PROVIDENCE COLLEGE FOOTBALL GLADIATORS PREPARE for FALL PLAY

GOLEMBESKI HOLDS FIRST DRILL AT P. C.

Candidates Report Today for Football Training with Young Coach

Sept. 5, 1928 Prov. News

The thump of toe meeting pigskin and the sound of cleated shoes pounding on turf was heard once more at Hendriksen Field today when candidates for the Providence College football team held their first practice session in preparation for one of the toughest schedules the Dominican aggregation has ever faced.

With the opening encounter, the Williams game at Williamstown, on Sept. 29, but three weeks away, Coach Archie Golembeski, directing the gridiron destinies of the Black and White for his fourth successive season, issued the first call for candidates to report at the Smith Hill field. He arrived in town this morning after a week's vacation at Narragansett Pier.

During the summer, the former Holy Cross and Steamroller luminary attended the six weeks session of the Harvard School of Physical Education. He expects a large squad this year due to the increased enrollment at the college and counts heavily on incoming Freshman material to fill gaps in the line and backfield by graduation.

Steve Nawrocki, captain of the 1928 eleven, reported yesterday. Nawrocki was accompanied by his younger brother, Eddie, who will enter the Dominican institution this year. Eddie will be a welcome addition to the squad as he flashed at fullback and centre for three years while at Duffee High.

Capt. Nawrocki has spent a strenuous summer and should be in fine shape for the coming campaign. He was employed as a steel worker on the new Sessions street junior high school, this city. He is as hard as nails and Coach Golembeski is certain of having at least one strong candidate for the tackle berth.

Marty Gibbons, football and baseball star last year, will be unable to report until Monday as baseball activities at Clinton, Mass., will claim his attention until that time.

Many other members of last year's squad are not in town for the opening practice sessions owing to summer occupations, but the majority of regulars should be in togs by Monday.

ARCHIE GOLEMBESKI, dressed "fit to kill" in plus fours and all the fixin's, motored here from Worcester yesterday for a conference with Graduate Manager Farrell of Providence College. It was tough weather for football talk, but "Coachie" wanted to find out what luck Johnny had had in rounding up talent for the fall campaign.

After the conference, Golembeski said he had been assured that at least 30 members of the 1927 squad would be on hand for the opening drill on the fifth day of September. Several crack prep school stars have been in communication with Manager Farrell and two or three valuable players may be uncovered for service in the positions left open by the departure of veteran talent.

Providence College has been making excellent progress in the great fall sport the past three years and Golly hopes in the near future to turn out an eleven that will cut as wide a swath as the baseball team. A very difficult schedule confronts the team, the high spots being battles with Holy Cross, West Point, Temple, Williams and Springfield.

ASKED what Holy Cross would offer in the way of opposition to both the Dominicans and the Bears, Coach Golembeski stated that the Crusaders would open the season with a splendid batch of material. Although Coach O'Donnell lost several stars by graduation in June, he has a number of high-class replacements from the strong Freshman eleven. The Worcester collegians will meet Brown at the Stadium here in one of the season's two major attractions and play the Dominicans in the Massachusetts city.

It won't be long before most of the college teams are in training camps and the announcement that the Bruins and Smith Hillers have started work will be most welcome to Rhode Island's rapidly growing army of lovers of a sport which to their way of thinking stands in a class all by itself.

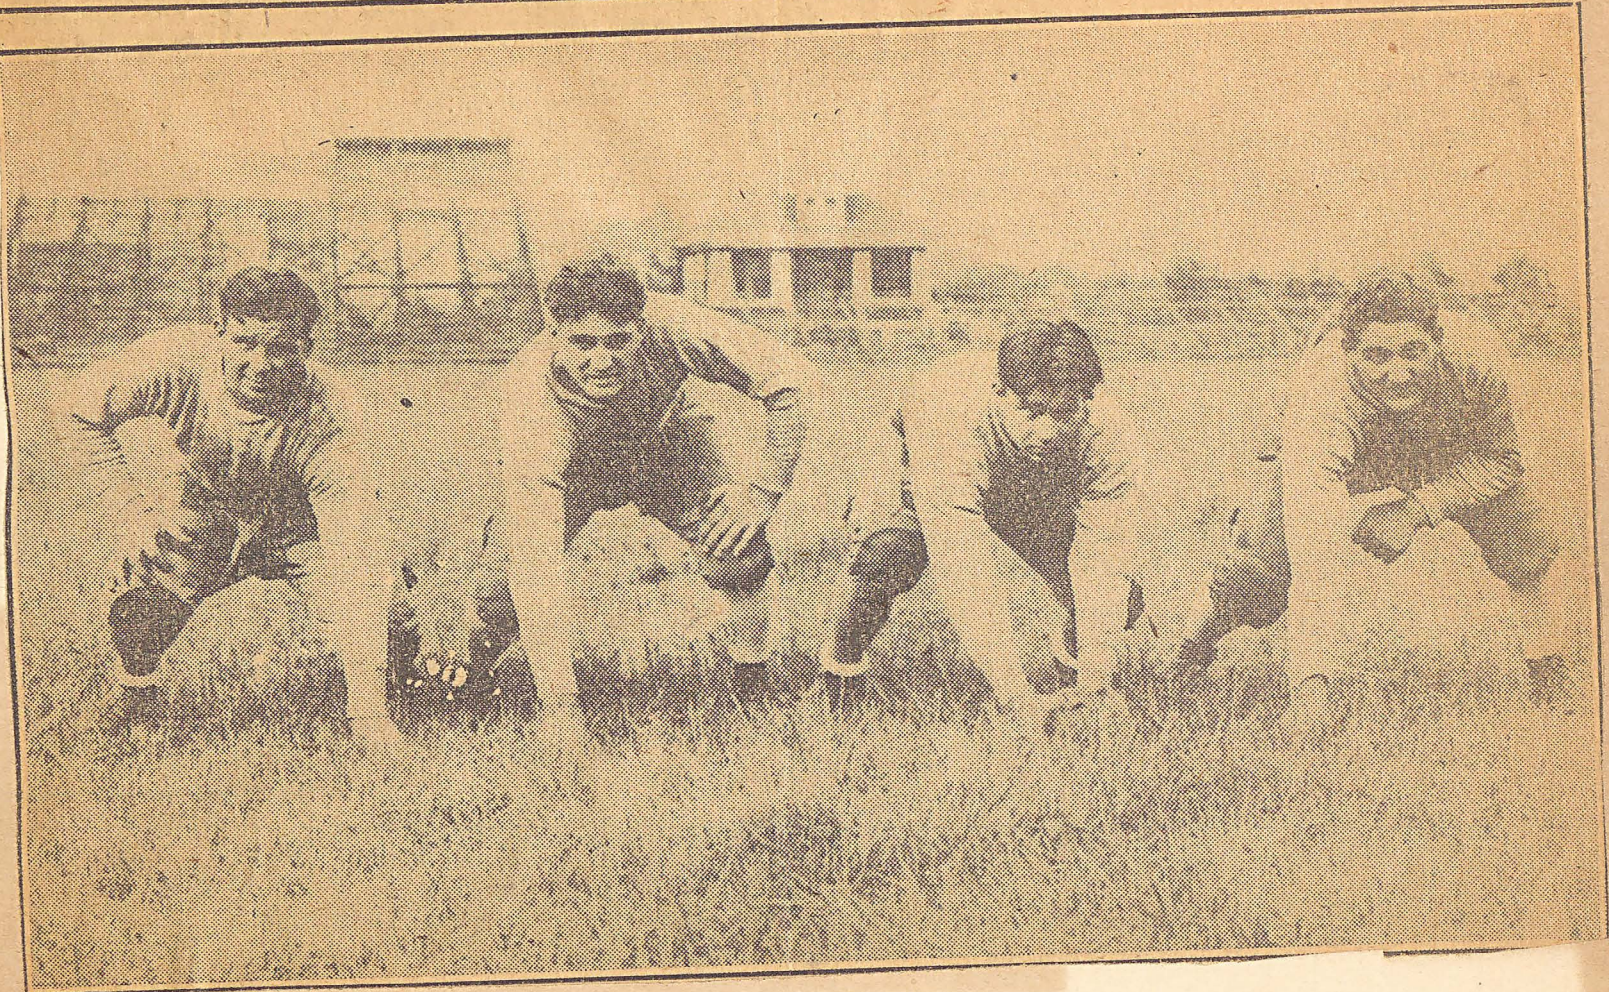

Lehigh and Annapolis squads have stolen a march on other eastern teams by going into camp. If the weather at the two training grounds is anything like that which has been experienced here the past few days all the heavyweight members of the squads will be in the midget class in short order.

BROTHERS DRILLING WITH DOMINICANS

Dominicans Lose Spectacular Game

Williams Upsets Dominicans, 20 to 13; Dunt Howe Stars

Former Moses Brown Player
Clinches Game with Open Field Running.

(Special to the Providence Journal)

Williamstown, Mass., Sept. 30.—With Dunton Howe, former Moses Brown grid star, running wild, Williams College opened its home season here this afternoon on Western Field by downing Providence College, 20 to 13. The result evened the count between the two colleges, as Providence upset the locals here two years ago in the initial clash of the season.

Running behind a fast defence, Howe proved right to the claim of being the best broken field runner that the Purple has had in recent years. He carried the oval four out of five times when the locals were on the offence and practically clinched the game single-handed by racing around the Dominicans' left flank in the third period for a 60-yard jaunt to register the second Williams' tally. He added the third marker when he circled one of the wings for 10 yards in the fourth period to score the winning touchdown.

The Dominicans received a lucky break when Charlie Jorn broke into the Williams backfield on the third play of the game to scoop up a fumble and run across the goal line 20 yards away. However, they seemed to rest on their laurels for the remainder of the tilt and failed to function further until the last quarter, when a brilliant aerial raid was uncovered which swept the Williams' defence to shreds and enabled Marty Gibbons to hang up the second Providence marker, which brought their count to 13.

The poor tackling of the Black and White outfit had no little to do with their defeat, as they failed time and again to down men within easy reach.

Punts were run back repeatedly for long gains due to the failure of the linesmen to pull the runner to earth when they got their hands on him. Putnam and Howe were especially elusive and were able to get away for long runbacks on nearly every attempt.

However, Coach Golemeski has one consolation as he starts preparation for the coming games in the thought that it was his reserve material that showed to the best advantage. A makeshift line injected in the fray in the fourth period, having Wheeler and Matthews on the ends, Capt. Nawrocki and White at tackles, Sweeney and McAlevy at guards, and Derivan at centre tore wide holes in the Williams forward wall to lead the attack, and also offered excellent defence for Dublenny and Gibbons on their passes.

With Williams enjoying a 20 to 6 lead as the result of the individual efforts of Dunt Howe, the game began to slow a bit, but when the Rhode Islanders opened with their forwards the large opening day crowd took a new interest in the contest. In the fourth period the Dominicans completed no less than nine out of 12 passes attempted and gathered in a total gain of close to 70 yards as a result.

Dublenny opened the game by hoisting a long kick-off to Putnam, Williams' quarter, who ran it back to the 10-yard stripe. Howe nicked one yard through tackle and on the following play, Langmaid juggled a pass from the centre, finally fumbling it. Charlie Jorn, Evander Childs product, playing his first college game, raced in to scoop up the loose ball and dash the remaining distance for a score. Dublenny missed his drop-kick for the extra point.

The remainder of the first period was featured by a kicking duel between Johnny Dublenny of the visitors and Howe of the Berkshire aggregation.

But at the start of the second period the Caldwell-coached outfit rooted out one of its pet aerial formations which resulted in a score.

With the pigskin on the Providence 35-yard line Howe whirled around right end for 14 yards before being pulled to the ground by Szydlia, who played the best defensive game for the Dominicans.

After Langmaid had a try at the centre of the line with little success, Howe shot a long pass to Langmaid, who picked the ball out of the air within two yards of the final tape and plunged across with two Providence backfield men unable to stop him. Howe missed the try for the additional marker.

Providence failed to make any yardage of value following the kick-off to start the second half of the clash and Dubienny kicked to Putnam on the locals' 40-yard line. On the first play, Howe made his sensational dash down the field, sweeping around end with four men as interferers and dodging and twisting eluded the Black and White secondary defence to complete his jaunt and send the Purple rooters into an uproar. Langmaid drop-kicked the goal.

Shortly after the start of the fourth period, Howe started the drive, which netted the winning touchdown when he lugged the leather to the Providence 40-yard marker on a criss-cross formation. Chase and Langmaid plugged the line for six yards and a six-yard pass to Putnam for a first down. A 20-yard aerial from Howe to Langmaid netted another first down on the Dominicans 10-yard tape from where Howe circled an end to score. Langmaid drop-kicked the goal.

Then came the Dominicans' aerial raid. Gibbons shot one to Matthews for six yards and one to Wheeler for eight for a first down. Then followed a succession of short heaves, all of which were successful. After three line plays, which netted losses, a long forward was incompleated and Williams took the ball on its own 24-yard line. Howe kicked to Sharkey. Dubienny passed to Sharkey for seven yards and then gave Wheeler a nine-yard toss.

On the next play Gibbons raced far beyond the secondary defence and made a brilliant running catch of a long heave from Dubienny which he converted into a score when he straight-armed Putnam out of the way five yards from the final line. Dubienny kicked the goal for the point.

Williams accepted the following kick-off and resorted to line plunges to retain possession of the ball as long as possible. In the final minute, Howe kicked to Sharkey and two passes were completed for short gains before the final whistle blew.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE TIES WITH NORWICH,

Decisions Cost Dominicans Scoring Chances; Two Hurt

Szydla Suffers Ankle Injury and Waining Has Hip Bruised.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)

Northfield, Vt., Oct. 6.—For the second successive year Providence College and Norwich University ended their football competition in a deadlock when they battled to a 6 to 6 score on Sabine Field here this afternoon. The game is the second to be played between the two colleges, a 7 to 7 tilt resulting at Providence last fall.

Decisions cost the Rhode Islanders two golden chances to score. Two players were injured during the game. Stan Szydla, who led the attack of the invaders in the first half, was carried off with an ankle sprain as the result of a pile-up following a successful forward pass from Gibbons. Waining, cadet quarterback, followed soon after when a hip bruise was aggravated.

The cadets, with Capt. O'Donnell doing the passing, showed a varied overhead attack, and on several occasions Coane, right end, who made Norwich history last week when he scored on Dartmouth, snared the ball for long gains.

The Dominicans' biggest reverses came in the shape of two adverse decisions. The first was in the fourth period when Dubieny ran 25 yards through the Norwich team only to have an off-side penalty called. In the closing minutes of play, with the ball on the Norwich six-yard stripe, Dubieny dropped back for a place kick which just barely cleared the cross bar. But after the Providence team had run down the field for the following kick-off the head linesman nullified the placement with a report that the offensive eleven was off-side.

Coach Golembeski of the visitors questioned the decision, but in vain.

With three substitutes, Sweeney and

Murphy, at the guards, and Lobdell at tackle, the Dominicans opened the fray when Dubieny kicked off to Cannon. He ran the oval back to his own 40-yard stripe. Three line plunges netted a first down in short order on the Providence side of midfield. Then Kane, who did the bulk of the work for the Cadets, galloped around right end for 20 yards.

An eight-yard lateral pass and a line plunge gave the locals another first down on the Dominicans' 15-yard stripe. Capt. O'Donnell shot a 15-yard aerial to Kane, who took the ball on the run to pitch across the final tape for a score. The try for the extra point failed when O'Donnell passed wildly to McDonald.

Then the Rhode Islanders wheeled into action and proceeded to reel off five first downs in succession by line plunging and clever pass formations, with Gibbons leading the attack. However, a toss over the goal line lost the ball on the Norwich 10-yard stripe.

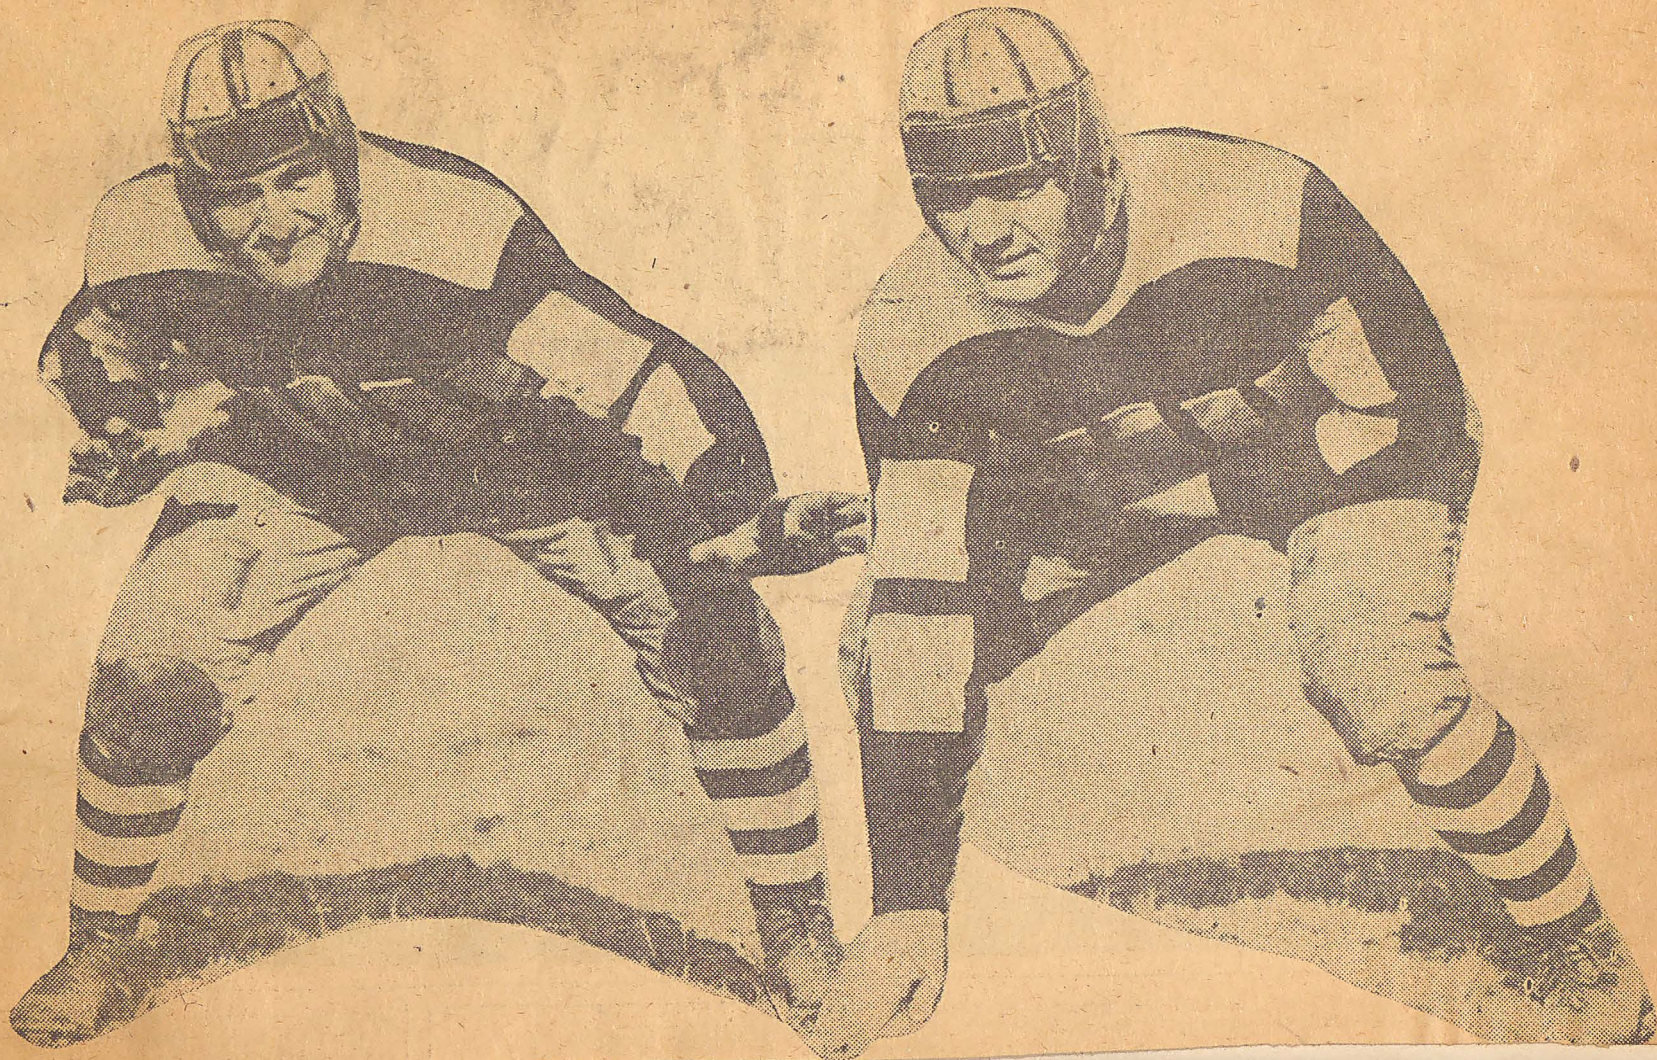

Providence collected its touchdown in the second period as the result of some fine receiving of passes by Jorn, right end from New York, who is serving his first campaign in college competition. To start the attack, Dubieny recovered a fumble on the Providence 45-yard line.

A five-yard penalty for off-side on Norwich brought the ball to midfield. Dubieny heaved a long aerial, which bounded off the shoulder of Kane and was grabbed by Jorn, who leaped into the air to make a spectacular catch. Szydla pounded through the line for eight yards and Dubieny made it a first down when he went through centre for two more.

BROTHERS ON DOMINICAN SQUAD

The Zande brothers, Jim and Manley, are considered two of the best guards that Providence College has had in years and are expected to play a prominent part in the big games on the Dominican schedule. In the picture below Jim is shown on the left with Manley on the right.

Szydla knifed his way to within two yards of the Norwich goal, and Gibbons, ace of the backfield, had the honor of plugging it over. Dubienny's attempt for a point by placement was blocked by Fuller.

A Providence fumble, which was recovered by Norwich on its own 37-yard tape, broke up a Dominican attack in the fourth period, but Norwich was unable to collect any yardage and was soon forced to kick.

The drive which should have won the game for the Providence team started with Dubienny running 25 yards, only to be called back for an off-side penalty. Then followed a pass good for five yards, and two thrusts at the line for a first down on the Norwich 39-yard line. Dubienny raced through for 10 yards at one try, then passed over the line to Gibbons, who staged a pretty bit of broken field running to make his way to the Norwich 10-yard tape. Then followed Dubienny's attempt for a victory via placement, after line attacks had netted but four yards.

DOMINICANS MEET WEST POINT TEAM ON PLAINS SATURDAY

Locals Now Fill Places on Schedules of Major Elevens

Intackling the Army eleven, rated as one of the greatest grid machines in the country at the present time—Providence College adds another page to its remarkable athletic history which is without parallel in the country. In the space of seven short years the Dominicans have passed from the stage of high school competition to that of opposing the finest college outfits in the East, and now culminate that period with their battle with the Cadets on Saturday.

In meeting the West Pointers this week-end the Dominicans will enjoy the distinction of being the first small college in New England, and one of the few in the East, to send its grid machine into action against the Cadets. On the present schedule of the New Yorkers, Boston University, Harvard and Yale are the only other New England colleges to be played.

The meeting of the greatest football machine in the country with the youngest in the East, marks another climax to the remarkable record of the Smith Hill institution which has leaped from a place of obscurity to a high spot in the intercollegiate realm.

While not entertaining any high hopes of sending Biff Jones's crack aggregation to defeat, something that few colleges are able to do, yet the Dominicans will enter the tilt determined to make their finest showing, and every one of Archie Golembeski's youngsters is confident that the Army mule will know that it has met stubborn opposition ere the sun sets on the Hudson Saturday afternoon.

The fact that they have pitted their strength and ability in past seasons against such powerful machines as Colgate, Syracuse, Boston College, Quantico Marines, the greatest aggregation of star gridgers in the country outside of college, and St. Xavier, high scoring Ohio college, which they met last fall and tussled to a bitter finish, will serve as sufficient cause to dispel any pessimism that might invade the Smith Hill camp.

Confident that his young team, drilled in a strong aerial attack, will be able to test the Cadets to the full, Coach Golembeski stated yesterday that though outweighed his charges would give a good account of themselves. At the same time the spirit of hope that pervades every small college campus on the eve of a struggle with a major college, that the unexpected may happen to cause the downfall of the giant, is running high on Smith Hill, and the largest representation of students ever to follow the team out of town will head for the famed military school on the Hudson to lend moral support to the Black and White gladiators.

The Army, after a bitter battle with the Southern Methodists, plans to take the tilt with the locals in a lighter mood, and no doubt Coach Biff Jones will use some of his so-called second stringers, whose ability is not far below that of the regulars, against the locals. And if the latter crew is not drilled in a strong defence for forward passing they are in for a busy afternoon.

For the past two weeks the Dominican mentor has been coaching his youngsters in aerial work and as a result practically every member of the backfield is well versed in the art of throwing, as well as receiving forwards. The Cadets will have their hands full if they hope to lower the locals average of completing over two-thirds of the aerials they try in every tilt. This mark has been maintained in the two games to date, and in both encounters forwards paved the way for scores.

The only cloud on the Smith Hillers horizon at present is whether Jim Zande, husky guard whose work for the past two years has been the high light of the line play, will be able to serve against the soldiers. Jim suffered a slight fracture of his nose in practice last week and can enter the game only if protected by a special mask covering his injury. As a result Coach Golembeski may have to call upon either Sweeney or Murphy, two Sophomores, who showed to advantage last Saturday against Norwich, to handle the assignment.

Trounce Dominicans Easily

Game played: October 13, 1928

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
West Point, N. Y., Oct. 13.—A powerful Army aggregation of gridders crushed an aggressive band from Providence College here this afternoon by a 44 to 0 score to register their third straight victory of the season. The invaders from the Rhode Island capital made a determined stand in the opening period but once the high-g geared Cadet backfield with Cagle, All-American possibility, got in motion the Dominicans were easily surpassed.

It was not without color, as from start to finish the Black and White outfit battled furiously to stop a line that outweighed it by at least 20 pounds a man and a backfield that ran riot behind such a forward wall. The Army used three teams during the fray, which was witnessed by 10,000 despite a drizzling rain.

If there was one youngster who gave the Army plenty of trouble, it was Fred Dagata, husky fullback, who handled the assignment in place of Dublenny, who was injured last week. Dagata averaged 50 yards on his kicks, and on every occasion outbooted the Cadet punters. Murrell, Hutchinson and Cagle did the kicking for the locals. In spite of the wet ball and the slippery footing Dagata managed to get off every one of his punts, and when he finally left the field in the fourth period he received an ovation from the Cadet stands.

The Dominicans opened up with forward passes at every turn on the offence, as running against the Jones coached front rank was like pounding a stone wall. With Sprague and Perry playing brilliantly on the defence, the Black and White ball carriers never had a chance to gain through the line. Several long forwards were completed by the invaders, but their passing attack proved to be the factor which ran the score up against them. Due to the fact that the ball was soaked from the rain, the heavers were unable to get the distance necessary to reach the men going down under the aerial, and on two occasions Cadet backs intercepted passes in open field to run for scores, while two other touchdowns resulted from intercepted forwards.

