Corrigan Wins P.C. Road Race; O'Brien Is 2nd

Jim Corrigan, La Salle's captain and the state's outstanding schoolboy distance runner, finished a perfect season in local cross-country competition yesterday by winning the first annual Providence College invitation road race.

Making his first start since injuring his ankle in the New England championships Nov. 8, Corrigan left no doubt that the ankle was mended and that he was back in top form again. At the tape he led Cranston's Al O'Brien by 100 yards in a time of 15.28 for three miles.

The victory was Corrigan's fourth in local interscholastic meets in addition to his dual-meet triumphs. He placed fifth in the New England, but was the first Rhode Islander home in a time of 12:55.

A field of eight, representing Barrington, Mt. Pleasant, Cranston and La Salle participated in the road race which may become an annual event at Providence College. Five medals, including a gold one for first place and silver for second, will be awarded to the first five finishers.

Al DeAngelis of Mt. Pleasant was the early leader with teammates Tom Richard and Anthony Gallagher and Corrigan just a few steps behind. Corrigan took the lead from DeAngelis on the hill at Huxley Avenue the first time around the course and gradually widened it for the rest of the race.

The meet ended the cross-country season for local schoolboy runners. Indoor track workouts are expected to begin the first week in December.

The summary:

1. Jim Corrigan, LS;
2. Al O'Brien, Cr.;
3. Tom Richard, MP;
4. Don MacQuattie, Barr.;
5. John Craven, MP;
6. John Dugan, MP;
7. Al DeAngelis, MP;
- Anthony Gallagher, MP; did not finish.

Bruin Six Trims Friars by 12-4

Conn, Soph at Brown, Breaks Right Leg; Out Several Weeks

By JOHN MAYNARD

Performing for the first time under its new coach, Don Whiston, Brown University's hockey team whacked Providence College, 12-4, last night at the Auditorium, but the victory may turn out to be the most costly of the season.

George Conn, promising sophomore who started last night's exhibition game in the left-wing slot on the No. 1 line, broke his right leg after crashing into the boards late in the second period.

Conn was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital where X rays revealed a fractured fibula or small bone. He will be out of action for several weeks at least.

Despite the lopsided score, last night's game was close until the final period, when the Bruins racked up six goals, three of them in succession within a four-minute period by Dan Keefe, a fast-skating, hard-shooting sophomore from Newton, Mass. Besides this hat trick, Keefe, a slim, bespectacled performer, scored a lone goal in the second period and a total of five assists for nine points for the night.

The Bruins led, 3-1, at the end of the first period, and 6-3 in the second. The Friars made it 6-4 in the early stages of the final period, but then came the scoring parade by the winners. A total of 11 penalties were called in the final period, including majors against Ed Hornstein, the Friars' freshman goalie, and Frank DiBiase, Bruin right-winger on the first line. Both were banished from the game at 11:28 for fighting.

Friars' Sextet Host to Tufts

Providence College's freshman-studded hockey team will be gunning for its first victory of the season tonight in a game with Tufts at the R.I. Auditorium.

The first game, between Hope and LaSalle, starts at 7:30. P.C. and Tufts meet at 8:30.

Playing its first season of formal intercollegiate hockey, P.C. has only three seniors on the team. They are the co-captains Tom Army and Bob Petit and Jim White, and ex-forward now playing left defense. Army centers the first line and Petit plays right wing.

Army, Petit, Wholey and White are holdovers from the informal P.C. squad that played in local amateur ranks last season and met two collegiate opponents, Brown and Army.

Both the second and third lines this year are composed of freshmen. In view of all the first-year men on the squad, coach Dick Rondeau, former Dartmouth star, has been stressing fundamentals.

The Friars dropped their opener to Brown, 12-4.

Al Power Gets 3 Goals As Tufts Six Tops P.C.

Tufts opened its hockey season by defeating Providence College, 8-4, at the Auditorium last night. The loss was the second straight for the Friars.

Pacing the Tufts attack were Al Power, co-captain from Medford, and Tom Nolan of Waltham. Power scored three goals, Nolan two. Phil

Richardson, the other co-captain, was outstanding on defense.

Power sent Tufts ahead, 1-0, at 3:45 of the first period on a shot from the left side from about seven feet out. The visitors' second goal of the period came when Nolan scored on a pass from Jerry Mahoney at 9:18. Ed Monahan, former Hope star, scored Providence College's goal in this period on a pass from Tom McAlee.

Tufts went ahead, 3-1, Dick Kelley scoring at 2:50 when the Friars were shorthanded.

Power scored his second goal on a pass from Kelley and Tom Regan at 6:12 of the second period. He got his third goal of the game at 5:39 of the final stanza on a pass from Mahoney.

Tufts passed well and Providence College didn't. That was the difference.

Friars Schedule Schoolboy Relay Next Saturday

Eleven schools, including the crack Bayonne, N.J. high quartet, have filed entries for the fourth annual Providence College four-mile high school relay which will be run over the Friars' board track Saturday afternoon, it was announced this morning by Harry Coates, P.C. track coach.

Five Rhode Island high schools and six out-of-state teams representing various sections of New England and the eastern seaboard comprise the field at the moment. One more team may enter.

St. Augustine's of Brooklyn, N. Y., last year's champion, will be back to defend its crown but faces a rugged rival in the talented Bayonne quartet which will probably enter the event as the favorite. Other out-of-state schools are Danbury (Conn.) High School which is coached by Dan O'Grady, former La Salle coach; Hyde Park (Mass.) High School which will be led by Dave Dahl, winner of the New England Cross-Country crown; Concord (Mass.) High School and New Bedford Vocational.

The Rhody delegation is headed by La Salle Academy. Also entered are Mount Pleasant, Woonsocket, St. Raphael and Hope, 1949 winner and holder of the relay record of 18:59.4. That was the year in which the Blue Wave had the speedy quartet of Bill Newman, Joe Pizzo, Harry Devoe Jr., and Robert Her-

P.C. and Gorham In New Rivalry

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars launch a new athletic rivalry tonight at Mount Pleasant High when they open their 1952-53 basketball campaign against Gorham State Teachers College from Maine. It all started from a sports discussion among the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., the Friars' athletic director; Coach Vin Cuddy and John Bodnarik of Gorham.

Bodnarik officiated several of the Friars' games in Maine and suggested the teams get together. They plan to meet in basketball and baseball, with tonight's game the first of a series. Gorham gave Bates quite a tussle on Monday night, losing a high-scoring 80-to-72 contest, after winning its opener. They are defending champions in the N.E. Teachers College A.A.

Coach Cuddy hasn't any scouting report on the Hilltoppers but he has some fine reports on their teams of previous seasons. Last year Gorham won 10 and lost six, paced by center John Darling, who averaged 24.3 points a game. However, the Friars have a fairly strong squad this season, with a year of game-experience and play in faster competition for the most part.

The Friars still have half of their scoring punch from last season in junior Bobby Moran from Brooklyn. Jim Schlimm, the other half, graduated in June after scoring more than 1000 points in his college career. Schlimm, a deceptive hook shooter, is presently with an artillery unit in the U.S. Army at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and plans little basket shooting this winter.

Change in Tactics

Moran is one of the Friars' top scorers and shooters of all time. He had 383 points last season, missing three games because of injury. He's working with Kenny Kerr of Newport this year. Moran has been hitting in practice and recently scored 39 points in 36 minutes against the combined opposition of Connecticut, Amherst and the U.S. Coast Guard Academy.

As Moran goes, doesn't necessarily mean that's the way the Friars will go. He's the big gun but some of the others will have to score heavier this year to make up the gap left by Schlimm's graduation. Coach Cuddy would like to see improved performances from centers Bob Prendergast, the Friars' big man at 6'5, and Jack Reynolds, who has looked good in the workouts.

The Friars are playing a different type of ball this year, Schlimm used to play in the middle a lot and score on hooks. This season they are trying to keep the middle open for more driving, with a premium on good ball handling and fast cutting.

The outside men will be Tommy Mullins, tenacious defensive player, and Hank McQueeney, fine shot and rebounder. Phil Lynch, accurate passer, and John "Beaver" Power, who wasn't on the squad last season, will spell Mullins and McQueeney. Lynch and Power have both done a good job in practice, with Power especially effective.

Injuries

Center Joe King injured his elbow in a scrimmage with Connecticut and will be out for some time. Jack Durkin, Pawtucket West alumnus, twisted his ankle but could help as the season progresses. Others who will break into the lineup from time to time are Charlie Acquavia, Jack Keating, Bob O'Connell, Jack Preisner, Bill Quinlan and Eddie Ryder.

"We started on Nov. 1 just like the rest of them," Cuddy said. "I think we are shooting better generally this year. That is, we seem to be getting more open shots than we did at this time last season. The defense hasn't been too tight but it seldom is early in the year.

"We improved as we played better against the UConns and the Newport OCS teams in the second meetings than we did the first time. That Navy team in Newport is terrific and we gave them a tussle the second time. I think it was 60-55, or something like that, in a 40-minute workout. And that's very good for us."

The Friars have a 22-game schedule, including the annual games with Brown, Rhode Island, Springfield, St. Anselm's, Holy Cross, Colby and tough newcomers like Maryland State and Manhattan. Andy McGowan, Smith Hill resident, who attended St. Pius Grammar and La Salle, heads the Jasper quintet this season. And perhaps that's the real reason for the meeting, although the Friars and Manhattan used to play at one time.

Providence and Gorham meet at 8:30 tonight, with Leicester Junior College playing the Providence College Frosh at 7 o'clock.

PC Five Beats Gorham State Teachers

The Providence College basketball team opened its 1952-53 season by outscoring the Gorham State Teachers College, 87-69, last night at the Mount Pleasant High gym.

It took the Friars a full two periods to shake the first game jitters, but once they got rolling in the second half they maintained a comfortable lead.

During the first half, however, Gorham played the Friars almost even, trailing by only 18-17 at the first period halt and 31-28 at the half.

Gorham stayed with the Friars until the count went to 41-40, but then Providence opened up and boosted the margin to 55-44 at the quarter.

Bobby Moran set the scoring pace for the Friars with 18 points and had plenty of help from Tommy Mullins and Phil Lynch. Tony Wedge, Gorham freshman, was the game's high scorer with 24 points.

How to Score Minus Schlimm Friar Problem

Providence's Lineup

Pretty Much Same
Except for Big Jim

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars, with a month of conditioning behind them, open their 22-game schedule tonight at Mount Pleasant High, facing Gorham State Teachers. The visitors from Maine have broken even in two starts so far.

The Friars are not without game-experience, however, as they met the University of Connecticut, Amherst and the U.S. Coast Guard Academy teams in their preseason preparations, and also scrimmaged the strong Newport OCS team.

The Providence lineup is pretty much the same as last season with one major exception. However, Coach Cuddy is wondering where the points that Jim Schlimm contributed fairly consistently to the PC attack over the last three seasons are going to come from. Schlimm, one of the best scorers in New England, graduated last June and is in the Army.

Bobby Moran, who was a sophomore star last year, is the Friars' big gun. He scored 383 points last year and has been off to a brilliant start in the Providence workouts. Bobby is an accomplished set shot.

Gorham, coached by John Bodnarik Jr., opened its season with an 86-50 victory over Lyndon Teachers and dropped an 80-72 decision to Bates Monday night. A year ago the Hilltoppers won 10 out of 16 games as center John Darling registered 388 points for a 24.3 average. Gorham has a small male enrollment but has been fairly successful in basketball in its level of competition.

The Friars haven't been able to scout their foes. But coach Lee Williams of Colby told Cuddy that Gorham had some pretty good shooters when the Mules played them last season and had some of the same personnel this year.

With tonight's game, the PC quintet launches a series of three games in five nights. Following Gorham, Providence meets Assumption Saturday night in Worcester and St. Anselm's on Sunday at Manchester, N.H.

The Friars' starting team will include Tommy Mullins and Hank McQueeney at guards, Ken Kerr and Moran at forwards and Bob Prendergast at center. Jack Reynolds, Phil Lynch and John "Beaver" Power also rate with the starters and will see much service.

Providence has 10 games listed for its "home" court at Mount Pleasant High, including the second game of the Brown series, and will meet Rhode Island and Manhattan at the Auditorium.

Coach Hal Martin's freshman squad has three games in three nights starting with tonight's preliminary with Leicester Junior College, scheduled for 7 o'clock. The PC-Gorham game is listed for 8:30 o'clock.

Now It Can Be Told:

Nashua's 38-Year-Old Tebbetts Really 40—And From Burlington

Montpelier, Vt.—(AP)—Now it appears that George Robert "Birdie" Tebbetts, newly appointed manager of the Indianapolis American Association club, knows neither his real age nor his birthplace.

During all of his playing career, the Baseball Register listed Tebbetts, former Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians' catcher, as having been born in Nashua, N.H., on Nov. 10, 1914.

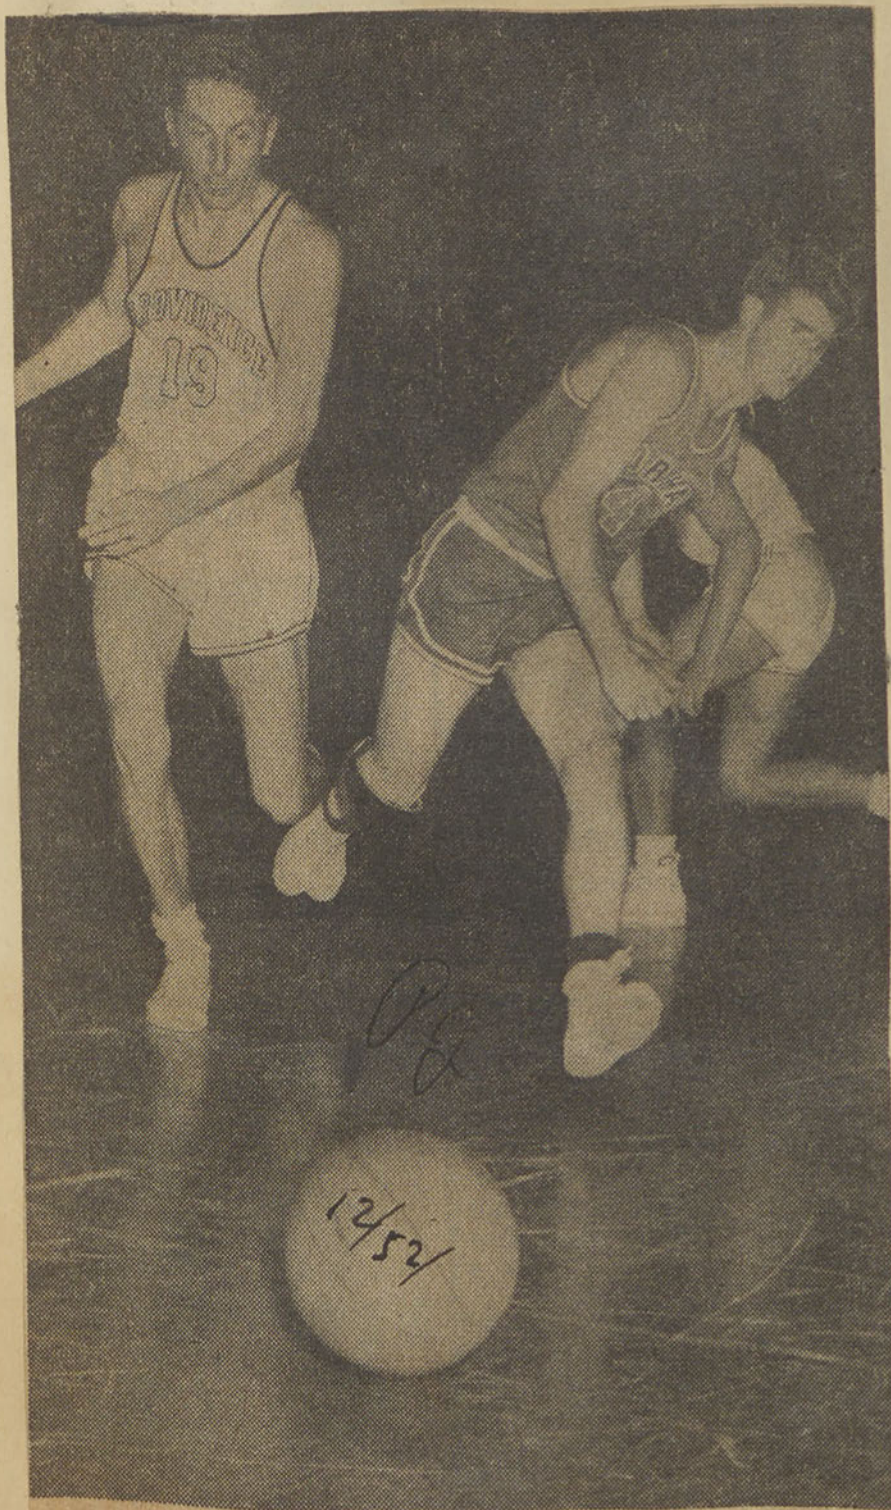

Yesterday during a lull in the baseball meetings in Phoenix, Ariz., "Birdie" confessed he was 43 instead of 38. "You know club owners aren't interested in you if you're too old," he explained.

An examination of the birth records filed with the Vermont secretary of state reveal that Tebbetts actually is 40, having been born in Burlington on Nov. 10, 1912. His family moved to Nashua during his early childhood.

"Birdie's" 1934 classmates at Providence College always snickered when his age was mentioned.

"If 'Birdie' was born in 1914, he would have graduated with me when he was only 19," one of his classmates pointed out. "'Birdie' always was smart—but not that smart."

P.C. Wins, 87 to 69

Friars Work Off Slow Start In First Test

Gorham Five Provides 'Satisfactory Opener' With Aggressive Play

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars hit their stride after a slow start and scored an 87-to-69 victory over Gorham State Teachers College last night before a capacity crowd of 700 at Mount Pleasant High School.

The tall Friars had their work cut out for them for a time as the Maine team played hustling, aggressive basketball, despite being well outsized in manpower. The game proved a fairly satisfactory opener for the Friars.

Bobby Moran took scoring honors for the Friars with 18 points. He played a fine floor game and picked up on his scoring during the second half. However it was the driving efforts of Tommy Mullins and Phil Lynch that seemed to give the Friars the lift when they needed it.

Gorham wasn't as easy as the score would indicate. It had a fine front combination of Capt. Harry True and Chet Koceika and Tony Wedge, a freshman hook-shot artist, was the game's high scorer with 24. The pace told on the Maine team more than it did on the Friars.

Fast Break Tells

Gorham's pesty ball-stealing hurt the Friars during the first half, with the Maine club playing them practically even. Providence led, 18-17, at the end of the first quarter and held a three-point lead at halftime, 31-28, as Bob Prendergast, Moran and Hank McQueeney led a five-point surge during the closing minutes.

Providence, despite a drive by Lynch and Mullins, couldn't shake the visitors during the first six minutes of the third quarter. Leading, 41-40, the Friars later scored 11 points on a fast-breaking game while Gorham was limited to a single hoop by Wedge. This drive broke the game open and the Friars had an 11-point lead, 55-44, at the quarter.

After that, it was more or less a question of the score as the Friars were coming and Gorham was tiring badly. After the reserves had taken over with a 21-point advantage, Gorham picked up a little, but the Providence bench acquitted itself well when the chance came.

Big Total

Moran seems to be off to another fine season. Mullins and Lynch will help plenty. Prendergast dropped in several key shots and McQueeney, Kenny Kerr, Beaver Power and Jack Durkin all showed flashes of fine play. Once the Friars had got started and over their early nervousness, they looked like the makings of a fairly good ball club. Gorham was a good test in that respect.

Last night's total topped by one point the highest mark the Friars turned in last season, against Massachusetts. Prendergast's 11-point total is an improvement for the Friars' big man. However, the Friars' work on rebounds generally wasn't consistent.

Paced by Don Moran, Ralph Tedesco, Mo Mahoney and Gus Westerhuis, the Providence College Frosh scored a 62-to-58 victory over Leicester Junior College after leading, 33-19, at halftime.

Frosh Battle First Foe On Wednesday

The roster for the 1952-53 basketball squad was announced this week by Hal Martin, freshman mentor. The roster is as follows: Larry Collomore, Walter Malecki, Jim Heatherton, Ted Tedesco, Dick Elston, George Coleman, John Smith, Gus Westerhuis, Francis Mahoney, Dave Flaherty, John McKnight, and Don Moran.

The freshman have before them one of their toughest schedules. Included on this schedule are contests with such top aggregations as Newport O.C.S., Quonset Air Station, Holy Cross Freshman, and Dean Academy.

The Martinmen open their home season on December 3, when they meet Leicester Junior College at the Mt. Pleasant gym, prior to the varsity game.

The complete schedule for Mr. Martin's club will appear on page 4. It includes the finest opponents that this area could produce and will be a real test for the yearlings.

Worcester County Team Sets Dorm League Record

Records fell as the Dorm League, sponsored by the Carolan Club, opened its basketball season last week. In the first few games, the action provided many close games. In last week's big encounters, the Brewers downed the Boston Club, 26-17; Donnelly Alumni whipped the Conn. Yanks, 56-52; the Ferrets beat the Fabulous Five, 45-44; the Hartford Eagles turned back their city rivals, the Hilltoppers, 74-56; the Midgets edged the Sharks, 54-44; and the Worcester County Club turned in a record breaking performance in trouncing the Waterbury Club, 101-48. McBride, O'Neill, and Roy led the Worcester attack.

Hockey Spirit

This year our hockey teams enters its first season of intercollegiate competition, and if we can judge from the terrific battle which they put up against Brown last Friday night at the Auditorium, this school can expect a real renaissance insofar as school spirit is concerned. To anyone who did not actually witness this contest, the final score would be grossly misleading, since for the first two periods our men almost kept pace

Rondeauites Yield To Brunonians 12-4 In Hockey Clash At Arena

Cowl 11-26-52 By Bill Reardon

The Friar sextet was beaten by skaters from Brown University last Friday night at the Rhode Island Auditorium by a score of 12-4. This was the first game of the season for both teams, a tough one for the Bruins to win, and conversely, and a tough one for P. C. to lose.

In spite of winning, the Bruins suffered a major blow when, late in the second period, George Conn, left-winger on the No. 1 line skidded into the boards and broke his right leg. He will be out at least eight weeks.

Brown opened the scoring at 8:30 of the first period on a goal by Conn, in a gang attack on the Providence goal. Brown scored twice more in the period, Farrell and Keefe garnering the points, the later on a solo dash which beat Eddie Hornstein. With less than 16 seconds left in the period, Bob Reall caught a rebound during a gang attack and flipped it into the corner of the nets.

In the second period it again took the Bruins till 8:57 to score a goal. Vietze got two and Farrell the other one. Monahan scored at 2:05 on a beautiful pass from Sweeney, and Tom Army on a gang attack with the aid of Petite and Wholey.

In the third period the Friars got off to a fast start when Jimmy White cut the cords at 1:06, and then the roof fell in. Keefe got away for three solo dashes, and Pettit and North closed the scoring for the Bruins.

The game was marred by 21 penalties, 11 of them coming in the last period, including a match misconduct penalty against Hornstein and DiBiase for fighting.

PHIL-INS

Impending Basketball Season Will Be Launched By Friars Club Rally

PHIL GRIFFIN Cowl 11-26-52

After we've all done the turkey justice and have recuperated from the over-indulgence, and the banner days will be with us. The indoor track team, the hockey team, and the basketball team all swing into highly concentrated action after the holidays.

On December 3, the Friars Club will greet the new basketball season with a rally in Harkins Hall. The boys who will carry the banner for the Black and White on the hardwood are to be honored by a display of student enthusiasm on the date, the evening of the Gorham State game. We will not be urging the boys to do their utmost to down Gorham State alone, naturally. The rally will embrace the whole season. (Although, there will most likely be another when the Friar Boy meets the Bruin and the Ram.)

Thus, this affair will serve as a quite reliable gauge of student enthusiasm. I'm sure the success of the impending voyage will depend a great deal upon the send-off. You'll have plenty of time to get over to Mount Pleasant after this brief display of support. The games will start a little later than usual, so you won't miss any of the action.

It might be a good idea to get over there that night and show the club that the other schools won't out-do us in student support. Mr. Cuddy and the boys will show their appreciation on the court that evening and all throughout the season. You can be sure of it.

Friars Face Gorham In Basketball Opener

By Martin Sandler

Hopes for an extremely successful season run high as the varsity basketball squad enters its final week of preparation for the 1952-53 season. The Friars officially open their season next Tuesday night when they play host to Gorham State at the Mt. Pleasant Gym.

No less than nine varsity veterans appear on the P.C. roster and assure the Cuddymen of having their most experienced club in years. Returning from last year's varsity are Bob Moran, Bob Prendergast, Hank McQueeney, Tom Mullins, Ken Kerr, Jack Reynolds, Jack Durkin, Phil Lynch, and Joe King. Newcomers to the varsity include Bill Quinlan, Ed Ryder, Charlie Aquavia, Jack Keating, and Jack Priessner. Returning to the varsity after a year's absence is John Power.

Moran Scores 380 Points

In Bob Moran, the Friars have the most prolific scorer in their history. Last season, his first in varsity competition, Bob set a new P.C. scoring record of 380 points. It seems that nothing short of disaster will be able to stop him from even bettering that mark this year.

Bob Prendergast and Hank McQueeney give the Cuddymen two other excellent scorers. Both will be counted on to carry a heavy share of the offensive burden.

The presence of Tom Mullins and Phil Lynch gives the Friars two aggressive, excellent ball-handling guards. Both are extremely capable on defense and should set up many P.C. tallies this season.

Kerr, Reynolds, Power to Help

Such performers as Ken Kerr, Jack Reynolds, and John Power also figure heavily in the Cuddymen's plans. Kerr is an extremely agile ball-player and is capable of turning into an excellent scorer. He can be counted on to grab more than his share of rebounds. Reynolds and Power will also be looked to for offensive help.

With a few good breaks along the way, the 1952-53 squad could well be just about the most successful P. C. team in history.

Friars Win

The Friars overcame a rocky start in beating Gorham before a capacity crowd of 700. The out-sized visitors played a hustling, aggressive game and uncovered a talented hook-shot artist in freshman Tony Wedge, high scorer with 24 points.

Bobby Moran was high scorer for the Friars with 18 points. He also played a fine floor game. However, it was the driving efforts of Tommy Mullins and Phil Lynch that gave the Friars a lift when they needed it. Providence's performance, on a whole, was satisfactory.

Payoff Blitz

Gorham made a real fight of it until the final stages. It trailed by only 41-40 early in the third period. But the Friars came up with a strong attack and gathered 11 points in jig time while limiting Gorham to a single hook by Wedge. This blitz broke the game wide

John "Beaver" Power, who plays baseball and basketball with the Providence College Friars, saved the game and the league championship with a clutch defensive play in the playoffs of the Boston Park League recently. Power, playing shortstop for the Crosby team, made an outstanding catch in short left field, colliding with the left fielder and juggling the ball twice before his last-second lunge nailed it just off the grass. The tying run was across the plate as he made the dramatic final putout, which ended the series.

La Salle Harriers Beat C. Freshmen, 20-41

In their first meet of the season yesterday, La Salle's cross-country runners defeated the Providence College freshman squad, 20-41, over the P.C. course. First across the finish line was John Corrigan of La Salle, who covered the 29-10 miles in 15:02.

The summary:

LA SALLE (20)	PROV. COLLEGE FRESHMEN (41)
Corrigan	1 Allen
Corrigan	3 Madden
Corrigan	4 Danielly
Corrigan	5 Nelson
Corrigan	7 Tedesco

Other finishers: 8, Habershaw (LS); 9, Gault (LS); 11, Lake (LS); 13, Gormally (LS); 14, Marandola (LS); 15, Hennigan (LS).

open and gave the Friars an 11-point lead, 55-44, at the quarter.

Their total last night topped by one point the highest mark the Friars turned in last season, against Massachusetts. The Providence College Freshmen beat Leicester Junior College, 62-58, in the prelim.

McMullen, Murphy In Hibernian Meet

John McMullen, Rhode Island AAU decathlon champion from Providence College, and Bowdoin College's Donald Murphy are among the entries for the third annual track and field carnival Sunday at City Stadium under the auspices of the Monsignor Peter E. Blessing Division No. 3, Ancient Order of Hibernians.

McMullen has entered five events and Murphy has entered six.

West Point Harriers Wallop Friars, 17-46

West Point, N.Y.—Army's perennially powerful cross-country team scored its second victory of the 1952 season here yesterday defeating Providence College, 17 to 46. The Cadets unbeaten in dual meet competition since 1950, took eight of the first 10 places.

Bob Day, Army captain, took first place in the meet with a time of 27:04. Not far behind Day were teammates Dick Neu and Lew Olive, who finished in 27:11 and 27:21. Fourth place went to Chris Lohner of Providence with a time of 27:57. Lohner, a junior, won the Eastern Catholic college championship last year.

Bob Day, Army, 27:04; 2, Dick Neu, Army, 27:11; 3, Lew Olive, Army, 27:27; 4, Chris Lohner, Providence, 27:57; 5, Bill Almon, Army, 27:58; 6, Lu Luoma, Army, 28:14; 7, Ed Dinges, Army, 28:14; 8, Jim Effer, Army, 28:26; 9, Vin Singer, Army, 28:36; 10, Dick Jonsson, Providence, 28:56.

La Salle Edges P.C. Combine In X-Country

La Salle's cross-country team defeated a combined freshman-sophomore team from Providence College yesterday in a dual meet at Hendricken Field. The score was 27-28.

Bill Allen, P.C. freshman, won the race, covering the 2.9-mile distance in 14 minutes, 36 seconds. Jim Corrigan of La Salle was second, trailing Allen by about 60 yards. Bill Hanlon of La Salle finished third.

The victory is La Salle's fifth straight this season.

N.E. College Harriers Vie Today

Brown, the University of Rhode Island and Providence College will represent Rhody today in the New England intercollegiate cross-country championships at Franklin Park in Boston.

Providence College Lists 22 Hoop Tilts

PROVIDENCE (AP)—A 22-game basketball schedule for the Providence College Friars was announced today by the Rev. A. B. Begley, O. P., director of athletics.

Dec. 3, Gorham, Me., Teachers; 6, Assumption at Worcester; 7, St. Anselm's at Manchester, N. H.; 10, Maryland State; 13, American International at Springfield; 17, Brandeis at Waltham; 20, Colby. Jan. 3, Fairfield at Fairfield, Ct.; 9, Bates; 10, Holy Cross at Worcester; 14, Brown; 17, Springfield; 21, St. Anselm's; 27, Manhattan; Feb. 7, Rensselaer; 10, Rhode Island; 11, M. I. T.; 14, Clark at Worcester; 18, Fairfield; 21, at Springfield; 25, Brown; 27, Rhode Island at Kingston.

Johnny Kelley, New Londoner, Choice To Retain New England Harrier Title

BOSTON, Nov. 9 (P) — Boston University's brilliant harrier Johnny Kelley, undefeated in three seasons of competition, is favored to win individual honors and lead the Terriers to their second consecutive New England Intercollegiate cross county championship tomorrow over the Franklin Park course.

The little, blond speedster from New London, Conn., won this event last year after capturing the freshman race in 1950. He's still cracking course marks almost every time out.

Chief challengers for his individual crown are Capt. Ed Shea of Northeastern, third a year ago, and Harrison Aldrich of the University of Massachusetts.

Brown's Walt Molineux, New Hampshire's Al Carlsen, Vermont's George Davis, Springfield's Bill Hillman and Providence College's Chris Lohner are other top contenders.

Rhode Island Wins Title In Cross-Country

Boston, Nov. 10 —(P)—Brown's Walt Molineux captured individual honors and the University of Rhode Island's well-balanced forces took the team title today in the 40th annual New England intercollegiate cross country championship over the Franklin Park course.

The University of Maine's swift Paul Hanson led the field in the Freshman race while Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Frosh harriers won the team prize.

In the four mile varsity event, favored Johnny Kelley of Boston University — last year's winner — slumped badly in the late stages and wound up in 41st position.

Molineux — who also is a top-flight miler — sped away from Northeastern's Capt. Ed Shea in the final quarter mile to win by 6 1-2 seconds in 21 minutes, 27.5 seconds.

Shea, Harrison Aldrich of Massachusetts and Chris Lohner of Providence College all were bunched with Kelley in the early running.

Friar Harrier Win Over Brown

The Providence College cross-country team scored a 21-39 decision over Brown University's harriers yesterday in a dual meet over the Hendricken Field course. Individual honors went to Brown's Walt Molineux, who won the 4½-mile event in 21 minutes, 34 seconds.

Providence College also won the freshman race, defeating the Brown freshmen, 25-30. Joe Madden of the Friars won the race in 14:38.5.

Bruins, Friars, Rams Bid for N.E. Title Today

Brown, the University of Rhode Island and Providence College will represent Rhody today in the New England intercollegiate cross-country championships at Franklin Park in Boston.

Some 168 runners from 17 colleges are entered in the 4½-mile varsity race and 153 more from 15 schools will run in the 3¼-mile freshman event.

Boston University's Johnny Kelley, undefeated in three seasons of competition, is favored to win individual honors and lead the Terriers to their second straight team title. The New London, Conn., runner won the event last year and took the freshman race in 1950.

Walt Molineux of Brown, who placed fourth in the Heptagonals at New York Friday, is rated among the top challengers for individual laurels. Other threats include Chris Lohner of P.C., Al Carlsen of New Hampshire, George Davis of Vermont, Bill Hillman of Springfield, Ed Shea of Northeastern and Harrison Aldrich of the University of Massachusetts.

B.U. ACE FAVORED IN HARRIER EVENT

BOSTON, Nov. 9 — (AP) Boston University's brilliant harrier Johnny Kelley—undefeated in three seasons of competition—is favored to win individual honors and lead the Terriers to their second consecutive New England intercollegiate cross county championship tomorrow over the Franklin Park course.

The little, blond speedster from New London, Conn., won this event last year after capturing the freshman race in 1950. He's still cracking course marks almost every time out.

C., Brandeis, Bates, Colby and Clark.

The Providence College freshmen will play a twenty-five game schedule.

Providence is coached by Vin Cuddy, former Naugatuck High and University of Connecticut athlete. The Friars have been enjoying their greatest success on the court since Cuddy took over.

Track Star at Brown Cross Country King

BOSTON — (P) — Brown's brilliant New England Intercollegiate Mile Champion Walt Molineux also reigned as the region's cross country king today after whipping a 160-man field over the rugged Franklin Park 4-mile course.

The tall Bruin speedster put on a spurt with three quarters of a mile left to coast in with a 30-yard edge on Northeastern's Capt. Ed Shea in yesterday's 40th Annual N. E. Championship.

Rhode Island's well-balanced forces took team laurels with M. I. T. second.

Varsity team point scores:
1—Rhode Island 86; 2—M. I. T. 114; 3—Wesleyan 142; 4—Vermont 158; 5—Boston University 160; 6—Providence 162; 7—Massachusetts 168; 8—Northeastern 208; 9—New Hampshire 200; 10—Brown 227; 11—Maine 262; 12—Connecticut 284; 13—Coast Guard 299; 14—Springfield 323; 15—Williams 349; 16—Tufts 378. Boston College did not qualify for the team standings since it entered only three men, two shy of the required number.

Twenty-Two Hoop Games for Friar 5

Pantip / Valley Times
To Play Manhattan College at Auditorium Jan. 27

11-13-52
The Friars of Providence College will play 22 varsity basketball games this coming season according to the 1952-53 schedule, announced today by the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., director of athletics. There will be 12 home games, ten of which will be held in the cosy confines of the Mount Pleasant High School Boys' Gymnasium. Rhode Island University will be met in the traditional game at the R.I. Auditorium on Feb. 10th, while on Jan. 27th the Cuddymen will meet Manhattan College in the same auditorium. This latter contest will mark the first visit of a major metropolitan team to Providence. M.I.T. will also pay its first visit to the Providence College court. Maryland State College, an all-colored quintet, will be at Providence on Dec. 10th. Besides the home and home series with Brown, Rhode Island, Springfield, St. Anselm's and Fairfield, the Friars will also meet the following in single engagements, Assumption, A.I.C., Brandeis, Bates, Colby and Clark. The Providence College freshmen will play a 25-game schedule.

The Varsity Schedule

Dec. 3, Gorham State Teachers at Providence; 6, Assumption College at Worcester; 7, St. Anselm's College at Manchester, N.H.; 10, Maryland State College at Providence; 13, American International at Springfield; 17, Brandeis University at Waltham; 20, Colby College at Providence.

Jan. 3, Fairfield University at Fairfield; 9, Bates College at Providence; 10, Holy Cross College at Worcester; 14, Brown University at Brown; 17, Springfield College at Providence; 21, St. Anselm's College at Providence; 27, Manhattan College at R.I. Auditorium.

Auditorium; 11, M.I.T. at Providence; 14, Clark University at Worcester; 18, Fairfield University at Providence; 21, Springfield College at Springfield; 25, Brown University at Providence; 27, University of R.I. at Kingston.

P. C. Announces 22-Tilt Hoop Card

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 12 (AP) — A 22-game basketball schedule for the Providence College Friars was announced today by the Rev. A. B. Begley, O. P., director of athletics.

The schedule:

Dec. 3, Gorham, Me., Teachers; 6, Assumption at Worcester; 7, St. Anselm's at Manchester, N. H.; 10, Maryland State; 13, American International at Springfield; 17, Brandeis at Waltham; 20, Colby.

Jan. 3, Fairfield at Fairfield, Conn.; 9, Bates; 10, Holy Cross at Worcester; 14, Brown; 17, Springfield; 21, St. Anselm's; 27, Manhattan; Feb. 7, Rensselaer; 10, Rhode Island; 11, M. I. T.; 14, Clark at Worcester; 18, Fairfield; 21, Springfield at Springfield; 25, Brown; 27, Rhode Island at Kingston.

The Bayonne entries include Kopil, George Browne, Al Peterson, Tom Mernar, Percy Rochester, Nat Oliver, Al DeBella, Mike DeBeck and Rom Botyrius. Jimmy Corrigan heads the La Salle delegation which recently won the New England cross-country team title.

Providence Journal 11-14-52
Boston, Nov. 10 — (AP) — Brown's Walt Molineux captured individual honors and the University of Rhode Island's well-balanced forces took the team title today in the 40th annual New England Intercollegiate Cross Country championship over the Franklin Park course.

The University of Maine's swift Paul Hanson led the field in the freshman race while Massachusetts Institute of Technology's frosh harriers won the team prize.

In the 4-mile varsity event, favored Johnny Kelley of Boston University — last year's winner — slumped badly in the late stages and wound up in 41st position.

Molineux — who also is a top-flight miler — sped away from Northeastern's Capt. Ed Shea in the final quarter mile to win by 6 1-2 seconds in 21 minutes, 27.5 seconds.

Shea, Harrison Aldrich of Massachusetts and Chris Lohner of Providence College all were bunched with Kelley in the early running.

Four-Mile Event

The fourth annual Providence College four-mile invitation relay race for schoolboy teams will be held at 2:30 o'clock today on the board track at Hendricken Field. The race will be run in two sections with 11 teams competing.

Coach Harry Coates of the Friars has lined up a strong field, including the crack combination from Bayonne, N.J., High School. This group is headed by John Kopil, who has run a 4:29 mile, and been quite successful in cross country this past season.

Dave Dahl, the New England schoolboy cross country runnerup heads the Hyde Park team, which is also a strong contender. La Salle Academy, Rhode Island champion, is another strong team. The Maroon last won this race in 1950 while St. Augustine's of Brooklyn paced the field last season.

A Hope High quartet of Bill Newman, Joe Pizzo, Harry Devoe and Bob Herman set a track record of 18 minutes, 59.4 seconds, winning the inaugural race in 1949. Danny O'Grady, former La Salle coach, is bringing a team from Danbury High, while Concord, Mass., High School, coached by Harold "Skip" O'Connor, formerly of Burrillville, is also entered.

Entries include St. Raphael Academy, Mount Pleasant High, Concord, New Bedford Vocational, St. Augustine's of Brooklyn, Hope High, Hyde Park, Bayonne, La Salle, Woonsocket and Danbury.

Each man runs a one-mile leg and generally it has been quite close at the finish for a four-mile event. St. Augustine's winning time last year of 19 minutes, 38 seconds, was the third best of the three races. Coach Coates says Bayonne has a reasonable chance of setting a new record today. The Bayonne team is coached by George Buttner, formerly an outstanding half-miler.

P. C. Plays Away

Providence College Friars will open a two-game road trip tonight with Worcester against Assumption College. Providence will play at Manchester on Sunday, opposing St. Anselm's, which opened its campaign with an impressive victory over Merrimac College.

Both the Rams and the Friars started slowly and finished up strong in their opening games. Today is going to be a fast-break game this year and it takes a little time to master that style of offense. However the Rams were coming in the second half against BC, a team that beat them twice last season.

Coach Vin Cuddy expects trouble from St. Anselm's, although Assumption has played the Friars 17 times without scoring a victory. Providence won handily from Gorham Teachers in its opener, with Bobby Moran, Phil Lynch and Tom Mullins pacing the Friars. Moran scored 18 points and set up mates for other baskets, with Providence pulling away in the final minutes.

The Providence lineup will include Moran and Ken Kerr at forwards, Bob Prendergast at center, Mullins and Hank McQueeney at guards. Jack Reynolds, Lynch, and "Beaver" Power and Jack Kin are the top reserves.

10 Teams to Compete In P.C. 4-Mile Relay

The fourth annual Providence College four-mile invitation relay race for schoolboy teams will be held tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock on the board track at Hendricken Field. The race will be run in two sections with 10 teams competing.

Entries include St. Raphael Academy, Mount Pleasant High, Concord, New Bedford Vocational, St. Augustine's of Brooklyn, Hope High, Hyde Park, Bayonne, La Salle, Woonsocket and Danbury.

Each man runs a one-mile leg and generally it has been quite close at the finish for a four-mile event. St. Augustine's winning time last year of 19 minutes, 38 seconds, was the third best of the three races. Coach Coates says Bayonne has a reasonable chance of setting a new record tomorrow. Newport OCS Beats

12-5-52

The Newport Officer Candidate School last night scored a 91-73 basketball victory over the Providence College Freshmen at the Naval Station. The winners led at halftime, 37-30.

Angelo Tedesco led the Friars with 29 points. Mose Hale, formerly of West Texas State, had 22 for OCS.

Brown Drops Opener, Friars Triumph, 87-69

PROVIDENCE — Larry McClements, Springfield co-captain scored 26 points at Marvel Gym last night to give his team a 63-61 win over Brown. Springfield led at halftime, 30-27, and Brown's top point getters were Tooley with 17 points and Murgo, 16.

Providence College started on the right foot at Mount Pleasant High gym by tripping Gorham State Teachers' College 87-69 as Bobby Moran tallied 18 times. Tonight at Kingston, the University of Rhode Island entertains Boston College.

Friar Freshman Five Beats Quonset Flyers

The Providence College Freshmen scored their second victory in two days by handing the Quonset Flyers a 79-69 setback last night at Quonset.

Ralph Tedesco of the Friars and the Flyers' Joe Culloo each scored 18 points. Gus Westerhuis, with 16, and Larry Colemore, with 15, gave Tedesco his chief support.

La Salle Placed 2nd but Ruling Draws Protest

Maroon Team Switches To 2nd Heat After Man Loses Shoe in 1st

With anchorman John Kopil turning in a 4:24 mile, fastest in his career, Bayonne (N.J.) High School was an easy winner in the fourth annual Providence College four-mile invitation relay yesterday afternoon at the Hendriken Field outdoor board track.

Ten teams, including St. Augustine High School of Brooklyn, the defending champion, participated in the event, which was run off in two heats. Times were then compared to determine the meet winner.

La Salle with four members of its New England championship cross-country team competing, figured to give the New Jerseyites a battle in the first and top-seeded heat, but its second runner, Tom Harrington, lost his right shoe just as he was starting on his first lap and was ordered to drop out by Coach Ray Dwyer.

Wins Second Heat

Harry Coates, Friar coach, and director of the meet yesterday, permitted the Maroon to run in the second heat, which it won, but his decision was protested after the race by Ray Betagh, Woonsocket coach, whose team placed third behind Bayonne and La Salle after times had been compared.

Betagh had a brief, but heated argument with Coates at the track after the PC coach had announced La Salle second in the final placings, but Coates didn't budge in his decision. Betagh then protested to the Rev. A. Begley, O.P., Providence College athletic director, who asked him to file his complaint in writing.

Father Begley said the protest would go before the Providence College Athletic Council at its semi-monthly meeting Dec. 14. The council is made up of three faculty members, three alumni members, a student member and Father Begley.

Easy Victory

The order of finish of the first six teams and their times follow: Bayonne, N.J., High School, 19:12.2; La Salle Academy, 19:48.3; Woonsocket, 20:00; Mt. Pleasant, 20:18; New Bedford Vocational, 20:20; St. Augustine High School, 20:51.4. Times were not available for St. Raphael, Hope High School, Hyde Park (Mass.) High School and Concord High School.

Bayonne, cross-country and two-mile relay champions of New Jersey, won by about three laps over New Bedford with its powerful combination of Tom Mernar, Al Peterson, George Browne, and Kopil. Their time will stand as a record for the meet, according to Coates.

In a program issued by the college, a Hope High foursome of Bill Newman, Joe Pizzo, Harry Devoe and Robert Herman, is listed as the record holder with a time of 18:59.4, 12.8 seconds better than Bayonne's performance yesterday, but Coates maintains the Hope team ran a course that was one lap short of four miles.

La Salle Leading

La Salle was actually ahead of Bayonne when the mishap to Harrington occurred. John Terry, the Maroon's first man, had run a 4:50 mile and had given Harrington about a 10-yard lead as he started the second mile. Photographs of the baton-passing show that Terry apparently stepped on Harrington's heel, pulling his shoe, which was not taped, half off. Rounding the first bank Harrington kicked it all the way off and kept on running until Dwyer told him to drop out.

In the second heat Harrington was the leadoff man and was followed by John Gormally, Donald Stubbs, who took Terry's place, and Jim Corrigan, the state's best distance runner.

First heat—Bayonne, (N.J.) H.S. (Tom Mernar, Al Peterson, George Browne, John Kopil) 19:12.2; New Bedford Vocational H.S. (Raymond Degagner, Norman Bergeron, Jonathan Chace, Albert Porter) 20:25; St. Augustine H.S., Brooklyn, N.Y. (Robert Nolan, Kevin Rooney, Tierney O'Rourke, Joseph Miccio); Hyde Park, (Mass.) H.S. (Eric Dahl, Robert Green, David Dahl, Fred Steele), time not taken.

Second heat—La Salle Academy (Tom Harrington, John Gormally, Donald Stubbs, Jim Corrigan) 19:48.3; Woonsocket (Dick Desrosiers, George Scanlon, Fred Gardella, William Darcey) 20:00; Mt. Pleasant (Thomas Richard, Harris Gederman, John Craven, Alfred DeAngelis) 20:18; St. Raphael (Ambrose Gallagher, Edmund Lucini, Ronald Doire, Richard Skalko); Concord (Mass.) H.S. (Barry Weidner, Owen Nichols, George Davidson, David Woodruff); Hope High School (Robert Carroll, Robert Berlam, Robert Schontzler, George Hearne), time not taken.

Woonsocket Runners Get Woonsocket 12/9/52 'Raw Deal'

PROVIDENCE—As of today, the official records show that Coach Ray Betagh's Woonsocket High School four-mile relay team finished third in the fourth annual Providence College invitation event Saturday at Hendriken Field, but if a protest is upheld, the Villa Novans will move into second place.

The event was run off in two heats and times were then compared to determine the winner. La Salle was entered in the first top-seeded heat again Bayonne (the winner), New Bedford Vocational, St. Augustine's of Brooklyn and Hyde Park.

