DEDICATION

To the beloved memory of the Reverend James Bartholomew McGwin, O.P., who died on December 6, 1940, after eleven years of instructing young men in the principles of dealing fairly with others and in the righteousness of leading a Christian life, we, the Senior Class of Providence College, respectfully dedicate this book.

F O R E W O R D

In publishing VERTAS it has been our desire to record those faces, scenes, and events which, upon being recalled in later years, will keep our hearts young and warm in the glow of these glorious days at Providence College, and to make it possible for each of us to leave a record of himself and his activities to the history of the College.

In our four years we have become steeped in the ideals of the Order of Preachers. May this book serve as an added means for keeping us closely affiliated to the College of our youth and steadfast to the truths she has taught us.

PRESIDENTS

The President of Providence College for the past several years, the Very Reverend John Jordan Dillon, O.P., has endeared himself to professors and students alike as a capable guide and an inspiring, approachable friend. Under his administration the College has enlarged its physical development with the completion of Aquinas Hall, new student residence unit, and the general beautification of the campus. The Rev. Jeremiah T. Fitzgerald, O.P., Vice President of the College, has been teacher and friend to students of the College for almost a quarter of a century. One of the incorporators of the College, Father Fitzgerald, in his twenty-two years of teaching, has seen the College grow and expand until it is one of the leading educational institutions in the East.

The Reverend Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., has been Dean of Studies since 1930. He systematized a balanced and diversified program of studies for the undergraduate body of the College and has been a wise Counsellor to all who have had recourse to him for advice. Assistant Dean, Reverend Frederick C. Foley, O.P., newly appointed Faculty Moderator of the Alumni, has known every student at the College personally in his six years' administration. Understanding in temperament and willing in spirit, Father Foley has been a constant ally in all our scholastic endeavors.

The Administration, the faculty in charge of the business and general activities of the College, includes the Reverend Edwin I. Masterson, O.P., Treasurer; the Reverend Daniel M. Galliher, O.P., Registrar; the Reverend Charles H. McKenna, O.P., Chaplain; the Reverend Francis J. Fanning, O.P., Librarian.

The Governor greeted by the Administration and fellow Alumni

The glad hand

A L U M N I

The Providence College Alumni Association sponsored a most active program during the past year. An Alumni News bulletin, published by the Board of Governors of the Association, appeared in the fall and again in the spring. On November 17 the graduates returned to the College for the Homecoming Day which featured the football game between Providence College and St. Anselm's of New Hampshire. Following the game a meeting was held at which time it was planned to honor the Governor-elect of Rhode Island, J. Howard McGrath, '26, at a testimonial dinner which would be restricted to the Alumni of the College. The dinner was held on Sunday, December 1, in the main dining hall of Aquinas Hall on the campus.

"And remember when —"

The annual Alumni Ball was held February 21 at the Biltmore Hotel in Providence and was attended by over 250 couples. Thomas J. Reilly, '35, acted as Chairman of the affair. At the annual business meeting of the Association in February, the Rev. Daniel M. Gallher, O.P., Faculty Moderator, resigned and was succeeded by the Rev. Frederick C. Foley, O.P., Assistant Dean at the College. On May 18 the annual memorial Mass for deceased members of the Association will be celebrated and will be followed by a Communion breakfast which will be held in Aquinas Hall. On June 10 the Association will close the year's activities with the election of officers and the annual Alumni Day golf tournament and dinner at the Metacomet Club.

HOMECOMING

The inauguration of Homecoming Day held on Sunday, November 17, featured the fall activities of Providence College. This day was set aside for the returning Alumni of the College who would welcome the opportunity of renewing old acquaintances once again. The festivities began the night previous to the football game between Providence College and St. Anselm's of New Hampshire with the radio broadcast over Station WJAR. John E. Farrell '26, President of the Alumni Association, delivered the Homecoming address and welcomed all the returning Alumni to the halls of the College. Head Coach Hugh Devore of the football team was interviewed as to the Friars' chances in the game on the morrow. The Providence College Glee Club accompanied by the College Band sang the College fight songs and the Alma Mater song, closing the program. Celebrations lasted far into the night as informal get-togethers were formed by the festive graduates.

The following day a large and enthusiastic gathering of Alumni were on hand to cheer the team to victory. They cheered as of old; they sang the songs that they sang as undergraduates of the College but all in vain. The fortunes were not smiling upon the Friar football team that day and they bowed in the final minute of play to the aggressive St. Anselm eleven. Many a hoarse and sore-throated graduate left the field dejected over the final result, yet pleased with the general showing of the team. After the game the members of the Alumni were conducted through Harkins Hall, which had been subject to many changes over the past few years, and through Aquinas Hall, new student residence unit on the campus. Envious eyes were cast over the spacious rooms and comfortable lounges in the new dormitory. There was nothing like this when they were here, they remembered. Plans were made to have Homecoming Day an annual event in future years.

The JUNIOR PROM of 1940, highlight of the College social season, was held on May 10, in the crystal ballroom of the Biltmore Hotel. Over 350 couples danced to the music of Woody Herman and his Blues Orchestra. The favor of the Prom was a gold bracelet with a locket attached in the form of a miniature book with the College Seal and Class numerals embossed in black letters. The pictures: (1) Checking in at the Prom; (2) The winning favor; (3) George Harley and Mary Hannon; (4) While Herman "plays the blues."

JUNIOR RECEPTION

The JUNIOR RECEPTION, a dance traditionally tendered the incoming Seniors by the graduating class, was held June 10, 1940, in Harkins Hall. Peter K. Goodwin, '40, was Chairman of the committee which arranged the dance—the last social given by the Seniors to underclassmen. Seen at the dance were: (1) New members being inducted into the P. C. Cafeteria Society; (2) "Dav" Carroll advising Juniors; and (3) Just the center of attraction.

The climax of the investiture of the Seniors in their academic robes on CAP AND GOWN day is the dance which is held that same evening. Last year's dance was on May 5, in Harkins Hall. The dance is traditionally for begowned Seniors only. Chairman in charge of the dance was Charles B. McCarthy. As the cameraman saw the dancers: (1) Time for a Paul Jones, (2) "Here they come in all their splendor," (3) Headache and heartache.

CAP AND GOWN

The SENIOR BALL of 1940 was held at the Stone House in Scituate, R. I., on June 8. The Ball, a formal affair and the Seniors' farewell to their college days, was the climax of the Commencement exercises. An off-campus affair, the dance is attended only by the graduates who earlier in the day received their degrees and by the Faculty. Last year's Ball was under the chairmanship of William J. Carter and was attended by 128 couples. Attending the last social of their collegiate days, the graduates entered into its spirit and the cameraman saw: (1) The lordly Seniors loosening up; (2) The dreamy dancers in the dark; (3) The committee leading the way to the last waltz; and (4) The students and Faculty intermingling at the intermission.

JOHN F. GIBBONS
President

The tenor of our age has changed. We did not expect a change in 1937 when we emerged from secondary schools to enroll in Providence College. We had a successful first year, attending the Frosh-Soph Mixer and starting an innovation with the St. Patrick's dance in March. Earl Shean played at the affair. Charles Sweeney, William Danahy, Paul Dunn, and Richard Blake were our Class Officers. The Reverend John B. Reese, O.P., was Moderator.

