P.C. Offers Its New Gymnasium For 1956 School Hoop Tourney

By DICK REYNOLDS

Providence College has offered its new gymnasium for the 1956 schoolboy state basketball tourney.

Harold F. Scott, basketball director, made that announcement last night at a meeting of the R.I. Principals' Committee on Athletics, which assembled at the Minden Hotel for its regular monthly session.

After expressing appreciation of the Friars' invitation, the committee authorized Chairman Raymond S. Locke, John L. Burke and Scott to confer with the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., Providence College athletic director, and report back at the next meeting, April 20.

In a preliminary report on the 1955 state tournament, at U.R.I., Scott disclosed that each of the eight participating schools will receive $670 in addition to traveling expenses. Total paid attendance for the tourney was 10,279, Scott said.

In an informal report on the New England basketball tournament at the Boston Garden last week, Burke, R.I. representative on the tourney committee, described the event as a social and financial success. A luncheon for players at Boston University, he said, had been well attended and conducted throughout the tournament he described as "pretty good."

The $350 allowed each team in the New England for expenses was sufficient, Burke said. He added that the $600 spent by West-erly during its stay in Boston seemed rather high. Burke also explained that the $350 figure does not include an additional sum allowed for traveling expenses.

In another prelim report, the Rev. Cornelius Peter, F.S.C., hockey director, said schoolboy hockey attendance for the regular season was lower than in 1954, although the state tourney attracted more fans in 1955 than a year ago.

On a recommendation by James P. Wright, baseball director, it was voted to play all third games necessary in semi-finals and final round rounds of the playoffs at fields of contestants, to be decided by coin tosses.

Also, May 21 or 28 was approved for the second annual all-star baseball twi-night double-header for the injury fund at McCoy Stadium.

Football officials' fees were set at $10 for all games except on Thanksgiving when the figure will remain $12.

After a discussion, Burke and Locke were appointed to present a realignment of the basketball league for 1956 at the April meeting.

Also discussed was revival of the schoolboy golf championships as recommended by the R.I. Faculty Directors' Association. Charles Donlon, golf director, and Locke were named to report back with recommendations next month.

Spiked Shoe Club Holds Its Fourth Annual Breakfast

The Spiked Shoe Club, whose membership consists of present and former Providence College trackmen, held its fourth annual communion breakfast yesterday morning at Rex Tavern, Charles Street, North Providence.

Prior to breakfasting, club members received communion at a Mass celebrated in the chapel of Aquinas Hall by the Rev. A. B. Begley, O. P., athletic director of Providence College.

Toastmaster of the post-breakfast program was Dean Slocum, president of the Spiked Shoe Club, and speakers were Father Begley, Frank Sherman and Dick Reynolds, Journal-Bulletin school-sports editor.

Others at the head table were Edward McAlice, vice president; Joseph Madden, treasurer of the Spiked Shoe Club; Bernard Dandley, secretary, and David Kehoe, former president.

It was announced that Coach Harry Coates, who was unable to attend because of illness, would be presented a wrist watch with suitable inscription, in recognition of his being named to the Hall of Fame.

Friars Top Bates, 79-60, for

UNDAY JOURNAL, APRIL 17, 1955

Madden, Aron Take 2 Firsts Each for P.C.

Providence College scored its first outdoor dual-meet track victory since the sport was instituted at the college seven years ago by defeating Bates, 79-60, yesterday at Hope High School field.

The Friars captured nine firsts and nine second places in the 16-event program.

Joe Madden and Ed Aron were the top point-getters for PC with two firsts each. Madden won the mile and two-mile after a spirited duel with teammate Rod Boucher in each race. Aron captured the shot put and discus.

Fred Beck was a double winner for Bates, winning the 220 and broad jump. Don Fay won the 440 for the Bobcats in 51.2 and was clocked in 50 seconds flat for the anchor leg of the mile relay and his outstanding effort enabled Bates to take the event.

Madden and Boucher took turns at leading in both the mile and two mile but in each race Madden uncorked a strong finish that beat Boucher by about five yards.

The other winners for the Friars were Gene Amaral in the 100; Jerry Farley, 880; Don Fahey, low hurdles; Ed McAlice, pole vault; and Mike Baccari, javelin.

Springfield Humbles Friars, 14-1

 4/21/53

Springfield, Mass. — Springfield College's baseball team unloaded nine runs in the first inning with the aid of only one hit and romped to a 14-1 victory over Providence College here yesterday.

Wildness on the part of three PC pitchers, plus a couple of costly errors, enabled the Gymnasts to rout the Friars, despite the fact that they had only a 7-6 edge in base hits.

The Friar hitters, however, couldn't connect when it counted as the two Springfield pitchers, Jake Sanford and Joe Martin, had them hitting the ball on the ground. The Springfield infield had 17 assists.

Tom McAleer, PC starting pitcher, faced only 10 men before being lifted in favor of Tom Army. McAleer gave up six runs on six walks, two hit-batsmen and two sacrifices. Army walked the first man he faced, filling the bases, and then Jim Bilek smashed a base-clearing triple to left center, the only hit of the inning.

Springfield added another run in the third, three more in the fifth and its final run in the eighth.

Hugh Moore scored PC's only run in the sixth, in which he and Mike McDonough walked and Moore came around on two infield outs.

The victory was the second in

P.C. Defeats Quonset, 11-6, on 8-Run Sixth

Providence College's baseball team scored eight runs in the sixth inning, which turned out to be the last, and scored an 11-6 victory over the Quonset Flyers in its opener yesterday.

The Friars went into the sixth in the game at Quonset Point trailing by 4-3 and with darkness approaching. They then racked up their eight runs on four hits, four bases on balls and an error. Key hit in the rally was a bases-loaded double by first baseman Dick Howe.

Quonset also did some scoring in the sixth, picking up two runs, and then P.C. collected seven more in the seventh before the game was called with one Friar retired. Since Quonset didn't get its turn at bat, the score reverted to the six-inning total.

Jerry Romberg and Tom Army shared the pitching for the collegians. Army was particularly effective, giving up just two hits and two unearned runs in the last three innings.

The defeat was Quonset's second of the season in two games.

PC, URI Resume Series Tomorrow; Friar Trackmen in Duel With Brown

By JOHN HANLON

Two intrastate events of interest start off the collegians' athletic week tomorrow, with Providence College facing the University of Rhode Island in baseball and the Friars' track team meeting Brown.

The baseball game, at the Friars' Hendricken Field, starting at 3 o'clock, is the second in the intrastate title race. Brown took the Rams last week in an extra-inning game and the latter need this victory in order to stay in contention.

Jerry Romberg, the Friars' captain and converted pitcher, is a possible starter for his team. Ray Peltier is the nominee for the Rams.

Over the weekend, the Friars took two games, defeating Bates and Bridgeport. Their scheduled game yesterday at Assumption was postponed. In the two victories, the Friars got good hitting and, contrary to preseason estimates, good pitching.

Against Bridgeport, it was the best, as Herb Hearne, a sophomore, stopped the visitors on four hits. The score was 8-1 for the Friars.

The Rams split a doubleheader with Vermont at Kingston, winning the first seven-inning game, 11-2, and losing the second, 9-3. Dave Stenhouse was the winner in the opener.

Dagres Excels

Junior Dagres, the Rams' sophomore outfielder, had himself a batting day by collecting five hits in seven trips, including a triple and a homer.

The PC-Brown track meet will be held at Brown's stadium for varsity and freshman teams and will begin at 3:30. Coach Ivan Fuqua of Brown, by the way, will be handling his squad for the first time in a dual meet this season. He returned late last week from a tour of South America, where he had a track squad in operation.

Rams and Friars Closely Matched In Track Duel

Keen competition is expected tomorrow afternoon when the University of Rhode Island track and field is host to a strong Providence College team at Meade Field, Kingston. Both clubs won their opening meets handily, the Rams topping Boston College and the Friars turning back Bates.

Coach Fred Tootell of the Rams looks for an extremely close meet.

The top race could be in the mile run. Bill MacQuattie turned in a time of 4 minutes, 39 seconds in winning against Boston College. Joe Madden of the Friars was 4 minutes, 40 seconds against Bates.

The Rams are placing their hopes on Bob Sands, Bob Horton, Bill Mattos and Joe Desisti in the sprints; Don Walsh in the 440; Stu Smith and Carl Mitchell in the 880; MacQuattie, Harry Hampson and Henry Tremblay in the distance runs and Frank Brown in the hurdles. In the field events, the Rhode Islanders have a decided edge in the hammer with Bob Taylor, Carl Roberti and Roy Grinnell competing.

The Friars are counting on Don Fahey in the broad jump and the hurdle events, Aron in the discus and shot, Joe Madden in the mile and two-mile races and Mike Baccari in the javelin.

Friars Triumph In Roxbury Race

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

Roxbury, Mass. — Providence College yesterday won the team trophy in the annual Roxbury three-mile road race conducted by the Boston Patriots Association and the Norfolk House Center.

The Friars had 17 points. Boston Technical was second with 45 points and Boston English third with 52.