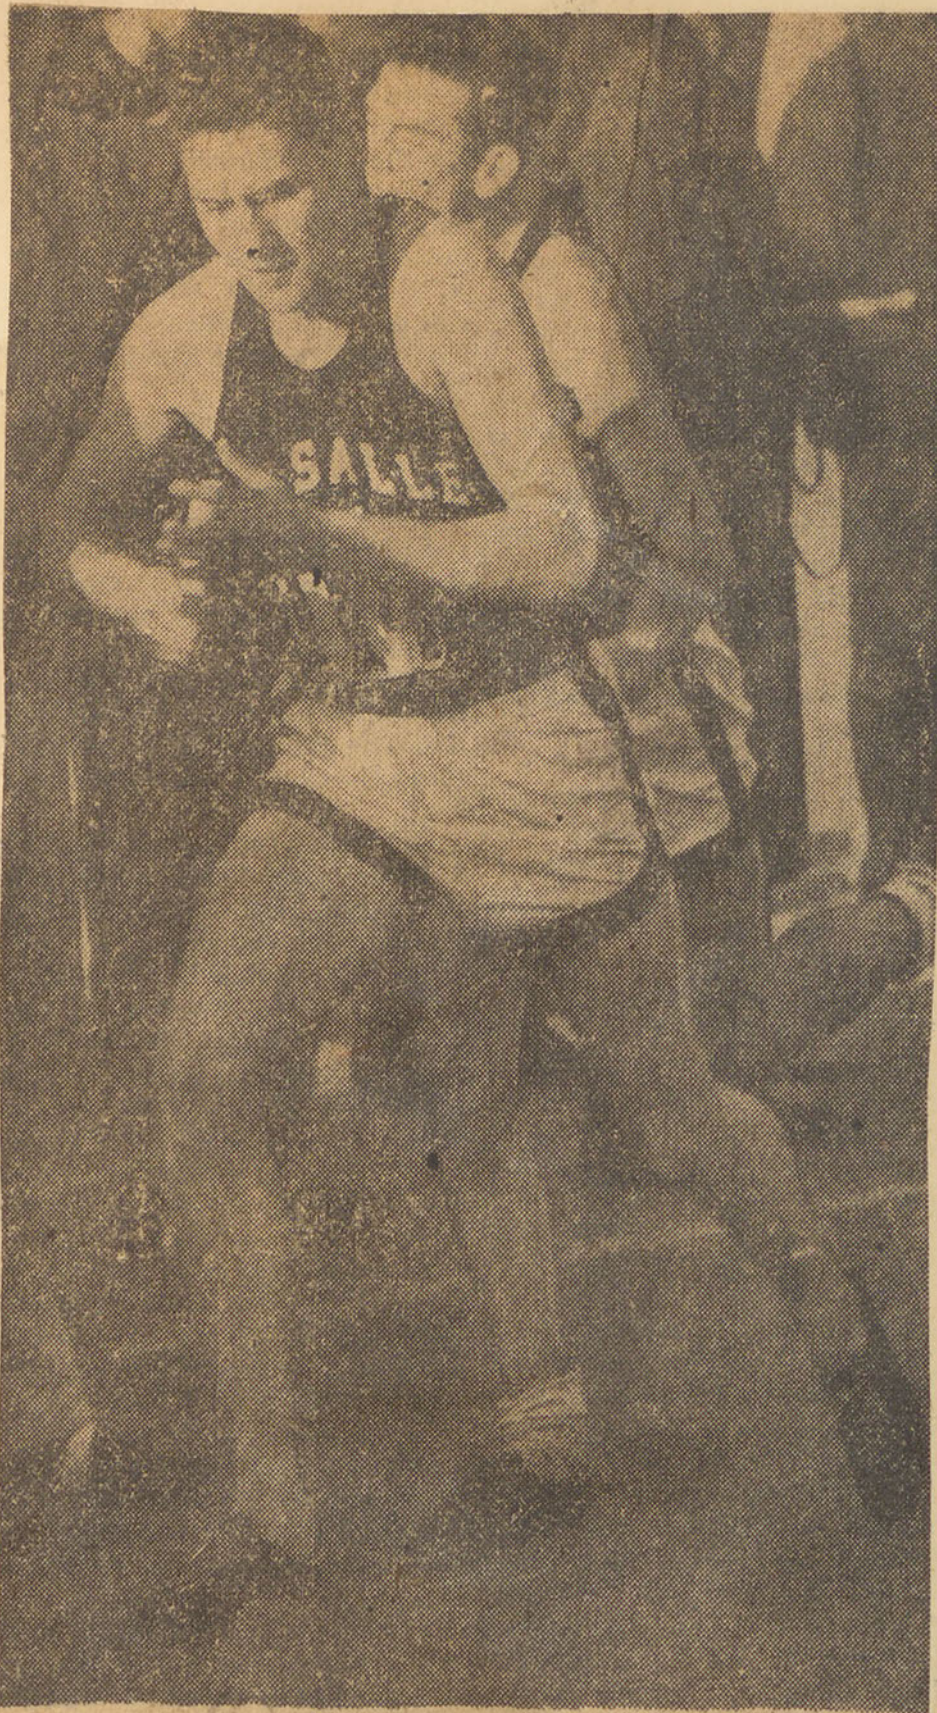

However, La Salle's second runner, Tommy Harrington, lost a shoe just as he was starting on his first lap and was ordered to drop out by Coach Ray Dwyer. Harry Coates, PC Coach, and director of the meet permitted La Salle to run in the second heat which it won, but Betagh protested.

When he failed to reach an understanding with Coates, Betagh protested to the Rev. A. Begley, O.P., Providence College athletic director, who told him to file his complaint in writing. The matter will be discussed by the PC Athletic Council at its semi-monthly meeting next Sunday. Three other coaches, Francis Holt of New Bedford Vocational; Skip O'Connor of Concord (Mass.) High and Harold Myers of Mount Pleasant said they would back up Betagh on his complaint.

Bayonne, the winner, turned in a time of 19:12.2; La Salle finished in 19:48.3 and Woonsocket in 20:00. Betagh protested that La Salle should have been disqualified for the day when its second runner dropped out and his views were shared by practically every other coach at the meet.

Woonsocket was represented by Dick Desrosiers, George Scanlon, Fred Gardella and William Darcey. John Kopil, Bayonne's ace, ran the mile in 4:24, fastest in his career.

Finishing behind Woonsocket in the second heat were Mount Pleasant, St. Raphael, Concord and Hope, while the Villa Novans bettered times of New Bedford Vocational, St. Augustine's and Hyde Park who competed in the first heat.

Heel and Toe Mishap: La Salle lost all chance of victory in yesterday's relay race at P.C. when John Terry's toe collided with Tom Harrington's heel as Terry was passing baton to teammate after completing first leg of race. Harrington kicked the shoe off and tried to run barefoot but Coach Ray Dwyer flagged him out of the race. La Salle had 10-yard lead at the time of mishap.

P.C. Sets Down Assumption

Moran Gets 20 As Friars Post 78-52 Victory

P.C.'s Weekend Trip Opens Successfully; St. Anselm's Tonight

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Worcester — Providence College found a zone defense much to its liking and plastered Assumption College, 78-52, here last night in the road opener for the Friars.

With Bobby Moran, brilliant Brooklyn, N.Y. boy leading the way, the Friars took command after five minutes and piled up such a margin that all 15 players on the squad saw plenty of action.

The Assumption zone did bother the other Friars for a time, but Moran reeled off 11 points in a row, hiking the P.C. troupe from a 4-7 deficit into a 17-7 margin with about eight minutes of the first period gone.

The other members of the cast then began using their well-devised patterns and rolled to a 38-24 halftime lead.

Moran piled up 15 of his 20 points in the first half. He was joined in the double-figures column by Tommy Mullins, a Worcester Commerce High School grad, who directed the Friars' attack, particularly in the second half. The out-classed Worcester Greyhounds, now even up after two games, were led by a pair of freshmen, Joe Dyer and Bill Ormond. Dyer scored 14 points and Ormond 10.

John Powers of the Friars and Bob Bourgeois of the home forces entered into a bit of by-play that brought about their ejection late in the game. Bourgeois had a bump over his left eye as a souvenir of the passage at arms.

Considering the fact that Assumption remained in its zone defense most of the game, the Friars turned in an impressive performance. They displayed plenty of speed, really strong shooting ability, quick, crisp passing and a sound defense.

The Friars will play St. Anselm at Manchester, N.H., today.

WE REMEMBER WHEN

We can remember the days when track and cross-country candidates were treated with scorn at Woonsocket High School by the "big shot" football, basketball and baseball players, but times certainly have changed.

When Ray Betagh took over as coach of the track and cross-country teams, he received little mention in this paper, but he's certainly making us sit up now and take notice. Did you see what his four-mile relay team did last Saturday?

Although competing against the cream of the crop, including schoolboy teams from New Jersey, Brooklyn, NY, and Massachusetts, the Villa Novans, with Dick Desrosiers, Freddie Gardella, Billy Darcey and George Scanlon carrying the batons, finished second in the fourth annual Providence College invitation relay.

Sure—we know official results of the race as they stand today place La Salle second and Woonsocket third, but that's going to be changed as a result of a protest filed by Betagh.

Do you know what La Salle actually tried to pull off? It was entered in the first heat and after its number one runner had completed his mile, the number two boy, Tommy Harrington, lost his right shoe. He was promptly ordered to drop out of the race by Coach Ray Dwyer.

Betagh approached Dwyer and said, "tough luck, Ray, but it's one of the breaks. Better luck next year."

Dwyer answered, "Do you know what I'm going to do? I'm going to ask Harry Coates (PC coach and meet director) to let my team run in the second heat just for the workout."

Betagh didn't think any more of the matter and when his boys finished the four miles in 20:20 time, he was as happy as you Red Sox fans will be if your team ever wins another pennant. Ray had reason to beam and hug his runners because they were great and showed their class against the best in the East.

When Coates announced the final results. "Bavonne the winner, La Salle second and Woonsocket third," Betagh went into a war dance. (Remember how angry he used to get in biology and other classes?)

Ray told Coates a thing or two, but the meet director refused to budge. The Woonsocket mentor then went to the Rev. A. Begley, O.P., Providence College athletic director, with his complaint. Father Begley told him to file his protest in writing and it would be considered at a meeting of the college athletic council next Sunday.

Naturally—the athletic council will do the only fair thing—disqualify La Salle, as Coates should have done, and place Woonsocket second—officially. There's a track ruling which states "a competing team will be disqualified if one of its members quits a race for any reason."

The La Salle runner was told to quit the first heat, so that should have been the end of it.

Heck—it's like playing poker. You get your hand, don't like it—so say to the dealer—let's start over. Yeah—nice try.

We want Betagh and his Woonsocket High runners to know the city is proud of them and their achievement last Saturday. Track and cross-country has become a major sport at the local institution—and rightfully so. Keep up the good work fellows—we're all with you.

ST. ANSELM'S BEATS PROVIDENCE, 72-69

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 7

(AP)—Woody Stone's foul shot with five seconds left gave St. Anselm's undefeated Hawks their third consecutive basketball triumph today, over the Providence College Friars 72-69.

The score was tied 69-69 when Stone was fouled while shooting. He made good one of his two free throws to provide the victory margin. Teammate Bob Davolio threw in two more foul shots just before time ran out.

Big Chuck Deffley, the St. Anselm's captain, led the scorers with 32 markers. Bobby Morin of Providence threw in 23 points, Davolio had 18 and Tommy Mullins of the Friars 13.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 7—

St. Anselm's basket ball team defeated Providence College here today, 72 to 69, with the Hawks netting three points to clinch victory three seconds before the end.

The teams were tied at 69 all when Woody Stone was fouled. He picked up a single point to send the Hawks ahead. Bob Davolio was then fouled, and he made good on his two shots.

Capt. Chuck Duffley continued his high scoring, netting 32 points.

Friars Wilt In Second Half Bow To St. Anselm's

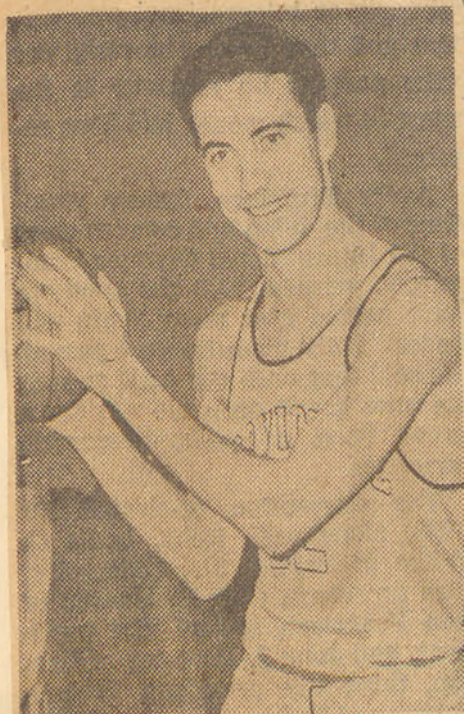

MANCHESTER, N. H.—Wilting in the final stages, Providence College's basketball team suffered its first loss of the season here yesterday by a 72-69 margin to St. Anselm's. It was the second game in two days for the Friars who beat Assumption Saturday, 78-52. Bobby Moran paced the Friars against St. Anselm's with 23 points. Chuck Duffy had 32 points for the Saints.

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

Manchester, N.H. — Providence College, playing its second basketball game in two days, showed signs of road weariness during the second half here yesterday and dropped a 72-69 decision to St. Anselm's. Woody Stone's foul shot with five seconds left was the pay-off shot.

Bobby Moran was the high scorer for P.C. with 23 points.

The loss was the first in three games for the Rhode Islanders.

The Friars, who had whipped Assumption in Worcester Saturday night, had plenty of pep during the first half against the undefeated Hawks. They went right into the lead and pulled away to a 47-35 margin at halftime.

Then the cramps set in. Providence was able to register only nine points in the third quarter and 13 in the finale. Meanwhile, the Hawks were chopping away and had narrowed the gap to 56-51 at the end of three quarters.

With the score tied at 69-69, Stone clicked on one of two foul shots and then Bob Davolio put in two more charity throws as time ran out.

In gaining their third victory, the Hawks were led by Chuck Duffley, who scored 32 points. Twelve of them came on foul shots.

Coatesmen Enter Brooklyn Meet

Cowl 12-10-52
Providence College will send representatives to the Knights of Columbus track meet in Brooklyn on January. This will be the indoor track team's opening event.

Chris Lohner heads the Friar delegation to Flatbush, where he will run in the mile relay. Neil Sullivan of Newport is entered in the half mile, and Bob Washburn is in the sixty-yard dash. One Freshman, Bob Grady, is definitely entered in the high jump. Others to make the trip have not yet been selected.

Coach Harry Coates has been watching his squad during the past few weeks in order to see their improvement, and thus pick his starting team. Captain Bob Tiernan has been unable to workout recently because of injuries suffered in an auto accident, and it is doubtful if he will journey to Brooklyn the first of the year.

Pucksters Drop Tufts Fray; Tommy Army Lost To Army

Cowl 12-10-52
Bill Reardon
The Providence College sextet suffered two losses this week. One at the hands of Tufts College on the ice at the Rhode Island Auditorium, the other by the U. S. Army.

In the game with Tufts the scoring started quickly with a goal by Powers unassisted at 3:45 of the first period. Tufts scored again at 9:18 on a pass by Mahoney to Roland. P. C. broke into the scoring column at 11:51 when Monahan made a break and took a long pass up ice from McAleer.

In the second period it was Tufts that again cut the nets first with a goal at 2:50 by Kelly assisted by Collins, while P. C. was shorthanded by reason of a two minute tripping penalty on McAleer. A minute after White got two minutes for tripping his teammate Farrell, with Sweeney and Monahan assisting cut the cords of the right hand corner after a wild melee. Tufts scored twice more in this period; the first on a gang attack by Hallis, Kelley and Regan, the credit for the goal going to Hallis, the second on a forty-foot slap shot by Mahoney which brought murmurs from the crowd.

Reall opened scoring for the Friars in the third period on a gang attack along with his line mates, Monahan and Sweeney. Tufts countered with a goal by Duggan on a pass from McLoughlin. At this point the electric clock that hangs above the ice ran wild and exact measurement of the time remaining to play was lost but an estimate was made and the game continued. Tufts scored again before the Friars could counter with a goal by diminutive Jim White at 9:16 on a long shot. Mahoney scored again for Tufts on a pass from Duggan to close out the scoring.

The loss the Friars suffered to the U. S. Army was of a little different nature. Tom Army, recently named a co-captain along with Bob Petit, received his induction notice. Tom was starting his second season as the center on the first line of Providence and had shown great promise while winning the trophy for scoring the most goals in the Rhode Island Amateur Hockey League last year. His coolness under pressure and leadership ability plus his skating and stick handling ability will be sorely missed this year. However at this time Coach Rondeau is planning to move up Jim White from his present position at defense up forward to replace Army.

Intramural League Announces Tournery

Cowl 12-10-52
Intramural basketball got its baptism last week as three big games were played. Sr. Science was upset by a strong Jr. Business club 53-30, Jr. Economics edged Soph. Science 35-27 and Fr. Soc. Science downed Fr. Biology 33-22. Due to exams the league was unable to get a complete schedule played. All rules and lists of teams and schedules are explained in detail on the bulletin board of the athletic locker room located in the rear of Harkins Hall. Mr. Drew wishes to announce that in February a tournament between the territorial clubs in the league will be held.

Providence College will reverse the process in the North vs. South rivalry as the Friars entertain Maryland State Wednesday at Mount Pleasant High School. P.C. also plays American International at Springfield Saturday night. The Friars won their first two games, against Gorham State Teachers and Assumption College last week, but bowed to St. Anselm's yester-

Most Valuable Player Award Will Be Given By Cowl To Top Basketeer

Cowl 12-10-52

A Most Valuable Player trophy will be presented by the COWL at the end of the basketball season to the basketball player who has achieved the greatest number of game MVP over the course of the season.

The procedure behind the selection is simple, and you'll be kept informed concerning its progress, so the winner won't be any secret when that last Brown game rolls around. A Most Valuable Player will be picked for each game, and the results will be printed in the COWL. There might be more than one MVP in each game, by the way. At the end of the season, the boy with the most game selections to his credit will receive the big seasonal award. You can keep score as the season rolls along, or you can follow the COWL's week-by-week tabulation. The final decision on the selections will rest with Sports Editor, Phil Griffin, and basketball writer, Marty Sandler.

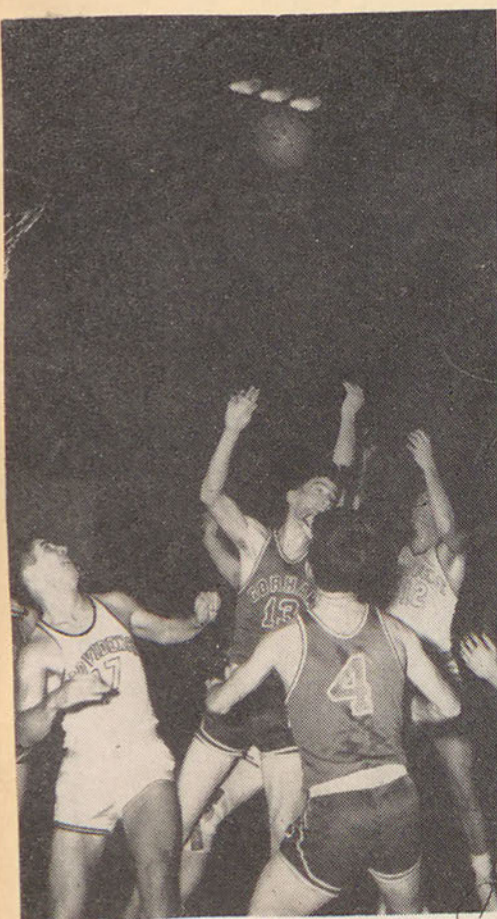

There were three games this past week, and we have three MVP's: Phil Lynch, Bobby Moran, and Jack Reynolds. Lynch set the Friar attack in motion in the Gorham State game after it had found difficulty in warming up for the season's opener. He sparkled on both defense and offense and contributed the highest point total of his college career to the P.C. cause.

Moran was chosen for his brilliant job against Assumption, where he tossed in 20 points, although playing less than half the game. It may be noted at this point, however, that the award will not be based on scoring. In fact, Moran has been the high point man in all three Providence games to date, but he was selected for only one award.

Jack Reynolds is our selection for his fine defensive and rebounding performance in a losing cause against St. Anselms up in Manchester. Hope for the locals sank when big Jack followed Bob Prendergast to the bench with five fouls. It might be interesting to note that two of the three players selected were not in the opening lineups.

Cowl 12-10-52

Friars To Face Maryland Tonight

Hawks Will Be Included Among Tough Opponents

By Martin Sandler 12-10-52

The 1952-53 varsity basketball squad enters its second week of competition tonight when it plays host to Maryland State College at the Mt. Pleasant Gymnasium. In the Hawks, the Friars will be facing one of their strongest opponents in many seasons. Boasting one of the tallest teams in the nation, Maryland will display an attack based on control of both backboards. The Friars will have to be at their best for this one.

During the Christmas vacation, the Cuddymen will again take to the road, meeting American International College on December 13th and Springfield College on December 17th. Both the Aces and the Gymnasts should offer the Friars plenty of trouble. In Alan Shutts, Springfield boasts one of the most prolific scorers in the country. The Gymnasts already hold a win over Brown.

On December 20th the Cuddymen return to the Mt. Pleasant Gym when they play host to Colby. The Mules have an experienced, aggressive squad and should prove a real test for the Friars.

The varsity opened its season last week with three contests, two of them on the road. Last Wednesday the Friars defeated an aggressive Gorham State quintet 87-68. The Cuddymen, after a slow start, ran away from the Teachers in the third period, and the outcome was never in doubt after that. The game was featured by the brilliant play of Phil Lynch and Tom Mullins. The Friar's continually drove through Gorham's defense for hoops. Mullins wound up with 16 points while Lynch gathered 15. Bob Moran took up right where he left off in the scoring department last year and led the P. C. scorers with 18 points.

Last Saturday, the Cuddymen travelled to Worcester where they met Assumption College. Led by Bob Moran, whose newly acquired jump-shot was working to perfection, the Friars grabbed a quick 17-7 lead, and were never in trouble thereafter. Bobby, who played less than half the game, wound up with 20 points. Tom Mullins with 10 points, and Jack Reynolds with 9 markers also turned in excellent performances. Coach Vin Cuddy used his reserves for most of the game with Ed Ryder, Charlie Aquavia, Bill Quinlan, and Jack Durkin showing very well. The final score was 78-52.

Last Sunday, the Friars journeyed to Manchester, New Hampshire where they dropped a heartbreaking 72-69 decision to St. Anslems. Hurt immeasurably by the loss of Phil Lynch, Bob Prendegast, and Jack Reynolds via the foul route, the Friars watched a 47-35 halftime lead go down the drain. The Cuddymen got a hint of the bleak things to come when they lost their ace playmaker Hank McQueeney early in the contest. Hank suffered a badly turned ankle. Once again Bob Moran led the scorers, this time garnering 23 points. Turning in an excellent performance in a losing cause was Jack Reynolds.

P.C. Quintet Host to Maryland State

McQueeney Has Ankle Troubles, Will Miss Game

Fishermen Expected to Have Edge Tonight In Height Department

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars take on a package of basketball dynamite in meeting Maryland State tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Mount Pleasant High. The Friar Freshmen and the Newport Training Station meet in the preliminary at 7 o'clock.

The Maryland State team is little known in the New England area. Yet the Fishermen have been compiling outstanding records in both basketball and football among the Negro college teams in recent seasons. They are one of the classiest teams the Friars will play this season, perhaps the best.

Coach Vin Cuddy has little reason to be optimistic over this one. Two of his rebounders, starter Hank McQueeney and reserve Jack Durkin, came up with ankle injuries in the weekend games. McQueeney's injury was X-rayed yesterday and he's definitely out of the game. He played well Sunday against St. Anselm's until hurt. Durkin will be available for duty.

Have the Height

While the Friars have a tall team this season, they may be outsized by the Maryland visitors. Maryland has a topnotch center in Gordon Harris, 6:4 star who was a leading scorer and board man last season. Harris is also an outstanding football player.

The Fishermen won 18 games and lost five last season. Over the last four years, they have won 60 and lost 17 games in basketball and had two unbeaten seasons in football. The Associated Press listed them among the nation's unbeaten football teams this year but that was in error as they lost one game to Morris Brown College in Atlanta after an overnight trip on the road.

Harris played in his team's final football game on Sunday as Maryland State defeated North Carolina A & M, 10-7, and took his post in the season's basketball opener Monday night. The Fishermen were really hot, opening with a 101-46 decision over the Wilmington, Del., YMCA quintet. Harris scored 18 points while freshman forward Fred Douglas chipped in 17. Theopolus Lloyd had 12 and Jimmy Hart scored 11.

Good Start

The Maryland team is built around Harris, George Calloway and Ronald Logan. These fellows teamed up with Ken McBride, drafted by the Syracuse Nationals of the NBA but now working for Uncle Sam since graduation. Coach Skip McCain has some fine freshman talent this year, working with his holdover veterans.

The Friars won their first two games against Gorham and Assumption before bowing to Al Gernert's St. Anselm's Hawks. Bobby Moran is hitting a 20-point average for the Friars for the three games, slightly better than his 18.2 average for last season. Moran is off to a great start, setting up as well as scoring.

The Friar lineup may include Moran and Kenny Kerr of Newport at the forwards, Bob Prendergast, senior center from Hartford, and Tommy Mullins and Phil Lynch at guards. Mullins has been PC's most surprising player of late, doing an outstanding job and scoring much better than usual. John "Beaver" Power, Jack Reynolds and Durkin will also see plenty of action, if Durkin is okay physically.

PHIL-INS

Friars Hope To "Bring Home Bacon"

In Tonight's Tilt With Maryland

Cow/ 12-10-52

PHIL GRIFFIN

Tonight a bunch of basketball players from down Maryland way will pay us a visit with mayhem in mind and heart. It will be more than worth your while to make the trek to Mount Pleasant to watch these boys cavort. Last season they "brought home the bacon" on eighteen out of twenty-two occasions. Seems like they might be pretty handy in their chosen field.

There has been a dearth of publicity concerning the Hawks, as they are known to their familiars, but their record precedes them to these plantations, and on that basis the lads from the Mason-Dixon territory merit more passing consideration, and they're getting more than passing consideration from Friar mentor, Vin Cuddy, to be sure. Mr. Cuddy regards Maryland State College with justifiable apprehension. They might well be one of the toughest opponents the Friars will face, not only on the Mount Pleasant court, but elsewhere.

Mullins Second to Moran In Scoring

How things are going on the hardwood—Who is second to Moran in the scoring column? One Thomas Mullins from Worcester is the boy I'm thinking of. Things are considerably brighter now that the Friar defensive ace has branched out, and is making himself felt on the other side of the ledger. Tommy already has more than half of his last year's total and is still going strong.

Moran has been having some difficulty putting his set shot where it belongs, in the hoop, but he hasn't let that phase him one bit. On the contrary, Robert has contributed sixty-one points to his consistent assault on Jimmy Schlimm's all-time scoring record.

Tried to Sit on Twelve Point Lead

The trip up to Manchester, N. H. might fall into the "I shoulda stood in bed" dept. McQueeney was heading for a big day when he went down like a tree under a woodman's axe and came up lame. And Hank was "on his way" when disaster struck. Reynolds and Prendergast departed prematurely via the foul route, and from then on we sang the blues as the Hawks' big boy, Duffley, roamed at will under the hoop while collecting some thirty-two disastrous points. In the first half P. C. looked like the College All Stars, but then they wandered off the road and got lost in the woods when the second period started. By the time they found their way out, the host club was celebrating in the locker room. In Mr. Cuddy's words, "The team tried to sit on a twelve-point lead." Then, the twelve-point lead hatched and out came the ugly duckling sired by defeat.

The "Poor Hank" department: Henry Francis M. was just working out the kinks and beginning to look like the boy that thrilled them two years ago, when he was hit by a bad cold, then the ankle injury. Let's hope it doesn't turn out to be as prolonged as it was painful. We could use Henry tonight.

Players Bothered by Colds

McQueeney leads in the "infirmity" dept., but he isn't alone. His roommate, a fella by the name of Morgan, Morin, Moran, or something like that, has been bothered by a severe cold. The "bug" has hit Jack Reynolds too. Then of course, Jack Durkin couldn't show partiality to one ankle, so he went and hurt the other one. Jack's not one to show favoritism.

I hope Prendergast doesn't foul out any more. "Sag" took the early shower against St. Anselms, and the difference was noticable immediately. He tossed in two dandy hook shots in the midst of a 29-point first quarter surge and made himself generally useful elsewhere. Then Reynolds played follow-the-leader, and the walls came tumbling down. With Reynolds, Prendergast, and McQueeney (who's better under the boards with every game, if you didn't realize) out, it was strictly a David and Goliath affair.

Lynch Gets Attack Going

The "Laud Lynch" dept: Phillip performed with remarkable nobility in the Gorham State game. He got a rather balky Friar attack into gear, and we were off to the races. Let us hope he set a precedent with that fifteen point splurge. Phillip is clearly the leader out on the floor, and with that scoring punch he could be the most valuable reserve in these parts. As it is now, he sees as much action as the "starters", sometimes more.

The "What does Mr. Cuddy want for Christmas?" dept.: That's easy—victories over Brandeis, Maryland State, AIC, and Colby. And the way the boys are running now, they could easily play the role of Santa Claus.

Friars Shade AIC Five In Last Quarter, 78-69

Aces Switch Defenses But P.C. Manages To Maintain Edge

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Springfield, Mass. — Providence College's versatile basketball team, hard-pressed by changing defenses against it, solved them at the vital moments here last night and won a 78-69 victory over American International College.

AIC, its zone defense riddled by the hook shots of pivotman Bob Prendergast and the fast-breaking of his teammates, trailed, 30-15, with five minutes remaining in the first half. In an attempt to stop the Friars, the Aces switched to man-to-man. The decision bore fruit, and an AIC rally brought the score to 34-30, in favor of Providence College, at halftime.

From then on, the Friars worked doggedly at breaking in close for their points. AIC, until five minutes from the game's end, stayed within six points of them. Then Hank MacQueeney, who scored 11 of his 13 points in the second half, and Bobby Moran, who got 15 of his 24 after halftime, helped the Friars draw clear. MacQueeney's jump shot and two classic driving shots by Moran, the game's high scorer, moved P.C. from a 66-62 edge to 72-62, enough to assure victory for the visitors.

Providence College now has a record of three victories in five games. The loss was American International's fourth in four. Brandeis University will be P.C.'s next opponent, on Wednesday night at Waltham, Mass.

3-to-1 Victory First for Friars in 3 Starts; Mounties Triumph

John Sweeney, Tommy McAleer and Ed Monahan scored goals last night in leading Providence College to a 3-1 victory over Rhode Island University's informal hockey squad at the Auditorium before 200 persons.

The victory was the first in three starts for the freshmen-studded Friar sextet, which is playing a completely intercollegiate schedule this year in a gradual transition to full-dress hockey.

The Rams, who are less formal than the Friars in their hockey set-up, made a fight of it, though they were never ahead or even long in command of the puck. Gil Lamb got their only goal at 6:50 of the second period, when the winners were leading 2-0 on first-period goals by Sweeney and McAleer.

Al Hunter, former East Providence goalie, was the kingpin in the losers stubborn defense. He had 26 saves to 11 for Ed Hornstein of the Friars.

In a preliminary contest, Charles Paquin's waist-high sizzler from 25 feet out gave Mount St. Charles a 2-1 victory over La Salle. Norm Trinquo got the other Mount goal, and Bernie McCrink tallied for the losers.

2nd-Half Surge Falls Short as Friars Bow to Maryland State, 76-67

Friars Outscore Winners, 39-32, In Second Half

Fishermen Ride Out Victory on Crest of 2nd-Quarter Edge

By JOE McHENRY

The Maryland State College basketball team scored a 76-to-67 victory over the Providence College Friars last night at Mount Pleasant High School gym but not without a real battle.

The Friars didn't go down easily. Their aggressive, spirited play made it one of the most exciting games a Providence College team has ever played on the Mount Pleasant court.

Maryland State came highly rated and played good basketball. Some of the winners' shooting was uncanny. They were good ball handlers and quick on fast breaks.

The Friars outscored the Maryland club in the second half, 39 to 32, but never quite were able to close the gap which the visitors built up in the final minutes of the second quarter.

Although losing to a fine team, the Friars played better basketball in some spots than they have in some of their winning games on other occasions.

A lean Philadelphia freshman, Theophilus Lloyd, came up with a hot hand at a time when the Friars bogged down and put the Fishermen in the drivers' seat. The Friars were matching their foes point-for-point until midway in the second quarter. Then Lloyd started sinking some beauties and Maryland was ahead, 44-28, at halftime.

It was 26-all as Hank McQueeney put in his only hoop. With the score, 28-26, in favor of Maryland, Lloyd went to work. The visitors, fancy ball handlers for the most part and sometimes off-balance shooters, scored 16 of the next 18 points and Lloyd got all but three of them. Three baskets were of the nifty variety while another came on a breakaway.

Lloyd took scoring honors, mainly on that surge, with 23 points. He had able assistance from Tommy Chase and Gordon Harris, among the big men, and Ron Logan, Jimmy Hough, Weyburn Wilburn, and Fred Douglas.

Bobby Moran again played a fine game for the Friars, hitting his 20-point average, although limited to five baskets. The Providence scoring was mainly divided among Moran, with 20, Tommy Mullins, with 13, and Bob Pendergast, with 16. Moran did some fine ball handling and play-making while Mullins played a driving game. John "Beaver" Power, Kenny Kerr, Phil Lynch, and Charlie Aquavia all played well occasionally.

The Friars played their best basketball when behind. They kept pace with their speedy rivals in the first period as Maryland State hit on its outside shooting. In the second half, the Friars were always coming, but 16 points was too much of an edge for them to make up against a team of Maryland State's capabilities.

George Galloway, veteran Maryland State athlete, dislocated his right foot jumping for the ball in the first period and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Three times the Friars cut the lead down to five points in the last period but each time Maryland spurted again. Prendergast's hook shots were the best he's shown in tough competition. Mullins, sinking nine free throws, played aggressively throughout. Kerr put in one hoop while falling backwards and later threw one through the hoop clean as a whistle from beyond mid-court. The latter was disallowed by a foul call.

The Newport Naval Training quintet defeated the Providence College Frosh, 73 to 66, with Ken O'Connor scoring 18 points. Gus Westerhuis led the Friars with 17.

Friars Fail to Offset Hawk Rally; Lose 79-62

Manchester, N. H. — Providence College's basketball forces failed to withstand a late surge by St. Anselm's here last night and suffered a 72-69 defeat.

The setback was the first for the Friars in three starts.

The Rhode Islanders, off to a good start, outplayed the home team in the first half and at intermission held what apparently was a safe 47 to 35 margin. The Friars, however, could not sustain the early pace, saw their lead trimmed to 56 to 51 at the three-quarter mark and then lost the advantage in the last period.

St. Anselm Hawks Tackle Providence Friars Today

St. Anselm College, victorious in its first two hoop games of the season, takes on undefeated Providence College as its third opponent this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Bishop Bradley gymnasium.

The Hawks have registered wins over Merrimack College and Grenier AFB, while Providence's Friars have scored victories over Gorham State Teachers College and Assumption College. Actually, today's game is the first major test of the young season for both teams.

Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars is moaning over the graduation loss of Jim Schlimm, but a close look at this starting lineup and bench reveals a corps of nine veterans, including dynamic Bob Moran, the Brooklyn Junior, who led the Friars in individual scoring last season with a healthy 383 points. Reports indicate that Moran is off to a brilliant start this year and the Hawks can figure to have trouble with this lad, who is an outstanding set shot.

LIST FOUR JUNIORS

The Providence starting team includes four juniors and one senior. Bob Prendergast, center, is the lone senior in company with Tommy Mullin and Hank McQueeney, guards, and Ken Kerr and Bob Moran, forwards. Juniors Jack Reynolds and Phil Lynch, and Senior "Beaver" Power also rate with the starters and will see much service.

Although the Friars hold a 15-7 edge over the Hawks in the series' history of 22 games, the Hawks expect to move up a notch in the standings by outshooting the Friars today. The Grenert-coached Hilltoppers have a veteran starting five with plenty of height and a lot of scoring punch, principally in Capt. Chuck Duffley, who is No. 1 on the Hawk scoring parade.

Sparkplug of the Hawk quintet is Woody Stone, dynamic guard, who has paced his mates in their initial starts this season. A demon on defense and an outstanding offensive playmaker, Stone is one of the better hoopmen to have worn the St. A Blue and White in many seasons. Bob Davolio, Hugh Reilley and Jim Driscoll round out the Hawk starting five.

Ready for relief duty is dependable Ray Stauder and veterans Charlie Toracinta and Bud Matthews. A newcomer to the Hawk squad this season is Jack Walsh, former Mission High of Roxbury player, who has shown class in games to date and can be counted on for action against the Friars.

Today's lineups at Bradley:

Assumption Bows to P. C.

Friars Score 78-52
Victory in First Game

WORCESTER, Dec. 6 (AP)—Providence College opened its basketball season with a 78-52 victory over Assumption tonight. Bobby Moran scored 20 of the winner's points.

Providence had no difficulty solving Assumption's zone defense and breezed into a 17-9 lead at the end of the first period, 38-25 at the half and 58-41 after three periods.

FRIARS TOPPLE ASSUMPTION

Moran and Mullins Lead Providence in 78-52 Win

By PAUL N. JOHNSON

Providence College's basketball Friars, showing plenty of savvy and a flock of shots, buried Assumption College's willing troupe, 75-52, in noisy Assumption gym last night.

The Friars, with free-wheeling Bobby Moran and Worcester's Tommy Mullins leading the way, showed too much overall strength for the Greyhounds who were being dumped for the first time in two outings.

The Greendalers, employing a zone defense most of the way to combat the visitors' superior speed and shotmaking, just didn't have enough guns; nor was their defense polished enough to harry Moran & Co.

Moran, is was, who shot this defense full of holes after the early nip-and-tuck sparring. The classy Brooklyn attacker, well-versed in the New York style of basketball, plunked home 11 straight points while his mates were still trying to fathom the varying zone setups of Coach Andy Laska's crew.

This slick forward thus pegged PC from a 7-4 deficit into a 17-9 lead late in the opening session and the Friars spent the rest of the night — all 15 of them — frisking around on a wild scoring frolic.

Lead 38-24 at Half

The Providence cagers, with well-devised screens which forced the Greyhounds into lopsided defenses, breezed on to a 38-24 halftime advantage as Moran pegged 15 of his 20 points during the opening two sessions.

Mullins, the slim former All-City star at Commerce High here, pitched in only two points for his first-half efforts but he was strong off the boards and his play-setting from his backcourt station accounted for a number of PC successes.

The Worcester boy, however, also made his presence felt in the second half as he steered the offensive show while Moran played a coy decoy. Mullins finally wound up with five hoops for 10 points.

With the start of the second half, the Friars beat a steady rat-tat which zoomed their margin to 58-41 at three-quarter time and with second and third teams seeing all action in the last 12 minutes, the Friars hardly let down on their popping.

Losers Over-Eager

Assumption, while pretty well outclassed, nevertheless showed plenty of promise and seems bound to turn in a strong account once the team steadies down into the give-and-go pattern Laska is teaching.

Over-anxiousness cost the Greyhounds dearly last night. They committed themselves on defense too quickly and were easy marks then for the Friars' run-arounds and pivots.

Still, such performers as Joe Dyer, Bill Ormond, Rene Viau and Ray Gravel all showed to advantage. Dyer, and Ormond, a pair of St. Stephen's High grads, were the Assumption scoring leaders with 14 and 10 points. Viau, held scoreless in the first half, dropped four hoops in the second session, including three beautiful sets, for eight.

The game was marked by a brief flareup which caused the banishment of Providence's John Powers and Assumption's Bob Bourgeois, a hard-working guard all night. Bourgeois also had a remembrance, a bump over the eye.

And Assumption Fives in Action

The debut of Worcester Tech and the attempt of Assumption College to upset Providence College are the co-features of tonight's college basketball activity.

Assumption Underdog

The Greyhounds, on the other hand, will not find the going so pleasing with the Friars from Providence, who looked good whipping Gorman (Me.) Teachers, 87-69, in their opener Wednesday night. As usual when these two teams meet, Assumption will be underdog.

Sparked by Tommy Mullins formed Commerce High player, Phil Lynch and Bobby Moran, the Friars expect a banner season. They, too, have a strong board man in six-foot-six Bob Prendergast.

Rebounded Well

The most impressive factor in Assumption's opening victory was the rebounding of Joe Dyer, Bill Ormond and Rene Viau as the Greyhounds have seldom been blessed in the past with enough height to do much off the boards.

However, none of the Assumption big men are as tall or as experienced as Prendergast and that may prove the difference between the clubs.

Voke Is 5th in Providence 4-Mile Relay; Bayonne Cops

Special to The Standard-Times
 PROVIDENCE, Dec. 6 — Coach Francis Holt's New Bedford Vocational High School relay team finished fifth in the fourth annual Providence College 4-Mile Invitation Relays won here this afternoon by Bayonne, N. J. High School. A field of 11 teams competed in the two heats.
 Coach Holt's Artisans finished second in the first heat won by Bayonne. Bayonne's winning time was 19:12.02 as against 20:25 for the Artisans.
 LaSalle of Providence finished second by winning the second heat in 19:48.3. Woonsocket took third place in the meet by finishing second to LaSalle in 19:54 and Mt. Pleasant fourth in the final standings in taking third in this heat in 20:18.07.

 Voke competed with a 4-mile relay squad of Ray Degagner, Norman Bergeron, Jonathan Chase and Al Porter, running in that order.

Friars Edged, 72 To 69, At St. Anselm's

MANCHESTER, N. H. — The Providence College basketball team was handed its first setback of the season, 72-69, by St. Anselm's in a thriller here yesterday. Previously, the Friars had been winners over Gorham Teachers and Assumption.

Providence raced to an early lead against the Hawks and appeared well on their way to their third straight triumph as they left the floor at halftime with a 47-35 lead.

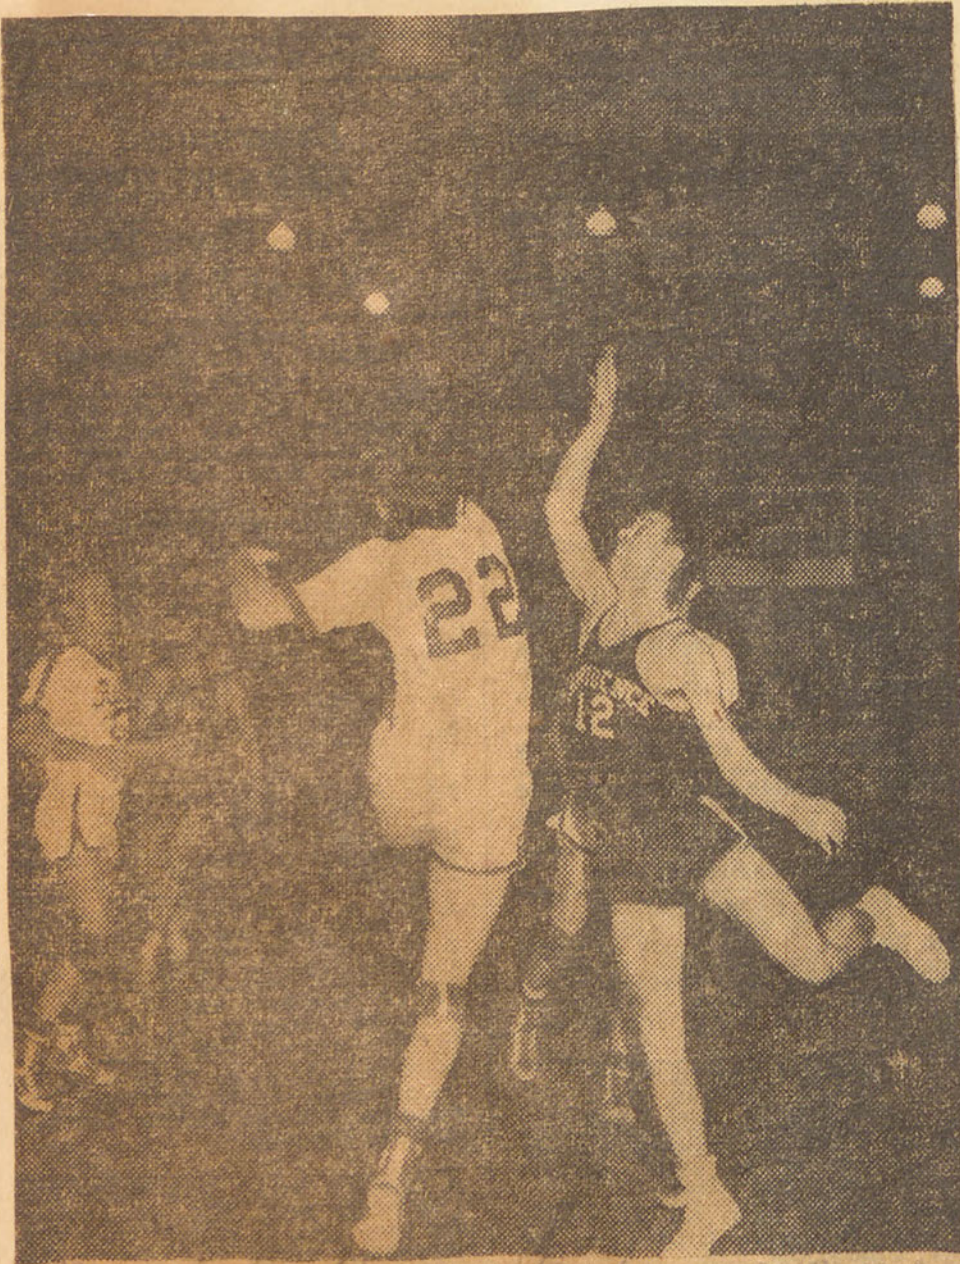

But with the start of the second half the Friars ran out of gas and tallied only nine points in the third period and 13 in the finale. By the end of the third period the Hawks had reduced the P. C. margin to 56-51.

St. Anselm's finally caught the fading Friars in the fourth quarter and with the score tied at 69-69 with less than a minute to play Woody Stone tossed in a foul shot to put the home team in front. Bob Davolio added two more conversions before the final whistle.

Chuck Deffley was the big man in the scoring column for the Hawks, netting 32 points, 12 of them on foul shots. Bobby Moran was high man for the Friars with 23 points.

Friars Bow to St. Anselm's;

By JOE McHENRY

The Rhode Island collegiate basketball season is only six days old and already all three of Rhody's college court representatives have been defeated. Usually the Providence College Friars or the Rhode Island Rams get a winning string rolling at the outset.

Coach Vin Cuddy's Friars played a thriller with St. Anselm's yesterday, bowing 72 to 69 in the final minutes. Providence scored its 18th successive victory over Assumption on Saturday and appeared headed for victory over the Hawks on Sunday. The Friars were hot in the first half, dropping in their first six shots and leading 47-35 at intermission.

32 For Duffley

Chuck Duffley, a big aggressive forward who scored frequently on drive-ins, led the St. Anselm club with 32 points. It was his second big total of the week. Some Manchester fans said that the game was among the best ever played there from a spectator viewpoint, with the Friars clicking in the first half and St. Anselm's catching up in the second.

The game was tied up with three minutes left. The Hawks were working the ball around for a last minute, or open, shot when one of the Friars fouled Woody Stone. Stone made one of his tries, putting St. Anselm's ahead, 70-69 and later Bob Davolio put in a pair of insurance markers. Newport's Chuck Toracinta played center for St. Anselm's.

The Friars may be below top strength for their Wednesday game against the crack Maryland State quintet. Bob Prendergast and Jack Reynolds fouled out yesterday while Hank McQueeney and Jack Durkin came up with ankle injuries. Loss of all four yesterday cut down the Friars rebound strength against the tall Hawks. McQueeney was hurt in the first period after scoring seven points.

23 for Moran

Bobby Moran scored 23 points yesterday, running his total for three games to 61, best mark among the Rhode Island collegians. Reynolds and Tommy Mullins contributed some fine board work for the Friars, with Mullins accounting for 13 points. Tommy also played a good game in his home town as the Friars defeated Assumption at Worcester.

Leicester Jr. Host To Friar Freshmen

Providence College Freshmen, who dumped Leicester Junior College, 62 to 58, last week for the Pirates' only setback in three games so far, will be at South High tonight in an attempt to repeat the trick.

Top guns are Mike Tedesco, six-one center and Buddy Moran, deadly outside shooter.

Leicester Junior will open with Vin Mitchell and Capt. Paul Deignan, forwards; Joe Walsh, center, and Ronnie Shadbegian and Jim Harrity at the guards.

Game time is 8.15 p. m. The preliminary tilt at 7.15 will send the Leicester Jr. College JV against the Alumni.

St. Anselm's Nips Providence, 72-69

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 7 (P)—Woody Stone's foul shot with five seconds left gave St. Anselm's undefeated Hawks their third consecutive basketball triumph today, over the Providence College Friars 72-69.

The score was tied 69-69 when Stone was fouled while shooting. He made good one of his two free throws to provide the victory margin. Teammate Bob Davolio threw in two more foul shots just before time ran out.

The Providence quintet, playing its second game in two nights after whipping Assumption College in Worcester, Mass., last night, spurred to a 47-35 halftime edge but the Hawks shaved this to 56-51 after three periods and then outscored the Friars 21-13 in the finale.

Big Chuck Deffley, the St. Anselm's captain, led the scorers with 32 markers. Bobby Morin of Providence threw in 23 points, Davolio had 18 and Tommy Mullins of the Friars 13.

St. Anselm's Beats Providence, 72-69 For Third Straight

Friars Wilt In Second Half, Bow To St. Anselm's

MANCHESTER, NH — Wilting in the final stages, Providence College's basketball team suffered its first loss of the season here yesterday by a 72-69 margin to St. Anselm's. It was the second game in two days for the Friars who beat Assumption Saturday, 78-52. Bobby Moran paced the Friars against St. Anselm's with 23 points. Chuck Duffy had 32 points for the Saints.

Hawks Nip Friars,

Localites Stage Great Comeback To Cop Victory

Staging one of the greatest comebacks in St. Anselm basketball history, a determined Hawk quintet overcame a 12-point half-time deficit to edge Providence College, 72-69, yesterday afternoon before a near capacity crowd at Bishop Bradley gymnasium in one of the most exciting hoop contests ever witnessed by local fans.

Led by Capt. Chuck Duffley who scored 32 points, Al Grenert's five narrowed the Friars' margin to five points at the end of three periods and a foul shot by Freshman Pat McCarthy tied it up after two minutes of the fourth period had elapsed. From this point on the lead changed hands nine times, until with 40 seconds left and the score tied at 69 all, Woody Stone tallied with one of two free throws and Bob Davolio hit with two more from the line to clinch the win.

First Half Edge

Providence was in complete command of the contest in the first half as the Friars displayed a fast, sharp-shooting offense and a strong defense. But they were unable to cope with the Hilltoppers' offense after intermission, becoming rattled by the surge of the Blue and White, the visitors scored only 22 points in the second half, 14 of them via the foul line.

Steady offensive play by St. Anselm proved the winning factor as the Hawk point spread by periods never varied more than six points, whereas that of Providence reached as high as 20.

Providence markmanship in the first half proved superb, as the team missed on only five field goals and six free throw attempts, piling up 47 points.

From this point on, however, the Friars were forced into the defense as Hugh Reilly, Woody Stone and Bob Davolio kept driving in for layups. Instrumental, also, in the collapse of the Rhode Island quintet was the losing of three regulars on personal fouls early in the fourth period.