At the beginning of our Sophomore year the students in Prague were losing their right to live, learn, and fight. But their loss hardly affected us. We were oblivious to world change. After disciplining the Freshmen, we named P. Joseph Brannon to run our Soph Hop in December and elected John Gibbons, George Gardner, John Fay, and Charles McGovern our Class Officers. The Reverend James T. McKenna, O.P., was our Moderator.

CASIMIR L. POTERA
Vice President

EDWARD A. CROUCHLEY
Secretary

Joseph Howe, James Pettine, John Keenan, and Francis McCarthy supervised our activities during our Junior year. Our fall dance was a fitting prelude to a Junior Prom. Woody Herman was unbeatable. But while we were dancing to his music at the Biltmore Hotel, an engine of destruction was piercing the heart of a supposedly strong nation. We heard the rumblings of rumor, of charge and counter-charge, and sickened at their portents as we dined at the Junior Banquet in all the luxury and comfort of a country three thousand miles away from tragedy.

Last fall the change was complete. Many of us signed registration cards; all of us wondered about our future. Many times we talked and argued, seriously, sardonically, and prophetically. We began to appreciate our classes more. John Gibbons, Casimir Potera, Edward Crouchley, and John Keenan, as Class Officers, and Ira T. Williams, Jr., as yearbook editor, were given positions of leadership. With Reverend John T. McGregor, O.P., as moderator of our class, we made a smash hit with our February VERITAS Dance. We had fun with the underclassmen. But it was funny how things had changed. We too jitterbugged in our Freshman year. Now, however, we are a little staid on the dance floor and a little more serious; serious enough to worry over the things that matter.

Commencement is not far off, nor Parents' Night, the Commencement Ball, talk of reunions, and all the nostalgia of the last week. Graduation speakers will not find it necessary to remind us of fundamentals. They will not need to preach of ideals or of the horrors of war. We know of war's horrors, and the present conflict has etched our ideals in our minds. We now realize all too well that the tenor of our age has changed.

ALMA MATER

Mother of Truth, we proudly pledge to thee
Undying love and steadfast loyalty.
From thee we learned the wondrous works of God,
His goodness, grace, and holy power;
Clear hast thou shown what pathways must be trod;
All fearless now we brave life's hour!

Though failure frowns, though kindly fortune smile,
Firm our advance, naught can thee'er beguile.
To honor bound, to love and virtue sworn,
Lift we our voice in full acclaim.
Thy sons shall thee with noble deeds adorn;
Hail Providence! We praise thy name!

OUTSTANDING SENIORS

The annual Senior poll taken early in October was cosmopolitan in that its winners represented every department of the College. Charles E. Sweeney of Edgewood, a student in the Arts Department, was voted as the student who has "done most for the College". Two first places were awarded to Robert R. Riley of New Bedford, a student of the Science Department. Riley was voted "best student" and "most likely to succeed". Leo J. McNerney of Providence of the Pre-legal School was voted "second best student".

LEO J. MCNERNEY

THOMAS J. FARRELL

CHARLES J. MCGOVERN

DONALD F. CRONIN

Charles J. McGovern of Providence was the winner in two of the superlative polls, those of "handsomest" and "best socialite". Donald Cronin of Baltimore, Md., was voted second handsomest". The title of "best dressed" went to William Danahy of Hopkinton, Mass. He was also third in the voting for "best socialite". James Clifford of New Haven ranked third in the poll for the "most popular" student. The student voted "most popular" was Russell Varnum of East Providence, Chairman of last year's Junior Promenade. John Gibbons of Pawtucket was runner-up to Varnum and also placed second in the voting for "best actor" and student who "has done most for the college".

WILLIAM P. DANAHY
JAMES T. CLIFFORD

RUSSELL V. VARNUM

JOHN F. GIBBONS

CHARLES T. AVEDISIAN

MAURICE J. FERLAND

The "best athlete" award went to Charles Avedisian of Pawtucket, Co-captain of the 1940 football team. Maurice Ferland of Killingly, Conn., was first in the voting for the "best politician". The superlatives given these students were the result of popular selection among the Seniors of the student body.

JUNIORS

JOHN A. STONKUS
President

The Class of 1942, with an impetus characteristic of the past two years launched itself into the multiple channels of collegiate activity. The fields of college endeavor were well augmented by the representatives of the Junior Class, and the distinction of being one of the most active groups of the College was gained by the third-year men. Early in November the social spotlight was occupied with the sponsoring of a Harvest Dance by the Class, at which time the officers for the year were formally and officially inducted. The new officers were John Stonkus, president; Paul Carberry, vice-president; William Mullen, treasurer; and Edward Quegan, secretary.

RAYMOND P. CARBERRY

EDWARD L. QUEGAN
Secretary

Teams representing the Class were entered in the Intramural Basketball league. Although no championships were garnered in either division, the fighting spirit and tenacity of the teams were impressive. Two Junior Basketball players were selected for positions on the All Intramural League teams and many third-year men participated in the Intra Club tournament. Brilliant performers from the ranks of the Juniors studded the Varsity football and basketball teams. Many Juniors were members of the Pyramid Players, College dramatic organization, and participated in the Musical Comedy. The Cowl, The Alembic, and The Debating Union were also included in the extra-curricular activities of the members of the Class of '42. Gradually members of the Class were beginning to take their places as leaders in the various activities throughout the College.

Final plans for the annual Junior Promenade, highlight of the College social season, were completed in March by the Committee headed by Joseph H. Sullivan, chairman. Included in these plans were the selection of Larry Clinton and his Dipsy Doodlers as the music-makers, the Biltmore Hotel Ballroom as the scene, and the night of April 28 as the date for the festive occasion. A white kid make-up kit with the College seal and the Class numerals deftly embossed on it was selected as the favor for the Prom. Members of the committee assisting Joseph Sullivan were John Reynolds, Edward Haponik, Thomas Cahir, Ross Muenzen, and the Class Officers.

And thus the class of 1942 prepares to enter into its final sphere of collegiate life, that of the Senior Class. It rejoices over its past triumphs and looks forward to new and unconquered horizons. The third chapter is closed; may the fourth be as glorious.

HARVEST

"Carry on, John"

Inaugurating the College social season, the Junior Class sponsored the Harvest Dance, Friday evening October 25, in Harkins Hall. The popular sophomore maestro "Tiny" Quinn and his twelve-piece orchestra provided music for the affair which was attended by over 240 couples who danced from 8 till midnight in the gaily decorated ballroom. In keeping with the fall season the motif of the dance included a large cornucopia symbolizing the gathered harvest as a centerpiece, with cornstalks, bright multicolored leaves, and pumpkins, strewn around the cornucopia.

DANCE

An innovation of the affair was the formal induction and official announcement of the Class Officers for the year. The election took place prior to the dance, but the results were withheld in strict secrecy. During the intermission the gavel, token of leadership was presented to John Stonkus, the incoming President, by Ross Muenzen, president of the previous year's class and chairman of the dance. Others inducted were Paul Carberry as vice president, Edward Quegan as secretary, and William Mullen as treasurer. The Committee for the dance besides Muenzen included Louis Rosen, Robert Dunn, Mario Dell Rosa, John Flynn, John Reynolds, Kenneth Marr, and Joseph McLaughlin.