Warren Tyler of Boston University was the individual winner in 16 minutes, 31 seconds. William Marot, formerly of Boston University, was second and then came the first of the Friars, Bob Ruggieri. Other Friars among the first 10 were John Welsh, sixth, and Frank Brennan, eighth. There were more than 40 starters in the field.

Friars Unload 16 Hits In 14-5 Blast on Bates

Hendricken Field Opener Spiced by Fisticuffs; Cahill Paces Attack With 4 Bingles, 4 RBI's

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars batted out 16 hits and registered a 14-5 triumph over Bates College in a baseball contest that had a touch of fisticuffs yesterday at Hendricken Field.

The Friars were coasting on a 14-4 advantage in the top of the sixth when little Ralph Davis of the Bobcats plowed into the Friars' Buzz Moore on a forceout at third base.

Well when a Bobcat runs into a buzzsaw something generally happens and it did yesterday. Moore bumped Davis, fists started flying and pretty soon most of the players, the officials and bench observers converged on a spot near third base. It was an exciting jam while it lasted.

Most of the pugilists came through unscathed. However, Tony Agatiello, base umpire, needed some medication on his left leg, and pitcher Jimmy Coates of the Friars picked up a cut around his eye and a mouse while trying to separate two of the more-active participants. Agatiello had been stepped on and Coates' eye was a result of a swinging elbow.

Coach Hal Martin replaced Coates with Tommy Army and the former Hope athlete turned in an outstanding relief job. Coates was the winning pitcher, but he was in trouble at several points.

Although Hal Martin's Army put down the uprising, Tommy wasn't much help later when Bob Martin, the Bates' left fielder questioned the right of a PC supporter to heckle his teammates. There was some more swinging in that engagement, which came as the eighth inning ended.

Tommy Cahill, a sophomore playing his first game on Hendricken Field, paced the Friars with four hits in five trips. Cahill drove in four runs and PC's Moore accounted for three RBIs while hitting the ball well.

Army, son of George Army of wide professional catching experience, gave up one hit before he was really warmed up, and then retired 11 of the next 12 batters. Army had three strikeouts, mixing up his pitches. He was easily the most effective of the four who handled the pitching chores yesterday.

Bob Dunn, who swings a Ted Kluszewski bat and knows how to use it, had three of the eight Bates' bingles. Dunn hit a two-run homer over the wall in left center that sent Bates away to a 2-0 lead in the first inning.

The Friars twice came from behind, and took the lead for keeps in the third when they scored four times. Moore hit a double off the center-field fence and Dick Howe, Cahill and Coates contributed singles in the rally. Fred Jack's two throwing errors gave PC additional opportunities.

Sophomore Hearne Wins

Bridgeport Nine Held to 4 Hits In 8-1 Setback

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars made it two straight behind the steady hurling of Herby Hearne as they scored an 8-1 victory over the University of Bridgeport baseball forces yesterday at Hendricken Field.

In his varsity debut, sophomore Hearne set down the Bridgeport stickers with four hits and was never in any serious danger after the third inning. A La Salle alumnus, the righthander became the first Friar pitcher to go the route and turned in a convincing performance.

For the second successive day, Tommy Cahill, another sophomore from New Haven, Conn., paced the Friars' 12-hit attack. Cahill now has six hits and six RBIs in pacing the club to decisions over Bates and Bridgeport.

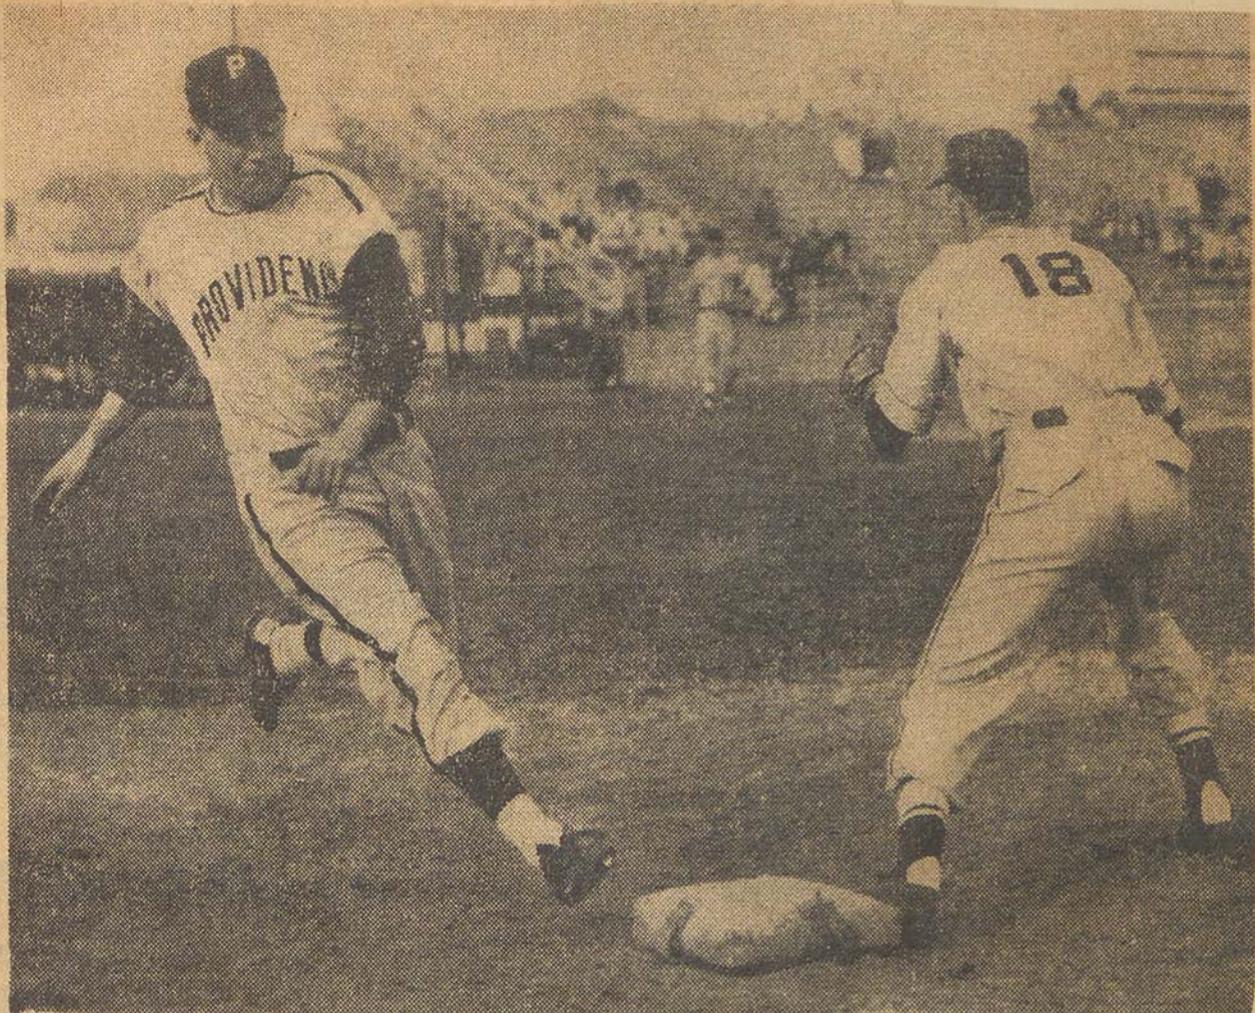

The Friars got off to a fast start when they scored three times against Norm O'Donnell in the first inning. Art Aloisio opened the inning with a single to center and Jack Healey walked. Dick Howe followed with a triple to deep center that brought in the first two runs.

Howe, who is a pesty hitter, really tagged that one and later stole home with the third tally.

Cahill slugged a triple to the left-field fence and a double down the left-field line as the Friars picked up three tallies in two flurries in the sixth and seventh innings.

Bridgeport, which numbers Manhattan among its four victories in seven starts, concentrated most of its hitting in the third inning. Charlie Petrino doubled home Dick Lugg, who had singled, with the visitors' only run off Hearne. Petrino was trapped between second and third on a relay from Healey and Bob Woods to Buzz Moore and was eventually tagged out by Aloisio, a play that ultimately filled a big inning.

Hearne, a promising freshman hurler last season, gave up only one hit in the last six innings after Bridgeport made three in the third.

Safe Arrival: P.C. pitcher Herbie Hearne had no trouble beating out a bunt in eighth inning of game with Bridgeport yesterday. Waiting for throw that never arrived is first-baseman Dick Lugg.

Ram Trackmen Post Easy Score Over P.C.

Dominating the meet from the outset and capturing 13 of the 15 first places, the University of Rhode Island track team overwhelmed Providence College, 100 2-3 to 34 1-3, yesterday in a dual meet at Kingston.

So complete was the Rams' mastery that the Friars were shut out in four events and did not register a first place until the 12th event, long after the meet had been decided.

At the end of five events, the Rams held a commanding 43-2 lead.

One of the best races of the afternoon was in the mile, where Bill MacQuattie of the Rams and Joe Madden of P.C. ran shoulder to shoulder for three-quarters of the distance. The Ram ace took the lead on the gun lap and opened it to 50 yards with half a lap to go. He won in the good time of 4:27.

Vin Cuddy Is Appointed Coordinator of Athletics at P.C.