Biff Jones hurled his first string aggregation into the fray at the start, while Archie Golembeski followed suit by sending his Varsity lineup into action, including even Jim Zande, guard, whose nose was fractured last week.

Cagle was unable to gain after the initial kickoff and punted outside on the Providence 10-yard stripe. Dagata, standing behind his goal line, kicked to midfield, with Foster making the tackle. O'Keefe, Cadet back, fumbled and Dagata recovered to run to the Army 48-yard line. After two short passes Dagata kicked. Then followed an exchange of punts between the Dominican fullback and Cagle of the locals. With the ball on his own 35-yard stripe, Cagle broke through the Providence line and raced wildly through the secondary defence for 45 yards before being pulled down on the Providence 25-yard tape. Navy went through for eight yards and then Piper registered the first score when he got around left end aided by perfect interference. Sprague missed the goal.

After a struggle in the midfield section, the Cadets started a drive which gave them another touchdown. Four successive first downs with Cagle, Piper and O'Keefe leading the assault carried the oval over the goal line. Again Sprague spoiled his goal record by missing the uprights.

The Cadet second eleven took the field after the second period was well under way and the Dominicans gave them plenty of trouble although they were finding the going rough on the slippery turf. A series of passes, one for 22 yards from Gibbons to Fleurent, gave the visitors the ball on the Army 26-yard tape, but they were unable to advance any nearer the goal. Just before the half ended a Sharkey pass was intercepted by Hutchinson at midfield and two successive first downs by line plunging, followed by a 15-yard aerial from Hutchinson to Carlson, added the third score to the Cadet total. The half ended with the count 18 to 0.

A setadry drizzle drove many of the spectators from the field before the second half got under way. Nawrocki took the kickoff to his own 34-yard tape and then came the prettiest pass play of the tilt. Gibbons heaved a long aerial down the field to Charlie Jern, who took the ball on the run and was headed for the Army goal post when Bowman, quarterback and the only man intervening between a Providence score, brought the runner to earth on the Cadet 40-yard tape.

The next play saw Gibner intercepting a pass to run it back to the Dominican 20-yard line by brilliant broken field sprinting. Timberlake counted a touchdown when he faked a line play and then swept right end to tally. Gibner missed the goal.

With the ball on his own 15-yard tape, Fleurent tossed a pass to open field to Foster, but Harris injected his frame into the picture to snatch the ball and cut loose for a 20-yard jaunt for a score. The same runner kicked the extra point. The sixth touchdown came when Miller broke up a Gibbons aerial and before anyone could lay a hand on him was following a strong interference down the field for 45 yards to roll the count to 37 for his team. Gibner accounted for the additional marker.

The first team was sent into action in the fourth period and with trouble proceeded to pound through the Providence subs for four first downs and a touchdown. The remaining half of the period saw the Black and White performers hold their own, with McAlevy, Pawtucket guard, breaking up many a line thrust by his sterling work on the defence.

Army Swamps Providence in Light Rain, 44-0

Cadets Uncover New Backfield Star in Timberlake; Subs Play Half Game

Special to the Herald Tribune

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Army swamped Providence College to-day, rolling up 44 points to 0 in a game played in a light rain. As a "breather" for Army's encounter with Harvard next Saturday, the game answered the Cadets' purpose admirably. Substitute players carried the burden for a goodly part of the play, although the Cadets used their varsity men for the best part of two periods.

Army uncovered a new backfield flash in Timberlake, a fast and clever ball carrier, who tossed and received passes and also booted with uncanny accuracy and fine distance while he was in action.

Providence was on the defensive throughout and was without any worthwhile attack. Army smothered the visitors' passes and stopped a weak running attack easily. Only in the kicking department, where Dagota out-kicked Hutchinson, did the Rhode Islanders impress.

The Cadets scored in every period. Piper was shoved over the Providence line three times for touchdowns. Miller and Harris each intercepted passes in the third quarter and ran to touchdowns. Miller dashed forty-five yards for his.

Army displayed a woeful weakness in garnering extra points after touchdowns, only one being kicked and that by Harris. Sprague missed several tries. Gibner picked up a bad pass from center and ran around end for the extra point on the other occasion.

Frequent fumbles due to the wet ball marred the play of both teams.

BRONZE TABLET TO BE UNVEILED

Providence College Will Pay Tribute to Memory of "Chuck" Connors

The dedication of a bronze tablet to the memory of "Chuck" Connors, who captained the 1927 football team, and who died last July, will be one of the features of the initial home football game of the Providence College eleven this Saturday. The tablet, inscribed to the memory of the "first football captain to cross the goal line of life" will be attached to the flag pole on the athletic field and will be unveiled in the presence of both the Providence and Manhattan football squads by Coach Archie Golembeski of the locals.

In Manhattan the Dominicans face a foe to give them plenty of worry, as the Jaspers have toppled Union and St. John's, the latter being one of the big rivals of the locals, and from all reports Joe Schwartzer is finding Chick Meehan's system of play highly satisfactory over at the Bronx College. The Jaspers consider the tilt here as their objective game and as a result will arrive in town to-morrow afternoon loaded for victory.

Scrimmages have been the order of the day at both colleges this week with the Manhattan aggregation battling its strong freshman team, which used Providence plays, while the locals have been putting the finishing touches on their attack under the watchful eye of Coach Golembeski.

DOMINICANS MAKE FIRST HOME APPEARANCE WITH MANHATTAN

Visitors Have Defeated Union and St. Johns of Brooklyn as Well as Losing to St. Bonaventure.—Locals Prepared to Present Defence Against Aerial Attack

Archie Golembeski's Providence College football squad is in for a busy afternoon to-morrow when it stacks up against the strong Manhattan College outfit at Hendricken Field in the first home game of the year for the Dominicans. The tilt is slated to get under way at 2:30, and will be witnessed by a large crowd.

Manhattan comes here under the tutelage of its new coach, Joe Schwartz, who is best known for his wonderful work as assistant to Chick Meehan of New York University fame. Schwartz was with Meehan for eight years and is given a great deal of the credit for the fine elevens that were turned out at Syracuse and at New York U. His appearance at the helm at Manhattan marks the start of another one of the metropolitan colleges on its way up the ladder to collegiate fame on the gridiron.

Two of the three games already played by the Jaspers have resulted in victories, Union going under before a strong attack which rolled up a 27 to 6 score, and St. John's succumbing last Saturday by a 14 to 7 count. The one setback came at the hands of the veteran St. Bonaventure eleven, which sprang into prominence just a year ago by holding Gil Dobie's Cornell machine to a 6 to 6 score. "The Saints" came through with a 7 to 0 win after four periods of stubborn battling on the part of the Bronxites.

Coach Golembeski spent the greater part of yesterday afternoon stiffening the defence of his charges against aerial attacks as it is by the overhead route that the Jaspers hope to send the locals to defeat. The passing combination of McBride to Draddy has been the stumbling block for every team Manhattan has faced this year, and it was this same pair that hurled St. John's out of the picture.

But at the same time the Smith Hillers are preparing a few forwards of their own, and although their attack has been thoroughly scouted by Schwartz's assistants, they expect to spring a few surprises. When the locals travelled to Norwich to play their hardest tilt to date, Manhattan has a capable observer on hand to watch the Golembeski machine in action, and the report of this scout has given the Manhattan club plenty of worry the past two weeks.

With White nursing a lame foot, Coach Golembeski announced to-day that he would in all probability start Mark McGovern, Michigan Sophomore, at left tackle, Mac has been helping patrol the wings the past few weeks, but his height and weight will be needed to stop the invaders' attack, and so the mentor decided upon the switch to the inner defence. He will face a strong opponent in Mazurki, 218-pounder who handles one of the tackle berths for the Jaspers.

Other than this change, the line-up which will trot on the field to start the tilt will be the same that gave the Army be at centre flanked by the Zande brothers, while Capt. Nawrocki will be at his regular berth at right tackle, and Wheeler and Jon will watch the flanks. The backfield quartet will be composed of Fleurent at quarter, Foster and Gibbons at the halves, and DaGata at full.

The probable line-ups of the team are:

AL SMITH'S SON TO BE ROOTER FOR MANHATTAN TEAM

Walter Smith, Visiting in Newport, Heads for Providence to Cheer for Team Which Opposes Dominicans Today at Hendricken Field.

Coming not as a campaigner for his father but as a rooter for the green-jerseyed Manhattan College football team which opposes Providence College on the Smith Hill institution's grounds, Walter Smith, son of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, visited Providence and more particularly Hendricken Field today.

Young Smith motored up from Newport, accompanied by James Sullivan, Jr., of Newport, a classmate at Manhattan Prep. He is a week-end guest of Mr. Sullivan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Sullivan, at their home on Narragansett avenue, Newport.

The schoolmates, with Edil Campion of Albany and eight other Newport boys who attend Manhattan Prep, arrived in Newport on the boat from New York this morning and breakfasted at the Sullivan home.

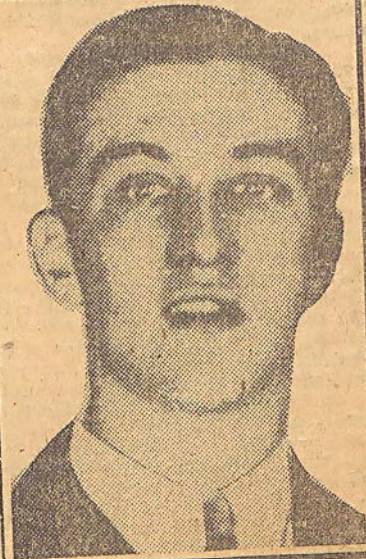

Walter is a tall, rangy lad, modest in demeanor, but not in attire, according to interviewers, who were thunderstruck by the collegiate quality of his clothes. He does not seem much interested in politics, asserting a firm intention to attend the Providence College dance after the football game instead of a Democratic rally in Newport.

MANHATTAN OFF TO MEET PROVIDENCE

A squad of twenty-one Manhattan College football players left for Providence early today for their first gridiron clash with Providence College tomorrow. The Jaspers were to work out this afternoon at Hendrick Field in Providence.

Coach Schwarzer has drilled his charges hard all week, and expressed himself as satisfied with the form of the team. He does not figure on an easy victory over the Rhode Island eleven, however, despite its weak showing against Williams and Army.

The Providence outfit has been bolstered up by the return of Lobdell, a giant tackle, and the possibility of Dubienny, injured fullback and most dependable ball carrier, getting in the game.

DOMINICANS BREAK INTO WIN COLUMN AT EXPENSE OF JASPERS

Providence College Outfit, With Powerful Running
Attack, Defeats Manhattan 18 to 7 in First Home Game of 1928 Season

Game played: October 20, 1928

Keeping whatever aerial prowess it may have under cover and reverting to a powerful running offence the Providence College eleven made an auspicious when it downed the Manhattan outfit, coached by Joe Schwartz, former aide to Chick Meehan, by an 18 to 7 score. The game is the first win of the year for the Dominicans, as they lost to Williams and the Army and tied with Norwich.

The Jaspers, who had suffered but one setback this fall, were fully prepared to meet an overhead attack by the Dominicans, but they were not set for the line thrusts of Gibbons and a youngster named Foster, who was playing his second college game. This pair wreaked havoc on the New Yorkers' forward wall in the second half of the game, and it was their ability to click through the line consistently for first downs that brought the victory to Smith Hill.

Jaspers' Defence Strong

The Manhattan team had a strong defence prepared as the result of careful scouting of the past tilts of the Dominicans, but their efforts were of little use, as the White and Black hurled but six passes all afternoon. Of this number the best one was completed when Jorn, regular right end, pulled down a 25-yard heave from Fleurent in the first period.

Foster proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that he is one of the best running backs that Golembeski has on his roster. Time and again the Pittsfield ball carrier took the oval when yardage was necessary to retain possession of the ball, and swept through the Jasper line, which outweighed the locals, to continue twisting until knocked down by the secondary defence.

He accounted for two touchdowns, and he well deserved the honor of scoring them. His first score came as the result of a five-yard thrust through right tackle after the Dominicans had blocked a punt in the shadow of the Manhattan goal, and the second came in the third period after he had collected 25 yards of 30 to be gained, and crashed over the final tape with half the Manhattan line piling on top of him.

The four "M's" of the Providence squad, McGovern, Minella, McAlevy and Matthews, came through with flying colors and gave Archie Golebeski plenty to rejoice about as the result of their showing. McGovern, making his debut as a tackle, and incidentally starting his first college tilt, handled the left tackle berth in rare form, crashing through time and again to stop the fleet Jasper ball carriers.

Minella, Hackensack Sophomore, has not had much chance to display his grid talent, but he more than made up for it yesterday. He was in every play and in the final stages of the game when paired at the guards with McAlevy, scrappy youngster from Pawtucket, broke up many an attack, and several times hurled the runner to earth far behind the line of scrimmage. Matthews subbed for Wheeler and on his first play raced down the field to recover a Draddy fumble which was later converted into a score. Taken altogether this quartet showed more power than any combination that the mentor has used to date.

The visitors were by no means weak opposition, and at the end of the first half were on the long end of a 7 to 6 score. Led by Captain Draddy, and with McBride, fullback, and Burke, a husky halfback, they pounded the Dominican forward wall to shreds in the first half and caused the Providence mentor to switch Jim Zande into center to give the line added weight.

Burke was especially brilliant, pounding the locals' tackles at will. First he would dart through an opening in the left side of the line, and then a moment later would sweep through Captain Nawrocki of the locals to add another first down to the Jasper record. But as the game progressed this backfield lost its power and in the final quarter was barely able to defend its goal. Only once in the final period was Manhattan in Providence territory.

The game was started in rather an unique manner when a football was dropped from an airplane to the field, a stunt provided by the Sophomore class. The actual kickoff was a long boost from

Providence College does some planting-

McGOVERN

DaGata's toe, however, to Draddy, who ran to his own 30-yard tape. A test of the line convinced the Jasper leader that a kick was in order so McBride boomed a punt down the field to Fleurent, who was downed on his 30-yard stripe.

After Watterson had recovered a Manhattan fumble, and Providence failed to gain any ground, DaGata again punted, this time carooming a boot off the Manhattan 15-yard line. Burns passed wild to Burke, and before the latter could recover in time to make up any of the lost yardage, Jorn came thundering into the backfield to down him on his two-yard line. McBride went behind the line to kick, but Jorn and Watterson came in too fast and blocked the punt. DaGata recovered on the Jasper five-yard line.

First Touchdown

Foster, the Pittsfield line pounder, was summoned to the fore and he delivered with a smash through tackle which netted the first touchdown. DaGata, who was away off in his place kicking, lost the extra point when his try was blocked by Burns.

Following the next kickoff Manhattan opened with a strong attack which looked serious until DaGata intercepted a pass on his own 40-yard marker, and two plays later sent a long spiral deep into the Bronxites territory. McBride returned the kick and then the locals showed a bit of their aerial power when Fleurent passed 25 yards to Jorn, who broke clear of one runner and was headed for open field when he was pulled down from the rear.

Jaspers Score

With the ball on the Jasper 45-yard line DaGata fumbled and Burns, Jasper center, recovered. McBride broke away for 15 yards around left end, and then a long pass from McBride to Ferrari was good when Fleurent interfered with the receiver. With the ball on the local's 15-yard line, Burke counted a first down in three plunges through right tackle, and then hurled through the same section of the line for a touchdown. Capt. Draddy gave his team the lead with a well executed placement.

In the second half, with a revamped inner defence, the Smith Hillers flashed their strongest running attack. With Foster and Gibbons showing the way two touchdowns were chalked up. The first of these scores came after Matthews had gathered up a fumble by Capt. Craddy of the visitors of a DaGata punt.

With the oval on the 30 yard line, Gibbons clicked off five yards, and Foster accounted for the remainder of the distance in eight plays, finally going over for his second score. Power proved the stumbling block for DaGata, preventing the kick which would have made the White and Black score 13.

Jim Zande, veteran guard who played with a nose fracture, paved the way for the final touchdown when he retrieved a fumble of Power on Manhattan's 15-yard strife. Foster made 12 yards in two thrusts at the line, and Gibbons pounded over for the score from the three yard tape. DaGata missed the point for the third time.

On the next play, Manhattan's punt was partially blocked and Providence recovered on the five-yard line and pushed it over for first score in first period. No. 10—Gibbons, Providence back picked up five yards around end in the third period, this play being the forerunner of a Providence touchdown.

Steve Nawrocki, Providence Grid Captain, Suspended

Barred from Team for Indefinite Period for Infraction of Rules.

The suspension of Capt. Steve Nawrocki of the Providence College football squad for an indefinite period for infraction of rules was made known last night by the Dominican athletic authorities. The action is the most drastic ever taken to discipline a Black and White athlete, and is the first time that a captain of a Varsity team at the Smith Hill college has been suspended for such a cause. College authorities refused to state what rules Nawrocki had broken.

Nawrocki has been regular tackle for the past three years, and his loss at this time will undoubtedly have its effect on the work of the line against Temple University this coming Saturday. As the suspension is for an indefinite period it is not known just when the Fall River Senior will be eligible to compete with the Varsity eleven again.

To fill Nawrocki's place Coach Golembeski started intensive drilling yesterday afternoon, with Lobdell and White, Ware veteran, alternating at the post vacated by the captain. Lobdell played the entire game as a tackle against Norwich, but has been out of action since due to a shoulder bruise, while White, who starred in the Army tilt, is recuperating from a similar hurt.

The return of Johnny Dubienny and Stan Szydlu, veteran backfield men, who have been out of action for the past two weeks due to weak ankles, gave the mentor the strongest array of backfield talent that he has had at his command since the season started.

Dubienny, who served as fullback in the first two games of the season until his injury, is ready to battle DaGata to regain his position, while Szydlu will have his hands full to oust Foster out of the picture. Gibbons, being one of the best passers on the team, will have the edge on all aspirants for the right halfback assignment.

TEMPLE'S GREAT AERIAL ATTACK SMOTHERS PROVIDENCE COLLEGE

Hansen, Wearshing, Shultz and Mustovoy Toss and Receive Passes With Reckless Abandon as Owls Pile Up Score of 41 to 0

(Special to The Sunday Tribune)
Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—Unleashing a brilliant aerial attack, the like of which has not been seen here in some time, Heinie Miller's crack Temple University eleven had no trouble in sweeping the Providence College grid machine aside at the Temple Stadium here this afternoon. The final score was 41 to 0 in favor of the Owls.

Hansen, brilliant halfback, who is being prominently mentioned for all American honors, registered two of the scores made by the Owls and as a result assumes a commanding place in the ranks of the high scorers of the East. The husky halfback also shone on the defence, breaking up many of the forward passes attempted by the Dominicans.

Gibbons, Jern and Matthews were the lights in the Providence aggregation, the latter two handling the wing berths in brilliant style. Gibbons did practically all the passing for his team, and also chipped in with a few dashes through the line. His work on the defense was especially bright as his stellar performances in backing up the line prevented many a long run by the Temple flashes.

Temple started with a rush when Mustovoy took the first kick-off on the run on his own 20-yard line and raced 50 yards down the field before being downed by Watterson, Dominican centre. The play put the Owls in a fighting mood and they wasted no time in chalking up the first score. On a fake criss-cross play, Hansen shot through the line, cut past the defensive halfbacks and raced 14 yards to a touchdown.

Before the Rhode Islanders had recovered from the terrific starting rush of the Owls, another attack was started which took the pigskin to the Providence 15 yard stripe before the visitors braced and threw Hansen and his mates for a loss. However, the possession of the ball by the invaders was short lived, as Dagata failed to get his kick away and he was thrown in his tracks behind his own goal line to add two points to the Temple cause.

A 25 yard pass from Wearshing to Hansen paved the way for the second touchdown which was registered when Shultz finally pounded his way through the center of the line for the full distance. The total went to 15 a moment later when Providence was ruled off-side on Buchanan's try for the point via placement.

The Rhode Islanders presented a stubborn defense in the second and third periods, and during this time, the fast stepping Owls were able to gather but two touchdowns. The first of this pair came at the close of the half when four successive first downs, one of them resulting from a 25 yard pass, brought the ball to the two yard line from where Wearshing plunged across.

The third period tally was credited to Mustovoy, classy signal barker, who took a 10 yard pass from Marcelle and raced through the Providence aggregation for 24 yards and a touchdown. The play was one of the prettiest bits of broken field running during the entire tilt, and it proved to be the final crushing blow to the Providence hopes.

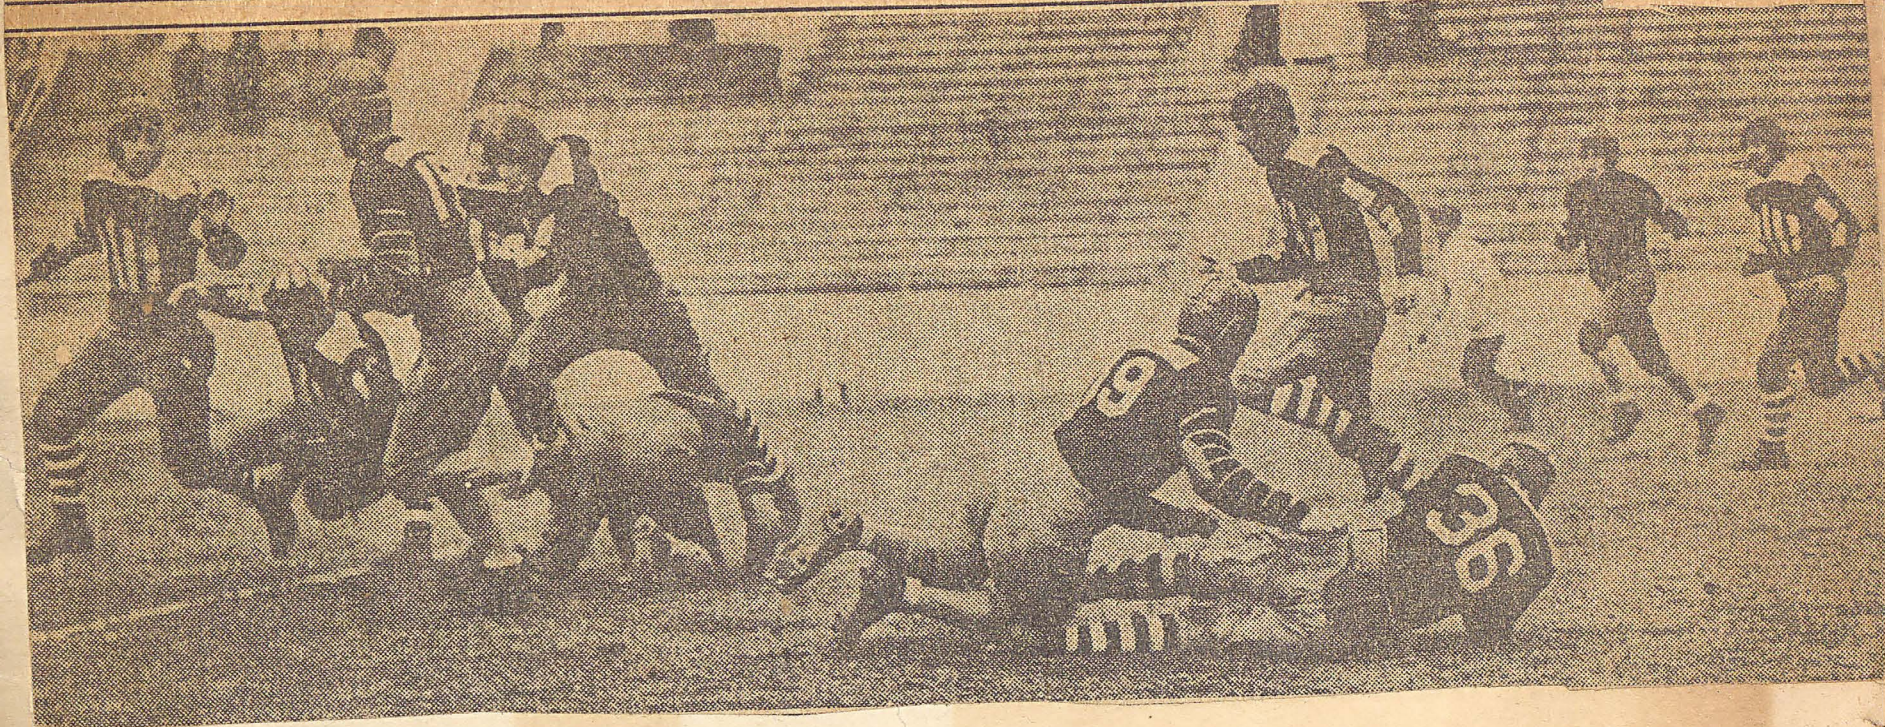

With the first string aggregation still in action in the fourth period, the score mounted to 41 when two touchdowns were collected. The first of these resulted from a 30 yard pass from Wearshing to Hansen, and the second when a series of line plunges culminated with Marcelle ploughing through the line from the three yard stripe.

Providence averted two scores by alert playing. In the third period Jim Zande, rugged guard, recovered a Temple fumble on the Dominican's one yard stripe and in the final quarter Dubieny retrieved Hansen's fumble as the latter was plunging through the line for a potential score.

Watterson, acting captain for the Dominicans, was injured on the first play of the game, suffering a dislocation and a possible fracture of his right thumb, but refused to leave the game, until the middle of the second period. The summary:

DOMINICANS SLIDE THROUGH MUD TO 0-0 TIE WITH ST. JOHN'S TEAM

Providence College on Defensive During the First Half, But Entry of Nawrocki Sends Team on Strong Comeback in Last Two Periods

(Special to The Sunday Tribune.)
 Brooklyn, Nov. 3.—For the second successive week the St. John's College eleven ended its day's activities with a scoreless game when it battled the strong Providence College outfit for four period here at Ebbets Field this afternoon with neither aggregation being able to cross the final white marker. Last week the locals had a similar tussle with St. Thomas College in Scranton.

The field was a mire of water and mud and before the game was five minutes old it was impossible to distinguish the players. Both elevens were caked with mud and many a yard was gained by sliding when tackled. Both teams discarded stockings and every unnecessary bit of equipment in an effort to offset the added poundage picked up in the furious battling on the surface of the National League ball park.

Yet in spite of the adverse conditions the game produced some sparkling bits of football and both outfits performed nobly in handling the wet pigskin as well as they did. Time and again backs fell in their tracks when unable to get a strong footing, while would-be tacklers had their efforts go for naught when it was impossible to clutch the mud-coated runner. The St. John's eleven had the advantage of mud-cleated shoes and rubber pants to aid them in their attack on the Dominicans' stronghold, but with such rainy day attire they could not uncork a scoring punch when within striking distance of the goal.

Margolies, fleet-footed ball carrier who raced 80 yards at Providence last year, was the main threat of the locals, but he was well covered by the alert Black and White ends whenever he attempted to cut loose on any long jaunts. In the fourth period he sent the St. John's rooters into an uproar when he raced down the field for 70 yards but he stepped out after completing but 15 yards of the journey and so lost his chance to be the hero of the fray.

