proposition as the Boston team and an even split will be a praiseworthy performance.

Eastern College Nines Now Led By Holy Cross

Purple Has Won 16 and Lost 2; Fordham Holds Highest Ranking in N. Y.

For the first time since the 1928 season got under way, about two months ago, Holy Cross assumed the lead for the Eastern College baseball championship, breaking the tie for first place with Providence College, who now rests in second position. The Purple nine defeated Boston College and Harvard last week to give it a record of sixteen victories in eighteen starts, which is one game better than the record of the Dominicans. A defeat at the hands of Brown cost Providence the top rung. The Quantic Marines, who completed their season two weeks ago, are undefeated but are not eligible for the Eastern title.

Very few changes took place in the pitching standings. Garrett, of Rutgers, and Manning, of St. John's, lead the long string of college pitchers with six long triumphs and no defeats, although Kidd, of the Marines, is credited with nine straight. To date there are twenty-seven undefeated twirlers in all, nine of whom scored once, while nine others won two mound starts. The remaining nine either won three times or more.

Hensil, of Villanova, assumed the leadership in the defeated pitchers group. Manfredi, of N. Y. U., was at the head of this batch, by far the greater part of the standing, but lost his position when he was shelled out of the box in the New York University-Fordham game last Wednesday. Right behind Hensil comes Fons, of Holy Cross, and Murphy, of Fordham, with seven victories and one setback. Barbee, and Van Atta, are next in line and are followed by McElroy, of Providence; Beauchamp, of the Army; Breckinridge, of Dartmouth; Zancosky, of Temple;

Stribling, of the Army, and Nichols, of Amherst.

Moriarty, of Vermont, is a new addition to the list this week. Moriarty is credited with eight victories in ten starts which is good pitching in any league. Manfredi has a slightly better record than he with nine wins and two losses.

For the first time this year a week of competition failed to take its toll of undefeated pitchers. The twenty-six pitchers who were on the list last week are augmented by Miller, of Yale.

Fordham and New York University are the farthest down the list this week. Fordham and New York University are further down the list this week than they ever have been before this season. Fordham, with four defeats, is practically out of the race and it has the Kelo University nine to thank for it. Even though they do take the final game of the year with Columbia their situation will probably not be altered. New York University, with five defeats, is through for the year and cannot possibly hope to do any better than maintain its present position.

The Army also completed its season with a record of ten victories in thirteen starts but two of its defeats came from the Yankees and Giants which reduces their losses to one. That is a mighty fine record and should either Holy Cross, Providence, Penn State or Temple trip once or twice again the Cadets would be deserving of some consideration for the title. Temple is also not to be overlooked. The Philadelphians have almost completed their season with only three defeats.

To Yale must go any honors that are given for a fine finish. The Ells started off miserably, handicapping themselves with a big string of defeats. In the last three weeks they dropped but two games while they picked up about eight so that they now are way up in the tanding. The New Haven nine has at least four more games to play and should they take them all will climb a few more notches.

Providence has Boston College, Yale and Notre Dame to overcome in its remaining games; Holy Cross has two more contests with Boston College, while Penn State closes its season against Bucknell to-day. These games will go a long way in deciding who is deserving of the championship.

Providence College Batters
Three Yale Pitchers to Win
Season's 17th Victory.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
New Haven, Conn., June 9.—For the second successive year the Providence College nine registered a triumph over the Yale outfit when the crack Dominican machine collected its 17th victory of the season here today by a 3 to 2 score. Last spring the Rhode Islanders won here by a 4 to 3 count.

Eddie Wineapple, husky southpaw, was the hero of today's contest for the Dominicans, although he was rather wild at times and give himself more trouble than necessary by his freedom with tickets to first. In addition to his brilliant box work, Wineapple led the attack with two hits, one a triple into deep centre to pave the way for the first Providence marker.

Johnny Krieger, red-headed Paterson youngster, shared the spotlight with Wineapple, taking over the right field assignment in the fourth, after Fleurent had turned in a miserable exhibition. Krieger contributed a timely blow in the sixth to finish a rally that was started by Wineapple's three-base hit.

The Dominicans failed to flash their usual strong defence, and it was this factor which enabled the Eli team to make the game so close. Cappalli, at short, had a poor day, being guilty of two miscues. An injured ankle hampered his work.

Coach Joe Wood of the locals used three twirlers in an effort to turn back the invaders and break their fine record. Smith showed to advantage for the first few rounds, but when it was apparent he would be unable to hold out, Sawyer was rushed to the slab. The latter was nicked for a run in the sixth, and as a result Loud made his appearance on the hillock for the remainder of the fray.

Yale collected a cheap marker in the third after two were out. Garvey was safe on a fielder's choice, while Grove was being tossed out at second. Then Caldwell, Ashton lad, hoisted a high riser to Fleurent, who got under the ball and apparently had it, only to muff it completely. Garvey, starting from first with the crack of the bat, ambled across the plate.

Wineapple started the Dominican offence in the sixth, when he opened with a tremendous clout between centre and right and raced all the way to third before the ball was relayed back. Allen hoisted a riser to short left, and the Dominican hurler was forced to hold his base. Gibbons fanned and Krieger, batting for Fleurent, came through with a sharp single to centre to send in the first run.

In the seventh the invaders clinched the decision with a brace of markers. With one away, Harraghy singled to left, and Main was safe a moment later on an infield error. Cappalli bunted to Loud and Harraghy was forced at third. Wineapple contributed a single to centre to score Main. Heck Allen chipped in with a single to left, and Murphy, running for Cappalli, raced across the plate with the winning counter.

Garvey's triple in the seventh, followed by Vaughan's single, gave Yale her second run, but in the final two frames no Eli runner was able to get past second base.

Holy Cross Nine Maintains Lead Among Colleges

Villanova Ties Providence for Second Place; Gar- rett, Rutgers Top Pitchers

In the race for the Eastern college honors, Holy Cross maintains its leading position last week by trouncing Boston College in the second game of their three-game series. Providence College kept in the running by defeating Yale but was tied by Villanova for second place.

Bert Garrett, the righthander from Rutgers, about clinched the pitching honors for the 1928 season when he scored two victories during the past week. Saturday's contest closed the 1928 campaign for Rutgers; Garrett cannot be defeated this year.

Villanova, hitherto was charged with four defeats, but this has been revised so that the setback suffered at the hands of Wilkes-Barre, a semi-pro team, is left out of the reckoning. The Army also has only one defeat against it as the defeats by the Giants and Yankees have been discarded. In the case of Yale, the two defeats at the hands of the New Haven nine also have been omitted.

Beauchamp Undefeated

Villanova and Army are both through for the season and they have their two aces standing high in the list of pitchers. Johnny Hensil, of Villanova, is credited with 9 victories and 1 defeat. Beauchamp, of the Army, in college competition, is undefeated this year. The only defeat chalked against him was in the game with the Giants. Villanova also has an undefeated twirler in Crane, but he only made two starts.

Fourteen of the thirty-one teams listed in the standings completed their season last Saturday or at some time preceding it. These include all of the metropolitan teams, the Army and the Navy, Georgetown, Rutgers, Springfield, Lafayette, Colgate, Syracuse, Quantico Marines, Penn State, Villanova and others.

Seven others will conclude their schedules this week. Holy Cross and Boston College are two of them. The Holy Cross nine was scheduled to play three times, meeting Boston College in the third game of their series, Brown and William and Mary.

Play for Cup Friday

Pennsylvania will play Cornell on Friday in the contest that will decide the Quadrangular Cup championship. The contest also will conclude the Quakers' 1928 season. Providence also winds up this week, playing Notre Dame, its alumni, along with the Brown game it was scheduled to play yesterday. Temple and Amherst are also carded to conclude their play this week.

On June 18 Cornell, Dartmouth, Wesleyan and Brown will wind up, leaving Yale, Princeton and Harvard to finish the college season.

SOUTHPAW STAR OF DOMINICANS IS BRILLIANT

Providence College put a new kink in the Bulldog's tail yesterday afternoon at Yale Field where Jack Flynn's earnest and energetic charges lambasted the Yale team by a 3 to 2 count in an exhibition of complete superiority which failed to find its true place in the box score. For a time it looked as if the Dominicans were due to taste their fourth defeat of the year, but their own rugged bats removed that possibility midway through the interesting encounter.

Yale didn't care particularly about winning the game. That much was plainly apparent by the way Coach Joe Wood shifted his pitchers. He gave all three of his regulars a chance to feel the fire of alien artillery and it was due largely to this shifting of hurlers that the Bulldogs lost their margin. Dud Smith, who started the game for Yale, was effective at all stages and the Dominicans could produce no better than one hit, a double by Herbert, and no runs from his four innings of toil. He was hit hard in the second inning, but had the good fortune of having the enemy drives directed straight at some points of home defense which proved to be weak. The second was the only inning in which he seemed in difficulty.

When he was removed from action at the end of the fourth inning, the somewhat baffled proteges of the former Prof manager took heart. They greeted Jeff Sawyer with the tying run in the sixth inning when southpaw Ed Wineapple cracked a tremendous triple which led directly to the knotted count. Then, in the next frame, with Bewster Loud pitching, the lads from the smallest state in the Union became real friendly and scorched across a couple more tallies with the apparently able pitcher and pitcher. Ed Wineapple was producing the blow which tallied the first run of the two scored in the game. The contest had quite a Wineapple's finger. The ball struck his hand who had just only struck the ball. Season's best quite a bit. The performance and hit the ball as if he meant it at the same time. He struck out the first time at bat, but that was only a decoy as later events proved.

Wineapple won his victory because he showed all the traits of a real southpaw. In just nine of the nine innings, rampant Yale runners were on the paths waiting and almost praying for safe hits to drive them home. But, except for one occasion in the seventh inning, they couldn't do a thing with the tricky southpaw with the tricky delivery and 13 stranded runners tell the vivid tale of Wineapple's effectiveness in the pinches.