Shift Leaves Hoop Coaching Post Vacant

By JOE McHENRY

Vin Cuddy, who coached the Providence College basketball forces for the last six seasons, has been named coordinator of athletics by the Friars, and no longer will coach the PC basketball team.

In his new capacity, Cuddy will assist the Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., athletic director at Providence College, in the Friars' expanded athletic program, according to the announcement last night by the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College.

The Friars are now in the market for a new basketball coach.

With the opening of the Friars' new Alumni Gymnasium, which is nearly completed, Providence will have an expanded program starting in the fall. Cuddy will work closely with Father Begley in an administrative post.

Cuddy took over the PC basketball situation when the sport was at a low ebb and rebuilt it to some extent. One of the PC teams he coached won its way into the NAIB hoop tournament at Kansas City. His teams scored victories over all major foes, with the exception of Holy Cross at some time, and few New England teams have been beating the Crusaders on the court.

The Friars may seek a coach of national reputation. They plan a tougher schedule with some name foes for the opening campaign in their new gymnasium.

Prospects are fairly good for the Friars next season as the past campaign was something of a rebuilding year. Cuddy had one senior, Capt. Ken Kerr, among his five starters and six of his first seven men were sophomores.

Cuddy came to Providence College after two winning seasons at Fort Trumbull, a branch of the University of Connecticut. His Trumbull teams won 33 and lost 9 while his six squads at PC had an overall winning record of 75 victories and 64 defeats.

"I'm pleased and happy with my new job," Cuddy said last night. "I'm sorry to be leaving coaching in a way but this is a fine opportunity. And I think this year's team has laid some sound groundwork for a fairly good club next year.

The Friars played some outstanding games under Cuddy's tutelage. Just last season they knocked off Rhody at the Keaney gym in Kingston for PC's first victory on a Rhody court in over 16 years. The night a scrappy PC team defeated Tufts and won a berth in the NAIB was a big one. The Friars also turned in a fine game against Bevo Francis and Rio Grande.

Bobby Moran, who scored 1,251 points during his varsity career, is Vin's choice as his top player in six seasons. Other fine ones were Jim Schlimm, another 1,000-point man; Ray Korbusiecki and Lozoski, aggressive guards and team leaders.

Last season the Friars started badly but were playing fine ball at the close of the campaign. They won nine games and lost 12.

One of the possibilities for the vacant coaching post is Ernie Calverley, the former Rhode Island star under Frank Keaney who coached the Providence College Frosh last season. The PC Freshmen had a fine season and Calverley has had wide experience in basketball as a college and professional player.

P.C.-Bruin Track Meet Rescheduled Today

The Providence College-Bruin track meet, flooded out yesterday, will be held this afternoon at Brown Stadium. The starting time is 3:30 o'clock.

Two other Brown teams—baseball and tennis—have home events this afternoon. The baseball team will play Dartmouth in an Ivy League game at Aldrich Field, starting at 3 o'clock. The tennis team takes on Yale at the Manning Street courts, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Providence College's baseball team, which also was rained out of its intrastate-series game yesterday with the University of Rhode Island, will visit Boston University today.

The track meet will involve the Bruin and Friar varsity and freshmen and, for good measure, a Brown intrafraternity meet will be thrown in with it.

This will call for considerable meshing of events and will test the steel of the Rhode Island track and Field Officials Association, but Coach Ivan Fuqua of Brown insists it can be done.

First will come the track events for the fraternity men and, at the same time, the varsity and freshmen field events will take place. All this will begin at 3:30.

Then the running events for the varsity and freshmen will go, starting at 4:15. The fraternity men will then shift to field events.

For the Friars' ball game at Boston, Capt. Jerry Romberg or Tom Army will be the starting pitcher. The Friars have won two in a row.

Brown's starting pitcher will be Bruce Bartsch, who worked the bulk of the game in the Bruins' victory over Rhode Island last week.

Brown Sweeps Track Meets With Friars

Brown's varsity and freshman track teams swept their dual meets with Providence College yesterday at Brown Field, the Bruin varsity winning, 79-56, and the Cubs romping to a 124½-10½ victory.

Tony Marchesani, Charlie McAllister and John Fahey each scored double victories for the Brown varsity. Marchesani won the 100 and 220, McAllister the broad jump and high jump, and Fahey the high and low hurdles.

In the freshman meet, Bob Beaton scored four firsts for the Bruin Cubs, taking the high hurdles, javelin, high jump and pole vault.

P.C. Schedules Game Today Against A.I.C.

Providence College has a ball game today with American International College at Hendricken Field and Brown and the University of Rhode Island start two-game road trips.

The PC Friars have had two games rained out this week and, if there were any blessings from this, it was the easing of the pitching situation.

As it stands, Coach Hal Martin can call on any of his throwers, but Capt. Jerry Romberg probably will get the starting assignment.

Friar Trackmen Hand BC Eagles 72-63 Loss

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
 Newton, Mass. — Providence College's track team scored its second dual-meet victory of the season yesterday by defeating
 Boston College, 72-63. The BC
 Freshmen downed the Friar
 Freshmen, 50-29.

The Eagles' Pat Lochiatto was the individual star of the meet with four firsts, a second and two thirds for 25 points. Bob Mc-Allister of BC was timed in 9.9 seconds for the 100. He also won the 220 in 22.6.

The Eagles took eight first places and tied for another but the Friars showed better depth.
 PC swept the 880 and javelin.

Cuddy Named Co-ordinator Of P.C. Sports

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars have named Vin Cuddy to the new post of co-ordinator of athletics and are today in the market for a new basketball coach.

Cuddy, who has handled the Friar hoop squads for the past six seasons, relinquished his coaching berth in favor of an administrative post. He will work closely with the Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., athletic director, in the Friars' expanded athletic program, according to the announcement by the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College.

Cuddy came into the PC basketball picture when the sport was at a low point and put some life in the program. In six seasons, Cuddy's teams won 75 games and lost 65, scoring victories over all their major foes, with the exception of Holy Cross. The Friars had a 9-12 record last season.

With the opening of the Friars' new Alumni Gymnasium, now nearing completion on the Smith Hill campus, Providence College will be stepping up its athletic program. They have no intention of becoming a big time basketball power, however, a spokesman said today.

Open-Minded on Successor

The Friars are very much open-minded on Cuddy's successor but would prefer a man who has had varsity coaching experience at some other institution. They have nobody in mind at the moment.

Some names that will come up in connection with the vacancy are Ernie Calverley, former Rhode Island and professional standout from Pawtucket; Jim Federico, who had an outstanding coaching record at Westerly High School; Bob Morris, now retired after a long career with the pros, schoolboys and collegians; Al McGuire, former pro with the New York Knicks,

"We have had some inquiries about our coaching position," Father Begley said today. "but things are very much up in the air at present. We don't know just who is available but we expect to get some applications now that the post is open."

Cuddy played his college basketball at Connecticut and had coached at Fort Trumbull before coming to PC. He was a captain in the airborne troops during World War II and later took his master's degree in physical education at Columbia.

28 Formal Teams

The Friars have had 28 formal college basketball teams and at least four or five informal ones in the early 20s. They played Holy Cross in 1921, losing 56-10. General Al McClellan coached 11 seasons, with 147 victories and 65 defeats. Ed Crotty had a 58-53 score in seven seasons while Larry Drew, who preceded Cuddy, won 25 against 40 setbacks in three years.

Cuddy had his greatest coaching success in the early years of his regime. His team played one of the top games in PC athletic history when it knocked off Rhode Island at the Auditorium in Cuddy's first season after trailing by 18 points.

Last season the Friars got away to a slow start but they were doing a fine job in the closing games. Again they scored a notable victory over Rhody, being the first PC team to beat URI on a Kingston court in 16 years. PC also won its way into the national NAIB hoop tournament at Kansas City in Cuddy's second year.

Prospects Bright

Prospects are fairly bright for next season with a sophomore nucleus and a fine Frosh squad coming up. The PC team last season included Capt. Ken Kerr and four sophomores, with six of the first seven men from the sophomore class. The PC Frosh, coached by Calverley, had a fine year, led by center Lionel Jenkins.

Top player during Cuddy's regime was Bobby Moran, now working for Uncle Sam. Moran scored 1,701 points in four seasons, 1,251 with the varsity. Johnny Ritch, first effective big man Cuddy had in six years, figures to be one of the PC stars of the future. He was a sophomore last year along with Mike Pascale and Frank Williams.

B. C. TRACKMEN BEATEN 72-63

Pat Lochiatto won four events, figured in the finishes of three others and totaled 25 points for his effort but it wasn't enough as Providence College defeated Boston College 72 to 63 in a dual track and field meeting at Alumni Field yesterday.

Brown's Rifle Team Cops ROTC Crown

Brown's rifle team won the state ROTC championship yesterday in a meet with Providence College and Rogers High School at the Cranston Street Armory.

The Bruins posted a score of 1,378 to 1,354 for P.C. and 1,250 for Rogers. The University of Rhode Island did not compete. Brown thus gained the first leg on the trophy that must be won three consecutive years before it can be retired.