Providence was on the defensive for the first half and several times in the opening quarter was forced to punt from behind its own goal line. But with the advent of Captain Nawrocki and Mc-

Alevy at the tackles the line stiffened and flashed a strong attack to assist the backfield in its thrusts at the St. John's forward wall.

Caked from head to foot, with jersey numbers completely obliterated, the Rhode Islanders staged a great comeback in the second half and carried the fight in the Brooklynites' territory. Using Foster and Dagata as the batting rams the scrappy visitors plowed through for three successive first downs to carry the oval to St. John's ten yard tape, from where Dagata endeavored to hoist a field goal. A surge of red jerseyed gridironers frustrated the kick, and the locals recovered on their own 45-yard stripe.

In the last quarter St. John's advanced the ball by straight football to the Providence 27-yard tape. After an unsuccessful forward, Margolies dropped back to kick, but the slippery ball eluded him, and Jorn, Dominican right end, came in fast with a clear field ahead of him should he make a clean pick-up. However, in his haste the Dominican booted the ball and before he could recover it Margolies had pounced on it to save the day. The line-up:

DOMINICANS PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE

Muddy Field Hinders Game at St. John's.—Goals Threat- ened Several Times.

(Special to the Providence Journal).
Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Ploughing through a sea of mud on Ebbets Field here this afternoon for four periods, the Providence College and St. John's College elevens ended their sixth grid tilt with neither team scoring, making the third tie game that they have played since they opened sports relations seven years ago.

The game was played under the most adverse conditions, as the field was not only soaked from the steady rainfall, but the half of the gridiron which crossed the infield of the baseball diamond was simply a mass of soggy mud. Play was halted repeatedly while the players tried to wipe some of the slime off their suits and bodies.

In spite of these conditions, however, the number of fumbles was far below what was expected. Time and again both outfits showed power, but when within striking distance of the goal were unable to uncork a scoring punch.

Play was even throughout, with both elevens collecting eight first downs apiece. The locals had the edge in the first period, forcing the Dominicans deep into their own territory, and giving Fred Dagata plenty of chances to show his punting skill. But in the second half the Rhode Islanders, with their strongest array in action, opened with a drive which gave Ray Lynch's charges plenty of worry.

Mickey Foster, elusive Pittsfield halfback, was the outstanding performer for the Dominicans. Time and again Foster was called upon to penetrate the big Red and White line and he proved equal to the task. One jaunt, off right tackle, was good for 18 yards.

Margolies, who thrilled the fans at Hendricken Field last year, was the best bet for the locals. He was well covered by Dominicans today. He did manage to pick up 15 yards on a runback of a punt in the fourth period, and after stepping offside continued along the sideline for close to 70 yards only to have his dash discounted.

Minus Joe Watterson, veteran centre, and Manley Zande, husky guard, the Rhode Islanders had their hands full to halt the line smashes of the John-ites. Sweeney, who worked the right guard berth, was injured in the first half, suffering an ankle sprain which may keep him out of action for a week.

Charlie John, at right end, came close to being the hero of the day when he dashed in and tried to scoop up A. Margolies's fumble late in the fourth period, but in his haste he kicked the ball and in the ensuing scramble Margolies recovered. Had John gained possession of the ball he would have had 70 yards of open field ahead of him.

In the first period St. John's carried the oval deep into Dominican territory and as the quarter ended was marching for a possible score. However, Gallo, halfback of the locals, fumbled on the invaders' 10-yard stripe and Fleurent, Dominican signal barker, pounced on the ball to save the day. Dagata promptly punted to midfield.

In the second period Providence had a fine chance to score but lost the opportunity when a stray forward landed in an alert St. John's man's hands. To start the attack McGovern recovered a fumbled punt on St. John's 17-yard tape. Gibbons picked up two yards through the line, but Foster was dropped for five yards loss, one of the few occasions of the day when he failed to collect yardage. Then Gibbons faked a run, and tossed down the field to Jorn, but Gallo of the locals projected himself into the picture and ran the ball back to his own 40-yard stripe.

The Dominicans' other scoring opportunity came in the fourth period when the line ripped open wide holes for Foster and Dagata and allowed them to march down the field to the local's 12-yard line. At this juncture, after three line thrusts had netted but five yards, Dagata attempted a field goal which was blocked. St. John's recovering on their own 45-yard marker.

Coast Guard Ties Dominicans

on Last Play

COAST GUARD WINGMAN GALLOPS 80 YARDS TO TIE DOMINICANS

Arthur Hesford Intercepts Aerial in Last Play at Hendricken Field to Give New Londoners
6-6 Break With Golembeski's Subs

Arthur Hesford, slim wingman on the Coast Guard Academy eleven, added his name to the roll of outstanding grid players of the year yesterday afternoon on Hendricken Field, when he intercepted what was to have been a forward pass by Joe Sharkey, Providence College quarterback, and raced 80 yards for a touchdown, the game ending in a 6 to 6 deadlock when Roberts failed to make good on his placement try for the extra point following the score.

This scintillating play was enacted with but 12 seconds of play remaining to the fray, and with half of the spectators starting from the stands to leave the game. It was as sudden as it was spectacular, and it climaxed one of the most hectic pastimes to be played on the Smith Hill lot in several years.

Minus most of his star veterans, who are on the hospital list with injuries, Coach Golembeski was forced to send most of his subs into action, and although they were unable to hold the fast charging Cadets in check all the time, yet they turned in some fine work. Time and again Halloran, Sophomore wingman, and Baeszler, rugged tackle, broke through to pull the New London ball carriers down in their tracks.

Gibbons, veteran halfback, who is suffering from a head injury; Szydla, with a bad ankle; Manley Zande, on the inactive list with a knee sprain; Sweeney, with a wrenched ankle; Wheeler with a shoulder sprain, and Murphy, who is recovering from a leg infection, were some of the mainstays who were missed as the Dominicans endeavored to hang up their second win of the year.

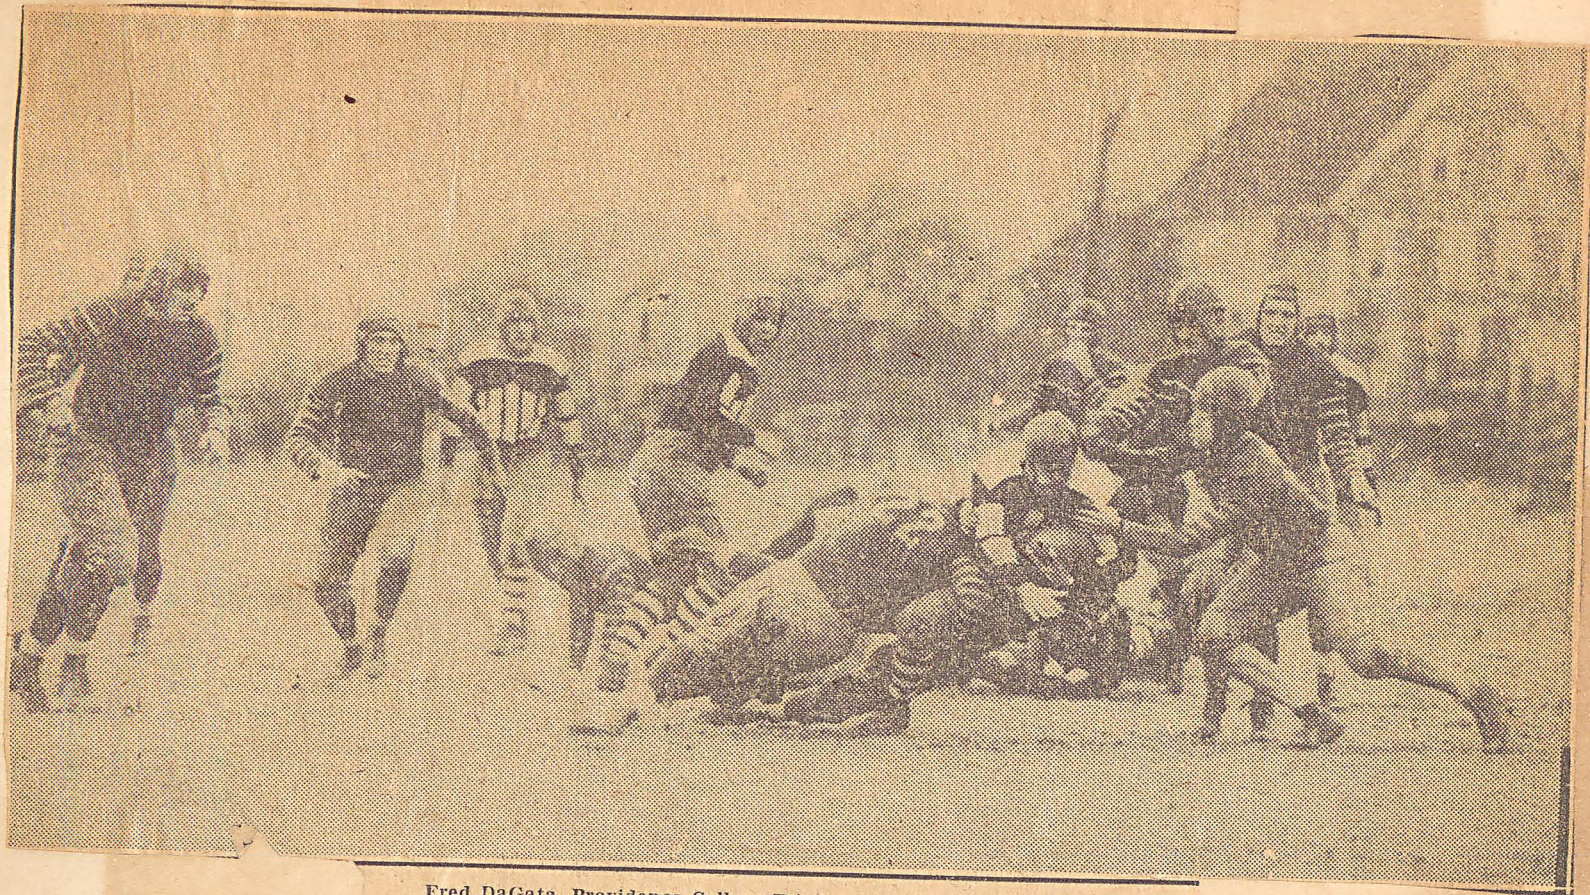

Last Play of Game

The tying tally by Hesford came as the last play of the game, and resulted from a poor choice of generalship by the Dominican eleven when it went into its huddle. With the oval resting on the Cadet 14-yard stripe, it was decided to try a forward in a last minute attempt to add to the score. Before Sharkey could take aim down the field, he was hit by two Cadet linemen and his pass went almost directly up into the air. Hesford, racing in from right end, grabbed the pigskin out of the ozone, and with Slade as intererter, dashed down the field at top speed.

Then, with the game over, except for the try for the point, Roberts, sub signal caller of the Cadets carefully prepared for a placement kick. The Guardsmen got his boot off all right, but it headed straight for the cross bar, striking it and bounding back onto the field to save the day for the Dominicans.

Brady, Sophomore, from Pawtucket, who is shaping up as one of the real finds of the season, and Foster, yearling ball carrier from Pittsfield, were the shining lights of the fray for the locals. Time and again this pair of stalwarts ripped through the Cadet forward wall, following their interference like veterans, to collect the bulk of the yardage gleaned by the Smith Hill contingent. Brady also contributed several fine aeri-als, one going to Matthews for six yards, another to Foster for 10, and a third to Jorn which was good for eight yards.

Helping Dominicans to Score

Fred DaGata, Providence College Triple Threat, Knifing Through the Coast Guard Academy Line for a Substantial Gain in the Black and White March to a Score in the First Period of Yesterday's Tie Game.

The Dominicans broke through with a touchdown as the first quarter was ending. After a drive on the Cadet goal had failed, Wendland kicked to midfield where Dubienny was downed in his tracks. DaGata clicked off four yards, and Dubienny made it a first down when he shot through right tackle for six more. Foster added the same number, and after Dubienny had been tossed for a five yard loss, Sharkey heaved a pass to Foster that was good for eight yards and a first down on the Cadet 20 yard line.

Matthews Tallies Touchdown

After an unsuccessful thrust at the line, Sharkey faked a run, then dropped back and tossed a pass far off to the left side of the line where Dixie Matthews, former Tech luminary, made a spectacular running catch crossing the goal line without a single Guardsman interfering. Dubienny's placement for the extra counter went wide of the posts.

This six points looked mighty big as the Cadet continued to stave off all assaults on their goal line in the later stages of the game. Several times, with Brady and Foster leading the way, the Providence machine rolled to within striking distance of the invader's final tape, but was never able to pound through for a score.

To the locals goes the palm for staging the greatest goal line defence of the year. After a Cadet attack had carried the ball to the Providence one yard line, the Dominicans presented a stonewall which refused to budge, and four assaults by Coast Guard backs netted nary an inch, DaGata kicking from behind his own goal line after this garrison stand, got away a good punt to his own 30 yard tape.

The White and Black's best bid for a score came in the third period when they rang up eleven first downs to four for the New Londoners. A steady march down the field carried the oval to the Cadet 15-yard line where it was lost on downs, the last two plays being unsuccessful serials.

Hardly had Wendland kicked out of danger than the Dominicans opened fire again, this time marching to the 10-yard line before being held for downs. Wendland, rangy halfback, whose stellar work in basketball last winter against the Dominicans resulted in their defeat at New London, continued to get away beautiful punts to keep his goal line safe.

Brady's Good Work

The final rush, which ended most disastrously for the locals, was started when Brady skirted left end for 20 yards, carrying the ball to midfield before being downed. Then the Pawtucket youngster picked up seven yards through the line and Foster made it a first down. A 10-yard pass from Sharkey was caught by Foster who rang through the Coast Guard defence to their 14-yard tape before being hauled to earth. Then came the fatal pass which Hesford converted into a score for his team by his "Heads up" bit of football.

SPRINGFIELD TROUN- CES PROVIDENCE COLLEGE, 12-6

Dominicans, Minus Regulars, Fail to Show Strong Punch

Dubienny Paves Way for Touchdown with 66-Yard Run.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
Springfield, Mass., Nov. 17.—With a squad depleted by injuries during the past week, Providence College made a strong stand against the Springfield College eleven here this afternoon before going down on the short end of a 12 to 6 score.

Fighting stubbornly at every turn, the Dominicans, with a scrub backfield, were unable to stage an effective attack when in possession of the ball, except when they broke loose a few times with a well executed aerial advance.

Johnny Dubienny, rugged fullback, replaced DaGata, veteran fullback, who was unable to play owing to injury. Dubienny turned in the finest individual play of the afternoon when he intercepted a Springfield forward pass on his own 30-yard line and ran to the Springfield four-yard stripe before being brought to earth. Two plays later, he smashed over for the only score for the Providence machine.

The Dominicans wheeled into action with their ranks depleted of veterans, while the locals were able to field their strongest array since they faced Harvard. Providence gridlers who were unable to take part in the tilt this afternoon were DaGata, regular fullback; Foster halfback; Szyda, halfback; Wheeler, end; Lobdell, sub tackle, and McVarish and Buckley, scrub ends. Wattersen, veteran centre, was able to play for but five minutes, owing to a finger fracture.

Williamson, clever all-round athlete and captain of the local team, was the outstanding performer in their attack.

He shared in the passing, did all the punting, and contributed several brilliant runbacks and end sweeps. His kicking was the most spectacular that the Dominicans have run up against this fall. Every boot was hoisted to the sidelines, and time and again he forced the Providence machine to within the shadows of their own posts.

Montegano, former La Salle youngster, started at one halfback berth and, aside from slight nervousness, handled himself well. Mal Brown, dusky Amherst performer, relieved him in the second half and gave a fine exhibition of defensive play.

Turco, who starred for Westerly high a couple of years ago, broke into the lineup for the first time this fall, and proved a real find. He showed ability to plug the line and was on the receiving end of several of Fleurent's passes.

After a first period that developed into a punting duel between Dubienny of the visitors and Williamson of the locals, with the latter having the edge, the Gymteachers uncorked an offence which enabled them to collect their first touchdown.

With the oval on the Dominican 30-yard line, Williamson called for a quick kick, and booted the pigskin offside on the Providence 10-yard tape. Hurried in his attempt to return the kick, Dubienny got away a poor hoist, the ball going offside in the air over his own 25-yard marker.

After Duncan had picked up three yards through the line, he circled right end on a double reverse play which caught the Dominicans unawares, and raced to the Providence one-yard stripe before being downed by Brady. Simonson smashed through centre for a score on the following play, but McAlevy broke through to smother Wolynek's try for the extra point via dropkick.

The second and winning touchdown was registered when a Springfield advance was halted by the aggressive Black and White forward wall. Williamson's kick on the fourth down rolled over the goal line. Gibbons went in for Brady and tried a pass on the first play from his own 20-yard line, but it was incomplete.

Standing on his own 10-yard marker, Dubienny took a low pass from centre, and before he could get his kick under way, Jenkins, husky tackle for the locals, smashed through and blocked it. In the scramble that followed, Clark, gymteacher guard, recovered the ball as it rolled over the Providence goal line. Williamson's try went wide.

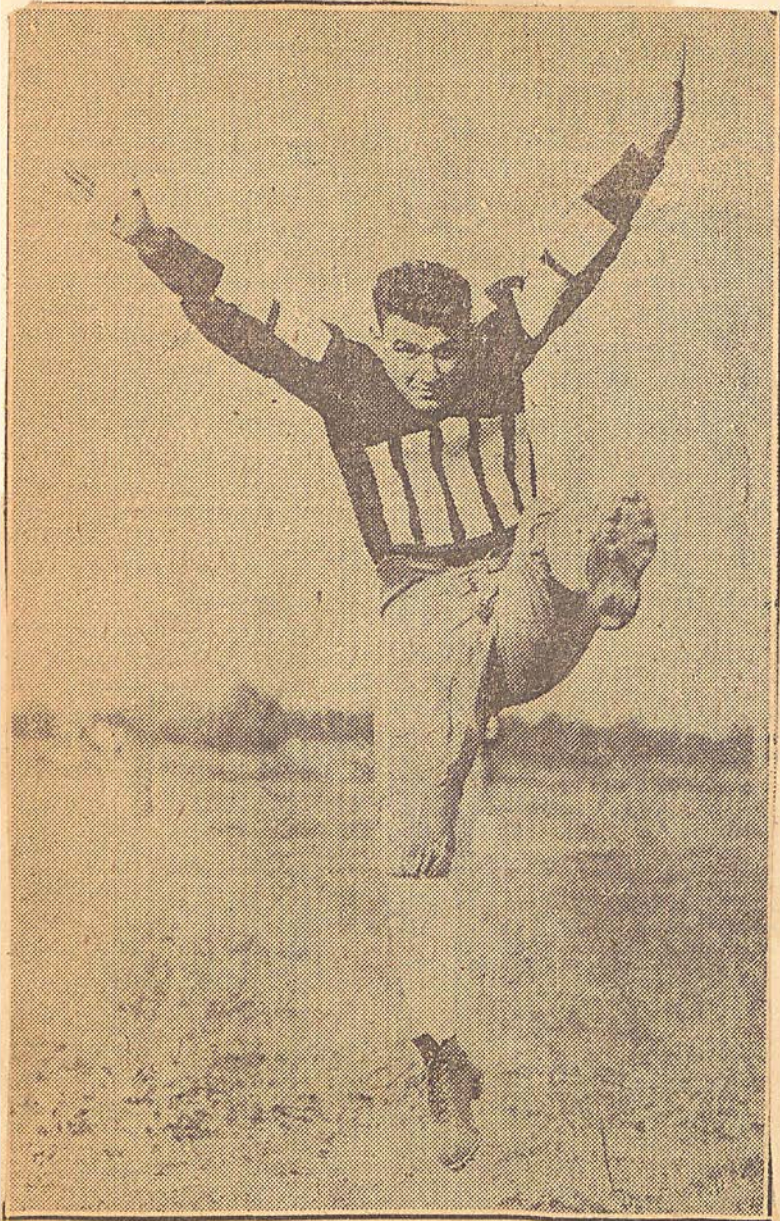

The Dominicans were at their best in the third quarter, but their running attack was never able to really get started. It was in this period that Dubienny, hard-working full back, brought the crowd to its feet with his sensational bit of field running. Williamson shot a flat pass over the centre of the line and Dubienny leaped into the air to intercept it on his own 30-yard stripe.

Catching the ball on the run, he raced to open field on the right, and, while two of his mates eliminated two Springfield players within striking distance, he sped over the marks with the entire local eleven in hot pursuit. Bell, fleet back, finally overtook the Dominican four yards from the goal, and as the latter attempted to sidestep him, he was crashed to earth. The run was for 66 yards.

Turco plugged the line for three yards on the first play following. Then Dubienny was given the ball and he plunged through the line with ease. Fleurent endeavored to collect the additional point with a dropkick, but the ball went wide.

HOLY CROSS TROUNCES PROVIDENCE COLLEGE,

Blocked Kicks Pave Way for Crusaders' Large Score

Dominicans Unable to Make Any Progress Even Against Subs at Worcester.

Game played: November 24, 1928

(Special to the Providence Journal) Worcester, Mass., Nov. 24.—Using practically every member of his large squad, Cleo O'Donnell saw his charges bury the Providence College outfit under an avalanche of touchdowns here this afternoon to win a one-sided football game by a score of 44 to 0. The game was the final one of the year for the Dominicans, and the final test for the locals before they tackle the undefeated Boston College machine.

The Crusaders had no trouble in routing the Black and White on Fitton Field, and even with subs dotting the lineup were able to pile up their commanding lead. Strange as it may seem, it was not until the fourth quarter, when many of the regulars were injected into the game to relieve the tired subs, that the Dominicans flashed any kind of real defensive football.

holding the locals scoreless through that quarter.

Of all the Crusader backfield aces who flashed across the slippery turf at Fitton Field, Joe Meegan, who weighs but 140 pounds, proved the outstanding performer of the day. Meegan replaced Manfreda near the end of the second period and made the longest run of the day when he broke through the Providence line and went 56 yards before being overtaken by Dixie Matthews. This run paved the way for the sixth touchdown.

The highly touted aerial attack of the visitors was only partially revealed, a strong march via the overhead route putting the locals on the defence in the first period when a score threatened. This attack was started after Jorn had recovered a fumble in midfield. A clever pass from Fleurent to Jorn gave the Rhode Islanders a first down on the Crusader 25-yard stripe, but the succeeding pass play went awry. Carnicell intercepting to prevent a possible score.

Playing their last game for the Dominicans, Steve Nawrocki, captain and husky right tackle, and Joe Watterson, scrappy centre who lasted almost the entire game although he has a fractured finger, turned in exceptionally fine exhibitions. Nawrocki was all over the field making tackles and breaking up thrusts at his side of the line, while Watterson shone with his fine defensive tactics as roving centre.

Three of Dubenny's punts were blocked, two being converted directly into scores, and the third paving the way for a touchdown. DaGata, star kicker, was able to enter the fray for the last half, and his ability to hoist some long spirals deep in Holy Cross territory aided the invaders.

Brady was the only back able to reel off any yardage by rushing the ball. The fleet Pawtucket Sophomore dashed around right end for 20 yards on one try, and on another circled the left wing for 15 more.

Holy Cross scored its first touchdown soon after the start of the first period. Providence took the initial kickoff, but was unable to gain and so resorted to kicking. Dubenny's punt went offside on his own 40-yard line and the Crusader backfield immediately took advantage of the break. After successive thrusts at the line had brought the ball to the 26-yard line, Dowling shot a pass to Drals, who took the ball on the run and crossed the goal line without any opposition. Baker missed the try for point.

After Providence had staged a threatening rally which carried the pigskin well into Holy Cross territory before Carnicell intercepted a pass, the locals pointed toward the Dominican goal posts again. Kicking with the wind, Baker hoisted a long spiral down the field, the ball rolling offside on the Providence four-yard stripe. A moment later Dubenny's kick was partly blocked, Holy Cross taking possession on the Black and White's 12-yard stripe.

A series of line bucks carried the ball to the two-yard line, where Dowling pounded his way through tackle for the second score of the day. Baker made good on his placement.

In the second period the Crusaders opened up with a powerful attack assisted by a strong forward wall which smothered every attempt of the Dominicans. Dubienny had a kick blocked which went to the locals on the Providence 26-yard stripe, and with Dowling and Garrity leading the way the Purple machine rolled over for the third score.

Shortly after the following kickoff, Kucharski blocked another one of Dubienny's kicks and scooped up the ball to plunge over the goal line for a score. Holy Cross again kicked off, and when the Dominicans attempted an aerial advance Garrity caused trouble by intercepting a Gibbons pass on the Providence 27-yard line. A 17-yard aerial from Manfred to Carnicelli netted 17 yards and brought the ball to the nine-yard line, where Manfreda circled end for a touchdown to make the score 31.

Then came Meegan's brilliant run from scrimmage, when he shot through the centre of the line, picked up his interference and proceeded to dodge past the Providence secondary. When he was apparently headed for a touchdown, Dixie Matthews injected his frame into the spotlight and hauled the flashy Crusader back to earth on the Providence 20-yard line. A series of line plunges paved the way for the score a few minutes later, however.

The Rhode Islanders stiffened in the second half and at times more than held their own. Only one score was made in the last 20 minutes of play, with DaGata helping out with some fine punting. The single touchdown of this half of the game came as the result of Meegan's 23-yard run through tackle to the Dominican 29-yard tape. A few plays later the same youngster knifed his way through tackle for nine yards and a touchdown. Finn missed the goal and the score remained 44.

COACH GOLEMBESKI

N. Y. U. LEADS EAST IN SCORING

Violent Violets Pile up 316 Points; Georgetown's 299 Second

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—With the 1928 football season a thing of the past, Boston College stands alone as the East's only unbeaten and untied eleven. The Eagles made sure of perfect rating for the season by trouncing their traditional rival, Holy Cross, yesterday, 19 to 0.

Villanova and Lowell Textile have the next best records with seven victories and a tie in eight starts.

High scoring honors go to New York University with 316 points, Georgetown is second with 299, followed in order by Pennsylvania, 271; Davis and Elkins, 266; Boston College, 263; Schuylkill, 259, and Lafayette, 237.

On the other hand, Trinity and Bates finished their seasons without scoring a point. The University of Pittsburgh holds the best defensive record, only 15 points being scored against the Panthers in a nine-game schedule, against such opponents as Carnegie Tech, West Virginia, Nebraska, Syracuse, Penn State and Washington and Jefferson.

DESPITE the fact that Providence College experienced a disastrous season from the standpoint of winning games, so much so that Coach Archie Golembeski had considerable difficulty counting the victories on two fingers, the Smith Hill solons awarded letters to 25 players, four more than in any preceding season.

Like Tuss McLaughry of the Bears, Golly gave playing opportunities to more men than ever before, a series of injuries to Varsity gridder forcing him to make numerous calls on the substitutes. When the subject of letter awards was discussed by the committee it was voted to reward all who had been faithful in the performance of duty.

It was reported a short time ago that Providence alumni were gunning for Golembeski's scalp as the result of the string of defeats, but those in close touch with the situation maintain that the former Holy Cross star will be back at the helm when the 1929 candidates report for work. The election of Martin Gibbons to the captaincy has struck a popular chord. The Clinton, Mass., student possesses rare qualities of leadership and should be one of the best captains in the short football history of the college.