He never should have been forced to such a close contest for the first Yale run in the third inning, was a gift, pure and simple which came when Fleurent dropped Bruce Caldwell's pop fly in short right field. As Johnny Garvey was on second base and two were out at the time, the

 Time of game—4:30 p. m.

The collegiate baseball championship of the city is at stake on Aldrich Field this afternoon. Brown University and Providence College, each boasting of one victory over the other, meet in the third and deciding game of their annual series. From the point of view of both teams, it is the "battle of battles" for the 1928 season.

Given fair weather, the game should attract the largest crowd that ever saw either nine in action. It will not start until 4:30, and, consequently, hundreds will be afforded the opportunity to witness the "killing" who could not have had it been scheduled for mid-afternoon.

Two out-of-town umpires, Dan Kelliher and Gus Cardella, will handle the crucial game. Not at all satisfying to each side was the work of the arbiters in the first two contests, and, accordingly, two new men of high reputations have been selected for today's assignments.

Fresh from an impressive 3 to 2 victory over Yale Saturday, the Dominicans enter the contest as the slight favorite. Yet, the surprising achievement of the Bruins in the second game in scoring five runs in the eighth inning once more furnished evidences that anything can be expected when the two local teams meet. In other words, there is no such thing as "doping" out the winner.

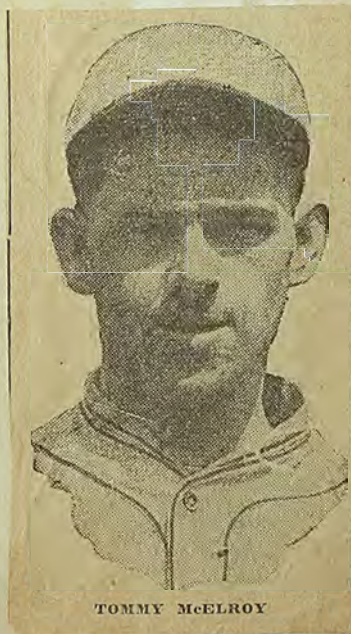

The same two pitchers, Roland "Jit" Ford for Brown and Tom McElroy for Providence College, are booked to oppose each other for the third time. McElroy restricted the Bruins to three hits to win the opening contest, 4 to 1, two weeks ago today, but Ford was the commanding genius in the second engagement which Brown captured, 5 to 4, a week ago Saturday. Because of this background to the series, indications point for another pitchers' duel today. Both moundsmen are ready for the big assignment. Neither has had any work since the last contest.

It will be the first game for Brown since they left the field after their 5 to 4 triumph. Last week, the Dubuc team remained idle because of final examinations which, incidentally, do not get over until late this afternoon. That is one reason why the contest is listed at 4:30.

Nevertheless, the Bruins consider themselves right on edge. That is despite the fact that both Captain Win-

Schuster and Bob McGinley, two regulars, have been on the injured list over the weekend. Schuster was spiked in practice Friday, while McGinley was hit by an automobile as he ran out of the Brown library the same day. Both carry the affects of their accidents, but Coach Dubuc said last night that he expected both men to take over their regular positions this afternoon.

The Dominicans, likewise, are steamed up with confidence, especially after turning back Yale at New Haven. Not yet are the Smith Hillers convinced that they were beaten in the second game. It was all a mystery—that eighth inning—and they are prepared to discount Brown's success today. Their season's record now boasts of 17 victories in 20 games.

TOMMY McELROY

DOMINICANS DOWN

BRUINS IN THIRD

GAME, 4-1

Ford's Wildness Big Factor in Victory of Flynnmen

McElroy Hurls Steadily Behind
Fine Fielding. — Cappalli
Leads Winners' Attack.

Providence College's inspired, aggressive and alert baseball team added the collegiate championship of the city to its already numerous laurels this season when it defeated Brown University, 4 to 1, in the third and deciding game of the sixth annual series before a crowd of 5000 on Aldrich Field late yesterday afternoon.

The Dominicans took the verdict largely through their ability to capitalize Roland Ford's wildness in the early innings. They played a "waiting game"—that is, they waited for bases on balls. Those they got in abundance. The Bruin twirler issued nine passes in the first four frames and five of them figured conspicuously in the Smith Hillers' scoring episodes.

Three walks and hits by Frank Cappalli and Marty Gibbons produced three Providence College runs in the second. Two more free tickets by Ford and another single by Cappalli added a fourth tally in the third. Brilliant support behind the steady pitching of Tom McElroy, made that total quite sufficient to carry off the victory.

In brief, the Dominicans made the best of their opportunities. They had their openings in the second and third and they took full advantage of them. They were out-hit, 8 to 6, by the Bruins, but there was nothing questionable about their success. The victory was their 18th in 21 games this season.

While McElroy had all kinds of control and was steady throughout, it was virtually the work of the entire team that brought about the eventual outcome. Some clever bits of fielding in the fifth and sixth innings were all-important factors in McElroy's achievement of taming the Bruins. Five of Brown's eight hits came in those two frames, yet only one run trickled across the plate.

One of the most vital plays in the game was the double killing, chiefly executed by Heck Allen, the Dominicans' star third baseman, in the sixth. With one out and Dick Gurney and Jack Heffernan on second and first, respectively, as the result of successive singles, Allen knocked down a Bucky Wright liner which enabled him to force out both Gurney and Heffernan and nip in the bud a likely looking Brown rally.

That play could well be termed the climax of the game, for thereafter the Bruins did not threaten.

Ford had no one to blame but himself for the setback. His team-mates played errorless ball and Capt. Win Schuster was a "young sensation" around third base. Eventually the Brown hurler hit his old stride but without any eighth-inning rally like the one in the second game of the series, the damage was done. Providence College had fulfilled its objective.

Ford started in handing out "gifts" in the first inning when he walked both Nap Fleurent and Frank Hebert after two were out, but it was not until the next session that the Dominicans got any profits out of these free tickets. Chuck Murphy groused out to Wright to open the frame and then Harry Main waited for a pass.

Cappalli, who by the way took the individual hitting honors of the game with three singles in four trips to the plate, followed with an infield safety. His drive was to the right of the box and although Ford knocked it down no play could be made. Next, McElroy walked, filling the bases. Like Main, McElroy had two strikes called upon him, but he merely "waited" for a free ticket.

Nip-and-Tuck Plays at Aldrich Field

Two of the Closest Plays During the Dominicans' Victory Over Brown Yesterday at Aldrich Field. At Left, Gurney, Brown Catcher, is Seen Facing To First on His Tap to Allen in the Eighth Inning. Allen's Low Throw Pulled Duffy Off the Bag, but the Picture Apparently Shows Him Touching the Bag Before Gurney Arrived. The Runner Was Ruled Safe. In the Inset, Allen, Providence Third Baseman, is Overrunning Third Base in the Second Inning Following Gibbons's Single that Glanced Off Ford's Shins and Into Right Field. Schuster is Just About to Apply the Ball to Allen, Although Many Were of the Opinion That Allen Regained the Bag Safely. Ford, Brown Pitcher, is Receiving the Play.

Unable to check his epidemic of wildness, Ford passed Allen and forced in Main with the first Dominican run. Immediately after, Gibbons drove a liner to the box which glanced off the Bruin's shins into right field. It went for a single and both Cappalli and McElroy trotted home. Allen, by the way, was thrown out at third base, McGinley to Schuster, when he overran the base. The inning ended by Fleurent grounding to Schuster.

In the third Heber, popped to Wright and Duffy was thrown out by Schuster before the "walking act" started all over again. Murphy and Main were the recipients of the bases on balls and then Cappalli contributed a clean bingle to centre, driving in Murphy with the fourth and last Dominican run.

In some respects the fourth was similar to the innings which preceded it. That is, Ford gave two more free tickets. Allen walked and was sacrificed to second by Gibbons. Fleurent was thrown out by Schuster, and then Hebert drew a pass. Both advanced on Ford's wild pitch, but no runs came across by the mere fact that the Brown hurler fanned Joe Duffy to retire the side.

In the meantime, Brown didn't make much of an impression with the stick. The Bruins got two runners on the bases in each the third and the fourth, but it was not until the fifth that they caused McElroy any real trouble. Then, Ford, MacLean and McGinley singled in order. The former brought in Brown's only tally on McGinley's hit to left. MacLean was caught at third, Gibbons to McElroy to Allen, on the return, and when Schuster fouled out and Freedman grounded to McElroy, the frame was over.

Like the fifth, the sixth opened up "threatening" for Brown. In rapid succession, Gurney and Heffernan binged to right and centre, respectively. Red Randall tried to advance the pair on a bunt—or something of that sort—but he didn't succeed. His attempt was a pop into McElroy's glove, the latter, incidentally, being right on his toes for the play.

Then came the vital double play of which Allen was the important factor. Wright drove a scorcher at the Dominican third baseman. Apparently he had the ball right in his glove but it was too hot. It caromed off across the base line. But he had both Gurney and Heffernan trapped just the same. They started back to their original bases when they thought he caught the ball and then, before they found out he hadn't, Allen had retrieved it, tagged third to force Gurney and tossed to Main to get Heffernan with yards to spare.

McGinley got his second hit of the game in the seventh, but McElroy tightened up for the remainder of the contest and nothing more happened. Providence College didn't need any more runs—they had enough—but just the same, Ford finished strong.

Capt. Schuster's fielding was remarkable. In the third and the fifth, he made the third put out by pulling off "big league" stops on McElroy and Cappalli, respectively. Incidentally, just before Cappalli grounded out to Schuster, he hoisted the longest hit of the day to left field. He got all the way to third base for what was believed to be a "triple," only to have the umpire inform him that it was foul by a few feet.

Both Gibbons and Hebert experienced one of the busiest afternoons they have had this season. Each hauled down five Bruin flies. This, by the way, indicates that the Bruins were hitting the ball yesterday, and also that great support was one of the main reasons why Mr. McElroy of Olneyville became the hero of the 1923 Brown-Providence College series.