Guy LaBrosse of P.C. won the medal for highest individual score with 281. Brown's Lary and Maddock also scored 281 but LaBrosse was the winner on the basis of the highest offhand total.

Brown Outslugs P.C., 12-10, in Rain-Shortened, 5-Inning Game

One That Didn't Score: Brown picked up 12 runs in five innings yesterday against Providence College but Vic O'Bryan's attempt to score the first one in the first inning failed. O'Bryan was forced at home when Harry Josephson grounded to third base. Buzz Moore pegged to catcher Tom Cahill for the putout. Brown won the rain-shortened game, 12-10.

Friar Nine Falters in Late Stages, Drops 10-Inning Game to B.C

3-Bagger, Single Win For the Eagles, 5-4

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Newton, Mass.—Jack Scannell singled home the winning run in the 10th inning, giving Boston College a 5-4 victory over Providence College yesterday at Alumni Field.

Scannell's line drive came on the heels of a tremendous triple by Dick Lucas and climaxed an uphill fight by the Eagles. The Friars had led from the first inning until BC tied it up with two runs in the ninth on three walks, two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Ed Buckley, who took over the pitching duties in the 10th, was credited with the victory, his fourth of the season without a defeat. Starter Bob Wilkinson hurled the first seven innings and gave up all of the PC hits and runs. Jim Murray pitched hitless and runless ball in the eighth and ninth.

Tom Army went the route for the Friars and was in control until the ninth when the last of his three walks in that inning forced in the tying run.

The Friars went ahead in the first inning, scoring two runs without the aid of a hit. Two walks, a hit batsman, a passed ball, wild pitch and fielder's choice produced the tallies.

BC picked up a run in the third when, with one out and Wilkinson on third, Bill Flanagan hit a grounder back to Army. The latter failed to check the runner and Wilkinson scored while Flanagan was being thrown out.

The Friars retaliated with an unearned run in the sixth, Tom Cahill scoring from third as Flanagan overthrew first on Bob Woods' grounder.

Each scored once in the seventh, Army counting for PC after Jack Healey's flyout to right and Scannell scoring on Tom Carey's single past third base.

The defeat was the second for the Friars in five starts.

P.C. Yearlings Lose Opener By 10-5 Edge

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

Dudley, Mass. — Providence College's freshman baseball team opened its season here yesterday by dropping a 10-5 decision to Nichols Junior College.

The Friar Freshmen used three pitchers but none of them was able to stop the home team for long. Bud Slattery started for the Rhode Islanders and was followed by Paul Sainako in the fifth and Ken Johnston in the eighth.

Batting standouts for the losers were Herb Nicholas, who had three singles in three trips, and Lou LaFontaine, who blasted a two-run triple in the seventh.

The P.C. Freshmen play Brown's Freshmen tomorrow at Aldrich Field.

The line score:

P.C.	001	000	301	5	11	4
Nichols	012	003	40x	10	11	3
Slattery, Sainako (5), Johnston (7) and Geiser, Kasavitz (8); Bendix and Marshall.

Ten Nutmeggers On Friar Teams

Five Connecticut youths on the Providence College varsity baseball team and another quintet on the Friar freshman squad have given a distinct Nutmeg flavor to the Rhode Island institution's diamond activity this year.

Capt. Gerry Romberg heads the list. The former Notre Dame High (West Haven) star, whose home is in Orange, formerly was varsity second baseman, but switched this year to pitching to bolster the Friar mound staff. He hurled his team to victory in its opening game against the Quonset Point Flyers, but aggravated an old arm injury and is currently sidelined.

Bob Reall, a junior from Willimantic, was first-string center fielder on last year's team and switched back to his first love, catching, this year. Very fast, he led the team in stolen bases last year and is considered by Coach Hal Martin to be a fine hit-and-run man.

SPLIT UP CATCHING

He is dividing the catching chores with a big sophomore, Tom Cahill, former captain at St. Mary's High, New Haven. Each caught two of the first four games and Cahill broke in sensationally with four-for-five against Bates. In the first two games he played, he drove in six runs.

Another sophomore, Dick Coughlin of Middletown, is considered a fine pitching prospect and very likely to be a regular starter next year. Also with the mound crew is John Lundborg, a senior from West Hartford who is used principally as a relief pitcher.

Off to a fast start, the Friars took three of their first four games.

The Connecticut contingent on the freshmen team includes first baseman Ed Lewis, who captained the Notre Dame High team and whose home is in New Haven. A two-hundred pound six-footer, he is regarded as one of the best baseball prospects in the college.

Also rated as a future great is Lou LaFontaine, shortstop from Hamden High, whose home now is in New Haven. Lou was one of the top stars of the strong Friar freshman hockey team last winter.

GAISER WINS POST

Bob Gaiser of Wallingford, who starred at Lyman Hall and Cheshire Academy, has won the first-string catching post with the Frosh.

Rounding out the Connecticut list are two freshmen pitchers, Bill Dahill, six-foot-three right-hander from Hamden, who also is a former Notre Dame High captain; and Bill Dineen of Middletown, who pitched for Middletown High.

Freshman baseball coach Vin Cuddy completes "the Connecticut look." The former UConn star from Naugatuck is also Friar varsity basketball coach.

Holy Cross Triumphs Over P.C. Nine, 8-4

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
Worcester, Mass.—The Holy Cross baseball team took full advantage of six hits and some wild pitching for an 8-4 victory over the Providence College Friars here yesterday.

The Crusaders picked up three runs in the fourth inning on a bunt hit, an error by pitcher Tom McAlear on a pickoff play and five bases on balls by McAlear. The fifth walk was McAlear's last as he was lifted in favor of Tom Army. Army got by until the sixth when he served a grand-slam home run to Capt. Bob Johnson.

Providence got one run in second when McAlear singled home Tom Cahill. Buzz Moore, who was on second at the time, tried to score on the hit also but was nailed at the plate on a fine throw from centerfielder Dick Santaniello to catcher Gordie Massa.

Bob Woods, Friar shortstop, accounted for two more runs in the sixth on his single scoring Dick Howe and Mike McDonough. Army then singled home Bob Reall, and Joe Liebler, starting Crusader pitcher, was lifted. Ron Cote, ace Holy Cross pitcher, came on and quickly quelled the Friar batters, holding them hitless over the final 3½ innings.

Bruins, Friars Clash Today at P.C. Field

Brown and Providence College he started the Friars' opener meet today at 3 o'clock at Hendricken Field in the first intracity contest of the season. Meanwhile the PC Frosh will play the Brown Cubs a visit at Aldrich Field, also at 3 p.m.

Coach Lefty Lefebvre of the Bruins will have his top chucker, Harry Josephson, ready for the Friars but he also has an Eastern League game on Saturday here with Penn. This may influence Lefty's choice of pitchers for today's game.

The Friars, who dropped a decision to Boston College this week, will have Tommy McAleer on the mound today. McAleer, a former La Salle hurler from Providence, hasn't worked since against Springfield.

It will be the Friars' first game against Rhode Island opposition

Vin Jazwinski Gets 2 Homers, One 'Unofficial'

By JOE McHENRY

Brown's Vince Jazewinski, a free swinger, clouted a pair of home runs yesterday at Hendricken Field but the second was washed out as the Bruins scored a 12-10 decision over the Providence College Friars in five full innings.

Jazwinski, brightest spot in the Bruins' lineup yesterday, hit a drive over Mike McDonough's head to the fence in left center in the third with the bases empty for his first homer. Later he dumped a tantalizing roller past the mound that accounted for two more runs.

Coming up in the sixth inning, Jazz found two Bruins on the base paths. He hit one of Tommy Army's outside pitches over the fence in right center for three runs but umpire Bill Cleary held up the game after Jazz' belt and finally called it 35 minutes later.

Jazz had hit two home runs in one game as a collegian on one other occasion. That was in his freshman season and it came against the young Friars on Hendricken Field.

With a spacious outfield in left and center, few visiting players have hit a pair of homers there in many seasons. Eddie Ryder hit a pair against Holy Cross and John Barchi hit two against Seton Hall, both inside the park. Leo Marion and Chief Marsella, sluggers in Jack Flynn's heyday, also hit two in one game.

Outside of Jazwinski's slugging, the game was on the sloppy side and both teams contributed. Harry Josephson, Bruin captain, was the winning hurler although he needed help when the Friars put together a big inning in the fifth.

The game was played in good and bad weather, in light and semi-darkness. Josephson probably would have been able to finish the fifth inning under other circumstances but Coach Lefty Lefebvre wanted to make it an official game as quickly as possible and brought in Tony Rego to wind it up.

The Bruins scored in each of the first four innings. Paul Tempesta's two-run single, Pete Tutless' sacrifice fly, a PC error and three walks gave the Bruins a four-run start in the first. Ben Thomas' bad-hop single figured prominently in Brown's three-run second.

Don Barber, Brown first baseman, celebrated the birth of a boy, born yesterday to his wife, with a 2-run double down the right field line as Brown scored four times in the fourth.

The Friars exploded against a tiring Josephson in the fifth, played in semi-darkness that made it difficult to distinguish the ball when it was pitched and when it was fielded. Bob O'Connell, Bob Gulla and Tom Army had hits in the rally.