CHARLES T. COTTAM
President

The second step in collegiate life of the Class of '43 was taken with the advent of the scholastic year 1940-1941. It began with the assurance on the part of all that the Sophomore Class would, by intense activity, equal the fine work which had been set in its initial year at the College.

The first meeting of the Class was held early in October and was supervised by the Class Moderator, the Reverend James T. McKenna, O.P. At the meeting, the following Class Officers were elected, Charles F. Cottam, president; Robert Reilly, vice-president; Leo Leary, secretary; Daniel E. Carley, treasurer. Committees were chosen to direct the Sophomore-Freshman Mixer and to arrange the Sophomore Hop. In keeping with the tradition and as a prelude to the Mixer, the first and second year men met on Hendricken Field for the annual gridiron tussle, in which the Frosh placed a 6-0 defeat on their rivals. Later in the evening the Freshmen were guests at Harkins Hall where they were entertained by their talented hosts. The evening's entertainment included songs, dances, skits, and musical specialties. Refreshments were served following the entertainment program. The purpose of the Mixer was to create a friendly atmosphere between the Freshmen and upperclassmen as represented by the Sophomores. Fred Fay, '43 acted as Master of Ceremonies.

On November 15, Harkins Hall was transformed to create a nautical setting for the annual Sophomore Hop. Here amidst anchors and gangplanks two hundred and twenty couples swayed to the music of the popular Sophomore maestro, "Tiny" Quinn and his orchestra. The favors for the affair were pearl lockets bordered with gold and bearing the College seal. John J. Donnelly served as Chairman for the committee and was assisted by Charles Cottam, Robert Reilly, Donald Carley, Leo Leary, Bernard McLaughlin, Howard Kenney, Joseph Powers, Hilary Connor, Thomas Daly, Richard Ramsdell, Daniel Dennis, and Gabriel Cusano.

At the first business meeting of the class, the outstanding spirit of interest in College activities was manifested by the passing of a measure by unanimous vote, providing that the Sophomore Class contribute one-half the cost of the sweaters for Sophomore lettermen of the Varsity Football Team.

The qualities of interest and ingenuity on the part of the Class combined with their friendly and democratic spirit of good fellowship stamped them as the living exponents of the spirit that personifies the undergraduates of Providence College. The goal that had been set in the fall was achieved. The class prepared for the next step, into the Junior class.

HOP

The annual Soph Hop was held November 15 in Harkins Hall and was attended by 225 couples. Featuring the rhythmic music of "Tiny" Quinn and his twelve-piece orchestra the dancers waltzed and jitterbugged from eight-thirty until midnight. With a view of designing a novel and unique motif for the affair, the committee conceived the idea of a nautical setting. This was most opportune for launching the Class of '43 into the social sphere of collegiate activity. A miniature ship complete with masts and yardarms in "full dress" formed the centerpiece while gang planks bordered the entrance to the nautical ballroom.

John Donnelly was Chairman of the committee arranging the dance and was assisted by Charles Cottam, Robert Reilly, Donald Carley, Leo Leary, Bernard McLaughlin, Howard Kenny, Joseph Powers, Hilary Connor, Thomas Daly, Richard Ramsdell, Daniel Dennis, and Gabriel Cusano.

As token of remembrance of the evening, the ladies were presented with a favor which was a pearl locket bordered with gold and holding two miniature picture frames with the numerals 1943 embossed in black lettering.

FRESHMEN

JEROME A. COLLINS
President

The Class of '44 made its first appearance on the campus September 18. After a series of aptitude tests, the arranging of other details and things to be cared for, its members were ready to learn what things were all about. With the shyness peculiar to those entering new surroundings, they picked their way around the campus, half surmising what significance things would have for them as time went on. Some lucky enough to have acquaintances among the upper classmen found an interest and delight not shared by those who sang the sagas of more distant parts. Those fortunate as to be resident students more easily found companionship among those who, like themselves, had the concern of establishing themselves in new quarters and were readily propelled into new friendships.

PAUL CAVANAUGH
Vice President

ROBERT A. APPLETON
Secretary

Time discovered to the Freshmen, in the process of orientation, that there were many who took an interest in them. In evidence of their interest, the Sophomores insisted on the Freshmen wearing dinky little caps with white buttons on the top, and delighted in Freshmen's parade about the campus in rolled trousers, and the singing of College songs before the assembled Sophomores. Only the restrictions on hazing curtailed the enjoyment of their interest in Freshmen.

Shortly after the start of the academic year, The Freshman Sophomore Mixer was held on the Campus. A tug-of-war and other sport contests were climaxed by an evening of songs and entertainment—all of which brought the classes into a closer relationship.

In the early part of the second semester a meeting was called for the purpose of electing Class officers, and the following men were chosen to lead the Class during their initial year at the College: Jerome A. Collins of Washington, D. C., president; Paul Cavanaugh of Providence, vice president; Robert A. Appleton of New York, secretary; and Thomas O'Donnell of Providence, treasurer.

The year was climaxed by the Freshman Frolic on St. Patrick's night. The dance, attended by over 200 couples, was under the direction of the Class Officers and the subcommittee consisting of John Stafford, Max Knickerbocker, and William McMahan.

Members of the first-year class ably continued a social event which is fast becoming a tradition at Providence College when they staged a dance, in celebration of St. Patrick's Day, which proved to be one of the most successful conducted on the campus. More than 250 couples danced in the gaily decorated auditorium of Harkins Hall to the music of "Tiny" Quinn and his orchestra.

A large golden harp bearing black and white cardboard figures simulating freshmen was used for a centerpiece. Green and white crepe paper streamers were hung about the walls and shamrocks of varying sizes were strung from the walls to the top of the harp. Feature of "Tiny's" music for the evening was the "pre-view" playing of music which was written for the 1941 musical comedy, "Uncle Tom's Cabana".

William McMahon headed the sub-committee which supervised the decorations. Among those who served on the committee arranging the affair were Edward Carr, Max Knickerbocker, and the Class Officers: Jerome Collins, president; Paul Cavanaugh, vice president; Robert Appleton, secretary; and Thomas O'Donnell, treasurer.

The Friars' Club of Providence College was founded in 1928, this year celebrating the thirteenth year of its existence. The purpose of this select group is to promote a feeling of good will with other Colleges by manifesting a spirit of hospitality toward the athletic representatives of these Colleges. This program is carried out with the cooperation of the Athletic Association of the College. Membership in the Friars' Club, which is by election, was voted to four Freshmen, a Junior, and a Senior during the current scholastic year.

During the past year the Club presented a gift of a window in the Students' Chapel of Aquinas Hall. It also sponsored a rally on the eve of the Providence-State football game. The organization continued throughout the whole year to fulfill its regular program of activities in connection with all home athletic events.

The year's activities will be lighted by the annual Friars' Club luncheon, which will be held early in May. This affair is attended annually by the officers of Administration of the College, the varsity Coaches, the Captains of the varsity teams, and all members of the Friars Club. The Friars Club Medal, which has been awarded annually for the past two years will be given at this luncheon. This Medal is awarded to the football player who shows the most improvement in spring practice of the football squad.

The Officers for the year were: William Nesbit, '41, president; William P. Danahy, '41, vice president; Joseph Reynolds, '41, treasurer; Ross Muenzen, '42, secretary. The Reverend E. H. Schmidt, O.P., was Faculty Adviser of the Club.