COMMENT and GOSSIP

by Charles B. Coppen

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE nailed a city baseball championship banner to the flagpole as the shades of night were falling last evening. Brown tied a bit of black crepe to the wildest baseball Jit Ford handled in the early rounds of the final and deciding battle of the three-game series and chucked it into the den where ol' Bruho goes quite often after diamond frays to meditate on what might have been—if, and, and but.

The Dominicans as a nine-man combination demonstrated their superiority over the Bears. They made their breaks by waiting patiently for free rides to first base and capitalized them in a scoring way by timely stick-work. Gibbons's ripping single to right in the second frame was enough to win the contest. Cappalli smashed out a single at an opportune moment and lifted home a runner in the next frame.

Tommy McElroy came back from defeat in the second game in impressive fashion and put West Providence, more familiarly known as Olneyville, out in front again. Although nicked hard at times, the Brunonian bunting five of their eight hits in the fifth and sixth innings. McElroy never became panicky and was never in danger of being batted to the dug-out. He had CONTROL and if Old Blind Tom, who was doing the guessing behind the plate, had had his glasses on in the fourth round, nary a pass would have been charged against the Dominicans' hurling ace.

THREE fans met, apparently by appointment, at a popular down-town restaurant shortly after the game, and all the diners who had not been to Aldrich Field and all who had, within a radius of several tables, were entertained by the conversation, which ran about as follows:

Providence fan: "Well, what did I tell you? Some battle."

Brown fan: "Yea. You're one of those I-told-you-so fellows. I don't recall any advance nope on old Santa Claus. You're the wise man that predicted that old Kris was going to hop into his scarlet coat and June whiskers. Why didn't you tell us that Jitney Ford was going to do his Christmas stuff. There's nothing Scotch about that Ford fellow."

Neutral fan: "Gee, but I could stand a little Scotch while waiting for some service. Boil each other out all you want to and when you're thoroughly boiled will somebody tell me where this Dubuc person gets off as a coach. I stretched my neck all out of shape looking down there where those fellows were pitching all the afternoon to see who was going to do a rescue act for Ford. See that cuff. Those marks show the number of bases on balls Ford gave in the first four innings. Count 'em. Nine, that's all. Add the wild pitch and that error of his in the second and then give me the low down on Dubuc."

PROVIDENCE FAN: "Debut is all right. Not in Jack Flynn's class but a smart coach. Who would you put in? Rawlings, I suppose. Rawlings is the wildest man in seven counties."

Brown fan: "I can answer that one. Whatever became of that squawpaw that pitched the last two innings of the game with Yale here. I've forgotten his name but not his pitching. Only six Yale men faced him in the eighth and ninth."

Neutral Fan: "You are all so smart. Answer this one. Remember the sixth inning. Two clean drives by the first two men up. Then what? An attempt to sacrifice by Red Randall and the pop into the pitcher's glove. Never mind that. If I said a sacrifice was not the play you are so dumb you wouldn't know what I was talking about. Here it is: When Heckle Allen knocked down that line drive by Buck Wright, and it came at him like a shot from a gun, did he think out that force play at third and the double play that followed at second or was it just a break for Allen?"

PROVIDENCE FAN: "He planned it of course, just like I would have done. That's what he is there for. I'm here to repeat that Providence can trim Brown five games out of six any season."

Brown Fan: "That's the trouble with the series. It isn't long enough. They ought to schedule six or eight games. And speaking about great games, the only one I saw that was great was the second. Well, now that I have had a good dinner, I'll run on home to the wife and tell her what a tough afternoon I had at the office. So long."

When the schedule builders at Brown and Providence have a few minutes to devote to next season's series, it might be just as well to book three contests, omitting the third in the event that one team takes the first two battles. The attendance at the three contests demonstrated again the great popularity of the series.

ALUMNI TACKLES DOMINICANS TODAY

Charlie Reynolds Will Hurl for Grads in Game at Hendricken Field.

Charlie Reynolds, rated one of the finest college twirlers ever developed in this city, will don his Providence College uniform again today in an effort to stop the winning march of Jack Flynn's crack Dominican outfit, which has won 18 of its 21 games this spring. Reynolds will do the twirling for the alumni nine, which will be composed of former Black and White performers.

After a year layoff due to an arm injury suffered last summer while with the Providence Eastern League club, Reynolds has whipped himself into top condition again, and now reports his throwing arm to be at its best.

Tom Maroney, utility backstop in 1926, and outfielder the previous campaign, will do the catching for Reynolds, according to present plans. Maroney is athletic director at Masee School in Connecticut, and is due to reach this city today for the contest. At first base will be either Bud Feid, captain of the 1924 team, which registered the memorable 20-inning triumph over Brown, or Tom Graham, initial sacker on Jack White's 1926 aggregation. The latter may draw an outfield berth if Feid is decided upon for first base.

Joe McGee, football and baseball star for the Smith Hillers several years ago, will be at second; Bernie Norton, Valley Falls youngster who starred at shortstop last spring, and Frankie Holland, captain of the 1923 nine, will complete the infield. Holland will handle the third base assignment. Rab Cregan, shortstop four years ago, is also expected to be on hand for service in the infield.

The outer gardens will be patrolled by such capable flyhawks as Ed Wholey, the best outfielder ever to perform on Hendricken Field; Danny Norton, member of the Varsity squad last spring; Jack Triggs, Brockton star, who will also be ready to help Reynolds with the pitching work if needed, and Donald Burke, former Classical high coach. Leon Smith, pitcher on the 1924 and 1925 teams, will also be on hand for mound work.

With such an array of baseball talent, the graduates have hopes of tackling a defeat on the present Varsity nine, which toppled Brown yesterday afternoon. Coach Flynn will use either Joe Whelan, Fall River Senior, or Frankie Moran, Providence hurler, in the box.

Reynolds Stops Dominicans as Alumni Triumph, 10-7

"Old Grads" Present All-Star
Lineup.—Hit Three Pitchers Hard.

Charlie Reynolds, whose twirling a couple of seasons back placed Providence College high in the realm of collegiate baseball, returned to Hendricks Field yesterday afternoon to hurl an aggregation of former Dominican stars to a 10 to 7 victory over the 'Varsity outfit, which has lost but three college tilts this spring. The game was part of the annual Alumni Day festivities at the Smith Hill college.

Reynolds had a classy array of talent to support him, as the graduates' lineup was dotted with players whose athletic achievements form some of the brightest pages in the young college's baseball history. Frankie Holland, captain of the 1923 nine; Joe McGee, football and baseball star of the 1924 class; Bud Feld, leader of the great team which turned in the memorable 20-inning triumph over Brown, and Jack Triggs, Brockton all-around athlete, were some of the outstanding members of the alumni group.

Aside from the fine twirling of Reynolds, who was making a comeback after a year's absence from baseball, the work of Tom Maroney, backstop who starred with the '25 and '26 aggregations as substitute catcher and outfielder, was the brightest. Maroney pounded the offerings of the Dominican regulars to all corners of the lot, finally topping off the afternoon with a terrific home run smash over the left fielder's head to drive two runs across the plate ahead of him.

The 'Varsity took the game less seriously than a scheduled college contest and as a result were soon far in the rear. An eighth-inning rally netted three runs, but the former Grays' hurler soon quelled the attack.

Joe McGee took honors in the field with a sparkling unassisted double play in the second. The play broke up a 'Varsity rally. Moran lined over second, but McGee leaped into the air, clutched the ball and wheeled to double Cappalli off second for the third out. Joe also chipped in with two singles.

Coach Flynn sent several of his twirlers into action. Moran was relieved in the fifth and Smith toiled for two frames. Then Bradley climbed the hillock and Marty Gibbons, left fielder on the 'Varsity team, who starred in high school as a pitcher, was next given the chance to hurl, and showed up exceptionally well by fanning two of the three men to face him.

The Alumni opened the scoring in the very first inning when Doc Holland smashed a long double into centre field. Wholey fanned and Bernie Norton grounded out, but Maroney chipped in with the first of his hits, a liner to the box which Moran knocked down too late to make a play at first, Holland tallied.

Bud Fied continued the assault with a single to left, sending Maroney to second. McGee walked filling the bases, and then Graham drew a pass to force in the second run. Triggs forced Graham at second on a hit to Cappalli for the third out.

The Varsity tallied a marker in the second when Curran reached first while Duffy was being forced at second, moved up a peg on Main's single to left, and scored on Cappalli's Texas leaguer back of short. Then came McGee's brilliant play which stemmed the rally for the inning.

In the third the Flynnmen sent three more runs across the plate. Allen walked, Gibbons singled to left, and Krieger was hit in the leg to fill the sacks. Hebert hit to Reynolds who pegged to Maroney to force Allen at the plate, and the latter finished the double killing at first. Duffy came through with a hard single to centre to score Gibbons and Krieger, and after Curran had walked, Main followed with a hit to left to push Duffy home.

The Alumni sewed up the game at the expense of Hal Bradley in the eighth, after having tied in the score in the seventh with two walks and two singles off Leo Smith. Joe McGee started the trouble with a single to right and Graham continued with a smash to left. Triggs dropped a bunt while Bradley heaved wildly to first, allowing McGee to score, and the other runner to advance a peg. Reynolds grounded out to the box, but Holland cashed in with his second hit of the day, a single to right, to score both runs. Don Burke fanned but Norton contributed a timely blow to centre to increase the score. With Holland on third and Norton on second, Maroney caught hold of a fast shoot and drove it over Gibbons' head, the ball rolling to the left fence for one of the longest hits seen on the Smith Hill lot.

The 'Varsity endeavored to stage a comeback in the same inning when Duffy singled, Main walked, Cappalli collected his third safe blow, and Wineapple, pinch hitting for Bradley, strolled. A wild pitch allowed Cappalli to score. Allen drew his third free ticket from Reynolds, and then the Mount Pleasant alumnus settled down to work and fanned Gibbons and Krieger, two of the hardest hitters on the squad.