Dick Howe, PC first baseman, made a bare-hand catch of a bounding throw for the game's best fielding play and reached four times on two hits and two walks. It was Brown's eighth victory. The Bruins have a 2-1 standing in the state series.

Rhode Island Nine Takes Twin Bill From P.C., 3-2 and 4-0

Peltier Wins Opener in 12 Innings

By JOHN HANLON

The University of Rhode Island defeated Providence College, 3-2, in 12 innings and then, 4-0, yesterday at Kingston in a double-header that was like a day at the fair.

It had something for everyone. Good plays and bad ones, all-good pitching, a couple of horrendous bloopers and even a pretty good argument that ended with the PC Friars' coach, Hal Martin, being marched out of the game for protesting a decision.

Shining above all was the pitching job by the Rams' sophomore, Ray Peltier of West Warwick. He worked and won the first game, scheduled for seven innings, which went to the Rams when Pete DeMasi squeezed home John Leach.

Then Peltier shut out the Friars for the first two innings of the second game. He retired only because he developed a blister on his knuckle. The first game was the first complete one in his college varsity career and he allowed just six hits and struck out nine.

Key Strikeout

Peltier's toughest moment came in the 11th, when he gave up two hits and a walk and the bases were loaded, two out. Bob Woods worked him down to a 3-2 count, but Peltier passed the test by whizzing the third strike by him, swinging.

That done, his Ram teammates set out to reward him in the 12th. Leach, who had pulled a base-running boner earlier, more than evened his record by tripling to right.

Paul Regan out there seemed to slip as Leach's violent liner bounced up and the ball rolled deep and Leach made third. After Al Alvarez had walked, DeMasi dropped a bunt down the first base line and all pitcher Herb Hearne could do was try to scoop it toward the plate—much too late to stop Leach and victory.

Hearne allowed only three hits and probably should have gotten off better.

Coach Martin got the treat that is rare in college baseball—the pointing finger that signifies "out" from the umpire.

Close Play

It started with a close play at first and Joe Rafferty, the base umpire, ruled the runner out. Howe, the Friars' impetuous first baseman, leaped into the air in protest then beefed to Rafferty. Martin came charging out, too.

After many words and much arm waving, Rafferty made the final sign and ordered Martin out. He left, but he did his smoldering almost behind the bench, not too far out of contact from his club.

The banishment applied only for the first game and the unchained Martin ran his team in the second game.

It didn't make much difference either way because Peltier got the first six batters without difficulty and then Al Clegg took over and gave up just two hits the rest of the way.

Clegg's only moment of concern was the fourth when he had runners on second and third and one out. But came the double play—pitcher to plate to first—and he was out of it.

The Rams unloaded three hits off Tom McAleer in the first inning and, with an error thrown in, they had two runs. Sal Ferrara singled one in and the other scored on a passed ball.

The Kingstonites got three more runs in the sixth and again, with a passed ball for help, got two more runs.

So, at the end of a long, windy and chill afternoon, the Rams boosted their record to 8-4 and, furthermore, took over the lead in the intrastate series with a 3-1 record.

They can do no worse now than tie for the title. The Friars now are 3-6. They have lost all three of their state-title games.

P.C. Trackmen Top Crusaders

Worcester—Providence College scored its third dual track meet victory yesterday by defeating Holy Cross, 71-64. The Crusader Freshmen evened the score by downing the P.C. Freshmen, 44-37, in a nine-event meet.

The competition was the final dual meet for the Friars this season and the victory gave them a 3-3 mark. Coach Harry Coates' trackmen will compete in the Eastern and New England Intercollegiate meets on May 14 and May 21, respectively.

In yesterday's meet the Crusaders won the battle of first places, taking eight and sharing a ninth, but P.C.'s greater depth told the story.

Bob Sweeney of Pawtucket, former La Salle athlete, had a field day for the Crusaders, winning the hammer, discus and shot put. He won the latter event with a 49-foot, 10-inch toss. Ed Aron of P.C. was second with a 48:4 performance, which erased his previous P.C. College record of 47:9.

Friar Freshmen

Tag Ramlets, 19-9

An eight-run second inning featured by Herbie Nicholas' bases-loaded triple gave the Providence College Freshmen a 19-9 baseball victory over the University of Rhode Island yesterday at Hendriken Field.

The big rally pushed P.C. into a 10-1 lead and the Friar Yearlings were never in danger after that. Other hits in the inning, all singles, were made by Bob Ritacco, Frank Terico, Bog Gaiser and Satch Dahill. In addition, there were two bases on balls.

P.C.'s Army Stops Eagles

4-Run Lead Stands Up for 5-3 Victory

Tom Army rode herd on five big runs presented to him by his mates in the first inning and pitched Providence College to a 5-3 victory over Boston College yesterday at Hendricken Field.

The senior right-hander, who had let victory slip from his grasp in the ninth inning of the first meeting with Boston College last week, stopped the Eagles with a five-hitter yesterday and grew stronger as the game progressed.

He gave up a run in the first inning on a walk, two singles and a sacrifice fly and two more in the fourth on a hit batsman, a triple and an infield groundout. But after that the Eagles never were able to mount a scoring threat as Army struck out 11, including seven of the last 11 batters he faced.

The victory gave Army a 2-2 record for the season and avenged his disappointing loss to the Eagles last week. In that game he had dissipated a 4-2 lead in the ninth and had lost out, 5-4, in 10 innings.

Art Aloisio launched the Friars' big inning with a single to center. John Healey reached on Bob Scannell's error and Dick Howe beat out a bunt, filling the bases. Tom Cahill coaxed Bob Wilkinson for a walk, forcing in the first run.

Healey and Howe scored as Mike McDonough and Buzz Moore were reaching on fielder's choices and Moore came around with the fourth run on successive singles by Bob Woods and Bill Slattery. With Slattery on first and Woods on third and two out, the pair worked a double steal and Woods trotted across with the fifth run.

Thereafter the Friars collected six more hits but three double plays by the Eagles stymied their scoring bids. Woods led PC's 10-hit attack with three singles. Slattery and Howe each collected two hits.

The victory was the fourth in 10 games for the Friars. They will entertain Springfield tomorrow at Hendricken Field.

Friars Bag 3 Firsts, Finish 6th in Eastern Track

Tufts Captures Team Crown On 35½ Pts.

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Boston—Providence College's five-man squad took three firsts on its way to compiling 19 points yesterday for sixth place in the annual Eastern Intercollegiate Track Championships at White Stadium.

Bernard Dandley won the half mile in 1:59.3, Joe Madden led the milers home in 4:32.8 and Rod Boucher took the two-mile run in 9:57.

The Friars' other four points were picked up by Ed Aron with a second in the shot put on a heave of 48.5 and by Don Fahey with a fourth in the low hurdles.

Aron's put broke his own P.C. record in the event by three inches.

The three winning Friars had large margins at the tape. Dandley won by 25 yards, Madden by 18 and Boucher by 40.

Tufts took the team title with 35½ points, followed by Springfield with 26½, Boston College with 22½, Williams and Bowdoin tied with 21, Providence with its 19, Trinity with 10, Middlebury with 8 and Colby with 1½.

One meet record was broken, in the broad jump. Bruce Moore of Tufts won the event at 23 feet, 11¼ inches. The old mark was held by Bob Branche of Bowdoin at 23 feet, ½ inch, set in 1948.

Friars Outlast Springfield, 14-10; Moore Hits 'Slammer'

The accent was on hitting yesterday at Hendricken Field, where Providence College out-slugged Springfield for a 14-10 baseball victory.

Two of the Friars' 12 hits were big ones, a grand-slam home run by Buzz Moore in the fifth and a triple by Art Aloisio in the seventh. And of the eight hits Springfield got, three were doubles, two by Bud Getchell and one by Joe Kobuskie.

The Friars didn't wrap up the victory until the eighth, when they scored three runs on a walk, a couple of bunts and singles by Bill Slattery and Herb Hearne. Springfield had tied the score at 9-9 with a run in the seventh.

Slattery had a fine day at the plate with four singles in five trips. Moore and Bob Woods did all right, too, with two hits each for the Friars.

Tom McAleer started on the mound for P.C. and wobbled through to the eighth inning before he was relieved by Hearne. He gave up three runs in the first, one in the second and four in the fourth, when he issued four straight walks.

In the seventh, McAleer walked the first man and had a 3-0 count on the second batter when he was taken out. Hearne came in and got out of the inning with only one run scored, yielded another in the eighth and held Springfield scoreless in the ninth.

The victory gives the Friars a 5-6 record for the season. Springfield's record now is just the opposite.

Bruins Top P.C. in 11th On Stevenson's Single

BY JOHN HANLON

A pitch single by Brown's Bob Stevenson, hit soundly on the first pitch with two out in the 11th inning, scored Bill Cronin from second base and gave the Bruins a 5-4 victory over Providence College yesterday at Aldrich Field.

In addition, Stevenson's wallop—it was just his second hit of the season—moved Brown into a tie for the intrastate college baseball title with Rhode Island. Each has a 3-1 record in the final standing; the Friars are 0-4. Stevenson's hit was possibly the best of Brown's 12, but it was by no means the biggest. This distinction went to Frank Thomas, who sailed a 400-foot home run to right field in the fourth inning. Then, in his next time at bat, he rapped out another homer that rolled almost as far.