FALL RIVER CLUB

PAUL P. DUNN
President

The Fall River Club is the oldest of the territorial groups in the College. A mere glance at the calendar of events is sufficient to show that this group is one of the most active of the undergraduate organizations. Introducing the activities of the year was the Inter Club football game which was held on November 1, 1940, at Alumni Field. A powerful and well-conditioned Senior-Frosh combine rolled over a fighting Junior-Sophomore eleven to the convincing tune of 21 to 7.

The next event was in direct contrast to the initial affair. On December 26, 1940, the annual Christmas Dinner Dance was held at the Stone Bridge Inn in Tiverton. This affair was featured by the distribution of souvenir booklets. John T. Riley, Chairman of the dance, reported it to be a successful and enjoyable affair. Other activities included the attendance of the entire club at a major league hockey game, followed by the Spring Whist Party, and the Inter-Club Basketball game. Their eventful calendar year will be terminated at the Club banquet annually held at the close of the school year.

Officers of the club were Paul P. Dunn, '41, president; John C. Greene, '42, vice president; John F. Dunn, '41, treasurer; and Edward C. Duffy, '43, secretary. The Reverend Charles H. McKenna, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

With the increased demand for a club which would be representative of the students from the northern part of the state the Woonsocket Club was formed this year. It includes in its membership students from Woonsocket and neighboring environs and has over thirty-five members. The Club was organized to promote an atmosphere of good-fellowship among the members and to further the interests of Providence College among the residents of Woonsocket.

The first annual Christmas Ball was held in the Ballroom of the Hotel Blackstone in Woonsocket on the evening of December 19 and was attended by over 150 couples. The success of this affair prompted the club to consider having the dance annually at the Christmas season. The Very Reverend John J. Dillon, O.P., President of Providence College, and the Reverend Dominic Ross, O.P., represented the College at the affair. A delegation of alumni headed by the Honorable Henri A. Roberge, '23, Mayor of Woonsocket, also attended the dance.

The officers of the Club were Francis X. Winn, '41, president; Walter J. Kane, '43, vice president; Gerald La Force, '44, secretary; and Thomas J. Curran, '41, treasurer. Chairman of the social activities was E. John Fitzpatrick, '41. The Reverend Dominic Ross, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

NEWPORT CLUB

DANIEL P. SULLIVAN
President

Students of Providence College, who reside in the City-by-the-sea, otherwise known as Newport, organized the Newport Club four years ago as an active organization. Foremost in the plans of the Club is the desire to foster friendly relations among the members and to increase the interests of Providence College with the residents of Newport.

To further these aims, as well as to advance the social life of the Club members, two outstanding social events were held during the year. On November 22, the Club sponsored a dance and buffet supper at the Castle. This was the highlight of the social season of the Club and served to introduce new members into the circle of intimacy conspicuous in all members. Many leading figures of Newport society were in attendance and the affair was an outstanding success.

The Elks Auditorium was the scene of the next dance held by the Club on the evening of December 27. This affair was held during the festive season of Christmas and was well attended by Club members and their guests. Members of the committee for the affair included Gerald Rogers, '41, Chairman; George Carrellas, '43, Thomas McSparren, '43, Beryle Sacks and Herbert Siegal, '41. Daniel Sullivan, '41, was president of the Club and the Reverend Charles H. McKenna, O.P., Faculty Adviser.

The Monogram Club was instituted only last year through the efforts of the College athletes who saw the need of such an organization. The Club boasts of a two-fold purpose. First, to guarantee a sweater to each athlete, the presentation of which will be made in his Senior year. Secondly, to foster a fraternal relationship among the athletes participating in various Varsity sports.

Immediately after the new Club was formed plans were made to sponsor a dance in Harkins Hall. The hall was decorated in conformity with an athletic theme; the decorations consisted of imitation footballs which were lettered with the names of varsity members of the football squad. The committee was headed by the co-chairmen, Casimir L. Potera, '41, and Charles T. Avedisian, '41. The dance is to be an annual affair. The Reverend Vincent G. Dore, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

The Aquino Club holds the distinction of being the oldest undergraduate organization of Providence College. This group attempts to instill in its members a love of Italian customs, literature, and language. Although the group was instituted to appeal primarily to students of Italian extraction, the membership of all students is encouraged and welcomed.

The first activity of the year was a lecture on November 8, by Associate Justice Antonio Capotosto. The lecture was followed by an informal social affair. Other outstanding events during the past year included the attendance of the entire Club at a social held by the Circulo Manzoni at Rhode Island College of Education. Professor Frederick Donovan, a former Professor of English at Providence College, addressed the group.

Conforming to the active season of the Aquino Club a successful Christmas Party was sponsored by the group. This affair was held on December 19, at the Club Mayfair in Smithfield. The Aquino Club has been one of the most active groups in the College, as evidenced by their numerous meetings and social gatherings. The success of this group was due, in large part, to the great interest and initiative of the following officers: Donald Tramonti, '41, president; Domenick Coppolino, '43, secretary; Fiore Bianchini, '43, treasurer. The Reverend Paul C. Perrotta, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

FRANK F. FLANNIGAN
President

The New Haven Club has been in existence practically since the opening of the College, which gives the Club the distinction of being one of the senior club groups. The purpose of the Club is to establish closer relationships among the students residing in New Haven and in the environs of that city.

The organization is notable in the fact that Alumni of the College as well as present undergraduates are enrolled as members. This unity of membership explains to a certain extent the many successful affairs sponsored by the group. Numerous affairs were held throughout the year, the most notable of which was the annual Christmas Dance which was held this year on December 7, at the Seven Gables Inn in New Haven. Frank F. Flannigan, '41, headed the committee which arranged the dance.

The following men were chosen to lead the New Haven Club for the current year: Frank Flannigan, president; George Terrace, vice president; James Clifford, secretary; Joseph Reynolds, treasurer. All officers of the Club are members of the Senior Class. The Reverend Charles V. Fennell, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

KENT COUNTY CLUB

The Kent County Club was instituted in October of the past year for the purpose of enkindling the interests and activities of the students residing in Kent County.

The Club, in conjunction with the Kent County Alumni, held its first annual dinner on Tuesday evening, April 1, in the "400 Club" in Natick. The Very Reverend John J. Dillon, O.P., and Reverend Jeremiah T. FitzGerald, O.P., attended the affair. A moving picture entitled "A Camera Visit to Providence College" was shown by Louis FitzGerald, the Publicity Director of the College. Those in charge of arranging the dinner were Harry F. McKenna, '43, Eugene T. Martin, '43, and Lawrence Lamb, '44.

The organization of this Club has amply satisfied the need of the Kent County students for a territorial group of their own, and has contributed an important unit to the many territorial groups of the College. At the first formal meeting of the year, elections were held and the following men were chosen as officers: Thaddeus M. Kraus, '41, president; Maurice J. Fagan, '43, and Jerome F. Driscoll, '41, co-vice presidents; Eugene J. Laferriere, '43, secretary; A. Frank De Ciantis, '41, treasurer. George A. Kenny, M.S., was Faculty Adviser.