NOTRE DAME NINE TO TOUR

Eight - Game Trip In- cludes Joust With Prov- idence College June 14

Notre Dame, Ind., June 2.—Coach Tommy Mills with 16 baseball players entrains to-morrow for the East where Notre Dame is scheduled to keep eight diamond engagements in seven cities. The barnstorming tour is a kind of an after school affair, the Irish institution of learning having closed its doors for the regular year last Thursday.

The Millsmen will open their two-week post season schedule at Philadelphia against the Villa Nova nine. From there the Irish club goes to Worcester to meet Holy Cross, which is famous for having one of the strongest baseball teams in the East. During their two-day stay in Boston, Notre Dame plays Boston College and Harvard. The second week of the program calls for four games, New Hampshire University, Providence College, Amherst and Cornell being on the card. The game in Providence is set for Thursday, June 14.

Notre Dame goes East with one of the best baseball records in many years. Out of 23 games played so far the Irish lost only five, all of them away from home. Two of the defeats were suffered on the Southern training trip. The score book shows that Coach Tommy Mills' crew won all of its nine home games played so far and a winning streak resulting in 10 straight victories.

Ed, Jr., and Bob, sons of Big Ed Walsh, Chicago White Sox coach, of Meriden Conn., Joe Jachym of Westfield, Mass., Oscar Rust of Little Rock, Ark., and Ed Donohue of Cincinnati, O., make up the Irish pitching staff. Walsh, who has been winning consistently for the Irish for the last two seasons, won all of the five games he pitched this year. Bob is a Sophomore and has shown plenty of stuff with an indication of following the example of his brother.

Prov, Dubene

With Ed Walsh, Jachym and Rust taking their regular turn on the mound, Donohue and the younger Walsh are held in reserve. Jachym captained the basketball five last year and was elected to share the honor this year with his running mate at forward, Frank Crowe.

The Irish infield is a veteran aggregation, having worked together for the second year. John Colerick of Newark, N. J., plays first. He is a strong hitter and perhaps the best fielder on the team. Colerick is a three-sport man, having earned his monogram in football, basketball and baseball. He is an end on Coach Rockne's eleven and is centre on the cage quintet. Capt. Joe Sullivan, at second base, is a son of Billy Sullivan, the receiving end of the famous battery of Walsh and Sullivan which set a fast pace in the big league score of years ago. He is a Senior and next year will coach the Freshman team. Leo Schroll of Cresson, Pa., the "live wire" on the team, off and on the field, plays shortstop, and Johnny Nelmiec, of Bellaire, O., star back on the football team, is at third base. Gerald Griffin of Morristown, N. J., is the utility infielder.

The catching will be done by Joe Lordi, a New York boy. He is only a Sophomore but has filled the gap so well behind the plate that he has caught every game. John Law of Yonkers, N. Y., a guard on the football team, is the relief receiver.

With the exception of Jim Bray of Kansas City, Mo., centre fielder, star basketball guard and football back, the outfield corps consists of Sophomores. John Moran and Ed Fechery, both of Chicago have stood the test so well in the far territory as well as with the willow that Coach Mills has kept them in the lineup regularly. Francis Wilson of Pittsburgh a Senior, is the reserve outfielder.

COMMENT and GOSSIP

by Charles B. Coppen

HOLY CROSS'S galloping Crusaders mopped up Aldrich Field with Coach Dubuc's Brunonians yesterday as was to be expected, the pupils of Jack Barry laying over the beaten club like the proverbial tent.

Another high-powered club, campaigning under the colors of Notre Dame, will invade the city today and the reception accorded it may be considerably hotter than that tendered the Worcester collegians yesterday. Hendricken Field, play-ground of the Providence College outfit, will be the destination of the lads from Indiana and if the Dominicans treat them as roughly as they have some of their opponents in this sizzling dash in quest of the eastern championship, Harvard will suffer greatly in comparison.

Supporters of the Crimson were treated to the greatest baseball shock of their lives when the South Benders buried the sons of old Johnny Harvard under an avalanche of hits and runs the past Saturday. No less than 20 runs were credited to the victors.

* * * * *
ED WALSH, who draws the pitching assignments in Notre Dame's major contests, and who seems to be following in the footsteps of his illustrious father of White Sox fame, will be on the mound at the start of hostilities. Coach Flynn will probably toss the hurling burden at Eddie Wineapple, winner in the successful march against Yale, although Captain Smith who has been on duty but rarely this season may be afforded the opportunity of facing the Notre Dame gunners. The team leader will pass out of Varsity competition this season.

Friends of Charlie Reynolds, ranked the premier pitcher in Providence College baseball history, were not a little pleased over his performance against the Varsity on Tuesday. After turning down an offer from the Pittsburgh club at the conclusion of his college career, Reynolds hooked on with the Grays.

After a few weeks of league work he developed a sore arm and was of little use although he finished the season with the team. The old whip seemed well oiled as he mowed down the stickers while tolling for the Alumni's all-star cast.

The Providence College nine, tied with Holy Cross in the matter of games won and lost, will close its most successful season this afternoon on Hendricken Field when it entertains the crack Notre Dame University outfit with a contest which is slated to start at 3:15. The Dominicans added Yale and Brown to their list over the past week-end and now have but three defeats to mar their string of 21 games played.

Notre Dame comes here after a two-day rest following its 9-0 setback at the hands of New Hampshire, when Bob Walsh, younger brother of Ed, who is slated to start on the mound today, was driven to the showers. Last Saturday the South Bend ball tossers gave Harvard its worst defeat in over 20 years when it rolled up a 20 to 1 score at Cambridge.

Ed Walsh, hero of the Harvard clash, will be on the hillock for the invaders this afternoon. Walsh is slated to join the Chicago Americans next week, it is said.

When Tom McElroy, present ace of the Dominican flinging corps, was hurling for La Salle Academy, he pitted his prowess against that of young Ed Walsh in a thrilling encounter staged at Kinsley Park. On that memorable occasion McElroy was triumphant over St. John's Prep, due in no small measure to the efforts of Frankie Moran and Ed McLaughlin, two other members of the Dominican squad who were at that time performing under the colors of La Salle.

However, Eddie Wineapple will probably be called upon to do the hurling this afternoon, in view of his fine showing against Yale last Saturday. McElroy has not had sufficient rest since his win over Brown last Monday to tackle such a formidable opponent as the Indiana outfit, and so will be held in a relief role.

Third base promises to be the focus of the attention of many of the fans who will travel to the Smith Hill lot today, as Heck Allen, who is finishing his career for the Dominicans, will be pitting his ability against that of Niemiec, star football and baseball athlete from the South Bend university. Niemiec is slated to succeed Christy Flannagan as the triple threat star of Knute Rockne's "roaming eleven" which is slated to play on both sides of the country next fall in carrying out their most ambitious football campaign. Allen is reported to be in line for a league tryout next week.

Six of the Dominican squad will be rounding out their last campaign, as Capt. Leo Smith, Joe Whelan, Henry Danis, all pitchers, Charles Murphy, backstop, Allen, versatile athlete from Troy, and Ed McLaughlin, letterman for three seasons and a contender for a Varsity assignment this year until an ankle fracture put him out of the running prior to the start of the campaign.

NOTRE DAME, 6-1

Smith Hillers Tack First Defeat of Season on Walsh

Black and White Plays Heads-up Baseball.—Advance Step Nearer Title.

Game played: June 14, 1928

The Providence College nine, leading contender for the Eastern college baseball crown, climaxed the most brilliant campaign of its short history when it turned back the strong Notre Dame University nine of Indiana yesterday afternoon on Hendricks Field by a 6 to 1 count. The game, which was witnessed by a large Commencement Day crowd, marked the conclusion of the season for the locals, and give them a record of 19 games won out of 22 played.

The victory establishes the Dominicans in an enviable place in the collegiate realm, as it gives them the best record of any Eastern college, being one game better than the string compiled by Holy Cross. The triumph also gives the Smith Hill ball tossers plenty of reason to claim recognition for national honors, inasmuch as they set back Spring Hill College of Alabama, champions of the Far South and undefeated for two years, last April; Georgetown, Southern titleholders for the past two campaigns, late last month, and now the South Bend aggregation, which boasts a record of 22 wins, many of which were over the best teams in the Western Conference.

The game marked the first defeat of Ed Walsh, who is the son of the famous Chicago pitcher, this year. He had previously won six games, included among which was the 20 to 1 triumph over Harvard last Saturday at Cambridge. Walsh was wild yesterday, hurling poorly to the plate on three occasions, but at the same time the Dominicans staged a "heads up" game to take advantage of every break.

Eddie Wineapple proved far superior to Ed Walsh, Notre Dame hurler who is slated for a major league tryout later this month and although the former was nicked for six hits to five of the visiting moundsman, he kept them well scattered and flashed excellent control at all times. In addition Wineapple struck out no less than nine of the invaders.

Frank Cappalli, local product who has come into his own of late by his classy work afield and at bat, proved the hero of the fray when he came to the plate in the fourth inning with two out and the bases full and proceeded to crash one of Walsh's best curves into right field to score two runs and clinch the decision for the Smith Hillers.

The game marked the completion of collegiate competition for two of the youngsters who performed yesterday. Heck Allen, classy third baseman who is slated for service in the New England League in the near future, and Chuck Murphy, backstop from Albany who turned in one of the best games of his career behind the plate.

Three sparkling double plays contributed to make the game exciting, with the Dominicans taking top honors with their fine defensive work. The first double killing of the locals came in the second when Allen made a fine pickup of Bray's bouncer to peg to Main to force Moran at second, with Main completing the play with a fast peg to Duffy. The second such play by the Black and White ball tossers had no little bearing on the outcome of the tilt, as it came with the bases populated with Notre Dame runners. With but one out, Wineapple knocked down Jachym's hard bouncer to force Lordi at the plate, and Murphy ended the inning by whipping the ball to first to double the runner.