Duffley Sets Pace

Heading the Hawk scoring department was Chuck Duffley, who swished 32 points through the hoop. Duffley was followed by Davolio, whose 18 points were his high to date. Bob Moran of Providence paced his team's attack with 23 points.

The victory by St. Anselm established the local college as a leading contender for New England small college laurels, as Providence is one of the stronger clubs in the region, having nine veterans on its roster.

The Grenertmen meet another strong unit tonight when they play Tufts College at Medford, Mass. A win here would add further stature to the club, which has played outstanding ball in all its encounters.

Yesterday's win kept the Blue and White in the undefeated ranks and knocked Providence from the select circle. The Hawks have a 4-0 record, with wins over Quonset Naval Air station, Merrimack college, Grenier Air base and Providence.

Friars Entertain Maryland State Cagers Tonight

Providence College's basketball team plays host to Maryland State, an outstanding Negro college quintet, tonight at 8:30 at the Mount Pleasant High gym. The Friar freshmen will play the Newport Training Station at 7.

Maryland State has been highly successful in both football and basketball over the past four years, winning 60 and losing 17 basketball games. Last year they had an 18 and five mark.

The Fishermen have won their only start this season, while Providence has won two and lost one. The Friars will start Bobby Moran and Ken Kerr at the forwards, Bob Pendergast at center and Tommy Mullins and Phil Lynch at the guards.

Maryland State Five Downs Friars, 76-67

Maryland State College built up a solid 44-28 lead in the first half and then held off a belated rush by the Providence College Friars to win, 76-67, at Mt. Pleasant High School gym last night.

Theophilus Lloyd was the chief source of woe for the Friars, putting on a nifty shooting exhibition early in the second period to break up a close game. P. C. trailed by only 28-26 when Lloyd paced a Maryland spurt which accounted for 18 points with Lloyd getting 15 of them. Over the distance he accounted for 23 points, high in the game.

Bobby Moran, fast-moving set shot of the Friars, paced the losing side in scoring with 20 points. He and his mates were active in the second half and outscored Maryland, 39-32. But it was not enough to overcome the first half bulge built up by the winners.

George Galloway of Maryland was the game's only casualty. He dislocated his right foot jumping for the ball in the first period and was taken from the court to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Maryland to Play Friars Visitors Have Fine Hoop Record in College Play

Wednesday night Maryland State invades the domain of the Providence College Friars, boasting one of the most formidable arrays that will journey to these parts this season. The Hawks from Princess Anne, Maryland, are little known in these plantations, but in 22 games last season, they emerged victorious 18 times.

The rather brilliant record of the invaders makes them worthy of more than passing consideration. In fact, Coach Vin Cuddy is prone to regard this game as one of the highlights of the team's season. State is one guest that the Friars will have more than a little difficulty with on the friendly confines of the Mount Pleasant court, and they will have to be in top form to keep pace with this talented crew from Maryland. On Dick Dunkel's chart, the Hawks were rated about seven points above the Friars, and only a couple below teams like Connecticut and Maryland U.

P.C. opened strong with convincing victories over Gorham State and Assumption, but couldn't stand prosperity. After leading St. Anselm's 47-35 at the half on the latter's court, the locals couldn't keep up the pace and fell before the surging Hawks 72-69. Losing big men Bob Pendergast and Jack Reynolds on fouls and Hank McQueeney via an injury hurt the Friar cause immeasurably.

Bobby Moran, the brilliant forward from Brooklyn, N.Y., in renewing his attack on the school's all-time scoring record with a 20-point scoring average for the first three games. Last year, as a sophomore, Moran broke Jim Schlimm's single season record with a 380-point barrage, despite an injured eye which kept him out of the first two games, and he has simply picked up where he left off last season.

The Providence College freshmen will play the Newport Naval Training Station in a preliminary game at 7 p.m.

Maryland State Hoopsters Defeat Friars in Thriller

By JOE McHENRY

Like any other coach, Vin Cuddy of the Friars doesn't like to lose. He was a bit disappointed last night when the Friars played so well, only to come out second best to the crack Maryland State team, 76-to-67. It was a thriller and had fans at the Mount Pleasant High gym in an uproar.

"They have a very nice club," Cuddy said, "but we played well too. Our kids did a terrific job but where do you find shooters like those Maryland boys. They stand out there and ping, it's in the basket. Their shooting was phenomenal. They did a great job but our boys played their hearts out."

Maryland State lived up to its advance billing, although coach Skip McCain says he's in the process of rebuilding from last season's outstanding group. "We just got through with football and I was afraid we might not be able to hold them off in the last quarter. Providence did a fine job," McCain said.

Lloyd Key Man

Key man for the visitors was Theophilus Lloyd, freshman from Philadelphia. Lloyd threw in the points when the Maryland team pulled away in the second period. He was the game's top scorer with 23 points. He also had plenty of help from Tommy Chase and Gordie Harris.

The Friars played a driving, aggressive game. It was one of the best jobs the Friars have ever turned in on the Mount Pleasant court. Maryland State was a fast, quick moving outfit and had good marksmen. The Friars matched them in all but the last five minutes of the second period. They couldn't close the gap in the second half despite a 39-32 scoring edge.

Bobby Moran chipped in 20 points for P.C. Bob Prendergast also played very well, in his coach's opinion, and was hitting on his hook shots. Tommy Mullins and Kenny Kerr were probably the most aggressive of the Friars. Mullins sunk nine foul shots while Kerr contributed two spectacular hoops, only one of which counted. He threw one in from well past midcourt but a foul nullified the long toss.

Solid Man

Coach McCain singled out Jimmy Hough, Fred Douglas, Jimmy Ford and Lloyd for commendation. Hough played a solid game while Lloyd played a spectacular one. John Power, Phil Lynch and Charlie Aquavia helped the Friars.

Friar Ice Sextet, Ram 'Informals' Set For Arena Tonight

The Providence College hockey team will make its third start of the season tonight when it meets the University of Rhode Island's informal sextet at the Auditorium at 8:30 o'clock. In a preliminary game, La Salle and Mount St. Charles will play at 7 o'clock.

The Friars, in their first season of collegiate hockey, have lost to Brown and Tufts while Rhode Island dropped a close game to M.I.T. last week. Both teams are studded with former Rhode Island schoolboy stars.

Major Rhody College Quintets Play On Road

PROVIDENCE — Rhode Island's three major college basketball teams will play out-of-town games tonight. Brown will play Harvard at Cambridge, Providence College moves into Springfield to oppose American International, and the University of Rhode Island is in New York for an engagement with St. John's at Madison Square Garden.

PC Quintet Loses To Maryland State, 76-67

PROVIDENCE—Trailing 28-44 at halftime, the Providence College basketball team went down to a 76-67 defeat before Maryland State last night at Mt. Pleasant gym. The invaders were paced by Theo Lloyd who tallied 23 points, and Fred Douglas who had 13. Best bets for the Friars were Bobby Moran with 20, and Bob Pendergast, 16.

Rally Falls Short As Providence Five Loses

Providence — A second half rally fell short here last night as Providence College's basketball team dropped a 76 to 67 decision to Maryland State College.

The Friars outscored the visitors 39 to 32 in the last two periods, but could not overcome a half time 44 to 28 deficit.

The defeat was the second in four starts for the Rhode Islanders.

Friar Sextet Wins

Providence College's hockey team gained a 3-1 triumph over the University of Rhode Island informals last night on the R. I. Auditorium rink as 200 watched. John McSweeney, Tom McAleer and Eddie Monahan scored the goals for PC and Lamb tallied for the Rams. In a preliminary Mount St. Charles edged La Salle, 2-1.

P.C. Opposes Fairfield At Waterbury Tonight

Coach Vin Cuddy Plans No Lineup Shifts; Friar Trackmen in Hub Meet

Providence College's basketball team will play Fairfield at Waterbury, Conn., tonight, after just two workouts to unlimber the holiday kinks.

The Friars reported back for practice Thursday and held another workout yesterday. Fairfield will be in better competitive shape, for the club last night played LeMoynes.

But Coach Vin Cuddy could take consolation from his Friars' lay-off—the players reported back in good shape. Before they took the break, practically all were suffering from minor ailments of some sort, Cuddy said. Now the colds and the bruises are gone and everyone is ready.

Before resuming practice, Cuddy had planned to make one or two changes in his starting club. But yesterday he decided to go along with his pre-holiday starting club —sort of a one-more-crack-at-it technique.

This means that the following will start: Bob Prendergast, Bobby Moran, Tom Mullins, Ken Kerr and Hank McQueeney.

Cuddy had been juggling the idea of starting Jack Durkin and Beaver Power in place of McQueeney and Kerr, but he has since decided to "see how things go."

"If we don't start off good," he said, "we'll make some changes."

Fairfield was undefeated going into its game last night and holds victories over Arnold and St. Michael's of Vermont, among others.

Normally, Fairfield plays its home games at Bridgeport, where the school is located, but the Friar-Fairfield game, for the second year, will be played at the Waterbury Armory.

The switch was made in the first place because each club had, last year, one or two players from Waterbury, and because the Fairfield coach, Jim Handrahan, is a native of the town and Cuddy comes from Naugatuck, just up the road. Furthermore, the game last year drew 2000 spectators.

The Friars won the "away" game last time and then lost at home.

The Friars' record, starting the second half of their schedule, is three victories and four defeats.

Five Providence College trackmen will compete in the Navy and Open AAU meet this afternoon at the Navy Building in Boston.

Paul Methia, Dick and Bob Tierman will be entered in the 440-yard run and Henry Martin and John Fontaine will compete in the 50-yard dash.

Friars Narrow Margin To 4 Points in Finale

But Attack Sputters in Last 2 Minutes; Defeat Is Fifth

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
 Waterbury, Conn.—The Fairfield University basketball team scored its fourth victory of the season here last night, handing the Providence College Friars a 73-65 defeat before 1300 spectators at the Waterbury Armory.

The Providence record is now three victories against five defeats. Fairfield's only loss of the season was to Lemoyne, 67-65, last Friday night.

A great first-period performance by Bob Markovic sparked the Fairfield club to a 14-9 first period lead and the Nutmeggers led the remainder of the game. Providence pulled to within four points with about two minutes remaining in the game.

Jack Gerwein and Markovic maintained a fine shooting average for Fairfield in the second and third quarters and continued Fairfield's comfortable lead.

The Friars launched a pressing attack as the fourth period began. They had been trailing by 10 points and the tactics paid off as they started to narrow the margin.

Bob Moran's two foul shots with 1:45 left to play cut the Fairfield margin to four points, 67-63, but Markovic tossed in a hook shot and Whitey Frauenhofer came through with a layup and P.C. was through.

The Rhody club made 27 foul conversions on 42 attempts and Fairfield connected on 19 of 27 shots. Tom Mullins, a Providence guard, was the only member of the visiting team that fouled out of action.

College Cagers Top Armory Program Tonight

Providence 5 Faces Stags In Big Game

Waterbury hoop fans will have an opportunity to see two college combines in action tonight at the Armory surface at 8:45 when Fairfield University's once-beaten Stags take on Providence College Friars.

Fairfield Freshmen and U. of Connecticut, Waterbury Branch, collide in the 7 o'clock prelim and the double cage attraction is expected to draw a large crowd.

Fairfield lost its first game in four starts last night, bowing to powerful LeMoyne College of Syracuse, 69-67, at Bridgeport Armory in a spine-tingling tussle.

Late Drive Fails

It was the fifth in a row for the LeMoyne Dolphins who checked a late drive by Coach Jim Hanrahan's Stags. LeMoyne had a 61-52 lead with five minutes remaining in the game when Fairfield started to bombard the hoop and cut down the score.

Baskets by Bobby Gerwien and Jack O'Connell made the count 68-65 and Gerwien hit with a driving layup shot in the final 16 seconds as the Stags trailed, 68-67. Then Leo flipped in a foul try for LeMoyne and O'Connell's one-handed shot rolled in and out of the hoop as the game ended.

Markovic Lost On Fouls

Naugatuck's Bobby Markovic was lost to the Stags late in the final period via the foul route after bagging 12 points. Gerwien was high for the Fairfield team with 23 while O'Connell poured in 21. Jenkins, Shea and Kenyon featured for LeMoyne.

Providence College, coached by Vin Cuddy, ex-Naugatuck High and U. of Connecticut athlete, was hit hard by graduation last June. Charley Aquavia, of Naugatuck, is the only area cager on the Friar squad.

The Stags will have Eddie Bush, ex-Bristol High standout, in the lineup along with Bob Markovic, Bob Gerwien, O'Connell and Stan Suchenski.

Fairfield Quintet Defeats Providence College, 73 To 65

Bobby Markovic, Gerwein Feature

By FRANCIS McINERNEY

With Naugatuck's Bobby Markovic and Torrington's Whitey Frauenhofer playing prominent roles, Fairfield University's Red Stags defeated Providence College, 73-65, before more than 1,500 in their annual basketball battle at the Armory last night.

Their three-game winning streak snapped by LeMoyne of Syracuse, 69-67 at Bridgeport Friday night, Coach Jimmy Hanrahan's Red Stags led practically all the way to hand Vin Cuddy's Friars their sixth loss in 10 contests.

Markovic, former Sacred Heart High School athlete who scored 18 points, chipped in eight in the opening period to lead the down-staters to a 14-9 advantage which they never lost although the losers were in contention all the way, thanks to the fine shooting of Bob Moran.

Providence spurted several times, coming as close as three points away twice. But each time a timely basket by Big Stan Suchinski of New Britain or Bob Gerwein of Fairfield broke the spell.

After Fairfield had led, 14-9, at the end of the first period, the visitors closed the gap to 20-17 midway in the second session by virtue of a seven point spree. But Big Jim Roche, former Bridgeport Central star, cut the cords with a set shot from the side and Markovic chipped in a basket and free throw to make it a comfortable 25-17 again.

Fairfield Leads At Half

Fairfield held the eight-point advantage until the final two minutes when two baskets by Moran and another by Bob Pendergast narrowed it to 33-27. Then with seconds remaining Gerwein hit from the far corner to make it 35-27 at halftime.

The complexion of the game didn't change much in the second half — Fairfield eventually won by its half-time eight-point margin but Hanrahan's charges were pressed all the way.

After Markovic opened the third period with two free throws to make it 37-27, Providence narrowed it to five points within a minute on baskets by Moran and Tom Mullins plus a free throw by Ken Kerr. But again it was Gerwein who broke the spell with a rebound shot. Later in the same period Providence caught fire again and narrowed it to four points once more, this time to 43-39, with three minutes remaining.

But Suchinski shut off the pipes with a hoop and Gerwein added a basket and free throw and Fairfield closed the period still eight points up, 52-44.

The teams stayed about seven or eight points apart throughout most of the final period. With five minutes remaining Providence made a bid, cutting the edge to 58-53 but again it was Suchinski who broke the back of the rally with a hoop and free throw to boost the Red Stag margin to 61-53.

Still later two baskets by Moran whittled the edge to 63-59 but Frauenhofer chipped in two free throws and Suchinski a basket to make it 67-59.

Friars Make Final Bid

With two minutes left in the ball game Cuddy's cagers made their final bid on a hoop by Naugatuck's Charley Aquavia and two foul conversions by Moran which made it 67-63. But Gerwein scored on a hook shot from the keyhole and diminutive Bill Smith converted twice to wrap it up.

Baskets by Moran and Frauenhofer in the final seconds closed out the scoring.

Markovic and Gerwein scored 18 points each to lead the Fairfield scorers while Suchinski contributed 13, 11 coming in the second half. Jackie O'Connell and Frauenhofer turned in fine floor performances. Eddie Bush of Bristol, a freshman, started for Fairfield and turned in a fine rebounding job in the early periods.

Moran and Pendergast featured offensively for Providence. Aquavia also featured in the back court.

Fairfield converted 19 of 27 free throws while Providence made 27 of 43. The score:

AIC COACH HAS SHIFTED LINEUP FOR FRIAR TILT

Field House Prelim
Tonight

There will be three new faces in the AIC starting lineup tonight when the Aces take the floor against Providence College in the main game of a basketball double header at the Springfield College Field House. Coach Nick Rodis has named Rickie Clark, John Anzalotti, and Red Flynn to start with cocaptains Harry Collins and Ray Mrozack. The shakeup is being made in the hopes of finding a combination that can work well together and not, as Coach Rodis points out, to bench anyone for a poor performance in the three games AIC has lost this year.

Commerce To Play

Richie Clark, the husky 215 pound Tech High grad, has earned his starting assignment by his aggressive play and ability to rebound off both boards. He will take over the pivot position with Collins, the team's leading scorer and regular center, moving over to forward. Collins has shown he can score from anywhere and shouldn't be affected by the change over while the addition of Clark will probably give the Aces more rebounding strength. Jack Flynn, the slim left-hander from Worcester, will play the other forward. The youngster has a good one hand push shot and is quite a ball handler.

Mrozack will remain at his usual post in the back court with John Anzalotti filling the other guard spot. Ray, the only member of the club not affected by the player shuffle, and Anzalotti are both good ball handlers and play makers who can also score from the outside. Anzalotti was with the team briefly last year and was a star with the freshman two years ago but gets his first real chance at varsity play tonight.

If this starting combination fails to click, Rodis can still call upon a couple of pretty fair shooters, John Solio and Duke Dukeshire. This pair accounted for 32 points in their last Field House showing, the pre-season game with Springfield, and might find the range again in front of the home town fans.

P.C. Fives Play Out of Town Tonight

Brown Meets Columbia
Here in Swimming
And Wrestling

By JOHN HANLON

Rhode Island, Brown and Providence College have basketball games out of town tonight, leaving the day's local athletic scene to the more-or-less unheralded sporting events.

The Setup

As for the basketball players Brown will play Harvard at Cambridge; Providence College will meet American International College at Springfield and the Rhode Island Rams will take on St. John's at Madison Square Garden.

Brown's hockey team also has an "away" game, playing its old rival Boston College, at the Boston Arena.

Brown's swimmers opened their season Wednesday night with an easy victory over M.I.T., but Columbia figures to be tougher. Ralph Brisco and Ronnie Wills were double winners against the Engineers.

The Friars' basketball team now has lost two in a row, after winning its first two games, a fact that has Coach Vin Cuddy slightly puzzled.

Better Now

"Funny thing about those two defeats," Cuddy said yesterday, "is that we are not playing badly. But I'd rather lose them now than later in the season."

One factor that should help his club against A.I.C., which has lost to Connecticut, Springfield and, surprisingly, M.I.T., is that Hank McQueeney will be back for full-time duty. Hank suffered an ankle injury against St. Anselm's, played only briefly against Maryland State, but now will take his regular place tomorrow.

Rams, Friars Travel; Bears Beaten at Home

By JOHN HANLON

Rhode Island's Rams tonight will play a team already in the basketball big-time, Providence College will play one that soon may be there and Brown last night lost to one that would like to make the grade.

As for the Friars, Vin Cuddy, their coach, believes that his club will have to be in top-notch form in order to take Brandeis.

"We ourselves," he said yesterday, "are a better club than we were last year, but Brandeis is a first-rate team. The club is big and young and I understand they start three freshmen, all well over six feet tall. They'll be tough for us."

So far, the Judges, as Brandeis teams are called, have defeated Boston University and Gorham State and, quite surprisingly, lost to St. Michael's.

Stand Pat

Like the Rams' coach, Cuddy is going to continue along with the lineup that has won three of five games for him—the latest was over American International College—and that means Hank McQueeney, Bob Moran, Bob Prendergast, Tommy Mullins and either Ken Kerr or Phil Lynch.

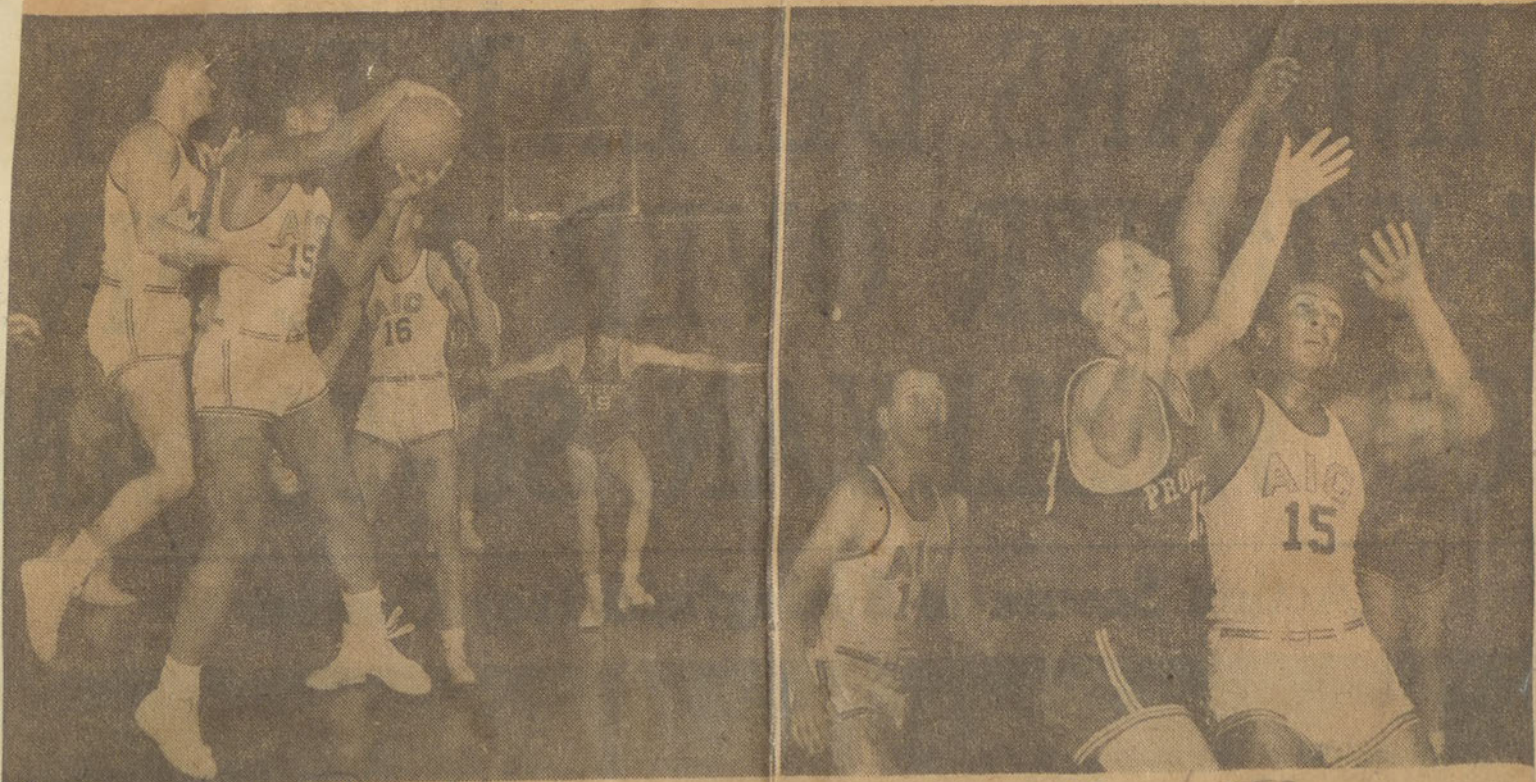

McQueeney still is slightly hampered by an ankle injury received some two weeks back and Cuddy said it was particularly bothersome in practice on Monday. But he worked out yesterday and all seemed sound.

The Friars practiced early last night at Mt. Pleasant gym and then attended the Connecticut-Brown game, each future opponents.

Their Brandeis game will be played at the Waltham High School gym.

Providence Hands Aces Fourth Straight Defeat

Failure at Charity Line Hurts AIC Cagers in 78-69 Setback Before 500 at Field House; Moran Paces Visiting Attack

12-14-52 By ROBERT SHEEHY

Until the American International College cagers adapt themselves to scoring from the line of least resistance, they might well continue to have trouble denting the victory column in this new season of basketball. The Aces, who most always find Providence College a tough hurdle, accepted another lesson from the Friars last night before some 500 fans at the Springfield College Field House and dropped a 78-69 tussle for their fourth straight setback. In the long run, failure from the charity stripe caused the AIC downfall since the Aces realized but 19 of 38 free tries and several of those came at times when a point or two would have brought the home team to even terms.

Enough Reserve

The fast-moving and rangy Providence squad never did give the Aces a chance to square off after taking the lead for good with but a minute left in the opening period. The Friars moved their advantage to 15-10 at the period's close, showed a 34-30 edge at the halfway mark and headed into the final canto on the long end of a 59-49 margin.

Though Providence did boast commanding margins at several stages of loosely-played, helter-skelter contest, the Rodismen were always able to climb back into contention, save for the final few minutes, when the Friars resorted to control basketball in order to protect their lead. The home forces did shave the deficit to 66-62 with four minutes remaining but the visitors proved they had enough reserve to fashion the victory.

Four of the Providence starters reached double figures but it was scrappy Bob Moran who did the most damage. The youngster tossed 26 points for his night's work. More important, however, was the fact that Moran several times drove around the AIC defense for timely baskets. When he wasn't denting the twine himself, he was found passing off to rangy Bob Prendergast and Tom Mullin.

Controlled Boards

The Aces, along with their failures at the foul lines, were amiss in the rebound department during the first half. Providence, with its superior height, managed to control both boards with a fair degree of success. Even when the Aces' Richie Clark and Harry Collins did assert themselves inside the Friars' defense, their attempts were too hurried to be of much value.

But Clark and Collins began to find the range in the final half and they were given considerable help by Duke Dukeshire, Northampton

High and Monson Academy product. Collins was high man for the Aces with 19 points. Each time, however, that the Aces moved to within reaching distance, Moran and Prendergast, the latter hitting with hook shots from the bucket, moved away again.

AIC led on but two occasions. Collins' free try at the outset gave the Rodismen a start. But Providence assumed the lead until Ray Mrozack's two-pointer brought about a 3-3 deadlock and Collins stepped in with another free throw. That was the last time that the Aces enjoyed the edge. The Friars took over again and moved to their 15-10 edge at the end of the session.

Switched to Zone

Held to five points for better than six minutes in the second period, the Aces found themselves trailing by a 28-15 tally. Then came the spurt which closed the gap to 34-30 at the intermission, the final AIC points coming as the result of Dukeshire's long, arching one-hander at the gun.

The host team relinquished its man-for-man style of defense for the zone at the start of the second half and this paid off in dividends, at least in keeping Prendergast in tow. The rangy center collected but three baskets over the last two period. But that's where Moran came in. The latter youngster notched 16 of his 26 points in the final 20 minutes. He just couldn't be stopped.

AIC cut the Providence lead to 56-53 early in the fourth chapter but Moran added a five-point spurt. Again, the Aces trailed by 62-59 when Moran drove in from the side for a basket, then popped a set from the outside. Those twin-counters were all that the Friars needed at the time to push themselves under the wire. The lineups:

E.B. Friars Take A.I.C. 12-15

Providence College completed the near sweep by taking American International College in basketball, 78-69, and did it mainly on a strong second-half performance.

Hank McQueeney, Bobby Moran and Bob Prendergast were the high scorers in the Friars' third victory in five games.

McQueeney got 13 points, 11 of them in the second half, and Moran scored 24, 15 of which came in the same period. Prendergast got most of his 16 points in the first period and kept the Friars going in that frame.

Brandeis Beats Providence, 98-83

Waltham, Dec. 17 (AP)—Brandeis overcame a four-point deficit early in the second period and then pulled away for a 98-83 victory over Providence College tonight for its third decision in four basketball starts.

Brandeis Defeats Providence, 98-83

Mel Sokalow, Brooklyn sophomore, scored 14 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter to insure Brandeis of victory over Providence College, 98-83, last night at the Waltham High gym. Providence led 18-17 in the first period but Brandeis was out front, 44-37, at the half and 66-60 going into the final period, as it registered its third win in four starts.

Bobby Moran and Bob Prendergast scored 42 of the 83 points made by the Friars.

Friars Beaten By Brandeis Five, 98-83

Brandeis University belted Providence College, 98-83, at Waltham last night and gained its third victory in four games this season.

For the Friars, the defeat was No. 3. The PC cagers are all even on the season, boasting three victories.

The teams were tied at 18-18 at the close of the first period but Brandeis led at the half, 44-37 and 66-60 as the final period started. The winners quickly ran up a 12-point lead early in the last period to put the game out of reach of the Friars.

Although defeated, PC had the game's high scorer in capable Bobby Moran, the set-shooting ace. Bob accounted for 24 points while teammate Jim Prendergast picked up 18 points.

BRANDEIS DEFEATS PROVIDENCE, 98-83

Brandeis University's basketball team started pulling away from Providence College in the second period of their game last night at the Waltham High School gym and wound up with a 98 to 83 victory. The victory, third in four starts for the Judges, was sparked by the playing of Mel Sokolow in the final half.

Brandeis Basketballers Hand Friars 98-83 Loss

WALTHAM, Mass.—Opening up a 12 point lead in the early moments of the final period, Brandeis U. handed Providence College a 98-83 loss here last night. The loss was the third in six outings for PC who entertain Colby at Mount Pleasant gym in Providence Saturday night.

Bobby Moran had 24 points for PC and Zager 17 for the winners.

Friars and Rams Defeated by Fourth-Quarter Rallies

Providence College and Rhode Island should start a campaign to make basketball games three periods long. Each club lost its out-of-town game last night—and the decision in each came in the fourth quarter.

The P.C. Friars were defeated by Brandeis, 98-83, and the Judges wrapped it up by outscoring the Friars almost two points to one in the final 10 minutes. The same applied generally as the R.J. Rams lost to Siena, 79-70, at Albany, N.Y. This one was even 22 points. Fred Congleton got 16, Rollie Kubiskey got 10 and each, in addition, got the gate on personal fouls near the end.

Brandeis, which now has won three of its four games, trailed the Friars by four points early in the second quarter, but soon wiped out the deficit and moved into control. Bobby Moran, the Friars' ace forward, collected 24 points—tops for the game—and his teammate, Bob Prendergast, got 18. Tom Mullins also was in the double figures with 10 points. The Judges style of play. This was accomplished by an apparent willingness to draw a foul in order to stop the Rams' running game.

Further complicating the problem, the Rams had little luck in shooting in the first half. As a result, neither club was able to build anything resembling a lead and the score at the half was 35-33 for Siena. The third quarter was a repetition, then came the fatal fourth. Bill Baird of the Rams was the leading scorer for the game with before the Christmas holidays, that with Colby at Mount Pleasant High School on Saturday. The Rams will be out of action until they take part in the Boston Garden invitation tourney on Dec. 29 and 30.

Brown's hockey team is the only other club in business this week. The Bruins will play St. Lawrence tomorrow night and Clarkson Tech on Saturday, each game at Canton, N.Y.

Brandeis Five Tags P.C., 98-83, With Fast Finish

Moran Paces Friars Again With 24 Points

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

Waltham, Mass.—Brandeis broke what had been a close game wide open in the fourth quarter and scored a 98-83 victory over Providence College here last night.

After the Friars had tied it up at 57-all late in the third period, Chet Zager, Art Winograd and Roger Morgan scored in rapid succession, giving the Judges a 66-60 lead going into the finale.

Brandeis opened up a 12-point bulge early in the final quarter and maintained that advantage, thanks to some remarkable shooting by Jim Houston and Mel Sokolow. Houston tallied all of his 16 points in the final 10 minutes.

The Judge's fast break kept the Friars off guard most of the way but the winners meanwhile were unable to bottle up P.C.'s Bobby Moran and big Jim Prendergast until the late stages. Moran was especially effective in the first half and wound up as the game's high scorer with 24 points. Prendergast hooped 18, mostly on hook shots from the foul lane.

Zager was top point producer for Brandeis with 17. Sokolow posted 14 and Winograd, 13.

The lead changed hands several times in the first half and the first period ended with the score tied at 18-18. The Friars moved into a four-point lead early in the second quarter but the Judges stormed back and soon tied it up. Two quick baskets by Zager in the final 30 seconds gave Brandeis a 44-37 half-time edge.

The victory was the third in four starts for Brandeis. The P.C. seasonal record now stands at three victories and as many defeats. The Friars will entertain Colby at Mount Pleasant High School in Providence Saturday night.

P.C. Quintet Opposes Strong Colby Tonight

Veteran-Studded Mules Favored in Game at Mount Pleasant Gym

By JOHN HANLON

Providence College will finish off the pre-holiday portion of its basketball schedule tonight by playing Colby at the Mt. Pleasant High School gymnasium.

The game will start at 7:45 o'clock. There will be no preliminary contest.

The Mules lost to Holy Cross at Worcester, 68-58, Thursday night and that was their first defeat in five games.

Coach Vin Cuddy and all his Friars were there to watch that one and to get a first-hand look at the situation. They saw, according to Cuddy, plenty.

Cuddy said that he wasn't sure whether Holy Cross had an "off" night or if Colby just caused the Crusaders no end of trouble, but in either case the Mules from Maine would be tough for his Friars.

One point in favor of Cuddy's club is that Colby, as of tonight, will be playing its fourth game in five days. They defeated Bates Tuesday, played Holy Cross Thursday, took on Boston University last night and now have the Friars.

Normally, this sort of schedule is trying on a club, but this Colby team is a good one and in its roster nine men who earners last season. So the Mules probably have the depth to make contest, tired or not, against the Friars.

An indication of the job that the Friars is that Holy Cross was the first club this season to hold Colby below 82 points. Previously, the club had scored more than 90 points in three games, 87 in another and 82 in other.

In addition, the starting team is virtually the same as the one that took the Maine championship last season, won 23 out of 24 games and scored an average of 74 points each time out.

Roland Nagle, who stands 6:5 and Ted Lallier, who goes 6:7, are the leading scorers last season and they are right back in line this time. Each scored 16 points against Holy Cross.

In addition, the Mules have three other veterans for their starting lineup — Capt. Frank Acentini, Dick Hawes and Ed Weigand.

Against this outfit, Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars will start Bobby Moran, Bob Prendergast, Tom Mullins, Hank McQueeney and Phil Lynch or Ken Kerr.

Prendergast is the only one in the group that can match the Mules' tall men, but the Friars team probably will have more speed and facility. However, they definitely will be handicapped under the backboards.

The Friars' record now is three and they lost their last game to Brandeis.

Colby Nips Providence In 2nd Win, 71-62

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 20 — Ted Lallier's 30 points set the pace as Colby downed Providence College, 71-62, last night.

The Mules, winding up a three-game road trip, took their second game of this particular tour and their seventh in eight games for the season.

Lallier — and the Mules — were contained quite handily by the P. C. Friars in the first half and took off lead of only six points, 28-22, at intermission.

But then Lallier, using his height and his hook shot to best advantage, dropped in 13 points in the third quarter and the Mules held a substantial 51-37 lead at the three-quarter mark.

The rugged pace of four games in five days this week slowed Colby down near the end, but they were able to hold off a minor Providence rally.

Bobby Moran was the Friars' top scorer with 23 points. Dick Hawes hit 16 for the Mules and he was the only other player on either team to get into double figures.

Moran's second-half shooting brought the Friars to within seven points, 60-53 midway through the fourth quarter, but then Colby's Captain, Frank Piacentini, out of action because of a cold, came into the game and got two key baskets that cooled off the rally. He also passed off to Hawes, who made a nice layup basket and the Mules had a 69-59 lead with a minute to play.

The summary.

Lallier's 30 Tallies Give Colby 71-62 Edge

PROVIDENCE—Thirty points by Ted Lallier who stands six feet seven inches, gave Colby's basketballers a 71-62 win over Providence College last Saturday night

Colby Quintet Downs Providence By 71-62

Providence, R. I., Dec. 20—(P)—Ted Lallier, the six-foot-seven center, tossed in 30 points tonight while pacing Colby's strong basketball forces to a 71-62 victory over Providence College.

The visitors, who led from an early stage, also were helped by Dick Hawes, who contributed 16 points to their seventh victory on eight starts.

Bobby Moran was Providence's outstanding player with 23 points as the Friars suffered their fourth loss in seven games.

dence College last Saturday night at the Mt. Pleasant gym. Lallier hit for 13 of his points in the third period to provide the margin of victory. PC's top scorer was Bob Moran with 23 points.

Colby Wins, 71-62

Providence, R. I., Dec. 21 —(P)—Colby, paced by center Ted Lallier with 30 points, won a 71-62 basketball victory over Providence College here Saturday night. It was the second win in three starts for the Maine team against out of state competition.

Currently on a western swing during the holiday season, Colby meets Youngstown of Ohio, Dec. 29.

Friar Five Plays Colby Tonight At Mt. Pleasant Gym

Providence College's basketball team winds up the pre-holiday portion of its schedule tonight by taking on the strong Colby Mules at the Mount Pleasant High gym. The game will get under way at 7:45 with no preliminary.

The Friars now have a three and three record after dropping their last start to Brandeis. Colby last night scored a 77-68 decision over Boston University after losing to Holy Cross, 68-58, Thursday night.

Brandeis Host To Providence At H.S. Gym McQueeney to Play for Visitors

Henry McQueeney, former Newton High All-Suburban League forward, will perform for the fast Providence College quintet tonight, 8:15 o'clock, at the Waltham High Gym as the Rhode Island team tangles with Brandeis University.

Providence has a 4-1 record and lost a close decision to St. Anselm's for its lone setback. Among its most important triumphs was a win over AIC of Springfield.

Brandeis, after brushing aside Gorham Teachers and Boston University in its first two starts, was knocked out of the undefeated ranks by St. Michael's at Burlington, Vt., last Saturday night, 84-77. Right forward Chet Zager, who missed that game because of a slight attack of appendicitis, is expected to rejoin the squad along with Roger Morgan, sidelined by a sprained ankle. Both boys didn't make the trip to Vermont.

Zager Rejoins Judges, Paces 98-83 Victory Sokalow Hot in Windup Stanza

Right forward Chet Zager rejoined the Brandeis University five after a one-game absence and took scoring honors with 17 points last night at the Waltham High Gym as the Judges turned back Providence College, 98 to 83.

It was the third win in four starts for Brandeis, which was upset by St. Michael's last Saturday.

Last night's contest was a see saw affair during the first half with the visitors enjoying a four-point lead going into the second period. Brandeis swung into a seven-point lead at the intermission and never was headed from then on.

Mel Sokalow put the finishing touches on the win when he got 14 of his 16 points in the final period via five floor shots and four fouls.

Secret Is Out-- Tebbetts Is 43

BY GERRY HERN

A secret pact of many years duration was broken yesterday in Phoenix when George Robert Tebbetts announced that he need not hide behind a false front any longer. Birdie, as George Robert is known in the trade, issued a statement in which he admitted his true age. Earlier reports out of Phoenix which named the former Red Sox catcher manager of the Indianapolis Indians gave his age as 38 on Nov. 10. Later, Birdie announced that actually he is now 43 years old and the five year difference between his true and his public age was a little dodge to keep the club owners from catching up to him.

The pact had been between Birdie and the sportswriters, who agreed to wince only slightly when they mentioned the official age carried against Birdie's name on squad rosters.

A few years back a reporter asked Birdie, "How old are you?"

His blue eyes stared the questioner in the eye as Birdie answered, "How old was I last year?"

The reporter said he couldn't remember.

"I can't either," said the Nashua song-bird, "and in the absence of any other information why don't we agree to use the age that is printed in the book?"

The book referred to was the Baseball Register which carries the alleged ages of all the athletes. By cross checking references in the book, a sound research man would have discovered that Birdie was a boy genius. He graduated from Providence College in 1934 which, according to his published birth date would have made him 19 years old on commencement day.

Deduct four years of college, two years of prep school and four years of high school, and there you have the picture of a boy prodigy graduating from grammar school at the age of 9 years. An amazing scholar, no doubt.

HAD AGREEMENT WITH REPORTERS

All the reporters who cover sports agreed many years ago that Birdie's age would be a secret until the day he quit playing. They reminded him of the joint secret once in a while when he got out of line, but they didn't break out with the truth. He was always able to keep the myth going that he was still a young fellow trying to get along, although there were reporters who as college freshmen remembered covering games at Boston College at which Birdie, a senior, was catching for Providence College.

Maintaining the fraud was the least the reporters could do for the fiery little gentleman. As a player, he was one of the few Red Sox with a tremendous urge to win. There were other catchers of more mechanical ability than Birdie and most of the big leaguers could bang the ball harder and more frequently, but no one in the game ever gave it more undivided attention than Birdie.

He was what the British call "a great occasion player." In 1950, when the spring had gone from his legs, at the age of 40, he hitched himself together and gave the finest demonstration of catching the Red Sox had seen since the days of Bill Carrigan will probably be best remembered for the final Western trip of that season.

At the time he was not in good favor with the Red Sox management. Steve O'Neill was managing the club and relations between the two of them were on the cold side. Tebbetts had been benched early on the trip. Matt Batts was doing the catching. Birdie was doing the writhing on the bench. Finally, the Sox reached Detroit for a vital game. They had to win this one or forget about the pennant.

Off the bench came Birdie. He caught the whole game and as the last pitch of a winning game reached his glove, he made a dramatic gesture. He grabbed the ball in his bare hand and held it high in the air while he turned slowly. It was the defiant act of a tough little guy showing the crowd that he could still catch the big games—the ones which had to be won.

Birdie knew then that he was finished with the Red Sox although he didn't get traded officially until he made an off-season speech about the "juvenile malcontents" on the Red Sox pitching staff. Saying that he was traded is a weasel way of putting it. Actually, he was given away, although catchers, even old catchers, were hard to find. He had worried his welcome among the sensitive Red Sox players who resented his demands for more hustle on the field.

TIRED OF "CHOKE-UP" PITCHERS

What are the odds against his reaching the major leagues as a manager? They're pretty strong against any minor league manger, especially a driving type, but Birdie is an unusual person. As a player he demanded the best from his pitchers, most of whom were drawing more salary than he was. One Red Sox pitcher stopped speaking to Birdie because on several occasions he fired the ball back at the pitcher so hard it bruised his hand.

Birdie explained later that he was sick of catching "choke-up" throws, but the pitcher wouldn't listen. He got stuffy about it and cut Birdie dead socially. Birdie didn't mind. He wished to have no part of "choke-up" ball players, those who couldn't cut loose with their best stuff in difficult situations. So, he went his way, fighting for every base, screaming on every pitch and giving everything he had for the team employing him.

He will always play the game that way. Two decades ago, he would have been tremendously successful. Two decades ago the Red Sox would have kept him as their catcher, eventually made him a coach and finally, a manager. But the new baseball idea is different. Coaches and managers now hold their jobs by their ability to get along with the players. Miller Huggins wouldn't have lasted a month with the Red Sox. The charge against him would have been that he upset the players by screaming at them, but with the old Yankees he was the greatest manager in the game.

The new trend is the only thing that raises the slightest doubt that Birdie will be successful as a manager. He has brains, determination and ambition and was a leader when the Red Sox let him do any leading. He is also a bit of a literary light, being the only major league baseball player who ever was a ghost-writer for a sports columnist. He performed this wonderful switch on custom by beating out a readable column for a Chicago newspaperman a few years back.

If Birdie finds out he can't speak firmly to his players, he'll be back selling insurance in Nashua by midsummer. If he lasts through August, he can't miss the major leagues, probably in Cleveland, within five years.

Strong Colby Quintet Opposes PC Tonight

PROVIDENCE — Fresh from a 77-68 triumph over Boston University, Colby will invade Mt. Pleasant High gym tonight to oppose Providence College's quintet. Colby has won six games in seven starts, the only setback being to Holy Cross by a 68-58 margin. In hockey last night, St. Lawrence handed Brown a 6-3 setback.

Something No Think About

By GREG GREENE

Ray Betagh, coach of the Woonsocket High School track team, doesn't know it yet—officially—but his boys have been awarded second place in the fourth annual Providence College invitation four-mile relay which was held a couple of weeks ago.

On the day of the relay, La Salle was placed second by meet officials—despite the fact it should have been disqualified when one of its runners dropped out of the first heat after losing a shoe. Betagh filed a protest with the Providence College Athletic Council and won his point.

We think Ray's letter to the council was a honey. Read it—and draw your own conclusions:

Reverend A. Begley, O. P.

Athletic Director

Providence College

Reverend Dear Father:

I am addressing this protest, as you requested, to the Providence College Athletic Council. Woonsocket was one of ten teams entered in the Fourth Annual Invitation Four-mile Relay Race sponsored by Providence College at Hendricken Field on December 6th. La Salle was entered in the first heat and finished the first leg of the race. At the beginning of the second leg of the race, the La Salle runner lost a shoe. After running about one lap of his leg without a shoe, he dropped out at the behest of his coach.

Woonsocket was entered in the second heat. After the first heat was run, the La Salle coach remarked to me that he knew his team was out of the race, but that he was going to ask the meet director to allow his boys to run in the second heat—just for a work out. To this request Woonsocket voiced no complaint, naturally, since it conceded La Salle's disqualification.

After the race I sent one of my boys to check with the timers, as I had clocked my team on a new official stop watch at 19:57. He was informed that Woonsocket had taken second place since La Salle was disqualified. The meet director, standing nearby, overhead the boy reporting to me and angrily interrupted our conversation by shouting for all to hear that he was not disqualifying La Salle and was giving them second place in the meet.

Considering the quick anger and dictatorial attitude of the meet director, the decision must have been influenced by a very strong sympathy for the unfortunate team.

But at the time it struck me as shocking that such an arbitrary, biased and unprecedented decision could be even conceived, let alone be publicly proclaimed, by one who had devoted his life to developing the ideal of good sportsmanship and fair play in competitive sports among school boys. So, not being especially noted for any timid or mouselike traits, I did a bit of shouting myself.

However, aside from any printed rule, simple justice demands that no team in a race be allowed to run it twice while the other teams have only one chance to win. Otherwise any team entered in the first heat of any race scheduled to be run in two heats might find some plausible pretense to drop out, if it was being defeated, and to enter again for another try in the second heat while those teams unfortunate enough to be assigned to the second heat would have no such recourse available to them.

If fairplay in competitive sports means anything, it must mean that all competitors are to have an equal opportunity to win. All rules are made with that end in view. Any arbitrary or ill-considered ruling that would give one competitor any advantage over the others is simply unfair. If the same misfortune had befallen Woonsocket or any other team assigned to the second heat, how could they possibly be accorded the special privilege of running again that was given to the La Salle team? And if the same privilege couldn't be made available to them, how can the ruling that accorded it to La Salle be anything other than a regrettable miscarriage of justice and fairplay? Surely it must be presumed that every team that enters a race has the right to enter it to win or to make the best possible showing. Or was it presumptuous on our part to think that way?

If we must have recourse to printed rules in this matter where simple justice should prevail, there is a rule which I believe is generally applied in all amateur relay racing in just such a contingency as this one. That rule found in the rule book of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States provides as follows, "In all relay races an announcement must be made as to the distance each competitor is to run in his relay. Any competitor failing to run the distance required shall cause his team to be disqualified (Rule XLVI, Relay Races, article 5.)"

This rule is also incorporated in the "Official Rules Governing Rhode Island Interscholastic Track and Cross Country" wherein Rule 18 states, "All competitors must run the full distance of the race;" and Rule 19 concludes, "Disqualification of any member of a relay team for violation of these Rules shall disqualify his team."

It is also an admitted fact that the four La Salle runners that started in the first heat did not run in the second heat. Thus the composition of the team was changed in violation of the rule that "the composition and running order of a team cannot be changed" as set forth in both of the above-mentioned rule books. This violation resulted in La Salle's having a chance to win with one team in the first heat, and failing, having a second chance to win with another team in the second heat. Yet I have a letter here over the name of the meet director in reply to my own written request to enter two teams and which runs in part as follows,

"Dear Ray: Only one team to run in the four-mile relay. La Salle also wants to run two teams."

Would it be facetious to press this point any further?

We thank you for your patience in hearing us out and we hopefully submit our protest to your honorable Athletic Council.

Coach Francis Holt of New Bedford Vocational, Coach "Skip" O'Connor of Concord High, and Coach Harold Myers have requested me to add their names in support of this protest.

A very clever letter—don't you think?

Very truly yours,

Ray Betagh

Colby's Carping Hoop Boss Makes His Nagging Pay Off

By JOHN HANLON

The success, and it's quite impressive, of Lee Williams, Colby's basketball coach, is not based on the gentle touch.

In fact, his coaching technique as displayed in the recent Colby-Providence College game was — how to say it? — curious and rather startling.

Williams, at least in that one game, set up an almost embarrassing furore from the bench, shouting sarcastically and biting to his players, carping and nagging at their every move.

Now and again he would mutter a kind word, but for the most part his approach was that of a professional coach whose players depended on the game for their cakes and ale and they better darn well be good at it.

Possibly, as another college coach on the premises pointed out, Williams had tried other methods and found them lacking and that his demonstrated carpings worked best for Colby's particular purposes.

In any case, they work. Williams, in six full seasons at Colby, has won three Maine titles. His club last year has been judged the best ever in Maine and the present squad has won seven out of eight games. Furthermore, he has just been made Colby's athletic director.

About the Course: Bob Gordon, son of Wannamoisett's golf pro, George, is a sub on the Colby team . . . He is in the unfortunate position of playing behind Ted Lallier, as good a center as there is in New England . . . Father Slavin, president of Providence College, "plays" a hectic game when he watches the Friars in action . . . Leans with every shot, winces with every miss.

Friars Face Tough Foe In Colby, Victim of H.C.

Providence College will play Colby College, one of New England's better basketball teams, at Mt. Pleasant gym tomorrow night.

The game will start at 7 o'clock — there will not be a preliminary contest — and will be the Friars' final until after the first of the year.

Colby's situation is simple. The club last season won 23 of 28 games, 11 of them in succession, won the Maine title, averaged 74 points a game and has nine lettermen from last year on the present squad. Obviously, the Mules are good.

This season they have won five of six games played, scored 90 or more points in three of them and got 82 and 87 in two of the others. Last night they stumbled before Holy Cross at Worcester, the Crusaders winning, 66 to 58.