CAROLAN CLUB

BERYLE SACKS
President

With a membership of over two hundred resident students the Carolan Club represents one of the strongest links in the chain of clubs and organizations connected with the College. The Club holds an enviable position in the ratings of collegiate organizations and is a leader in the social activities of the College. Early in the first semester the Club met for the purpose of electing a Board of Governors. Those elected were: Beryle Sacks, Chairman; William Danahy, William Nesbit, and Joseph Reynolds, all of the Class of '41; William Smith, '42, and Ross Muenzen, '42; John Lavoie and Leo Leddy, '43; Harold Dennis and Jerome Collins, '44.

The impetus of the fall social season was started by the Club with a series of informal socials held on Friday evenings in Harkins Hall with music furnished by recordings. The annual Mid-Winter Festival was sponsored by the Club following the mid-year exams and was a success. The All-College Formal which was held in January was the first formal affair held on the Campus and was enthusiastically received by the student body. Over 300 couples danced to the music of Bal Merce and his Orchestra from nine until twelve-thirty o'clock.

ALBERTUS MAGNUS

THADDEUS M. KRAUS
President

The Albertus Magnus Club was founded three years ago for both social and intellectual purposes. The social life of the Albertus Magnus is amply satisfied by the various dances and informal outings during the calendar year. As to the intellectual aspect, the members have the opportunity to keep abreast of the rapid development in the various fields of scientific endeavors through dissertations and lectures which are given by both faculty members and the students.

A Spaghetti Supper held on December 10, 1940, introduced the activities of the year. There was a maximum attendance of Club members at this affair. Mr. Edgar Staff, of the Public Health Department, and Mr. Pasquale Pasare, an alumnus engaged in epidemiological work, were guest speakers.

On Friday evening, January 17, an informal dance was held in Harkins Hall. The dance was attended by approximately one hundred couples. Vincent Morretti, '41, acted as chairman of this successful affair. Further activities included an outing, an excursion to Woods Hole and a dinner dance, all of which were attended by the entire club.

Officers of the Club were: Thaddeus Kraus, '41, president; John Flynn, '42, vice president; Thomas McDonald, '42, secretary; William Maher, '41, treasurer. The Reverend Raymond S. McGonagle, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

The Phi-Chi Club is the official organization of the Physics and Chemistry departments of the School of Science and its membership is restricted exclusively to the Physics and Chemistry majors. All students of this school who have completed the first semester of the Freshman year are eligible for membership.

This Club is not a social organization but rather a business-like group whose purpose is to provide an organ for extra-curricular scientific discussion and learning. Meetings were held every other Wednesday at which papers, prepared by the Seniors, were read and discussed. Such topics as "Mutual Solubility", by John Racine, "Hydrogen Ion Determination", by Saverino Natale, and "The Chemistry of Photography", by Arthur Smith, were presented. Motion pictures on scientific topics were also viewed and discussed.

The officers of the Club, Arthur Smith, '41, president, and Saverino A. Natale, '41, secretary-treasurer, were in charge of the only social function of the Club, the annual banquet, held immediately following the Easter vacation.

The Phi-Chi Club is a comparatively recent organization and under the guidance of their Faculty Adviser, Reverend Frederick C. Hickey, O.P., the members look forward to a brilliant and active future.

THOMAS McDONALD
President

Founded two years ago the Philosophy Club of Providence College has developed into one of the most prominent groups in the College. The twofold purpose of the Club is to acquaint the members more thoroughly with the scholastic teachings of St. Thomas and to further the social aspirations of its members. The first purpose was accomplished by numerous debates and disputations held throughout the year. In December a disputation between Edward Kaylor, '41, and Martin Orzeck, '41, took place. The thesis was "The intuitive faculty of Woman is Superior to the Logical Faculty of Man". An article entitled "Just a Dilemma" was read by Robert L. Smith, '41, while Francis J. Maguire, '43, discussed "Errors in Cartesian Philosophy". In February a discussion on "Essence and Existence" took place and papers were read by Leo J. McNerney, '41, and Francis J. Maguire, '43.

The social season of the organization was inaugurated by a dance held in Harkins Hall on the evening of October 31.

Officers of the Club were Thomas McDonald, '42, president; Robert L. Smith, '41, secretary, and Donald Delahunt, '41, treasurer. The Reverend Paul C. Perrotta, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

LA PLEIADE CLUB

La Pleiade, Providence College group with members consisting of those students interested in the French language, was instituted to further French and Canadian culture on the College campus. The Club is named after that celebrated group of sixteenth century literary masters who sought to embellish and propagate the French language.

The members of the organization conduct their meetings in French, which serves to satisfy the urge of many students studying French to converse in the language with greater facility. In an effort to learn more about the French nation, culture, and language, the Club extended invitations to many guest speakers. These lecturers were Jacques Maritain, French philosopher; Felix Des Rochers, Librarian General of the Dominican Library in Canada; Judge Guillaume Myette, and the Honorable Adonat I. Demers, lawyers actively associated with Franco-American movements. The guest committee was comprised of Irving Jacobson, '41, and Benoit Hazebrouck, '43.

Officers of the Club for the past scholastic year were Robert L. Smith, '41, president; Clarence G. Cusson, '41, lieutenant-president; Valmore Collette, '41, secretary-treasurer. Members of the executive board were Michael O. Jenkins, '41, Leon G. Myette, '41, Maurice Heroux, '41, and Conrad Fournier, '44. The Reverend Edward A. McDermott, O.P., was Faculty Adviser.

PHILOMUSIAN SOCIETY

RAYMOND S. SMITH
President

The Philomusian Society is composed of men studying for the Dominican Order. This year, for the first time in fifteen years, the forty-one members of the Society have resided in a dormitory other than Guzman Hall. Last September the Society was moved to Aquinas Hall. The purpose of the Club is to foster a brotherly spirit among the pre-ecclesiastical students and to provide a means for extra-curricular activity in athletic and scholastic fields. Meetings are held twice a month at which business and interests of the Society are discussed.

In athletic endeavor the Society has gained quite a reputation, losing only one game on the gridiron in the intramural championships, and placing five men on the All-Intramural team. On the basketball court the team representing the Society was eliminated in the semi-finals. This success was due, in no small measure, to the interest the members have in their Society. A small group of five Seniors look forward to graduation, leaving behind them men who will carry on the tradition which has developed in the Society during the fifteen years of its existence.

The officers were elected at the first meeting in September. The results were as follows: Raymond S. Smith, '41, president; John J. Egan, '41, vice president; James J. Murphy, '42, secretary; James J. Carney, '43, treasurer.

LACORDAIRE SOCIETY

The Lacordaire Society is the official public speaking organization of the Dominican Pre-ecclesiastical students. The Society was founded by the members of the Philomusian Society in 1934. The purpose of this group is to give every member numerous opportunities to speak before a critical audience. This audience is composed of the Club members, who render constructive criticism of the linguistic efforts of the orators. A primary policy of the organization is to give particular attention to extemporaneous speeches, which are given as often as possible.

This current year a debate was held through the cooperation of the Philomusian Society. The question was: Resolved: "That an Anglo-American Alliance should be formed." The negative was upheld by Walter Voll, '44, Richard Burke, '42, and William Browne, '42, and was given the decision. James Carney, '43, Leo Bever, a post graduate, and Thomas Carroll, '43, defended the affirmative.

This year special attention has been given to formal debates and scholastic circles. The question of the scholastic circle has been carefully studied with a view to the future use and importance of so formal a discussion in the Society. The president and only officer for the current year was Thomas R. Carroll, '43.