The first was a tremendous belt, one of the longest ever hit at Aldrich Field, and it missed by a few yards of rolling to the right-field wall of the Bruins gymnasium.

There were no runners on either time, but the hits played a part in the Bruins' job of overcoming a three-run lead they spotted the Friars.

3 in 3rd for Friars

These three came in the third inning and they were accomplished on two hits off Bruce Bartsch, who went the full distance for Brown. Two errors and two walks helped the Friars and singles by Dick Howe and Mike McDonough drove in two of the runs.

Bartsch gave up just two more hits the rest of the way, but he was almost constantly in trouble, either because of the 10 base on balls he gave, or the four errors the Bruins made.

But he was able to bear down just when he needed it most. In the ninth, he had men on second and third and was on the verge of being relieved. But he got the third out and then went on to his victory.

Alert Base-Running

A Friar error of the simplest kind, plus some alert base-running by Brown's Dave Zucconi, sent the game into extra innings. Just previous, Tom Cahill singled home Art Aloisio in the seventh and that put the Friars ahead, 4-3. But Zucconi walked with two out in the eighth. Then Bill Cronin lofted an easy fly to left-center and it hit Bill Slatery's glove and bounced out.

College Teams Head Into Stretch; Friar Nine Busiest With 5 Games

By JOHN HANLON

This is the last full week of business for the intercollegiate sports season hereabouts and Providence College's baseball team will be the busiest of all.

In fact, the Friars will be going at a midseason pace, playing five games. Three of them are re-scheduled games and the first of the lot is today against Boston University at Braves Field.

Tomorrow it is American International College at Hendricken Field and then Holy Cross comes in for a visit on Thursday.

On Saturday the Friars will visit Brandeis and then comes the finale, against Assumption College on Sunday at Worcester.

This is a lot of baseball and for those players who love the game, a week to contemplate with pleasure. But Coach Hal Martin considers it in another light. To him it means pitching problems.

The Friars have had fair pitching for the most part this season, but they do not have a staff that is up to four games in seven days. If Capt. Jerry Romberg could work — he has had a torn muscle in his elbow — he might relieve the pressure. Otherwise, some few are in for a pile of work.

is in its final full week, too. The Rams have a doubleheader with Massachusetts today at Kingston, starting at 1:30 p.m., and they have another with New Hampshire there on Friday. Saturday they are at Springfield. They wind up next Tuesday against Connecticut.

In the intrastate race, Brown and the Rams finished in a tie for the title with 3-1 records. The outcome was determined on Saturday, when Brown took the Friars, 5-4, in 11 innings.

The Friars finished 0-4 in the championship series and it has been many years since they failed to win at least one game in the state series.

Zucconi, meanwhile, raced around second and neared third when the error was committed. He made home with just enough to spare and the score was tied.

Jim Coats, who had relieved the Friars' starter, Herb Hearne in the seventh, gave up just two hits and struck out four. But the first of those hits was a drag bunt by Cronin in the 11th. Then he stole second and that brought up Stevenson, who provided the end mark.

Friars' Nine Closing At Home Against H.C.

Providence College plays the last home game of its baseball season today, facing Holy Cross at Hendricken Field. Starting time is 3 p.m.

As always, the Crusaders have one of the leading teams in New England. They presently are one of the top contenders in the New England race for the NCAA tourney berth.

The other strong bidder is Harvard, which has already lost to Holy Cross and, furthermore, has indicated it would not accept a bid to the tourney.

Rene Cote is the Holy Cross pitching star of this season and he may work briefly against the Friars.

A late-season spurt has improved the Friars' record considerably and their latest was a victory on Tuesday over American International College.

Herby Hearne is the probable pitching nominee for the Friars. This sophomore has shown good ability and has been one of the prizes of the Friars' season.

Another prize has been the hitting and the pitching of Tom Army. In the American International game, Army came to bat as a pinch hitter in the third inning with the bases loaded and rapped a triple. He also has had a couple of excellent pitching jobs to his credit.

Timely Hitting By Friars Nets Sixth Victory

Providence College got the maximum mileage out of six hits yesterday and scored a 9-8 victory over American International's baseball team at Hendricken Field.

AIC, which banged out 11 hits, took a 5-0 lead in the first on three singles, three walks and an error, but the Friars came back and tied the score in the second.

Key blow in this rally was a bases-loaded triple by pinch-hitter Tom Army. It came after two walks, a single, a hit batsman and another walk.

In the third, the Friars put together two singles, a double and an error for three more runs. It was at this point, with the three runs in and nobody out, that Carl Pawlowski took over the pitching duties for AIC.

He allowed only one hit for the rest of the game but that hit, a homer by Buzz Moore in the seventh, produced the winning run for P.C.

P.C.'s record is now six victories and eight defeats. Yesterday's game was the second of five the Friars play this week. Tomorrow it will be Holy Cross at Hendricken Field.

P.C. Golfers Nip URI; Butler Beats Quinn in Feature

Providence College's golfers yesterday defeated the University of Rhode Island, 14½ to 12½, at Point Judith.

In the feature match, Paul Butler, the Rams' recently crowned New England collegiate champion, defeated Ronnie Quinn, 2 and 1.

Paul Butler and Bert Rose (RI) defeated Bob Paul and Ronnie Quinn, 5-4. Len Nannarone and Bill Lane (PC) defeated Harry Hampson and Robert Hammarlund, 8½-½.

Robert Redding and Jim Marble (RI) defeated Jim Harrington and Robert Brennan, 7-2.

Terriers Rout Army With 5 In 8th Inning

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

Boston—Tom Army blanked Boston University for seven innings yesterday, but the Terriers chased him with five runs in the eighth in scoring a 5-3 victory over Providence College at Boston University Field.

Until that fatal eighth, the Friars were riding a 3-0 lead as Army had parceled out only four hits. Then the Terrier batters cut loose.

Dennis Dempsey, Don Cobbigal and Tom Gastall hit successive singles for BU's first run. After Joe Stoico had popped out to Buzz Moore at third, Ken Hagestrom singled, scoring Cobbigal.

A wild pitch by Army permitted Gastall and Hagestrom to move up a base and after Dick McNally had fanned, Gastall stole home with the tying run.

Then Carl Cohen drove a long fly that bounced off Bobby Reall's glove in left center and over the short snow fence for a two-run homer. Jim Coates then relieved Army and fanned Jack Murphy for the third out.

Art Aloisio's double drove home PC's first run, in the fifth, and the Friars added two more in the sixth on two BU errors, Mike McDonough's double and Bobby Woods' sacrifice fly.

PC's record now is five victories and eight defeats. BU has an 8-9-1 mark. The Friars play American International today at Hendricken Field.

Crusaders Give Coach Barry 550 College Tally, Beat P.C., 15-9

Coming In on a Cloud: Bob Johnson of Holy Cross kicked up a lot of dust as he slid into third base after clouting a triple to left field in the eighth inning of yesterday's game with Providence College at Hendricken Field. Buzz Moore, P.C. third baseman, takes the throw from the outfield too late to make the putout.

Massa Triggers 18-Hit Attack With 2 Homers

By JOE McHENRY

Jack Barry, veteran Holy Cross coach, saw his charges score the 550th intercollegiate baseball victory in his long and distinguished coaching career as the Crusaders defeated Providence College, 15-9, yesterday at Hendricken Field.

The Crusaders, strongly in the running for the New England bid to the NCAA tournament, batted out 18 hits against three Providence pitchers.

Barry holds better than a 2-1 edge over the Friars in a series that goes back to the early 20s. Holy Cross has defeated the Friars in all six meetings of the last four seasons.

While Barry was reaching a milestone in his 50-year association with baseball, Gordon Massa, ruggedly built sophomore from Cincinnati, had his biggest day in college baseball. Massa, who takes a big cut, knocked two home runs over the right-field fence in pacing the Cross at the plate.

Rare Feat

More noted for his football ability, Massa broke the ice for Holy Cross after Providence had taken a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Massa, who already has big-league scouts on his trail, is the first Holy Cross player ever to hit a pair on the Friar diamond within Barry's memory and only the second visiting player to get two there in the same game.

Although the Crusaders haven't been overpowering the ball this spring, they fattened up on the PC pitching yesterday. However, the Friars took care of Bill Rochford, the Cross starter and winning hurler, and took some liberties with Ronnie Cote, the HC pitching standout. But by that time, the Crusader lead was nearly insurmountable.

La Salle Product

Santaniello, a La Salle product, is one of the leading stickers on the team this season. He boosted his batting average to .375 yesterday. Dick hit a ground-rule double that bounded over the left-field fence, with two aboard. He was on base four times.

Mike McDonough, Buzz Moore and Dick Woods had three hits each for the Friars, who did the bulk of their hitting and run-making in the fifth and ninth innings. A questionable call on a play at first was a big out in the fifth, in which the Friars got to Rochford, who is unbeaten in four starts this season.

The Friars took the lead as Moore singled home Art Aloisio, who had walked, in the first inning. Herb Hearne retired the Cross in the first but Massa hit the first pitch in the second, over the wall. And then his second homer, following Liebler's triple, climaxed a four-run rally in the third. The Crusaders added four in the fourth and scored five in the eighth and ninth.