All this adds up to a tough assignment for the Friars, who lost their last one, on Wednesday night, to Brandeis. The fact that the Mules may be weary after their game last night might help, but the Friars still will have to be on the top of their game to win it.

There is nothing in particular wrong with the Friars, as indicated by their 3-3 record; in fact, Coach Vin Cuddy figures this team stronger than last year. But the opposition this time around is stronger.

Colby is a good example. This team averages 6-3 in height and their tallest man is Ted Lallier, who goes 6-7. He was the No. 2 scorer last year with 316 points.

Their captain is Frank Piacentini, already one of Colby's all-time basketball greats and selected as the team's most valuable player. Roland Nagle is the other big shooter on the club. He was top scorer last year with 353 points. This above-named trio was picked on the all-state team.

The Friars' lineup will be the same as usual, with Bob Moran, Bob Prendergast, Tom Mullins, Hank McQueney and Phil Lynch or Ken Kerr in the starting spots.

COLBY QUINTET TOPS PROVIDENCE, 71 TO 62

Providence, R. I., Dec. 20 (P) — Ted Lallier, the six-foot-seven center, tossed in 30 points tonight while pacing Colby's strong basketball forces to a 71-62 victory over Providence College.

The visitors, who led from an early stage, also were helped by Dick Hawes, who contributed 16 points to their seventh victory on eight starts.

Friar Hoopers Tumbled By Colby Five, 71-62

Providence — Ted Lallier, the biggest man on Colby's big basketball team, scored 30 points as the Mules defeated Providence College, 71-62, last night at Mount Pleasant High School's gym.

Lallier, who stands six-feet seven inches tall, shoots well with either hand and takes in rebounds like an octopus, collected 13 of his team's 23 points in the third quarter — the Friars got 15 — and that wrapped it up for the Mules.

P.C. Five on Top

In basketball, Providence College had the winner, with the Friars taking 14 games and losing nine. Jim Schlimm was the team's ace, leading in scoring and, personally, breaking the 1000-point mark for his career with the Friars.

The team played in two tournaments, but with no success to report. The Friars were eliminated by Colby in the regional tournament of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball and lost their first game in the National Catholic Invitational Tourney.

Blue Weekend for R.I. College Teams

By PETE McCARTHY

Brown's hockey team saved Rhode Island's collegiate athletic teams from experiencing a week of complete futility by squeezing past Clarkson, 6-5, Saturday night at Canton, N.Y.

Otherwise the locals encountered an uninterrupted string of defeats. Brown's basketball team suffered its fourth straight setback in its only competition of the week, against Connecticut, and the University of Rhode Island dropped a 19-70 decision to Siena at Albany in its only appearance.

Providence College's quintet was in business twice, against Brandeis and Colby, but the result was the same in both cases. The Friars absorbed their third defeat of the season at the hands of Brandeis (98-83) and their fourth against Colby (71-62). Coach Vin Cuddy's P.C. team has won three.

The Big Man

The Bruin hockey team came very close to making it a losing landslide, being forced to come from behind no less than five times before subduing Clarkson. The Bruins had been beaten by St. Lawrence, 6-3, on Friday night. Art Petit was the big man in the Brown triumph over Clarkson with three goals and an assist. He tied up the score for the fifth and last time at 9:40 of the third period and Art Vietze banked home a 10-foot screen shot less than two minutes later for the winning goal. The Bruins' record now stands at two victories and three defeats.

Coach Bob Morris' Brown basketballers hadn't been conceded much of a chance to beat Connecticut and the Uconns played up to their rating as one of the top teams in New England. Art Quimby paced the Connecticut victory with 23 points. However, the Bruins have shown steady improvement with each game and should be ready to give a lot of their opponents trouble when they resume action next month. Ed Tooley, Jim Pendergast and Capt. Lou Murgos all hit double figures against the Uconns.

Strategy Works

The Rhode Island Rams gave Siena a rugged time of it before succumbing to a last-quarter rally. The bigger Indians stopped the Rams' fast break chiefly by committing holding fouls in the back court and though that strategem enabled the Rhody cagers to sink 30 foul shots, it prevented them from getting a concerted attack rolling. The loss was the third for the Rams, as against two victories.

Bobby Moran continued his high-scoring pace, getting 24 points against Brandeis and 23 against Colby, but in each instance the Friars lacked the height to match their opponents. Ted Lallier, 6'7" Colby center, dominated the rebounding in Saturday's game and also contributed 30 points to the Mules' total.

None of the R.I. teams is in action this week, but the Rams will compete in the Boston Garden Invitation Tournament Dec. 29-30 against Boston College, Seattle and Georgetown.

Fourth Straight

Holy Cross won its fourth straight game with little difficulty by routing St. John's, 81-62, at Madison Square Garden. The Crusaders, eighth-ranked nationally, will be idle until they compete in the annual Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C., next week. Their first opponent in that tourney will be sixth-ranked N.C. State, which walloped the Rams, 105-66, a week ago.

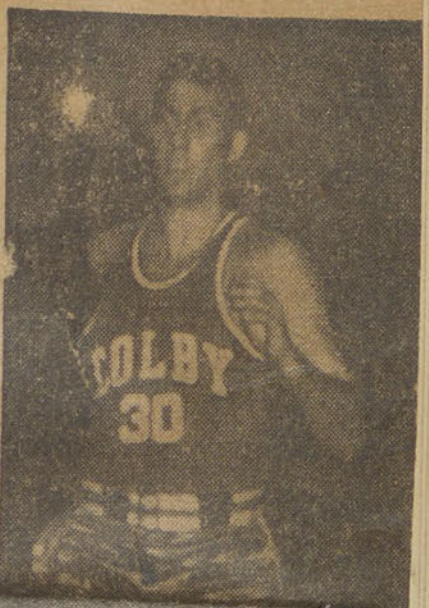

Connecticut continued undefeated with a 75-71 triumph over Villanova.

Elsewhere, upsets struck down some of the nation's leaders and a few of the other top teams had close calls. Kansas State, ranked No. 2, was walloped by unheralded Michigan State, 80-63, after having handed Notre Dame its first defeat, 80-64, on Friday night. Oklahoma A.&M., No. 5, bowed to Colorado, 56-55.

Illinois, No. 3, needed a second-half rally to beat Butler and Seton Hall, No. 4, just managed to nose by little St. Peter's of Jersey City, 67-66. Washington, No. 9, had to go into overtime to turn back California.

First-ranked La Salle completed its cross-country tour with a 98-50 victory over Stanford.

McQueeney Sparks 94-75 Friar Victory Over Bates Quintet

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars, who registered one of their highest scores in recent seasons last night with a 94-75 victory over Bates, take on the Holy Cross Crusaders tonight at Worcester.

Hank McQueeney, a 6-foot-3 junior from Newton, Mass., led the Friars to their surprising victory last night at Mount Pleasant High. The big fellow has been a slow starter this season. However, his performance last night surpassed anything he has ever shown with the Friars and was reminiscent of his Freshman season when he was a top player with a good PC Frosh team.

Hot Pace

The Friars hit a hot pace against the Bobcats and were able to sustain it. They broke better and shot better while their enthusiasm and hustle caught Bates off stride. Providence scored its highest total in two seasons and turned in one of its best first half performances in a three-year period.

Bobby Moran maintained his 21-point average, sharing honors with McQueeney as each collected 21 points. However, Tommy Mullins, Jack Durkin, and Jack Reynolds were prominent in the PC attack. Mullins, Moran and McQueeney were the leaders but there was a general uplift right down the line. Ken Kerr and Phil Lynch also chipped in some key plays here and there.

Providence has had a tendency to bring the ball up slowly, work it around and sometimes lose it with only one shot at the basket. Last night the team ran from the outset, took command midway in the first period and held the lead thereafter.

Bates is an improved team over previous seasons. It just happened to catch the Friars on the wrong night.

Drive and Spirit

Coach Vin Cuddy liked the drive and spirit of the Friars and complimented McQueeney on his fine game. "That was Hank's best job as far as I'm concerned," Cuddy said, "but you could see an improvement in our scrambling. That's a better game for us."

Holy Cross, fresh from its victory over previously unbeaten Connecticut, has far too many guns for the Friars. Yet it will be a more interesting game, perhaps, than it would have been prior to last night's encounter. The Crusaders have some of the top players in the East in Togo Palazzi, high-scoring junior, Ronnie Perry and Earl Markey, and center Jim Kielley.

The Providence College Frosh, with Gus Westerhuis and Dick Elston scoring 25 points apiece, defeated Bradford-Durfee Textile in the preliminary. Tonight they meet the Holy Cross Frosh at 7 p.m. at the Worcester Auditorium, with the PC-Crusader game scheduled for 8:30.

Each Registers Pair of Goals in Free-Scoring Game at West Point

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

West Point, N.Y. — Two freshmen, John Sweeney and Bob Petit, each chipped in two goals yesterday afternoon as Providence College's hockey team whipped Army, 6-3, for its second victory of the year. The Friars, playing informally under the former Dartmouth star, Dick Rondeau, have dropped two games.

The scoring yesterday was confined to the second period except for single goals by the winners in the first and third periods. The Friars held command all the way except for a brief spell in the second period, when the Cadets tied the score at 3-3.

Sweeney, former La Salle performer, opened the scoring in the game with 15 seconds remaining in the first period and made it 2-0 at 1:33 of the second. The losers got one back at 3:10, but then Bob Reall, a freshman transfer from Michigan Tech, made it 3-1 for the winners at 7:40.

After Army had tied it up midway through the period, Reilly put the Friars ahead for good at 11:30, and Petit put the game away with scores at 15:45 of the second and 5:15 of the third period.

In addition to yesterday's triumph, the Friars also have defeated Rhode Island University. They have lost to Brown and Tufts. Rondeau and Jackie Riley, Cadet mentor, were former linemates at Dartmouth.

The Friar sextet is idle now until Jan. 29, when it meets American International College in Springfield. Going into yesterday's game, the team hadn't seen action for 27 days.

Crusaders Turn on the Steam After Fairly Even Opening Period

By JOE McHENRY

Worcester—The Holy Cross Crusaders flashed some outstanding basketball here last night, scoring a 95-73 victory over the Providence College Friars before slightly more than 1000 fans at the Worcester Auditorium.

The Crusaders, once they got rolling, turned in some brilliant passing and shooting and left little doubt as to their top ranking among New England teams. The Friars were able to cope with them early in the game but were definitely outclassed as the Crusaders put on the pressure in the second half.

Togo Palazzi, the scorer, and Ronnie Perry, the feeder and set-up man, were the pace-makers for the Crusaders, who won their seventh game in 10 starts. Palazzi, who sat out part of the contest, was the scoring leader with 21 points.

The Friars played well in spots but not well enough to make a great deal of difference once the Crusaders hit their real pace. It was an exciting game, despite the fact that there was little doubt of the outcome after Holy Cross pulled away to an 18-point lead at one stage in the second period.

Pace Surge

The Crusaders were frequently 30 points to the good in the second half. In the third period, the Crusaders played some of their best basketball of the year, rolling up the points in rapid fashion.

Palazzi, Perry and Earl Markey led this surge, with set plays, fast breaks and speedy individual maneuvering all working towards an impressive brand of Crusader basketball.

The Friars might have made it closer with better shooting. Jack Durkin did a good job in the rebounding and Ken Kerr played one of his best games, scoring 17 points. Bob Moran scored 20, although he was a marked man from the outset. Hank McQueeney accounted for 16.

The Friars got off to a good start but the all-around class of the Crusaders began to tell late in the first quarter. The scoring was about even at first, with Providence matching the Cross point for point until along about the eight-minute mark. The Friars led briefly at 18-17 and trailed 23-21 before three quick hoops by Palazzi, Bob Magilligan and Perry gave Holy Cross a 29-21 first-quarter lead.

By the middle of the second quarter the Crusaders had forged a 10-point lead, 41-31, with Palazzi and Perry doing the bulk of the scoring. In the last five minutes of the second quarter, the Crusaders built up their margin to 15 points, leading, 56-41, at the half.

Fast Plays

The Cross then exhibited some fast ball handling, stepping up the pace after playing at a slow speed before that. Perry was the Crusader's outstanding man in the first half. Palazzi also put in some fine shots and was top scorer for the evening.

The Friars broke fast and shot well in the early going, with Kerr turning in some great shooting and rebounding. However, the Cross finally broke open the middle of the Providence defense and used the ally to good advantage.

In the second half, it was a case of a good big team clicking in all departments and after a few minutes of play, the Crusaders had all but wrapped up the decision. Loyal Cross supporters claimed the third-period surge was one of the best put on by the Crusaders this season.

The Holy Cross Freshmen led all the way, scoring a 63-38 victory over the Providence College Freshmen in the preliminary. Dick Santaniello, former La Salle all-stater, chipped in seven points for the Crusaders, with the scoring fairly well split up among a dozen players. Jim Heatherton scored 11 points for the Friars.

Colby Quintet Whips P.C., 71-62;

6:7 Ted Lallier Breaks Loose, Nets 30 Points

Mules' Star Held to 4
Baskets in First Half;
Moran Scores 23

By JOHN HANLON

Ted Lallier, the biggest man on Colby's big basketball team, scored 30 points as the Mules defeated Providence College, 71-62, last night at Mount Pleasant High School's gym.

Lallier, who stands six-feet, seven-inches tall, shoots well with either hand and takes in rebounds like an octopus, collected 13 of his team's 23 points in the third quarter—the Friars got 15—and that wrapped it up for the Mules.

The down-Mainers had their troubles in the first half, principally because Bob Prendergast held Lallier to four floor goals and the Friars virtually kept up to them.

The Mules took the lead, 8-6, on two foul shots by Dick Hawkes at five minutes of the first quarter and didn't trail again. But they held only a six-point lead, 28-22, at the half and it could have been less if the Friars had had a bit more luck on their shooting.

Then Prendergast was tagged with his fourth foul in the first minute of the second half and didn't play again. With Lallier loose—the Friars didn't have another big man to cover him—the Mules got rolling. They outscored the Friars by eight points in that quarter and had a lead of 51-37 to take with them into the fourth quarter.

Bobby Moran scored 23 points

Navy To Hold 8th Annual Track Meet

The eighth annual Navy and Open A.A.U. track meet will be held this Saturday, January 3, 1952 at 1:00 p.m. in the Navy Building Recreation Hall, 495 Summer street, Boston. Over 1000 entries have been received, the Open A.A.U. 60 yard dash has 51 entries, the Open 440, 46, the 880 yard run has 40 and the Open Mile has 42 of the leading trackmen of New England entered.

John Kelly, N.E.A.A.U. champion, will battle George King, 1952 State champion miler, now a freshman at N.Y.U., along with Tony Sapienza and Joe McDonald of Boston College. Albert Porter, New Bedford Vocational champion High School miler is also entered.

Bill Smith, Boston University, meet record holder for the 880 will defend his title against Bill Tatum and Gene Ellis also of B.U. Ellis holds the State record for the 880 made last year while competing for Boston English High.

Bill Tatum, State 440 yard champion, from Boston Tech, now a freshman at B.U., will try for top honors this year against a field that includes among the contestants Bill Smith of Boston University James Murname, Boston College, Bob Vey, Tufts College, Paul Methie and Dick and Bob Tiernan of Providence College.

HERE TOMORROW: Vin Cuddy, former Naugatuck High School and University of Connecticut all-around athlete, will return to this area tomorrow night to direct his Providence College basketball team in its game with Fairfield University at the Armory. The contest is slated for 8:45.

Providence Plays Fairfield Team At Waterbury Armory

Coach Vin Cuddy's Providence College basketball team will be a slight underdog tomorrow night when it takes to the Waterbury Armory court for a clash with the Fairfield University Red Stags.

The game will be a "home" contest for Fairfield. The game was switched from the Bridgeport Armory, where the Stags play the rest of their home games, because of the amount of interest in both teams in the Naugatuck Valley, particularly the Waterbury area.

Coach Cuddy, and Fairfield's classy Bob Markovic both hail from Naugatuck, while Fairfield mentor Jim Hanrahan is a Waterburian.

A capacity crowd is expected to jam the drill shed for the only intercollegiate contest of the season for the Brass City.

Providence suffered heavily at graduation last June, and Coach Cuddy, who was a three sport athlete at Naugatuck High under the late Pete Foley, and later at the University of Connecticut, isn't too happy. He is, however, somewhat optimistic about the remainder of the schedule. "We'll win our share, but we aren't a really good ball club this year."

Charlie Aquavia, former Naugatuck star, has been seeing spot service with the Friars this year, and will see action tomorrow night.

Few of the great players of the game, or immortal teams, have originated in this vicinity—so few, indeed, that its colleges did not produce their first All America player until 1932 (Allen Brachen of Providence College) and a total of only eight, the last being Bob Cousy, of Holy Cross, in 1950.

Yet New England, where the cradle of basket ball was rocked, has deep roots in the game.

College Game Saturday At State Armory

By BILL BUTLER

Fairfield's undefeated Red Stags, featuring Naugatuck's Bobby Markovic, will entertain Providence College at the state Armory on Field St. tomorrow night in the only collegiate basketball game to be played here this season.

Fairfield will also be active tonight, clashing with rugged LeMoyne College of Syracuse, N. Y., at the Bridgeport Armory.

The Stags, who have won three straight games while averaging 70 points per game, will be rated favorites over Providence. The Friars, coached by Vin Cuddy, a former Naugatuck High and University of Connecticut standout, were hard hit by graduation and haven't struck their stride yet this season.

Markovic Is Big Gun

Markovic, whose basketball exploits at Sacred Heart High are still talked about whenever basketball people meet; Stanley Suchenski, Bobby Genolin, Jackie O'Connell have shouldered most of the Stags scoring burden thus far this season and will be counted upon in tomorrow night's skirmish.

Gerwein and Suchenski have done the bulk of the rebounding for Fairfield. Markovic leads the team in assists while O'Connell sports the best field goal average, caking better than 45 per cent of his shots.

Frauenhofer Stands Out

Another valuable performer with the Jesuit school is Paul (Whitey) Frauenhofer, former Torrington High Brilliant. Frauenhofer is regarded as the top playmaker with Coach Jimmy Hanrahan's club. Hanrahan is a former Crosby High and Georgetown University stand-out.

For the first time in several years there isn't an area player on the starting Providence quintet. Ray Korbuskieski, who sparked the Friars to a victory over the Red Stags here a year ago, is now in the service. Charley Acquavia, a former Naugatuck High star, is a member of the Providence squad. He sees spot duty.

Tomorrow night's tilt is slated to get under way at 8:45. Tickets will be obtainable at the door.

Cuddy Plans Lineup Switch

Revamped Friar Five May See Action Against Fairfield

Coach Vin Cuddy may make major changes in the Providence College basketball lineup for his Friars' game with Fairfield at Waterbury, Conn., tomorrow night. The reason, Cuddy said yesterday, is as plain as the Friars' record.

"We're not winning, so we have to do something." The Friars, resuming action after the holiday layoff, have lost two of their last three games and now have a record of three victories and four defeats.

To Decide Tonight

Any changes Cuddy has in mind will be decided definitely after tonight's practice. The club reported back yesterday, worked out late in the afternoon and was scheduled to go at it again today.

The lineup switches that Cuddy is toying with are these: John Powers may start in place of Hank McQueeney and Jack Durkin may play at guard for Ken Kerr.

Powers was below par with a cold for the Friars' games with Brandeis and Colby and played only briefly. Durkin has been slightly troubled with an ankle injury, but the main reason he has not been playing is that he has been considerably off the form that made him an all-stater at Pawtucket.

However, he played almost half the Colby game and, in Cuddy's opinion, did very well.

Heeds Old Rule

Cuddy stressed the point that there is nothing actually lacking in the play of McQueeney and Kerr, but that he was simply heeding the old rule that Rhode Island's Frank Keane worked by: "If you are not winning, you had better change—or go back home to mother."

Fairfield has an undefeated record in its league—slightly minor—and resumes action tonight against LeMoyne. Among others, Fairfield holds victories over Arnold and St. Michael's of Vermont.

Obviously, Fairfield's game tonight will aid in giving the club a sharpness that the Friars may lack from their inactivity. But Cuddy said he advised his players to work out during the holidays and he hopes that, conversely, the rest from competition may do his team some good.

The teams split in their two games last season. The Friars won at Waterbury and Fairfield won in Providence.

Cuddy Stands Pat On Friars' Lineup

Providence College's basketball team will play Fairfield at Waterbury, Conn., tonight, after just two workouts to unlimber the holiday kinks.

The Friars reported back for practice Thursday and held another workout yesterday. Fairfield will be in better competitive shape, for the club last night played LeMoyne.

But Coach Vin Cuddy could take consolation from his Friars' layoff—the players reported back in good shape. Before they took the break, practically all were suffering from minor ailments of some sort, Cuddy said. Now the colds and the bruises are gone and everyone is ready.

Before resuming practice, Cuddy had planned to make one or two changes in his starting club. But yesterday he decided to go along with his pre-holiday starting club—sort of a one-more-crack-at-it technique.

This means that the following will start: Bob Prendergast, Bobby Moran, Tom Mullins, Ken Kerr and Hank McQueeney.

Fairfield met its first defeat of the season last night, bowing to Lemoyne, 68-67, but holds victories over Arnold and St. Michael's of Vermont, among others.

Providence 5 Faces Stags In Big Game

Waterbury hoop fans will have an opportunity to see two college combines in action tonight at the Armory surface at 8:45 when Fairfield University's once-beaten Stags take on Providence College Friars.

Fairfield Freshmen and U. of Connecticut, Waterbury Branch, collide in the 7 o'clock prelim and the double cage attraction is expected to draw a large crowd.

Fairfield lost its first game in four starts last night, bowing to powerful LeMoyne College of Syracuse, 69-67, at Bridgeport Armory in a spine-tingling tussle.

Late Drive Fails

It was the fifth in a row for the LeMoyne Dolphins who checked a late drive by Coach Jim Hanrahan's Stags. LeMoyne had a 61-52 lead with five minutes remaining in the game when Fairfield started to bombard the hoop and cut down the score.

Baskets by Bobby Gerwien and Jack O'Connell made the count 68-65 and Gerwien hit with a driving layup shot in the final 16 seconds as the Stags trailed, 68-67. Then Leo flipped in a foul try for LeMoyne and O'Connell's one-handed shot rolled in and out of the hoop as the game ended.

Markovic Lost On Fouls

Naugatuck's Bobby Markovic was lost to the Stags late in the final period via the foul route after bagging 12 points. Gerwien was high for the Fairfield team with 23 while O'Connell poured in 21. Jenkins, Shea and Kenyon featured for LeMoyne.

Providence College, coached by Vin Cuddy, ex-Naugatuck High and U. of Connecticut athlete, was hit hard by graduation last June. Charley Aquavia, of Naugatuck, is the only area cager on the Friar squad.

The Stags will have Eddie Bush, ex-Bristol High standout, in the lineup along with Bob Markovic, Bob Gerwien, O'Connell and Stan Suchenski.

Fairfield '5' Choice Over Providence

Waterbury's Jimmy Hanrahan brings his powerful Fairfield University basketball team to the State Armory tonight at 8:45 for its annual meeting with Providence College, coached by Vin Cuddy of Naugatuck. Last night Fairfield was edged by a strong LeMoyné College team, 69-67. It was the first loss of the season for the Red Stags.

Last year in the Waterbury showing of the regularly scheduled college fray, Providence defeated the Red Stags, 64-58. But in a return match at Providence, Fairfield edged the Friars, 68-67.

This year the charges of Hanrahan are decided favorites for tonight's engagement. Providence was sapped by graduation. The Fairfielders have a lineup studded with tall, experienced hoopsters who are good 10-point favorites over Providence.

Bush To Start

Former Bristol High star, Eddie Bush will perform for the Stags. Bush paced Bristol to the semi-final round of the CIAC Class A tourney last year and was rewarded for his work with a berth on the all-tournament team.

Standing at six feet, three inches, Bush spearheaded Fairfield to a 68-50 victory over St. Michael's of Winooski Park, Vermont. His shooting and rebound work played a major part in the triumph.

Also on the same roster with Bush is Naugatuck's Bobby Markovic, former Sacred Heart High cage star who led the Hearts to the Class B state championship in 1949. Markovic has been plagued by a bad knee ever since he was graduated from Sacred Heart but lately the Naugatuck lad has had better luck with the knee wrapped in a stiff protector.

Rounding out the unbeaten Stags lineup will be Sophomore Bob Gerwien at one of the forward positions. Bob is six feet, three inches and weighs 200. At the other forward spot is Sophomore John O'Connell, who is five feet, 11.

Suchenski Is Holdover

With Markovic at guard is Stan Suchenski, ace rebounder for the Stags who, in his junior year, stands six feet, four inches. Stan weighs 215. Whitey Frauenhofer of Torrington will also see service at guard.

The only area player on the Providence squad is Charley Aquavia from Naugatuck. Aquavia is a reserve.

In a preliminary at 7, Waterbury Branch, University of Connecticut team, will battle the Fairfield Freshmen. It will be the first game in two weeks for the Waterbury Branch which defeated Danbury Teachers Dec. 18. The probable lineups:

Fairfield

Forward—Bob Gerwien
Forward—John O'Connell
Center—Stan Suchenski
Guard—Bob Markovic
Guard—Ed Bush

Providence

Forward—Bob Moran
Forward—Phil Lynch
Center—Bob Prendergast
Guard—Hank McQueeney
Guard—Tom Mullins

Fairfield Defeats Providence 73-65 At Waterbury

Waterbury, Jan. 3—(P)—Fairfield University's Red Tags had too many guns for Providence College tonight and registered a 73-65 victory before 2,000 at the State Armory.

The Red Tags, their three-game winning streak halted by LeMoyné College of Syracuse last night, led all the way. Bob Markovic of nearby Naugatuck scored eight points to lead Fairfield to a 14-9 advantage in the first period and they left the floor with a 35-27 margin at half-

PC Skaters Top Army, Charland Sees Action

WEST POINT—It was a sad day for West Point Cadets yesterday as Providence College knocked off their hockey team, 6-3, and Brandeis University handed their basketballers their first loss of the season, 86-77.

Two freshmen, John Sweeney and Bob Petit each scored two goals to give Providence College its 6-3 ice decision. Bob Reall and Reilly scored the other PC tallies. Billy Charland, former Mount St. Charles ace, played at one of the forward berths for the winners.

Providence College Five Defeated By Fairfield

WATERBURY, Conn. — Providence College's basketball team dropped its fifth game of the season here last Saturday night when it fell before Fairfield University, 73-65. The losers came within four points of tying the score with two minutes left to play, but ran out of gas. Gerwin and Markovic had 18 points for the winners, while Moran collected 25 points for the Friars.

RI College Athletes Card Nine Contests

College athletes in Rhode Island face a busy week starting tonight when the University of Rhode Island entertains Maine at Kingston. Rhody will play at Boston College Wednesday and at Connecticut Saturday. Friday, PC's quintet will entertain Bates and will play Holy Cross at Worcester Saturday. Brown's five will play at Army Saturday.

In hockey, Providence College will play at West Point Wednesday, and Hope will meet Army's Frosh in the preliminary. Thursday, Brown and Boston College will clash at RI Auditorium, with the Brown Frosh taking on Burrillville in the prelim. Brown's skaters play at Yale Saturday.

Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars said his club played fairly well against Fairfield but never could quite close the gap. Bobby Moran was hitting on his set shots and scored 25 points. Tommy Mullins did a good defensive job. However, the Friars were unable to clear the offensive board with enough frequency to make it count, Cuddy said.

Good Defense

"We rebounded well on the defense in the first half," Cuddy explained, "but not consistently enough after that. Charlie Aquavia turned in some good spot work and Bob Prendergast did well for a time. Ray Korbusieski was over for the game. He came in Saturday night from Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground and hustled over in time to see the second half. Bob Markovic and Bob Gerwien were tough for Fairfield."

The Friars meet Bates on Friday night at Mount Pleasant and the Cross on Saturday.

Griffin's Letter Congratulates Team; Although Record Isn't Impressive

Cowl 1-14-53
PHIL GRIFFIN

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE BASKETBALL TEAM:

First of all, gentlemen, may I wish you good luck in tonight's game, although I'm sure that you'll "make your own breaks" when the appointed time arrives.

The text of this letter might be called "congratulatory", which will seem odd to some in view of the fact that your record to date isn't exactly impressive. However, you merit congratulations for rebounding from your position on the evening of January 3 when you were held in lower esteem than an Englishman at a St. Patrick's Day celebration.

If you recall, on the evening of January 3, you left the Armory in Waterbury in a rather frustrated state. Fairfield had just taken your measure by not a few points, and prospects for the future were bleaker than a December sunrise, but you have altered the situation completely since then, and now the future is held in an entirely different light. You showed us what you can do by running Bates off the floor, and hustling the entire forty minutes against Holy Cross, although confronted by the Crusader's fantastic shooting percentage. Your own point production is irrefutable evidence that you didn't quit.

I hear from a reliable source that Earl Markey, All American candidate from Holy Cross, is wishing Tommy Mullins had gotten lost on his way to the Worcester Auditorium Saturday night. It seems, Thomas, that you lowered Mr. Markey considerably in the eyes of even the most rabid Crusader fans by limiting him to two baskets and two foul shots in the first half. Made him seem like something less than an All American in everyone's estimation. Long may you "blanket" the visitor's stars as well as you did Markey, and Bobby Markovic, when you made him your personal property in the second half at Fairfield.

Welcome back, Henry Francis McQueeney. We missed you. Kindly duplicate those magnificent performances against Bates and Holy Cross in the remaining games. If you do, and there's no reason why you shouldn't, then the Friars will roll merrily on their way. Makes a fella remember freshman year when the fans used to go home talking about the way you handled the ball. Keep us remembering.

If there are any Holy Cross rooters in Newport, Kenny Kerr, don't go back for awhile, if you hold your own safety in any regard. I fancy that all Crusader fans were irked by your performance Saturday night, and that you'll find yourself unwelcome in any of the plantations in which they have a majority. But keep on drawing the opposition's ire in such a manner as you did up in Worcester, and you and your cohorts will soon be on the winning side of the ledger.

Thanks to you, Jack Durkin and Jack Reynolds, for coming off the bench in such spectacular fashion these past two games. It is prudent to note that the team hasn't suffered when either, or both, of you boys got the nod from Vin Cuddy to go in and annihilate the enemy, and that is to your credit. Keep it up, and soon the "bench" will be held in as high regard as the "first five". That wouldn't be too hard to take, would it? I have singled you two out because of your fine performances of late, and only space limitations prevent me from lauding the other guys that sit beside you when the action begins.

With Army's scalp hanging from his belt, the Providence College Friar will stop to gather his breath then, plunge into another tough session on the ice. On January 29th Kenny Rondeau's successful sextet will journey to Springfield to do battle with a yet un-named foe in the annual AIC tournament.

Thus, the hockey forces of Providence College's team, yet in an informal stage, will compete with the best small college forces in New England while only in their second season.

On December 11, 1952 the Friar hockey team took on the sextet from the University of Rhode Island and beat them 3-1. It was the first win in three starts for the Friars and was State's third loss. The Providence College sextet got off to a good start on a pass from Bobby Reall which "Rosco" Sweeney drilled into the net at 6:35 of the first period. After Lagueux and Reilly had served interference penalties for P. C. and Shiperio got two minutes for elbowing, McAleer took a long shot at the goal as he took a pass out at the blue line. The goalie's vision was blocked by two men standing in front of the cage and McAleer's shot cut the cords in the right hand corner.

State retaliated at 6:50 of the second as Lamb and Clements swooped down on a loose puck and carried it down the ice and Lamb banged it into the corner. This was all the scoring in the second period although the Friars kept pressing the play they could not get by State's goal tender.

High Sticking

In the third period Monahan got two minutes for high sticking and Shiperio got two minutes for interference in an encounter that almost led to flying fists. After Monahan was released from the coop he went on to wrap up the game by whipping a backhander into the nets at 7:30. Although State continued to attack they were not able to dent Eddie Hornstein's nets.

On January 7, 1953 the Friars started off the New Year right by journeying to West Point and taking the measure of the Black Knights of the Hudson, 6-3. Even after the long holiday lay off the Friars looked good in the first period holding the Cadets scoreless through an illegal check penalty against McAleer and Monahan's spending two minutes in the coop for elbowing. At 19:45, fifteen seconds before the end of the period, "Rosco" Sweeney took a pass from Bobby Reall and Eddy Monahan and banged it into the net.

In the second period Sweeney did it again while Reilly was serving a two minute penalty for a leg check. He picked up the puck at center ice after Eddy Monahan had broken up a Cadet play, dashed down on the goalie, by him and on a beautiful pivot, banged it into the net at 1:35. Army retaliated at 3:10 on a goal by Pistenma, the Captain of the Army team, getting an able assist from Rose and Schweiger. Bobby Reall came back to score at 5:15 on a pass from

Sweeney, while Lagueux was serving a two minute penalty for a leg check

Army scored at 7:50 on a goal by Schweiger from Pistenma and Rose and again at 10:50 on a goal by Rose from Pistenma, tying the score at three all. Dave Reilly picked up the puck behind his own cage for the Friars and took it all the way to the net at 9:30, the assist going to Eddy Monahan. At 15:45 Bob Pe took a pass from Jim White on a gang attack and cut the cords, to the Friars ahead 5-3. Bob garnered his second goal of the afternoon in the third period after Lagueux picked up the puck behind his own cage seeing no one to pass to took it the way up, fed it to Petit on a beautiful spot pass and Bob with the help of Wholey dumped it in to make it

College Hoop Coaches Dislike New Foul Rule

STORRS, Nov. 25—If the coaches of the teams that took part in the basketball jamboree at the University of Connecticut on Monday night are a cross-section of their profession, then the new rule on foul-shooting will be in for revision before too long. Of the four questioned, only Rick Wilson of Amherst was on the fence. Hugh Greer of Connecticut, Nels Nitchman of Coast Guard, and Vin Cuddy of Providence were very strong in their disapproval of the new rule.

The rule in question gives the shooter "one on one" during the first 37-minutes of the game, and two shots for a normal "one on one" during the last three minutes. The "one on one" means that the shooter is allowed another free throw if he misses the first one. Another part of the new foul rule forbids the waiving of a free throw during the final three minutes of play.

At the jamboree last Monday, a 15-minute period ran between 30 and 35 minutes. Thus playing time is estimated at 2 to 1. Therefore, in a college game with four 10-minute periods, the time would be 80 minutes. Add time out between periods for another 19 minutes and allow five minutes for other time-outs and the game will last about 105 minutes for 40 minutes of actual playing!

Quotations from the head coaches will tell the story.

Hugh Greer, Connecticut, "Skill of foul shooting has been lost. The game becomes a dragged out foul shooting contest, filled with confusion as to whether its a one or two try foul. And there's going to be some strategy to compensate for all these foul shooting situations. I don't like the rule period."

Vin Cuddy of Providence said, "It is going to slow the game down and make it long. The game is long enough now. Am not in favor of the new rule."

Rick Wilson of Amherst said, "We need something to penalize players for promiscuous fouling. Not sure if this is the answer. I don't think it will effect the length of the game."

Nels Nitchman of Coast Guard said, "Don't care much for it myself. I think it will make the game too long. It would be more effective to put a player out on four fouls rather than give an additional shot. Who wants to see a foul shooting game?"

Relayers Race In KC Meet At Boston Garden Saturday

By John Salesses

For the next three Saturdays the Providence College varsity indoor track team will be busy with intercollegiate invitation track meets. They are the Knights of Columbus meet next Saturday, the Milrose A.A. meet in New York, Jan. 24, and the Boston A.A. meet in Boston, Jan. 27.

For the Knights of Columbus meet Coach Harry A. Coates has not yet announced his starting runners, however, it is believed that he will send his one-mile relay team and perhaps the two-mile relayers.

Last year, the one-milers captured the race at the K. of C. meet. Then, the combination of Dick Tiernan, Paul Methia, Jack Cassedy and Jim Penler ran the race in 3:27 minutes. The two milers were unfortunate to lose to Yale by a few yards.

The outlook for this year's mile relay team is relatively poor. Dick Tiernan is their only returning veteran sure of entering the event. The other veteran, Paul Methia, has been injured and it is doubtful if he will be able to enter. The men who will fill out the ranks of the relay team are Ed McAlice, Kehoe, and Chris Lohner or Dean Slocum. The frosh member of the team will help fill the ranks of the two-mile squad if Coach Coates decides to enter them in the meet.

The indoor track team traveled to the YMCA meet, in Boston, last Saturday and turned in a promising performance for their first formal track meet. Again the first year men made their marks in the score-book and Friar team.

Freshmen Bob Kanary, Bill Washburn, and Bill Nelson were three of the five finalists in the 45 yd. dash. They eventually placed third, fourth and fifth, respectively. Dick Tatum of Boston College, who was the meet's outstanding athlete, won the race. Tatum's other frosh, Joe Madden and Bert Dandlay, received third place awards. Madden in the two mile race and Dandlay in the 1000 yd. run.

Jack Dowling, a junior, from Long Island, N. Y. ran the best 600 of his career, although he lost out.

Soph Scientists Slip Past Juniors

The Intramural Basketball League resumed action after a three week lapse, and, judging from results, the boys haven't lost any of their ability to provide many thrilling and exciting ball games. This league is open to both day and dorm students not competing in varsity sports. Thus they have the cream of the crop. Last week, Sr. Economics whipped Soph Science 36-16, Jr. Economics upset Sr. Science 44-31, Soph Biology downed Fr. Management 38-25, Jr. Business surprised their Senior counterparts 45-37, and in the feature games of the week, Soph Science edged Jr. Science in a thrilling overtime clash, 43-42, and Soph Science nipped Soph Business 35-33. Top scoring honors for the week go to Byington of Jr. Economics with 2 points in one contest.

Although exams are coming up and the boys will be concentrating on the studies, the clubs will be back in action the following week as they continue their chase for the ever elusive championship.

Friars, Bears Clash Tonight; Chances For Victory Good

Cowl

1-14-53

Providence College's victory-hungry basketball quintet journeys to Marvel Gymnasium tonight to meet arch-rival Brown University in what is without doubt the Friars most important game to date.

The Cuddymen have been on-again, off-again this season as far as performances go whereas the Bruins have yet to win a ball game. The Friars with a none too impressive four and six record have flashed signs of brilliance on occasions this season and should rule as a definite pre-game favorite.

However, anyone familiar with the history of this inter-city rivalry should realize that past records mean absolutely nothing when these two teams meet. In fact Brown has made a habit of saving their best performances for the Cuddymen. Last season the clubs split their two games.

P. C. will doubtless use their regular starting lineup of Bob Moran, Hank McQueeney, Bob Prendegast, Tom Mullins, and Ker Kerr tonight while Jack Reynolds, Jack Durkin, and Phil Lynch should also see plenty of action.

Moran is the team's leading scorer once again this year, averaging 21 points a game despite being a well marked man. Hank McQueeney has also turned in excellent performances recently and seems to have regained the form which made him so outstanding his Freshman year.

Tickets will be obtained over at the Marvel Gym, and your student activity books will not be valid. Tickets will be around $1.20.

Brown will probably start Bill Arnold, Pete Pemberton, Joe Christopher, Ed Tooley and Captain Lou Murgo. Ray Malkiewicz, and Jim Prendegast are the leading Bruin reserves. Murgo is the man the Friars will have to watch most closely. Lou is fast and has an excellent shooting percentage. He has led the Brown scorers for the past two seasons.

In the preliminary game the P. C. Freshmen will meet the Brown yearlings. This game starts at seven o'clock.

P. C., Brown Open R. I. Basketball Series Tonight

By JOHN HANLON

Providence College and Brown will open the intrastate basketball series tonight at Marvel Gymnasium and they rate about even for the game.

The other member of the intrastate circuit, the University of Rhode Island, will play New Hampshire at Kingston. The Rams get into the state race later in the month.

For Providence College this particular series with Brown has been one of its most troublesome. No matter what the fortunes of the Friars previous to the Brown game, they couldn't win against game to break out winning.

the Bruins. Last season, however, they finally broke the spell, winning the second of the two meetings.

This time around, the Friars have an up-and-down record, going into the game. They started well enough, but they have lost four of their last five games.

The Bruins have done worse. They have lost all five of theirs.

In each case, oddly enough, the team is not a poor one. Providence College has several individual performers of excellence and Brown has a collection of sophomores who threaten at any Bobby Moran has been the outstanding scorer for the Friars, averaging more than 20 points per game. Until recently, he hasn't had much help in that department and accordingly the club has suffered. But in their last two games, Hank McQueeney has been giving him a lift and Jack Durkin, previously a substitute, has been of great aid with his floor work and may have won himself a starting position against Brown.

Capt. Lou Murgio has been the only Bruin who has been scoring with any regularity, with Ed Tooley pitching in with an occasional scoring spree. Brown's main trouble has been its inability to score points in the fourth quarter and, if one of the nonscorers should get going, the Bruins could get out of their rut.

In addition to Moran and McQueeney, Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars is expected to start Bob Prendergast, Ken Kerr and either Tom Mullins or Durkin.

Foul-Line Aim Pulls It Out for Bruins, 70-66

Victors Make Only One Basket in Each of Last 2 Quarters

By JOHN HANLON

Brown defeated Providence College, 70-66, last night at Marvel Gym for its first basketball victory of the season and did it in an unusual manner.

Unusual? Heck, it was almost incredible, because Brown after piling up a 41-26 first-half lead, then went into its cocoon—or whatever it is basketball teams go into—and scored just one floor basket in each of the last two quarters.

However, these four points were augmented by 25 successful free shots, including 13 out of 15 by Capt. Lou Murgo, and these were just enough to permit the Bruins to squeak in after five straight defeats.

It also gave Brown a 1-0 lead in the early returns for the intrastate championship and cost the Friars their seventh defeat in 11 games.

Hardly in It

Except for the free shooting, Brown was hardly in it during that second half as the Friars, who scored only six floor baskets during the first half, completely reversed matters and had Brown reeling. But despite 26 points by Bobby Moran and despite a determined rally that once brought them up to 66-64, the Friars couldn't quite break into the clear.

Once they had got that close, they missed two free shots that would have tied the count with a minute to play, but, from there, Murgo and Ed Tooley made good on two free shots each and the game was Brown's.

The Friars' freshman team, after trailing, 11-1, during the early minutes, pulled out a 66-59 victory over Brown Freshmen. Dick Borjeson was tops for the Cubs with 16 points and Jim Heatherton got 14 for the Friars.

Best of Season

Before the Bruins went into their decline, they played their best basketball of the season and took a 25-11 lead in the first quarter. And with everything continuing to work for them, they had their 15-point margin at halftime.

Norman Sprinthall, Bill Arnold and Murgo did the bulk of scoring in that half and Ed Tooley excelled on the rebounds and in passing. Meanwhile, nothing clicked for the Friars and only occasional scoring by Moran and Hank McQueeney kept them barely within striking distance.

Then, starting off the second half, McQueeney drove in for a layup off the opening tap and the Friars were off to a quarter in which they outscored Brown, 19-9, and had the count down to 50-45 going into the final quarter.

Brown, in that third quarter, lost Jim Pendergast and Arnold on fouls and Springhall, the third member of the starting club, went out at 1:25 of the fourth quarter.

Good Job

The Friars made the most of these defections, getting 21 points, but they couldn't cope with Brown at the foul line. In all, Brown made 32 out of 40 free shots and the Friars got 26 out of 45. Each club had 28 fouls called against it.

Jack Durkin and Tom Mullins did a good floor job for the Friars and their loss on fouls midway through the fourth quarter hurt the club's last bid. McQueeney was next high to Moran in scoring with 20 points, getting 10 of 13 fouls.

Murgo's total in free shooting was 16 out of 18 and, with four baskets, he topped Brown's scoring with 24 points. Tooley got 15, Sprinthall 11 and Arnold 10.

Brown's victory tied the series between the schools at 17 games each.

Coach Bob Morris' Brown team scored its first victory of the season last night, edging the Providence College Friars, 70 to 66, in a thriller at Marvel Gym.

The Bruins played some of their best basketball of the season in the first half while the Friars came with a rush in the second but were unable to overtake their opponents. Brown's consistent foul shooting was the deciding factor in the final period.

Lou Murgo, home-grown product from Bristol, was the game's outstanding player. It wasn't his scoring so much but the way he scored them. As Brown held off the Friars in the final quarter, Murgo accounted for 11 of 12 Bruin points as the home club moved its scoring total from 56 to 68. And those were all pressure points as the Friars were closing in.

Spendid

"Murgo did a spendid job," said Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars. "He was ice-water in those last minutes and he held the ball when he didn't have an opening. That foul shooting couldn't have been any tougher because we were breathing down their necks but never able to close it up, principally because of Murgo."

"We did a good job in the first half," coach Morris pointed out. "Doggy Julian (the Dartmouth coach) left at the half. 'Your club looks all right to me,' he said, and we did some of our best work then. The way we have been playing we deserved to win one before this. The boys were consistent all the way against Army, I guess that was our best game but we won this one."

"Murgo was fine but the boys all helped out. We lost three on fouls. Sometimes we played two juniors and three sophomores. Murgo's foul shooting kept us going in the last period. Providence put on a good drive but generally 15 points is too much to make up.

Praise for Moran

"This is very spirited series," Morris said. "That Bobby Moran is a fine player. I thought (Norm) Sprinthall did a good job on him in the first half. Moran is a good shooter and drives well. Jack Durkin played a good game for them too. He rebounded well. My boys had trouble getting down the middle in the second half after PC closed it up and perhaps that's why we got so few baskets in the second half."

Brown moved the ball nicely in the first half, scoring 25 points in the first period and leading, 41-26, at intermission. For some reason, the Friars are cold as ice playing at Marvel Gym. That is, they were in the beginning, but played good ball later. By that time the Bruins had built up a comfortable lead. Even though their margin was melting, time and the first half edge was always working in Brown's favor, despite the strong comeback by the Friars.

40 Points

Hank McQueeney and Moran led the Friars' second half drive. McQueeney turned in a fine second half, making some heavy individual contributions in the middle minutes of the last period. As brilliant as was Brown in the first half, the Friars scored 40 points in the second.

Brown lost Billy Arnold, Jim Pendergast and Sprinthall on fouls late in the third period and starting the fourth but managed to hold its margin. Murgo scored 24 points, including 16 on free throws. He had 13 of his last 15 as Brown scored only two hoops in the entire second half. Eddie Tooley flipped in the only three points not scored by Murgo among the final 14, and tallied 15 points in all.

Ken Kerr rebounded well for the Friars in the early going. Moran led the scorers with 26 points, despite a concentrated defense by the men of Morris. McQueeney scored 20. Jack Reynolds and Tommy Mullins also played well for PC. The series is now tied at 17-all, with the recent Brown teams offsetting the Friar superiority in the coaching days of Al "General" McClellan.

Rams Triumph

Billy Baird, and Freddie Congelton, led the Rhode Island Rams to a 96-to-82 victory over New Hampshire last night at Rodman Hall. Baird scored 23 points while Congelton had 21. Dave Stenhouse contributed some one-hand shots as he and Art Helwig tallied 15 and 14 points, respectively. Ray Rossi also had 10.

Billy Pappas led the Huskies with 29 points. Although the Rams were fast breaking and moving at a speedy pace, the Huskies stayed in contention until Stenhouse led a rally which boosted Rhody into a 16-point lead, 74-58. It was the first Yankee Conference victory by Coach Jack Guy's forces.

Jim Heatherton led the Providence College Frosh to a 66-59 victory over the Brown Cubs in a pre-lim to the Brown-PC. varsity game. Dick Borjeson scored 16 points for the Bruin Cubs, who led 11 to 1.

Nichols Five Downs P.C. Freshmen, 86-65

Dudley, Mass.—Nichols Junior College last night scored its sixth basketball victory in nine starts, beating the Providence College Freshmen, 86-65. John King had 26 points for Nichols. The young Friars now have a record of 5-5.

Friars Entertain Springfield Five; Rhody Trackmen in Hub K.C. Meet

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars and the Springfield College Maroons meet tomorrow night in the first game of their annual series at Mount Pleasant High. The Friars are the only R.I. collegiate basketball aggregation in action this weekend although Brown, PC and the University of Rhode Island will have strong representation in the Knights of Columbus track meet at Boston Garden tomorrow night.

Springfield has one of the top players in the East in lanky Alan Schutts, a red-head from Oswego, N.Y. Schutts tied for record among the top scorers in the East last season, scoring 584 points against 596 for Ernie Beck of Pennsylvania, and 584 for Bob Zawoluk of St. John's.

Schutts has been equally effective this season. He recently set a new record for the Springfield field house with 39 points. Previously he scored 38 this season also, breaking the college record he set last year against Rhode Island. He has averaged better than 20 points a game. His average was pulled down when the Maroons went barnstorming during the Christmas recess and faced the Phillips Oilers, Bradley and Nebraska among others.

The Friars swept the series last season, winning 67-64 at Mount Pleasant and repeating 71-69 in a thriller at Springfield. This was expected to be an outstanding season for John Bunn's team but recently the team lost Eli Mulzac and Andy Thompson. The Maroons were the victims of the Colby College Mules, 72-49, last Saturday but since whipped Upsala and Clark in rather easy fashion.

Usually the Springfield-Providence games have been very closely contested. The Friars will have trouble keeping Schutts under control. Coach Vin Cuddy will start Bobby Moran, Hank McQueeney, Bob Prendergast, Ken Kerr and Tommy Mullins against the Maroons, with Jackie Durkin and Jack Reynolds scheduled for considerable action. The Friars shot at a 20 per cent pace in the first half of the Brown game but hit 43 per cent in the second half, scoring 40 points.

Rams in Boston

Coach Fred Tootell of Rhody has entered Bob Linne and Victor Nerses in the pole vault at Boston while Bill Morris and Don Walsh will compete in the dash. Rhody will select a mile-relay team from Joe Pizzo, Art Tingley, Paul Wilson, Morris and Walsh. Examinations at Kingston have cut into Rhody's participation.