BLACKSTONE VALLEY CLUB

MATTHEW P. GALLAGHER
President

In the fall of 1938, Providence College students from Pawtucket and its environs saw the need of an organization of their own; this foresight resulted in the founding of the Blackstone Valley Club. This undergraduate group is affiliated with the Alumni chapter of Pawtucket. The Club boasts of the distinction of being the largest territorial group in the College. The objects of the organization are: First, to foster a spirit of good fellowship among the Club members and, secondly, to further promote and enhance the social life of the group as a whole.

The peak of the Club's social life was reached at the annual Spring Dance. This affair was held in Harkins Hall, for the first time. Matthew P. Gallagher, '41, headed the committee. Many of the alumni who were present at the affair served as official representatives of the Alumni Chapter.

The Club elections were held soon after the start of the 1940-41 scholastic year. As a result the following officers were elected to lead the organization: Matthew P. Gallagher, '41, president; Joseph Corrigan, '42, vice president; James O. Coyle, '42, secretary; Thomas P. McKeough, '42, treasurer; William Barry, '44, sergeant-at-arms. Daniel J. The Providence College Debating Union enjoyed a year of noticeable success inasmuch as it did not lose a debate. Debates were held weekly among members of the Union and in March the Union was host to the annual Intercollegiate Debating Tournament. This year, being the home school, there was no opportunity for Providence College to win the Tournament. On the Question, "Resolved that the Nations of the Western Hemisphere should form a permanent Union or Alliance," the Providence College debaters defeated St. Michael's College of Vermont, and The Citadel, a military college from South Carolina. Later in the month the team travelled to New Jersey and in a radio debate defeated the John Marshall Law College. A no-decision debate was held with St. Peter's College of New Jersey as the opponent on the same trip.

During the Easter vacation debates with the University of Maine and a return debate with John Marshall Law College were held. In the Maine debate a new system was attempted as an experiment; instead of the usual two or three men teams, this new system featured a four men team, one a captain who could interrupt at any time during the discussion and ask questions or make clear a point of order.

Raymond Flynn, '43, was manager of debates; Charles Cottam, '43, president; and Leo McNerney, '41, vice-president. The Reverend Ambrose P. Regan, O.P. was Faculty Adviser.

CAMERA CLUB

R. ALAN NILES
President

So numerous were those who desired photography as a hobby this year that it was deemed necessary to organize a club to further this interest and ambition. Thus was formed the Camera Club of Providence College. Monthly meetings were conducted in Harkins Hall and were featured by lectures of the various members on the diverse and salient points of photography.

R. Alan Niles discussed the interest and value of keeping a personal autobiography of snapshots. The lecture was illustrated with the showing of slides which depicted the more salient points of the discussion. A salon was conducted in April by the Club at which time the photographic work of every member was exhibited. The salon was open to all and created unusual interest among the student body in particular. The final meeting of the year will be held on May 8. "Photographic Papers and their Properties" will be discussed and plans for increased activity next year will be made.

In conjunction with the plan of the United States Army and Navy to train pilots for emergencies that may arise in the future 10 Providence College students enlisted in the courses which are held under the auspices of the Civil Aeronautical Administration. These 10 students banded together and formed the C. A. A. Club of Providence College. Instruction in Meteorology, Navigation, and Civil Air Regulations were given to members of the Club at the Rhode Island State Airport in Hills-grove. After 50 hours of Primary flight training and ground instruction the students are then advanced to actual flying.

In November the Club held a dance in the Hangar of the Airport, featuring a true aeronautical theme, with planes and hangars as a background. The dance was a successful affair and showed promise of future enjoyable get togethers. Members of the Providence College Civil Aeronautical Administration are: Edward Crouchley, '41; Raymond McKenna, '41; Augustus Marcella, '43; Edward McLaughlin, '42; James Mahan, '43; Willard McNally, '41; John Kelly, '43; Patrick Doyle, '43; Kenneth McGovern, '41; James Monahan, '43; Daniel Dennis, '43; John Curran, '41; and Leo Marcotte, '43.

PYRAMID PLAYERS

THOMAS J. FARRELL
Production Manager

The Pyramid Players, Providence College dramatic organization, continued to maintain its high standard in dramatic excellence during the past year with the production of a musical comedy, one major dramatic production, and three one-act plays.

The production of "He and Sheba" the 1940 Musical Comedy, again illustrated the fact that many barriers in stage presentation can be surmounted when there is a group of hard working thespians willing to make sacrifices to produce a successful show. With the original book for the Musical Comedy written by Lionel J. Landry, '40, and Charles E. Sweeney, '41, the show depicted Rome in 50 B. C., as the background for the comical proceedings. Politics, romance, and intrigue of the classical age were combined to give a clever satire on modern life. Loose fitting togas, armor-clad centurions, ward-heeling politicians, and an amateur discus thrower were all integral proponents of the hilarious plot.

Original music for the show was written by Karl Keuhner, '40, Lionel Landry, '40, Ken Cayton, '42, John Russillo, '42, and Bertrand Cournoyer, '42. Joseph A. Wade, '40, was production manager and John Reynolds, '40, managed the business staff.

Early in November, three one-act plays were produced by the Pyramid Players. These were laboratory plays for the purpose of testing the dramatic ability of the members for the major production in December. "The Name Is Johnston," by Jessie M. Bowler, had the following cast: Richard Danilowicz, John Gerhard, Conrad Fournier, all freshmen; Frank J. Maguire, '42; John

The technical staff for the plays included Kenneth McGovern, '41, stage manager; Joseph O'Shea, Frank Donilon and Louis Consentino, '43; Maurice Ferland and Michael Jenkins, '41.

A premiere showing of "Brother Petroc's Return," a three-act play, adapted by Emmet Lavery from the novel by the English Nun, S. M. C., was the highlight of the first half of the 1940-1941 season. Members of the cast included the Misses Claire Fitzpatrick, Helen Robillard, and Mary Fox; Charles McGovern, Thomas McBrien, John Antaya, Thomas Farrell, John Gibbons, Charles Gavas, and Ira

Now embarked on the twentieth year of its history as the Providence College literary quarterly, The Alembic still continues to strive toward the ideal which past editors set as its goal. "The name Alembic," they declared, "was proposed by the Very Reverend Dr. L. C. McCarthy, O.P. An Alembic is a vessel—from the Greek ambis, a cup—used in chemistry for distilling. The title is a felicitous one, for the purpose of this publication is to distill from the data of life those pure truths that express the highest ideals of the academic world."

The Alembic was founded in 1920 as a combination literary and news magazine. Since the establishment of The Cowl, however, the magazine has pursued with more unity of purpose its primary function as a purely literary journal. In consequence with this aim it publishes the best short stories, essays, articles, and poems which are contributed by the students.

The staff for the 1940-1941 scholastic year was headed by Matthew P. Gallagher, '41, Editor, and includes the following assistant editors: Joseph A. Conway, '43, Charles E. Sweeney, '41, Ira T. Williams, Jr., '41, Charles J. McGovern, '41, Edward Kaylor, '41, and Thomas Mulligan, '42. The Business Manager is Joseph O'Shea, '43, who is assisted by Paul Cummings, '43. Joseph McLaughlin, '42, serves as Circulation Manager. The Reverend Robert D. Reilly, O.P., was the Faculty Adviser.