Irish Announce Card Of 24 Basket Games

A 24-game basketball schedule for Notre Dame was announced today by Athletic Director Edward W. Krause.

Eight games against Big Ten teams, a three-game Eastern trip and a return to the Sugar Bowl as defending champions highlights the schedule.

Coach Johnny Jordan's team, captained by John Fannon, will open the season in Detroit on Dec. 1 and close against Bradley in Peoria, Ill., on March 3.

Nine games will be played at home, including such powerful opponents as Illinois, Wisconsin, DePaul, Louisville, Marquette and Purdue.

On the Eastern trip, the Irish meet Navy at Annapolis, Holy Cross in Boston and finish up against Providence, a smaller Rhode Island college.

- Dec. 1 at Detroit.
- 5 Wisconsin.
- 7 Loyola.
- 10 at Northwestern.
- 13 Illinois.
- 16 at Minnesota.
- 21 at Michigan State.
- 29-30 Sugar Bowl in New Orleans.

Mullaney, Ex-H. C. Star, To Coach P. C. Basketball Squad

Joe Mullaney, former Holy Cross star, will coach the Providence College basketball team next season.

Mullaney was introduced to members of the press and radio this afternoon by Rev. Fr. A. B. Begley, director of athletics, at a meeting in the Lounge Room of Aquinas Hall.

The new mentor succeeds Vin Cuddy, who has been named coordinator and assistant director of athletics under Fr. Begley.

Had Fine Season at Norwich

Mullaney, 30, has just concluded a very successful season as coach at Norwich University, Northfield, Vermont. His team finished with a 17-6 record, the last three setbacks coming on a New York trip late in the season after the Cadets had won their first Vermont court title in 31 years.

His record at Norwich drew the commendation of veteran New England college coaches. Gen. Ernest Harmon, president of Norwich, praised Mullaney's work there and said that he was sorry to see him go, but did not want to stand in the way of his advancement.

Mullaney, who will be married Saturday in New York to Miss Anne Zipp of Long Island, was graduated from Chaminade High, Long Island, in 1943. He joined the Air Force and was in the service for 33 months. He starred at Holy Cross from the 1945-46 season through 1948-49.

Mullaney Coach At Providence

Joe Mullaney, prominent member of the Holy Cross "Whiz Kids," yesterday was appointed basketball coach of Providence College. Mullaney, 30, a B-25 pilot during World War II and one of the key players in the era when Crusader basketball teams were the toast of the nation, goes to Providence following one year as coach at Norwich. Best remembered for the game in which he scored 31 points against Navy in the 1947 NCAA tournament, Mullaney will seek greater honors Saturday when he marries Miss Ann Zipp of Flushing, L. I.

JOE MULLANEY TO P.C.?

Unless all advance dope was wrong, Joe Mullaney, ex-Holy Cross star, was appointed head basketball coach at Providence College this afternoon.

Friar officials yesterday sent out invitations to a press conference stating that they would reveal the identity of the new coach today at 2:30. Apparently they don't realize that news can't be suppressed, and several out-of-town newspapers this morning jumped the gun and named Mullaney as the coach.

Joe, 30, played at Holy Cross from the 1945-46 season through 1948-49. He's an Air Force veteran (33 months) and graduated from Chaminade High in Long Island, N.Y. Last season he coached the Norwich (Vt.) Cadets. The Cadets won their first state title in 31 years under Mullaney with an overall 17-6 record.

Jim Coates' Fine Effort Checks Brandeis, 5-0

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Waltham, Mass.—Jim Coates, a 20-year-old sophomore from Medford, Mass., fired a no-hitter here yesterday as the Providence College Friars defeated Brandeis University, 5-0.

The victory ended a rather disappointing season for the Friars on a happy note as Coates, aided by some fine fielding by Bob Woods at short and Art Aloisio at second, stopped the Bay Staters cold.

The Friars finished the season with seven victories against nine defeats. The final game of the season, scheduled for this afternoon against Assumption at Worcester, was cancelled.

Providence picked up only four hits off Harry Stein, Brandeis pitcher, but combined three walks and six errors for its runs. They picked up one run in the second, three in the third and the fifth in the fourth.

The first run came without a hit as Brandeis made three errors in the process of letting Tom Army score. In the third, a walk, a sacrifice, a single by Dick Howe, an error and a home run by Tom Cahill accounted for three more. In the fourth, Woods walked, went to second on a wild pitch and scored from second on a grounder to deep short.

Another Mullaney Surprise

Boston Herald 5/25/55
 By BUCKY YARDUME

Life has ever been filled with pleasant surprises for Joe Mullaney, new basketball coach at Providence College. He always has seemed to wind up where he least expected to be.

Mullaney is no stranger to sports fans in the Greater Boston area. He was on the first great Holy Cross basketball team. He later played for the Celtics. Now, he says, he is a confirmed New Englander.

CLOSEST FRIENDS LIVE IN N. E.

"When I was a schoolboy at Elmhurst, Long Island," he said, "I never thought of New England. Now I love it here because, after all, this is where my closest friends live."

"It's funny the way things work out. I came out of the service and I wasn't thinking of going to college. I had been an Army bomber pilot for four years and I thought I was too old to go to college."

"But Bob Hogarty, from my home town, had gone to Holy Cross in 1943. He had sort of helped organize that informal team. He sold my brother Dave and me the idea of going to Holy Cross.

"After all, I had my GI rights for college. Dave came along. Ken Haggerty had decided to go to Holy Cross, too. He didn't want to go back to Fordham after being in the service.

"So there we all were at Holy Cross. Dermie O'Connell and Charley Bollinger and George Kaftan and Bob Cousy. I made friends around here. But I wanted to become a coach.

"I had a chance, but I also had a chance to play pro basketball with the Celtics. I took the pro shot. Now I know it was a mistake. Then I tried a year of school coaching.

"I couldn't see how I'd get to college coaching. I went to work for an industrial outfit. Then I went into the FBI. I never expected to be there, either.

"Then Doggie Julian, coaching at Dartmouth, asked me to come there as freshman coach. I jumped at the chance to be with my old coach, I started for Dartmouth and got side-tracked again.

"Before we even started basketball practice, there was a job open at Norwich. I was offered the job to be varsity coach. I took over a squad that already had been cut.

"Things were pleasant up there at Norwich. I didn't think of making a change. A friend of mine, however, heard Les Smith's sports program and Smith said the Providence basketball job was open.

"I later learned Vin Cuddy had become director of athletics and was in charge of an expanded sports program. But the friend told me to apply for the job.

"I applied, but didn't expect to get the job. Frankly, I thought Ernie Calverly would get it. Then I received the phone call to visit Providence. And here I am."

Mullaney scrupulously avoids detailed comment on Providence prospects. His reasoning is sound enough. He simply is unfamiliar with his inherited talent.

"All I know," he reveals, "is three quarters of the squad come from the Metropolitan New York area. That should mean the boys can play basketball."

Mullaney's signing coincides with the inauguration of the Friars $2 million 3,200-capacity gym and their most ambitious modern schedule.

Along with Holy Cross, the Friars will play such national powers as Notre Dame and Georgetown in a 23-game schedule.

Not since the days of the same Mullaney, Kaftan, Cousy and Co. has Providence defeated Holy Cross. In the 1930s, when Providence ruled as national champion, HC was a pigeon, once beaten, 51-1.

If Mullaney can engineer a victory over his alma mater, he truly will be regarded as the Worcester Wizard.

 SINGING A NEW TUNE—Former Holy Cross star, Joe Mullaney, is in a jovial mood after being named Providence College's basket ball coach to succeed Vin Cuddy.

Mullaney Becomes Providence Coach; To Wed Saturday

Joe Mullaney, 31-year-old former Norwich University coach and member of Holy Cross' 1947 NCAA championship basketball team, was named hoop coach at Providence College yesterday. The announcement was made by the Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, faculty moderator of athletics, at a reception at the Hotel Kenmore.

"It's really wonderful to be getting a chance at this job," said the 31-year-old native of Elmhurst, Long Island. "Last September I thought the door was shut on any chance for me in basketball. Then Doggie Julian offered me the Dartmouth freshman job and before I could even report to Hanover I had the Norwich varsity position.

"Now just eight months later I take over a sophomore squad that won eight of its last 12 games and move into a brand new field house that seats more than 3,200."

Mullaney succeeds Vin Cuddy, who becomes coordinator of athletics at Providence. This is a momentous week for the former Crusader backcourt ace for he'll wed Miss Anne Zipp of Flushing, L. I., Saturday.

Ex-Holy Cross Star Stepping Up

Joe Mullaney Appointed Friars' Basket Ball Coach

By JACK BARRY

Providence College, two decades ago a power in New England basketball circles, apparently is again headed towards prestige in the court game after playing a minor role since the advent of the second World War.

Rev. Fr. A. B. Begley, director of athletics at the Dominican college, today was expected to announce the appointment of ex-Holy Cross star and former Norwich, Vt., coach Joe Mullaney as head coach of the Friars.