Providence opened its scoring in the first inning as the result of Walsh's erratic twirling, and tallied two runs without a single hit. Allen walked and reached second safely when Gibbons took first on an infield error. Walsh made a wild heave to the plate, allowing Allen to race home and Gibbons to travel to third.

As Dominicans Humbled Notre Dame

Joe Duffy Ont Trying to Score From Second on Murphy's Lame Drive to Left in the Fifth Inning. Moran Fielded the Ball Cleanly and His Perfect Throw to the Plate Nipped the Speedy Dominant cun First Sacker by Inches.

Gibbons took advantage of Walsh's windup to make a break for the plate, and would have slid in easily with the second run, but had no opposition when the Notre Dame twirler, seeing him racing to the home station, pitched wildly beyond the reach of Lordi, his back-stop.

Wineapple held the visitors in check for the first few frames aided by fine support on the part of his mates who nipped a rally in the second frame, and another in the following stanza. In the sixth they collected their single marker, after Sullivan walked, Jachym singled and Colrick filled the bases when Duffy booted his roller, Niemiec, football star, fled to Cappall, and Moran grounded to Duffy, Sullivan bringing home the single Notre Dame run on the latter play.

In the fourth Duffy beat out a roller to short to start a rally which netted two runs. Murphy was safe at first when Colrick dropped a peg from Schroll. Main walked to fill the bases and then Cappall did the Merriwell act with a ringing single to right field to score two runs. Wineapple fanned and Allen grounded out to end the rally.

Fleurent singled in the fifth went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on Hebert's long fly to deep centre. In the eighth the final counter was chalked up when Duffy strolled, went to second on Murphy's infield out, and scored on Main's line drive to left field. The score:

SCORING FIRST RUN

DOMINICANS NAME DUFFY AS CAPTAIN

Awarded Letters.

At a meeting of the lettermen of the Providence College squad following the Notre Dame game yesterday, Joseph Duffy, Sophomore from Fall River, and star first baseman, was elected to captain the 'Varsity nine for the 1929 season. Duffy has held the post of regular initial sacker for the past two seasons.

A product of Durfee high, where he starred in football and baseball, Duffy entered Providence College two years ago and although not a contestant for a place on the gridiron outfit, soon proved his prowess as an athlete by capturing the first base assignment on the nine.

Under Coach Jack Flynn, himself a former major league first baseman, Duffy has developed rapidly and now shapes up as one of the most consistent players in college ranks. He has been the mainstay of the team during the past spring, which was the most arduous ever attempted by the Smith Hillers.

Duffy is not only a fine fielder but is also the leading hitter on the local team, batting well over the .300 mark for the season. He hit safely in 16 straight games before having his high average broken, while his complete record shows that he has failed to connect safely in but three contests during the entire season.

The players awarded 'Varsity insignia for their efforts this spring, all of whom are to be given sweaters for their showing, are: Capt. Leo H. Smith of West-erly, Edward Wineapple of Salem, Mass., Thomas McElroy and Frank Moran of this city, Harold Bradley of Lawrence, Mass., and Joseph Whelan of Fall River, all pitchers; Charles Murphy of Albany, N. Y., and Joseph Harraghy of Taunton, Mass., catchers; Capt.-elect Joseph Duffy of Fall River, Harry Main of Pawtucket, Frank Cappali of this city and Hector J. Allen of Troy, N. Y., infielders; Martin Gibbons of Clinton, Mass., Frank Hebert of Quincy, Mass., and Adelard Fleurent of Ware, Mass., outfielders.

Six members of the squad will be absent when Coach Flynn assembles his 1929 aggregation, this number including Capt. Smith, Heck Allen, Charles Murphy, Joseph Whelan, Henry Danis, letter men for two seasons, and Ed McLaughlin, 'Varsity player for three years, but out of competition this spring, due to an early-season injury.

Elected Captain

Joe Duffy of Fall River Yesterday Was Elected to Lead the 1929 Providence College Baseball Team. Duffy Will be a Junior Next Year and Has Played 'Varsity Baseball for the Past Two Years.

Crusader, Dominican Nines Not to Meet

All hopes for a series with Holy Cross to settle a possible tie for the Eastern college crown of the East were abandoned by the Providence College athletic authorities late last night, when no word was forthcoming from the Worcester authorities relative to a two-game series. The locals claim the leading place in the college ranking as the result of their victory yesterday, making 19 out of 22, which is one better than the record of the Crusaders.

Graduate Manager Farrell of the Smith Hill college favored a two-game series with Holy Cross, the first contest to be played in Worcester and the second in this city, while the Worcester management desired but one contest. Hence, Farrell asserts, the title will have to be shared jointly this year, unless the William and Mary nine eliminates the Barry-coached clan this Saturday at Worcester.

Dominicans Lead Colleges in East

Providence College takes the lead in the Eastern College standing as the result of its triumph yesterday over the strong Notre Dame nine in the final game of the year. The Dominicans have won 19 of their 22 games scheduled and thereby better the mark of Holy Cross, their nearest competitor by one game, as the Crusaders have won but 18 and lost 3.

Due to reticence on the part of the Worcester authorities yesterday to play a two-game series to settle any doubts as to the supremacy of the Smith Hill nine, Graduate Manager Farrell of the Dominicans was forced to wind up his campaign with yesterday's contest.

THREE OUTSTANDING TEAMS IN COLLEGES

Holy Cross, Villanova and
Providence at Top

Pennsylvania Probable Quadrangle
League Victor

NEW YORK, June 17 (A. P.)—The crushing victory of Yale over Princeton by 10 to 1 in the second game of the annual series Saturday was the outstanding event of a week which saw many college baseball teams put the finishing touches on their seasons.

With Foster Sanford in his best form, Pennsylvania scored a handsome 3-to-0 victory over Cornell at Ithaca Friday in a game which all but clinched the Quadrangle League title for the Red and Blue for the second successive year.

Providence added further luster to its record by defeating Notre Dame with Ed Walsh Jr in the box, and Villanova bobbed up with a claim to the championship of all the East.

Charles A. McGeehan, coach of this fine team, pointed out that Villanova had won 18 games and lost only three, each by a margin of one run, and numbered among its victims such strong machines as Harvard, Cornell, Princeton, Lafayette, Providence and Boston College.

Villanova easily became champion of the smaller colleges of the Mid-Atlantic section, but like Providence, another All-East claimant, failed to meet Holy Cross, which long has been the gage by which college baseball success is measured in the East. Holy Cross closed its season last week by defeating William and Mary and Brown, and losing the third game of its series against Boston College after having won the first two.

Pennsylvania closed its season Friday with its victory over Cornell, and finished its league campaign with four victories and two defeats. Cornell has decided to play off a postponement with Dartmouth by engaging the Green in a double-header at Hanover tomorrow, when the teams originally were scheduled for one game. A double victory would give the big Red nine a tie with Pennsylvania, but no play-off would be attempted.

Boston Globe

Providence and Holy Cross in Tie for Lead

Eastern Colleges Won 19, Lost 3; Garrett, of Rutgers, Outstanding Hurler

Although a few games are still listed the college baseball season was virtually brought to a close last Saturday as Holy Cross and Providence College completed their 1928 campaigns in a tie for first place in the standing of the Eastern teams with identical records, nineteen won and three lost. The Holy Cross nine had the first rung almost clinched but tripped just so slightly last week but that was enough to lose them their lead. Providence College taking advantage to enter into a tie for the place, by capturing all of its games.

This is the first time in many years, if ever before, that Providence ever came so near to the leadership among Eastern college nines. The Dominicans held first place for a period of two weeks but gradually were overhauled by the Crusaders only to await their chance patiently and regain their position. It is the first time however, that both Boston College and Fordham, the arch rivals of the Purple nine, finished so far down. Villanova, with a record of eighteen won and three lost is second and deservingly, for among their victories are triumphs over the best in the East.

No team in the East, with the exception of the Muhlenburg nine, completed its season without a setback. The Allentown nine however, played an inferior class of rivals and therefor cannot be ranked in these standings. The Quantico Marines, not strictly a college nine, also wound up their season without defeat in seventeen starts.

N. Y. U. Once Unbeatable

New York University, at one time appeared unbeatable. Holy Cross, Providence and Boston College proved the contrary, however. Providence was another team like that. The Dominicans met defeat at the hands of Boston College, Villanova and Brown.

Yale after a very poor start is now playing championship baseball. Yale's record to date is nineteen won and eight lost, which can be changed to twenty-one won and eight lost, which is not bad at all. For the second half of their season the New Haven nine lost no more than two games, while they captured about fourteen.

The disappointing teams this year were Manhattan, Princeton, Syracuse and Cornell. Manhattan College was hampered by rain. Princeton also handicapped itself by a poor start, but unlike Yale failed to extricate itself. Syracuse, with the loss of its 1927 stars, played poorly all year. The Orange needed some good pitchers. Cornell opened its campaign with eight successive defeats, which disheartened them for the remainder of the season.

Ben Garrett, of Rutgers, remains the outstanding pitcher in the East with a record of nine victories in as many starts. Only seven other pitchers survived an undefeated season, not counting the twirlers who won once or twice.

Nekola Beaten by Eagles

Bots Nekola, of Holy Cross, came to the end of the season only to lose his undefeated standing against Boston College last week. The only New York pitcher to finish with a spotless record is Manning, of St. John's; Murphy, of Fordham, and Manfredi, of N. Y. U., however, also did well.

Hensil, of Villanova, and Fons of Holy Cross, lead the defeated twirlers with a record of nine won and one lost. Barbee, of Harvard; Smith, of Yale; Moriarity, of Vermont, and McElroy, of Providence, also did themselves credit this year.

VISITING ATHLETES LAUD FRIARS' CLUB

Declare Providence College
Greeters Make Stays in This City Pleasant.