During the past scholastic year The Cowl continued to be the main source of information concerning student activities at Providence College. Editor-in-Chief Henry L. Gray, Jr., '41, maintained a standard of scholastic efficiency sufficient to classify it with leading publications of similar circulation. All organizations in the school received equal consideration in the pages of The Cowl, and many interesting little-known phases of student life were brought to light. The sports department, under the supervision of Francis X. McCarthy, '41, Sports Editor, turned out eagerly-read stories on Varsity and intramural games, during the various phases of the sporting season, and featured discursive columns on the sports world in general. Gray and McCarthy, both of whom had been of The Cowl staff during their entire four years, retired in the middle of their Senior year in accordance with a set precedent. Louis S. Rosen, '42, was appointed Editor-in-Chief of the College weekly to succeed Gray. Under the new editor, several changes in the format and policy of The Cowl were effected. New positions were added to the staff, and new columns were introduced. The Reverend Charles V. Fennell, O.P. was Faculty Adviser.

In publishing this VERITAS the editors have attempted to transcribe on these pages a record of the past year, its activities, scenes, and faces, so that in future years one may look back upon the year 1940-41 with a keen recollection and a happy memory. The youngest of the College publications, The VERITAS has been in existence only five years. As the Senior Class grew, so too did its book. It soon developed interest among the underclassmen and has been eagerly looked for at the culmination of every school year. In the short period that it has been published the book has inaugurated many changes in its general set-up. This year, in particular, has seen many innovations which four years ago seemed impractical or far-fetched. Color has been used extensively in this year's VERITAS in pictures, and especially on the borders of the pages. This new feature has gone a long way in highlighting the book. Lithography of other years was supplanted this year with engraving. In an attempt to loose the stilted style that is so obvious in most class books, The VERITAS has emphasized informality as its main theme, faculty, clubs, and students being photographed in informal poses rather than in stiff, camera-conscious positions of other years. VERITAS DANCE was held on Friday evening, February 21, in Harkins Hall. The affair was a novel one in respect to the decoration theme, for instead of the traditional torch and triangle motif, the undergraduates and their guests danced around a begowned graduate who pointed with pride to a giant facsimile of the VERITAS, College yearbook. # BASEBALL

Every variety of ill-luck that might possibly befall a collegiate baseball team broke over the heads of the Friar nine last season, and as a consequence, Providence's diamond forces felt the sting of defeat on more occasions than they tasted victory.

Uncrowned Eastern intercollegiate champions in 1939, the diamond forces were expected to show great things. When the schedule was completed, the team's record showed but five victories while seven losses were on the books. Seven games were cancelled because of the exceptionally heavy Spring rains.

Ambie Reynolds, elongated New Haven sophomore, bore the brunt of the pitching assignments and performed capably. With four victories—one a no-hitter against Springfield—he topped the staff. He suffered a pair of defeats. Kwasniewski won one, lost two; Morris lost two; and Steve Fallon was beaten once.

Worst of all, however, a batting slump struck the Friars. Heavy Spring rain had turned Hendricken Field into a quagmire and batting practice was limited.

When the nine made its annual three-State invasion of St. John's in Brooklyn (N. Y.), Villanova in Philadelphia (Penn.), and Seton Hall in South Orange (N. J.), it returned without having played a single game. Rain caused cancellation of all three contests. It is little wonder that Providence fell before the side-arm slants of Holy Cross' Sophomore George Wood, 7-3, collecting only two hits.

Three days later the team moved to Kingston and Amby Reynolds shut out Rhode Island State, 8-0, allowing but three hits, for the first Providence victory.

St. John's of Brooklyn visited Providence on the following Sunday, scored five runs in the eighth, and topped Providence 9 to 4. Reynolds then pitched his no-hitter against Springfield, a single run in the ninth denying him of a perfect game. The score was 7 to 1.

Brown took both games in the city titular series, beating Providence twice by the same score—2 to 1. Both times Brown won in the final frames. In the first Bruin game, Walter Morris took the mound for Providence, even though he was suffering from a broken nose.

Providence split in its series with Boston College's Eagles, winning 9 to 8 at Newton, and losing, 12 to 9, at home. The Friars' other two victories were scored at the expense of Rhode Island State, 3 to 2, and Lowell Textile, 12 to 1.

Co-Captain Donat Brochu, who lost his right eye in a 1939 baseball accident, made the headlines time and again with his outfield play. The courageous Warren senior had been a third-baseman the year before.

First Baseman Jimmy Leo led the Providence batters with a .289 average; Carlo Toti, reserve infielder, was second with .272; Co-Captain Johnny Ayvasian was in third place with .245 at the close of the season.

Third Baseman Artie Clarkin, a junior, was chosen by the lettermen to lead the 1941 Friar edition on the diamond. The new Captain is a product of the Warwick High diamond.

Playing their third season under Hugh Devore, the Fighting Friars discovered Fickle Fame to be just as uncompromising as she had been in the past; they won but three contests of a nine-game schedule. In addition to such perennial rivals as Holy Cross, Rhode Island State, Long Island University, St. Anselm's, Niagara, and Springfield, Providence renewed relations with La Salle College of Philadelphia, Canisius College of Buffalo, and Catholic University of Washington, D. C.

Joe Sheeketski's Crusaders provided the opposition for the Friars in the season's curtain raiser. Providence's chief liability proved to be a rather porous forward pass defence in the first half, during which time the Purple Legions rang up four touchdowns, three via the air lanes. In the second half, however, the Devoremen played their hosts to a standstill, but the Crusaders carried away the spoils to the tune of 34-6.

Trips to Brooklyn and Niagara still left the Friars in search of their first victory of the campaign. A deft forward-lateral scoring combination covering 24

The following week the Friars fell victims to Niagara's Purple Eagles and dropped a 14-0 decision. In this contest the Devoremen gave a brilliant exhibition of uphill drive in the second half but lacked the necessary power to score.

The Friar's three victories were registered in the next three contests. Performing before their first home crowd, they defeated Canisius College by a 13-0 score. Right End Joe Sullivan tallied both touchdowns by a pair of well-directed passes thrown by Ray Kowalski.

Three nights later the Dominican aggregation trounced its intra-state rival, Rhode Island State, 25-0. Two of the Friars' touchdowns came after sustained

The Devoremen next took to the road to oppose the Gymnasts of Springfield College on a rain-soaked gridiron and returned home sporting a 20-0 triumph. The highlight of this contest was the execution of a "perfect play" wherein Ed. Haponik ran 70 yards for a score.

In the following tilt with St. Anselm's the Friars were out in front 7-0 midway in the fourth quarter. At this point they resorted to the intentional safety—which backfired when the Hawks followed up the gratuitous points with a touchdown that gave them an 8-7 verdict.

The Providence eleven journeyed to Washington, D. C., for its final contest of the season to meet Catholic University's Flying Cardinals. The Friars fell before the power and drive of C. U., 40-7.