Providence College Fetes Athletes of 1928 Teams

Faculty, Friends and Students
Gather for Annual Testimonial.

Spurred on by the thrill of a basketball victory over Dartmouth on Wednesday, close to 250 students and friends of Providence College's athletic teams gathered last night at Knights of Columbus Hall to pay homage to the athletes who so honorably have worn the Black and White on diamond, grid-iron and indoor court during the fast waning year. It was a happy party and one through which ran the spirit of P. C. exemplifying as it does the spirit of true sportsmen.

Athletic banquets at Providence College have come to be a yearly institution. Each year the athletes are similarly feted and the Senior class each year takes upon itself the task of supervising the occasion. This year it was the class of 1929 which arranged the affair and it was the President of that class, John D. Coghlan, who was toastmaster and master of ceremonies.

Given prestige by the presence of Mayor James E. Dunne, the speakers list included Rev. Lorenzo McCarthy, O. P., President of the college; Rev. Jordan Baeszler, O. P., director of athletics, and the three coaches of major athletic teams—Jack Flynn of the victorious baseball nine, Archie Golembeski of the football team and Al McClellan of the basketball team which furnished the immediate impetus to an enthusiasm that knew unlimited bounds.

The Mayor, forced to hurry away to keep another engagement, extended the greetings of the city of Providence to the college which bears its name. "Providence and the people of Providence are interested in you and what you are doing," he said. "The citizens are proud of your athletic achievements and of the fine spirit which has firmly established itself as a part of your college life." He paid tribute to the athletic coaches as well as to the athletes themselves.

He could tell the secret, he said, of why Providence College's great baseball team lost two of its games and but for him might have lost a third and by far a most important decision. He attended the Villa Nova game, he said, Providence lost. He attended a Brown game and again Providence lost. He was present at the final memorable playoff contest with the college on the hill. Toward the end of the game, he declared, he thought of how he had seen Providence twice in defeat and so he decided to leave and carry with him any jinx that his presence might impose. And Providence won that game.

Coach Flynn told interestingly of the baseball season and of the will to win which carried his 1928 team to great heights. Jokingly he said, he had been looking for a long time for the reason why P. C. lost two games last spring. His old schoolmate, Mayor Dunne, had finally enlightened him. He suggested that the Mayor be kept out of the ball park in future when there were important decisions at hand.

"Other speakers have asked you always to keep in front of you the spirit of Providence College and what it means," he said. "I might add this thought to that: That you always keep ahead of your opponents."

Music, mass singing and cheers enlivened the gastronomic exercises which preceded the speaking program.

Dr. McCarthy delivered an inspiring address directed not only at the athletes but at the entire student body as well. There was room, he said, for extra-curricula activities in college life and he believed in athletics as an important part of them. Tempering sterling advice with an indisputable sincerity, the President declared that whatever success came to one in after years must have been founded in a spirit of unselfishness in earlier life.

Dr. McCarthy expressed the deep and sincere appreciation of the college and of the faculty to the several coaches who had moulded into the men entrusted to them the spirit of true sportsmanship. And then as a closing gesture of appreciation to the athletes and students themselves, he made the most enthusiastically received announcement of the evening. "Tomorrow there will be a holiday for you," he said.

Father Baeszler said there would be no announcements of schedules for the coming year at this time. Exchange of contracts with one or two colleges had not yet been completed, he said, but "the most attractive baseball and football schedules in the history of the college" were in prospect for 1929, he declared. He expressed gratification over the fact that P. C. athletes had so conducted themselves on the field of competition that there appeared a preponderance of Providence men on "all-opponent" teams of most of the college's competitors of the past year. Father Baeszler thanked the newspapers for the generous support they have given P. C. in its athletic endeavors.

Coach McClellan told the story of the fortitude of Capt. "Toady" Wheeler of the basketball team in playing through both the Northwestern and Dartmouth games under physical and mental strain which would have kept a less stout-hearted youth on the sidelines. He predicted a triumph over Yale tomorrow night at New Haven and assured those present that "Providence will be sitting on top when the basketball season ends."

Coach Golembeski thanked the members of the football squad for their cooperation and lauded their honest desire to give their all for their team. P. C. football teams would deliver much more pronounced successes, he said, when circumstances permitted "staying in one's own back-yard," and playing opponents who were more nearly on a par with the youthful Providence institution.

To Lead Dominicans

"Marty" Gibbons, Providence College Backfield Ace, Who Was Elected Captain of the 1929 Eleven at a Meeting of the Lettermen Yesterday.

Gibbons Is Named Captain of 1929 Dominican Eleven

Halfback is Elected Following Award of Letters to 25 Players.

The award of Varsity athletic insignia to 25 players and the subsequent election of Martin Gibbons of Clinton, Mass., to captain the Varsity eleven next year, concluded the football activities of the year at Providence College yesterday. Gibbons has been a regular halfback for the past two years and is one of the most versatile athletes at the Smith Hill college. He also starred in baseball as regular left fielder on Jack Flynn's championship nine, and is counted upon to retain that position when the Dominicans turn their attention to baseball next year.

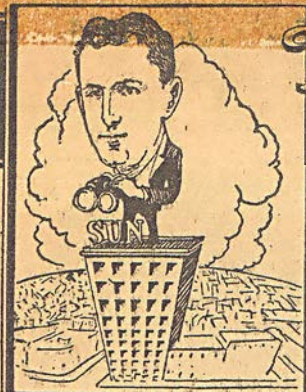

Gibbons won the captaincy over Jim Zande, regular lineman, who has been a regular guard for the past three campaigns. Incidentally it is the second time in the short athletic history of the Dominican college that a backfield man has received the captaincy. The last ball carrier to be so honored was Joe McGee, who served as halfback on the 1922 eleven, which he captained.

During the past fall Gibbons led the locals in their scoring, registering three touchdowns, in addition to turning in a brilliant all-round season as a defensive back. He is an exceptionally fine forward passer and as a result fitted well into the style of play followed by Archie Golembeski.

The number of lettermen is larger by four than any previous season. The increase in awards is due to the fact that Coach Golembeski was forced to use a larger force in completing the nine-game schedule of the Black and White eleven.

The players announced as lettermen at the meeting held yesterday are as follows: Capt. Stephen Nawrocki, Capt.-elect Martin Gibbons, Joseph Watterson, John Baeszler, Frederick Dagata, John Dubienny, Adelard Fleurent, Michael Foster, John Halloran, Charles Jaworski, Charles Jorn, Charles McAlevy, Mark McGovern, Howard Matthews, Joseph Minella, Thomas Murphy, Charles Ritter, Joseph Sharkey, Leonard Sweeney, Stanley Szydlu, Laurence Wheeler, Gordon White, John Brady, James Zande and Manley Zande. In addition insignia was bestowed on the student managers, Francis Flynn and Louis Wust.

Of the players listed above only two will be lost by graduation next June, as Steve Nawrocki and Joe Watterson, veterans of four campaigns, completed their collegiate grid careers against Holy Cross last month. As a result of the strong nucleus available for another season, the Dominicans look forward to a fine record during 1929.

The LOOKOUT

By JOHN F. KENNEY
Sports Editor

Sullivan An Idol

THEY STOOD here in the sports department, a little timidly, uneasy too in their earnest endeavor to put across the idea that they were not seeking publicity for themselves. Ray Reid, captain-elect of the Lowell high football team and John Machado, a reserve who is trying to earn himself a regular position on the first string eleven next fall, told me they were "delegates" from Tom Keady's squad "and would you kindly tell the public how much we, of the team, would like to see Spencer Sullivan come back to coach the line again next fall."

"But Mr. Sullivan has withdrawn as a candidate for an assistant's post under Mr. Keady," I said, almost interrogatively, for I knew they had more to say.

"Yes, that's just what makes it kinda hard," said Reid, "but because the Lowell high football players feel as they do, I wonder if there is a way of drafting him? Honestly, he built up that whole line last fall. We all think that Mr. Keady would reappoint him if he changes his mind about stepping out of the job. I don't know whether I'm doing the right thing or not to come here and do this, but I've seen most of the players and they all want me to do something about having Mr. Sullivan come back. Please make it plain that Mr. Keady has the whole say-so on the matter and we know it. At the same time, we all want Mr. Sullivan and we hope he will come back."

A Great Tribute, Isn't It?

The hesitantly addressed remarks of this schoolboy captain-elect, who was representing his squad, burned into my mind as one of the finest tributes I've ever known a coach to be paid by his charges.

Without formality, the gilded trappings of adulation, back slapping or public speech-making, here was a football captain speaking, four months after a season had closed, with a fellow-member at his side probably for moral support, coming forward to tell a sports writer that even after the idol of his squad had stepped out of the picture, they still wanted him to return. What heights of confidence to place in a man!

Spencer Sullivan, tackle at Providence College and who gave three varsity years to Lowell high before he entered college, was named by Tom Keady last spring along with Fred Drescher, formerly of Holy Cross, shortly after Keady had been nominated head coach as successor to Joe Nolan by the Lowell high athletics committee.

Sullivan was widely known as a football enthusiast. During the fat years before 1930, when he was hydraulic engineer in the city of Yonkers, N. Y., Sullivan never missed a major football attraction in New York, saw several Army and Fordham games, and made a hobby of charting the plays at his home several evenings after he gave the college elevens the scouting eye from the stadium. When his department was merged with another by a new administration at Yonkers city hall, Sullivan lost his civil service position and returned to Lowell, his native city.

Coaching His Hobby

When possible, he attended the big games in Boston or at the Harvard stadium. He continued to chart smart plays, watched the line, recommended several prospects to Coach Bill Golembeskie at Providence College before the latter quit the berth and all in all, remained football-minded even in the most torrid days of summer when the gridiron game is farthest from most other people's thoughts.

The den of his home in Highland avenue is "littered" as Mrs. Sullivan—the former Lillian Cochran—says with charts, footballs he grapped out of the pile on the last play of the big games in which he played, photographs of every coach whom he has met, group pictures galore and a shelf of scrap books that contain every account of gridiron classics, strange plays, long runs and other football sidelights that he has been able to pick up in his years as an addict.

It takes no flight of imagination, as I can honestly see his reaction, to visualize his enthusiasm when Tom Keady announced that he was to be one of his aids. The salary attached was negligible. Sullivan and Drescher received $150 each for their season's work, but The Sun and other journals have last fall recorded his warmth of spirit in applying himself to the job he held; how he'd get down in the line with his pupils, order plays to be run through him to show how the defensive tackle, guard or end worked and strictly speaking, took a physical licking from his own boys in the belief that practical demonstration was the best way of conveying the lesson at hand.

Squad "Crazy About Him"

The writer delved into a few of these matters he happens to know about Spencer Sullivan and Ray Reid and John Machado listened attentively. When I stopped, Reid spoke again.

"Mr. Sullivan was out in uniform every single day of the season," he said, "and, no kidding, we were crazy about him. He always had something to say when we came off the field, seemed real worried if any guy on the team was a little back in his studies and was a pal to all of us. Can't the football players I'm representing get you to change his mind? We hope that Mr. Keady will name him again if he does change his mind. Isn't that right, Johnny? Tell him."

Machado, silent up to now, wagged his stocking-capped head. "Boy, I'll say so, sir," he said. "That goes for everybody on the club."

Sullivan has given as his reason for stepping out, the possibility of employment in a business that would occupy all his time. Can't it be done at all, Spencer? It's up to you. Perhaps Mr. Keady feels the same way about it.

New Grid Coach At Setonia Prep

Joe Waterson of Providence
College Succeeds Tierney
This Fall

When the White and Blue warriors of Seton Hall Prep report for football practise next week at Setonia Field, they will find a new coach waiting to send them through their daily drills.

The Prep athletic authorities announced today that they had secured the services of Joseph Waterson, former Providence College star, to succeed Jack Tierney, who guided the Prepsters last season. Tierney will not return to Seton Hall because of pressure of business.

The new coach first played football at Berkeley High School in New London, Conn. He played four full years of high school and in his last two seasons was named as a tackle on the all-state team.

Upon graduating from high school, Joe entered Providence College and since that time has been actively engaged in football, both as a player and coach. He left Providence College with a remarkable record for football and classroom excellency. He is one of the very few athletes ever to graduate with a cum laude. During his playing career at Providence Waterson handled every line assignment. Since leaving college, he has played and coached professional football in New London and Providence.

VICTORY SONG

Our banners bright are everywhere,
The shouts of Providence fill the air,
In every game
Our boys just fight for Providence's name.
So let us help them in the fray,
For Providence must win today.
For our Alma Mater sing,
Let this cry of victory ring.

Chorus

Oh here they come in all their splendor,
Bearers of the Black and White,
And when they've won to them we'll render
Songs and cheers for their glorious fight.
Oh Providence, Fair Providence,
Victory's sun today you'll see,
May your sons, march with banners ever high
On the road to Victory.

Special Dispatch to the Globe

NEW HAVEN, Dec 15 ¹⁹²⁸ A smart Providence College basket-ball five came from behind with a rush tonight to defeat Yale, 28 to 27, in a highly exciting game at the Yale gymnasium.

The Elis held their lead in the early part of the game and had a one-point margin at haltime, leading, 15 to 14.

Shortly after their half opened Yale hit a streak of fine playing and ran its score until Providence trailed at 23 to 16 about midway through the second half.

At this point Yale's attack went to pieces and Providence hit its stride. The visitors closed up on Yale basket by basket, with McCue and Kreiger starring, and Kreiger finally put his team ahead for the first time since the first minute of the second half, when he made good on a try from foul.

This was followed by baskets by Gainer and Wineapple, which gave Providence a four-point lead. Linehan scored for Yale, but Kreiger scored another foul right afterwards.

Capt Fodder of Yale had a chance to tie the score and to give Yale what would have been the winning point at the very end of the game when he scored a basket and was fouled by Szydla on the play. His basket put the score at its final standing, 28 to 27, but Referee Hayes gave him two free shots from the foul line. He missed both.

In the few seconds that were left, Yale could not get possession of the ball and Providence held its one point advantage.

The victory evened the count between the two teams in basket ball. Two years ago Yale won from Providence. No game was played last season.

Yale's inability to score on free throws meant defeat to the Blue team which showed flashes of exceptional power. Yale scored on three of 15 attempts from fouls. Providence played a smarter all around game and had better floor work. The summary:

Providence College tonight defeated Yale for the first time in the history of their annual basketball series. The score was 28 to 27.

The victory was the second in succession by Providence over members of the Intercollegiate League in three days. The score tonight was tied six times. Yale led at the intermission, 15 to 14.

Krieger, McCue and Wineapple shared scoring honors for Providence. For Yale, Linehan, substitute centre, and Cook, first string guard, led in point production with 6 and 7, respectively.

Providence played almost entirely without substitutions, while Coach Taylor sent two Yale fives upon the floor.

Although Providence forged into a 3-to-0 lead, Yale soon tied at 3 points all, and neither team took a four-point advantage before half time.
Yale surged into a 21-to-16-point lead in opening the second half, but a shake-up in the visiting playing order soon halted the Yale scoring and the count was tied at 25 points until the final three minutes. Yale's basket shooting after fouls cost the game. Only three out of four were thrown.

CAPT WHEELER, Center

DOMINICANS TO PLAY 21 GAMES

Basket Season Opens Saturday in Boston With Northeastern

That Providence College aspires to hoist its colors as high in the collegiate basketball realm as they did in baseball last spring is evidenced by the brilliant array of strong opposition listed by Graduate Manager John E. Farrell of the Dominican college and announced this morning. The schedule comprises 21 games, longer by five contests than any previous hoop list of the Smith Hillers, with the opening tilt carded for next Saturday night with Northeastern University at Boston.

The appearance of the Army and Holy Cross on the locals list in the indoor sport form the bright spots in the fine card, while the listing of all the outstanding quintets of New England will give the Dominicans a fine claim to the title for this part of the country if they can turn in an unblemished record. The Army game is to be played at West Point on Feb. 20, while a two game series has been effected with the Crusaders, the first game being at Worcester on Jan. 19, and the return tilt here on Feb. 2.

The Brown game, and incidentally the competition is still limited to one contest, will be staged at the Brown court on March 6, and will serve as the finale for the White and Black basketweavers. Last winter the Dominicans turned in an impressive 31 to 19 win over the Bruins before the largest crowd of the year at Elmgrove avenue plant.

Many changes have been effected in the schedule to include new opponents as well as to return some of the teams that met the Smith Hillers on the court two years ago, but were missing from the list last winter. Northeastern, Yale, Lowell Tech and the Crescent A. C. of Brooklyn, are the teams not met last campaign who reappear on the new program.

Newcomers to the list are Penn State College, which is located in East Stroudsburg, Pa., and the strong St. Thomas College five of Scranton, Pa., both of whom will be met on the holiday trip of the locals, Holy Cross scheduled for a home and home series; Army, marking the continuance of athletic relations begun with the football game at West Point this past fall, and Worcester Polytech.

With practically a veteran team available for duty this winter, Coach McClellan has high hopes of turning out a fine outfit to carry the White and Black colors through a successful season.

The only players lost by graduation last year were Murphy, captain and a guard, and Heck Allen, flashy forward.

Dec. 8, Northeastern University at Boston; 12, Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H.; 15, Yale at New Haven; 18, St. John's at Brooklyn, N. DOMINICANS OFF TO GOOD START

White and Black Too Strong for North- eastern, 42-31

(Special to Sunday Tribune)

Boston, Mass., Dec. 8.—Eddie Wineapple, star guard on the Providence College basketball team proved too much for the Northeastern University hoopsters here to-night and as a result the Dominicans were able to register a clean cut 42 to 31 win in one of the hardest fought opening games ever played in the Johnson Memorial Gym. Wineapple accounted for 24 of the points collected by the visitors.

Northeastern flashed a strong game in the first half and was more than holding its own as the half time gun sounded. At the intermission the count was 18 to 14 in favor of the locals and the crowded gymnasium, taxed to capacity by the largest crowd ever to witness a game there, was in high spirits at the thought of a Northeastern victory in the opening clash.

But Coach Al McClellan's hoopsters took the floor after the rest and proceeded to race through the Huskies with mid-season form. McCue collected a basket from near the sidelines, and Capt. Wheeler evened the score with a toss from outside the defence. Then Wineapple, the big threat of the invaders, came through with a hoist from near mid-floor which gave his team the lead which they held and increased as the tilt continued.

Tiffany, former New Bedford high ace, who was the highest scorer in the Bristol County League two years ago, was the big noise in the locals' attack in the first half, caging four field goals from difficult angles, but he was well covered by Szydla of the Dominicans in the latter stage of the game and was unable to threaten the Providence net.

Game played: December 8, 1928

Wineapple's high scoring activities may be traced to the effective passing of McCue and Krieger, clever forwards of the invaders. The Paterson pair were well covered by the local guards, and as a result they used their versatile teammate as the scoring player. Most of Wineapple's shots were made from close under the hoop, the rugged Salem athlete racing through the Northeastern defence to hoist the leather over the rim for scores.

Gainor, who is making quite a name for himself as a boxer in Providence amateur circles, proved equally adept at basketball. Replacing Wheeler in the second period this rangy youngster flashed a strong game at center and broke through for two field goals and added a foul goal for good measure.

PROVIDENCE LOOMS IN THE COURT GAME

Basket-Ball Forces Lining Up for Season's Test

Pere Marquette Strong—Plans for Demonstration Meeting

By D. J. McGUINNESS

While it is a trifle early to predict what New England college will lead the pack home at the close of the season in basket ball, Providence College is worthy of bearing in mind.

Last year, Al McLellan, who was a star in the pivot position for St John's Prep, got the assignment of coach at the Providence College. He began his duties four days prior to the first game of last year's season, starting in by mustering a combination that beat Clark University at Worcester, 42 to 24.

McLellan has two hard assignments this week. On Wednesday night his Providence lads will meet Dartmouth, on Saturday playing Yale at New Haven. Critics figure that Providence will make it interesting from start to finish against these teams.

"I think," said Coach McLellan, "that we have a team of players that rank with the best in basket ball circles. With four veterans of last year's team and a fifth man, Eddie Wineapple of Salem, star southpaw hurler on the championship Providence College baseball team last Spring, I have no fear of the results. If we are forced to take the loser's end in any of these contests, our opponents will know that they have been in a real match from start to finish."

With the exception of Wineapple, the veteran outfit which will go into action against Dartmouth includes Johnny Krieger and William McCue of Paterson, N J, who were teammates in their home city for three years before entering Providence; Capt Lawrence Wheeler, ex-Rogers High star, who was picked on several occasions as the best center in the Tufts Inter-scholastic tournament, and Stanley Syzda. Krieger and McCue will play the forward positions. Wheeler will jump center. Syzda and Wineapple will be in the backfield.

Dartmouth in this contest, which is the first one for the Green this season, will have a number of well known players to pick from. Though the squad has been scrimmaging daily there is still considerable doubt as to the starting lineup Coach Dolly Stark will send in.

Yale's Dependables

Heine Swarouth, last year's ace who starred at a forward post last season. Bob Austin and Capt Carl Spaeth are the only two men who have definitely clinched their starting positions as guards. Spaeth was a forward, but was shifted to guard by Stark. Morris and Deal, the latter captain of last year's freshmen team, are battling Spaeth and Austin for their positions. The forward squad comprises Cheney, Vossler, Schmidt, Vogt and Picken.

Yale won its first game of the season last week by registering by a 33 to 22 victory over Upsala at New Haven. Although the Blue started with five veterans from last year's squad, the team work was none too good. The players seem to have difficulty in getting the ball into a scoring position.

Yale has lost through graduation Capt Ward and McNulty, regulars and Bryan, pivot reserveman. As a nucleus for this year's team, Coach George Taylor has Capt Paul Fodder, an excellent offensive center; Lou Nassau of Hartford, fast forward and accurate shooter, and Gus Nanry, West Haven, who was one of the leading guards in intercollegiate circles last year.

Townsend, reserve forward last year, is playing well, but may be displaced by either Hank Merrill or Ed Horowitz, both of whom are playing fine basket ball. Joe Cook, an aggressive sub guard from last year's team, is at present teaming up with Nanry in the back court, but is being hard pressed by Brockelman, who was a star at Andover, and a regular in 1926. Hopkins of last year's freshmen team, Red Beyer, varsity baseball catcher, and Mike Freeman, who has been shifted to the back court, are among those available.

JINX HOVERS OVER P. C. BASKETBALL

Captain Wheeler and Krieger on Injured List.—Team Faces Dartmouth Tomorrow.

The injury "jinx" which played havoc with the football squad at Providence College this past fall seems to have lingered on to upset Coach Al McClellan's hopes of turning out a basketball aggregation which will be among the best in New England. Capt. Wheeler, star centre, and Johnny Krieger, clever forward, were the two hoopsters to report yesterday complaining of injuries received in the Northeastern game.

Wheeler fell early in the game Saturday night and suffered a recurrence of the shoulder sprain which kept him out of the last three football games played by the Dominicans. He was replaced by Chick Gainor in the second half of the game, and returned to the lineup for the final three minutes only.

Krieger is troubled with a similar injury, having a strained ligament in his right shoulder as the result of a hard fall on the Northeastern court. The sprain prevented the flashy Black and White forward from doing much scoring against the Huskies, and yesterday he was forced to watch the drill from the side lines. It is hoped that he will be ready to take his place in the starting lineup against Dartmouth at Hanover tomorrow night.

As a result of their impressive showing against the veteran Northeastern quintet, the Dominicans created quite a favorable impression in Boston. Coach McClellan is forced to take his charges out of their class this week in stacking up against such formidable teams as Dartmouth and Yale, but he is confident that the scores will be close in both games.

William "Chick" Gainor

The work of Wineapple on the offence last Saturday, when he caged 12 field goals for the high scoring honors of the night, assures the Smith Hillers of a powerful attack, as Krieger and McCue are two clever basket shooters, and Capt. Wheeler is able to hold his own with any pivot man in New England. Once this trio gets under way the Dominicans are certain to pile up some sizeable scores.

Szydla, fast and rugged guard, is not as flashy as his teammates, but he is without doubt one of the most important cogs in the machine. He seems tireless once the game gets under way and roves the court continually, making it very hard for his opponent to check him from breaking through now and then for scores.

Should Wheeler be unable to start against Dartmouth, Gainor will get the call to do the jumping, while Jimmie Welch, former St. John's Prep star, will stand by to relieve Krieger should he be unable to handle the left forward assignment. Both these subs drew action against Northeastern, and as a result are prepared to render a good account of themselves if called upon to lead the assault on the Big Green's basket.

Providence College Quintet Noses Out Dartmouth 34-32

Holds Off Big Green Rally at Close. — Wineapple and Swarthout Star.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
Hanover, N. H., Dec. 12.—Displaying a strong passing game, and inspired by Capt. Larry Wheeler at centre, the Providence College basketball team scored a 34 to 32 victory over Dartmouth here tonight.

The victory was the first that the Dominicans have ever registered in basketball over Dartmouth. At half time they were trailing by six points but came back strongly to take the lead and hold it in spite of a garrison finish by the Big Green hoopsters, who were led by Heinle Swarthout.

Wheeler, playing against the doctor's orders owing to the condition of his injured shoulder, was easily the outstanding player on the floor. He out-jumped Lewin, Dartmouth centre, and was a factor in the Providence back court when the Dartmouth basket heavers started their attacks.

The first half was a ding dong tilt with Dartmouth having the edge. Providence started off to build up an eight-point lead only to see the score evened up, and then Dartmouth took a lead. The tally sheet at the intermission put Dartmouth on the long end of a 22 to 16 score.

After the 10-minute rest the Rhode Islanders opened up with a strong attack which netted three baskets in short order to knot the count. Swarthout put Dartmouth back in the running with a pretty corner shot but, the invaders came back again with McCue and Wineapple rimming the hoop for scores.

With Providence on the long end of a 34 to 25 score, Dartmouth opened fire with long range shots and raised its total to 30. Then with the crowd in an uproar Capt. Spaeth came through with a long tom from mid-floor. With but a minute to play the Dominicans proceeded to freeze the ball and were in possession when the final gong sounded. The victory is the second straight for the Providence quintet as it topped Northeastern University last Saturday.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE IN BASKETBALL

Providence College will make a bold bid for the New England championship in basketball this year. The team's 34-32 victory over Dartmouth last night gives you some idea of the strength and ability of the boys under the wing of Coach Al McLellan.

The Dominicans run into Yale Saturday at New Haven and the Bulldogs are in for a very interesting night.

Eddie Wineapple, the big southpaw who helped pitch P. C. to the baseball heights last spring, is quite some basketballer. Eddie plays guard and plays it well. He scored ten points last night against the Green.

Capt. Lawrence Wheeler, Stanley Szydla, Krieger and McCue are other important cogs in the P. C. machine. Rather think we'll have lots of chance to whoop it up for the Smith Hill boys this winter.

Providence College Registers First Basketball Victory Over Dartmouth

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 13.—When the Providence College hoopsters trotted off the floor with the long end of a 34-32 score last night it marked the first victory of the Dominicans over Dartmouth at basketball. And it was a real battle all the way for the White and Black, which opened the campaign last Saturday night with a decision over North-eastern at Boston.