TWO GROUPS SEND THANKS

Dartmouth, Home of Famed Green
Keys, and Alabama College,
Appreciate Hospitality

When the Friars' Club, the official greeting and entertaining society, was formed at Providence College a few short months ago, its board of incorporators never realized that it would attain the success that has marked its existence or receive the commendation that has been forthcoming from colleges whose representatives have visited the city this spring.

Time hangs heavily on the hands of visiting athletes, particularly college men, in a strange city, and Graduate Manager John E. Farrell, who has experienced homesickness in many cities where the Dominicans were engaged in conflict, decided to form an organization that would help visiting athletes to enjoy themselves while in Providence. With Rev. L. C. Gaiher, O. P., and Rev. L. C. Shea, O. P., Mr. Farrell incorporated the organization, ruling that it was to be an honorary society with a designated number of students from each class to form its membership.

The society is patterned after the Green Keys of Dartmouth, who have won recognition as one of the most hospitable organizations maintained by a college in the United States. That the Friars are not inferior or less hospitable than the famed Dartmouth organization is indicated in a letter received by Graduate Manager Farrell from Hanover last week in which Dartmouth expressed its sincere thanks "for the wonderful treatment accorded our team during their stay in Providence."

Through its secretary, Joseph F. Watterson, '29, of New London, Conn., the Friars' Club learns the plans of visiting teams, meets them at the station and makes arrangements for their quarters in the city. In the morning, before the game, the visitors are taken on a tour of the city; in the afternoon, constant attention is given the athletes and their guests, and, in the event they remain overnight, entertainment is provided for the evening in the nature of a theatre party, boxing show or dance or whatever their choice may be.

Graduate Manager Farrell is of the belief that athletes are better qualified to look after athletes than non-members of sports teams. It was with this idea in mind that he proposed that the society include on its roster some athletes.

The active organization is limited to 18 members, divided by classes as follows: Six Seniors, five Juniors, four Sophomores and three Freshmen. The Seniors elect their successors in June of each year, picking men from the under classes, while the Freshman members are selected after the opening of the fall semester.

Among the prominent athletes who are members of the present club are Steve Fanning, star tackle on the football team; Joe Watterson, centre on the football team; Frederick T. McDermott, former manager of baseball; Gerard Dillon and William T. McGue, basketball stars, and Francis T. Coleman, hockey letterman.

When the Spring Hill College team of Mobile, Ala., came here about a month ago to clash with the Dominicans, rain forced the cancellation of the game on the original date and forced the Southerners to spend an extra day in the city. How much they enjoyed their stay is incorporated in a letter received from the Southerners upon their return home, in which it is stated: "Providence College students are adding much to their prestige by their display of age-old New England hospitality which so long has marked that section of the country. In our trip North, we were treated handsomely, and we left with the impression that the Dominicans never lose sight of their city and bend every effort to send their guests away with pleasant memories of the home of Roger Williams."

The officers of the club are as follows: President—William H. Flynn, New Haven, Conn.; Vice President—Frederick T. McDermott, Phillipsdale; Secretary—Joseph F. Watterson, New London, Conn.; Treasurer—Edward J. McIsaac, Providence.

The Friars Club of Providence College occupies a unique and distinct place among the various clubs, societies, fraternities, etc., which are found on any college campus. It sprang into existence with one single objective, that of filling the role of general host to all college teams who visit Providence College to engage in athletic, debating, or other contests.

The need for some such official reception body has been often felt by college baseball, football and other sport teams when away from their home grounds. It was this need that brought the Friars Club into being with its very definite purpose of treating all visiting college competitors as welcome guests and of, according to them every possible courtesy during their stay in Providence.

This idea of an official reception body is not entirely new in college circles. Dartmouth has its Green Key Society, Vermont, Springfield and some other colleges have organization whose function it is to care for visiting teams. But the degree to which the Providence College has developed the idea of hospitality is unusual among these college societies, the Friars having adopted for their motto a line from Pope's translation of the Odyssey: "Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest." A small group of Friars are in constant attendance upon the visitors, ready to perform the part of gracious host from the time the visitors arrive until they depart.

The Friars in their capacity as hosts begin to function long before a visiting team arrives in Providence. As soon as a date is officially set for a home game the Friars communicate with the prospective visitors, advising them of hotel rates, desirable restaurants, train schedules, and any other detailed information that might be of service to the visitors. Upon the arrival of the team in Providence, whether by boat, bus, or rail—day or night—it is met by the Friars, escorted to its hotel and entertained until time for the game.

During the game Friars are in attendance upon the visitors. They occupy a special place back of the visitors' bench where they can be of instant service, yet far enough away so as not to interfere with the coaching, signals and conversation of the players and coaches. After the game the Friars accompany the visitors to the gymnasium and look after their comfort, seeing that all provisions are made for showers, dressing, etc.

In commenting upon these activities Mr. W. F. Flynn, New Haven, president of the Friars, said: "It is surprising how varied and at times how unusual are the calls made upon us for assistance. For instance, shortly before their departure, while they were at the railroad station, one of our visiting ball clubs discovered that a player had picked up the wrong hand bag in our college dressing room and left his own at the college. A quick telephone call by the Friars at the station started action by the Friars at the college end and the missing bag was located. A hurried taxi trip to the station enabled us to deliver it just before the train pulled out."

"Or take another instance. When the Georgetown team was here for its game Thursday the squad planned to catch a train immediately after the game. The Friars knew that the visitors were working on a close schedule and when the game ran over the usual length several taxis were ordered to be in waiting at the college and the railroad station was notified that the team was on its way and would have a very close race unless the train be held a minute or two. The boys made the train, but it was necessary for us to pack their heavy baggage and to forward it on a later train. Of course, we were glad to do that.

"Rainy weather or a game that has to be called off on account of wet grounds after the visitors have reached our city sometimes cause the Friars to exercise their ingenuity to care for the visitors. When Spring Hill College of Mobile, Ala., played here early in the season we were especially anxious that our Southern visitors should be properly entertained. They arrived early in the morning and the Friars placed several automobiles at their disposal for a sight-seeing tour of the city. That afternoon it rained and the Southern Colonels had to remain over for an additional day, as the game was played the following day. Through the courtesy of one of our theatre managers tickets were provided for the visitors and the entire squad attended the theatre accompanied by three Friars. When we were rained out on the Dartmouth game a week or so ago tickets were secured to the local boxing contest that night and offered to the Dartmouth players for the evening's entertainment. While these are just a few instances they illustrate the character of the courteous treatment the Friars try to accord to visiting teams."

The Friars Club is strictly an honor society, and is definitely limited in membership. It is composed of two groups; active and honorary members. The active members are 18 in number, distributed among the four classes at the college as follows: Six Seniors, five Juniors, four Sophomores, three Freshmen. They wear a distinctive white college hat with a friar's head embossed in black upon the front.

The present active members are: Seniors, class of '28, Stephen A. Fanning, Valley Falls; William H. Flynn, New Haven; Phillip B. Hearn, Dorchester, Mass.; Frederick T. McDermott, Phillipsdale; Edward J. McIsaac and John F. Waring, Providence. Juniors, class of '29, Philip E. Bulger and Francis J. Carr, both of New Haven; John D. Coughlan, Revere, Mass.; Gerard A. Dillon, Pelham, N. Y., and Joseph F. Watterson, New London, Conn. Sophomores, class of '30, John L. Baeszler, Stapleton, N. Y.; Ralph S. Daniels, Pawtucket; Francis T. Coleman and Robert Maiello, both of Providence. Freshmen, class of '31, Richard F. Buckley, Hoboken, N. J.; William T. McCabe, Patterson, N. J., and Richard W. O'Connor, Woonsocket.

The honorary members are the captains and managers of the various sports and the presidents of the college debating societies. The honorary members are not called upon for active service in Providence, and, hence, do not wear the distinctive white hat of the Friars. These men have been awarded their letter on account of sport activities and represent the colleg and the spirit of the Friars organization when the Providence College teams are away from home. The present honorary members are: Leo H. Smith, Westerly, captain baseball, '28; Cornelius V. Connors, Haverhill, Mass., captain football, '27; Charles A. Murphy, Albany, N. Y., captain basketball, '28; Frank D. Maloney, New Haven, captain hockey, '27; Hector J. Allen, Troy, N. Y., captain basketball, '27; Walter T. Dromgoole, Providence, manager football, '27; Paul J. McNally, manager baseball, '28; Joseph A. Nole, Fitchburg, Mass., manager basketball, '28; Lawrence D. Malloux, Natick, manager hockey, '27; J. Austin Carroll, Providence, president College Debating Society, '28; Ambrose V. Aylward, president Lacordaire Debating Society, '28.

All students of approved standing in the college are eligible for active membership in the Friars, but the number is always maintained at 18. Selections are made to fill vacancies on the basis of the qualities of character and courtesy which will maintain the standards of hospitality of the college and the club. Before graduation each year the outgoing Seniors nominate three men, one from each lower class, to take their place and carry on the work of the Friars. After the following mid-year examinations the Seniors nominate the three Freshman candidates.

After the selections have been approved by a board of control, consisting of two members of the Providence College faculty, the graduate manager of athletics and the president of the Friars Club, the candidates are notified of the honor conferred upon them and are asked to take the following Friar's pledge: "I pledge upon my honor as a gentleman and as a student of Providence College, class of—, to fulfill to the best of my ability the duties and obligations of the Friars Club and to uphold the reputation and honor of our college and society for courteous and gentlemanly treatment of guests."

The club is self-governed, except for the usual official college restrictions and approvals. For instance, all officers are elected by the entire active membership, but the elected ones must comply with the official college regulations and approval before they may hold office. The present officers are: William H. Flynn, '28, president; Frederick T. McDermott, '28, vice president; Joseph F. Watterson, '29, secretary, and Edward J. McIsaac, '28, treasurer.

The first year of the Friars' existence has fully demonstrated the important functions it can be made to perform, especially in athletic contests, in promoting better relations with the various colleges who visit Providence College. The club is happily named, "Friars" was chosen, due to the suggestion of hospitality and good-will contained in the name and because the Providence College is staffed by members of the Friars Preachers, the official name of the Dominican Fathers.