The Freshman football team completed a successful season, winning two games, losing one and tying one. Piling up a total of 134 yards from scrimmage while holding Rhode Island's yearling team to a meager 13, the Friar Frosh rolled over the Ramlets by a score of 7-0 in the opening game of their season. In the game with the Holy Cross Frosh, the Friarlets were overcome in the final minutes and succumbed by a score of 7-6. Providence scored first on a sustained 65-yard march with Ostrowski hitting paydirt from the two-yard line. The Crusaders' winning march started on the ensuing kick-off and six plays later they were leading. Journeying to South Orange, New Jersey, the Friar yearlings defeated Seton Hall Prep by a 7-6 score after a Nieratko to Drew aerial had garnered six points. The next game was also played away from home and the opposition was the 243rd Coast Artillery at Murphy Field in Newport. The game ended in a scoreless tie after threats by both teams had died because of lack of a finishing drive by either team. This game ended the campaign for the Friar yearlings and the ledger was marked two wins, one defeat, and one tie.

BASKETBALL

Emerging victorious 11 times in 17 engagements, the 1940-41 edition of Fighting Friars of the basketball court fashioned the most successful record that any Providence hoop team has turned in during the past five years.

Only a scarcity of material kept the Crottymen from achieving an even greater degree of success. Throughout most of the campaign, seven performers had to carry the brunt of the burden.

With three first-stringers of last year's aggregation missing from school, the Friar's future appeared to be none-too-bright. But the candidates manifested a fine spirit of teamwork with the result that, when the season opened, they were prepared.

Providence encountered little difficulty in tripping its first three opponents, Assumption, 54-20; Bates, 45-22; and St. Anselm, 36-20. The Friars then suffered their first defeat of the campaign as they stacked up against the strong Rhode Island State College Rams at the Rhode Island Arena. In this contest, the locals failed to display their usual form and were outclassed, 70-42. However, the Crottymen hit their stride again as they defeated Springfield, 44-40.

Providence invaded New York State, meeting St. John's and St. Francis at Brooklyn. In both these tilts the Friars were decided underdogs, but they waged such fine battles that not until the end of each of these encounters was the outcome certain. St. John's was victorious, 58-49, and St. Francis won, 58-51.

Local fans witnessed the most thrilling Harkins Hall encounter of the year when Providence nipped St. Anselm in a return engagement, 26-25. Then followed a victory over Holy Cross, 58-47, before the Crottymen received their fourth setback, 59-56, at the hands of a good Becker College five. Springfield was defeated again, 53-45; Lowell Textile was outscored, 51-36, and a return tilt with Assumption ended with Providence on the heavy end of a 59-30 count.

Holy Cross—Horrors! A breakaway

R. I. State—Goating each other

With a slate which carried nine triumphs and four losses, Providence stacked up against Rhode Island State again. The Rams netted 98 points and the Friars garnered 71 in one of the wildest scoring games contested throughout the nation. In this fray, Providence's Johnny Lee matched State's sharpshooter, Bud Conley; in the matter of points, each player accounted for 29 credits. The 29 points gathered by Lee marked the highest single-game total registered by any Friar during the season.

The early part of March found the Black and White invading New York again. This time they journeyed to Albany, conquering Sienna, a newcomer to the schedule, 57-50; and to Oneonta, N. J., outclassing Hartwick, 62-37.

In the season's finale, Providence lost out to Brown, 63-59, after leading most of the way. The game marked the end of the collegiate hoop trail for five Black and White warriors, Captain Beryle Sacks, Sam Kusinita, Johnny Lee, Bill Gustas, and Rudy Zebora.

Lee was the leading scorer of the club with a total of 172 markers. Horace Marone, center, accounted for 162 points to gain runner-up honors, while Chet Zabek, guard, was third with 157 markers to his credit. Sacks and Kusinitz were the defensive standouts for Providence in every game that the Friars played. Aside from their defensive work, both were effective on the offensive.

The Freshman Basketball team improved steadily as the season progressed and came through a ten-game schedule with six victories and four setbacks. Under the guidance of Coach Ed. Crotty it had its highlights for the 1940-41 season in two victories over the Rhode Island State College Ramlets.

The Black and White first year men defeated La Salle Academy, 26-19, in the season's opener and then proceeded to register three triumphs over Durfee Textile, 32-14; R. I. State, 49-48, and Springfield J. V.'s, 47-37, before bowing to New Bedford Textile, 33-25. After defeating Northbridge 40-33, the Friarlets dropped two successive games, one to the Fall River Boys' Club, 18-17, and the other to Springfield Freshmen 59-43. The young Friars notched their sixth victory in a return battle with R. I. State, 56-44, and closed their campaign by losing to Brown, 73-52.

The work of Captain Larry Drew, Arthur McGill, Ted McConnon, and Wilfred Michaud was outstanding. Drew and McGill were the high scorers with a total of 133 points.

MIDWINTER FESTIVAL

Highlighting the annual Midwinter Festival sponsored by the Carolan Club was the choosing of a "Queen" from the student body of the College. But the Queen was not chosen because of her petiteness, charm, or glamour, but rather because of such qualities as muscularity, clumsiness, blackness of the beard and deepness of voice. John Yockers, a varsity football player, was selected to reign as Queen of the Festival. With an atmosphere of a real carnival prevailing, the crowning of the Queen was the feature of the night's entertainment. There was dancing from eight to midnight with music provided by Milt Silva and his Cavaliers. A balloon dance was the climax of this phase of the festivities. Included in the program were dart-throwing games, Chinese checkers, weight-guessing, bowling, and a dance contest. During the intermission prizes were drawn for eight cash awards. This marked the second time that the College has thus selected a Queen to reign over the Midwinter Festival and coincidentally both rulers were burly footballers. Members of the committee included Beryle Sacks, '41, chairman; William Danahy, '41, Joseph Reynolds, '41, William Nesbit, '41, John Lavoie, '42, and Ross Muenzen, '42.

"Oh how I hate to get up in the morning", is a universal cry and the residents of the Dorm wail loud and long over this specific and particularly difficult task. The warm covers are so inviting and the few extra winks seem so necessary that it is a burden to get up any day. But after a shave, shower, and a brisk rub-down, the boys are ready for the day's activities. First, and of necessity foremost, in the day's routine is classwork. The quicker this part of the day passes, the better all feel. After classes there are the omnipresent taursus sessions in the cafeteria, where over "coffee and" the issues of the day are rehashed, cut, and dried. The problems of nations are settled in the cafeteria daily, and so simple is the procedure that it is amazing. That indefinable urge to beat anything that is mechanical crops up in the more adventurous and ready money flows willingly into the "jit boxes" that are so popular among the students. For those who like less costly sports there is table tennis and pool. Then just plain hanging around is always enticing to some. After all there is nothing like resting while swing pours forth from the tiny radio on the dresser. But enough of this. Study is in order. So today's lessons are reviewed, tomorrow's are prepared and so to bed. Lights blink out and all is calm. But tomorrow it will still be, "Oh how I hate to get up in the morning."

Consider Your Public . . . .

You may land in the White House some day, or win an "Oscar" in Hollywood. People will be crazy to know what you looked like back in dear old college days. And your parents—one-and-only, too—how they'd dote on a PhotoReflex picture of you—right now!

IT'S A NEW EXPERIENCE!

—being photographed our PhotoReflex way. You look into mirrors, choose the poses and expressions you like best. Try it!

A MARK OF QUALITY

Wherever New England men of good taste gather you'll find the Kennedy label in great evidence. For years this mark has been their guiding star in the selection of their clothing. It represents the accumulation of years of experience outfitting men and young men with the clothing they want at prices they want to pay. It's in the light of this experience that New England men, in ever increasing numbers, come to Kennedy's.