Outstanding on the floor last night were Heinie Swarthout, who gathered 16 points, or half of Dartmouth's total; Capt. Larry Wheeler and Eddie Wineapple of the visitors. Wheeler, playing with an injured shoulder, consistently out-jumped Lewin, Green centre, besides being a factor in the back court when the homesters were on the attack. He chipped in with seven points. Wineapple, the baseball pitching star, tossed three field baskets and four from the foul line for 10 points.

The Dominicans opened up with an eight-point margin, then the Green had its turn and forged ahead to lead at intermission by 22 to 16. Following the rest period, the Dominicans uncorked a devastating offensive and soon had the count in their favor at 34 to 25. Whereupon Dartmouth rallied and brought the count up to within one basket of a tie.

PROV. COLLEGE DEFEATS YALE

Krieger's Toss From Foul Line Decides 28-27 Contest

(Special to the Sunday Tribune)

New Haven, Dec. 15—The strong Providence College basketball outfit turned in a brilliant 28 to 27 triumph over Yale here to-night in one of the most exciting contests to be held in the local court in over a year.

The victory marks the second win of the week for the Rhode Islanders who turned back the powerful Dartmouth five at Hanover last Wednesday.

Team play with every player working as a unit was responsible for the Dominicans victory. Their flashy forwards, McCue and Krieger led the assault on the Yale net with eight points apiece, while Eddie Wineapple who turned in a baseball triumph over the Ells here last spring was runner up for the scoring honors.

McCue, rangy forward, suffered a cut lip early in the game but refused to leave the tilt. In spite of the injury he proved a thorn in Yale's side and was all over the court directing the Providence attack. Following the contest two stitches were taken in his lip at the Yale infirmary.

Providence started strong but had its lead cut down and passed as the result of the accurate basket tossing of Cook and Fodder, Yale mainstays. Then the invaders staged a strong comeback to take the long end of a 14 to 11 count. Just before the intermission Yale surged to the front again and when the whistle sounded was ahead by one point, 15 to 14.

Game Played: December 15, 1928

In the second half the Ell shot their bolt in running through the visitors for eight markers to boost their total to 23. Then Coach McClellan unleashed his attack and McCue and Kreiger preceeded to break through for scores with the latter player adding no less than six points as the result of free tries.

The finish was as hectic as the end of the first half. Captain Wheeler of the Providence team went out on personals, and Gainer, rangy sub, took his place. Gainer, being fresh, turned in a brilliant exhibition of getting the ball of the backboards and in holding the Ell quintet at bay. Kreiger's toss from the foul line in the final minute proved the winning point as Fodder of Yale collected a basket to make the count 28 to 27 just before the invaders started freezing the oval to await the final gong.

OVERCOME 9-POINT MARGIN TO DEFEAT BULLDOG QUINTET

Poor Foul Shooting Costs Elis
Game.—McCue Domini-

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
New Haven, Conn., Dec. 15. — The Providence College basketball team added Yale to its list of victims here tonight, collecting a 28 to 27 victory in a hectic game featured by fine defensive work on the part of both quintets. The victory gives the Dominicans a clean record for the week, as they toppled Dartmouth at Hanover last Wednesday night by a two-point margin.

The Rhode Islanders left the court at half time on the short end of the score, but showed a strong attack in the late stage of the game. The final five minutes were the most exciting the Yale court has witnessed in several years. Providence gave a fine exhibition of "freezing" the ball and was able to cling to its one-point margin.

Bill McCue and his running mate from Paterson, Johnny Krieger, shared the high-scoring honors for the Black and White, turning in eight points apiece. Wineapple chipped in with seven.

Providence took the lead at the start of the game, only to lose it. With Townsend and Monahan leading the attack, the Elis surged to the fore by half time, 15 to 14. The Dominicans were slow to get their way in the second half and Yale had rolled its total to 23 before Coach McClellan's men started.

McCue and Krieger scored on short tosses from under the net as the result of fine pass work by their mates. Chick Gainor, subbing for Wineapple, evened the count at 23 all with a successful foul try after Townsend's personal.

Krieger and Gainor made good on free throws to give the invaders the lead. After Wheeler went out of the game on personal fouls, Wineapple added two more points to the Providence total. Monahan made it 25 for Yale by caging a rebound of his own long shot, and a moment later Krieger registered the 28th Providence marker on Cook's foul.

Capt. Fodder of Yale ended the scoring, with a lift from under the basket, then the Providence team held the ball till the final whistle.

PROVIDENCE SCORES 32 TO 30 VICTORY OVER ST. JOHN'S

Wineapple Breaks 16-16 Deadlock with Field Goal in Final Period.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
New York, Dec. 18.—The Providence College basketball five, which includes Yale and Dartmouth among its victims of the current season, added St. John's to its list tonight on the latter's court in Brooklyn by winning a hard-played game, 32 to 30.

It was the first defeat of the season for St. John's. Providence has not lost a game so far. St. John's was the first to score and led, 3 to 0, before Providence got under way.

St. John's also was the first to tally at the start of the second half as both teams started with the score tied, 12-12. Eddie Wineapple's goal in the final quarter put Providence into a permanent lead, breaking a 16-16 deadlock.

Collins starred for St. John's on the offensive with six goals and six fouls for a total of 18 points.

Wineapple was the outstanding scorer for Providence with six goals and a foul for 15.

PROVIDENCE TEAM LOOMS AS LEADER IN COURT CIRCLES

Victory Over St. John's Quintet
Stamps Rhode Islanders as Strong Contenders

COLLINS AND WINEAPPLE
EACH SCORE 18 POINTS

By N. M. GERSTENZANG

Though there are no all-inclusive league standards for the rating of basketball teams, and though the season is but two weeks old, basketball fans who packed the St. John's College gymnasium in Brooklyn last night were ready to award the palm symbolizing the mythical Eastern court championship to the Providence College quintet, which eked out a victory over the Red and White team by a 32 to 30 score in as fast a game as you'll ever see on a college court.

The Providence team came down without creating much excitement, and at first it appeared that St. John's had a setup before it, but those fans who consulted the records knew that the Rhode Islanders were set to make trouble for the Brooklyn court combination. A season's first defeat being of the general nature of trouble, St. John's doesn't feel so well today, now that they have been made to taste their initial defeat. But it took one of the strongest, if not actually the best, teams in the East to set back the Vincentians.

Still, St. John's loses no prestige by this defeat. The Red and White easily produced the best game of its season to date, and that brand of basketball is of a grade high enough to keep the Brooklynites in the race for the title which doesn't exist.

Buck Freeman's pupils used a floor game which was dazzling at all times, the speed and accuracy of the St. John's players' passing putting the ball in favorable positions at all times. But even this advantage could not overcome the success of the visitors in finding the basket from distant points. It was this accuracy which gave Providence the game and which caused St. John's to join Yale, Dartmouth, and Northeastern as the victims of the Rhode Islanders.

Two of the year's collegiate court stars faced each other and came through as was expected last night. Captain Rip Collins of St. John's and Eddie Wineapple, the Providence ace, were by far the head men of their respective troupes. Collins collected the tidy total of eighteen points as the result of his constant attempts at the basket, and it was largely through his brilliant performance that the Red and White kept within a respectable distance. The Brooklyn leader caged six baskets from the floor and as many from the foul line. Wineapple, a former Syracuse student, who comes from Salem, Mass., tallied fifteen points, getting six field goals and three fouls.

St. John's grabbed an early lead, but Providence soon pulled up even, the lead going back and forth for most of the first half, which ended in a 12 to 12 deadlock when Wineapple dropped a neat shot into the basket with but a few seconds to play. The visitors' long shots, however, put them in front early in the second period and gave them a comfortable lead until only a minute before the close of the game. At this point Collins came down fast to register two points from the floor. A few seconds later the same player dropped a one-pointer from the foul mark, but St. John's total of 30 just fell short.

High Scorer.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
East Stroudsburg, Pa., Dec. 19.—The Providence College basketball team scored its fifth straight victory of the season by defeating the State Teachers' College quintet here tonight, 45 to 31. The game is the second of the Dominicans' road trip, which ends at Scranton tomorrow night.

Larry Wheeler, centre and captain of the Providence five, was the high scorer with seven field goals and two free tries to his credit. Johnny Kreiger was a close second with 13 points.

The game was nip and tuck for the first 10 minutes before the Dominicans got under way and rolled up their count. At half time the Rhode Islanders were leading, 27 to 13.

After his first string quintet had piled up a commanding lead in the second half, Coach McClellan took the opportunity to test his reserves. Of the latter group Jimmy Welch, former St. John's Prep star, showed to the best advantage.

PROVIDENCE TO BE HERE TONIGHT

Chick Gainor, Ring Star,
Among Players To Face
The Teachers

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 18.—Given a rousing sendoff by the student body here last night, the Providence College basketball team starts its strenuous three day journey to New York and Pennsylvania in quest of further court laurels. The locals have toppled Northeastern, Dartmouth and Yale in their three tilts played so far and as a result are considered as the outstanding hoop aggregation in New England.

Players making the journey included Captain Larry Wheeler, outstanding center in this vicinity, Johnny Krieger and Bill McCue from Pater-son, and Jimmie Welch, of Hartford, all forwards; Mark McGovern, of Flint, Mich., sub center, Eddie Wineapple of Salem, Mass.; Stan Szydlia of Ware, Mass.; William Gainor and Willard Colley, both of Troy, N. Y., all guards, and player manager Gerard A. Dillon of Pellam, N. Y.

The Dominicans look forward to three hard tilts and Coach McClellan staged a lengthy drill yesterday in defensive work. The opening game of the trip was at Brooklyn last night where St. John's was met. Tonight will see the Black and White ball tossers in action at East Strouds-burg.

The possibility that Chick Gainor, clever guard, might not be able to make the trip with the squad was dispelled when the Troy athlete announced that he would be ready to serve as relief center or guard. Gainor is the outstanding welterweight amateur boxer of this state and was listed to make a ring performance here this week, but he decided at the last moment to forsake his ring activities in favor of the court game.

ST. THOMAS QUINTET DEFEATS PROVIDENCE

Kelly, Edwards Are Stars In 28-23 Victory

Former Central High Performer Registers Eleven Points Against Crack New England Team
—Ex-Tech Player Holds Wineapple

Scranton newspaper

A whirl-wind finish to an otherwise listless game gave St. Thomas a 28-23 victory over Providence college, conqueror of Dartmouth and Yale, last night before approximately 500 spectators in Town Hall. Coming from behind in the last ten minutes of play with the score 19 to 17 against them, the Tommies with Billy Kelly, crack forward, leading the offensive, forged into the lead and held it to the finish.

The lead alternated twice during the game with Providence showing its greatest strength mid-way in each period. Half-time found St. Thomas in the van by three points, 12 to 9.

With Johnny Edwards and "Firpo" Cawley playing a great guarding game, the Black and White's scoring aces, Wineapple and Szydla were held to almost negligible scoring.

Johnny gave one of the best exhibitions of basketball he has ever shown in a Tommy uniform. He not only held the great Wineapple, star scoring ace of a great team, to two field goals but also shot three field goals and a foul himself for a total of 7 points.

Kelly, who tallied twenty markers against Dartmouth last Saturday night, was again the leading scorer of the game last night with eleven points. Billy missed quite a few fouls, however, and would have bolstered his total considerably had he been in good form from the 15-foot mark.

Krieger, a red-headed boy, was the luminary in the Black and White's defense. The Providence college player shot three field goals and four fouls for ten points.

Providence drew first blood with Snyder shooting a foul and Wineapple following up with a field goal. Kelly scored a couple of free tries and Ray Whall put the Tommies in the lead with a field goal. Kelly made another foul and Cawley batted the ball in the basket as it bounced off a Black and White jerseyed shoulder to give St. Thomas a four point lead. After Zinder made another field goal, Providence called time out.

The breathing spell gave Providence renewed confidence and McCue shot a field goal and Krieger a foul to cut down the Tommies' lead. Flannagan replaced Cawley at this point. Edwards shot a neat field goal and McCue retaliated with a two-pointer. Kelly made one of two foul tries and again McCue maintained an even margin in the scoring with a free try. Krieger missed a foul try and a moment after Granahan substituted for Zinder for St. Thomas the half came to an end, with St. Thomas leading, 12 to 9.

Game played: December 20, 1928

McCue shot a foul to open the second half and Krieger shot beautiful field goal to even the score at 12-12. Edwards made a foul and Krieger came back with another and with the spectators beginning to wake up and take notice, Granahan shot a field goal to put the Tommies ahead.

Zinder went in for Granahan at this juncture much to the surprise of everyone. Krieger popped a field goal and Edwards missed two fouls. Wineapple shot his second and last field goal of the game when he tossed the ball over his shoulder. The play put Providence into the lead, 16 to 15.

Whall tied the score a moment later with a foul but Wheeler came back with two fouls and when Krieger made good a technical free try, Providence held a two point lead at 19 to 16.

Cawley replaced Flanagan for St. Thomas. Joe Zinder drew a foul and sliced a point off Providence's lead. The visitors called time. With a great effort, Johnny Edwards tied the score when he reached high up in the air and smashed the ball into the basket. The crowd went into an uproar and was still shouting when Whall missed a foul.

When McCue talked back to the referee, Billy Kelly was given a technical foul but he missed the effort.

Within a minute, however, he made up the failure with two field goals. Krieger scored a double-decker and Szyla a foul.

Kelly made another field goal and, being fouled in the act, made good one of his two free tries. Welsh replaced McCue for Providence and Granahan went in for Cawley. With a minute to go, St. Thomas called time, and McCue went in for Walsh. Wheeler made a foul shortly before the game ended.

DOMINICANS ENJOY HIGH RATING AS HOOP SCORERS

Eddie Wineapple, star basketball player at Providence College, is second to Capt. Jimmy Collins of St. John's in the leading scoring tabulations of the Eastern basketball players. Joey Schaaf of Penn is third. Wineapple has a total of 70 points, Collins has 77 and Schaaf has 65.

Kreiger of Providence College is in 10th place just ahead of Heine Swart-out of Dartmouth, while McCue and Wheeler of the Dominican team enjoy rating well above the middle line in the list, which includes men who have scored 20 points or more in the games to date.

P. A. M. Snyder, a Brown Sophomore, is leading his teammates in scoring with a total of 22 tallies.

ST. THOMAS FIVE TOPS DOMINICANS

Providence Quintet Meets First Defeat of Season at Scranton, 28-23.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
Scranton, Pa., Dec. 20.—The Providence College basketball team dropped its first game of the season here tonight when it went down before the attack of the undefeated St. Thomas College quintet by a 28 to 23 score. The contest was the final one of the Dominicans' road trip and their first setback in six games.

The tilt was a thriller from the start. At half time St. Thomas led, 12 to 9, but after the rest the Dominicans came back strong to knot the count, only to lose out in the final struggle. Kelly, brilliant forward of the local quintet, who tallied 20 points against Dartmouth last week, earned but 11 tonight of which five were from charity throws. Szydla proved a strong defender of the Rhode Islanders' hoop and was a big factor in breaking up the attack of the Tommies.

Johnny Kreiger, Black and White left forward, who played with a knee bruise sustained in the game at Stroudsburg last night, turned in a fine exhibition, caging three sensational field goals and five tosses from the foul line. The stiff opposition that the Dominicans have been encountering proved their undoing tonight as they were unable with the exception of Krieger, to stage their usual strong finish.

The Tommies swept into an early lead as the result of some fine pass-work, but the visitors opened fire as the period progressed and narrowed the margin. In the second half the Providence team brought the fans to their feet with its fine team work as it swept into a tie at 16 points.

They continued their attack to take a three-point lead before Kelly of the Tommies started his scoring rampage to put the locals in the running. In the final 10 minutes the Rhode Islanders weakened and were unable to check the assaults of the Harding-coached aggregation.

DOMINICANS BID FOR COURT TITLE

Providence College Has Beaten
Dartmouth, Yale

[Special Dispatch to The Herald]

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 6—With five of the six games it has played so far this season registered as victories, the Providence College basketball outfit now shapes up as the outstanding aggregation in New England, and if it is able to continue its spectacular work, will be one of the contenders for the mythical eastern title.

Topping Dartmouth and Yale in the same week, and within four days, is no mean feat for any college, to say nothing of a small institution with only 400 students eligible for participation in sports. Yet that is what the Dominicans did in December to start campaigning for recognition as the leader in eastern court circles.

Although the Providence team is composed in the main of veterans, yet the real reason for its success is the fact that it is coached by Al McClellan, one of the foremost basketball authorities in New England. McClellan coached Salem High teams to championship realms for four years and later made the St. John's Prep basketball aggregation the finest in the northeastern section of the country.

To date the Dominicans have averaged 34 points per game, and two of the regular members of the quintet are listed among the 10 leading scorers of the East. Wineapple, husky guard, who twirled the locals to the eastern baseball title last spring, is second high scorer with 70 points, seven less than Collins of St. John's of Brooklyn, and Krieger holds ninth place with 50 points to his credit for six games.

Johnny Krieger, forward.

DOMINICANS VISIT NEW LONDON AND SPRINGFIELD THIS WEEK

With two days work behind them, the Providence College basketeers staged a game yesterday afternoon at the La Salle court which proved conclusively that Coach Al McCellan has developed two fine aggregations on Smith Hill with which to make a strong bid for the Eastern title during the coming months. The varsity, which has bowled over such teams as Dartmouth, and St. John's tasted defeat yesterday at he hands of a fast moving scrub outfit by a 21 to 19 count.

With two games on tap for this week, the first being the Coast Guard clash at New London on Wednesday night and the second the Springfield tilt in the City of Homes next Saturday, Coach Al McClellan called for a drill for yesterday in order to whip his cohorts into the form which enabled them to wade through all the December opposition obstructing their path to the Eastern basketball title.

The varsity outfit of Krieger and McCue at forwards, Captain Wheeler at center, and Wineapple and Szydlar at the guards, was opposed by a quintet composed of Chick Gainor and Jimmie Welch at the forwards, Cooley, Eastern inter-scholastic center last winter, at the pivot berth, and Joe Sharkey, quarterback on the football team, and former basketball captain of Lowell High, and McCormack, Webster High luminary, at the guards. The Varsity proceeded to swing into action quickly and piled up a six point lead before the subs showed their wares to advantage. Gainor and Welch broke through for scores and for the next thirty minutes the encounter was a nip and tuck affair, with the scrubs finally surging to the ore when the first string outfit lagged in its defence. The game gave the mentor a fine view of what he may expect from his reserve material, and as a result it is possible that he may make a few changes in the lineup which will tackle the games to be played this week, should the Dominicans pile up a sizable lead.

McGovern, substitute center from Michigan is due back at the college tomorrow and will whip himself back into shape for the next two days so as to be ready for relief duty to Captain Wheeler. Another welcome recruit to the ranks over teh past week-end was Nap Fleurent, star three letter athlete who has been unable to join the squad prior to this date owing to his desire to boost his scholarship rating.

The Dominicans have one of the highest scoring combinations in the East, having averaged 34 points per game to date, and four of their regulars are among the high scorers, with Wineapple running second to Collins of St. John's of Brooklyn for the leading honors of the East. Krieger, star forward who was the leading scorer of New England last winter is in last place.

DOMINICANS IN SIXTH VICTORY

Wineapple Collects 21 Points as Smith Hillers Humble Coast Guard by 43-34

New London, Conn., Jan. 10.—Continuing its march towards the New England college basketball title, the strong Providence College quintet crashed through with a win over the Coast Guard Academy five last night to register a 43 to 34 triumph. The victory is the sixth of the season for the Dominicans, who led at half-time by 21 to 17.

The tilt was closely contested during the second half when the cadets displayed a brilliant attack to overcome a sixteen point lead to tie the count at 34 all. With the large crowd in an uproar at the spurt of the home team, Eddie Wineapple, high scoring ace of the Dominicans, raced down the court to put his outfit in the lead again. For the remaining six minutes of play the Rhode Islanders held the upper hand, boosting their count to 43 while they held the guardsmen scoreless.

With Wineapple and McCue leading the attack in the second half the White and Black hoopsters were able to keep their team in the lead, although the cadets staged an aggressive finish. Wineapple was the high scorer of the evening, making 21 points to hoist his season total to 91. He is now resting in second place among the high scorers of the East.

Next Saturday the Dominicans tackle their hardest foe of the month when they travel to Springfield to pit their ability against the gym teachers, who downed Wesleyan last night. The Springfield team has always been considered as the leader in New England court circles and has defeated the Dominicans handily for the past two years. A win in this game would go a long way towards clinching the title for this section of the country for the Smith Hillers.

Springfield College basketball team will play its second home game to-night when it stacks up against the strong Providence College hoop team in the West gymnasium at 8 o'clock. A severe test confronts the Hickoxmen as Providence comes to Springfield with a fast team that has made a creditable showing on the polished surface so far this season.

Out of six games played by the Dominicans before the Christmas holidays only a single game was lost. Providence has been victorious over Northeastern University, 42 to 31; Dartmouth College, 34 to 32; Yale University, 28 to 27; St. John's College, 32 to 30; and East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College, 45 to 31. The lone setback was suffered from St. Thomas' College by a 28 to 23 score.

The Providence team is coached by Albert McColland of Salem. This is his second year as coach of the Dominicans.

The team is led by Capt. Laurence Wheeler. He is a junior at Providence College and is one of the finest hoopsters ever developed in Rhode Island. He twice was chosen all-New England center at Tufts interscholastic tournaments and since going to college has developed even more. He also has played end on the varsity football team for the last two years.

Johnny Krieger, who last year had a higher point average than any other college player in New England, will play one of the forward positions. Last years Krieger scored an average of 10 points per game and has started off this year in a similar fashion. He is president of his class and is one of the most popular men at Providence College. The other forward position will be filled by William McCue. He also is an experienced player. He played on last year's team.

Stanley Szydla of Ware is a veteran guard of three seasons and will be in the starting lineup. Szydla also is a mainstay on the football team, having won his letter for the last three years as a halfback. Edward Wineapple will start at the other guard position. He is a star pitcher on the Dominicans' baseball team. He is at present second high scorer of the East in basketball.

This combination, no doubt will give the Hickoxmen a hard game and intends to avenge last year's defeat by the Red and White. Springfield, on the other hand, is determined to win in order to keep its record clean. To date the Red and White is undefeated in four games. The most recent victory was over Wesleyan on Wednesday night, 39 to 23. Pratt Institute, Crescent A. C. and East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College also have fallen before the attack of the Red and White.

DOMINICAN FIVE DEFEATS Y. M. C. A. COLLEGE, 25 TO 21

Springfield Defeated First Time in Four Years on Own Floor.

(Special to the Providence Journal)
Springfield, Mass., Jan. 12.—For the first time in more than four years, a Springfield College basketball team went down to defeat in its home court when it was humbled here tonight by the crack Providence College outfit, 25 to 21. The defeat also marks the third setback that the locals have sustained in the past three years of competition.

Brilliant team work, with every player flashing a fine passing game was the turning point in favor of the Rhode Islanders. Springfield knotted the count in the second half and fought hard to down the Dominicans but were unable to uncork a final drive to carry them through to a win.

Eddie Wineapple, high scoring guard of the visitors was taken out at the end of the first half. Gainer took his place. The latter staged a fine game and added five points to the Dominican cause. Wineapple returned to the game in the final minutes after Szydla had been put out on personals and tossed a score which assured the Providence hoopsters of a winning margin.

With the gym teachers playing a five-man defence against the visitors' man-to-man tactics, the score for the first half was very low, the Rhode Islanders leaving the floor for the intermission on the better end of a 12 to 7 count.

Game played: January 12, 1929

After the Black and White quintet had rolled its score to 13 in the second half, Springfield spurred to close the gap and finally Ackerman, who starred against Kreiger of the Dominicans, when the two were performing in Paterson, cut under the hoop to sink a field goal which evened the count at 18 apiece.

Then Wineapple dribbled through for a score and sent the capacity crowd into an uproar, and Wheeler added two more points on a pretty field goal from the corner of the court. After Kreiger had made good on a free toss Gainer clinched the decision in the last moments of the fray with a double-decker from beyond the foul line after dribbling half the length of the floor.

EDDIE WINEAPPLE FOURTH HIGHEST SCORER IN EAST

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Joey Schaaf, Pennsylvania's captain, not only leads the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League in scoring but the whole Atlantic seaboard sector as well.

Records compiled from among a representative group of Eastern colleges show Schaaf has tallied 110 points in 12 games, leading Charlie Hyatt of Pittsburgh, by a single point. Hyatt has played in only eight games. Jimmy Collins, of St. John's of Brooklyn, is third with 107 points.

DOMINICANS HEADED FOR TITLE.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE is well on the way toward the mythical Eastern college basketball championship. The Dominicans have won seven of eight games to date and include among the victims Northeastern, Dartmouth, Yale, St. John's and Springfield, the latter an unusually strong combination. Providence has already won as many games as it did during the entire 1927-28 season. Coach Al McClellan bids fair to make an unusually fine record in his second year at the Smith Hill institution, but championship basketball teams are nothing new to him. McClellan's Salem high team won four championships and his St. John's prep combination lost but two games under his direction.

Wineapple and Gainor are rated the two stars of the Providence five. Wineapple was a member of McClellan's Salem high team while Gainor is considered one of the best forwards in Eastern college ranks by the Dominican coach.

Interest in basketball, which draws by the tens of thousands in the Middle West, is at a low ebb in Providence. Providence College, Brown, the Y. M. C. A. Church League and the schools provide the only organized competition and they do not draw a tenth of the people that the game attracts in communities west of New York.

Lou Pieri, former Brown player and now athletic director at Central Falls high, twice tried to arouse interest in the professional game, but was forced to retreat in disorder when the customers refused to turn out. Pieri organized first class teams, but after counting up the receipts he decided that Providence was no basketball town.

Dominican Quintet Swamps Clark 51-28 at Worcester

Wineapple, Tallying 24 Points,
Takes Lead in Eastern
Scoring with 119.

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
Worcester, Mass., Jan. 16—Continuing its march to the New England college basketball title the Providence College quintet swamped the Clark University team under a 51 to 28 score here tonight. The game marked the eighth victory of the season for the Dominicans and their third successive triumph within a week.

Eddie Wineapple, high scoring guard, moved into first place among the high scorers of the East by collecting 24 points as his part in the free scoring tilt. Wineapple now boasts a total of 119 points, which gives him an average of 13 points per game. The Salem star's high record tonight was due in no small measure to the fact that his mates aided him with fine passing and fed him the ball whenever he was within scoring range.

For the first time this campaign Johnny Kreiger, high scoring forward last winter, flashed the form that made him such a hard man to guard a year ago, and ran his string of points to 78 by collecting six field goals and five foul shots. Several of Krieger's shots were of the spectacular variety, being tossed from far outside the foul line to drop through the nets without touching the iron hoop.

With the game tucked away Coach McClellan sent his second team into action with Gainor and Welch performing at the forwards, Cooley at centre, and McGovern and Derivan pairing at the guards. This outfit held the locals scoreless in the last two minutes of play and raised the Dominicans' score above the 50 mark when Cooley made good on two tries from the foul line.

Providence jumped into an early lead and ran its string to 21 before Clark was able to offer any opposition. Then Shannahan, the captain of the locals, broke loose with several long shots to put his team in the running. At the halftime the invaders were on the long end of a 23 to 13 count.