Holy Cross and Providence Lead College Nines

Finish With Nineteen Victories and Three Defeats; Villanova Also Lost Three

The 1928 college baseball season that has just closed was one of the most interesting in history. There were many close contests among the thirty-one colleges whose records have been compiled in this column, quite a few being extra-inning games.

The season's honors are divided this year between Holy Cross and Providence, both of which wound up the year with identical records of nineteen won and three lost. The Quantico Marines' nine, although not a college team but which played none but college teams, was the only aggregation outside of Muhlenberg to complete the season with a perfect record. The Marines won seventeen in a row. Muhlenberg, which wound up with eleven won and none lost, is not rated herein because of its schedule.

Villanova Has Three Defeats

Villanova, in the runner-up position, lost three games by one-run margins, two of which went into extra innings. The Army, although it lost only one game this year, did not play enough games to really test it and hence cannot hope to receive the premier honors.

Of the New York teams, Fordham and New York University played each other to a standstill, not only winding up with the same records for the season but also breaking even in their two-game series. The surprise of the season, of course, was St. Johns, which did almost as well as the other New York nines, but of course, not meeting the same sort of competition.

Georgetown started off by defeating every Northern team to invade Washington. Simultaneously New York University, Providence, Fordham and Holy Cross were starting on winning streaks. Fordham's string was broken by Providence, Fordham in turn gave Holy Cross its first setback, while Lafayette unsuspectingly slipped one over on New York University. Providence's streak was snapped by Villanova.

Lead Changes Many Times

The lead throughout the season was held first by New York University, then by Providence. Holy Cross toppled Providence off the top to take the lead only to allow Providence to slip back into a tie for first place at the very close of the season.

Penn State met only one defeat by a Northern team, its two other losses coming from Southern opponents. Harvard did very nicely at the outset, but then slipped a little and before getting back on its feet was out of the race. Yale handicapped itself with about eight defeats before getting started, then played fine ball. Rutgers likewise picked up towards the close of the season.

Boston College, usually one of the team to finish way up in the list, slumped a good deal this year. Pennsylvania did not have the pitching this year, while Dartmouth also should have done better. Cornell was a total failure—eight defeats in its first eight starts. Princeton likewise was off form. Manhattan College, with fine prospects, was always running into rainy weather and was never given a chance to make good. Tufts won seven out of nine games and played three ties.

Kidd and Garrett Lead Pitchers

Kidd, of the Quantico Marines, and Garrett, of Rutgers, were the outstanding pitchers with clean records for the season. Both turned in creditable performances. Kidd defeating Harvard and Garrett turning back Holy Cross.

Manning, of St. Johns, was the only New York City pitcher to turn in a clean slate, but New York contributed its fair share among the leaders with Manfredi, of New York University; Smith, of Columbia; Cooney, Harrington and Murphy, of Fordham.

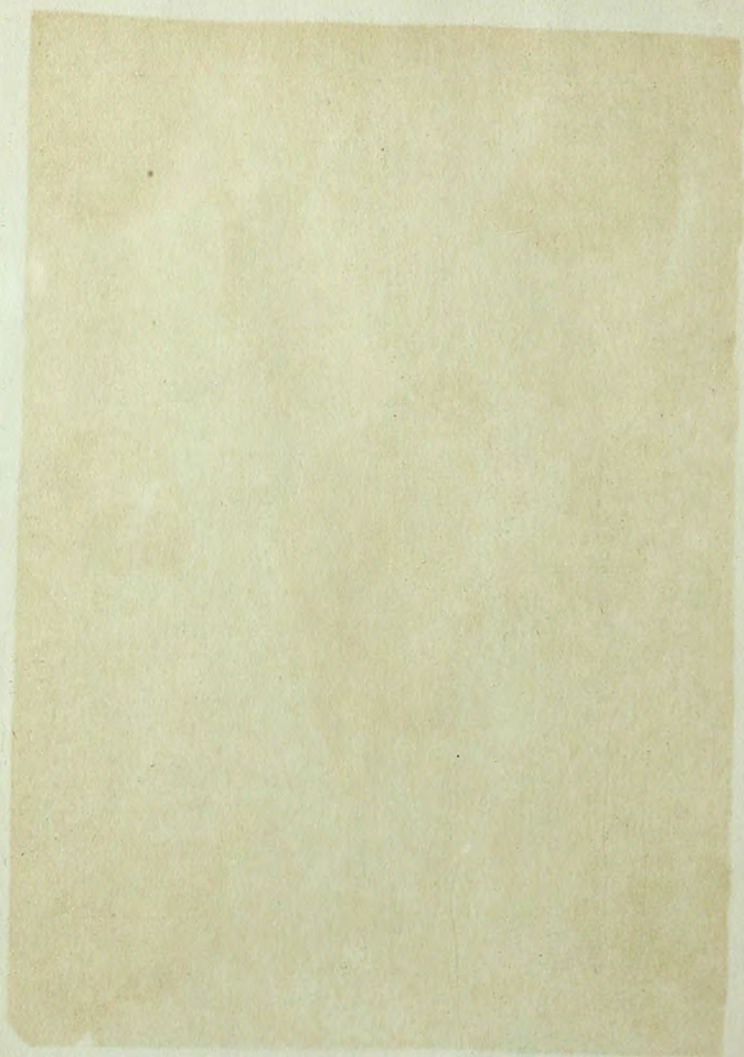

Fons, of Holy Cross; Dohens, of the same team; Bukowy, of the Marines; Hensil, of Villanova; Breckinridge, of Dartmouth; Van Atta, of Penn State; McElroy, of Providence; Moriarity, of Vermont; Barbee, of Harvard; Walker, of Pennsylvania; Shea, of Boston College; Wineapple, of Providence; Smith, of Yale; Cutts, of Harvard, and Cerny, of Columbia, were other leading pitchers.

Professional baseball has claimed many of the stars of the college teams. Manfredi, of New York University, and Smith, of Columbia, are both under Huggins' care; Van Atta, of Penn State, and his battery mate, Al Lesko, are also with a big league nine; Caldwell, of the Yale nine, just signed up with Cleveland; Fons, of Holy Cross, decided to quit college and play for Milwaukee; Walker, of Pennsylvania, is now a member of the Washington Club.

College Pitchers Ordinary

Scouts Watch Them in Summer Baseball, but Are Not Impressed.

By JOHN B. FOSTER.

Coll... were looked up, and looked down, and looked sidewise, and looked all other ways when the college season was nearing an end. There was little good found in most of them. That, of course, applies to what a major league calls good.

Some of the boys might have gone forth on trial if they had been inclined to do so, but the days of the big bonuses for Carrollo and so on were not in sight. It is not probable that any club owner was foolish enough in 1928 to pay the sum of $10,000 to a college man to get him to sign a contract and if there were such the major league owner beautifully typifies the tale of the fool and his money soon separated.

Providence College made a fair showing in the college world in 1928. It did not play all of the best Eastern colleges but it did well against the colleges that it did play. One of its promising pitchers was a young man by the name of Wineapple, who, at this moment, is pitching for Oosterville, Mass. The latter is a port of entry to Hyannis, which is in Cape Cod. Quite all the neighborhood is frequented by families from New York that are accustomed to spend the summer months in the vicinity of the Atlantic zephyrs which head full on to land in that region.

Pitching Well.

Wineapple can't be beaten at his chosen calling and in his neighborhood for this summer. Two or three times he has been visited, unaware that gaunt and hungry-looking men were looking him over preparatory to approaching him with a paper asking him to establish his future in professional baseball.

He is not the only college pitcher who is playing summer baseball. His successes have been quite more numerous than those of other pitchers because there is nothing in the Massachusetts neighborhood where he has cast his lot that has been able to beat him.

Garritt of Rutgers was a good pitcher all of the college season and there have been rumors that he might become a professional. Others think that he will be back with Rutgers in 1929, having not yet attained that which is nifty enough for a major league pitcher.

One of the major scouts who has been scouring the haunts of the college pitchers who have been pitching summer baseball instead of hay during the summer thinks the crop of college men this year is about as trumpy as any that he has seen emerge from the shelter of a college pitching cage this long time. He may be right, because all during the college season there was nothing that could pitch well enough to shake up any enthusiasm on the part of the boys who went now and then from the big cities to see college games.

If there is one thing that jars on a sensitive alumnal mind it is to go to a ball game and see the yeoman son of alma mater, who is pitching for the home team, throw the ball at every invisible object in the atmosphere and totally overlook the fact that the rules of the game provide for a home plate.

There was much of that kind of pitching going on this year. Gene McCann, who scouts for the Yankees, is half way of the opinion that it is mostly due to the fact that the American small boy is losing all of his early skill at throwing green apples.

The eight-game football schedule which includes feature tilts with Rutgers University, Holy Cross, Canisius and Colgate was announced for the Providence College gridgers of this fall by Graduate Manager John E. Farrell of the Dominican college. Five games are listed to be played away from here, while the remaining three will be staged on Hendriken Field.

The new program for the Smith Hill gridgers is lighter than the card of last fall when Williams, Army, Temple and Springfield were listed among the opponents of the Black and White. With a strong array of veteran material available the locals expect to make a fine showing against the competition that has been lined up for the coming campaign.

Newcomers to the schdeule are Rut-

In addition to the Canisius game here on Oct. 12, Ben Beck's Middlebury aggregation will make its appearance on Smith Hill on Nov. 2, and two weeks later the St. John's College outfit of Brooklyn, rival of the locals, will come here for their seventh grid encounter with the Dominicans.

The schedule will be opened with the game with Rutgers University at New Brunswick, N. J., inaugurating athletic relations between the two schools. Rutgers always boasts strong grid outfits, and for the past two years has been one of the major opponents on Holy Cross's grid list.