The Providence College Friars will run against Boston College, Holy Cross and Tufts in the one-mile relay. The team will be selected from Dick Tiernan, Dave Kehoe, Paul Methier, Bob Tiernan, Henry Martin and Dean Slocum. The Frosh mile relay quartet includes Robert Washburn, Pierre Wallach, George Kanary and Joe Madden.

Coach Harry Coates' squad will also include John Grady in the high jump, James Mallory in the hurdles, Washburn and Kanary in the dash, and a two-mile relay team which will be selected from Slocum, Dick Johnson, Bob Tiernan, Chris Lohner, Cornelius Sullivan and John Dowling. The PC two-milers will run against Tufts, Harvard, BU and Worcester Tech.

Molineux in 1000

Walt Molineux of Brown, who finished second in the "1000" at Washington, is Rhody's top individual entry, again competing in the 1000-yard run. Paul LaChappelle, Mel Holland, John Corcoran and Gene Whitlock make up the Brown mile relay team while the two-mile team includes Tom Tritscler, Bill Reid, Corcoran, Molineux and Harry Devoe.

The Bruins' freshmen mile relay group includes Al Boron, Pete Van Loom, Bob Ise, Charles Flather, Tim Olten and Ben Thomas.

Don Gehrman's string of winning races indoors may be threatened by Sweden's Ingvar Ericsson, 136-pound Swedish mile champion, in the Boston feature. Fred Wilt, Warren Dreutzler and Joe LaPierre also will run against Gehrman. Twenty Olympic competitors are among the many entries.

Hal Martin's Providence College freshman basketball team plays Nichols Junior College tonight and meets the Springfield College Frosh tomorrow night.

Well, see where Lee Williams, the Colby basketball coach who set up such a clatter when his team played Providence College, has been sounding off again... Speaking before a group of Boston writers, Williams said, "There are too many yellow and gutless (basketball) officials who protect the home team"... That's probably old, but did you notice that Williams later denied saying it, after some 50-odd persons heard him?...

Checked this charge of Williams with a basketball coach of more than 20 years service and he said that he's seen many referees he's disagreed with, "And a lot have disagreed with me, too"... But never ran into one whom he would call yellow and gutless... As one man told Williams after his bleat, "There are more good basketball officials around than there are good basketball coaches"... I think that's about all I want to hear about Mr. Williams this season...

Coach Vin Cuddy of Providence College says that Seattle's Johnny O'Brien is one of the best basketball players he's seen... The thing that amazed Vin is that O'Brien, a little guy, frequently plays the pivot, a spot usually reserved for the mountain boys of the game... Ned Irish, the man who made a fortune on amateur basketball at Madison Square Garden, and the New York writers have a high old feud going... Irish claims the boys are putting the rap on his basketball program, charging that he's bypassing the colleges to promote the professional Knickerbockers, the house team... He, naturally, says it isn't so...

Friars Entertain Springfield Five At 8:30 Tonight

Schutts, Maroons' Ace,
Poses Main Threat;
Prelim at 7 p.m.

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars renew an old rivalry with Springfield College tonight at Mount Pleasant High. The varsity game is scheduled for 8:30, with the PC-Springfield Frosh encounter, at 7 o'clock.

The Friars swept the series last year and seem to have an Indian sign on the Maroons on the court. A year ago, PC won, 67-64, at Mount Pleasant and repeated, 71-69, on the Springfield court. Providence has won five of the last six games between the teams.

Springfield lost two players this week, starter Eli Mulzac and reserve Andy Thompson. Also co-captain Larry McClements, a set-shot specialist, was hurt in the early minutes of Springfield's loss to Colby and has missed the last two games.

Top man for John Bunn's team this season is Alan Schutts, the best scorer in Springfield history. Schutts has scored more than 1200 points in his varsity career, averaging 22.8 a game last season. Schutts scored 584 points last year, only 12 less than Pennsylvania's Ernie Beck, who was the East's leading scorer among all schools with 596.

Schutts Sets Record

Schutts is having another fine season, recently setting a Springfield College record when he tossed in 39 points against Upsala. He had 36 a week ago against the New Hampshire Huskies and 33 last season against Rhody.

In their last four starts, the Maroons beat New Hampshire (79-69), Upsala (80-74) and Clark (64-47) and lost to the Colby Mules (72-49). Springfield played an extensive schedule in the west, meeting Bradley, Phillips Oilers and Nebraska.

Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars will go along with his starting team of Bobby Moran, Hank McQueeney, Tommy Mullins, Bob Prendergast and Kenny Kerr, but plans to get Jack Reynolds and Jack Durkin into the lineup early. Durkin and Reynolds have been doing a fine job in reserve roles of late. Durkin did an outstanding job in the Brown game.

Two of New England's leading scorers will be in action, as both Schutts and the Friars' Moran are hitting in the neighborhood of 22 points a game. Moran has been getting more help from his mates of late but the Friars need more scoring punch to pull out some of their close ones.

Hub K. of C. Meet Launches 'Blue-Ribbon' Track; Rhody College Athletes Among Strong Lineup

By PETE MCCARTHY

One of the strongest fields in the 27-year history of the Boston Knights of Columbus meet will launch the season's major indoor track schedule tonight at the Boston Garden.

The lineup comprises 20 Olympians, including five gold medal winners, and star entries from Sweden, Turkey, Jamaica and Germany. Rhode Island, too, will have a healthy representation with athletes from Brown, Providence College and the University of Rhode Island taking part.

All of the 1952 individual champions will be on hand to defend their respective titles, and meet records in the pole vault, mile and two-mile runs stand in great danger of being smashed.

Don Gehrman, the Wisconsin whippet who has been unbeaten in all four of his Boston races, may have to erase Gil Dodds' meet mark of 4:08.4, or even his own track record of 4:07.9 to beat down the challenge of the talented field in the mile. His rivals include Ingvard Ericsson, the Swedish 1500-meter champ, Fred Wilt, New York G-man, Lt. Warren Druetzler of the Army, former national collegiate mile king, and Joe La Pierre of Georgetown, 1C4A mile titleholder.

Greg Rice's two-mile record of 9:00.4 will be under fire from five Olympic runners with Horace Ashenfelter, the FBI agent who captured the steeplechase in the Helsinki games last summer, rated as the man to beat. His challengers will be Osman Cosgul, Turkish 5000 and 10,000-meter champion, Charles Cappelzoli of Georgetown, 1C4A and NCAA cross-country titlist, Curtis Stone, U.S. 5000 and 10,000-meter titleholder, Browning Ross of Woodbury, N.J., John Joe Barry of Villanova, and George Lynch of Michigan.

The Rev. Bob Richards and Don Laz, a pair of 15-foot pole vaulters, will be favored to break Richards' meet record of 14:9½. Richards, who has cleared 15 feet no less than 30 times, is seeking his fifth straight K. of C. victory.

Other featured performers include Harrison Dillard in the hurdles; Art Bragg, dash; Arnold Betton of Drake, high jump; George Rhoden of Jamaica and Mal Whitfield of Columbus, Ohio, 600; Fred Dwyer of Villanova, Walt Molineux of Brown, Len Truex of Ohio State and Carl Joyce of Georgetown in the 1000.

In addition to Molineux, Coach Ivan Fuqua of Brown has entered two varsity and a freshman relay team. The varsity mile unit is composed of Paul LaChappelle, Mel Holland, John Corcoran and Gene Whitlock. Tom Tritschler, Bill Reid, Harry Devoe and either Molineux or Corcoran will make up the two-mile team. The freshman mile will be chosen from among Al Boron, Pete Van Loon, Bob Ise, Charles Flather, Tinley Olten and Ben Thomas.

Providence College's entries include John Grady, high jump; George Kanary, hurdles and dash; Bob Washburn, dash; varsity and freshman mile relay teams and a varsity two-mile quartet.

The Friars' varsity mile unit will be selected from Dick Tiernan, Dave Kehoe, Paul Methia, Bob Tiernan, Henry Martin and Dean Slocum. The two-mile quartet will be taken from Dick Johnson, Slocum, Bob Tiernan, Chris Lohner, Cornelius Sullivan and John Dowling. The P.C. freshman team will be made up of Washburn, Pierre Wallach, Kanary and Joe Madden. Rhode Island has entered Bob Linne and Vic Nerves in the pole vault, Bill Morris and Don Walsh in the dash, and a mile relay team of Joe Pizzo, Morris, Walsh and Tingley.

Moran Boosts Friars to 83-76 Upset Over Springfield

P.C. Ace Scores 26 Pts., 16 in the Final Quarter

P.C. 1-18-53
Bobby Hits on 13 Fouls
In Succession; Rally
By Maroon Fails

By JOE McHENRY

Bobby Moran was close to perfect from the foul line as he paced the Providence College Friars to an 83-to-76 victory over Springfield College last night at Mount Pleasant High School.

The game was among the most spirited and exciting the Friars have played at the Mount Pleasant court in recent seasons. Springfield's fine second-half comeback, some fast action, plus a down-to-wire suspense, all figured in the excitement.

After leading by 10 or 11 points for a good part of the contest, the Friars had to scrap it out during the closing minutes before pulling out their fifth victory of the season.

Moran, who has led the Friars all season, was at his best during the second half. On the PC campus, they would match Moran with any of the nation's free-throw specialists. Last night he dropped in 13 in succession, including 10 on a series of five two-shot fouls.

While Moran was making 16 of the Friars' last 21 points, the Maroons always were close and generally within one or two points. Moran scored 26 points in all, getting the bulk of them in the nip-and-tuck last quarter.

Lost 12-Pt. Lead

The Friars lost a 12-point lead as Larry McClements, a small set shooter, led a Springfield rally during the early minutes of the final quarter. Eventually a hook shot by the Maroons' Alan Schutts on a pass-in by Charley Sharos on an out-of-bounds play tied the score at 66-all with little more than five minutes remaining.

Tommy Mullins, who played an outstanding game, broke the tie with a free throw and Moran's long shot after a pass from Hank McQueeney gave the Friars a three-point edge. Moran's foul conversion made it 70 for the Friars, offsetting a point by the Maroons' Joe Fisher. Inside the two minute mark, Moran was fouled five times going in for shots and awarded two free tries each time. He sank all 10 points from the foul line.

Bothered

The Maroons came within a basket of the Friars on three occasions during the final two minutes, but each time the Providence team was able to get the points back. Twice Moran's free shooting did the trick and the other time Mullins scored a basket, getting behind the Springfield defense and dribbling in for the hoop.

Schutts, Springfield's fine scorer, tallied 25 points in all, but was bothered considerably during the first three quarters by the fine defensive work of the Friar's Bob Prendergast and Jack Reynolds.

It was a rough game, with the Friars converting 35 of their 43 free shots against 26 out of 41 for the Maroons. Once Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars talked to the P.C. fans at the request of Referees Tony Agatiello and Dick Roberts. However, the Maroons took all liberties possible in trying to rattle Moran on the free-throw line, standing and facing the Friars' sharpshooter at a 60-degree angle at the juncture of the foul lane and the circle.

Spectacular

McQueeney turned in a spectacular performance, leading several of the Friars' fast breaks. Phil Lynch, Jack Durkin, Ken Kerr and Mullins all figured in the victory, though McQueeney and Moran were the top players. McClements again gave the Providence team trouble with his long shots. Frank Januszewski did a fine job for the Maroons until he fouled out.

Until the flashy finish by the Maroons, the Friars put in some of their cleanest shots of the season, with Kerr and Moran hitting from the outside. The contact and the scrambling styles of the two teams made it a difficult game to work in the closing half.

The Friars started out as though it would be an easy matter to tame the Maroons. They were eight points ahead at the quarter, 20-12, and led, 42-35, at halftime though they were much more superior than a seven-point lead would indicate.

Ice Water

The Friars, who have been hot and cold, were more consistent when they had to be last night. Moran's free shooting was an ice-water proposition as the Brooklyn boy accounted for 16 points during the last quarter. Providence tallied 21 in all. Mullins and Kerr each contributed a basket and a free shot to Providence's last-period total. The Friars handled the ball well and held possession during the closing minutes.

Larry Collamore tapped in the winning basket as the Providence College Frosh nipped the Springfield Frosh, 68-66, in the preliminary. Gus Westerhuis and Don Moran scored 19 and 15 points, respectively. Dick Grogan led the Maroons with 22. Springfield was ahead, 37-30, at halftime.

Moran Keeps on Scoring Baskets But Bureau Fails to Get the Point

By JOHN HANLON

Providence College's Bobby Moran has a scoring average that should put him among the top 10 basketball shooters in the country—but you won't find his name on the list.

Moran, a 20-year-old Brooklynite, has an average of almost 23 points a game, a figure boosted last week by the fact that he scored 26 points in each of the Friars' two games.

He got his first baker's two dozen against Brown on Wednesday night and his second on Saturday as the Friars defeated Springfield, 83-76.

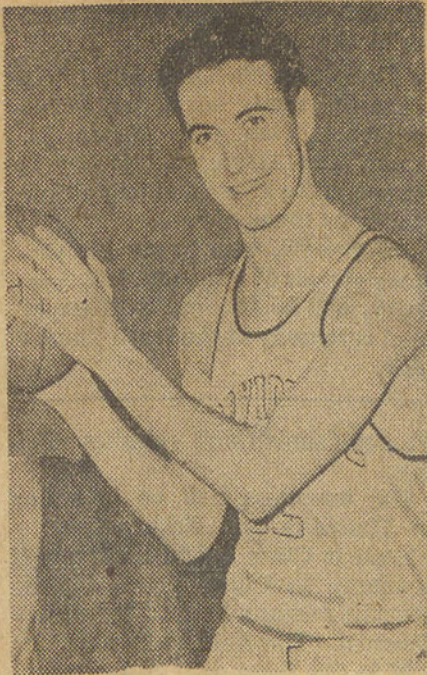

But Moran's work doesn't rate with the "majors," an arbitrary list posted by a bureau that judges teams as major or minor, depending on the opposition played. The Friars' schedule, they say, doesn't include enough of the bureau's big-timers to qualify.

But points are points, no matter whom they are scored against, and Moran has an average that puts him up on such as Togo Palazzi of Holy Cross, Jack Molinas of Columbia and Bill Baird of Rhode Island.

Ernie Beck of Penn, by the way, leads with an average of 28 points a game.

Moran is the type of player who can shoot "three ways," as the saying has it. He has an excellent set shot, a better layup driving in, but his specialty is free shots. From the foul line he is deadly. For example, against Springfield he made 16, 13 of them in succession.

Further, against Springfield, the Friars just held off a last-quarter rally and the man most responsible for it was Moran, who made 16 of his team's last 21 points.

Moran will have a chance to increase his total this week when the Friars play one game, against St. Anslem's on Wednesday at Mount Pleasant High School.

The Friars last an early-season game to the Hawks in December, by a count of 72-69.

Bobby Moran's Regained Touch On Foul Shots Big Aid to Friars

By JOE McHENRY

The foul-shooting touch, which Bobby Moran seemed to lose for a time, was the key factor in the Providence College Friars' victory over Springfield Saturday night. The Brooklyn boy stood on the free throw line and put in 13 in succession, some with ease and some the hard way.

Most foul shooters can put them in practically blindfolded in practice. It's a different story when one or two points can mean the ball game. And in Moran's case, the Maroons were breathing down the Friars' necks just about every time he had a free throw opportunity. The situation was similar to the clutch efforts of Brown's Lou Murgio in the Bruins' victory over PC last week.

Like Putty

Walt (Oklavitz) Oakley, one of the finest athletes who ever came under the coaching wing of Jack Cronin at La Salle, was talking about foul shooting before the game Saturday night. "Your hands get like putty sometimes and you don't realize it until the ball fails to go through the hoop," he said.

But Moran had none of that trouble against the Maroons. His hands were more like steel, and his nerves as well. Springfield placed its defensive men in a bad psychological position for Moran, one facing him at about 60 degrees in the spot where the foul lane and the circle meet. It had no effect on Moran, except perhaps to make him try a bit harder.

The Friars were up for that game, with Hank McQueeney, Bob Prendergast, Tommy Mullins, Kenny Kerr and Moran as their aces. Yet

Jack Reynolds, Phil Lynch and Jack Durkin turned some creditable work as well, producing generally improved team effort and individual initiative.

St. Anselm's Wednesday

Providence College meets St. Anselm's on Wednesday night at Mount Pleasant High in the only mid-week action on the Rhode Island college basketball scene. The Hawks have a 10-1 record. They were paced by Chuck Duffley in their most recent victory over the Quonset Flyers.

Doggy Julian's Dartmouth squad, which upset Holy Cross last week and later lost to Columbia, plays Brown Saturday night at Marvel Gym. The inaction among the Rhody quintets is caused by the midyear examinations now in progress at Brown, PC and the University of Rhode Island.

P. C., St. Anselm's in Return

The Providence College Friars hope to square one of their previous setbacks when they meet St. Anselm's tonight at Mount Pleasant High. The Hawks scored a 72-69 decision over PC on their home court early in December.

Providence turned in one of its best performances defeating Springfield last Saturday night. The entire team came up with a competent job, headed by Bobby Moran, Hank McQueeney, Tommy Mullins, Ken Kerr and Bob Prendergast. Moran's excellence from the foul line proved the difference in the final quarter of a speedy game.

The Hawks, although not playing too tough a schedule, have lost only one game in 10 starts. Their lone defeat came the night after they had beaten the Friars in Manchester. Tufts upset them, 72-66, after trailing at halftime. The series between Providence and St. Anselm's has produced some exciting games and close scores in recent seasons.

Coached by Al Gernert, former NYU forward, the Hawk's offense is built around high-scoring Chuck Duffley and Bob Davolio, their two big men. Duffley scored 26 points Saturday as St. Anselm's defeated the Quonset Flyers. He had 24 in the victory over American International and 22 in the losing game to Tufts.

Robert "Woody" Stone has proved a pesty foe for the Friars in other meetings. Jim Driscoll and Hugh Reilly complete the starting team, with Chuck Toracinta of Newport also working in.

Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars gave the team a rest Monday but held a good, fast workout last night at Mount Pleasant High. His starting team will include Moran and McQueeney at the forwards, Prendergast at center, and Mullins and Kerr at the guards. Jack Durkin, Jack Reynolds and Phil Lynch will also work in with the starters.

Since the Christmas recess, the Friars have been playing a more alert, faster-breaking game for the most part. Coach Cuddy figures they are much stronger now than when they met the Hawks the first time as the top group is clicking individually and collectively. Both the Friars and the Hawks number American International among their victims.

The Providence College Freshmen, who edged the Springfield Freshmen in their last game, will play Admiral Billard Academy at 7 o'clock, with the PC-St. Anselm's game scheduled for 8:30. Sal Amanti, former Friar, is the basketball coach and athletic director at Admiral Billard.

Ballet de Horror: This lil old bouncing ball appears to have thrown a real scare into Providence College and St. Anselm basketball players. The P.C. player doing the fancy clap and kick is Hank McQueeney. St. Anselm players are Jim Driscoll (behind McQueeney) and Chuck Duffley.

P.C. Quintet Evens Score With St. Anselm's, 78-67

Bobby Moran Leads Friars With 27 Points

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars scored a 78-to-67 victory over the St. Anselm's Hawks last night at Mount Pleasant High, squaring an early season setback.

The Friars were slow to get rolling but once they took command in the late minutes of the opening period they never were headed. The Hawks had won their last six games and took an early lead last night. However, the Friars came back strong and won comfortably.

Chuck Duffley, who has scored more than 1000 points in his three-year career with the Hawks, took scoring honors with 32 points. However he didn't have as much assistance from his mates this trip as Providence threw up a strong defensive alignment and the Hawks were less successful than usual working the ball inside.

Generally it was a team victory for the Friars, although Brooklyn's Bobby Moran paced the scorers with 27 points. The fast-breaking maneuvers of Tommy Mullins, Hank McQueeney, Kenny Kerr and Moran provided some excellent scoring opportunities, with Providence handling the ball very well on some occasions.

Lately the Friars have been showing more cohesion, with the top seven or eight players all working to good advantage. Duffley, a rangy 6:5 forward, bothered the Friars considerably with his shooting and rebounding, collecting 16 points in each half. He led a rally which brought the Hawks to within six points at 46-40 in the third period and later to three points.

However, the Friars boosted their lead up to seven again, with McQueeney and Moran scoring. The first hoop came on a fast break started by Mullins, with Moran setting it up. The second was a fine combination play from Mullins, with Moran dropping in a shot from the bucket.

The Hawks, who scored a second-half victory in the first game, were intent on repeating in the second half. They were seven points down going into the last period and five in arrears when Chuck Toracinta of Newport dropped in two free throws in the first minute of the last quarter. Then the Friars put on the pressure and had a 14-point margin shortly after the six minutes mark, 67-53.

Both Bob Prendergast and Jack Reynolds contributed some effective nuisance guarding on Duffley before they fouled out in the last period. Prendergast played another improved game. The team worked well while Jackie Durkin and Kerr were handling the defensive board, with Mullins, Moran and McQueeney setting things in motion. The scoring was well divided with Kerr, McQueeney, Mullin and Moran in double figures. Bob Davolio had 14 for St. Anselm's.

The Hawks were handicapped a bit on their aggressive play in the second half as Woody Stone, Duffley and Hughie Reilly were carrying four fouls a good part of the time. Stone later fouled out. The Friars outscored the Hawks, 29 to 21 in field goals, and made them play a fast-moving game, rather than a ball-controlled, make-it-good type of action.

After leading by one point, 16-15, in the first period, St. Anselm's fell 10 points behind midway in the second quarter and was 11 down before Duffley scored a basket in the final seconds of the half. PC held a nine-point lead, 41-30 at the intermission.

The Hawks tired somewhat in the last period. It was P.C.'s second consistent performance in five nights and came when the team could well be caught off-stride during its midwinter examination period.

Herb Dyson put in 26 points as Admiral Billard Academy won its sixth game in eight starts, defeating the Providence College freshmen, 75 to 60. Gus Westerhuis and Dick Elston led the Friars with 14 and 13 points, respectively.

Friars Edge St. Anselm's, Square Season's Series

By JOE McHENRY

Providence College defeated St. Anselm's basketball team, 78-67, last night at Mt. Pleasant, ending the Hawks' winning streak of six games and evening an early-season defeat by the New Hampshirites.

A strong defense that contained all but the Hawks' scoring star, Chuck Duffley, who goes 32 points, compensated for a slow start by the Friars.

Once they took the lead in the closing minutes of the opening period, the Friars never were headed, but they were not at any time able to break the game wide open.

Moran in Front

Generally it was a team victory for the Friars, although Brooklyn's Bobby Moran paced the scorers with 27 points. The fast-breaking maneuvers of Tommy Mullins, Hank McQueeney, Kenny Kerr and Moran provided some excellent scoring opportunities, with Providence handling the ball very well on some occasions.

Lately the Friars have been showing more cohesion, with the top seven or eight players all working to good advantage. Duffley, a rangy 6:5 forward, bothered the Friars considerably with his shooting and rebounding, collecting 16 points in each half. He led a rally which brought the Hawks to within six points at 46-40 in the third period and later to three points.

However, the Friars boosted their lead up to seven again, with McQueeney and Moran scoring. The first hoop came on a fast break started by Mullins, with Moran setting it up. The second was a fine combination play from Mullins, with Moran dropping in a shot from the bucket.

The Hawks, who scored a second-half victory in the first game, were intent on repeating in the second half. They were seven points down going into the last period and five in arrears when Chuck Toracinta of Newport dropped in two free throws in the first minute of the last quarter. Then the Friars put on the pressure and had a 14-point margin shortly after the six minutes mark, 67-53.

Scoring Spread

Both Bob Prendergast and Jack Reynolds contributed some effective nuisance guarding on Duffley before they fouled out in the last period. Prendergast played another improved game. The team worked well while Jackie Durkin and Kerr were handling the defensive board, with Mullins, Moran and McQueeney setting things in motion. The scoring was well divided with Kerr, McQueeney, Mullin and Moran in double figures. Bob Davolio had 14 for St. Anselm's.

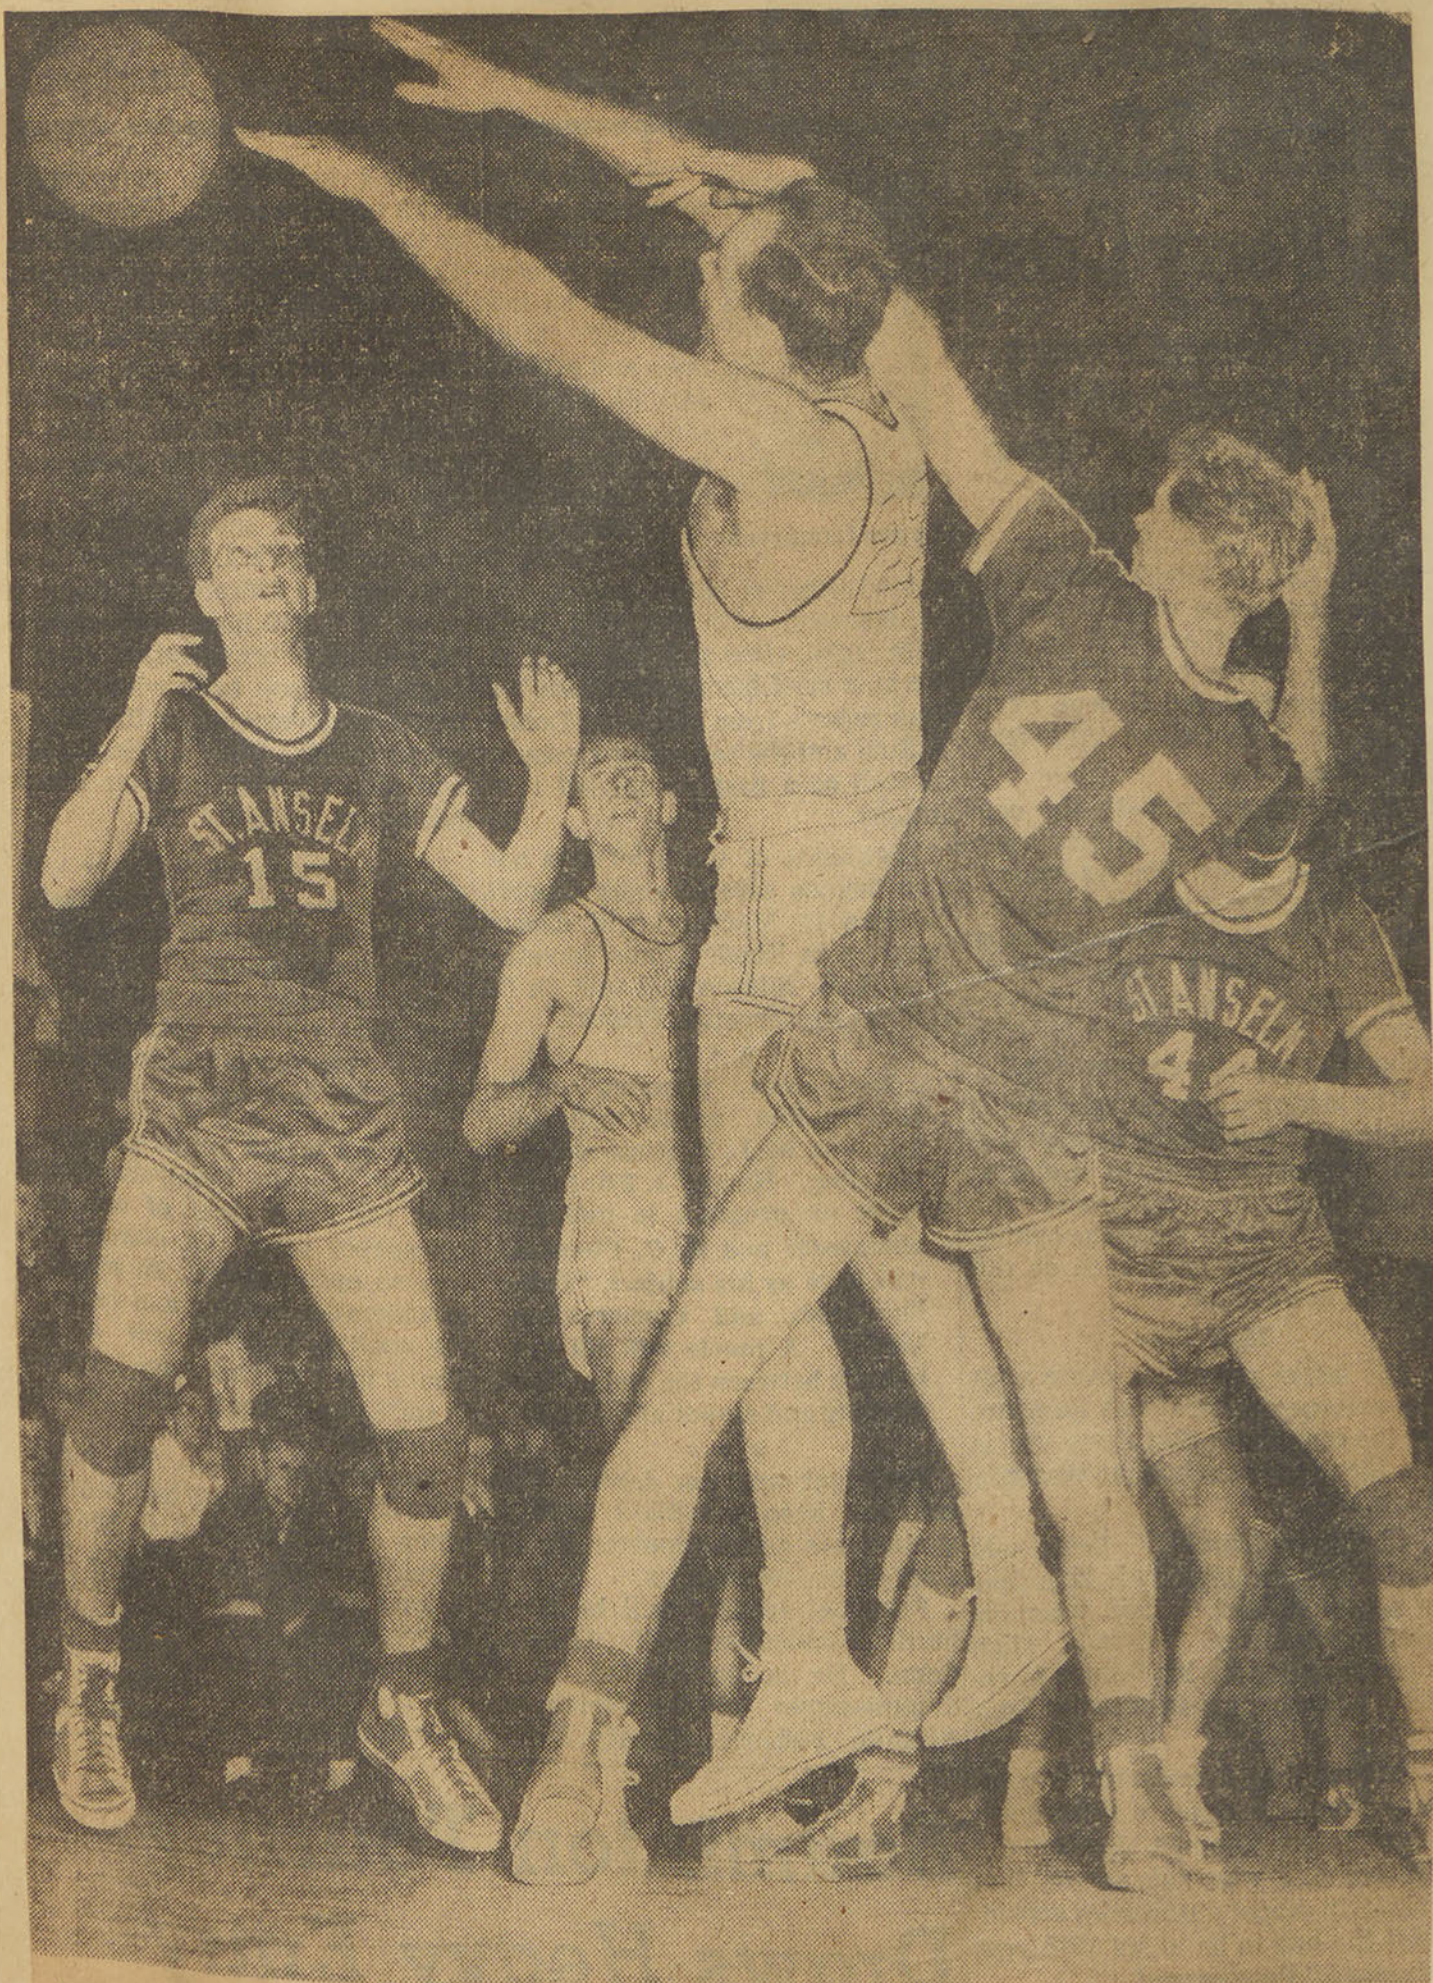

The Hawks were handicapped a bit on their aggressive play in the second half as Woody Stone, Duffley and Hughie Reilly were carrying four fouls a good part of the time. Stone later fouled out. The Friars outscored the Hawks, 29 to 21 in field goals, and made them play a fast-moving game, rather than a ball-controlled, make-it-good type of action.

After leading by one point, 16-15, in the first period, St. Anselm's fell 10 points behind midway in the second quarter and was 11 down before Duffley scored a basket in the final seconds of the half. PC held a nine-point lead, 41-30 at the intermission.

The Hawks tired somewhat in the last period. It was P.C.'s second consistent performance in five nights and came when the team could well be caught off-stride during its midwinter examination period.

Herb Dyson put in 26 points as Admiral Billard Academy won its sixth game in eight starts, defeating the Providence College freshmen, 75 to 60. Gus Westerhuis and Dick Elston led the Friars with 14 and 13 points, respectively.

McGowan Returns Home Tuesday, Leading Jasper Five Against P.C.

By JOE McHENRY

As a youngster in short pants, Andy McGowan used to drift into Harkins Hall, on the Providence College campus, occasionally to shoot baskets and polish up his basketball. Tuesday night that little tyke from Smith Hill leads the Manhattan Jaspers against the Friars in Andy's homecoming game at the R.I. Auditorium.

Among the most-polished basketball products to come out of Rhody, McGowan has been a key player in the Manhattan setup for three seasons. He and Gerry Cahill, who played with him at La Salle Academy, have continued to team up at Manhattan as the Jaspers compiled a fine record on the court.

Andy is the solid type of player. He breathes down their neck, as Frank Keane would say it, when he's sent out to guard a hot scorer. And Manhattan meets quite a few of the them. He's an excellent setup man and driver, perhaps the best the Friars will face this season.

Undoubtedly coach Kenny Norton of the Jaspers will put him on the Friars' Bobby Moran, a player of similar qualities and one of the best shots the Friars have had in recent years.

"I've watched Bobby a few times and read about him in the papers," Andy said. "I know he's a fine ball player."

His Garden Debut

McGowan, now a veteran of three seasons of play in Madison Square Garden, told me "what it was like the first time."

"There's something about the Garden for a newcomer," he said. "The crowd, the size of the place, everybody's nervous and the basket looks like a thimble. It's a funny feeling. You have been shooting baskets thousands of times and sometimes you figure you could do it blindfolded. And then you get a shot in the game and if you make it, you're just plain lucky. At least that's the way it was for me.

"After you get over your jitters, you're O.K. but you really have them before that. Sometimes you don't realize the crowd is there at all when you get absorbed in a tough, tight game. But it's a thrill for a boy to play in the Garden and it is a challenge for our team to play its best."

McGowan is one of those fellows who sometimes plays himself into exhaustion. And that's not just descriptive terminology. Twice last season Andy collapsed after hard games. This season Andy turned in a terrific job as the Jaspers beat Louisville. Then he walked off the court and passed out. He gives it all he's got.

Andy first started to attract attention when he played with St. Pius Grammar School in the CYO league. St. Pius had a low-ceilinged auditorium and even now Andy doesn't arch his shots as much as some others. This season Kenny Norton has him popping more from the outside to loosen up the defenses.

Until he reached college, Andy's biggest sporting thrill was La Salle's victory in the New England Catholic tournament at Boston and presentation of the tourney awards by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing, D.D. Andy was an all-star choice, as he has been several times since, both in basketball and baseball.

Andy and Gerry played under Danny O'Grady at La Salle and among their disappointments was the Maroon's failure to win the state championship despite having fine teams.

"We couldn't win in three years at Brown," Andy said, and we had a good team every year." Eddie Ryder, who will be playing for the Friars on Tuesday night, was one of Andy's La Salle teammates.

Andy has had many top performances with the Jaspers. He's been paired up against Temple's Bill Milkvy, now in the NBA; Ron Feier-eisel, who figured prominently in De Paul's two victories over La McGowan, Cahill, La Salle Grads, To Lead Manhattan Against P.C.

By JOE McHENRY

The local basketball card is slim but selective this week. Tomorrow night the Providence College Friars entertain Manhattan at the R.I. Auditorium and Brown meets the University of Rhode Island Saturday night at Marvel Gym.

Manhattan chalked up a pair of victories over LeMoyne (63-57) and Siena (6-49) in a two-game swing through up-state New York. Andy McGowan and Gerry Cahill, the La Salle alumni, played prominent roles in the victories. McGowan's foul shooting was an important factor in the LeMoyne contest while Cahill contributed an aggressive effort in the game.

Coach Vin Cuddy's Friars stopped St. Anselm's winning string last week but haven't had too much practice before or since, with examinations in progress. The Friars and the Jaspers have met four times, with Manhattan winning 65-47 over Ed Crotty's forces in 1943 in their last meeting.

McGowan and Cahill

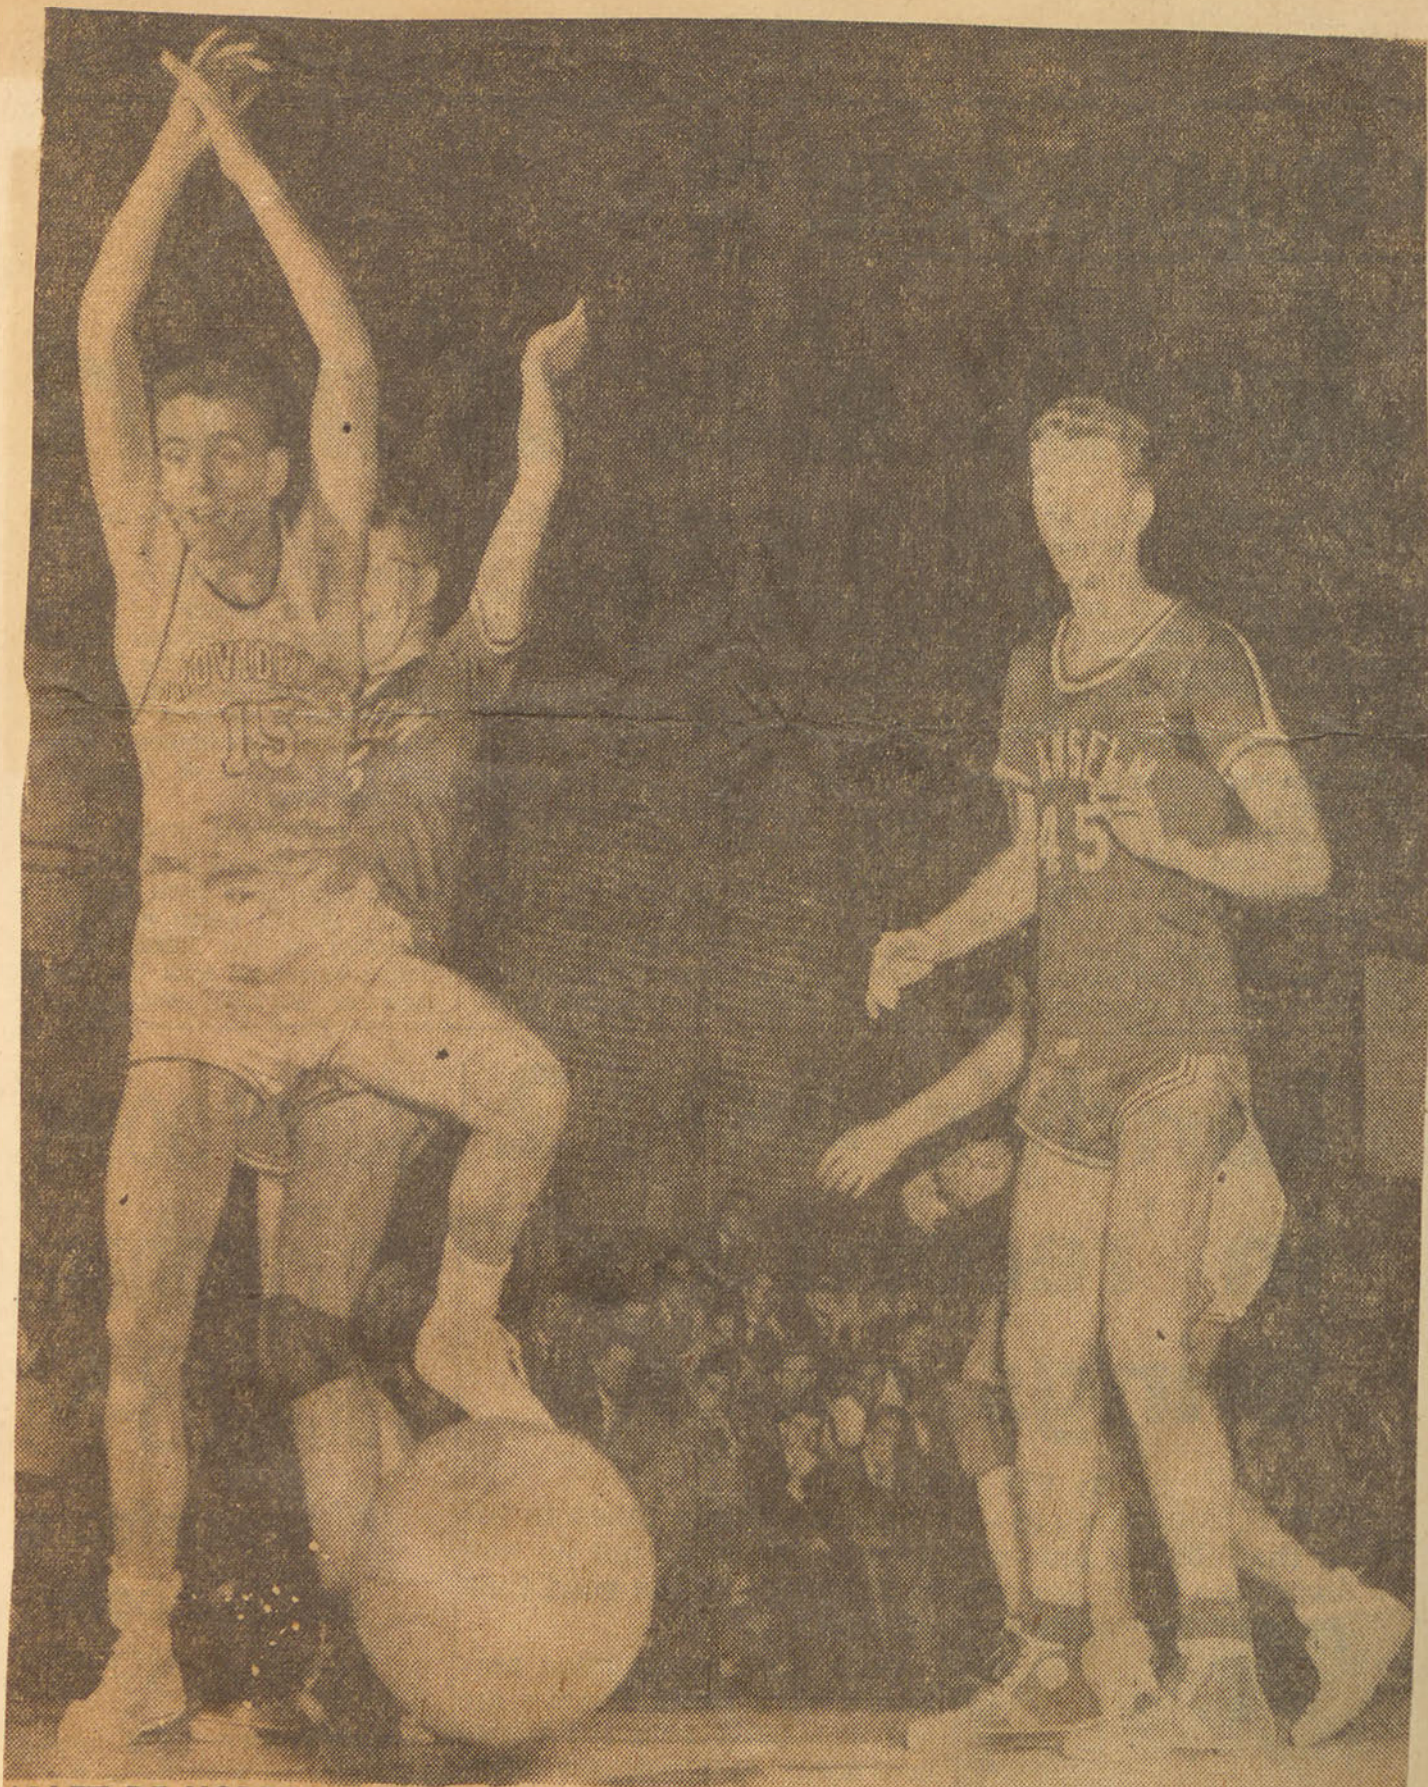

McGowan, known as "Handy Andy" on the Manhattan campus, was the Jaspers' leading scorer of the weekend with 16 points on Friday and 15 against Siena. Andy made 10 out of 11 foul shots in the Lemoyne game. McGowan and Cahill, both all-state schoolboy selections, are key operators in the Manhattan attack, which has produced 10 victories in 12 starts.

Providence has stepped up its game lately, playing at a faster and higher scoring pace in its victories over Springfield and St. Anselm's. The Friars' Bobby Moran rates among New England's best scorers with a 23 point average. As McGowan usually takes the opposition's top man, he and Moran may have quite a duel.

Going Up! Tom Mullins (19) of Providence College takes off for the basket after getting by Tom Carroll of Manhattan (55) during last night's game at the Auditorium. Mullins got this one but the Friars didn't get enough as the Jaspers romped to a 98-72 victory.

ALLET DE HORROR—This lil' old bouncing ball appears to have thrown a real scare into Providence College and St. Anselm's basketball players. The Providence man doing the fancy clap and kick is Hank McQueeney. St. Anselm players are Jim Driscoll (behind McQueeney) and Chuck Duffley.

Manhattan College's Jaspers, who have an outstanding record of 10 victories in 12 games, will meet the Providence College Friars tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the R.I. Auditorium. The program will open at 7:15, with La Salle Academy opposing the Providence College Freshmen.

Tonight's game marks the first home appearance of Capt. Andy McGowan and Gerry Cahill as collegians and the first time a Manhattan basketball team has played in Providence. The Friars hold a 3-1 margin in the series. Manhattan won the last one, during Ed Crotty's coaching regime at P.C.

McGowan has been building up a reputation for outstanding basketball during his three years with the Jaspers. Over the last weekend, he helped them through one game with his free shooting and chipped in 15 points in another victory over Siena. He is rated one of the top collegiate players in the Metropolitan area, where there usually are many fine ones.

The Friars hope to knock off their highly rated New York rivals. It will be quite an upset if they do. Providence has been playing at a speedy pace in its last two victories. The Friars could put it over, if they have maintained their form, despite little practice during the mid-winter examination period.

Among the Best

McGowan, who spent his early years in the CYO leagues and at La Salle Academy, is one of Rhode Island's leading basketball products. He can score when he has to, but is more noted for his driving and ability to bother a rival forward. He has been matched against some fine ones and Coach Kenny Norton brackets him with the best players in the Eastern schools.

Manhattan has played some thrillers this year and last. The Jaspers defeated DePaul, which holds two decisions over La Salle College. They beat Louisville, which whipped Bradley Saturday night, and also Cincinnati, another recent upsetter of note. Manhattan's two defeats came at the hands of Utah State and La Salle, National Invitation Tourney winner last season.

The Friars will give away height to the visitors. Junius Kellogg and Eddie O'Connor have the inches on anybody the Friars can throw into the rebound scrambles. Cahill, who has come into his own this season, is another strong rebounder and his passwork accounted for the Manhattan margin in the Louisville victory.

Bobby Moran has been scoring at a 23-point pace all season against the big and the small. He is the Friars' ace, though Hank McQueeney, Tommy Mullins, Jack Durkin, and Kenny Kerr have been providing him with a lot of support. Bob Prendergast and Jack Reynolds will have the job of watching Manhattan's big men while Phil Lynch fills in at the guards.

Veteran Outfit

It may work out that Manhattan has too much all-around class and savvy for the Friars. Yet Providence's helter-skelter offense can be bothersome and effective. Since the Friars started scrambling, they have been more successful.

Manhattan's top team is a veteran outfit. McGowan and Tom Carroll are the probable starters at forwards, Cahill and Willard Doran at guards and Kellogg at center. O'Connor is the high scorer with 198 points. His older brother played football with Notre Dame and the Cleveland Browns.

McGowan is the second Rhode Islander to captain Manhattan in basketball. Eddie Glancy, a Blackstone Valley athlete, was the first. Buddy Hassett, major-league first baseman, led them in the '30's, when the Friars scored a 30-27 victory. The Jaspers were surprised by the Friars in 1942, when Larry Drew, Ted McConnon, Bob Reilly and company registered a 59-39 victory.

Friars Hoping to Stage Upset Welcome for McGowan, Cahill

By JOE McHENRY

An occasion that Andy McGowan has long anticipated and dreamed about comes up tonight as the former CYO and schoolboy athlete from Smith Hill leads Manhattan against the Providence College Friars at the R.I. Auditorium.