The 10-point advantage was maintained throughout the first 10 minutes of the second half with the Clark hoopsters staging their best game during this time. In the final stages of the tilt, however, the Rhode Islanders broke loose with a barrage of goals which widened the gap and assured them of an overwhelming victory.

Next Saturday the Dominicans invade this city again to meet the Holy Cross five.

EDDIE WINEAPPLE of Providence College, who passed up opportunities to join major league baseball teams early in the fall because of his ambition to browse another year or so in educational fields, is attracting attention as one of the best guards in intercollegiate basketball.

Coach McClellan has rounded up a team that ranks with the East's leaders, the victory over Clark University at Worcester last evening being the eighth in a total of nine games. Krieger, McCue and Wheeler form a brilliant forward line and Wineapple and Zyda a very short defence.

At the close of the baseball season the Dominicans wanted to play Holy Cross a game to decide the Eastern championship but the Crusaders did not care to cross bats. McClellan's charges will journey to the Holy Cross gymnasium Saturday evening to engage the Crusaders in a court battle. Nothing would please them more than beating the wearers of the Purple.

Dashing Dominicans to Oppose Purple Tonight

Holy Cross Five Hopes to Stop Eddie Wineapple From Running Riot

Lineups:

HOLY CROSS	PROVIDENCE
Morris lf	rg Szydla
Connors rf	lg Wineapple
Sullivan c	c Wheeler
Brady lg	rf McCue
Clancy rg	lf Krieger

Place—St. John's gymnasium.
Time—8.15 o'clock.

That brilliant Providence College band, which gave the Clark five a basketball lesson here on Wednesday, will attempt to refute the old adage that lightning never strikes twice in the same place, tonight, when it makes its second flying visit of the week to Worcester to try and add the Holy Cross Crusaders to the swelling list of teams it has met and vanquished. The game will be played at 8.15 o'clock at St. John's High gym, which will hardly be able to accommodate all those who will want to see the crack Dominicans in action.

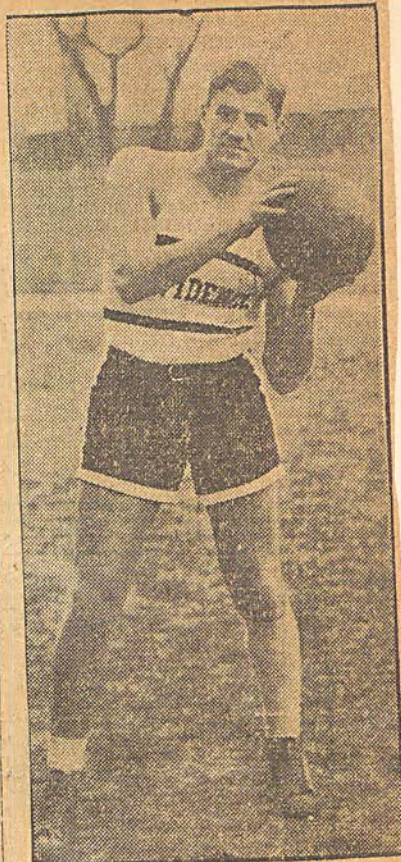

The Dominicans will be led into action tonight by the highest scoring basketball player in the East in the burly person of Eddie Wineapple. The Providence star gave a very convincing demonstration of his prowess here against Clark when he registered 24 points himself, almost half the total of 51 scored by his team.

Wineapple, who hails from Salem, was picked as All-New England school-boy forward at the Tufts college tournament, and is continuing to streak along to a high rating amongst the court stars in his college career. Wineapple, however, will not score any 24 points tonight if Zeke Connors, the husky right forward of the Holy Cross five, has anything to say about it.

Connors Has Tough Job

The fortunes of the lineup will bring Wineapple, Providence left guard, and Connors, Purple right forward, together, and the Purple star is sure to make matters interesting for the Dominican luminary. Connors is no mean performer himself on the court, and their duel should be almost as interesting as the main engagement.

But Wineapple is not the only bright light in the Providence lineup. The Crusaders will have to watch every Dominican closely tonight if it hopes to keep out of trouble, for they are all versatile hoopsters, able to shoot and handle the ball better than the average cager. The rest of the Providence lineup will be the same as it was against Clark. Capt. Larry Wheeler will be at center, Szydla will team up with Wineapple in the back court and McCue and Krieger will play the forward positions.

The Purple quintet went through a light workout yesterday consisting of a shooting drill and some floor work for tonight's engagement. The Crusaders have not allowed themselves to become panic stricken at the reputation of the visitors, who have won eight out of nine games, but on the other hand, are confident that if the Dominicans leave Worcester with another victory it will only be after the hardest kind of a battle.

Coach Jack Reed is putting his best foot forward for this game, and will start Stuart Clancy, his brilliant guard, whom he has been using very little so far because of illness. Amby Brady will team up with Clancy, Capt. Johnny Morris and Zeke Connors will hold down the forward berths and Johnny Sullivan will vie with Captain Wheeler, Providence center, for the tap.

Game played: January 19, 1929

(Special to the Providence Journal)
Worcester, Mass., Jan. 19.—Continuing its march for the Eastern basketball title the Providence College quintet turned back an aggressive Holy Cross basketball outfit here tonight by a 35 to 28 count. The game marks the initial athletic victory of the Dominicans over a Holy Cross team and is also the ninth victory of the year for Coach McClellan's aggregation.

Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Krieger, guard and forward respectively, were the bright lights in the Providence attack with the former netting 15 points and Krieger 13. Wineapple made a number of one-hand shots from the corner of the court. As the result of his performance tonight he ranks among the leading Eastern scorers with his total of 134 points.

A large number of supporters of the Dominican team formed part of the 1100 at the game.

The Dominicans had trouble in holding their lead in the first half of the game. During these minutes of action the lead changed hands no less than seven times, but when the intermission whistle sounded, Providence had a three-point advantage.

Coach Reed stressed a strong defensive game and it was not until after the second half was well under way that the Black and White machine was able to break through.

Holy Cross took the lead within five minutes after the start of the latter stage of the tilt when Brady caged one which made the score 20 to 19 in favor of the locals. Krieger evened the score when he converted a Morris foul and Wineapple broke through for his fourth field goal to return the lead to Providence again.

Krieger made good on Clancy's fourth foul which removed him from the fray and then added two more markers with a double-decker from mid-floor. Morris picked up two points after being fouled by Szydla to close the Black and White lead to three points. Then the Dominican barrage of baskets rained on the Crusader net with Krieger collecting four points and Wineapple six to decide the issue.

The Dominican quintet will remain inactive for the next two weeks owing to mid-year exams. Its next game will be with the Holy Cross five at Providence Feb. 2.

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Ed Wineapple, forward of the Providence College basketball five, has vaulted into the lead of the East's individual basketball scorers. Wineapple has tallied 134 points in 10 games. Joey Schaaf of Pennsylvania, holds second place with 130 points and Charley Hyatt of Pittsburgh, third with 127. Wineapple leads in field goals with 56 and Schaaf in fouls with 42.

BASKETBALL AT STATE ARMORY

Dominicans Will Play Holy Cross There on Saturday Night

The Cranston Street Armory will be the scene of the Providence College-Holy Cross varsity basketball game next Saturday night, according to an announcement made last night by Graduate Manager John E. Farrell of the Smith Hill college. The game is the first home tilt of the season for the Dominicans, and due to the interest in the crack quintet which is without doubt one of the finest in the East, it was found necessary to obtain a spacious auditorium to accommodate the crowd desiring to witness the encounter.

Plans are already under way to make the event a gala one for the undergraduates and alumni of both colleges, and it is expected that city and State officials will be among those who will be present to see the contest. The Holy Cross alumni of this State are planning to turn out en masse to support the Crusaders in their efforts to tack a defeat on the White and Black machine.

The rapid rise of the Dominicans in their three years of competition in the court game is the talk of New England, and no small share of the credit is being showered on the broad shoulders of Al McClellan, brilliant court mentor of the Smith Hillers. McClellan has always been successful in his basketball activities, turning out winning combinations for four years at Salem, and later winning the New England prep school title for St. John's.

Rated by basketball critics who have seen them in action, as one of the smoothest working aggregations in the East, the Dominicans also possess several individual performers whose work has created widespread interest. Eddie Wineapple, protege of Coach McClellan at Salem High, is the outstanding athlete on the team, being the highest scorer in the East at the present time, as well as being rated as one of the finest pitchers in college circles.

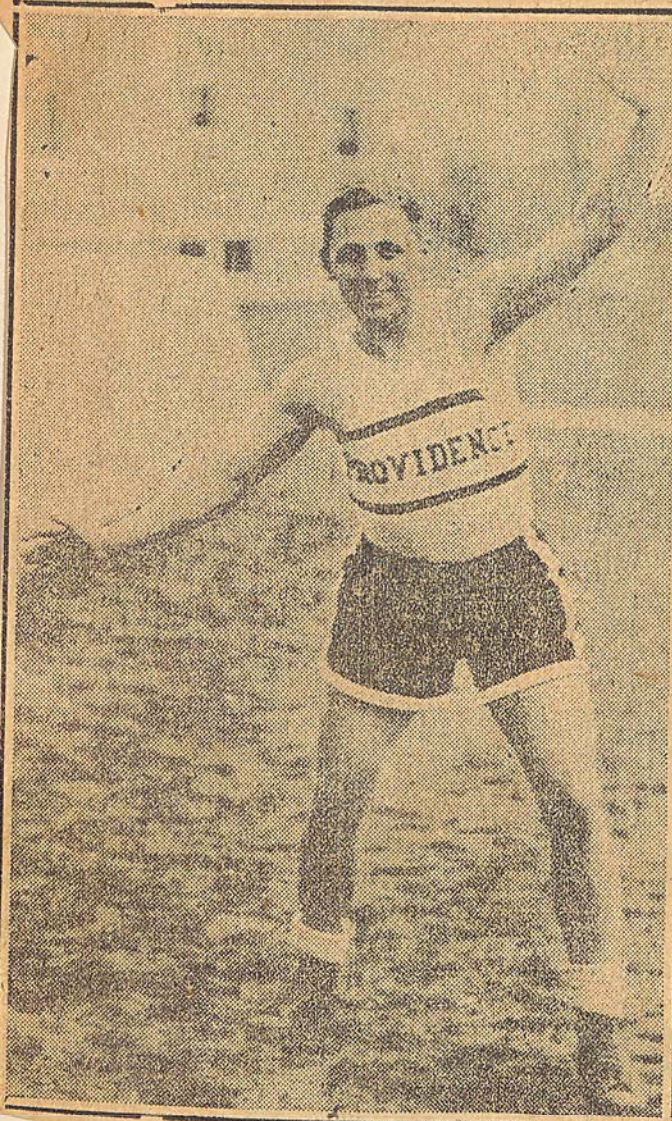

No less colorful are the remainder of the first team aggregation, which includes McCue and Krieger, teammates at forward assignments since their high school days in Paterson, N. J., and one of the finest pair of forwards in this vicinity. Krieger is the ninth highest point gatherer in the East, and also is second in ranking when it comes to tossnig in markers from the free throw line.

Wheeler, veteran Newporter, is without a peer in college ranks when it comes to center play. The rangy Rogers product, who is six feet three inches in his stocking feet, is exceptionally fast, a brilliant floor worker, and a dependable basket thrower. Wheeler was twice picked as the best schoolboy center in New England, and his playing this year is certain to win for him the same distinction among the collegians.

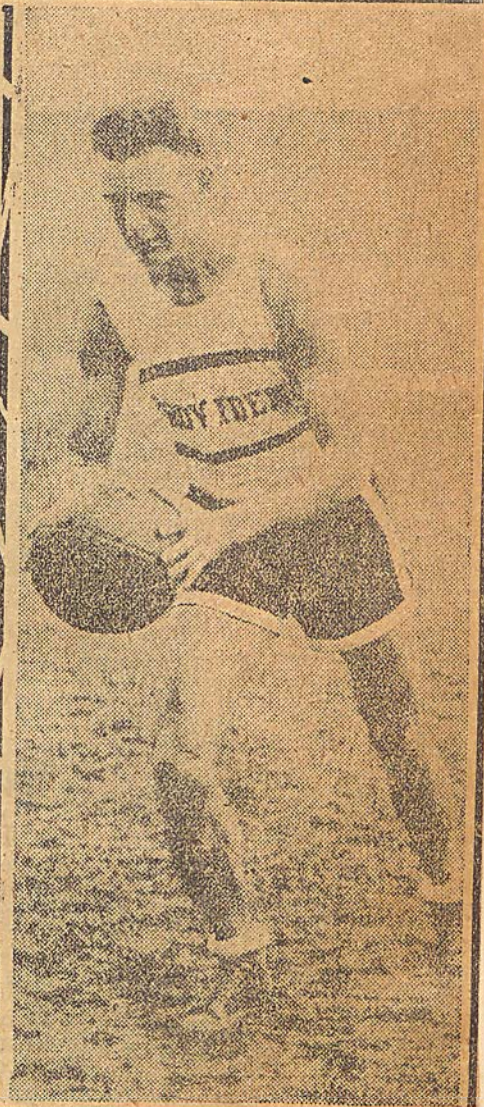

Szydla, the fifth member of the varsity outfit, has done little in the way of scoring, but his work on the defence has frustrated many an opposing forward's attack. Hardened by three years campaigning as a regular on the football team, and fast for his size, Szydla is a real defensive guard.

Practice sessions are due to start again to-morrow afternoon for the Dominicans, as the game here with the Cross is but the forerunner for many a hard battle before the eastern title can be floated from Smith Hill. Connecticut State, New Hampshire, Lowell, the undefeated M. I. T. and Army teams, and Worcester Poly Tech will be encountered by McClellan's machine within the next four weeks.

COMMENT and GOSSIP

by Charles B. Coppen

HOW long does it take a college starting on scratch to develop a team that will be a contender for the mythical Eastern basketball championship? Al McClellan of the Providence Dominicans could supply the answer and it would be three years. The coach of the crack Smith Hill outfit did not lay the foundation of the quintet that this season has piled up nine victories in 10 games, but he came along at the right moment to take charge of the material and install a system that is delivering the finest brand of basketball Rhode Island lovers of the sport have warmed up to in many a season.

Only two Eastern teams have better winning records than the Dominicans, these being Fordham with 10 victories and no defeats and St. John's of Brooklyn with 12 decisions in 13 contests. Standing out in bold relief on the Providence records are the conquests of Yale, Dartmouth and Holy Cross.

* * * *

BASKETBALL has never attracted large crowds in this city, but Graduate Manager Farrell of the Dominicans, believing the fine achievements of the team have kindled great interest in the game, has engaged the Cranston street armory for the return battle with Holy Cross this evening. The game will mark the first home appearance of the quintet. In a sharply fought match at Worcester the Dominicans whipped the Crusaders 35 to 28.

Eddie Wineapple, highest scoring guard in the East, and Johnny Krieger, who stands third in New England point making, have been major factors in the winning streak of Coach McClellan's charges, who are captained by Larry Wheeler of Newport. Holy Cross's team will have two football players in the lineup, these being Clancy, who led the Varsity from a backfield post, and Fitzgerald, a tackle.

SHATTER PURPLE DEFENCE IN SECOND HALF FOR VICTORY

Game played:

February 2, 1929

Before one of the largest crowds ever to witness a college basketball tilt in this city, Providence College defeated the Holy Cross basketball outfit at the State Armory on Cranston street last night, 35 to 21, as the result of a spirited second half rally. A crowd estimated at 1700 crowded the stands to watch the Dominicans register their 10th victory in 11 starts.

The game was a colorful hoop tilt and the crowd was treated to some fine basketball throughout the fray. The Crusaders furnished stubborn opposition in the first half but wilted under the driving attack of the Smith Hillers in the final 20 minutes of play.

Bill McCue, rangy Sophomore who has been one of the steadiest performers on the club all season, came into his own as a scoring threat last night when he piled up 11 of the markers credited to the Dominican cause. McCue has always shone as a floor worker, and with Krieger and Wineapple well covered by the Crusaders, he proved that he has a keen eye for the basket.

Wineapple Watched Closely

Eddie Wineapple, highest scoring guard in the East, had his work cut out for him in trying to shake loose from Connors, rugged forward of the invaders. Time and again in the first half Wineapple hoisted the leather to the backboard only to have it roll off the hoop. Even his foul shots seemed to go astray, but in the second half he broke loose to show the far his ability as a scorer when he tossed in three spectacular field goals.

The all-round work of the Dominicans far outshone the performance of the Crusaders. Passing cleverly and effectively, Al McClellan's cohorts worked the ball well into the Worcester territory before cashing in for scores. The visitor resorted to long shots, with Sullivan, rangy centre, claiming the spotlight with three double-doubles from mid-floor.

Providence jumped into the lead at 11, cautiously testing the Cross defence and McCue collected his first field goal with a hoist from under the net, and added a point a moment later on a free try after being fouled by Brady. Then Wheeler contributed a long toss from the side of the court to continue the assault.

After the Smith Hillers had run their string to 11, the visitors opened up with a strong passing attack which closed the gap and three minutes before the half-time Coach Reed's outfit knotted the count at 14-all. Connors put his team ahead for the only time of the evening when he rimmed the hoop with a long tom to make the score sheet read 16 to 15 just as the intermission gun sounded.

Purple Defence Shattered

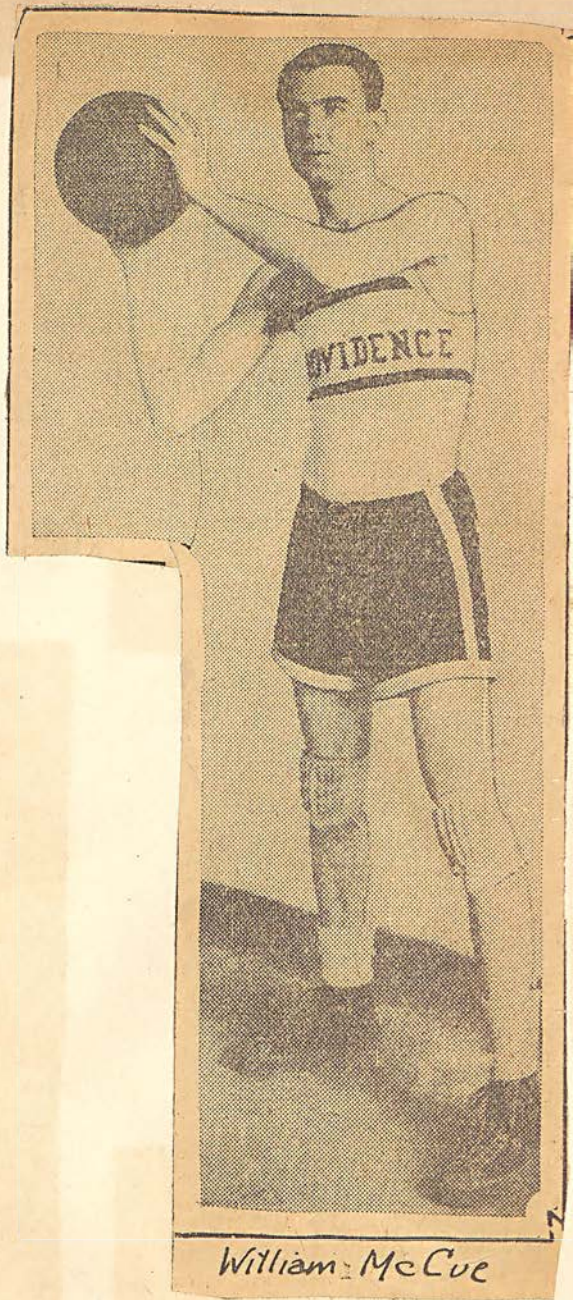

Providence lost no time when it took the floor for the final half. Snapping the ball about with speed and accuracy they swept through the Purple's defence and completely shattered it. At the same time, so effective was their own defence, that the Dominicans had but two field goals tallied against them in 20 minutes of action.

With the entire team taking part in the free scoring, the Black and White bead aggregation piled up 14 points before the Crusaders broke through for a counter. It was only after 13 minutes had been played that Fitzgerald, Holy Cross football star, captured a rebound and sunk it to make his team's count 19, while the Dominicans coasted along with a total of 33.

In the final minute of play Coach McClellan rushed his second string aggregation into action, and Desautels of the invaders flipped in a hawker from the side of the court to clinch the finest court tilt seen in this city in years.

CONNECTICUT AGGIES NOSE OUT

DOMINICANS 35-33

Defeat of Providence One of Season's Biggest Upsets

Wheeler of Dominicans Put Out of Game in Second Half.
Krieger High Scorer.

Game played:

February 6, 1929

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
Storrs, Conn., Feb. 6.—The Connecticut State basketball team staged one of the biggest upsets of the current season here tonight when it defeated Providence College 35 to 33. The defeat is the second reverse of the season for the Dominicans and their first setback in New England.

Strengthened by the return to their lineup of Capt. Schildgren, scrappy left guard, who was playing his first game of the year, the Aggies presented a formidable five-man defence which stopped the rallies of the visitors, while Chubbuck, husky centre, provided a scoring threat with 13 points.

Referee Dillon of Hartford shunted Capt. Wheeler out of the game at the very onset of the second half on personal fouls. With the Aggies two points ahead a moment after the second half had started, Wheeler and Chubbuck of the Aggies jumped in the air to gain possession of the leather near the Providence net, and the latter player fell on the Dominican leader, whereupon the latter was ordered from the game. The visitors protested the decision but to no avail.

The victory keeps the Connecticut home slate clear, as it marks their sixth triumph of the year. Although not the favorite tonight, the locals proved stubborn opponents through the fray and were alert to take advantage of every break.

Johnny Krieger of the Black and White hoopsters, was the high scorer of the evening with five field goals and four fouls to his credit, while Wineapple, high scoring guard added to his record with ten points. Chubbuck of the Aggies was the individual star for his team.

Providence started off in whirlwind fashion, piling up seven points before the Nutmeggers were able to find the range of the Dominican hoop. Steadily closing the gap during the last 10 minutes in the opening period, the Aggies finally overtook the Dominicans and tied the count at 12-all. Then the lead switched as the two outfits continued their nip and tuck struggle, until the intermission gun sounded as Krieger knotted the score at 18-all.

At the very start of the second half Chubbuck heaved in a field goal from over his head and Matzkin followed with a sensational hawk from the side of the court. Then came the tangle which sent Captain Wheeler to the side lines and robbed the visitors of their outstanding performer at a time when he was most needed. Gainor went in at the pivot post and although new at the assignment gave a good exhibition of floor work.

With the score 23 to 22 in their favor the Aggies obtained a wide lead when Gainor fouled Matzkin as he hoisted the leather through the nets as the result of a fast dribble in from the corner of the court. The Aggies' right forward made good on the two free tries to boost the team total to 27.

Krieger and McCue put the invaders from Rhode Island back in the running a few minutes later and with but a minute and a half to play Eddie Wineapple brought the crowd to its feet with a sensational long toss from beyond mid-floor to tie the score at 31 all.

Gainor went out on personals and Chubbuck made good on the throw from the free throw line to put the Connecticut outfit in the lead again, and on the ensuing tap from centre Ryan caged an easy basket on a long pass from Dall. Krieger raised the Providence score to 33 when he tossed in a field goal from under the hoop, but Duffy of the locals clinched the decision in the final seconds of play when he converted on a foul try.

Dominican Basketball Team Unleashes Strong Attack in Second Half at Durham.

Game played: February 9, 1929

(Special to the Providence Journal.)
Durham, Feb. 9.—Unleashing a strong attack in the second half of their game here tonight with the University of New Hampshire basketball aggregation Providence College won a one-sided tilt, 41-24. The contest marked the second defeat in as many years for the Wildcats at the hands of the Dominicans and the latter's 11th win of the season. With Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Krieger leading the attack the Rhode Islanders completely outclassed the locals until late in the second half. Coach McClellan was able to send into action his entire second team. The latter quintet held the Granite State hoopsters to a lone basket during the last five minutes of play.

Providence took an early lead, only to have the locals flash a strong passing attack to knot the count early in the opening period. A surge in the final five minutes of play, however, gave the Dominicans a wide margin as the half-time gun sounded with the score 21 to 13 in their favor.

In boosting his high point total to 164 Eddie Wineapple again challenges the leaders of the East for high scoring honors. Krieger assumed second highest rank in New England when he raised his total to 126.

Playing a clean and fast game the Providence five went to work in earnest in the second half and proceeded to widen the gap. They reached the 35 mark before the Wildcats were able to break through and register a tally.

With the game safely tucked away Coach McClellan sent his subs into action and the latter outfit, composed of Cooley at centre, Gainor and Derivan at the guards and Welch and Forrest at forwards gave a fine exhibition.

EDDIE WINEAPPLE FOURTH FOR HONORS

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Passing the 200 mark, Charley Hyatt, great forward of the University of Pittsburgh, has regained the lead in the race for individual scoring honors among Eastern college basketball players.

In 14 games Hyatt has made 82 field goals and 37 fouls for a total of 201 points. Joey Schaaf of Pennsylvania is second with 188, Jimmy Collins of St. Johns of Brooklyn third with 170 and Ed Wineapple of Providence fourth with 164.

Krieger Also Shows Uncanny Eye.—Black and White Score Twelfth Victory.

Before a capacity crowd at the La. Salle gym last night the crack Providence College quintet registered its 12th triumph of the season when it downed a scrappy Lowell Textile five by a 31-21 count. The game was closely contested all the way, and the Weavers from the Bay State proved a surprise for the Dominicans.

Providence flashed a good passing attack at times, but in the first half failed to show anything like their usual fine form. However, they opened fire with full force at the start of the second half and pulled away from the Lowell aggregation, until Coach McClellan indirectly called a halt to the scoring by sending in his second-string quintet.

Eddie Wineapple, high scoring guard, again claimed the spotlight with the highest individual total of the evening, tallying 15 points as the result of fine passing on the part of his mates. As the result of his work last night Wineapple is now the third highest scorer in the East, with 179 points to his credit. He climbed over Collins, star forward on the St. John's team, to claim the honor.

Krieger in Sixth Place

Although he garnered but four baskets, Krieger's eight points proved sufficient to hoist him into sixth place among the basket heavers of the East. His sharp eye last night enabled him to jump from ninth place in the rankings, as his new total betters the marks of Bonner of Temple University, Baker, Pittsburgh Forward, and Kelleher, St. Francis guard.

Providence failed to show the attack that was expected with the advantage of playing the game on their home court, their first tilt there this season, and as a result had to battle all the way in the first half to keep in the running. At the half time the count was deadlocked at 11 apiece, and the Smith Hillers were hav-

However, after the 10-minute intermission, the Varsity quintet sent the crowd into an uproar by its fine pass work, flashed the oval about the court with bullet-like speed. Wheeler tallied twice on pretty shots while off balance under the net to lead his team to the fore, and Wineapple contributed another double decker as the result of a cleverly executed pass from Krieger.

Wineapple Sensational

With the team feeding the oval to Wineapple, the count was raised to 21 when the Salem husky caged two sensational baskets from the side of the court. From that time till the end of the contest the Smith Hillers maintained a 10-point margin which proved too much for the Weavers to overcome in spite of the sterling offensive work of Savard, their rangy centre.