The Holy Cross game, played last fall at the end of the list, has been moved to the second date on the card, being slated to be played at Worcester on Oct. 5th.

It will be the fifth time that the Providence grid stalwarts have performed on Fitton Field. The locals have yet to annex a win over the Crusaders in the fall sport, but will make a strong bid for such a victory next season.

Canisius, one of the outstanding teams of the East last fall, being beaten but once, by the undefeated Boston College eleven, will renew relations with the locals after a seven year lapse of activity. The Smith Hillers invaded Buffalo in 1922 and dropped a 15 to 6 decision in a blinding snowstorm, and since that time neither college has met in competition. Coached by Luke Urban, Fall River resident, and one of the greatest athletes ever developed at Boston College, Canisius will prove a powerful opponent for the locals to subdue.

Oct. 19 is an open date on the schedule at present, and although the Dominicans have been offered several opportunities to book a game, according to Graduate Manager Farrell, it will probably remain vacant in view of the Colgate game listed for the following Saturday at Hamilton, N. Y. The meeting between the New York Staters and the locals will mark their fourth grid combat.

Middlebury, coached by Ben Beck, former Medford high mentor, and well known Brown star, pays a visit to these Plantations on the first Saturday in November to meet the Black and White eleven. The Dominicans tussled to a 13-13 tie at Middlebury three years ago, and the return tilt carded for this city the following campaign, was washed away when the Vermont floods intervened.

Continuing their relations with the Coast Guard Academy the Dominicans will travel to New London on Nov. 9 while Brown entertains Dartmouth at the local stadium. Last fall the Cadets eked out a tie game with the Smith Hillers.

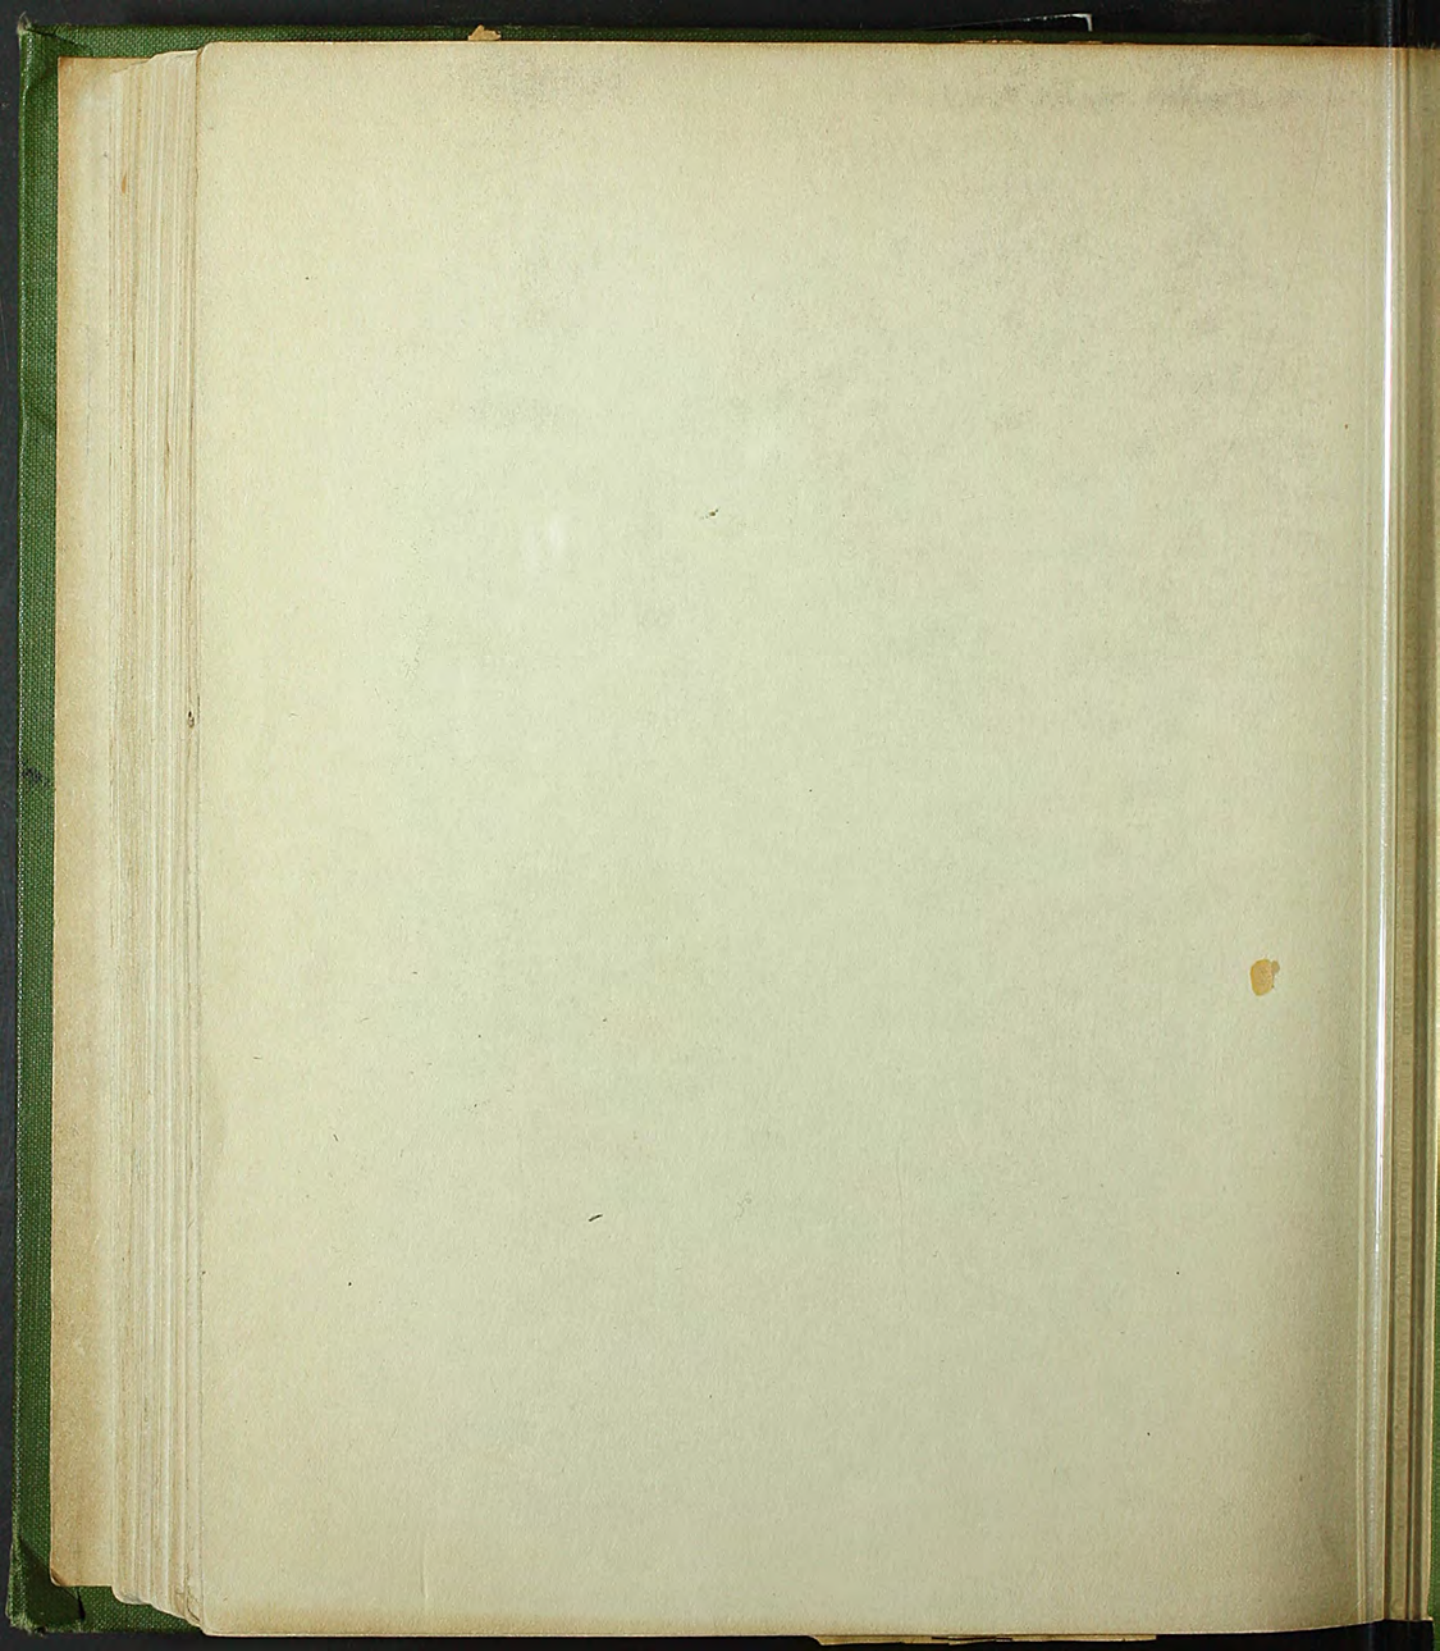

St. John's, oldest rival of the locals, will come here on Nov. 16, meeting the Providence outfit for the seventh successive campaign. In this rival series the Dominicans have won two, lost one and tied three. The game in Brooklyn last season ended in a scoreless decision.

Lowell Tech's undefeated eleven will close its campaign with the Smith Hillers at Lowell. The last grid clash between the two schools was in 1924, when Providence scored a one touchdown win in the Massachusetts city.

The complete schedule is as follows: Sept. 28, Rutgers University at New Brunswick, N. J.; Oct. 5, Holy Cross at Worcester; 12, Canisius College at Providence; 19, open; 26, Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y.; Nov. 2, Middlebury at Providence; Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.; 16, St. John's (of Brooklyn) at Providence; 23, Lowell Textile at Lowell, Mass.