Andy's basketball career, which had its start in the neighborhood of Smith Street and River Avenue, reaches a climactic point tonight. It's Andy's homecoming game and the only appearance in his native habitat in three years of brilliant basketball with the Jaspers.

There are two Providence boys on the Manhattan team for Gerry Cahill has followed Andy to the New York school and developed into a key man this season. McGowan and Cahill were cross-town rivals as youngsters but became teammates at La Salle on some fine teams coached by Danny O'Grady.

Leading Eastern Team

Manhattan is a leading Eastern team this season, having won 10 out of 12 games. Coached by Kenny Norton, who studied some of his basketball principles under Clair Bee, the Jaspers lost to Utah State, outstanding Mountain States team last season, and also to Ken Loeffler's La Salle College crew, which is pretty much the same team that won the National Invitation last spring.

It would be an upset for the Friars to beat them. Yet Providence has been playing some speedy ball on its own lately, taking Springfield and St. Anselm's into camp. The Maroons were expected to have a top team this year while the St. Anselm's Hawks came here with a 9-1 record before the Friars whipped them.

Manhattan is rangier than Providence, with Junius Kellogg, their starting center, reaching 6 foot 8. Kellogg is the man who turned in some fixers several seasons ago in connection with a De Paul game at Madison Square Garden. Eddie O'Connor, 6 foot 6, frequently spells Kellogg and the team loses little in effectiveness. In fact, O'Connor is the player of the future.

Experienced

The Jaspers lost only one man via graduation so they are a competent, experienced team. Cahill, who has contributed some effective pass-work under pressure, and Willard Doran, a veteran, are the starting guards, with Tom Carroll, a steady shooter, pairing up with McGowan at forwards.

The Friars will have trouble on two counts. The Jaspers may have too much size when it comes to fighting for rebounds. Also there is a possibility that Jack Reynolds, who had contributed some close guarding and rebounding, will be below par, as he has been ill. Reynolds and Bob Prendergast have provided a steadying influence lately with their heads-up play around the boards.

There's an odd twist revolving around McGowan, the Manhattan captain and playmaker, and the Friars' Bobby Moran. Moran is one of the best shooters in New England and has averaged about 23 points per game. He came from Brooklyn to Providence College while McGowan, who grew up close by the PC campus and corner hangout, went away to New York.

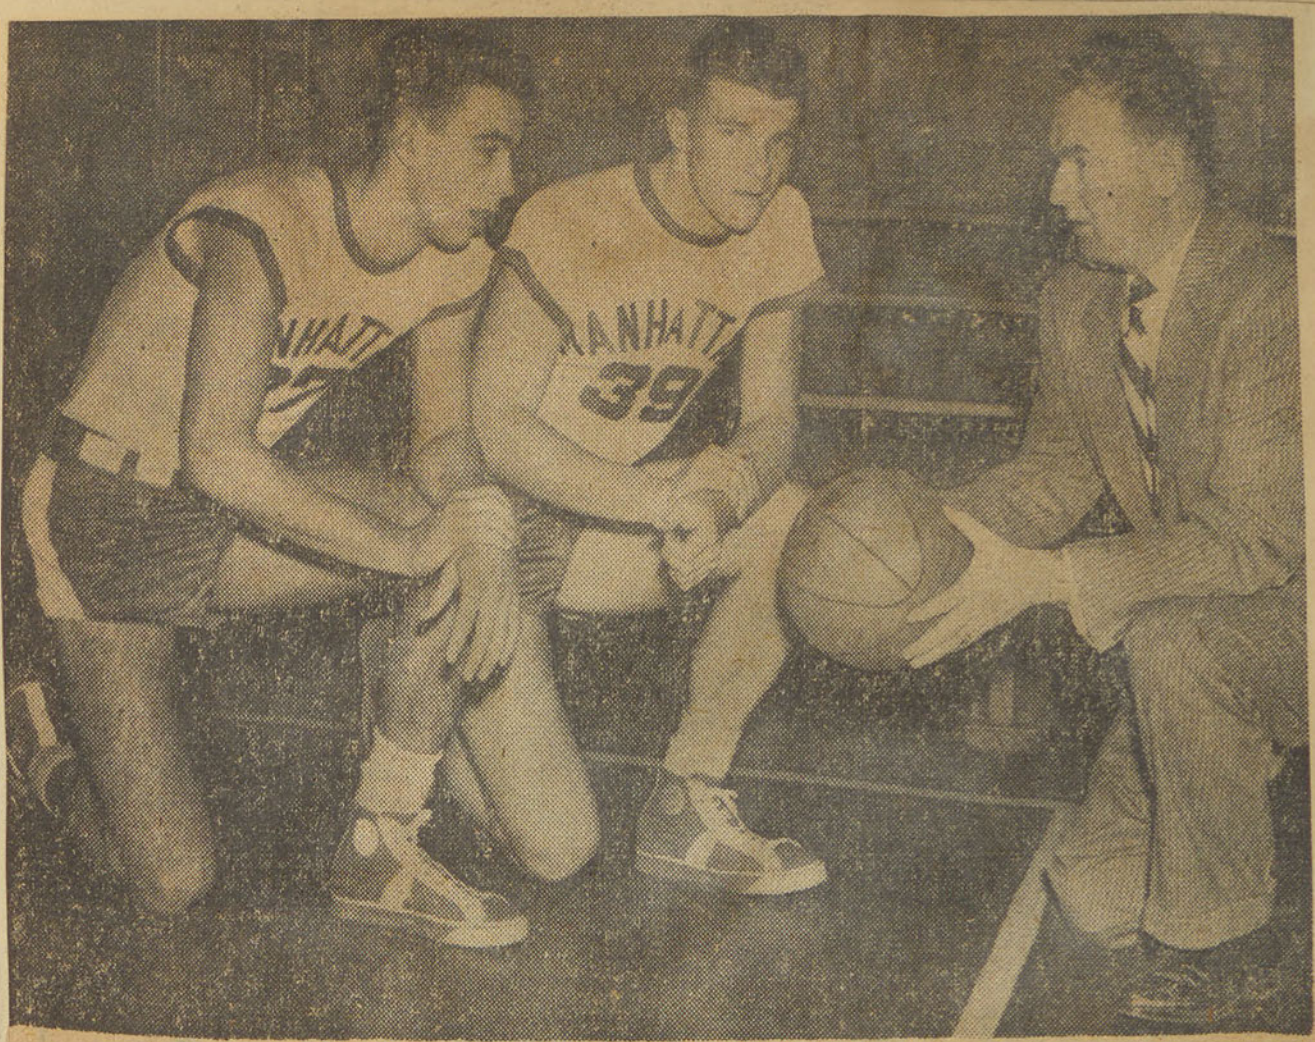

Face to Face

Tonight they'll be face to face on the court, two boys each trying to outmaneuver the other and help his team get a victory over a school which they looked up to as they grew in size and in basketball dexterity.

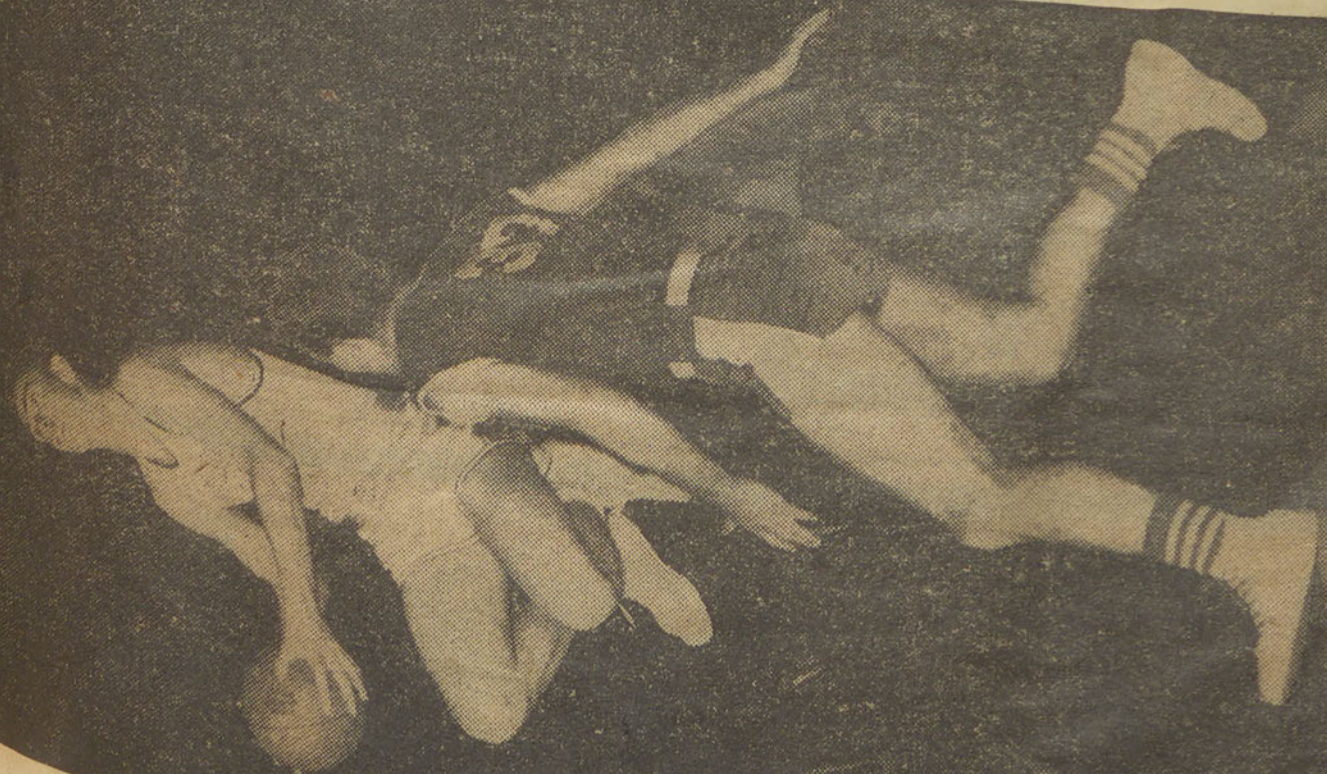

Coach Vin Cuddy isn't overestimating or underestimating the Jaspers. Providence hasn't any victories to compare with Manhattan's decisions over Louisville, Cincinnati, De Paul, St. Joseph's or Siena. Yet the Friars play a hustling, scrambling style that has been getting them results in recent games.

The Friars have been strengthened by the fine work of Jack Durkin, Jack Reynolds and Phil Lynch. Hank McQueeney, Moran, Prendergast, Tommy Mullins and Kenny Kerr have all been clicking in their specialties with the result that the friars have been playing a more interesting and enthusiastic game of late.

The Jaspers have too many guns, but it could develop into quite a ball game.

Without Wires: Hank McQueeney of Providence College appears to be suspended in midair as he lays one up for the Friars during last night's basketball game with Manhattan at the Auditorium. No. 37 is the Jaspers' captain, Andy McGowan of Providence, former All-State cager at La Salle.

Manhattan Explodes in 2nd Half for 98-72 Victory Over P.C. Five

O'Connor Sets Jasper Record With 37 Points

Friars Trail, 38-31, at Half but Victors Score
60 in Last 2 Periods

By JOE McHENRY

The homecoming of Andy McGowan and Gerry Cahill was a huge artistic success as Manhattan scored a decisive 98-to-72 victory over the Providence College Friars before slightly more than 1000 fans last night at the R.I. Auditorium.

Despite the sparkling floor game turned in by the proficient McGowan, top honors for the night went to Eddie O'Connor, a 6:6 sophomore center who set a new Manhattan scoring record with 37 points.

Although the Friars started well and made it an interesting contest in the first half as the Jaspers led, 38-31, they couldn't handle their New York rivals in the later periods. McGowan's playmaking was a big factor while O'Connor reached his collegiate scoring peak in accounting for 15 field goals, two more than ever scored by any previous Manhattan player.

11th Victory

Winning their 11th game in 13 starts, the Jaspers achieved their all-time high in the scoring column and netted 60 points in the second half for another Manhattan record. They played a smooth, forcing game in the first half and stepped up the pace in the third period when they put the decision out of reach of the Friars.

O'Connor did a fine job on the boards, which also helped him in the scoring column. With Junius Kellogg, the starter, out of the lineup with an ankle injury, O'Connor nor went most of the route and did a brilliant job. It was by far his best competitive effort for the Jaspers and one that broke the Friars' backs.

McGowan, playing before his family and friends, was really on the spot as they had heard and read quite a bit of his outstanding games in Madison Square Garden and other places. Yet he performed well under pressure, scoring nine points and chalking up 10 assists. He's the fellow who makes things go and when the game was tight, he was doing some great work.

Cahill was more or less overshadowed by his mates, yet did his share of rebounding and ball-handling while also scoring nine points.

Avalanche of Baskets

The Friars played fairly well in the first half but bogged down as the Jaspers started clicking off the baskets in rapid fashion in the second half and forcing them into errors. It wasn't one of PC's better games, yet the Jaspers were a vastly superior team, showing all-around hustle, good ball-handling and shooting.

Bobby Moran, the Friars' sharpshooter, hit his season's average as he scored 23 points. He had some anxious moments when McGowan was watching him rather closely. However, Bobby put in some nice shots as he and Kenny Kerr netted 15 of the Friars' 24 baskets. Kerr was outstanding at times, scoring twice on drive-in shots and being jostled to the floor as the ball went through the hoop. Kenny had 17 points.

Manhattan's size, meaning O'Connor, started to tell early in the game. The Friars were ahead four times and tied the score twice in the first period but even then they couldn't tie down O'Connor. The Manhattan scoring star made their first three hoops and had 19 points before halftime.

A rally engineered by Jack Durkin and Kerr, with Jack Reynolds and Moran assisting, brought the Friars within seven points at intermission. They still were within striking distance as they were playing fairly well to this point.

Between the halves, Coach Kenny Norton fired up the Jaspers and they blew the game wide open. Inside of 75 seconds Manhattan, paced by McGowan, O'Connor and Cahill, had boosted its lead from seven to 15 points, 48-33. There was respite but then Manhattan came on again and this time they were 20 points ahead, 60-40, shortly after the five-minute mark in the third period.

Willard Doran, Tom Hunt, Cahill and Tom Carroll did some effective defensive maneuvering while working with O'Connor and McGowan. Durkin and Tommy Mullins were PC's most effective rebounders. Kerr once again was close up to Moran in all-around efficiency for the Providence team.

O'Connor put in some good shots and also some easy ones, netting 15 baskets in 26 tries. By his new scoring mark, O'Connor erased one of McGowan's. Andy had held the previous record with 31 points against St. Francis in his sophomore year. Hunt of the Jaspers was the only man to foul out.

In the preliminary game, the Providence College Freshmen romped over La Salle, 73 to 40. All eleven men on the Frosh squad played and scored. The Friars led 17 to 5 at the quarter and 40 to 14 at the half. Chip Nason and Ronnie Freeman were the La Salle high scorers.

O'Connor Sets Manhattan Mark As Jaspers Wallop Friar Five

By JOE McHENRY

It was a homecoming game for Andy McGowan and Gerry Cahill, but it might just as well have been "Eddie O'Connor night" as the Manhattan Jaspers turned back the Providence College Friars, 98 to 72, last night at the R. L. Auditorium.

McGowan and Cahill were prominent in the Jaspers' 11th victory, but O'Connor reached his collegiate peak, scoring 37 points. O'Connor had to come to Andy's home town to erase McGowan's scoring record of 31 points, but he picked a great night for it.

You would like O'Connor. He's a pleasant fellow and a good big man to have around on the basketball floor. Coach Vin Cuddy of the Friars was much impressed with him and coach Kenny Norton of the Jaspers saw him break out with the type of game that he wished would come more often.

Norton thinks well of O'Connor but has been using him sparingly, letting him develop as he alternated with Junius Kellogg, the 6-foot-8 giant who took the "fixers" to the cleaners several seasons back. Kellogg hurt his ankle in a collision with McGowan in the LeMoynes game last week and couldn't play last night.

Good Pair

But O'Connor and McGowan took care of most everything. Andy was just about everything they said he would be with some excellent floor-work and O'Connor looked like a Gibraltar as he took in the rebounds and shot in the points.

O'Connor has quite an athletic heritage to live up to as his big brother played with Notre Dame and the Cleveland Browns. Currently he's working in Toronto where he played with the Argonauts, Canadian national football champions last season. And O'Connor, not Eddie but Bill, scored the winning touchdown in the championship game.

Early in the season, O'Connor, McGowan and Cahill figured prominently in a victory over Cincinnati. Eddie got 17 points as McGowan got 27 and Cahill 26. Last night McGowan scored only nine, but had ten assists and flipped the ball around in fine style. Andy once scored 31 against St. Francis and that was the mark O'Connor knocked off the books with last night's outstanding job.

Coach Jack Guy of Rhode Island complimented the Jaspers on their heads-up play, singling out McGowan and O'Connor. "A really fine player," said PC's Cuddy talking about McGowan. "But that O'Connor, he kills you. At least he killed us. We couldn't handle him and he was shooting well with 15 out of 26 shots. That's a good performance, plus his rebounding."

Off Pace

Bobby Moran and Kenny Kerr played well for the Friars, but the team wasn't up to its pace of recent games. The Friars made it an interesting contest in the first half when they trailed, 38-31, but the Jaspers opened it up after a pep-talk by coach Norton during intermission. Jack Durkin, Tom Mullins and Hank McQueeney had some bright spots for PC.

Moran scored 23 points, yet McGowan dogged him and he wasn't getting much help at some stages either. Bobby put in some good shots. The trouble came when PC popped and missed and O'Connor came up with the ball. That cut down PC's scoring chances and the Jaspers hit a hot pace, showing some real class, at times in the second half.

The Friars still have a score to settle with Kenny Norton. He played against them in baseball with Long Island U. and once hit one over the right field fence at Hendricken Field off Fred "Lefty" Collins. Marius Russo, later a Yankee pitching star, was also a member of that club. Norton never played against the Friars in basketball, nor had he ever brought a team here before last night.

But with Manhattan hitting its best scoring pace in several seasons and O'Connor making a new individual mark, Norton isn't going to forget this visit to Rhody in a hurry. Both McGowan and Cahill made their fans and friends happy and that doesn't always happen when two boys come home to play against a home town team. Sometimes the results are not so good. Last night they were good for everybody but the Friars.

Aces' Sextet Edges Friars By Goal, 5-4

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

West Springfield, Mass.—American International College rallied in the final period and edged Providence College's hockey forces, 5 to 4, last night.

The Aces spotted the Friars a three-goal advantage in the first period. At the end of the second session, the visitors still had a 4-2 lead, but goals by Don Geary, Tom Knutson and Red McDonough turned the trick.

One Mile Relay Squad Takes Second Place In Millrose Meet At Gotham

By John J. Salesses

During the past week the Providence College varsity indoor track team competed in the Melrose Athletic Club meet at New York and the Boston A.A. meet in Boston.

The team's best accomplishments in these two meets were second place prizes by the mile relay team and Paul Methia in the 440-yd. run. The latter young lad ran one of his top races in Boston last Saturday when he sprinted over the track in the Jack Ryder quarter-mile run in the fast time of 51.8 seconds.

On Thursday the mile relay team composed of Ed McAlice, Dave Kehoe, Methia, and Dick Tiernan followed the team from Williams College at the Millrose A. C. meet. Iona College placed third in this event.

Last night the Friar team entered the Amateur Athletic Union meet at the Cranston Armory. At the time of this writing, the results are not available. Coach Harry Coates announced that he would enter the mile-relay team and a variety of other contestants. A partial list of the other runners in this event is Dick Lee in the three-mile run, Chris Lohner and Bernard Dandley in the thousand yd. run, Dean Slocum in the 600, James Malloy in the 50-yd. high hurdles, and Dick Johnson and Lohner in the mile run. Bob Washburn, Albert Nelson, and George Kanary are entered in the 50-yd. dash.

The Friar runners will face North Eastern University in a dual meet on Saturday next, at Hendricken Field. On the 21st of February at the I.C. 4A's the track team's two-mile relay team will race in New York.

Phys., Ed. & Boxing Classes Started

Pete Louthis has announced that anyone who is interested in learning the fundamentals of boxing should sign up at the Athletic Office this week.

Classes in the art of pugilism will start next week. These classes will be so arranged so as to be held during the free periods of the students.

Louthis wanted the students to know that a prior knowledge of boxing is not necessary, in fact, the students should attend just for the purpose of getting in condition. Basically they will be conditioning classes which will include lessons in boxing.

Martinmen Belt LaSalle Academy

By Bill Flanagan

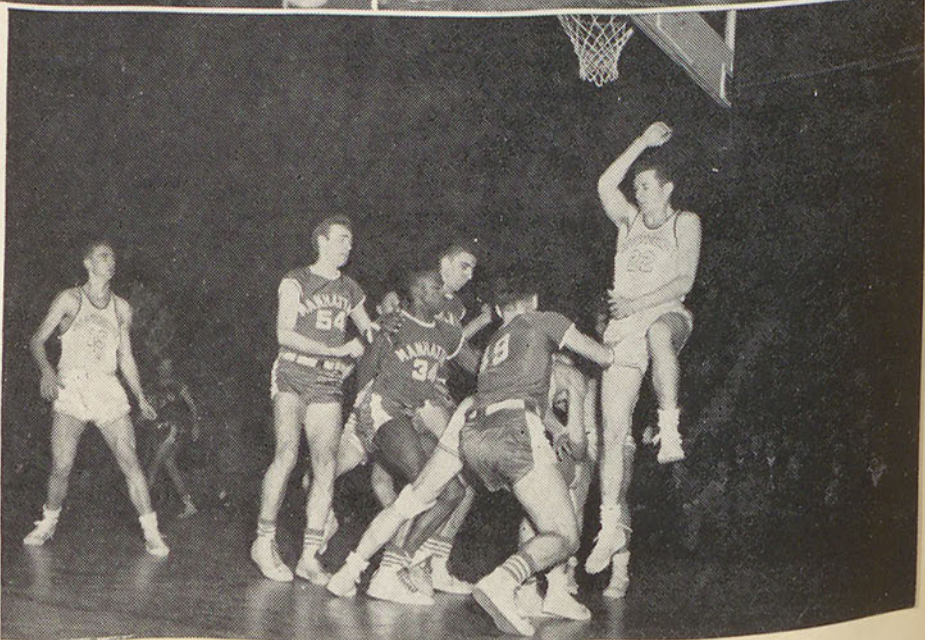

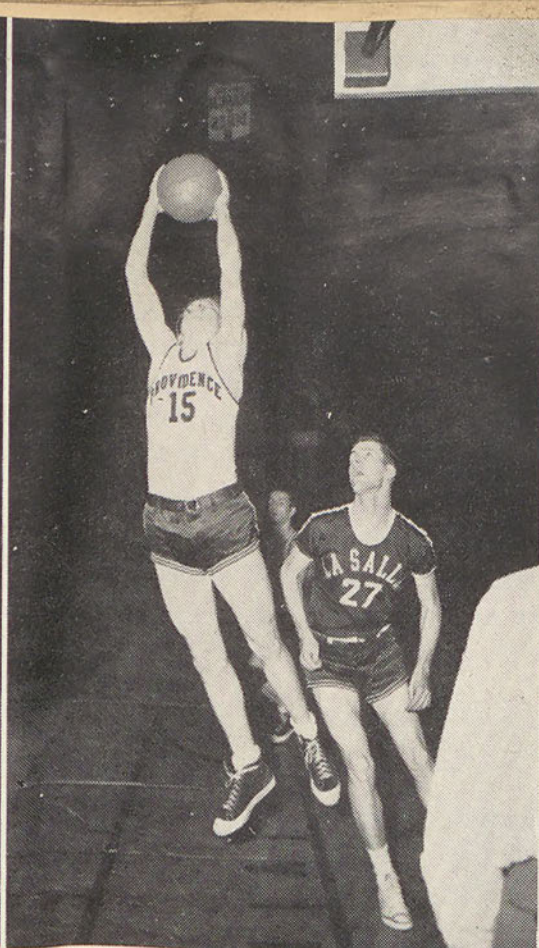

The Providence College Freshmen, led by the stylish shooting of Ted Tedesco and a dazzling fast breaking attack, made their Rhode Island Auditorium debut an impressive one by soundly whipping a game La Salle Academy club, 75-40, in the preliminary to the P. C.-Manhattan varsity clash. Controlling play throughout the game the Friar yearlings built up a 40-14 lead at halftime, and stretched it to a 57-23 advantage at the three quarter mark. Only in the last quarter did the outmanned La Salle quintet show any signs of life as Coach Hal Martin employed his bench strength. Ted Tedesco and his fancy hook shots netted 16 points to pace the Frosh hoopsters.

PHIL-INS

Bobby Moran Called "Most Underated N.E. Basketball Player" By Hub Paper

PHIL GRIFFIN

A recent edition of a Boston newspaper carried the following headline on the sports page: "Moran Most Underrated in N.E." Truer words were never spoken. But the Beantown tabloid didn't stop there, naturally. Beneath the banner a "by-lined" story bore out the declaration with a barrage of statements and examples. Moran's magnificence was properly extolled with the Brooklyn boy at last getting his just due.

It is gratifying, to say the least, to see Robert Joseph emerge from unjustified obscurity. Because the Friars haven't fared too well of late on the hardwood, Bobby's achievements have gone unheralded throughout New England while lesser lights have monopolized the headlines. There is much justification to the claim that Moran is the best small man in New England. To illustrate the point, can you think of anyone better? His all-around greatness appears with remarkable consistency in every game, whether the opponent be large or small, so no amount of publicity can do him full justice.

Perform in Bobby's Shadow

However when Bobby strolls into the limelight, don't leave Hank McQueeney, Kenny Kerr, Bob Prendergast, and Tommy Mullins off in the wings. Each one has performed with brilliance on more than one occasion, and although they perform in the shadow of a really great ballplayer, they perform nobly nonetheless. Bobby would be the first to laud his teammates, so we can at least be the second.

While on the subject of McQueeney, an unusual point arises. By their almost fanatical devotion to the immensely popular Friar basketballer the fans have put undue pressure on Hank and Vin Cuddy. Since his spectacular freshman year Hank has been a prime favorite with Providence fans. They stuck with him through the dark days when five points was an outstanding night's work for Number Fifteen, and now that he's back in the van there's no stopping the faithful who cheer his every move.

Hank Gets Tired Too

This is all very fine. We're all glad to see Hank going so well, but the boy's only human: he gets tired like everyone else, he makes mistakes like everyone else, and Mr. Cuddy, recognizing this, has to rest him now and then, no matter how much local "coaches" resent the move. The demise is usually only temporary, so give the boy and the coach a break. After a few minutes to get his breath back, Hank will be back in there leading the fast break down the court.

Random notes: Local enthusiasm got out of hand at the Springfield game when Vin had to appeal to the fans to contain themselves after a complaint from a visiting player. Cheer all you want, but keep it as impersonal as possible and within reasonable bounds Kerr is "up" for the big ones. Kenny's best work to date has been in the Holy Cross and Manhattan games. He was brilliant last Tuesday night at the Auditorium, but a fellow named O'Connor spoiled the evening Army officials complimented the Friar hockey team as "the finest bunch of gentlemen to come to West Point in quite some time." Seems the boys know how to handle themselves off the ice too. Nice going.

Rondeaumen Tackle H. C. In Arena Tilt Thursday

Cowl 2-4-53

Dick Rondeau's sextet, eager to hit the win trail again, will return to the ice Feb. 5th, tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. Holy Cross is booked at the twenty-third hour to fill the Friar date at the Rhode Island Auditorium rink. The Crusaders team is informal like the Friars. In the preliminary game Walpole will meet Woonsocket at 7:00 p.m.

On January 29, 1953, the Friar Hockey team journeyed to Springfield to play the first game of a college double header, against A.I.C. Although P. C. played hustling hockey in the first two periods they fell apart in the third period and were beaten 5-4.

Reall at 5:26

The Friars jumped off to a good start when Bob Reall cut the cords at 5:26 of the first period after taking a rebound from a shot by Rosco Sweeney, and getting an assist from Monahan. Things looked even brighter when, 42 second later, Bob Pettit drilled the puck past the goalie after taking advantage of a fast break and beautiful pass work by McAleer and Wholey.

Things were slowed down by the interference penalty against McAleer but A.I.C. had Mazon and Verani in the coop, the former for tripping and the latter for elbowing.

Bob Reall did it again at 15:58 on a gang attack by Sweeney, Monahan and himself. Monahan's minute-and-a-half penalty for slashing rounded out the action for the period.

A.I.C. came fighting back. Geary swooped down on a loose puck at center ice and drilled a blazing fifteen footer past Eddy Hornstein's outstretched glove. Providence retaliated when Rosco Sweeney picked up a puck behind his own cage and carried it all the way to bang it into the upper left hand corner of the nets from ten feet out.

Goal Disallowed

After "Porky" Lagueux had served two one-and-a-half minute penalties for illegal checks, and McAleer had served a minute and a half penalty for tripping, Pauloski cut the cords for A.I.C., but the goal was disallowed because there was a man in the crease, and of course there was a howl raised about this.

Fast Third Period

The first half of the third period was full of fast action with neither side being able to dent the other's cage. At 10:01 Geary took a pass from Verani and banged it into the nets.

RPI Game Highlights Dorm Weekend Festivities

By Martin Sandler

Providence College's varsity basketball squad plays its second game in the 1953 Rhode Island Intercollegiate Basketball Series next Tuesday night when the Friars play host to Rhode Island University at the Rhode Island Auditorium. The game will be the first of two to be played between the two schools this year in a rivalry which through the years has produced thrillers galore.

The Rams, conquerers of Brown in their last outing, will be shooting for their fourth straight victory over the Friars. The Light Blue has played one of the toughest schedules in their history this season and boasts among its victims powerful St. Johns of Brooklyn.

Time Was Ripe

As far as the Friars are concerned, the time was never better for an upset. A win over the Rams would be a bright spot in a mediocre season to date. With Bob Moran averaging 23 points a game and with Hank McQueeney returning to form, the possibilities of a Friar victory are far from inconceivable.

This Saturday evening, the Cuddymen will play host to Rensselaer Polytechnical Institute. In the Engineers, the Friars will be facing the team with the lowest fouling average in the nation. The Techmen have been averaging only 15 fouls committed per game. This contest will be one of the highlights of the 1953 P. C. Dorm Weekend.

Defeat St. Anslems

The Friars split even in two games played just before semester break. On January 21, the Cuddymen defeated St. Anslems 78-69. While last Saturday the Friars dropped a 98-70 decision to Manhattan.

With Bob Moran showing the way, P. C. avenged an earlier loss and handed the St. Anslems' Hawks their second setback in 15 starts. Moran wound up with 27 points while Hank McQueeney chipped in with 14. Jack Reynolds did an excellent job in tying up Chuck Duffley, the Hawks scoring ace.

Manhattan's Jaspers had too much staying power for the Friars and broke what had been a close game wide open with a 60 point splurge in the second half. Bob Moran kept P. C. in the game with 23 points while Kenny Kerr dropped in 17 markers.

Moran Most Underrated in N.E.

Friar Hoopman Draws Few Raves but Is Great

By ERNIE ROBERTS

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 28—Like the fat girl in the chorus line, Bobby Moran of Providence College has done his basket ball act without any raves from the critics.

"But the points still add up the same in the box score," says this 20-year-old philosopher from Brooklyn.

New England's most underrated basket ball player carries a 23-point average after 14 games. He broke the Friars' scoring record as a sophomore last year.

Cochair Admits Mistake

Since he's with a "second-division" ball club (Providence record: 6-8), Moran has been overlooked by the headline writers. He's used to it.

"Three years ago Bobby, being a Brooklyn boy, wanted to attend St. John's. He knocked on Coach Frank McGuire's door. But when Moran didn't have to bend down to enter, McGuire passed him up.

"Later after Frank saw Bobby play here at Providence, he admitted he made a mistake," says Friar coach Vin Cuddy.

Moran's brother, Jackie was a 5-10 set-shot expert at B. C. last season, now is a Marine lieutenant.

Bobby goes 6-1. He has Jackie's set-shot, plus a variety of inside stuff.

"I played Moran inside last season. He broke the college scoring record with 379 points. Now we're using him in a four-man weave and he's running well ahead of his own record," reports Cuddy.

Cuddy calls Moran "a fellow who has lots of patience with the ball."

"Too many players today try to shoot too soon. Bobby has the poise to make his fake, wait for the defense to commit itself and then take his shot," says Vin.

Good at Foul Line

The Friar "Unknown" also has a lot of poise at the foul line. Last week Providence and Springfield were hooked in a court struggle which saw Moran & Co. take a slight lead into the final three minutes.

His teammates kept giving the ball to Bobby and he went into a "Cousy" possession stall. Springfield had to foul Moran to get the ball and Bobby made good on 12 consecutive foul shots. Providence won the game, 83-76, and Moran outscored Springfield ace Al Schutts, 27 to 25.

Probably the peak in Bobby's two year career was his 29-point night at Holy Cross last season. Buster Sheary started with big Jim O'Neill on Moran, switched a couple more men on the Providence Piston before the night was over.

This season H. C. Capt Earle Markey, one of the East's best defensive players, covered Moran. Bobby still came up with 20 points. "Coach after coach—Hugh Greer of Connecticut, Bob Morris of Brown, Rickie Wilson of Amherst—has come in here and marvelled at Moran. He's been on several All-Opponent teams. But the general public only recognizes a winner and when we lose, Moran's stock falls," says Cuddy.

"On a real good team, Moran would be sensational. As it is, he's just another name... although everyone in Providence is sure Bobby's the best all-around little man in New England."

Friars Rally in Second Half, Beat R.P.I.

Fast-Breaking Tactics Pull Out 85-80 Game

Loss Engineers' First In Four Starts; Carr Registers 26 Points

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars rebounded from a slow first half with a fast-breaking game and scored a thrilling 85-80 victory over Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute last night before a near-capacity crowd of 800 at Mount Pleasant High.

The Friars stepped up the pace, scoring 55 points in the second half after playing at a slow tempo. It was the first time in four years the Friars have been able to win a basketball game on "Dorm Weekend," when the PC boarding students stage their annual winter social get-together.

R.P.I.'s Charlie Carr was the game's top scorer with 26 points as the Engineers dropped their first game in four starts. Carr, Bob Bergazyn and Vic Nadaskay kept the New Yorkers in the running in the final desperate minutes and threatened right up to the final buzzer.

Trail by Point

Providence came to life in the second half after the Engineers controlled the play with a short-passing game. The Friars trailed 34-30, at the half but went ahead in the first 90 seconds of the third period. They trailed only once thereafter by one point briefly, but couldn't get any real cushion.

Co-starring for the Friars were Hank McQueeney, Bob Prendergast, Tommy Mullins and Bob Moran. McQueeney put on one of his most brilliant performances since his freshman season and, with Mullins, pulled the team together in the stretch.

Prendergast, who has been in a slump, found himself and contributed 21 points while doing an adequate job on the boards. Mullins was a spark. Moran chipped in some vital points in the last period as the Friars forged a four-point lead, 65-61, after the score was tied for the last time at 59-all.

The game was in doubt right until the finish, with the Friars leading by 82-80 with 50 seconds remaining. With five minutes to go, Providence was one basket to the good at 72-70 after Bergazyn chipped in three points. Ken Kerr, who did some effective work on the boards, converted a free throw. Then McQueeney, whose passing was brilliant in spots, dribbled the length of the court for a basket. He was fouled and converted the free throw, giving the Friars a 76-70 advantage.

Scores on Layup

Prendergast and McQueeney teamed on a fine play with the PC center scoring on a layup. Bergazyn's hoop seconds later on a fast maneuver still left PC four points up, 78-74. Mullins scored after McQueeney set it up, giving the Friars 80 points at the 2:30 mark. Nadaskay's two free throws left the Engineers with a four-point deficit before Prendergast put in a two-pointer on a pass from Mullins as RPI pressed.

With the Friars trying to run out the last two minutes, Nadaskay stole the ball, scored and converted an additional foul shot. This windfall brought RPI within a hoop, 82-80. Mullins, a driving player all night, scored the Friars' final three points, getting a basket just before the buzzer as Moran found him open under the hoop.

Mullins and Prendergast were effective defensively and McQueeney was the over-all offensive threat. Moran got rolling in the second half and nearly made his 23-point average with 21, including several nice shots. Phil Lynch, Kerr, Jack Durkin and Reynolds also helped out.

McQueeney dropped in a 50-foot shot, which went through the hoop clean as a whistle, but Referees Jim Duffy and Tony Segardelli ruled time had expired in the second period before he fired the ball. It was a spectacular pitch and had fans recalling Ernie Calverley's famous shot in the Garden.

The Providence College Freshmen reversed an earlier setback, scoring an 87-64 victory over Nichols Junior College. Harry Pappas scored 21 for Nichols. Don Moran, Ralph Tedesco, Gus Westerhuis and Dick Elston paced the young Friars.

Helwig, McQueeney Figure To Star in Title Series Tilt

By JOE McHENRY

A couple of fellows who have just started to hit their stride might make a difference in the Providence College-University of Rhode Island basketball game tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the R.I. Auditorium.

They are Art Helwig of the Rams and Hank McQueeney of the Friars. Each has been doing a nice job lately and a top performance tonight might be just the trick to swing the decision one way or the other. The Rams are favored but that means little for so many things can happen in basketball.

Let us take McQueeney first. He's a rangy boy from Newton, Mass. When he was a freshman he passed the ball around so well and spectacularly that his chums started calling him "Cousy." And at times he was a reasonable facsimile of the Celtics' ace. But perhaps it was too much to ask for consistency and sound play at the same time.

Great Job

Yet in some of Hank's games this season he has turned in a great job. Saturday night when the Friars pulled out a close decision over RPI, his tricky ball-handling and play-making was a big factor. Coach Jack Guy of the Rams singled him out in the Friars' second half surge when they netted 55 points.

On the other hand Helwig broke into varsity basketball under a handicap. He was a big freshman and the Rhody students and fans expected a great deal more from him than they should have. Although a good scorer in high school Art found it was quite a jump into college ball and took his time getting the experience and poise that he needed.

Like a Veteran

Lately Helwig has been playing like a veteran college player. He bolstered the team in the Brown game and they went on to win. He did a good job in Philadelphia as well. Then Saturday night he was a big help, as the Rams edged Springfield. He scored 21 points, one of his best marks as a collegian.

A lot of the awkwardness that was Helwig's and the bad passing that was part of McQueeney's game have been straightened out lately. Each has been more than holding his own. In fact their mates now depend upon them. Art picked up some of the slack where others had fallen down for Rhody.

Hank has given the Friars a lift when it was needed.

Coach Jack Guy has drawn a bead on the Friars. He saw them twice when they really opened up with a fast-moving, scoring offense and he also watched them when they had their troubles moving the ball against Manhattan. PC's Vin Cuddy has been studying the Rams as well. Each knew how the other felt last Friday and Saturday as both Rhody and the Friars pulled out thrillers that weren't settled until the final buzzer. And each was there to see it.

27-8 Edge for Rams

The Rams have a comfortable 27-to-8 advantage in the series which started during the 1920-21 season as Frank Keaney's forces rolled up an 87-25 victory. Providence was most successful under General Al McClellan winning five out of six in the mid-30s. Rhody won both games last year, 60-54 and 98-82. Providence won the Auditorium game twice running before last season. Rhody's Chet Jaworski once scored 38 points against the Friars.

In the currentstate title set the Rams have a 1-0 record. They beat Brown which in turn topped the Friars who move into the annual round-robin with an 0-1 mark.

Leading their respective teams will be Bill Baird of Rhody and Bobby Moran of PC. Each has been a high scorer this season and rates with the leading players in the New England area. Baird has been ill but managed to keep up his scoring average, getting 34 against St. Joseph's. Moran is a 23-point man for the season.

The Friars' lineup includes Moran and McQueeney at forwards, Bob Prendergast at center and Kenny Kerr and Tom Mullins at guards. Jack Durkin, Phil Lynch and Jack Reynolds also work in.

The Rams' starting team includes Baird and Freddie Congleton at forwards, Helwig at center and Ray Rossi and Dave Stenhouse at guards. Slick Pena or Rollie Kubiskey may break into that combination. They'll see considerable action along with Dan Dunn.

Hal Martin's PC Frosh meet the URI Ramlets, coached by Paul Cieurzo, in the opener of the doubleheader at 7 o'clock. All tickets tonight are on a first come, first served basis. The varsity contest is expected to go about 8:30.

P.C. Quintet Springs 92-66 Surprise on Rams

Wanna Play Medicine Ball? Bobby Moran of Providence College looks as though he's all set to let the ball fly at Ray Rossi of the University of Rhode Island in this action photo

McQueeney, Mullins, Moran, Prendergast Lead P.C. Offensive

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars hit the peak of their season with a surprising and decisive 92-to-66 victory over the University of Rhode Island Rams before 1300 enthusiastic fans last night at the Auditorium.

While PC scored one of its most notable basketball victories in recent seasons, they lost one of their starting players, Kenny Kerr, hustling guard from Newport, for the balance of the season. Kerr suffered a fractured left shoulder diving for a loose ball in the first five minutes of play and spent the night at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Providence turned in some brilliant passing and shooting, led by Hank McQueeney, Bobby Moran, Tommy Mullins and Bob Prendergast, all of whom played outstanding basketball. It was one of those games where the Friars could do little wrong and the Rams little right. The ball was rolling with the Friars and the Rams just never could close the gap in the second half.

Third Victory

It was the third victory in four seasons on the Auditorium court for the Friars under Coach Vin Cuddy's direction and widest margin of victory run up by the Friars in their long series.

The Rhody rooters were dumbfounded and the Friar followers were exuberant. The Friars' heroes, McQueeney, Moran, Mullins and Prendergast, all were carried off the court on the shoulders of PC students. The PC scoring, ballhandling and shooting far exceeded the most extravagant hopes as the Friars hit a consistent pace for one of their better performances in recent seasons.

The Friars were keyed up for the game. When Kerr was hurt scrambling for a rolling ball, it just gave the Friars a little more to shoot for. Kenny did a fine job as long as he was in there. He's one of the most popular athletes on the Friar athletic teams. He's been an important, solid player with the Friars this season.

Rossi Plays Well

Ray Rossi, Billy Baird, Fred Congelton and Slick Pina were best for Rhody in that order. Rossi did some fine work in the first half, especially in the second quarter when he led a drive which brought Rhody within a basket at 24-22. Baird has been battling a virus for the last week and has been under additional strain because of illness in his family. He was in there trying until he fouled out in the last period but the game was gone by then.

McQueeney, who can be very good, scored 23 points, some on fine shots and figured in many other baskets as well with his tricky ballhandling and passing. He's had several top games lately but this was about the best.

The Rams had trouble with their passing and the Friars never gave them a chance to get rolling. There were several stretches when Rhody went without any sustained offensive as PC picked up the baskets, sometimes in rapid fashion. Rossi tried to pull Rhody together but then came a succession of aggressive fouls and contact maneuvers on both sides, with PC having the upper hand.

Lead at Halftime

The Friars led by 10 points, 22-12, in the first period and saw their lead whittled down to a single hoop in the first three minutes of the second quarter. However, McQueeney, Mullins and Prendergast boosted the Friars back into the driver's seat and Providence held a 45-30 lead at halftime.

Unless the Friars collapsed and Rhody hit a brilliant streak, the game was all but settled. However, in this series, some surprising comebacks have been made. Last night wasn't one of them, however, for Rhody played better in the third period and still trailed, 63-50.

Rhody scored only three points during the first 4¼ minutes of the last period as Providence clicked off some beauties and opened its margin to 27 points, 80-53, and later 31, at 86-55. Moran scored 22 points and played well. Prendergast's hook shots and rebounding aided the PC drive throughout. Jack Durkin took over for Kerr and filled in nicely as did Phil Lynch later.

Two free throws by Mike Hattub and a breakaway basket by Bob Serra enabled the URI Ramlets to defeat the PC Freshmen, 87 to 83, in the preliminary. The score was tied at 83-all with 1:35 to go with Hattub's points breaking the deadlock. Serra was the game's top scorer with 27 points. John Collamore and Ralph Tedesco paced the young Friars.

The Friars will swing back into action again tonight, meeting M.I.T. at Mount Pleasant High at 8 o'clock. The PC Frosh-Quonset NAS contest is set for 6:30 p.m.

Bobby Moran Bids To Break Own Scoring Record Tonight

By Martin Sandler

The main attraction at the Mt. Pleasant Gym tonight will be the ball game between the Providence College and the M.I.T. quintets, but all eyes will be on Friar ace, Bobby Moran, as "Radar Robert" attempts to break the P.C. single-season scoring record that he himself set last year.

In the 1951-1952 season, Moran scored 379 points to crack the previous record of 373 points set by Jim Schlimm in 1950. As of the writing of this article, written prior to last night's game with Rhode Island University, Bob had scored 341 points and thus needed 38 points to set a new mark. As he has been averaging 23 points a game, the chances for his breaking the record tonight appear excellent.

It has long been the contention of this writer and of the COWL sports department that Bobby Moran is one of the greatest ball players in New England, and by far the best small man in this sector. Besides being the most prolific scorer P.C. has ever known, Moran is both an excellent dribbler and ball handler. It is extremely gratifying to all concerned with his career to note that his accomplishments are at last being recognized throughout the East, as is evidenced by the fact that his feats have recently been extolled in leading Boston newspapers.

Kent County Is Tourney Threat

By Bill Flanagan

The Club tournament, especially for territorial clubs in the Intramural Basketball League, opened last week with the Kent County Club establishing themselves as a definite threat in the double elimination tourney by walloping the Providence Club 70-32. In other games, Newport whipped the Blackstone Valley boys 53-43, and Worcester won over Cranston in a forfeit. The remaining dates for the tourney have been announced as Wed., Feb. 11, Fri., Feb. 13, Tues. Feb. 17, with the championship clash scheduled for Wed., Feb. 18.

In regular play Soph. Social Science belted Soph. Science 41-31, Soph. Education buried Fr. Accounting 68-15, Jr. Soc. Science upset Sr. Economics 44-37, Soph. Biol. edged Fr. Martinmen Show Improved Form

Cowl 2-11-53
Giving perhaps the best individual performance as a team, the rapidly improving Providence College Freshman basketball team walloped Nichols College, 87-64, at the Mt. Pleasant Gym last Saturday night in the opening game of the school's annual Dorm Week End twin bill.

With each man working for the other and with the entire squad displaying a flashy attack on the offense, no less than four of the Friar yearlings walked off the floor with double figures. Don Moran paced the attack with 19, Ted Tedesco was next with 15, followed by Gus Westehuis with 14, and Dick Elston netted 12 points. Just about everyone including Coach Hal Martin was pleased with a performance well done.

Cuddymen Battle MIT, Clark

Enter Final Two Weeks Tonight With Clark Tilt

By Martin Sandler

Providence College's basketball quintet enters its final two weeks of competition tonight when the Friars play host to the M.I.T. Engineers tonight at the Mt. Pleasant Gym.

The Techmen, led by Joe Christie and Paul Van Alstine, should battle the favored Friars right down to the wire. M.I.T., long one of the top schools in the nation academically, has of late embarked on a stepped up sports program which they hope will put them on a sports par with other leading New England colleges.

Tonights game at Mount Pleasant will start at 6:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m., a half hour earlier than usual.

Big Step

A win over the Friars would be a big step in the right direction for the Engineers. Coach Vin Cuddy will undoubtedly start his regular lineup of Bob Moran, Hank McQueeney, Bob Prendergast, Tom Mullins, and Ken Kerr.