With the victory assured the mentor gave the fans a peek at his classy second team, using Cooley and Welch at the forwards, Gaimor at centre, and Cody with Derivan in the back court.

The game is the final home appearance of the Black and White courtsters as they travel to Cambridge next Saturday for a tilt with M. I. T. and next week they go on a three-day trip to New York where they engage the Army and Crescent A. C. in feature tilts.

No Disagreement Over Ability of This Basketball Team

Boston

HERALD

Providence College Outfit, Booked for Tech Game Here Tonight, But Which Will Not Appear Because of Disagreement Over the Choice of a Referee

THE cancellation of tonight's Providence-Tech game means that Boston basketball followers will not see the Providence team here this year. The quintet has proved itself about the best in New England, losing only to St. Thomas of Scranton, Pa., and to Connecticut Aggies. It has defeated Northeastern, Dartmouth, Yale, St. John's of Brooklyn, Penn State Teachers, Coast Guard, Springfield, Clark, New Hampshire, Lowell Textile and Holy Cross twice. During this time it has scored 458 points; its opponents have scored 391.

The outstanding star of the team has been Edward Wineapple, a former basket ball and baseball star at Salem High School. He has been the team's high scorer in the fourteen contests, despite the fact he is playing a guard position. He has caged no less than seventy-five field goals and has made twenty-nine successful shots from the foul line for a total of 179, which places him well up in the list for scoring honors among the players of the East. It is his first year on the team, while the other four players, all veterans of 1928, also are expected back next season.

The forwards on the team, William McCue and John Kreiger, were teammates in high school before matriculating at Providence. They are both sophomores, having entered college two years ago from Central High School of Paterson, N. J. Kreiger, who was one of the leading scorers in New England last season, ranks next to Wineapple in points scored for the season, with 134, followed by McCue with seventy-three. Laurence Wheeler, captain and a junior, was the best schoolboy center in New England, when he was playing for Rogers High of Newport, being selected twice for New England honors at the Tufts interscholastic tournament. This is his third season as a regular at Providence.

Leader in East.

With a grand total of 62 points, Joey Schaaf of the University of Pennsylvania team is setting the pace among the individual scorers in the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League. The Penn captain has looped the ball through the basket for 26 field goals and 10 fouls.

Second place, 21 points behind Schaaf, is held by Nassau of the Yale quintet. The Yale man has registered 12 times from the floor and has been successful 17 times from the foul line for a total of 41 tallies. He has competed in six league games, while Schaaf has performed in five. Schaaf's big jump forward was due mainly to the 22 points he registered against Columbia last week.

Cheney of Dartmouth is third with 37 markers, and Layton, Cornell, follows with 36. Schaaf is the leader in field goal scoring with his 26 successful efforts, while second place in this respect goes to Cheney and Layton, tied with 14 each. Carey of Princeton and Nassau of Yale top the free-throw list with 17 points apiece.

The team race finds Penn well to the fore with five victories and no defeats, while Dartmouth and Yale are tied for second with three victories and as many defeats. Cornell comes next with two victories and an equal number of defeats. Columbia has won one of its four games and Princeton has taken one of its five. While Penn seems to be too far ahead to be caught, Dartmouth, Yale and Cornell are waging a merry battle for runner-up honors.

In general scoring in the East, Charley Hyatt of Pittsburgh, playing in two games last week, caught and passed Lou Zara of Rider College. Hyatt has tallied 227 points in sixteen games, while Zara has garnered 222 in a like number of battles. The Pitt star has tallied eighty-nine field goals.

Fordham leads the fives of the East with sixteen victories in as many starts.

PROVIDENCE SQUAD TO PLAY ARMY FIVE

The Providence College basketball squad, winner of 12 of its 14 games, will leave Providence this noon on a three-day trip with the hope of adding another trio of victories to its already long string. During the next three days the Black and White quintet will oppose the Army five at West Point, Upsala College at East Orange, N. J., and the Crescent A. C. at Brooklyn.

The following players will go in quest of new laurels today: Captain Lawrence Wheeler, Willard Cooley and William "Chick" Gainor, centres; John Krieger, William McCue and James Welch, forwards; Eddie Wineapple, Stan Szydla and Edward Derivan, guards.

A practice session on the Army court is scheduled for tonight when the Black and White squad expects to reach the Hudson River shores. The game will be played tomorrow afternoon and if Al McClellan's charges can emerge ahead of the future generals, it will be a feat few teams have accomplished this season. Pennsylvania, leading the Eastern intercollegiate league, did it Saturday, but with such stars as Draper, Zimmerman and Messenger on the floor Army is strong enough to give any team the game of its life.

Immediately after the Army contest, the Providence squad will leave for New York, to be guests of Fordham College at the Fordham-St. John's game in which the metropolitan college title is involved. With Upsala and the Crescent quintets as its opponents on Thursday and Friday, the Black and White team will face another pair of strong opponents.

Eddie Wineapple, high scoring guard, is the only member of the squad who is not in the best of condition. The Salem lad is suffering from a slight leg infection, but it is expected that he will be ready to fill his position in the Army game and probably in the two remaining contests.

Game played: February 20, 1929

(Special to the Providence Journal.)

West Point, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Army's basketball five, playing a fast and hard-fought contest, defeated the Providence College quintet today, 36-32. The game was close throughout, the lead changing hands twice in the first half and once in the second half. The Army led midway, 15 to 12. Krueger, Army's alert and keen-eyed forward, led the Cadets in scoring, with seven field goals and two successful shots from the foul line, for a total of 16 points. Wineapple was Providence's high scorer with 12 points. Gainor, a part-time participant, was the visitors' next best sharpshooter with eight points to his credit, all scored on timely shots from scrimmage.

A field goal by Szydla at the very outset gave Providence first blood. Krueger for Army and Krieger and Wineapple for Providence shot goals, making the score 6 to 2 in the visitors' favor. Goals by Messenger and Strother tied the score at 6 all, and Draper's foul point put Army in front, 7 to 6. McCue dropped a field goal and Krueger shot one for the Cadets.

Wineapple stood under the basket and scored on a pass from Wheeler and the score read Providence 10, Army 9, Zimmerman having tossed in one point from foul for the Cadets. Wineapple fouled Krueger, who made good on two shots from the line. With the score Army 11, Providence 10, the Providence defence stiffened.

Krueger shot from far down court and counted. Gainor took Wineapple's place. Strother was fouled and made good once on two trials. Gainor scored for the visitors and as Strother added another point from foul the half ended with the count reading Army 15, Providence 12.

Gainor opened the second half with two field goals in succession, giving his team the lead, 16 to 15. Mansfield, who went in for Zimmerman, tallied on a shot from scrimmage to wrest the lead at 17-16. McCue fouled Strother and the latter counted on both tries. Mansfield and Strother each tossed in field goals while Wheeler was missing two easy shots. Army took what looked like a safe lead then and with five minutes to go was ahead, 31 to 22. A rally by Providence with Wineapple leading in the visitors' attack with three field goals, narrowed the gap, but the finish came a moment later.

DOMINICANS WHIP LOWELL TEXTILE

Score 54-38 Victory.—Krieger and Wineapple Boost Point Scoring.

(Special to the Providence Journal)
Salem, Mass., Feb. 26.—The Providence College basketball team outclassed the Lowell Textile quintet in a free scoring tilt here tonight, rolling up a 54 to 38 score to win their 15th game of the year. The Dominicans held the upper hand throughout and at half time had a five-point advantage.

Johnny Krieger, left forward, moved into sixth place among the scorers of the East by tallying 26 points, the second highest individual feat of the season. Krieger now has a season total of 200. He played almost the entire game, giving way in the final minutes to Forrest.

Eddie Wineapple vaulted into second place among the basket heavers of the East when he collected 16 points which puts him 14 points ahead of Glenn of West Virginia. The night was a gala one for Wineapple as he was given an enthusiastic welcome by his many Salem admirers who presented him with a travelling set prior to the tilt.

The Dominicans jumped into the lead in the first few minutes of play and ran their string to 13 before the Weavers were able to collect a single field goal. The Lowell quintet closed the gap before the half ended as the result of a spirited rally, which was led by Jarek.

In the second half Krieger and Wineapple smothered the Weavers under an avalanche of scores and piled the Providence count high enough to allow Coach McClellan to send in his second string which finished up the last seven minutes of play.

Dominican Quintet Easily Defeats Worcester 47-25

Captain Wheeler Leads Providence College to 16th Victory of Season.

Worcester, Mass., March 2.—Flashing a strong passing attack, the powerful Providence College quintet had no trouble in crushing the Worcester Polytech aggregation here tonight, 47-25. The win is the 16th of the season for the Dominicans and their third court triumph in this city this campaign.

Capt. Larry Wheeler, clever centre with the Rhode Islanders, was the outstanding performer in leading the attack on the Engineers, scoring seven goals from the floor and two from the free throw line. Several of Wheeler's shots were of the sensational type and were roundly applauded by the large crowd. Eddie Wineapple, All-American guard with the Dominicans, lived up to his reputation as a scoring back when he tossed the leather through the laces for a total of 15 points. As the result of this performance Wineapple is now in second place among the high scorers of the East. Johnny Krieger, high scoring forward, was so closely guarded by Dennison of the locals that he was able to sink but one goal from the floor.

Providence raced away to a long lead in the first 10 minutes of play with Wheeler, McCue and Wineapple leading the way. The engineers appeared completely bewildered by the brilliant pass work of the Rhode Islanders during this period and were able to collect but six points during the entire 20 minutes of play. At the half time the Providence machine was taking matters easy as the result of being on the long end of a 23 to 6 score.

The Dominicans continued their stellar work in the second half, but eased up after piling up a substantial lead and the engineers spurted to boost their total somewhat. In the final stage of the tilt Coach McClellan again gave his classy second team a chance to show its wares, sending them into action for the final five minutes. The Dominicans close their campaign next Tuesday when they meet Brown at Providence.

HYATT SCORES 275 POINTS IN 19 TILTS

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—With two games still on his schedule, Charley Hyatt, Pittsburgh forward, appears to have clinched individual scoring honors among college basketball players in the East.

Hyatt has scored 275 points in 19 games, while Joey Schaaf of Pennsylvania, his closest rival, has 266 in 25 games and only one more game to play. Ed Wineapple of Providence is third with 260, Jimmy Collins of St. John's, Brooklyn, fourth with 240, Glenn, West Virginia, fifth with 235, and Kreiger, Providence, sixth with 203.

Hyatt leads in field goals with 108 and Schaaf in fouls with 74.

LOOK FOR RECORD CROWD TO ATTEND P. C.-BROWN GAME

Dominicans, with 16 Victories in 19 Starts, Favored in Tuesday's Tilt.

Victors in 16 of the 19 tilts they have played this season, the Providence College basketball outfit will endeavor to bring its third court campaign to a successful close by scoring a victory over the Brown quintet at the Brown gym tomorrow night. The contest is slated to start at 8 o'clock and probably will draw the largest crowd ever to witness a court tilt in this State.

With Eddie Wineapple, highest scoring guard in the East and All-American choice, as their outstanding performer, the Dominicans will leave their Smith Hill haunts tomorrow night determined to cage the Bruins in their Elmgrove avenue lair. Wineapple is one of the highest point gatherers in the country with a total of 260 to his credit.

Conquerors of some of the finest quintets in the East, including Dartmouth and Yale, topnotchers in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, the Dominicans can easily lay claim to one of the finest records of any college five. Handicapped by playing every tilt away from home, with the exception of one, the Smith Hillers have overcome every obstacle in compiling their brilliant record.

Every one of the regulars on the Providence quintet is an upper classman, Wheeler and Szydla being juniors, and McCue Krieger and Wineapple, Sophomores. As a result the Black and White will have the same quintet wearing its colors again next winter and under the guidance of Al McClellan, whose keen knowledge of the court game has been the big factor in the team's success this winter, should maintain its lofty perch in the collegiate basketball realm.

Last week-end both the local colleges put the final touches on their offences in preparation for the game tomorrow night and both outfits turned in wins over Worcester colleges, the Smith Hillers swamping Worcester Polytech and the Bruins taking over Clark University. Hence both will be travelling at top speed when they swing into competition for the city championship.

AN ALL-RHODE ISLAND PROPOSITION

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE, which completes its most successful basketball schedule in its brief collegiate history with a meeting with Brown tomorrow evening, would like to test its prowess against Rhode Island State in a game to determine the unofficial collegiate championship of Rhode Island. Providence is willing to comply with any reasonable requirements to insure such a meeting, says Graduate Manager John E. Farrell. Both schools have good teams, and a game between them should produce the best sort of basketball.

Rhode Island, while its string of 12 straight victories was halted Saturday at Connecticut State, has a first-class record. Providence College ranks with the best college teams in New England. Providence has won 16 of its 19 games to date. Coach Frank Keaney of State has developed a splendid group of players while Coach Al McClellan of Providence has two stars in Eddie Wineapple and Johnny Krieger who are among the ranking Eastern scorers. Wineapple has scored 260 points and Krieger 204.

Wineapple has been shooting baskets since he put on short pants and that perhaps is the reason why the Dominican guard has proved such a phenomenal scorer. Wineapple's parents built him a hoop in his back yard at Salem and after school hours the youngster put in a deal of time dropping a ball through the ring. Eddie has a brother, Irving, who is 12 years old and a Salem high Freshman. He is following right in Eddie's footsteps as he is using the same back yard hoop and is already good enough to make the high school squad.

BROWN 49-23

Winners Run Wild in First Half Then Toy With Rivals

1300 See Dominicans Outclass
Bears.—Wineapple Leads Scorers with 18.

Running wild during the first half, the strong Providence College basketball team handed Brown University a stunning setback for the city championship last night at Brown Gymnasium, the final score being 49-23. A crowd of 1300, the largest attendance ever recorded at Brown Gymnasium, watched the Dominicans outclass their opponents from the start in registering their 17th victory in 20 starts and close their season in a manner which kept a loyal home-town crowd cheering every minute.

Led by the brilliant Eddie Wineapple, whose evening's work included the contributing of 18 points, the Dominicans proceeded to make certain of the decision in the first half and then toy with their opponents for the remainder of the game. The count at half-time stood 30-8 in favor of Al McClellan's quintet.

Brown took the lead in 25 seconds when Paul Snyder, who bore the brunt of the Brown attack, caged the first field goal of the night. In two minutes, however, Capt. Larry Wheeler started the deluge with the tying field goal and Kreiger with two full throws immediately gave the Dominicans a lead which never was threatened. The Smith Hill quintet ran up its score sensationally in the next eight minutes and at a point midway through the half Providence led 19-4.

The remainder of the first half was a succession of baskets and field goals in such rapid order that the spectators were bewildered trying to follow the play. The Dominicans monopolized the shooting privilege and added 11 points in the last 10 minutes while holding Brown to a field goal and a pair of foul shots. In the first half, Providence missed seven charity tosses while the Bruins failed to cage four.

After the rest, the Black and White perceptibly slowed down on attack and allowed Brown to crawl up. The Dominicans, for a large part of the second half, were content to pass the ball below mid-court, although frequently two-man sallies, usually including Wineapple and Wheeler as ball carriers, took the ball through the Brown defence and added enough points to satisfy the winners' supporters. The first score of the second period did not come until three minutes had passed and another minute had been ticked off before the Bruins were able to start scoring again. Wineapple went down under the basket less often than in the first half, and scored only two field goals and one free throw in the period.

While the first 10 minutes and the last five minutes of play were characterized by a large amount of body contact and numerous tumbles, the major part of the game was productive of well-played basketball. The winners delighted with their clever ball handling and their defence was never significantly penetrated by the Brown firing corps. Brown's defence was partially demoralized early in the game, Link Fogarty being sent from the floor on personal fouls inside of nine minutes, but Joe Mozzochi, Bob Morey and Dave Edes filled the post fairly satisfactorily.

Brown displayed an attack with surprised the spectators, for instead of concentrating on defensive play the Bruins made every possible attempt to carry the fight to the Dominicans. Although clearly outplayed, Tuss McLaughry's team fought all of the way, and in the second half put on a thrilling exhibition when they tried to cut down the Black and White's lead by taking advantage of the temporary slackening in the visitors' attack.

Tuss McLaughry sent Howie Smith, and his relief, Hy Heller, down the floor with the important Wineapple, and ordered Snyder to turn over his guarding duties to the other members of the quintet. This strategy failed during most of the game, and Snyder's night's work was hardly as successful as had been expected. He was given the option on throwing whenever he desired, and most of his hurried long shots failed to touch the hoop. As Brown rarely followed up these heaves, the advantage resulting from the aerial attempt to get the ball through the winners' defence went almost entirely to the Dominicans.

Wineapple's total of 13 points gave him high-scoring honors for the night, while Kreiger, with nine points, and Szyda, observing the occasion of his election to next season's captaincy with eight points, all out-scored Bob Brown and Snyder, leading Bruin talliers. Bob Brown's contribution of seven points was immeasurably important, for in the second half he took over some of Snyder's duties and the varied attack surprised, although it did not frighten, the winners.

Szydla to Captain P. C. Hoopmen

SZYDLA PICKED BY DOMINICANS

Veteran From Ware, Mass., is Unanimous Choice As the Basketball Captain

The crack Providence College basketball quintet which completed its season in a blaze of glory last night by defeating Brown by an overwhelming score and thereby clinching the New England college court title, elected Stanley A. Szydla, Ware, Mass., veteran, as its captain for next season. The election was held prior to the tilt with the Bruins, and was unanimous.

The election of Szydla, the least colorful of the hoopsters as far as being a scoring threat, is an excellent example of merit being justly rewarded, for the rugged junior has played a defensive game all season and although his work has been one of the big factors in the Dominicans success, it has been overshadowed by the brilliant work of his high scoring teammates.

Szydla is one of the most popular members of his class and is an honor student, pursuing a course leading to the bachelor of arts degree. He has been regular guard on the basketball outfit for the past three campaigns, sharing with Larry Wheeler, his classmate, who captained the team this winter, the task of bringing the Black and White colors to the fore on the college basketball realms.

In addition to his court activities Szydla has been a regular on the football team for the past three seasons, serving as a halfback. He also played with the junior Varsity baseball team for the past two years, and intends to make a strong bid for the centerfield vacancy on the Varsity nine this spring. Szydla has already won six major letters and will have at least eight before he receives his degree a year from this June.

The election of the Ware junior will prove most popular with the student body of the Smith Hill college and the fact that his teammates were unanimous in conferring the honor on him although the entire first team was eligible for the post, is ample evidence of his popularity with his hoopsters.

The players who won Varsity insignia for their efforts this past year were Capt. Laurence P. Wheeler of Newport, R. I.; John Krieger and William McCue of Paterson, N. J.; Captain-elect Stanley Szydla of Ware, Mass.; Edward Wineapple of Salem, Mass., and William Gainer of Troy, N. Y., while similar award was conferred on Student Manager George A. Dillon of Pelham, N. Y.

The Transcript, as has been its custom in past years, is picking its annual All-New England college basketball team. The coaches as usual were asked to name their choice, leaving off their own players. Twenty-one of the twenty-seven mentors of New England colleges sent in replies to the query sent them. There were several players tied for one of the guard positions and the vote for the center position was pretty well split up. For this reason two of the leading college basketball officials of the section, who have watched practically every college team in the section this year, were called in to help select the best players. Their selections differed not in the least from that picked by the coaches.

The result of the poll of the coaches and the selection of the officials results in the little State of Rhode Island having a very prominent place on the first team. No less than three players from "Little Rhody" gained places. Two of these are from Providence College, while the other is from Rhode Island State, which went through its season undefeated until it met Connecticut Aggies. This defeat was the only smirch on the record of Rhode Island State. Thus having broken the string of victories of the college in its neighboring State, it seems only right that Connecticut should be represented. It gained one position, while the fifth goes to the good old Bay State, or rather to Greater Boston.

Fred Ellis of Tufts has played a very prominent part in the local basketball circles during the past seven or eight years. First at Medford High he gained honors while competing in the Tufts tournament. Then upon graduation he entered the Medford college and now in his senior year he has been picked for All-New England forward. With him on the forward line is John Kreiger of Providence. This young man is only a sophomore at the Dominican college but last year and this year he has been one of the high scorers for his team. The center position was won by Daniel Chubbuck of Connecticut Aggies, while the guards selected are Edward Wineapple of Providence and Alexander Hurwitz of Rhode Island State. Wineapple, who is named captain of the team, and Chubbuck are both sophomores, while Ellis and Hurwitz

All Capable Scorers

For ability to score the group selected would be hard to surpass. Wineapple the past year, although playing a guard position, was one of the highest scoring players in the East. He was also selected for national honors by a well-known magazine, which polled the country's coaches in picking its all-star team. For him to be on an all-star team with Ellis is nothing new. He is a former Salem High School athlete and back around 1923-1924 he was competing in the New England Interscholastic Tournament which was run by Tufts at that time. He was playing forward for his high school team. Ellis was playing for Medford High at the time and when the tournament had been concluded the two were picked as the best forwards in the tournament.

Ellis is fast and shifty, handles the ball nicely and is also a fine defensive player. The Tufts four sport athlete during his high school and college playing has always shown that he possesses what might be termed basketball brains. He always seems one jump ahead of his opponent. The offense of a team is usually built around him and he has carried out his work to perfection. Kreiger in his two years of varsity playing at Providence has shown that he is fast, and knows when to cut for the basket and how. Last year he led the Domini-ans in scoring, but this season finished second to Wineapple. Kreiger does not have to get set to shoot, being a very capable running shooter and for this reason must be watched at all times.

Hurwitz, who is picked as Wineapple's mate in the back court, is one of the best all around players in New England. He is as good a shot as any of the other players on the team and his ability to come through in a pinch has been one reason Rhode Island State went through the season with only one defeat. His home is in Brockton and so although only one Bay State college placed a man on the team, the State is well represented, with Hurwitz, Ellis and Wineapple.

A 210-Pound Center

Some might think that weight would be a handicap to a center man, but this is proved to be untrue by the fact that Chubbuck, who was selected by the coaches weighs no less than 210 pounds. Despite his weight he has been able to get the tap very consistently and is also a good floor man and a good shot. During the early part of the season Conn. Aggies was without the services of Captain Schildgren because of an injury and Chubbuck was able to show his ability as a defense player, and his work in this department has been the same grade all season.

In the poll of the coaches nineteen forwards, seventeen guards and an even dozen centers received votes. After glancing over the list the following were selected for second team honors:

Carlton Allen, M. I. T.....left forward
Fred Duncan, Springfield.....right forward
Laurence Wheeler, Providence.....center
Nelson Gaunt (c), New Hampshire.....left guard
Stuart Clancy, Holy Cross.....right guard

Others who received votes were:

Forwards
Tiffany and Symancyk, Northeastern; Betham and Willmott, Williams; Sorrenson and Johnson, Middlebury; Latham, Amherst; Swarthout, Dartmouth; Morris and Connors, Holy Cross; Jarek, Lowell Textile; Horowitz, Yale; Ryan, Conn. Aggies; Berry, Boston University; and Snyder, Brown.

Centers

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE QUINTET NEW ENGLAND CHAMPIONS

Dominicans Won 17 Games Out of 20, Defeating Dartmouth, Yale, Holy Cross, Brown, Springfield and Others---Wineapple Second Leading Scorer in East With Total of 278 Points --- Same Team Returns Next Year

Providence, March 13—The Providence college basketball team of this city has been unanimously awarded the New England collegiate crown for the past season. The Dominican five was also accorded third place in the standing of all eastern teams.

The local hoopsters traveled through their difficult schedule with 17 wins out of a possible 20. This record is surpassed by only two teams in the east, Fordham and St. Johns of Brooklyn. The latter team was among the victims of the New England champs. Flashing an offensive that was irresistible and displaying a defense that was impregnable the Providence college boys romped home winners over such teams as Dartmouth, by the score of 34-32; Yale, 28-27; Northeastern, 42-31; Springfield, 25-21; Holy Cross, 35-28 and 35-21; St. Johns, 32-30; and wound up their season in the proverbial blaze of glory by handing the Brown university five a 49 to 23 trouncing.

Eddie Wineapple, the sensational scoring guard of the Providence team, has the honor of being chosen by over 100 coaches all over the country as the stellar back produced this year. He was picked as all-American guard in a poll recently conducted by College Humor Magazine.

He is the highest scoring guard in the country, having a grand total of 278 points, and is the second highest scorer in the east. Wineapple also carried off individual scoring honors with an average of 13 points a game.

Johnny Krieger, the star forward of the Providence college quintet, is in sixth place in eastern scoring totals with a total that is well over the two-century mark.

The champions will present the same team on the court next year as none of the players will be lost through graduation. At half-time in the Brown game, Stanley Szdlia of Ware, Mass. was chosen to captain the team for the 1929-1930 season. The captain-elect has been the mainstay of the Providence college defense, and has distinguished himself by his steady all-round play.

KRIEGER, M'CUE RATED AMONG EAST'S BEST FORWARD TANDEMS

Paterson Boys, Stars Together
in Central High School Here, Credited With Winning New England Championship for Providence College

JOHNNY KRIEGER.

BILL M'CUE.

(Special to The Call)
Providence, R. I., March 15.—For the second successive year Johnny Krieger and Bill McCue, clever forwards on the Providence college varsity basketball team, both residents of Paterson, have been awarded varsity insignia as the result of the action of the Dominican athletic association in granting the letters to varsity hoop outfit which finished the past season with but three defeats.

College champions of New England as the result of their triumphs over Dartmouth, Yale, Springfield, Worcester Polytech, New Hampshire, Holy Cross, Lowell Textile, Northeastern university, Clark university, Coast Guard academy and Brown, the Dominicans are without doubt one of the finest clubs in the east.

In Krieger and McCue, who were serving their second campaign as regulars, Coach Al McClellan claims he had two of the finest forwards in eastern college ranks. And as Eddie Wineapple, rugged guard was picked all-American, and Captain Larry Wheeler at center, all-New England pivot man, it is readily seen that the Providence aggregation was a well balanced quintet.

Krieger, for the second successive year, was among the high scorers of the East, and during this past campaign was second to his teammate, Wineapple, who was second best scorer in the country. Last year, his first here, Krieger was the leading player of New England. His high activities this winter landed him sixth place in the East.

McCue, rangy running mate of Krieger, handled the right forward assignment in brilliant manner, playing a strong offensive and defensive game. Owing to his height he starred at retrieving rebound shots, and instead of collecting more points for himself was content to feed the ball to Krieger or Wineapple in order that they might boost their individual scoring records. As a floor worker, Coach McClellan rated McCue the best on the team.

Both lads plan to turn their attention to baseball now, and both have high hopes of landing berths on the Providence college nine, which will take the field in defense of the Eastern college championship which it won last spring. Krieger has a fine chance to clinch the centerfield post, for which he subbed last spring, while McCue will try his luck as a pitcher or in the outfield.

Paterson (N.J.) CALL

Makes All-American

Eddie Wineapple, Brilliant Guard of Providence College Basketball Team, Who Has Been Selected on the "All" Five.

WINEAPPLE NAMED ON ALL-AMERICAN

Providence College Star Chosen as Guard on First Team.
Has Sharp Eye.