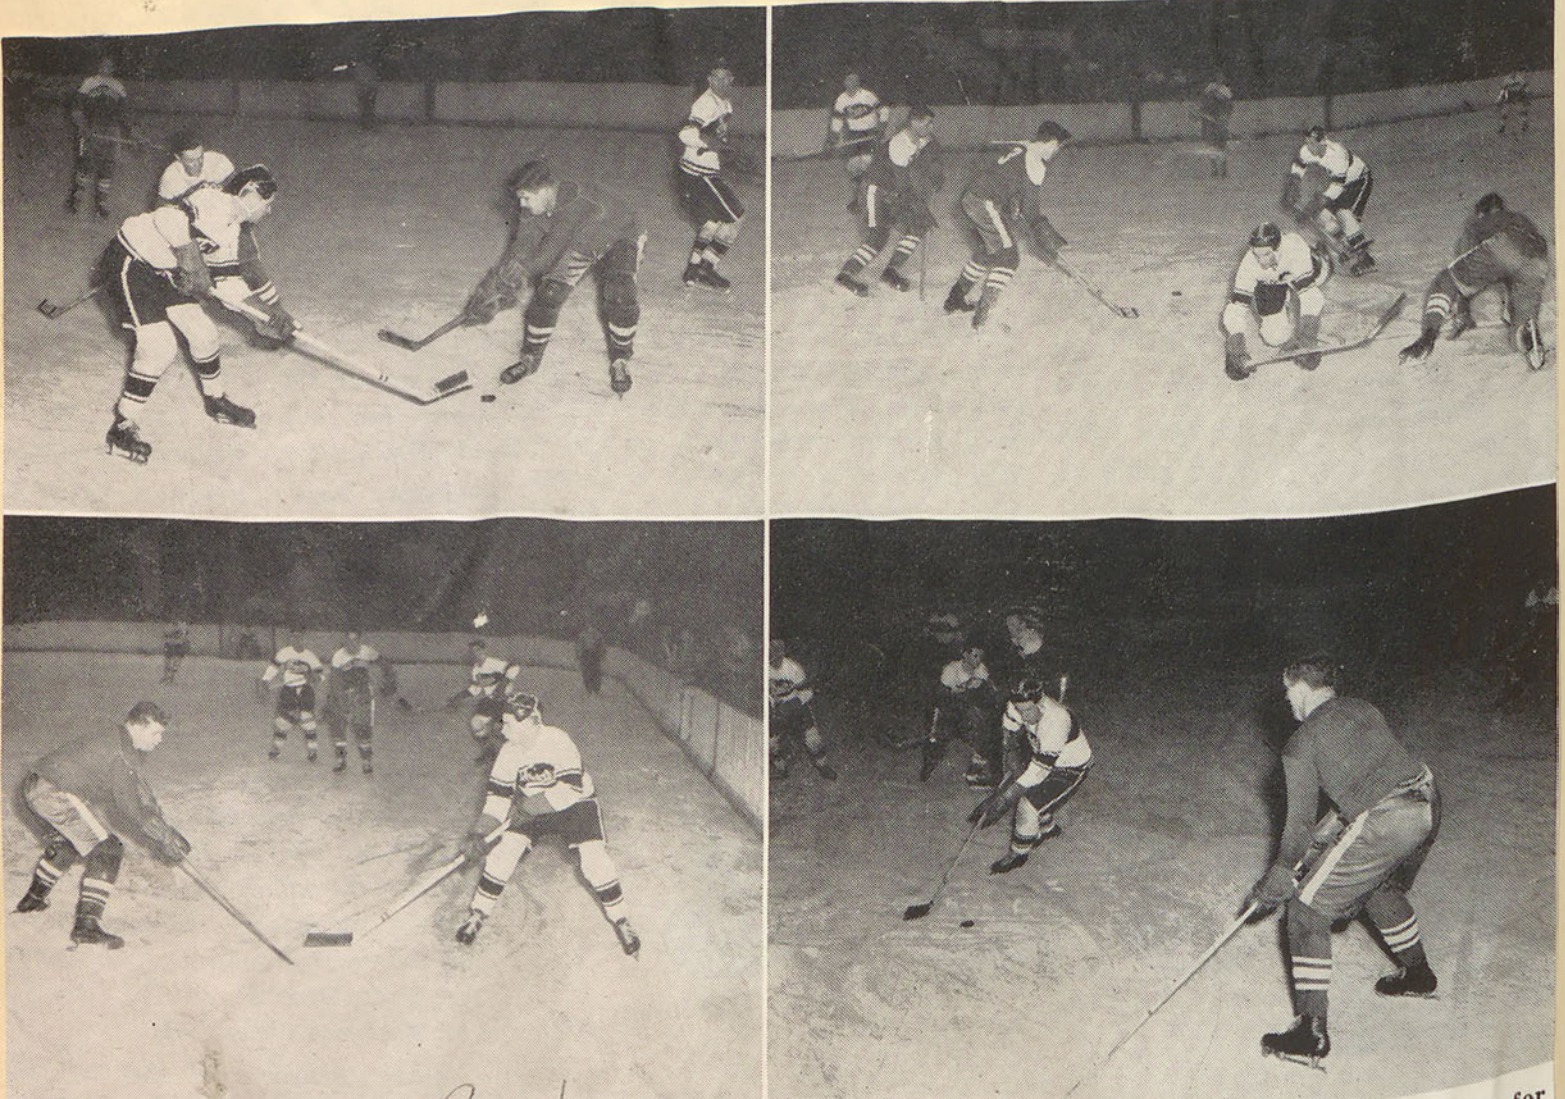

This Saturday, the Friars will journey to Worcester where they will tangle with Clark University. This will be a revenge battle for the

Friars Will Journey To Worcester Seeking Revenge

Cuddymen since they were the victims of a stunning one point upset at the hands of Clark last season.

Tall Club

Clark will sport one of the tallest clubs that the Friars have met all year. Ralph Saunders their leading scorer is six feet, three inches tall, as is Bill Bernstein. Dick Nelson of Clark stands no less than six feet, five inches tall. Bob Prendergast and Jack Reynolds will no doubt draw the assignment covering the big men. Victory for the Friars could well depend on their performances.

The Friars sextet has a busy week this week as they swing into action tonight against the Gymnasts from Springfield College and again on Friday night against the Engineers from R.P.I.

The Springfield game will be the second game of an all college double-header at the ice palace on North Main Street with the Rams from Rhode Island University taking on the Crusaders from Holy Cross in the first game starting at 7:00 p.m. The Friars will take a three and three record into the game by virtue of their win over Holy Cross last Thursday night.

Play Ontario On Friday

On Friday night Providence College will be playing a cancellation date of Western Ontario College from Canada, up in Troy, New York. R.P.I. has one of the better college hockey teams in the East this year, having beaten such teams as Springfield, A.I.C. and Yale, plus some of the top Canadian universities.

Things were fairly even last Thursday night when the Friars took on the Crusaders at the Rhode Island Auditorium, but only for the first five minutes. After that the Friars began and kept up a steady peppering of the Crusaders' goalie, until the clock ran out and the score stood at 10-0.

Monahan At 5:39

Eddy Monahan started things off at 5:39, with the assistance of Sweeney and McAleer, when he drilled one by goalie Buchan into the corner of the net. Ed Wholey broke into the scoring column when he took a spot pass from Ray Farrell and blasted a slap shot into the upper left hand corner from fifteen feet out at 9:16. This sent the Crusaders reeling and Reall scored on a gang attack along with Sweeney and Monahan at 12:16, Sweeney took a pass from Monahan and flipped it in at 12:45. Bill Charland scored during a melee at the goal the assist going to White and Petit at 14:50, and Bob Reall ended the scoring at 19:27 on a pass from McAleer.

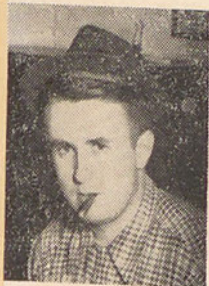

In the second period the Crusaders came back from their respite with added vigor, but not quite enough to dent goalie Eddy Hornstein's nets. The only scoring in the period came at 16:02 when Farrell accompanied by O'Sullivan and Wholey slipped one by Buchan to make it 7-0.

Prendergast Excels In R.P.I. Game;

This article is written on bended knee. A silent prayer is uttered as the keys click their merry way across the page. Is it too good to be true, or has "Sag" Prendergast really hit his stride?

... Last Saturday night a game between Providence College and RPI was held at Mount Pleasant. It was a highlight of the Dorm Week-end festivities, and a good many young ladies were in evidence. They sighed as handsome Bobby Moran was pointed out by their escort as the fellow he had been talking about since basketball started, then cast envious glances at the young lady from Brooklyn who waited patiently to claim him as soon as the battle ended.

Eye Hank McQueeney Speculatively

They eyed Hank McQueeney speculatively when told that he might well be worth their attention. Then, without any prompting, they asked who the big guy under the hoop was, and were told simply that he was Bob Prendergast, the team captain, and that he came from Hartford if the young lady happened to be from that vicinity. Now the escort, turned basketball expert, prodded the lady with his elbow and pointed out Vin Cuddy, Ken Kerr, and Tom Mullins, giving a few words from his vast store of knowledge of each. Kerr was the hustler, the rebounder, Mullins the floor man turned scorer, and Cuddy the tutor.

Then they turned their eyes to Prendergast as he dwarfed the RPI captain and the two referees in the center of the court. From that time on they found little time to admire Moran's good looks or McQueeney's spectacular play: Prendergast was the whole show.

"Sag" Bright Spot

"Sag" threw in hooks, one-handers, and sundry other shots, as he led the Friars to a hectic 85-80 victory by scoring 21 points. In a horrible first half he was the only bright spot, and he retained this brightness in the second half. Meanwhile, local fans gloated: they had waited for this for a long time.

On the way out of the gym the girls all agreed that Moran looked handsome in a basketball uniform. McQueeney made them squeal with his slight of hand, and Prendergast played a whale of a basketball game.

Maybe Sagamore is a lady's man at heart and needs an abundance of females for inspiration; maybe the Friars should invite a bevy of the weaker (?) sex to every game. In any case, we hope they leave the court talking about Prendergast from now on.

Friar, R.I.U. Quintets Clash At Auditorium Tomorrow

By JOHN HANLON

The University of Rhode Island and Providence College will play an intrastate-series basketball game at the R.I. Auditorium tomorrow night, thus completing the first round of the title race.

As it stands now, the Rams have the lead, 1-0, by virtue of their victory over Brown. The Friars have lost to Brown, which puts them in third place with a 0-1 record.

Each team won its last game, the Rams taking Springfield on Friday and the Friars defeating Rensselaer on Saturday, 85-80.

Best of Season

For the Friars, the Rensselaer victory was one of their best of the season, with three players making 20 points or more. Bobby Moran and Bob Prendergast got 21 each and Hank McQueeney hit for 20.

Brown, which won its second game in 11, against Northeastern on Saturday, takes on Boston University at Marvel Gymnasium tomorrow. The Terriers won their sixth game in 11 by taking Tufts, 65-52, on Saturday.

Four Brunonians scored close to 20 points each—something that hasn't happened previously this season—against Northeastern. Lou Murgo got his 20, Ed Kincade and Bill Arnold scored 18 each and Ray Malkiewicz picked up 15.

M.I.T. Here Wednesday

On Wednesday night the Friars will be back at their home court, Mount Pleasant High School, there to play Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The long arm of the television fight program has reached out and tapped this game. As a concession to the Davey-Gavilan fight that night, the freshman game will start at 6:30, the varsity game at 8 o'clock and then everyone can run home for the fight.

Providence College's hockey team and American International College have a game on the same evening, with no allowance for television, and Brown's freshman wrestling team will visit Andover Academy for an afternoon meet.

Princeton's hockey team will come to the Auditorium on Thursday night for a game with Brown—and what a thing that New England hockey is turning out to be. Brown upset Harvard, New England's No. 1 team, 3-1, here Saturday night. Yale, defending Ivy League champion, lost to St. Lawrence, 4-3.

Eagles Top Team

Brown's defeat of Harvard leaves Boston College as the top team of the area, but that one will be settled definitely tomorrow night when the Crimson and B.C. play at Boston Garden.

The Rams' basketball team will open a two-day stand out of town on Thursday, playing Massachusetts that night and then meeting Vermont on Friday. Brown's track team, what's left of it, will visit New Haven for a meet with Yale on Friday afternoon.

The Bruins have another hockey game on Saturday at the Auditorium, playing their old rival, Dartmouth. The Indians lost to Princeton, 4-0, over the weekend.

All other Brown teams also have engagements on Saturday. The swimmers will take on Williams at Williamstown, the basketball team will meet Holy Cross at Worcester and the wrestlers will cope with Harvard at Marvel Gymnasium.

P.C. vs. Clark Saturday

The Friars, on the same day, have a basketball game with and at Clark and their track team will entertain Tufts.

Among the big wigs of basketball, getting the first scent of tournament invitations, all except Kansas State moved ahead. Nebraska upset the Cornhuskers, 80-67. La Salle picked up a lot of ground by taking tough Duquesne, 74-66, for No. 17 in 19 games. Seton Hall, the top-ranking team on most lists, had an open date.

In the Ivy League, Penn took the lead with a 50-49 victory over Cornell and the Quakers' Ernie Beck scored 28 points. Penn now has a league record of 5-1. Cornell's mark is 4-1.

Johnny O'Brien of Seattle set a three-year career scoring record—at least among the "recognized" schools—when he collected 33 points against Montana State and ran his total to 2356 points. Washington clinched the Northern Division title in the Pacific Coast Conference by trimming Washington State, 69-56, for its 20th victory in 21 tries.

But Bevo Francis was the top scorer, as usual. He made 60 against Mayor State as Rio Grande won its 29th game in a row, this one by a score of 126-98. Bevo's total for the season now is 1462 points.

Firehorse Style Friars' Best Bet To Score Upset

Intrastate Game Listed
At Auditorium; Brown
Quintet Host to B.U.

By JOE McHENRY

The University of Rhode Island Rams and the Providence College Friars meet tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the R.I. Auditorium. It is the first meeting of the season between these two intra-state rivals and on the basis of their recent performances, Rhody is the favorite.

Providence came back from its Manhattan defeat with a fine second-half performance in scoring a victory over R. P. I. Saturday night. The pattern of the Friars' victory was similar to the one employed the night before by Rhody as the Rams edged Springfield in a thriller, 94-92.

Rhody has been playing a high-scoring brand of ball lately, against Brown, St. Joseph's and Springfield. Both the Friars and the Rams defeated Springfield. However, Rhody after a poor start, bounced back and beat Brown while Providence went down to defeat.

Covered Doogan

One major improvement in Rhody's game lately has been the development of center Art Helwig. The lanky sophomore found himself in the Brown game and has been doing a fine job ever since. In Philadelphia he was matched with John Doogan, who gained All-America rating last season, and Helwig played a steady, dependable game against the St. Joseph's pivotman.

The Friars have been playing in fits and starts. When they are clicking, they do a competent job of moving the ball and scoring. However, they have been at their best at Mount Pleasant High, where their scrambling style seems to be more effective.

In Bobby Moran and Bill Baird, the Friars and the Rams have two of the leading players in New England. Baird is more of a driver but a fine shooter and setup man. Moran has been scoring in the neighborhood of 20 to 25 points per game. Baird frequently sacrifices his scoring chances.

The Friars' best chances depend on a fast-breaking game. They are not effective when they hold the ball. Tommy Mullins and Hank McQueeney have been the key men in this style of play. Mullins gets the ball upcourt in a hurry and McQueeney handles it around the

Hank McQueeney Paces PC Attack; Kerr in Hospital

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars played some of their best basketball during Vin Cuddy's coaching regime as they decisively defeated the University of Rhode Island Rams, 92-66, last night at the Auditorium, before 1300 fans.

It was a brilliant victory for the Friars but they lost one of their starters for the balance of the season. Kenny Kerr, who has turned in several fine games lately, fractured his left shoulder diving for a loose ball early in the game and spent the night at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Reach High Point

The Friars, who reached one of the high points in recent PC basketball, controlled the game after a Rhody rally early in the second period and ran up the most points ever scored by the Friars in an intra-state battle with Rhody or Brown. The 26-point margin was also PC's biggest against R.I., although two teams coached by Al "General" McClellan were close to that figure in the 30s.

Tonight the Friars will meet Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Mount Pleasant, with Providence a fairly heavy favorite. The Friars and the Engineers have met only twice in basketball, with PC winning 26-21 during the 20s and 77-54 last season. MIT has beaten AIC and Worcester Tech.

The Friar freshmen, who dropped an 87-83 decision to the URI Ramlets last night, meet Quonset NAS at 6:30 tonight. The varsity game between PC and MIT will go on about 8 p.m. so that the fans can still get away in time for the Gavi-lan-Davey TV title bout.

Cheer Up Kerr

Last night was a happy one for the Friars. However as soon as was convenient, Coach Cuddy, Bobby Moran, Hank McQueeney, and the Rev. Edward M. Casey, O.P., of the PC faculty, paid a visit to the hospital to cheer up Kerr.

Kenny was in good spirits although in pain and perhaps not realizing his basketball career was over for this season. "We killed 'em," McQueeney said, and the visitors "replayed" the game for their injured teammate.

McQueeney, among the most unpredictable players in PC history, turned in one of his finest games last night. His brilliant passwork was a big factor in the Providence scoring while Bob Prendergast, Tommy Mullins and Bobby Moran were also outstanding. Prendergast, who hadn't been too effective in his previous Auditorium game, came up with some good shooting and rebounding last night.

Moran and Mullins were equally helpful in the PC victory while Jack Durkin and Phil Lynch took over after Kerr was injured and played well. It was a case of the Friars doing most everything right and the squad being keyed up to a major effort after several previous disappointments.

• Couldn't Match It

The Rams ran into some terrific basketball on a night when they couldn't match it. Ray Rossi played well for Rhody, especially when he rallied the Kingston team from a 10-point deficit and put them back in the game. However Rhody faltered again and trailed 45-30 at halftime.

The Rams weren't in tip top shape for the game either. Billy Baird and Freddie Congleton have been below par physically. Baird took scoring honors with 17 points but had only three hoops. He's been battling a virus. Rollie Kubiskey and Slick Pina helped out somewhat but Dave Stenhouse went scoreless, probably for the first time since he played any length of time in a college game.

The game was rough and spirited and at times had too much contact. The intra-state series games involving Brown, PC and URI have always been tough ones to work because of the aggressive and, at times, scrambling styles of the teams involved. Some didn't like the officiating. However one Rhody supporter said it would have taken the Rams at their best to give the Friars a battle last night.

Missed By 'Prexy'

The Rev. Robert J. Slayin, O.P., president of Providence College, missed the Friars' biggest victory since he took over the direction of the college. The Rev. Father Slayin has seldom missed a game of late but last night had to be in Brooklyn for the annual dinner of the Providence College Club of New York.

Mike Hattub, Bob Serra, Eric Anderson, and Allie Baird led the Ramlets, who trailed 67-66 starting the final period. Hattub's two free throws and Serra's basket settled the decision after PC tied the score 83-all on two foul conversions by Don Moran. Jack Collamore, Ralph Tedesco and Moran led the PC scorers.

ONE THAT GOT AWAY—Here's Phil Lynch of the Providence College Friars escaping the efforts of the Rams' Bernie 'Slick' Pina and going up with a layup shot in last night's game between PC and the University of Rhode Island at the Auditorium. Phil missed this one but the Friars didn't need it scoring a convincing 92-66 decision. Ray Rossi of the Rams (right) came up with the rebound.

Cage Coaching Characters Probed by Prof. J. Hanlon

By JOHN HANLON

Basketball coaches come in all shapes and manner, but most have two basic characteristics. They rail at officials and, according to their antics on the bench, are the most put-upon men in sports.

I can say this first-hand. By choice and convenience my seat at the press bench when covering Brown's basketball games — it seems like several thousand, but I guess it isn't—places me practically in the lap of the visiting coach, and what an experience that is.

Joe Lefebvre, the referee, noticing the constant location, feels it is an unnecessary and self-inflicted punishment, judging by a remark the other night.

Author, Author

"Why do you sit beside those guys, anyway?" he asked. "Are you trying to write a book?"

The answer to the latter is no, but it is a thought. Several titles come quickly to mind: The Gentle Art of Abuse; or, Basketball's Big Winds; or, They Get Paid for This?; or, simply, Referees, Bah!

This much done, the rest is easy. And toward the day of authorship, herein is compiled a few program notes on a partial cast of characters, which is a fitting word. This is how they carry on during games.

John Bunn, Springfield—An exception, a model for his players, who themselves are studying to become coaches or to work in some phase of physical education. Rarely complains, has been heard to remind his own players that the "officials are doing their best." Once told a player of his who was abusing an official from the bench: "We don't do that sort of thing on this team."

Can Growl

Howard Hobson, Yale—Handsome, debonair, gives the impression that he is fully aware that Yale coaches just do not badger officials. Generally carries this off, too, but can set up an almighty growl when he thinks it's called for.

Hugh Greer, Connecticut—Cut from the same jib as Hobson, but hardly as conscious of position. Doesn't mind giving official an earful if things aren't going to his liking.

Doggie Julian, Dartmouth—Carefree as a lark before and after a game, but has, perennially, the worried look of an Irish setter on his face during games. Not much of a jockey, but grumbles frequently to no one in particular.

Vin Cuddy, Providence College—Another worrier. Almost constantly "on" officials. Not abusive, though, just reminds them of what they missed, in his opinion, probably hoping for better luck on the next call.

Abuse or Kindness

Matt Zunic, Boston University—Wavers between abuse and kindness to officials. Given to standing on sidelines, hands on hips, and barking at referees. But recently, after he had railed at officials incessantly and his assistant coach had been ordered off the bench, he had this to say to Bob Morris, Brown's coach, who made a loud complaint of his own: "Aw, take it easy, Bob. Lay off the officials."

Bob Morris, Brown—Vague to everything but the action during a game. Forgets names of his players. Will shout instructions to, say, Charley Blankfort, when all the time Blankfort is sitting beside him. Just says Oh, when Blankfort says "I'm right here, Coach." Not a frequent complainer, but a good one, with a rounded vocabulary.

Louder Than Words

Lee Williams, Colby—!!!

Buster Sheary, Holy Cross—A squirmer and a good shouter. Never has a peaceful moment. Writhe silently with each missed shot, talks a great game to himself, can impart more instructions in a time out than any others seen.

Jack Guy, University of Rhode Island—Here's a referee-baiter first class. Keeps up a running complaint, jumps up, sits down, and generally has a hell of a time of it for himself. Sometimes, though, he readily agrees with officials on calls against his own team. New around here, but this sort of thing will get him thrown out of the union.

P.C. Six Edges Springfield, 5-4, In the Opener

Massachusetts Team
Goes Down Before
R.I., 2 to 1

By JOHN MAYNARD

Providence College scored its fourth victory of the season by edging Springfield, 5-4, and the University of Rhode Island shaded the University of Massachusetts, 2-1, last night in the first collegiate hockey doubleheader ever held at the R.I. Auditorium.

A slim crowd was on hand for the action, even though the program had been advanced a half hour to permit spectators to get out in time for the Gavilan-Davey fight.

Dick Rondeau's Friars, starting off with a bang, scored four goals against none for the visitors during the first period. Then they appeared to let up, and the Maroon held them even during the second period at 1-1 and then rallied for three goals in the final period.

The Friars' goal-scoring was divided evenly among John Sweeney, Ed Monahan, Bob Petit, Bob Reall and Jim White. Monahan picked up two assists and Reall, Petit, White and Sweeney each one. Dick Wheeler scored twice for the losers, who played with an 11-man squad.

The Rams, who like the other three sextets playing last night are organized on an informal basis, won out on two goals by Tommy Rust, their center. He opened the scoring at 1:38 of the first period with a short shot into an unguarded net. After the losers had tied it up at 10:03 on Jim Eagan's score, Rust came through again just 55 seconds from the end of the game with a 10-footer along the ice into the cage. Bob Burns got an assist on the play.

The Rams played 12-minute periods, and the Friars and the Maroon 15-minute periods.

The Kingstonites will meet Holy Cross in the first game of a doubleheader Tuesday at the Auditorium. The Friars play American International College in the second game.

off with a bang, scored four goals against none for the visitors during the first period. Then they appeared to let up, and the Maroon held them even during the second period at 1-1 and then rallied for three goals in the final period.

The Friars' goal-scoring was divided evenly among John Sweeney, Ed Monahan, Bob Petit, Bob Reall and Jim White. Monahan picked up two assists and Reall, Petit, White and Sweeney each one. Dick Wheeler scored twice for the losers, who played with an 11-man squad.

The Rams, who like the other three sextets playing last night are organized on an informal basis, won out on two goals by Tommy Rust, their center. He opened the scoring at 1:38 of the first period with a short shot into an unguarded net. After the losers had tied it up at 10:03 on Jim Eagan's score, Rust came through again just 55 seconds from the end of the game with a 10-footer along the ice into the cage. Bob Burns got an assist on the play.

The Rams played 12-minute periods, and the Friars and the Maroon 15-minute periods.

Friar Cagers Wallop M.I.T., Moran Stars

PB 2/12/53
P.C. Ace Brings Year's Point Total to 381
Which Shatters Record

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars made it three in a row and Bobby Moran set a new one-season scoring mark last night as PC downed the MIT Engineers, 77 to 50, at Mount Pleasant High.

Providence wasn't as steady, nor as spectacular as in its victory over the University of Rhode Island but the Friars work more of those fast-breaking plays which end up with baskets these days than they used to.

Moran topped all former Friar scorers last season with 379 points. Last night he dropped in a layup shot in the fourth period and that brought his season's scoring mark to 381 points. That's an average of 22.4 per game for the year, which rates Moran among the best shooters in the East.

Don Shines

Moran fell below 20 points last night, scoring 16, but contributed some steady play to the Friars' attack. It was a big night for the Moran family. Bobby featured in the varsity game but he ran second best for the night to his kid brother Don, who put in 25 points for the Providence College Frosh.

However, the Frosh weren't as successful as the varsity, dropping a 73-68 decision to Quonset NAS, which has a 17-13 mark for the season.

Hank McQueeney, Moran and Jack Durkin paced the Friars against the Engineers, with Durkin turning in a consistently good job on the boards. McQueeney, who picked up a lot of his fancy passwork from visits to Boston Garden, continued his fine ball handling and setting up activities while scoring 15 points.

Using the slow-breaking tactics, MIT built up a 15-8 lead in the first period as the Friars failed to score a field goal until the game was in its seventh minute. Then PC untracked and rallied for a 15-15 tie at the end of the period, but the Engineers again spurted into a nine-point lead.

Providence came to life after 11 minutes as Jackie Durkin, Hank McQueeney and Moran led a drive which tied up the game and then started working on a victory. The Friars were playing much better in the late stages of the first half and hit several hot streaks in the third and fourth periods. PC led 37-29 at the half.

Friars Hit Stride

McQueeney led the Providence offensive again, contributing some fine setups and passwork. The Friars broke well but had trouble putting the ball in the hoop. Once they broke the spell however, they played some fairly good basketball, with McQueeney handling the ball, Durkin doing the bulk of the rebounding and Moran some good shooting.

MIT, coached by Scotty White-law, former Springfield College athlete, was led by Paul Van Alstyne, Russ Kidder and Al Schulte. Van Alstyne scored 14 points with Moran and McQueeney getting 16 and 15 respectively for the Friars. The Engineers made 11 successive foul shots before a miss.

Durkin took over Kenny Kerr's berth and supplied some effective boardwork. Kerr is reported resting comfortably at St. Joseph's Hospital and had most of the squad and P.C. athletic staff as visitors yesterday at the hospital. He was injured Tuesday night at the Auditorium, sustaining a fractured shoulder.

Bob Prendergast hit on several hook shots. Tommy Mullins brought the ball up fast. McQueeney, at times, passed beautifully while Moran was steady and dependable. Charlie Aquavia, Phil Lynch, Jack Reynolds and Bill Quinlan all contributed some fine work among the reserves as the Friars won their ninth game of the season and their third in succession.

The Providence College Friars warmed up after a slow start and scored a 77-to-50 victory over Massachusetts Institute of Technology last night at Mount Pleasant High.

The Friars suffered something of a letdown after their fine victory over the University of Rhode Island on Tuesday night, which was more or less to be expected. Yet at times they turned in some slick ball-handling, fast breaking and shooting.

Bobby Moran, one of the finest shooters in PC basketball history, set a new one-season scoring mark when he hit on a layup shot early in the fourth period against the Engineers. This basket brought his season's scoring mark to 381 points, bettering by two his total of last season.

Moran scored 16 points last night and has averaged 22.4 for the year. He's scored 760 points for the Friars in two seasons and will become PC's all-time three-year leader with little doubt, if he continues anywhere near his present pace.

Slow Start

Providence College wasn't nearly as sharp last night and it took them quite a while to get things under control. The Engineers, who hadn't played a game in 25 days because of examinations and mid-year recess, started out to play a slow, deliberate style and this was anything but what the Friars wanted.

Using the slow-breaking tactics, MIT built up a 15-8 lead in the first period as the Friars failed to score a field goal until the game was in its seventh minute. Then PC untracked and rallied for a 15-15 tie at the end of the period, but the Engineers again spurred into a nine-point lead.

Allie Moran, younger brother of Brooklyn Bobby, had one of his best scoring games of the year, netting 25 points for the Friar Frosh. However the Quonset NAS, paced by Joe Cullo, George Sehringer, and Ken Clark, defeated the younger Friars, 73 to 68, in the preliminary.

P.C. Six Plays RPI Tonight At Troy, N.Y.

The Providence College hockey team makes its second invasion of New York State today, playing Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at the RPI Field House in Troy at 8:30 p.m.

In their first trip to New York early in January, the Friars downed Army, 6-3, at West Point for their most notable victory to date. All told, Dick Rondeau's skaters have defeated Holy Cross, University of Rhode Island and Springfield in addition to the Cadets, and have lost to Brown, Tufts and American International College.

In their last start, Wednesday, they edged Springfield, 5-4, in the first collegiate hockey double-header ever held at the Auditorium. The Rams shaded the University of Massachusetts, 2-1, in the first game.

The RPI sextet, heavy with Canadian personnel, has one of the best records in the East although its only major victory against an American team has come against Princeton. RPI also has lost once to the Tigers in addition to Yale and McGill. In their last start, Wednesday, coach Ned Harkness' charges downed Hamilton College.

RPI Six Scores Easy Triumph Over Friars

Special to The Journal-Bulletin
Troy, N.Y.—Rensselaer Polytechnic handed Providence College's sextet a 13-1 drubbing here last night, RPI's fourth straight victory and 13th in 16 games.

Frank Chiarelli scored five goals for the host team and Moe Mosco added three and two assists. RPI had a 12-0 lead at 9:15 of the third period, when Bob Reall scored the Friars' only tally on a pass from Paul Lagueux.

Bob Fox had 52 saves for RPI compared to 35 for Ed Hornstein of P.C. The Friars' record is now 5-4.

The summary:

RPI (13)

Robert Killian Named to Head Recreation Unit

Robert "Cy" Killian, new director of recreation in Pawtucket, is believed to be the youngest man to hold such a position in New England. In choosing Killian, only 26 years old, Mayor Reynolds gained an outstanding athlete as well as student for the post.

A graduate of St. Raphael Academy in 1944, Cy was a varsity basketball and baseball player for three years and All Rhode Island selection in both sports for two years. He was captain of his team in both sports in his senior year. In 1944, Cy was a big factor in St. Raphael winning its only league basketball championship. Cy was chosen at a guard position on the Eastern States Catholic basketball team after a tourney at Newport.

In the classroom, Cy was a good student, president of his junior and senior classes and a Barry Memorial Student athlete winner. The Daughters of the American Revolution honored him as the Blackstone Valley high-school boy of the year for his leadership, athletic and scholastic achievements in 1944. In that same year, the Providence Journal Honor Roll Award was bestowed upon him.

After two years of naval service in the South Pacific, he entered Providence College and graduated in 1950. A star in basketball and baseball while at the Dominican institution, Cy was signed to a contract by the N.Y. Yankees and farmed out to Newark. He served three years in the Yankees' farm system.

Northeasterns track forces had too much depth for Providence College yesterday and the Huskies romped to a 52-29 victory over the Friars in a dual meet at Hendricken Field.

The Husky Freshmen nearly matched the total of their varsity brethren as they scored a 49-32 triumph over the P.C. first-year men.

Northeasterns varsity team captured five firsts and swept all scoring places in the high jump and shot put. Bob Cline paced the Husky onslaught with nine points. He won the hurdles, placed second in the high jump and third in the shot put.

Ed Shea, the New England inter-collegiate two-mile champion, easily won his specialty in 9:50 and picked up another point with a third in the mile. The latter race was won with little difficulty by the Huskies' Dick Ollen, the former All-State distance star from Cranston. Ollen took over the lead from P.C.'s Chris Lohner two and one-half laps from home and won going away. The winning time was 4:34.

Lohner added five more points to the Friars' total by winning the 1000-yard run by 40 yards from the Huskies' Paul Fraser. He was clocked in 2:24.9.

P.C. Starts Slow But Gets Rolling In Second Half

Moran Is Tops Again For Friars; Saunders Gets 28 for Clark

By JOE McHENRY

Worcester, Mass.—The Providence College Friars scored their fourth straight victory, handing an upset-minded Clark quintet a 92-72 setback here last night.

The Friars had trouble getting rolling, but they pulled away for a comfortable victory in the second half. At times, they turned in some nifty fast breaks, but generally their play wasn't nearly as brilliant as they have shown in some other recent starts.

Bob Moran, who broke his one-season scoring mark this week against M.I.T., dropped in 24 points for the Friars. He put in several fine shots and scored on some nice driving setups. With tonight's total, Moran has 403 points for the year, one of the high marks among New England collegians.

Ralph Saunders, a rugged big man who led Clark's upset over P.C. last season, was the game's top scorer with 28 points. He gave the Friars plenty of trouble around the boards, teaming up with Andrew Vierstra, a 6-7½-inch center. Saunders kept Clark fairly close to the Friars in the first half, with his shooting and rebounds.

Once the Friars got out front, they started to play better basketball. But it wasn't as easy as they figured. Clark, which had won only one game this season, played some fine ball in several spots and made the Friars travel. Later the Friars rolled up the points, however, outclassing their smaller adversaries. Hank McQueeney, Tom Mullins and Bob Prendergast contributed some fine work for the Friars although Clark's defensive setup and P.C. inability to finish off their fast breaks cut into the Providence scoring, especially in the first half.

McQueeney made several brilliant baskets and Prendergast put in some of his hook shot specialties. Mullins, a former Worcester Commerce athlete, led some of the Friars' fast breaks, bringing the ball up court, and he scored 15 points. This was one of his best marks for the season. He played a spirited, driving game throughout.

A combination including Charlie Aquavia, Phil Lynch, Bill Quinlan, Jack Reynolds and starter Jack Durkin really broke things open in the third period. The Friars were 12 points to the good when they took over, at 58-46. Later the Friars led by 19, 68-49, at the period. Lynch did some nice ball handling in setting up with this combination. Moran came back into the game in the last period to go after his 22.4 average and finally made it although he missed several foul shots before he did. One of his baskets was the best of the night.

P.C. Lacks Drive

The Friars lacked their drive of recent games and couldn't seem to get untracked in the first half. Although they ran up 47 points, the Friars were not playing well and were failing to cover the Clark shooters around the basket. Saunders turned in a fine first half, scoring 18 points. Late in the first period, he led the drive that brought Clark back into contention after Providence had taken

College Twin Bill On Ice Tonight

Providence College winds up its home-and-home series with American International College tonight in a hockey game listed for 8:15 p.m. at the Auditorium. In a preliminary game Rhode Island University and Holy Cross will play at 7 p.m.

Like the Friars, the Ram and Crwusaders are playing informal schedules.

In their first meeting the Friars lost to A.I.C., 5-4, after leading, 3-0, in the first period and 4-2 in the second. The Providence team came through its 13-1 defeat at the hands of RPI almost unscathed. Dave Reilly received a cut across the nose, but is expected to be ready for tonight.

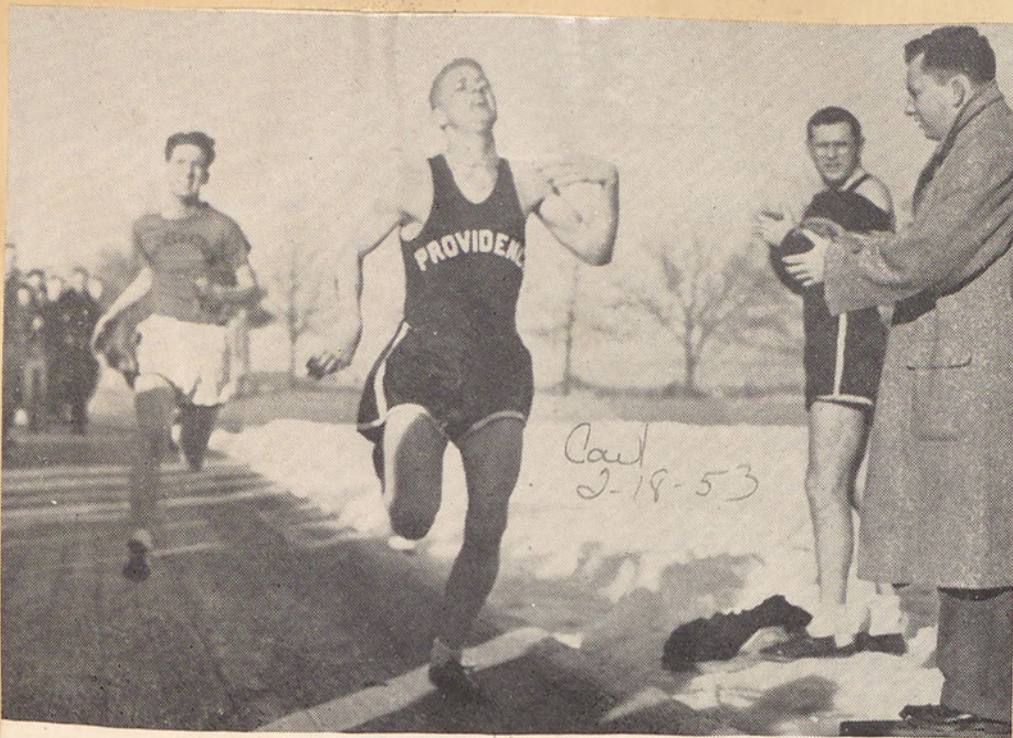

a seven-point lead. In the second period, Clark tied up the game twice and went ahead on two occasions.

The Providence College freshmen, leading 40-22 at halftime, scored an 87-54 decision over the Clark jayvees in the preliminary. Five of the young Friars hit double figures in the scoring column, with Don Moran registering 15 as all nine of the Friars tallied.

Huskies Topple Track Squad 52-29; Show Field Events Depth

By Jack Salesses

Providence College's varsity track team did not have sufficient depth to win their initial dual meet with Northeastern at Hendricken Field last Saturday. In fact the Friars were unable to score any of the field events. Although the Coatsmen copped 4 of the 8 firsts they were unable to follow through with the necessary scoring points. The Huskies won 52-29.

Bob Cline of Northeastern scored nine points to lead his teammates. Ed Shea, the New England Intercollegiate champion, won his race and added to the Huskies score in the mile as well. Dick Ollen outran P.C.'s Chris Lohner and won the mile run in 4:34.

Paul Methia was one of the Friars' first place winners when he nipped Dick Rose in the 600.

Lohner took the 1000-yd. run with ease from Paul Fraser of Northeastern. His time was 2:24.9.

Other P.C. runners to score firsts were Jack Fontaine in the 50 yd. dash and Dick Tiernan in the 300.

George Kanary of the Providence College Freshman team was a double winner in the Frosh meet. The Huskies also won this one 49-32.

PC Six Shade Springfield

By Bill Reardon

On February 11, the Friars took on the Gymnasts from Springfield College at the Ice Palace on North Main Street and beat them 5-4 after staving off a last period drive. Rosco Sweeney lit the light for the Friars at 1:12 on a pass out from behind the cage, the assist going to Monahan and McAleer.

Eddy Monahan cut the cords again at 7:31 on a pass from Bob Reall while teammate Dave Reilly was cooped for tripping. Bob Petit hit the large fish net with pipes at 12:02 on a beautiful forehand while the goalie was completely out of the play.

Bob Reall got his second point of the night as he banged one in to finish a beautiful play with line mates Sweeney and Monahan. Jim White took a center pass from Bob Petit to open the second period scoring and flipped it past the out-stretched hands of the goalie at 8:22, the other part of the assist going to Bill Charland for his part in the play. At this point

Springfield, its ire thoroughly aroused, retaliated and Wheeler took a pass from Thomas and Powers at 9:35 and blasted it into the upper right hand corner after Eddy Hornstein had fallen. Springfield opened the third period scoring quickly, the goal going into the twine at 0:52, pushed in by Powers and helped along by Thomas and Wheeler.

Actually it was a screen shot which Hornstein had no chance to see, much less get his glove on. Powers hit again at 1:34 on a fast break with Wheeler. Here the Friars came to and began to really hustle to hold the Gymnasts down. Cameron got away at 12:34 with teammates Hodgdon and Paul and blasted on by Eddy Hornstein.

Friday the thirteenth proved to be unlucky for the Friar Pucksters as they journeyed to the R.P. I. campus in Troy, N. Y. Playing in the huge R.P.I. arena, (where they draw 6000 for a college game) the locals were outclassed but not out-hustled in spite of the score, 13-1. The R.P.I. six, sprinkled liberally with Canadians, is one of the top teams in the nation, having beaten such teams as Princeton, Yale, St. Lawrence, and McGill University of Canada.

PHIL GRIFFIN

Last Tuesday evening I witnessed a remarkable event at the Rhode Island Auditorium along with about 1300 other rather noisy individuals. Of course, they had a right to be noisy for their incredible Friars were in the process of perpetrating the greatest American massacre since the Battle of Gettysburg. The Rhode Island Ram was sinking for the third time. He was being turned into a goat. He was being clobbered 92-66 by a supposedly inferior crew from Smith Hill.

As the evening progressed the pattern became evident. Vin Cuddy's zone defense was going to contain the high-scoring Rams to a meagre total of points. Sag Prendergast was on the way to playing the game of his life; Hank McQueeney had culminated his comeback; Tommy Mullins was checking Bill Baird to the point of frustration.

Jack Guy Won't Forget

Prendergast, McQueeney, Moran, Mullins, Durkin, Lynch, Reynolds, Aquavia, Quinlan, O'Connell, Keating: those are names Jack Guy won't forget till his dying day. They were all wonderful, from Captain Prendergast to the last man to come off the bench.

Sag was the big surprise. His superb play sparked the Friars as he out-scored 6'7" Art Helwig, 18-7, and outbattled the Rhody sophomore under the boards. While on the subject of rebounds, it might be opportune to mention Jack Durkin, who took over when Kenny Kerr was tragically injured early in the first quarter. Durkin was ferocious in the under-the-hoop donney-brooks, and on more than one occasion the boys in blue whirled around intent upon committing mayhem against the guy who had just played a tattoo on their head with his elbows. Kerr's injury fired the Friars to a fever pitch, but Durkin filled Kenny's shoes quite admirably.

Segura Licks McGregor?

Radar Robert, the Brooklyn Bombshell, contributed his usual high total to the P. C. tally, but fans were prone to ho-hum his efforts as they do when Stan Musial wins a batting title or Pancho Segura licks Ben McGregor, for it has come to pass that such things are to be expected. However, they didn't pass lightly over the efforts of Hank McQueeney, for when Hank is performing as he did on that momentous evening you just sit incredulous on the edge of your seat wondering when it's going to end. The Greeks have a word for it, but I don't at the moment.

It was quite a night. There ought to be a memorial constructed, a holiday declared, or something done to commemorate so great a victory. These boys achieved some measure of immortality with their inspired performance. It isn't often the ferocious Ram is as meek as a lamb.

Ride Crest Of Four Tilt Win Streak Friars Pull Average Over .500 Mark; Face Revengeful Gymnast Saturday

Cowl

By Marty Sandler

2-18-53

Vin Cuddy's high-flying knights of the hardwood face their second busy week in succession starting tonight when they seek revenge against Fairfield, then journey to Springfield Saturday for the last of the two game series with the Gymnasts.

In their past four games the Friars have been highly successful with wins over RPI, MIT, RIU, and Clark now bringing them over the ".500" mark for the first time since before Christmas.

Friars Seek Revenge

Both Fairfield and Springfield, however, are among the locals' tougher foes. Last January at the Fairfield Armory, Providence College's basketball forces suffered their "Dunkirk" when they lost a convincing 73-65 decision to the Stags. Since then, however, things have perked up considerably.

Springfield is always tough. The Maroons boast Allan Schutts, one of the East's top scorers. Last season, Schutts was second only to Ernie Beck, the great Penn ace in the scoring department. This year he is riding just as high, with 25 points against the Friars listed to his credit.

Watch Larry McClements

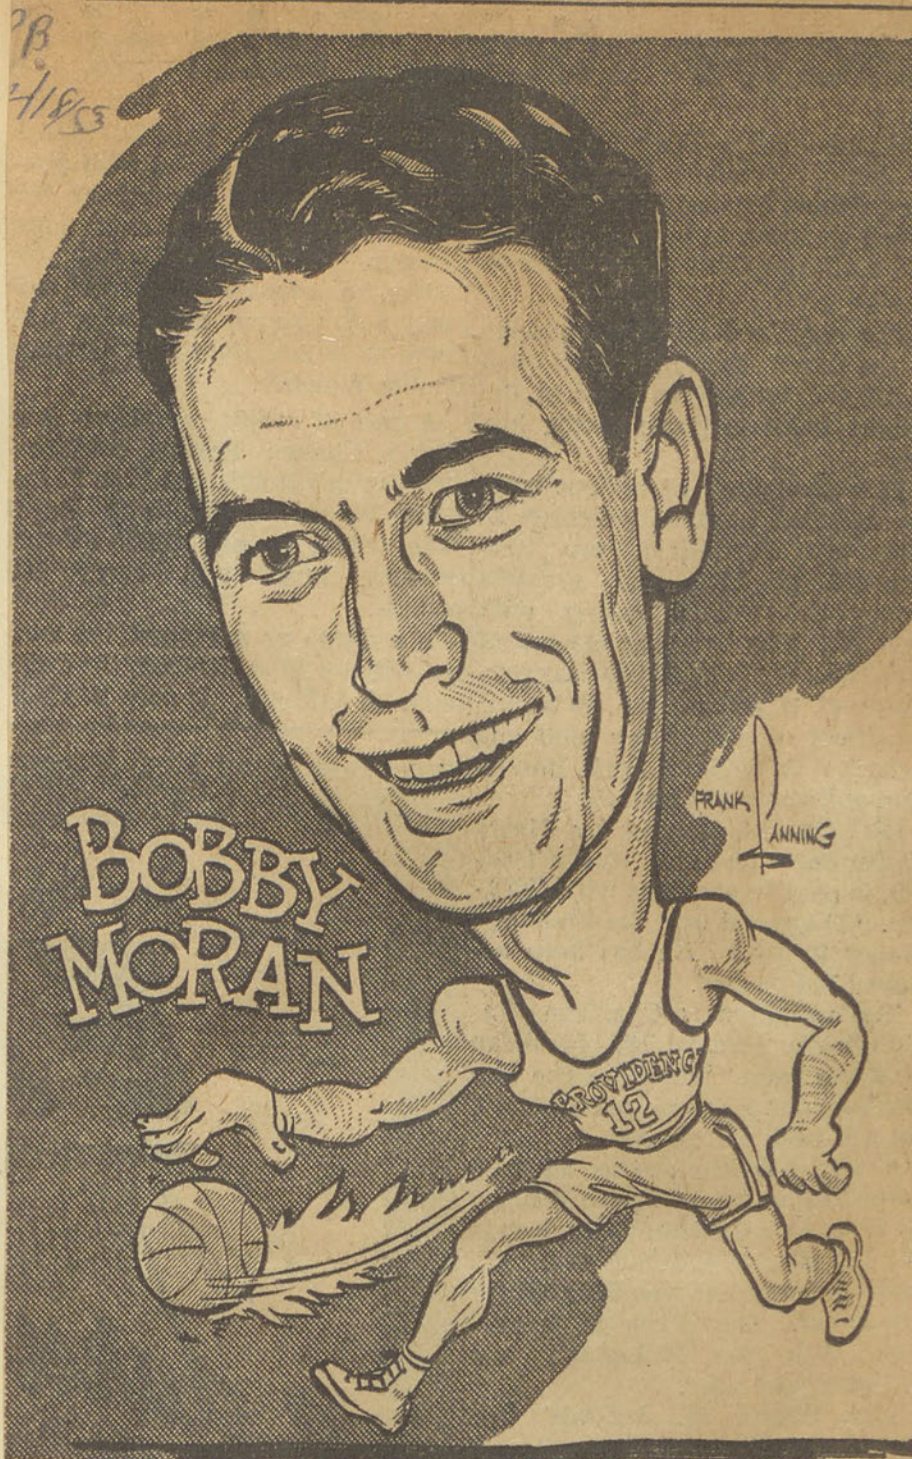

Springfield boasts another prolific scorer in little Larry McClements who tossed in 29 points in a recent contest with Holy Cross. In this case, it will be the Gymnasts who are looking for revenge, the Friars having won the first encounter.

Leader of the current Friar surge has been Hank McQueeney. Hank has led the highly successful fast break and has hit for high double figures on every occasion for the past month or so. Bobby Moran, of course continues to lead P. C. in the scoring department.

Kent County In Tourney Finals

Cowl — 2-18-53
As was predicted, the high flying Kent County Club advanced to the finals of the Club tournament sponsored by the Intramural Basketball League, by walloping the Worcester Club, 60-29. In other results the Kent club walloped Woonsocket, 48-29, paced by Clegg and Bristol with 13 points and a good defense which held Morley, their opponent's star, to 6 points. Woonsocket won over Providence, 53-31, paced by Darling with 17. And in the game of the week, Worcester edged Newport in the last three seconds of play, 42-41. Bill Mullins with 15 and Dave Flaherty with 12 were tops for the victors, while Kirby and Baker had 10 for Newport.

Rhode Island's Finest

This is the first in a series depicting the best of Rhode Island's athletes, competing in all sports.

Providence College has fielded some top-flight basketball squads, and some of her sons have ranked high in the annals of the court game, but Bobby Moran holds the record for scoring in one season, which he established last year with 379 points as a sophomore. That broke the record for a season's scoring at the Dominican school set by his immediate predecessor, Jim Schlimm. Jim was the first to score more than 1000 points in his collegiate career at the Smith Hill institution. Bobby has passed his own mark for a single season with 425 points and still has three games to play. With more than 800 points, he's a cinch to crack Jim's mark, and set the all-time scoring mark for a Friar during his career.

What is more to the point, Bobby is not only an offensive star, but plays an excellent all-round game. His coach rates him as the best little man now operating in New England, and we are not inclined to disagree.

P.C. Five Plays Fairfield Here Tonight

Brown Meets Uconns at Storrs, Rams Visit New Hampshire

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars hope to avenge an earlier setback when they meet Fairfield tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Mount Pleasant High. All three Rhode Island college quintets will be in action, with Brown traveling to the University of Connecticut at Storrs and the University of Rhode Island meeting New Hampshire at Durham.

The Friars have been playing a consistently effective brand of ball lately, winning their last four games and six of their last seven. The Stags took the Friars into camp, 73-65, at Waterbury this season. Last year the series was split, PC winning 64-58, and being edged out, 68-67, in the second meeting.

Fairfield turned in some remarkable shooting recently, hitting on nearly 50 per cent of its shots as they defeated Newark Rutgers, 92-53. Bob Gerwein, who shared scoring honors with Bobby Markovic in the victory over the Friars, paced Fairfield against Newark Rutgers with 22 points. The Stags scored 53 points in the second half. New Britain topped them in a close one since.

Providence has been a high-scoring team of late, with Bobby Moran and Hank McQueeney setting the pace. McQueeney's activity has given the Friars better scoring opportunities and the team has picked up generally. The loss of Kenny Kerr may be felt more heavily as the season moves along. However, Jack Durkin has done a good job since he moved up to the starting team.

The Fairfield-Providence game resumes the old coaching rivalry between the Stags' Jimmy Hanrahan and the Friars' Vin Cuddy, both products of the Naugatuck Valley area in Connecticut.

Against Clark, the Friars' starting team of Moran, McQueeney, Tommy Mullins, Bob Prendergast and Durkin got things rolling, but some of the reserves, led by Phil Lynch, put the game out of reach. Markovic, Gerwein, Stan Suchenski and Jackie O'Connell have been the most effective of the Stags.

The Providence College Freshmen meet Dean Academy at 7 o'clock at Mount Pleasant, preceding the PC-Fairfield contest.

Friars, Bears Find Hoop Going Tough

The University of Rhode Island won the only basketball game of three for Rhody college teams last night as scoring totals soared and, as a result, records fell on all sides.

The Rams, by running up 28 points in the fourth quarter, took New Hampshire, 93-75, in a Yankee Conference game at Durham. But all else was dour for the home side.

Providence College lost to Fairfield University by a count of 110-88 at Mount Pleasant High School and Brown was walloped by the University of Connecticut, 91-59, at Storrs.

In each case, a "big" scoring performance more or less did the trick. For the Rams, Bill Baird got 30 points, thus moving into third position among Rams' all-time scorers. The Wildcats' Bill Pappas set a record for his school with 31 points.

Connecticut early in the first quarter. The Huskies simply had too much skill and reserve strength and were in front, 45-23, at the half.

The Friars, who had won six of their last seven games, appeared to be in good position at the end of the first quarter, trailing by a count of 28-22. But the Stags then came up with an uncommonly hot hand and ran away with it. At that, the Friar's 88 points was a respectable total, but in this case it was just the highest total they ever got in losing.

Stags Not at Bay

Two other Stags scored more than 20 points. Bobby Gerwein got 25 and Norb Fahey hit exactly 20. Bobby Moran and Hank McQueeney each scored 20 points for the Friars

P.C.'s All-Freshman Line Steals Show in Arena Doubleheader

Providence College's all-freshmen first line stole the show last night as the Friars turned the tables on American International College, 7-3, in the final game of their home-and-home series at the Auditorium.

The visitors had taken the first game in Springfield, late last month by a 5-4 score after trailing 3-0 in the first period.

A crowd of 250 persons witnessed the hockey action last night which also included a game between informal sextets from Holy Cross and Rhode Island University. The Crusaders won out, 1-0, at 1:12 of a sudden death overtime after playing three 12-minute periods of scoreless hockey.

The Friars yearling line accounted for all but one of their team's goals and all but three of their 11 assists. Bobby Reall, former all-stater from La Salle, poked home three goals and assisted on two others. Center John Sweeney had two goals and three assists. And rightwinger, Ed Monahan, scored once and helped set up three other goals.

Defenseman Tom McAleer also had two assists to his credit. His teammate on the backline, Dave Reilly picked up one assist. Reilly played with a plastic mask covering his nose, which was injured last week in the game against Rensselaer Polytechnic, but he was in top form and did a great job of checking the losers' offensive efforts.

The winners led, 3-1, at the end of the first period and 4-2 at the end of the second. Don Geary and Red McDonough, the most stylish performers on the ice for the losers, also contributed their goals, Geary netting two and McDonough one.

Neither goalie was especially busy. Capt. Lou Astorino of A.I.C. had 15 saves and Ed Hornstein, former Mt. Pleasant all-stater, had 14 in the PC nets.

Bob Dolan, a junior from Walpole, Mass., pushed home his own rebound from in close against goalie Jerry Loeber and ended the Ram-Crusader battle. Loeber, a New Yorker, was filling in for the losers' regular net-minder Al Hunter, who was out of action with illness. Loeber hadn't played in the nets in four years but performed adequately.

Saves were 15 for Loeber and 7 for Ed Buchan, the Crusaders goalie. Part of the Ram's trouble in scoring could be traced to the efforts of Vic Rimkus, burly Crusader defenseman and star lineman on the football team.

Fairfield Five Pours It on for 110-88 Victory

Stags' Sophs, Juniors
Click All the Way,
Smash 4 Records

By JOE McHENRY

The Fairfield University Stags cracked four of their scoring records and disillusioned some 450 Providence College rooters as they defeated the Friars, 110 to 88, last night at Mount Pleasant High School.

Coach Jimmy Hanrahan, pleased with the crowning achievement of his tutoring career, said his team had been moving the ball well, breaking at the right time and shooting terrifically.

The total is the highest ever run up by a Providence College opponent and the most points the Friars have scored in a losing game. Previously, Rhode Island had scored 108 and Holy Cross had tallied 106, for other high marks.

The Stags, who are principally a sophomore and junior aggregation, set school records by scoring 110 points and 43 field goals. Stan Suchenski registered the other two records with 36 points and 14 field goals.

It was a game of games as far as Fairfield was concerned. The Stags did practically everything right, hitting on 43 of 76 shots for a percentage of 56.5, an exceedingly high average even for a "hot" team. They were smart and steady early looking for openings and later opened with some fast breaks and excellent shooting, both of the regular and off-balance variety, and from close up and outside.

Although scoring 88 points, enough to win may an ordinary game, the Friars trailed from the first quarter. The gap, which was six points at 28-22 during the first period, grew wider as the game progressed. Providence, despite several spurts, never could close in on the Stags, who had an 11-point lead, 53-42, at the halftime and from 15 to 17 points during the second half.

Suchenski played an outstanding game for the Stags. Bobby Gerwein, Norb Fahey and Bobby Mor-kovic also played well. with Gerwein scoring 25 points and Fahey 23. Jackie O'Connell chipped in 10.

Bobby Moran and Hank McQueeney each scored 20 points for the Friars.

The total points were the most ever registered in a game involving the Friars. Moran boosted his scoring to 425 points for the year. The Stags scored on nearly two-thirds of their shots during the second half, with 21 baskets in 33 shots.

Jack Underwood, a native of Syracuse, N.Y., scored 43 points as undefeated Dean Academy edged the Providence College Freshmen, 96 to 95, in the preliminary. The victory was Dean's 13th.

Jack Durkin's Baskets Tip Springfield, 87-83

Score Is Tied 16 Times During Ragged Game; Schutts Nets 23

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Springfield, Mass. — Two overtime goals by Jack Durkin boosted Providence College to an 87-83 basketball victory over Springfield College yesterday in a ragged game in which five players were forced out on fouls.

The Friars almost took the decision in regulation time, but two foul shots by the Gymnasts' Bud Vye tied the score at 79-79 with less than a minute to play, necessitating the extra session.

Durkin's payoff baskets came early in the overtime, and a foul conversion by Jim Prendergast gave them an 84-79 lead they nursed successfully to the end. But during the regulation game, no more than three points separated the teams, except for the opening minutes. The Friars led, 22-20, at the end of the first quarter and the teams were tied, 42-42 and 60-60, at the end of the second and third. In all, the score was tied 16 times.

P.C. appeared to be harder hit by the personal-foul casualties, although Springfield lost three of the five. Bobby Moran, the team's best scorer, fouled out soon after the fourth quarter had started and Tom Mullin, who contributed 11 points went out just before the end of regulation play. In addition, Prendergast, who had committed four personal fouls in the first half, was kept on the bench for almost all of the second half.

The Gymnasts, on the other hand, were at full strength until the very end of the third quarter, when Frank Janusewski committed his fifth foul. He had scored only a foul shot toward his team's cause. Larry McClements, who scored 15, lasted until the last minute of the fourth quarter and Ed Morrison, a sub, fouled out during the overtime period.

Alan Schutts, the highest scorer in Springfield's history, again led his team, this time with 23 points, including 13 fouls. Vye had 17. With the early departure of Moran, Hank McQueeney assumed the Friars' scoring burden and came through with 19 points. But Moran, in spite of his exit, matched teammate Durkin for runnerup honors with 17. Predergast scored 13 during his limited action.

The victory was P.C.'s fourth straight over Springfield and the second this season, snapping a four-game winning streak by the Gymnasts.

P.C., Brown, R.I. Fives Clash for State Crown

By JOE McHENRY

The University of Rhode Island Rams and the Providence College Friars each chalked up an important victory in a basketball thriller Saturday as the Rams defeated Connecticut (82-80) and the Friars conquered Springfield (87-83) in overtime.

This week winds up the race for the Rhode Island intercollegiate championship in a round robin among Brown, P.C. and Rhody. The Friars and the Bruins meet on Wednesday night at Mount Pleasant High. Providence pays its annual visit to Rodman Hall, home of the Rams, on Friday night and Brown faces Rhody there on Saturday.

Holy Cross, which practically has the NCAA tournament bid for New England in its pocket, picked up its 15th victory against the Bruins Saturday night. The Crusaders have won their last five in a row and are back in top form, playing a smooth, confident game. The Cross is the class of the New England district and expected to square up its lone defeat by a N.E. team when it meets Dartmouth on Tuesday at Worcester.

Setback for Uconns

Rhody's victory over the Uconns was an upset in one sense, yet the Rams have always been tough for their Connecticut foes. The series has been split the last seven seasons and most of the games have gone down to the wire, similiarly to Saturday's encounter. It was a tough blow to Coach Hugh Greer because the Uconns had figured to land a tourney bid and Rhody offered the only serious obstacle in the late stages of the season.

After Fairfield's high-scoring performance, the Friars weren't conceded much chance of continuing their hex over Springfield. They received some help from an unexpected source as Jack Durkin not only did a fine job of clearing the boards but also was a factor in the scoring as well. Coach Vin Cuddy says Durkin played his best game for the Friars, even better than the job he did in the Rhode Island victory.

Murgo Sets Record

Durkin scored the tie-breaking basket in the overtime, dribbling in from the corner for a jump shot and got another on a combination with Hank McQueeney.

The red-hot struggle between Burrillville and La Salle in the schoolboy hockey semi-final playoffs will continue tonight at the Auditorium, where the teams meet at 7:30 p.m. in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game on tonight's card has Providence College meeting Springfield College at 8:30 p.m.

La Salle has a one-game edge over Burrillville in the best-of-three series. In the second meeting Friday, the teams battled through three overtime periods to a scoreless deadlock.

If Burrillville wins tonight, the same two teams will play tomorrow night at 9 p.m. in the third and deciding game. If La Salle wins tonight, it will advance into the final round against the winner of the Mount St. Charles-Hope semi-final series, which is tied at one game each. The third and deciding game of that series will be played tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

The championship finals will begin on Friday night with the winners in the semi-final series meeting for the title and the losers meeting in a consolation series. The finals also will be on the best-of-three basis.

The Friars scored a 5-to-4 decision over Springfield recently and have won five out of nine games for the season under the direction of Dick Rondeau, former Dartmouth captain.

The Providence lineup will include Ed Hornstein in the nets, Tom McAleer and Dave Reilly on defense, with John Sweeney, Ed Monahan and Bob Reale on the first line and Bob Petite, Bill Charland and Red O'Sullivan on the second. Dave Brinko has been playing fine hockey for the Gymnasts, who also are playing on an informal basis this season.

Rams, Friars Hit Peak in Weekend Tilts

Congleton and Durkin
Are Standouts as R.I.
Fives Register Upsets

By JOE McHENRY

Individuals alone don't win basketball games. But players sometimes get fired up and turn in a standout performance when least expected. The Rhode Island Rams and the Providence College Friars had a couple of cases like that in their surprising victories over Connecticut and Springfield.

Even the coaches can't explain the Friars' decisive victory over Rhody in terms of the Rams brilliant play against Connecticut. Nor does it work in reverse, for the Friars, who beat Springfield and bottled up Alan Schutts, were the same players who were also decisively defeated by Fairfield two nights earlier.

When Kenny Kerr was hurt, coach Vin Cuddy took Durkin aside and told him the position was his. Jack turned in a fine job against Rhody but he's been pressing, trying hard to make good. He's been outstanding at times but he hasn't hit a consistent level. Off his college activity, Durkin has been a good board man and a low scorer.

Saturday both Congleton and Durkin hit peak performances. Congleton was the fellow who was frequently coming out of the scrambles with the ball in his duels with the UConns' Larry Quimby and setting Rhody's offensive game in motion. Billy Baird, Dave Stenhouse and Ray Rossi took it from there but if it wasn't for Freddie, the results would have been a great deal different.

Key Man

Durkin was both a scorer and a rebounder against the Gymnasts. Credit should go to Bob Prendergast and Jack Reynolds for their defensive roles but without Durkin, the Friars would never have made it close. Coach Cuddy says Jackie played the way he thought he might when he first saw him as a schoolboy at Pawtucket West. It was easily Jackie's best effort for the Friars.

Of course, neither Congleton nor Durkin won the game by himself. You can't do that today. But the assistance of an inspired player helps a team over the rough spots. The entire Rhody personnel did a good job, with Dan Dunn, Rollie Kubiskey, Slick Pina and Art Helwig also helping out.

It looks like quite a series between Brown, Rhody and the Friars this week. Brown, with Lou Murgio and Eddie Kincade hitting, may be ready for a repeat of their earlier decision over PC when the teams meet Wednesday night at Mount Pleasant High. The Rams and the Friars play Friday night at Rodman Hall while Brown and URI meet on Saturday, also at Kingston. But you can't count on anything in this state competition.

Charland, Monahan, Reilly Pace Friars With 3 Goals Each

By JOHN MAYNARD

In the second game of last night's doubleheader, Providence College whipped Springfield for the second time this season with Billy Charland, Dave Reilly and Ed Monahan, each scoring twice for the winners. The score was 8-2 as against 5-4 in their first meeting.

2648 See Tilts

A paying crowd of 2648 persons attended the crucial schoolboy contest and about 1000 were on hand for the game that followed between the two informal collegiate sextets.

P. C. Travels

The Friars gained a 2-0 lead in the first period, increased it to 5-1 in the second period and then coasted in. Jim White and Bobby Reall also scored for the winners. John Lucy and Bill Brown scored for the Gymnasts.

Penalties—O'Sullivan 5:40; Sweeney 10:00.

Officials—Lesieur, Rivers.

OFF AT THE GUN . . . will be this mile relay team comprised of Paul Methia, Dave Keough, Dean Slocum, and Dick Tiernan. Practice sessions are now being held daily, and the team will be ready to carry the baton when the season opens.

McQueeney's Court Comeback Proves To Sceptics That Nice Guys Do Win

Low 2-25-53

By Martin Sandler

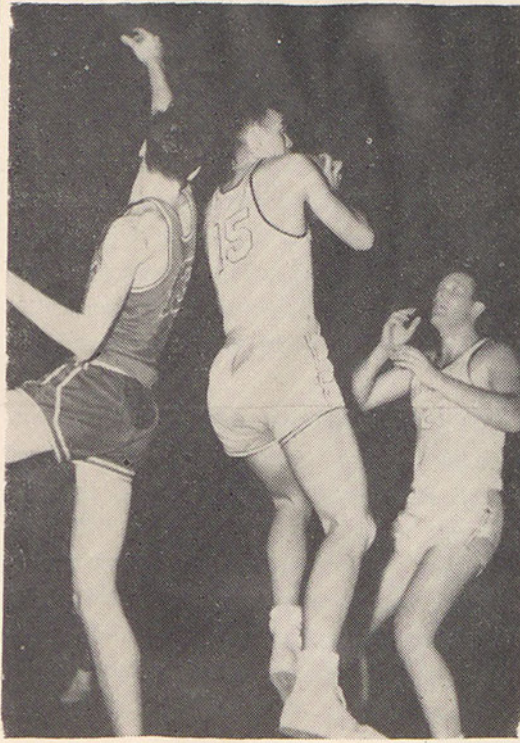

As the basketball season draws to a close, and as Friar supporters look back on a season featured by a 92-66 massacre of Rhode Island University, the thoughts of this writer are drawn to the accomplishments of two of the finest athletes in Providence College history.

Make no mistake about it, whatever success has been accomplished on the hardwood this season has been strictly a team effort. The laurels for this basketball year should be equally divided between such performers as "Sag" Prendegast whose play in the aforementioned R.I.U. game shall not be easily forgotten, Ken Keer who gave until he could give no more, Tom Mullins, Phil Lynch, Jack Durkin, Jack Reynolds, and so on right down the line.

Moran, McQueeney Spearheads

However, there can be no question that the club was spearheaded by the brilliant play of Bobby Moran and Hank McQueeney. Moran making headlines is nothing new. Fans have become accustomed to his brilliant play to the extent that his twenty points, or better, per game are actually taken for granted.

The young man who breaks a P. C. scoring record every time he tallies is certainly the greatest scorer that this institution has ever known. But as has been said before, we all knew it all along.

Thus, it is with Henry Francis McQueeney that we are concerned here. There is no question that this has not been an easy season for Hank. As the year opened he found himself in the unenviable position of being a ball player definitely on the spot. After enjoying a sensational Freshman season, he definitely had his troubles last year. In fact, there were those of the opinion that he would never become the star he had once shown such promise of being.

Hank Fulfills Promise

Yet he has become that star and then some. In his last ten games he has hit double figures. He has passed and dribbled with even greater finesse than he displayed in his Freshman year. I am certain that if records of assists were officially kept, Henry McQueeney would easily own that record.

As I have said before, it has not been easy. Yet long hours of practice and patience have paid off handsomely. Somebody once said that one has to be heartless to win in sports. It is definitely gratifying to have men like Henry McQueeney around to prove that nice guys do win.

Providence Quintet To Help Dedicate Keaney Gymnasium

Col 2-25-53

By Martin Sandler

The Providence College basketball quintet will play an important part in the opening of the new "Frank Keaney Gymnasium" next December, it has been announced by the University of Rhode Island Athletic Department. The Friars will help the Rams open their new gym when the Cuddymen tangle with arch-rival Brown University on that date.

In the second game of that evening R.I.U. will meet Connecticut University. Thus the Friars will open their 1953-54 season meeting their biggest opponent. The game will not be counted in the Rhode Island Intercollegiate Championship series and thus the Friars and the Bruins will meet three times next year.

Named For Keaney

The new $1,700,000 gymnasium is named in honor of Frank W. Keaney, coach and athletic director at R.I.U. since 1920. The gym will contain Athletic Department offices, officials' room, a medical room, and three rooms for visiting teams. There will be three basketball courts on the main floor and the building will contain 1000 lockers and thirty shower baths. The structure will have a spectator capacity of 4,000 people for basketball games, and will hold 6,000 for assemblies.

It is indeed fitting and proper that the gym is named for Frank Keaney. He is regarded by most veteran observers as the greatest coach in New England history. It was under his tutelage that the Rams introduced the "razzle-dazzle" era of basketball to the nation. Keaney-coached R.I.U. squads scored more than 100 points on no less than 27 occasions.

FRANK KEANEY

1945-46 Team Best

The 1945-46 team was Keaney's best. In the National Invitation Tournament his team defeated Bowling Green 82-79 on the strength of Ernie Calverly's 55 foot basket that tied the score with two seconds remaining. The Rams ultimately lost a heartbreaking final to Kentucky, 46-45.

Three Keaney-coached All-Americans and their all-time scoring totals are Calverly with 1868 points, Stan Stutz with 1730, and Chet Jaworski with 1426.

Born on June 6

Keaney was born on June 6, 1886, in Boston and was graduated from Bates College in 1911. At Bates he was a baseball star, batting .480 and stealing 38 bases for a college record. After graduation he signed with the Chicago White Sox and was farmed out to Des Moines where a sore arm ended his pro baseball career.

Besides coaching basketball at R.I.U., Keaney has coached football, baseball, and track. For several years he taught chemistry and was regarded as an extremely effective lecturer.

PHIL-INS

Tables Turned On Trinity After Pious Screaming & Indignation About Sticka

Cowl

PHIL GRIFFIN

2-25-53

A ramble along the hardwood. . . People in Hartford are wondering if Trinity recruited Jack Preissner, who starred for Hall High School a couple of years back, after all their indignant and pious screaming when Charlie

Griffin

Sticka, brightest football prospect to wear the Blue and Gold in many moons, signalled intentions of matriculating to Notre Dame. 'Taint true. About Preissner, I mean. Jack left without pressure from any quarter, and for reasons of his own. This isn't written to get dear old Trin-i-tee off the hook, just to shed a little light on the matter. It might have helped had there been a little more illumination on the Sticka situation before Dan Jesse leveled all sorts of hysterical charges against Notre Dame, charges he later almost choked on. By the way, Trinity pulled a little stunt on Notre Dame, you know. Matt Wallace, currently starring for the Bantam five, started his collegiate career out at South Bend. . . .

Mr. Cuddy lamented the Friar's lack of defensive talent at the outset of the current campaign, and this shortcoming was certainly brought to light in the bewildering exhibition against Hanrahan's Stags from Fairfield. Was this the same outfit that frustrated every move of the Rhody Rams to score, when even Connecticut couldn't handle the attack thrown at them by the Boys in Blue? Must have been some other guys. . . .

Jack Durkin Steps Into Footlights

Jack Durkin stepped into the footlights when the boys put on their annual show up in Springfield, spoiling the day for another homecoming crowd. Seems that John played quite a game, as the Friars managed to do their duty once again. . . . Talk about up-and-down ball clubs!

They had better be "up" tonight and Friday. In the first place, we owe Brown a little something for that debacle over at Marvel, and in the second place, Rhody figures they owe us a little something for getting their heads chopped off as soon as they stuck their necks out of Kingston. . . .

Moran and McQueeney are getting top billing lately as the leading exponents of court magic hereabouts. Hank "Houdini" McQueeney, and Bobby "Blackstone" Moran: couldn't be more appropriate. Could call 'em the Gold Dust Twins, or something equally romantic, but these two are unlike as their "Brooklynese" and "Newtonese" "dialects," . . . except in their desire to win. . . .

Quinlan Like Battleship In Bath Tub

Oops! Almost forgot to mention Buff Quinlan's startling performance against Fairfield. He stood out like a battleship in a bath tub. Should have devoted at least a column, I suppose, to such an inspired performance by an obscure substitute. . . .

Just points out the fact that the subs don't get the publicity they deserve. Jack Durkin warmed the bench before he took over for Ken Kerr, Charlie Aquavia has shone on several occasions, Jack Reynolds has been the MVP in a couple of games, and so on down the line. Phil Lynch, New York City's gift to the Black and White, is the most unjustly unheralded of the lot.

REVENGEFUL FRIARS OUT TO BEAT BEARS

TONIGHT'S GAME WILL BE PLAYED AT MOUNT PLEASANT

State Championship To Be Decided In Game Friday Against R. I. Rams

Cow 2-25-53

By Martin Sandler

Providence College's high flying basketball quintet, victorious in seven of their last nine encounters, plays its most important game of the season tonight when the Friars play host to arch-rival Brown University at the Mt. Pleasant Gym.

The Cuddymen, could turn the season into a success with a win over the Bruins tonight. As all Friar supporters painfully realize, Brown has been extremely succesful against P. C. in the past. In the first meeting of the two clubs this season, Brown was victorious 70-66. A win for the Friars would also give them an excellent chance of winning the Rhode Island Intercollegiate Title.

Coach Vin Cuddy will use his regular starting lineup of Bob Moran, Hank McQueeney, Bob Prendergast, Tom Mullins, and Jack Durkin as the

BASKETBALL TICKETS

Students will not be admitted to the Providence College-Brown basketball game on Wednesday, February 25, without the Student Activity Book. Gates will be locked as soon as spectator capacity has been reached.

Friars will go all out to crack the Bruin jinx. Coach Bob Morris of Brown will probably start Bill Arnold, Joe Kinkadd, Joe Christopher, Pete Pemberton and Lou Murgo.

The game could well turn into a scoring contest between Murgo and Moran, both of whom have set new scoring records for their schools this season.

On Friday the Friars will end their official season when they journey to Kingston to meet the Rhode Island University Rams. The Cuddymen played the greatest brand of ball, in the long series between the two schools, when they completely humiliated the Rams 92-66 in their first encounter this season. It goes without saying that Rhode Island will be out for revenge on their own court.

Pucksters Bury Gymnasts And Aces; Tackle Clarkson

Springfield Downed 8-2, A. I. C. 7-3; Meet Tufts At Lynn Arena Friday

By Bill Reardon Cowl
2-25-53

Yesterday morning the Friars packed their skates and embarked on a ten hour bus trip to Pottsdam, N. Y., where they take on the "Potty Putters", better known as the Clarkson sextet, tonight in the mammoth Arena. The Friars will be at full strength for the game, Dave Reilly having gotten over his broken nose and Bob Reall nursing a cut over his left eye, but ready for duty. The Clarkson six is powerful anywhere and more so on their home ice where they know every board. They have beaten such teams as Middlebury, Hamilton, Springfield and A.I.C. at home. The game promises to be an uphill fight for the Friars, but the starting line up of net-tender Eddy Hornsetin, Dave Reilly and Tom McAleer on defense, and the high scoring Freshmen line of Reall, Sweeney and Monahan, may prove too much for the Putters.

Play Tufts Friday

Again on Friday the sextet stows its gear aboard a bus and travels to the Lynn Arena where they take on the still powerful Future Doctors, better known as Tufts.

The Friars have already tasted the bitter fruit of defeat at the hands of the M.D's when they were beaten at the Rhode Island Auditorium 8-4. That was early in the season however, and the Friars have come a long way since that fateful night of December 5, when they skated on to the ice, four of the first six wearing the Friar jersey for only the second time. Tufts will be tough but they should not be too much for the fighting Friars.

Defeat A.I.C.

On February 17, 1953 the Friars took to the ice at the Ice Palace on North Main Street to avenge an earlier season defeat at the hands of the Aces from A.I.C. P. C. got the jump early in the game when Reall flipped into the upper left corner on a beautiful pass from Dave Reilly.

A.I.C. came right back when Geary picked up the puck at the blue line and carried all the way as Rosco Sweeney was sidelined for an illegal check. Rosco came back at 7:00 to redeem himself as Eddy Monahan centered from the board and Rosco blasted it by the net tender. Reall closed the scoring for P. C. when he flipped a rebound in when he caught the goalie looking elsewhere. To open for the Friars in the second period McAleer took a pass out at the blue line and fired and in it went at 3:01.

Parade of Penalties

The rest of the period was an endless parade of penalties except for the goal by McDonough and Geary at 10:35. The defensive work of Jim White in particular and of the Friars in general stood out during this period. The Friars started fast in the third period when Sweeney took a pass from McAleer and drove it into the upper right hand corner at 0.55.

Eddy Monahan broke into the scoring column at 4:09 on a back handed flip into the upper center of the cage while involved in a melee with Rosco Sweeney and Reall. Don Geary closed the scoring for A.I.C. at 11:45 when he took a long pass and soloed down the ice and beat Eddy Hornstein.

Gymnasts Bumped 8-2

When the Gymnasts came to Providence to avenge an earlier defeat at the hands of the Friars on last Monday night they were unsuccessful. The Friar's version of Rocket Richard Bill Charland started things off at 11:45 on a gang attack with Petit and White.

Dave Reilly thought it more fun to play with your hands than with a stick and got two minutes for handling the puck. Dave came back at 13:48 however and garnered his first goal of the night. White opened the second period when he hooked one in from the side the assist going to Petit and Charland.

At this point the Gymnasts thought it time, so Brown took a pass from Thomas after winning the face off and drove it into the large fish net with pipes at 6:27. Dave Reilly picked up his second point of the night at 12:50 on a solo effort that saw Springfield defense men falling over one another as Dave flashed through with some of the best stick handling seen this year.

Two goals by Monahan, one by Reall, and one by Charland finished off the scoring for the Friars for the night. They had racked-up another victory by an 8-2 count.

Bob Morris' Brown Quintet Scores 69-58 Upset Over Providence

Half and Half: Phil Lynch, No. 11, of Providence College and Ray Malkiewicz, No. 41, of Brown, each had 50 per cent of the ball in this tussle during last night's basketball game at Mount Pleasant. And neither wanted to give up his share. Other Brown players are Ed Kincade, at left, and Bill Arnold, No. 33. Other Friar is Hank McQueeney.

Bruins' Defensive Work Makes the Difference

Lou Murgo Paces Big Victory; Moran Held Out and Down

By JOE McHENRY

Coach Bob Morris of Brown achieved another notable upset as the Bruins scored a 69-to-58 victory over the highly favored Providence College Friars before a capacity crowd last night at Mount Pleasant High School.

Much credit for the fine victory must go to the veteran Brown coach. Although the Friars played in erratic fashion, the Bruins played it smart and their defensive alignments bothered and upset the PC team, which had been a high-scoring outfit of late.

The Friars looked for a fairly easy victory on their "home" court but never quite played like winners even though they led, 33-31, at half-time. Providence didn't make the most of its early opportunities and the Friars couldn't score later when they were pressing and Brown was inching away from them.

Brown's leader once again was Lou Murgo, who acted as a decoy at times and at others was very much in the center of things. Billy Arnold, Eddie Kincade, Ray Malkiewicz, Norm Sprinthall and Charlie Judkins all chipped in with some top-flight work.

Indian Sign

Brown has a definite Indian sign on the PC basketball forces, for last night was Brown's 10th victory in the last 11 games. The Bruins apparently play better ball against the Friars than they do in some of their other contests. The records bear that out.

The Bruins used a variation of a man-to-man defense, which threw off the Friars' set maneuvering and forced their ace, Bobby Moran, to shoot from the outside.

Moran and Hank McQueeney have been the key operators for the Friars. Last night they salvaged two field goals between them, with McQueeney going scoreless from the floor. The Friars didn't have anybody to bolster up their attack, though Tommy Mullins, Phil Lynch, Jack Durkin and Jack Reynolds helped a little.

Brown went nine points ahead, 21-12, in the first quarter, with PC doing everything with the ball except scoring. However, the Friars clicked in the second quarter after Lynch had gone in, whittled the lead down gradually and went ahead on a basket by Bill Quinlan on a nice setup from Lynch.

Mullins scored the Friars' last five points of the half and nearly started a rhubarb when he inadvertently went into the back court handling the ball. The gym was in an uproar during much of the first half, which was played at a spirited, aggressive pace. The Friars tied the score with six seconds left in the half on Mullins' free throw and he pitched in a basket out of a scramble two seconds before the buzzer.

Five minutes along in the third quarter, PC led, 39-37, and then 41-37 before Brown got hot. Murgo, Arnold and Kincade figured in the first spurt, which put the Bruins in front, 44-43. The Friars tied it up at 44-all and went ahead for the last time at 46-44 on two free throws by McQueeney. Malkiewicz put in a pair of nice jump shots, Arnold scored from underneath and Kincade added a free shot for a five-point Brown advantage, 51-46.

While the Friars pressed and then were unable to take advantage, the Bruins played a possession style of game through most of the final quarter, waiting for a good shot. The Friars fouled and the Bruins converted the free throws. They scored 10 of their last 16 points from the foul line.

Brown Frosh Win

The score was 60-57 in Brown's favor with 2:50 remaining after Moran had driven in for a basket from the corner. The Bruins dribbled around and killed the clock for a good part of the last three minutes, with Murgo doing an excellent job.

Moran scored seven points, well below his 23-point average, and fouled out for one of the few times in his collegiate career. Springthall played opposite him and turned in a fine job. Mullins was the Friars' most-effective defensive man. He and Lynch were PC's leading scorers with 10 points each.

The fast tempo slackened up as the Bruins got the upper hand and the PC rooters were closemouthed but still hopeful. As in the first meeting, Brown made itself felt from the foul line, picking up 29 points. Each team scored 20 baskets.

The Brown Frosh gave their coach, Jack Heffernan, a birthday present by scoring an 83-to-66 victory over Providence College Frosh in the preliminary. PC's Gus Westerhuis was the top scorer with 20 points. Phil Gerould had 18 for the Bruins.

Brown, Friars Resume Cage Rivalry Tonight

The second round of the intrastate college basketball series starts tonight with Brown playing Providence College at Mount Pleasant High School.

Game time for the varsity is 8:30 o'clock, with the schools' freshmen teams playing the preliminary, beginning at 7.

As of now, the title race is completely baffling. There has been no "form." Each club has won one and lost one. Brown has defeated the Friars, Rhode Island's Rams have downed Brown and the Friars have defeated the Rams.

So with that to go on, there is no favorite in the second time around. The series will be completed this weekend when Rhode Island plays the Friars on Friday night and Brown on Saturday.

Brown took a 70-66 victory over P.C. earlier this season, but this time the Friars have the advantage of playing on their "home" court. Most coaches figure this gives a team a 10-point advantage, so it may work in favor of the Friars.

Only three times in the 34-game history of the series have the teams played on a court other than Marvel Gymnasium. In 1922 they played at Brown's old Lyman Gym, in 1945 they played at the Friars' Harkins Hall and in 1947 they played at the R.I. Auditorium. Brown won in each case.

There is no other reason for shifting the site of the game other than the fact that attendance has fallen off in the past few years for this one and now the schools' authorities figure that Mt. Pleasant can hold the crowd.

This miscellanea out of the way, the Friars go into this one with a much more impressive record than Brown. The Friars have won seven of their last nine, including a victory over Springfield in overtime on Saturday.

Brown, on the other hand, has won just three games. The Bruins lost to Holy Cross Saturday and they have little to show—on the plus side—for their season.

But it is a curious fact that the Bruins have the "sign" on the Friars, no matter what the records. For example, the Bruins have won nine of the last 10 games the teams have played, and generally the Friars have had the better record.

Again, the Friars have the edge on paper this time. Hank McQueeney, Bobby Moran, Tom Mullins and Jack Durkin have been playing outstanding basketball for the Friars of late and P.C. as a team appears to be a better club.

Brown has been plugging along with its mainly sophomore club, with Bill Arnold, Ed Kincade and junior Lou Murgio doing the bulk of the scoring.

The series between the two clubs is tied. Each has won 17 games.

Two hockey games also are on today's schedule, each out of town. The Friars will play Clarkson at Potsdam, N.Y., and Rhode Island will meet Army at West Point.

Brown's track team has a dual meet with Tufts at Medford.

Tufts' Six Beats Friars, 5-2, on Big 1st Period

Lynn, Mass.—Tufts started fast and kept up the pressure here last night for a 5-2 victory over the Providence College sextet at Lynn Arena.

The Jumbos grabbed a 3-0 lead by 4:19 of the first period, then added single goals in the second and third. The Friars got both their goals in the first period, but could muster no real attack after that.

Dave Regan put Tufts ahead 61 seconds after the start, and quick goals by teammates Tom Druggan and Red Mahoney boosted the lead. Ed Monahan got P. C.'s first score at 8:16 and Bobby Reall made it 3-2 at 12:11. Two goals by Tufts' Bill Power concluded the scoring:

TUFTS (5)

Goal—Taylor; defense—Richardson, McLaughlan, Rich, O'Brien; forwards—Mahoney, Nolan, Druggan, Kelley, Power, Regan, Myers, Brinn.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE (2)

Rhody's Tight Defense Stops Friars' Scorers

Rams Build Up Big Margin, Then Ease Off; Play Bruins Tonight

By JOHN HANLON

The University of Rhode Island defeated Providence College, 76-62, last night at Rodman Hall by stopping the Friars' top scorers and turning out a well-rounded offense of its own.

Four Rams had scoring totals ranging from 13 to 18 points each and their Ray Rossi and Dave Stenhouse clamped onto Bobby Moran and Hank McQueeney, the Friars' best shooters, and held them to three baskets between them.

The Rams took the lead at 3:30 of the first quarter on a set shot by Rollie Kubiskey and never once faltered after that. They led at the half, 40-26, and had their margin up to 22 points before they eased off in the final quarter.

This victory moved the Rams into a tie for first place with Brown in the intrastate series. Each has won two and lost one and the two will play for the title tonight at Kingston.

For the Friars, this was the last game of their season and the defeat set their record at 11 victories and 11 defeats. Two seniors, Capt. Bob Prendergast and Jack Keating, played their last game with the club.

With a better shake in their shooting luck, particularly in the first half, the Friars might have made it closer. In all, they had 97 shots and made only 19 baskets, but they seemed to have at least a dozen of those kind that go in, then spin out. At any rate, they were far off the form that enabled them to defeat the Rams by 26 points as recently as Feb. 10.

Finesse was hardly the keynote of either team's performance, but the Rams had considerably more lift and drive—and a fellow named Fred Congleton.

Congleton Key Factor

Congleton didn't get every rebound, but at times it seemed that he did. His work under the basket was largely responsible for the fact that the Friars were unable to get in that second shot and his passing after getting the rebounds gave the Rams a fast start down the court.

In the second half, Congleton polished off his performance by getting the bulk of his 14 points. Bill Baird topped the club with his 18 and Stenhouse got 16, in addition to playing an excellent floor game. Dan Dunn collected 13.

Moran managed to get just two baskets, one just before the half and one right after, and Rossi—with occasional help from Bernie Pina—obviously did a good job of guarding. McQueeney got one basket.

Jack Durkin was the only Friar to score in double figures and he got 14 points. Bill Quinlan's nine points were next best. Tom Mullins and Phil Lynch did commendable work, as did Moran and McQueeney, despite their lack of scoring.

Get Going In 2nd

The Rams were not able to establish a lead of any proportions until the last part of the second quarter and then they ran the count to 36-22, with Baird and Stenhouse as the main contributors.

The third quarter just about settled matters as Congleton made three successive baskets and put his club ahead, 56-34. Thereafter it was a coast for the Rams as each club used subs in most of the fourth quarter. The Friars outscored the Rams, nine points to three, near the end, but by then the results were in. The victory was the Rams' 12th in 21 games.

In the preliminary game, the Friars' freshmen took the young Rams, 94-78. Bob Serra scored 30 points for the Rams. For the Friars, Dick Elston scored 23, Gus Westerhuis 22 and Ralph Tedesco 20.

Clarkson Six Stops Friars By 7-4 Margin

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Postdam, N.Y. — Providence College's informal hockey team opened a two-game road trip here last night by dropping a 7-4 decision to Clarkson.

Only an outstanding job by Eddie Hornstein in the P.C. nets prevented the home team from rolling up a much higher score. Hornstein had 37 saves.

Rams Turn Back P.C. Quintet, 76 to 62, Tie Brown in State Series

Pucksters Close Season Against Dartmouth Indians At Hanover

By Bill Reardon

Tomorrow the Friar sextet takes off on its last jaunt of the season by journeying to Hanover, N. H., where they take on the Big Green of Dartmouth on Thursday night, and then across the river Friday where they take on the Cadets of Norwich University.

Dartmouth, enjoying one of its better seasons, will see the pupil return to the teacher with his product. All of which means that Richard "Dick" Rondeau, former Dartmouth player, will be bringing a team onto the campus at Hanover to see if he can beat his old teacher, Eddy Jeremiah, coach of hockey at Dartmouth.

Both the game against the Big Green and that against Norwich, coached by former Brown standout, Bob Priestly, will be tough for the Fighting Friars, but a continued attack will bring the boys through. It will be the first time this year that the boys will be playing on so-called "pond ice," better known as natural ice. This may make a difference for better or for worse, but the sextet will be giving it all they have.

Bow to Clarkson 7-4

Last week the skaters journeyed through a blizzard to Pottsdam, N. Y., where they took on the forces of the Golden Knights from Clarkson University only to be beaten 7-4. Ziebarth opened the scoring for Clarkson at 7:59 of the first canto when he blasted a 15 footer past net tender Eddy Hornstein, on an assist from Meeker. Meeker took things into his own hands at 8:31 and tucked the disc into the upper right hand corner. Paul "Porkey" Lagueux got his first of three free tickets to the sin bin at 13:10 to round out the action for the period.

Hornstein Has 37 Saves

It was in this part of the game that Eddy Hornstein collected most of his 37 saves, until at 17:36 and again at 17:53 Carrier and Ziebarth managed to get the elusive rubber by Eddy Hornstein.

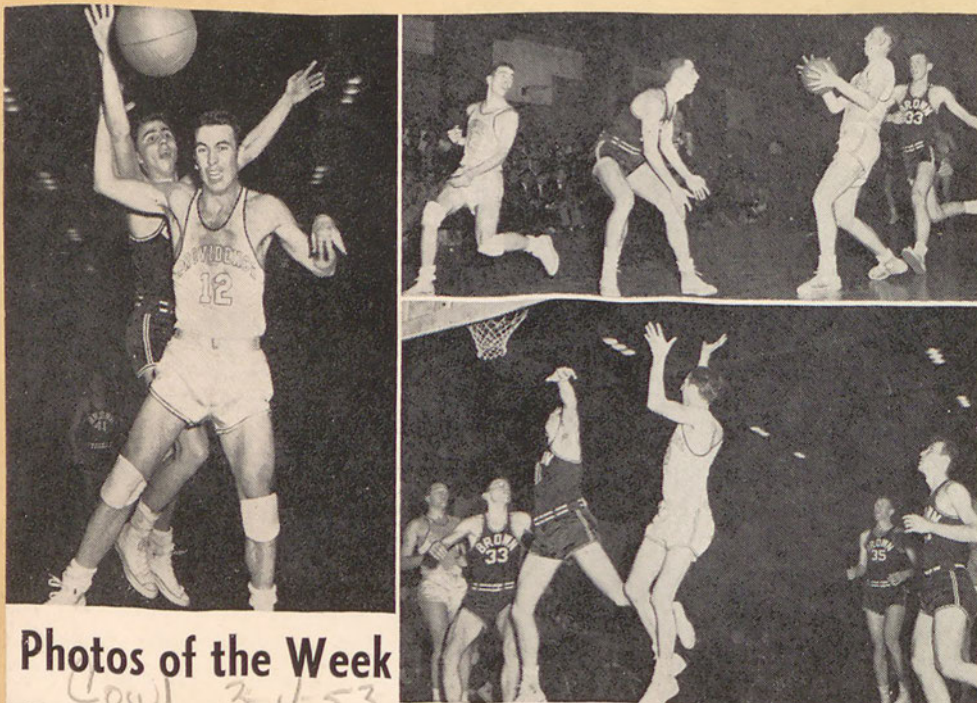

In the third stanza Clarkson got right to work when Moore took a pass from Meeker at 2:38 and cut the cords with it. McAleer got his first trip to the box while juggling for standing room in front of the Providence net. McAleer came back with a goal at 11:04 however, and redeemed himself.

At this point Bob Petit let the boards in back of the cage get in his way and came out second best with a badly sprained wrist. A bit of strategy by Coach Rondeau, pulling Eddy Hornstein out of the nets, gave P.C. its final score of the game when Eddy Monahan hooked it around the cage pipe at 13:28. Clarkson ended its scoring at 19:16 on a goal by Moore, the assist going to Meeker and Joanette.

Downed By Tufts 5-2

On Friday night the Friars, after two days of bus riding and two games in four nights, took to the ice in Lynn, Mass., to tackle the Tufts sextet. The Medics jumped off to a big lead and were never headed, winning 5-2.

The third period was marred by five penalties and only one goal, by Richardson off McAleer's glove. With a little luck the story might well have been different. The Friars had eight shots bounce off the pipes supporting the net, of which five were fired by Eddy Monahan, one of the most prolific scorers on the sextet.

Did Ike Ever Hit 20 Ask "The Griff" As He Compares Moran To President

Cow

PHIL GRIFFIN

3-4-53

It seems that it might be prudent to squeeze one more story out of the late lamented basketball season, although we might let the deceased rest in peace. Oh well, we'll take one more turn around the circuit, then call it a day as far as the brainchild of Dr. Naismith is concerned.

Griffin

Moran was worn out physically as the season drew to a close, thus the relatively poor showings for the Magnificent against Brown and Rhody. Bobby put in more time on the hardwood than the rest of his companions, and he isn't exactly built to stand the gaff. He did manage, however, to toss in 455 points, which is, needless to say, a new school record, and at this point Radar-Eyes seems a cinch to set the all-time career record about midway through next season. Enough on Brooklyn's best. He already could give Eisenhower a good battle in the clipping department. But, why not? When did Ike ever hit twenty? . . .

Phil Proved Prediction

Yours truly called Phil Lynch the most unjustly underpublicized of the Friars at the end of last week's column, and Philip bore me out in the Brown game. . . . Look for great things from Manhattan's contribution to the cause. . . . Lynch knows every department in the game like Stalin knows the Kremlin. . . .

While on the subject of great things to come, Henry McQueeney might well be worth a bit of crystal ball polishing. On the basis of this year's heart warming comeback, Hank figures to be the boy the fans will come to see next season. Moran, of course, will be taken for granted once more, and the fans will be steeped in gloom when he fails to hit 20. . . . Just another tribute to the boy's greatness. . . . McQueeney would shine with much more brilliance if he would take the countless lay-ups he gets himself instead of passing the ball away at the last moment. . . .

Kerr's Shoulder Knits Slowly

Kenny Kerr's shoulder is a little slow in knitting, but he's got the whole spring, summer, and fall to get better, so we can look for great things from the Newport Hurricane when they put up the peach baskets again. . . . Mr. Cuddy was well pleased with the support the team got from the student body. . . . Seems they didn't quit even when things were darker than the back stairs at four in the morning. . . . So, pat yourselves on the back boys. . . . Might be pertinent to mention that the team might well pat itself on the back for the same reason. . . .

Adieu To 1952-53 Season

Question of the week—Who belongs to the following nicknames? Two hundred free tickets to the NIT to the man who guesses every one. . . . Buster, Harry, Bones, Boston Blackie or the Con Man, Ox, Harpo, Zapata, the Elk or Zipper, and Featherfoot. . . . Give up? Well, in order the list reads—Phil Lynch (Buster), Hank McQueeney (Harry), Jack Durkin (B.B. or the Con Man), Bob Prendergast (Ox), Kenny Kerr (Harpo), Bobby O'Connell (Zapata), Dick Elston (the Elk or Zipper), and Bill Quinlan (Featherfoot). . . . I won't guarantee that they'll answer to these names if called, however. . . . We bid fond adieu to Sag Prendergast and Jack Keating, who have played their last game in a Friar uniform. . . . And we bid adieu to the 1952-53 basketball season. RIP. . . .

Friar Rooters Bid Adieu To Seniors, Jack And "Sag"

Coul

By Martin Sandler

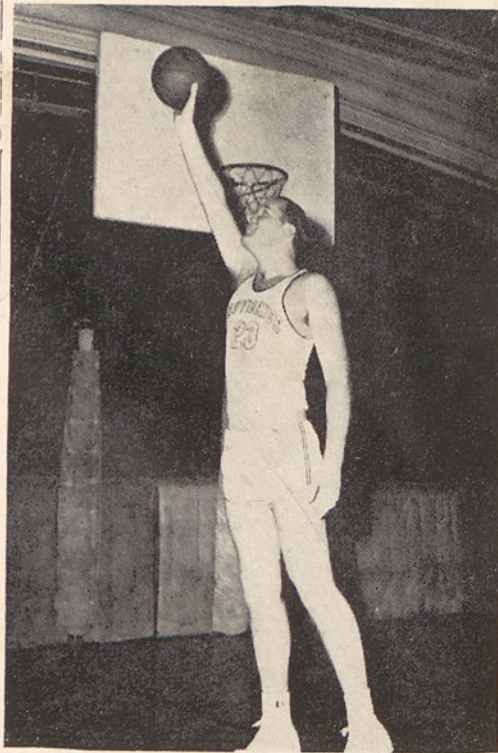

3-4-53

As the sound of horsehide against bat fills the air, and as the basketballs are put away for another year, the time becomes ripe to bid adieu to those who have taken part in their last basketball game for the black and white. Oddly enough there are only two such individuals in that category this year.

Bob Prendegast and Jack Keating wound up their collegiate basketball careers last Friday night against Rhode Island University. For "Sag," this has been the year of his arrival. Possessor of a deadly shooting eye, especially when hooking with either hand, "Sag" hit his peak this season, tossing in 198 points. Not only did he score with consistency but "Big Bob" led the Friars in rebounding grabbing no less than 162 loose balls off the backboards.

There can be no doubt in the mind of anyone who was present at the Rhode Island Auditorium on the night of February 10, that Bob reached the height of his basketball career that night against the Rhode Island University Rams. It will be a long time before Friar supporters forget the brilliant role "Sag" played in the Cuddymen's 92-66 massacre of the highly favored Rams. The Friars captain will be sorely missed when next year's season rolls around.

Although he did not see much action this year, Jack Keating gave an excellent account of himself whenever he was inserted into the lineup. It is not easy to play the part of the sub but Jack played the role nobly. His rebounding gave the Friars a boost in more than one ball game.

Worcester Nips Kent In League Playoffs

Coul By Bill Flanagan 3/4/53

The Intramural Basketball League wound up a highly successful season with Jr. Economics, Jr. Social Science, Soph. Education and Soph. Biology being crowned champions of their respective divisions. These four teams will playoff for the championship of the League. Also in the very thrilling territorial club tournament will find the hustling Worcester Club tapping off against the powerful Kent County Club quintet for the championship. (Worcester won Monday afternoon.)

The Carolan Club Dorm League moves into its final week of the regular season as the teams make their last bid for a playoff berth. No less than twelve teams are in the running for the eight selected positions, and with several of these clubs in action against each other, this final week could be the most exciting of the whole season. In some of these clashes the Hilltoppers oppose the Jolly Jumpers, Worcester tangles with the Brewers, Biltmore faces the Eagles, the Ferrets take on the Connecticut Yanks, and in a battle for first place Biltmore plays Donnelly. Next Monday, March 9, the top eight teams will start the playoffs, which will be a double elimination tourney.

Biltmore	7	1	2
Donnelly	7	2	1
Aquinas Friars	7	3	—
Kadets	6	3	1
Hart. Eagles	5	3	2
Ferrets	5	4	1
Midgets	4	4	2
Hilltoppers	3	4	3

FREE THROW CONTEST

Mr. Drew has announced that a free throw contest will be staged from 11:30 to 1:30 daily from Thursday, March 5, to Friday, March 13. Each competitor will be allowed fifteen shots, with the ten highest to shoot twenty-five more and the highest total in forty shots the winner.