Eddie Wineapple, brilliant running guard on the Providence College quintet, has been picked for a position as guard on the All-American basketball team as named by College Humor magazine in its latest issue as the result of a nationwide poll of the college basketball mentors.

The first All-American quintet named as the result of the poll has Wineapple of Providence and Pickell of Arkansas as guards, Hyatt, sensational Sophomore of Pittsburgh, and Schaaf, captain of Pennsylvania, as forwards, and Murphy of Purdue as centre. As alternate Churchill, forward on the University of Oklahoma quintet, has been named.

In commenting on the selection of Wineapple as the outstanding guard in the East, and one of the two best in the country, the article states that "Wineapple is not only an excellent guard, but his basket shooting is so perfect that he has been leading all players in scoring along the Atlantic seaboard, and this includes the scores which have been made by Schaaf, Pennsylvania captain."

Wineapple has tallied 245 points in his campaigning with the Dominicans during the past season, having tossed in 101 field goals and 43 fouls in the 18 tilts that the Smith Hillers have played. His playing has attracted widespread interest throughout the East, and several New York sports writers are planning to name him for a post on their all-star college selections.

Thomas Pickell of the University of Arkansas, who has been selected by the college coaches as running mate on the All-American quintet, is six feet, six inches in height and has been the leading scorer of the South for the past two years. He alternates at guard and centre on account of his height.

The only other Eastern court performers to be selected for their brilliant work this winter are Dougherty, guard with the Fordham team, and Glenn, forward with West Virginia, both of whom have been named on the second all-star quintet, and Helme Swarthout of Dartmouth and Bollerman, guard with Colgate, who are given posts on the third team.

Among those given honorable mention is Herb Tiffany of Northeastern University, who is second highest scorer in New England. Tiffany starred for three years as forward with the New Bedford high quintet before entering the Boston school.

WINEAPPLE ON ALL-STAR FIVE

Providence College Basketball Star Is Awarded All- American Rating

For the first time in its sports history, Providence College has received the honor of having one of its athletes on an All-American team as the result of a nation wide poll of basketball coaches that has been conducted by the College Humor Magazine and which has resulted in Eddie Wineapple of the Dominicans being selected as guard on the mythical quintet.

The husky Dominican ace, who is second highest scorer in the East, has been given the honor of being one of the two best guards in the country, having as his running mate Tom Pickell, six-foot six-inch guard with the University of Arkansas quintet, which won the Southwest conference title for the second successive year. Like Wineapple, who is the highest scorer in the East, Pickell is the outstanding basket heaver in the South, and together they form the greatest pair of guards in college ranks.

The remainder of the first team is composed of Joie Schaaf of Pennsylvania and Charlie Hyatt, high scorer with the University of Pittsburgh, at the forwards and Charlie Murphy, who towers 6 feet 3 inches in the air, and who stars for Purdue University at the center assignment.

Wineapple is at present in second place among the point gatherers of the entire East, having a total of 245 points to his credit, which is 11 short of the high mark of Schaaf. With two games to play the Dominican husky has high hopes of overtaking the brilliant Pennsylvania captain.

Saturday night Providence College will make its third invasion of Worcester, playing Worcester Tech on the latter's court. In its previous visits to the Bay State city the Dominicans handed setbacks to Clark University and Holy Cross. The game with the Engineers marks the inaugural of basketball relations between the two colleges.

Next Thursday the White and Black clad aggregation will close its brilliant campaign during which it has humbled some of the finest teams in the East by tackling Brown University at the latter's court. A victory for the Dominicans in the Worcester Tech game and the Brown clash will definitely clinch the New England title for them and will give them a record of but three defeats in 20 games.

☞ Joe Schaaf, Penn forward. Home is in Philadelphia; is best scorer in the East.

☞ Charles Hyatt, forward, Pittsburgh, six feet tall. Home is in Uniontown, Pa.; said to be best player in America.

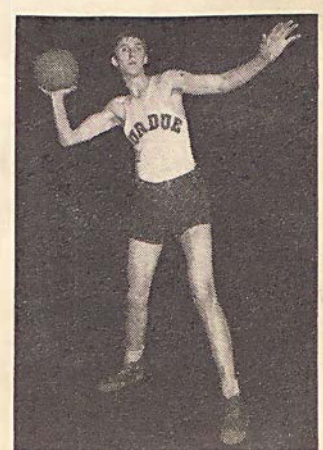

☞ Edward Wineapple, guard, six feet one inch tall. Home is in Salem, Mass.; is best scorer in the East.

☞ Thomas Pickell, guard, six feet six inches tall. Home is in Pocahontas, Ark.; is leading scorer in the South.

☞ Charles Murphy, center, six feet six inches tall. Home is in Marion, Ind.; is leading scorer in the Western conference.

AS the curtain is lowered marking an end to the nation's most successful collegiate basket ball season, the job of selecting an all-American basket ball team presents itself.

From coast to coast, north and south, college basket teams fought for the glory of their Alma Mater and for the first time since Dr. James Naismith originated basket ball the selection of a real all-American team becomes extremely difficult. Competition was keen. Dozens of topnotch quintets felt the sting of defeat when it was supposed that the championship banner was already on the way to the trophy room. The game this year developed some tall, rangy, whirlwind players who will long be remembered. Their playing will go down in history. Coaches who want successful teams in the future now know more than ever before that a good six foot six inch player is better than a good player who measures less than six feet.

A few players whose work on the court probably warrants their being placed on one of the mythical teams may possibly have been omitted, but when one considers the fact that there are approximately three million square miles of territory to cover, it will easily be seen why we solicited the aid of several hundred college basket ball coaches to aid in making these selections. We are grateful to the coaches of the country who contributed their time so as to make this the official all-American team for 1929.

The Forwards

Best in the pack of centers this year were Charles Hyatt, Pittsburgh; Joe Schaaf, Pennsylvania; Glenn, West Virginia; Hildebrand, Butler; Strickland, Indiana; Swarthout, Dartmouth; Churchill, Oklahoma; Crowe, Notre Dame; Foster, Wisconsin; Collins, St. Johns (Brooklyn); Harmeson, Purdue; Schoonover, Arkansas; Hall, Cornell; Ridings, Oregon; Carey and Miles, Princeton; Dudley, Loyola (Baltimore); Bishop and Thomson, Kansas; Nigro, Kansas State; Krueger, Army; Thompson, Montana State; Gleichmann, Northwestern; Tiffany, Northeastern; Lade, Ames; Fodder, Yale; Wasta, Temple; Craig, Missouri; Witte, Nebraska; Less, C. C. N. Y.; Twogood, Iowa; Huff, Furman; Downtin, Wake Forest; Patch, New Hampshire; Gaylor, Maryland; Estabrook, Vermont; Reeves, Danville Normal; Ballard and Patterson, Oregon State; Biggers, Lawrence; Ketchersid, Occidental; Hall, Lombard; Taylor, William and Mary; King, Drake; McMillin, Idaho; Taylor, Beloit; Fawcett, Stanford; O'Connell, Harvard; Correll, Indiana; Stevens, California; Farrin, Navy; Carish, Carleton; Duke, Bradley; Coggeshall, Grinnell; White of Butler and Colahan, Manhattan.

If you will recall to mind that on the afternoon of New Year's Day young Roy Riegels ran sixty-nine and one-half yards the wrong way with the pigskin to give Georgia Tech an 8 to 7 victory over California, I can start my story, for in the evening of that same day Charles Hyatt of Pittsburgh, playing forward against Indiana's crack quintet, looped twelve field goals through the laces to swamp the fighting Hoosiers. Hyatt was all over the floor, sinking baskets from all angles, one hand shots, "hook" shots, shots from the corners, from mid-floor, bankboard twisters and doing everything which earned for him the reputation of "America's greatest basket ball player." Hyatt is usually guarded by two men, but he drops 'em in. As a freshman, Hyatt averaged twelve baskets per game and when only a sophomore was a member of Pitt's undefeated team which won twenty-one games, and he was high scorer that year with 292 points. "Chipper Charlie," the smilin' kid from Uniontown, is six feet tall, thin and angular but as lithe and sinewy as a horsehide whip. Hyatt is superstitious about one thing: the number on his playing jersey must be ten, and when Hyatt graduates the Phi Gams are going to frame that jersey.

Joey Schaaf, Captain of Pennsylvania's great cage five, whose basket tossing has kept him in the lead in scoring and in the limelight for the past several years, tossed his first baskets with an old ball and into an old-fashioned peach basket, and when he entered college he was known to the yearlings as "Old Eagle Eye." In 1927-28 Schaaf scored 327 points, an average of 12.5 points per game. Schaaf loves the game, so much so that to perfect his eye from all angles of the Palestra floor he spent at least one hour in practice almost every day the last two summers when he was not rolling across country collecting Pullman tickets or announcing railroad stations. Schaaf is also an honor student in the Wharton School, being a member of Beta Gamma Sigma. Marshall "Sleepy" Glenn of West Virginia was a sensation in Eastern cage circles, and it was his six field goals in one half against Pitt which put the skids under the Panther, 40 to 35—the first loss at home in two seasons. Hildebrand of Butler, a center, was placed at forward because of his scoring ability.

Centers

The best centers this year must include the following: Charles "Stretch" Murphy, Purdue; Tenhopen, Wisconsin; Jensen, Creighton; Corbin, California; Smith, Southern California; Baker, Pittsburgh; Holmgren, Whitman; Conroy, New York University; Upton, Harvard; Bonacker, Colgate; Du Bose, Auburn; Bonner, Temple; Chapman, Michigan; Welsh, Missouri; Shearer, Oklahoma; Vanheyde, Ohio State; Wilcox, Iowa; McCracken, Indiana; Gist, Chicago; Burks, Maryville; Walter, Northwestern; Andrew, Marquette; Skillman, Princeton; Alin, Cincinnati; Rule, Montana State; Endslo, Washington State; Midnight, Case School; Clark, Colorado College; Murphy, Loyola (Chicago); Brazil, Detroit; Posnack, St. Johns; Woods, Ames; and Woodroof, California at Los Angeles.

Stretch Murphy jumped right into the limelight last year when as a sophomore he scored 123 points in the Big Ten games alone and made the all-Western selections, and this past season has seen him topping the conference in scoring, having piled up a tremendous lead at mid-season. Murphy "ducks" to enter the door at the Delta Tau Delta house, and being taller than six feet six inches helps him in his game. He not only takes the jump from all-comers, but he is poison beneath the opponent's basket.

Another king pin in the Western conference is Tenhopen of Wisconsin, whose basket shooting has been sensational this year.

being partly responsible for Meanwell's winning his game against Purdue. Jensen, too, is an ace at the pivot job, being six feet seven inches tall and a high scorer in the Valley, and Butler's winning streak is the result of the playing of Hildebrand at center. Clifton Shearer's playing at center for Oklahoma has brought him to the top in the scoring in the Big Six, and Harvard's victories have been partly due to the playing of its center, Tom Upton, whose height is six feet five inches. Bonacker, center for Colgate, is considered the best in the East.

Guards

Because of the consistent use of the five man defense, the duties of the guard have changed materially. The University of Wisconsin quintet, composed of five men, all of whom were over six feet in height, had a defense that was hard to penetrate. With each of the five men excellent on defense as well as offense, the Badger five did big things this season. Probably the finest guards in the country include Edward Wineapple, Providence; Tom Pickell, Arkansas; Dougherty, Fordham;

Truskowski, Michigan; Bolerman, Colgate; Mortenson and Thomas, Southern California; Breeden, Montana State; Cox and Hauser, Kansas; Fesler, Ohio State; Marshall, Northwestern; Mills, Illinois; McGinnis, Kentucky; Crawley, De Pauw; Petty, Texas Aggies; Otterness, Minnesota; Croxdale.

Whitman; Dubie, Tulsa; Emerick, Geneva; Montgomery, Franklin; Klosterman, Bucknell; Van Sickel, Florida; Shafer, Mt. Union; Smith, Notre Dame; Fish, Emporia; Hill, Delaware; Bolstad, Washington; Gregory, California; Lazar, Penn State; Ryan, Grove City; Kowalczyk, Wisconsin; Cook, Yale; Sinram, California Tech, and Sanders, Wesleyan.

Edward Wineapple is not only an excellent guard, but his basket shooting is so perfect that he has been leading all players in scoring along the entire Atlantic seaboard, and this includes the scores which have been made by Schaaf. Wineapple, whose home is in Salem, Massachusetts, won all New England honors in sports, but owing to his phenomenal success at Providence College as a basket ball player and a pitcher, he has forsaken the grid game. Six feet one inch, and weighing over two hundred pounds, Wineapple is fast and will soon be seen in major league baseball togs.

Meanwhile, the boys in the Southwest conference have been building some great basket ball teams. Six years ago the University of Arkansas was playing basket ball on a dirt court.

During the past year this wonder aggregation won its fourth consecutive Southwestern conference court championship, taking all honors and establishing a high scoring record for all times with a 71 to 23 win over Baylor University. Arkansas also won twenty-nine consecutive games, averaging more than fifty points per game.

The Razorback squad of twelve elongated basket tossers, all of whom measure six feet or over, is what Southerners call "hot."

There are two big reasons for this remarkable record hung up by Coach Francis A. Schmidt, and they are Tom Pickell, center and guard and Wear Schoonover, forward. Pickell has been selected in the guard position to pair with Wineapple because he, too, is an excellent guard and weighs one hundred and eighty-five pounds, and last year he was high point scorer in his conference. Pickell, because of his great height and ability to control the ball at every jump, makes goals as fast as Uncle Sam makes money.

A word here for Frank Dougherty, that high-powered, twelve-cylindered guard who plays for Fordham. He rates top consideration and is one of the finest guards in the country. Truskowski of Michigan is also a dreadnaught driver and is the one reason why Michigan was well up in Western conference circles throughout the entire season.

Good guards are usually hard to find, but this season's crop was not only good at guarding but tall enough to prevent the towering forwards from tapping the ball into the net with any regularity. Bollerman of Colgate was a sensational player. Mortenson of Southern California was a star on the Pacific Coast. The most outstanding guard in the Missouri Valley was Cox of Kansas, followed closely by Waldorf of Missouri and Bruce of Drake. Kansas and Missouri are in the new Big Six conference. The big surprise in the Big Ten conference was the great showing made by Michigan, considered a second division aggregation before the season opened, and the dropping of Indiana from its tie for league leadership with Purdue. Old "Doc" Meanwell took a bunch of six footers and showed what he could do to Purdue on the Boilermaker's own floor and for the only time in the season, except at Illinois, Stretch

Murphy of Purdue was held in check. Wesley Fesler, all-American end on Ohio's eleven, was a star on the Buckeye team and Frank Marshall of Northwestern was another great performer.

Was basket ball popular this year? Listen! Ten thousand enthusiasts jammed the Palestra at Pennsylvania; they packed students in the Big Six and Valley conference games and the average crowd witnessing Western conference battles numbered five thousand.

If it grows any bigger, authorities will have to put glass enclosures around the gridirons.

Murray Rates Wineapple, Schaaf Best Cage Players

By JACK MURRAY

With the college basketball season practically closed with the games that were staged on Saturday, the next thing in order is the picking of an all-star team. It is impossible for any one person to pick a team that would include players from all sections of the country and a mighty hard task to select one made up from the leading teams in the East.

Jimmy Collins

From our close association with the cage game as an official, having direct contact with a great number of the teams and players in this part of the country, we will believe that we have what might be termed an inside track on the ability of many individual players and teams that have come under our observation during the greatest season that the cage has ever had.

There have been a great many fine teams this year and the great records made by these fives have not resulted from the individual playing of any one particular player on the team but mainly through the efforts of the entire team, who in many cases have been coached in a particular manner so that the team would win the games scheduled. Naturally this condition brought about the development of several individual players that have stood head and shoulders above the majority.

To our way of thinking Eddie Wineapple of the Providence College five is the best player in this part of the country. He can do everything a coach would want a player to do and his uncanny judgment while in action reminds one of the action of the most finished professional player the cage game has ever known.

The line-up of our team would include Schaaf, Hyatt and Collins as the forwards. Howards, Howard Bollerman of Colgate and Bill Conroy as the centers. Wineapple, Dougherty and Frank Baker of Pittsburgh as the guards.

Increasing the first-string crowd to ten, the average number of players by the college teams, we would add Bob Many of Lehigh to the forwards; Dutton of Georgetown to the centers. Dutton, like Hyatt, would do as well as a guard in an emergency that would arise if this combination could get into action.

Providence College basket-ball team finished its season last night in a blaze of glory, winning from Brown University at the latter's court, 49 to 23.

Winning 17 out of 20 games is some record and one of which the Dominican players feel proud. It has been some time since a New England college has made such a remarkable record, considering the fact that it was the hardest schedule that the Providence quintet had ever undertaken. Of the 20 games played, only one was at home, this being the return contest with Lowell Textile. The three games lost were to the U. S. Military Academy by four points, Connecticut Agricultural by two points and St Thomas College, Scranton, Penn. by five points.

Among the victims have been such teams as Northeastern University, Dartmouth, Yale, St John's College, Brooklyn, N Y; Penn State Teachers' College, East Stroudsburg, Penn; U. S. A. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn; Springfield College, Clark University, Worcester; Holy Cross, twice; University of New Hampshire, Lowell Textile, another double victim; Upsala Collège, East Orange, N J; Crescent A. C., Brooklyn, N Y; Worcester Polytechnic Institute and Brown University.

Wineapple a Sensation

Eddie Wineapple of Salem has the distinction of having scored 278 points in the 20 games, getting 114 baskets from the floor and shooting 50 baskets from the free-try line. He has proved a sensation as a back this year among New England colleges, and in individual scoring was rated as fourth best performer among Eastern colleges. When at Salem High Eddie played forward and was picked on the All-New England team of the Tufts tournament several years ago. Besides being prominent in basket ball he was a star half-back on that school's championship eleven. At present he is rated as one of the leading ball players in the collegiate ranks, having pitched phenomenal ball during the past few seasons for his college team.

Larry Wheeler, Newport, R I, captain of the team, prepared at Rogers High. His ability to outscore his opponents from time to time has gained him an enviable reputation. He was the only schoolboy ever to be picked twice for the All-New England team at the Tufts tournaments.

Billy McCue, Paterson, N J, who played right forward, is a rangy and an aggressive player. His playing this season was of championship caliber.

Johnny Krieger, Paterson, N J, who was McCue's mate at the forward position, made a great record for himself, both as an offensive and defensive player. He was runner-up to Wineapple in scoring honors in New England and was seventh in the Eastern college list of performers. In the 20 games Krieger scored 74 baskets from the floor and tallied 64 points on free tries, a total of 212 points.

Stanley Szydla hails from Ware, Mass, where he was regarded as one of the greatest players in high school ranks. He was the running mate of Wineapple and was considered a grand performer, especially on the defensive. He has been a star performer on the gridiron for the past three years. William ("Chick") Gainor, Troy, N Y, played substitute guard and center. He is the outstanding amateur welterweight boxer of Rhode Island and is rated as one of the best in New England.

Coach McClellan's Record

Coach Al McClellan, whose home is in Swampscott, is to be congratulated on the fine showing of his charges. McClellan received his early education in the public schools at Salem, and finished his college career in Baltimore, during which time he was active in all branches of sport.

As a professional baseball player he had very much experience. He played with the Baltimore Internationals, Buffalo Internationals and in 1920 was the property of the Detroit Americans. He enlisted in the World War in the aviation branch. He served at Pensacola, Fla; Charleston, S C, and at Hampden Roads, Va.

At Charleston, S C, July 4, 1918, he won not only the army and navy high jump, but also played on the baseball and regimental teams. He also assisted Director Powell in athletics in that section of the country.

McClellan served as basket-ball coach at Salem High School for four years, and assisted Bill Broderick in football for three years. In basket ball he always had championship teams, and established a record for consecutive wins, running up a string of 49 consecutive victories against the best high schools in New England. He took a step higher by coaching St John's Prep for two seasons. During that time his proteges competed against Harvard freshmen, Brown freshmen, Andover Academy, winning 21 out of 23 games the first year and 18 out of 19 contests the second year. In the rubber game against St Anselm's Prep at Cambridge McClellan's players won by a comfortable margin.

This is McClellan's second year at Providence College. Last year he signed up to coach on a very short notice; in fact, only two days before the opening of the season. He made good from the start.

"General" McClellan, as he is known by his intimate friends, has received innumerable offers from the Middle West, New York and New England colleges, but the chances are that he will be retained at Providence College for years to come.

This year's basket-ball team is made up not only of fine players, but excellent students as well. Krieger is president of his class. Wineapple is vice president of his class. Wheeler, McCue and Sydla have shown that they are as good in their classrooms as in athletics. All of these athletes were under the supervision of McClellan last year, with the exception of Wineapple, whom the "General" had four years at Salem High School.

Outstanding Court Stars For "All Eastern" Quintet

THE 1928-29 basketball season was distinctive in that it produced several outstanding court stars whose like have not trod the floor for several seasons. The selection of an all-Eastern team has therefore been made a much easier task than customary.

In the forward positions the honors go to Charley Hyatt, leader of the University of Pittsburgh quintet, and Joey Schaaf, captain of the University of Pennsylvania team. Little indeed can be said of these two scintillating court luminaries that has not previously been mentioned.

Hyatt, a member of the Pittsburgh five that captured the Eastern championship of the United States last year, was the main cog in the machine this year.

From tossing a ball into a patched up peach basket hoop. Schaaf, the Penn marvel, rose to the heights of athletic fame in leading his team to two successive Eastern Intercollegiate League titles. Schaaf first learned to toss the old apple around by throwing it up against the hoop of a peach basket that a wandering circus troupe left behind them in his home town.

Capable Pivot Men

ONE of the surprises of the past season was the plentiful supply of excellent centers. Usually the pivot man is considered as so much "dead matter" by the coach, being in the game simply to secure the tap and then remove himself from the scene of immediate activity. But the 1928-29 season is memorable in that it produced more capable pivot men than have flashed forth in the last five years.

Howard Bollerman, the giant Apollo and captain of the Colgate quintet, is as far ahead of the other Eastern centers as the Yankees were of the Red Sox last season. Standing six foot six in his bare feet and boasting the build of a modern Hercules, Bollerman stood without a peer all season.

As alternate to Bollerman, the selection naturally goes to George Gregory, the negro sophomore, who kept a very mediocre Columbia team from looking altogether bad.

Posnack a Sensation

EVERY year there invariably comes along an individual who attracts undivided attention not so much for his scoring feats as for his marvelous defensive ability and general teamwork. Just such a person is Max Posnack, the bone and framework of the St. John's College five which finished runner-up to Fordham. They call him "the messenger to Garcia" at the Vincentian's school, because he never fails to come through. Posnack, a natural guard, performed at center throughout the season, but as a defensive player par excellence he had no equal.

Providence College, hitherto unknown in the best of cage circles, broke into the spotlight this season, but the reason can be found in the proclivities of one, Eddie Wineapple, the "Lindbergh" of the court. Wineapple, a left-handed player, is the dribbling fool of the college men, flying hither and thither around the floor and usually winding up by caging the ball in some sensational manner.

The champion Fordham five contributes another member to the "All-Eastern" in Frank Dougherty, its captain, the past semester. An equally dangerous shot with both hands, Dougherty was the nemesis of almost all he played against this season.

COMMENT and GOSSIP

by Charles B. Coppen

SCATTERED throughout the length and breadth of Uncle Sam's broad acres are hundreds of colleges the names of which rarely find their way into the columns of the daily press here. Energetic graduate managers in quest of attractive schedules keep tabs on the athletic teams of these colleges and when a baseball or football team begins to blaze a winning trail they make special efforts to bring the victorious outfits to the home fields.

John Farrell of Providence College read the past season of the brilliant work of the Spring Hill College nine of Mobile, Ala., the Southerners being engaged at the time in bowling over all kinds of opposition. Taking his trusty typewriter in hands Johnny wrote to the graduate manager of the Alabama college to find out if a Northern trip was being contemplated and suggested a battle with the Dominicans in the event of such a journey.

As a result a contest was scheduled and this afternoon at Hendricken Field the Spring Hillers will meet the Smith Hillers in a game that promises to be one of the best on the city's collegiate program this season.

* * * *

ALABAMA's crack club has cleaned up everything on the Southern inter-collegiate map for two seasons, but the Southern lads will find the rigorous spring climate of New England quite different from the hot weather of Dixieland and may split wide open. They will also be up against two especially high-powered combinations in Providence and Holy Cross, a contest with the Crusaders being one of the high spots of the New England invasion.

Jack Flynn's charges have reeled off six consecutive triumphs, one, achieved at the expense of the hitherto unbeaten Fordham team, being the brightest in the collection. Thus far there has been no sign of weakness in any department. The stickers are belting all kinds of pitching to the far corners of the lots, the defence appears to be rock-ribbed and the flinging corps the best ever at the college.

* * * *

COACH JEAN DUBUC stated yesterday that his Bears were looking at the future through rose-tinted glasses as a result of the beatings handed to the Boston University Terriers and the jinx that had been camping on the team's trail. It took the Hill-Toppers five games to shake themselves out of their loose and losing ways.

Although the victory over the Bostonians was nothing to boast about, the Hub outfit being composed of mediocre talent and the margin of supremacy in the way of tallies being very thin, it was sufficient unto the day from the standpoint of lifting the team's morale.

"They know how it feels to win now," said Dubuc yesterday, "and they like the feeling. We hook up with Maine Wednesday, and if the boys can do a repeat that scrap with Holy Cross Saturday here will not loom so large."

* * * *

IN all probability Pete Rawlings will be saddled with the hurling burden when the Crusaders start their attack at Aldrich Field. He is the best pitching bet on the Brown staff, and he would be far more effective were it not for the fact that he is inclined to get a bit panicky when the going grows tough.

In view of the fact that Holy Cross is again in the field with a team of championship calibre, the crowd promises to be one of the largest of the season. Coach Barry's athletes are very popular wherever they roam, both with collegians and non-collegians. Holy Cross graduates are a loyal lot and they'll come from far and near to root for the Purple next Saturday.

CHAMPION GENE TUNNEY is in New York making plans for his training work for the title combat with Tom Heeney at the Yankee Stadium in July. In an interview given out shortly after his arrival home Sunday, the king of the heavies asserted that he was not in accord with the predictions of many boxing experts that the battle with the New Zealander would be a mere romp. Following is an expression by the champion of his views on the match according to James P. Dawson of the New York Times:

"I do not intend to let myself be swayed by the popular idea of Heeney. Some people evidently think he will be easy for me. Others think differently. I don't think at all, you might say. I will train for Heeney as I have trained for all my bouts, conscientiously and with every attention to preparation for a fight in which the title I hold is exposed to danger of slipping away from me. I will enter the ring ready and at my best fighting peak, all things being equal.

* * * *

HEENEY is no mediocre foe. He is to my mind the outstanding heavyweight of the day. He has beaten everybody matched against him. I do not subscribe to the theory that Risko is entitled to as much consideration as Heeney as a challenger for Heeney beat Risko and Risko has been beaten by such boxers as Young Stribling, Jack Delaney, Mike McTigue and Tommy Loughran.

"I have seen all the other heavyweights but Heeney. I only know he must be tough and durable. He is a good man and will lend an inter-sectional flavor to our match which should have its effect on the financial success of the bout.