The appointment, a surprise in some circles, is fine commendation for Mullaney, who at the age of 30, has had but one full year of college coaching behind him. That however, was a most successful one, as the ex-Crusader and ex-Boston Celtic won 17 games and dropped only three to give the Cadets their first Vermont State title in 31 years the past Winter.

Norwich went on to drop three final games on a New York trip to wind up a 17-6 rating, but Mullaney's work with an inexperienced squad, taken over on late notice, was noted by New England college coaches as a remarkable bench performance.

He Weds This Week

Mullaney, who will be married this Saturday in New York to Miss Anne Zipp of Long Island, was highly praised by Gen Ernest Harmon, Norwich president, who stated that the Cadets were sorry to see Joe go, but did not want to stand in the way of his advancement.

The Friars' new coach succeeds Vin Cuddy, who steps up to the post of coordinator and assistant director of athletics at Providence to Fr. Begley.

Joe graduated in 1943 from Chamindade High in Long Island, N. Y., where he had been All-County guard selection for two years as captain of his quintet. He then joined Uncle Sam's Air Corps, as a second lieutenant flying a B-26, but found time to play a little basketball. Mullaney won a trophy for being the most valuable player in the Southeast Flying Command in 1944.

The young coach entered Holy Cross in 1945 and along with his present freshman coach at Providence, Ernie Calverly, who was at Rhode Island State, was chosen to the All-New England and All-Boston Garden teams, the only freshman so honored.

Excelled in Play-Making

Mullaney was the expert play-maker for Holy Cross in his first two years, and scored 18 points against Navy in the opener of the 1946-'47 N. C. A. A. championships in New York's Madison-Sq. Garden, which the Crusaders won.

Joe turned pro, playing with the Celtics under his ex-college coach, Doggie Julian, in 1949-'50, and then coached at St. Mary's Academy, Glens Falls, N. Y., before entering the FBI as a special agent.

Retiring from this field, Joe was picked by Julian to aid him as freshman coach at Dartmouth early last fall. Hardly had Joe got his "feet wet" as a college coach when Norwich, seeking a coach in a hurry, took Joe on Julian's advice.

With a green club and only two week's notice to learn the abilities of his squad, Mullaney, teaching sound defensive basket ball, wound up by winning the state title with the Cadets.

Basket ball runs naturally in the Mullaney family. His dad captained his Long Island High School team in 1917 and his brother, Dave, played at both Holy Cross and the Naval Academy.

Mullaney's first desire was to go to Notre Dame as a collegian, but now he may wind up coaching against them some day—or night.

Norwich Five He Directed Had 18 and 6

By BARNEY MADDEN

Joseph A. Mullaney, former Holy Cross basketball star and last season highly successful coach at Norwich University, yesterday became the new basketball coach at Providence College.

Mullaney, 31, former Air Force officer and captain of the Crusaders' 1947 NCAA championship team, succeeds Vin Cuddy. Cuddy left the coaching ranks at the conclusion of the past season and became coordinator of athletics at Providence College.

The new Friar coach was presented to Rhode Island press, radio and TV representatives by the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., P. C. athletic director and chairman of the committee which selected the new coach.

Mullaney is anything but a stranger to Rhode Island hoop fans. During his undergraduate days at Holy Cross he played the Friars, Brown and Rhode Island, impressing with his sagacity as a player and his deftness as a play-maker.

Slender and far from tall, as basketball stars go, Mullaney generally was regarded as the "quarterback" of the great teams Doggie Julian produced at Worcester. In fact Julian was so high on his as a player and so convinced that he would become a fine coach, that he brought him to Dartmouth with him, as freshman coach, last season.

However, shortly before the opening of the college campaign, Mullaney was offered the varsity coaching position at Norwich and accepted. His team had an overall record of 18 victories, six defeats but went 18-3 before losing its final three games on a New York swing. Under him, Norwich won its first Vermont state conference championship in 24 years.

Mullaney is confronted by a big problem as he assumes charge of the Friars. With the opening of their new gymnasium, the Friars will play an especially exacting schedule next winter, meeting such court greats as Holy Cross, Notre Dame, St. John's and Georgetown, in addition to their favorite foes, Brown and Rhode Island.

The former bomber pilot's problems are not confined to basketball, for he plans to return to Rhode Island soon and start house hunting. Mullaney and Anne Marie Zipp of Flushing, L. I., will marry Saturday at St. Andrew's church in that city. The Rev. Michael Pierce, S.J., executive assistant to the president of Holy Cross, will officiate at the wedding.

Mullaney is taking over a team that won nine and lost 13 games last season but inasmuch as eight members of the 1954-55 squad are sophomores, he regards the situation as rather promising.

He doesn't know anything about his players personally and didn't see the Friars play during the past season. However, taking over a team of "strangers" is not entirely new for him.

He became Norwich coach three days before the season opened and changed the system of play after watching his squad practice two days. During his service days he was called upon to coach teams at various air bases around the globe, usually having the squad for two months or less. One of his better teams was the Smyrna Air Base quintet.

The new Friar coach played his high school basketball at Chaminate High, Mineola, L.I., and did most of the coaching in his senior year. His war service came between his high school and college days. After being graduated from Holy Cross, Mullaney was with the Boston Celtics for one season but decided the pro game wasn't for him. He then became basketball coach at St. Mary's Academy, Glens Falls, N. Y., and two years later resigned and joined the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was located on the West Coast for two years after which he joined the Dartmouth staff.

During his college days Mullaney played with George Kaftan, now studying dentistry at Georgetown; Bobby Curran, U. of Massachusetts coach; Frank Oftring, who starred on the Quonset NAS team before entering Holy Cross and, in his senior year, Bob Cousy. Mullaney concentrated on "feeding" such high scorers at Kaftan and Cousy. Not a heavy scorer, because of the particular role he played in the Crusader attack, Mullaney did win several games by his remarkable set shooting from far out.

As to systems of play, Mullaney is open minded. He tries to adjust the style of play to suit the talents of his players rather than make them conform to some pre-ordained plan.

Twenty coaches were considered for the P.C. position. Father Begley was chairman of the selection committee, which comprised the Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., as faculty representative; George (Birdie) Tebbetts, manager of the Cincinnati Reds; Joseph Fay and Dr. Francis A. Holland, alumni members; Harry Toole, student representative, and the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of the college.

P.C. Took Long Look Before Selecting Coach

By JOHN HANLON

The announcement was a simple thing. Joe Mullaney, it said, was the new basketball coach at Providence College.

But the work that made this announcement possible was complex and far-reaching. It was nearly two months of looking, talking, balancing and hoping, weeding-out and weighing, all to find what college authorities considered the right man for the job.

Some of the requirements that this right man had to have were outlined yesterday by the Rev. A. B. Begley, the PC Friars' athletic director and the man in charge of the search.

"We looked for a man with some varsity experience," he said, "either as head coach or assistant. Then we looked into his background as to how he got along with his players and with the administration.

"We also wanted an 'inspirational' man . . . I feel that a basketball coach's job is to inspire the boys, as much as to lead them . . . and we also wanted a man who would be 'good' for the college, who could represent us."

able. Later I talked to him when we had many applicants."

With the announcement that Vin Cuddy, then the Friars' coach, was moving into the administrative side of the field, applications picked up.

But there was an odd hitch. The first story that went out on the news wires hinted that Ernie Calverley, Cuddy's assistant, was in line for the job. Ernie, as it developed, was not, but several applicants said later that at first they were scared away by this report.

'Great Grapevine'

So it was a week or more before word got around. . . . "There's a great grapevine in sports," Father Begley said . . . and then the applications came in rapidly. In all, there were "more than 20."

In addition, the school sounded out a few men in which it had an interest. Most of these were satisfied where they were or not interested, but they suggested others. And alumni or friends came up with other names.

Intangibles

There were many others, intangibles for the most part, that Father Begley and his committee recognized when they saw them, but were hard to describe.

In many ways, this search is a painful thing because even when it's done and the man selected, it can be months or even years before it is known for sure that the choice was a proper one.

But the search is designed to reduce the chance to the lowest possible minimum and, in selecting Mullaney, the former Holy Cross star, the authorities are as certain as anyone can be that their choice is a good one.

Father Begley began looking soon after the past basketball season ended. The preliminaries took the form of "sounding around," finding who was available and, for the school's part, determining just what they wanted.

"I talked with several men high in the basketball field," Father Begley said. "For instance, I talked with Bill Mokray . . . he's sort of in charge of basketball at Boston Garden. I talked to him first when he was out at the basketball coaches' convention in Kansas City, to find out who was there and avail-

"By the end of it," Father Begley said, "we had many, many more than those 20-odd names. But the 20 were the ones who applied and those were the only ones we considered."

Then came the weeding-out. The athletic council met twice and finally reduced the candidates to, according to Father Begley's interesting term, "about six."

That ended the work of Father Begley and his committee. The names were submitted to higher authorities of the school and the choice was made.

Why Mullaney?

The specific reasons, naturally, are confidential, but there are a few generalizations.

He had the right amount of varsity experience; he was head coach at Norwich last season, his first. His record (18-6) was impressive, considering he took over the team shortly before the season opened.

He is a personable man of 31, with a player's knowledge of the game. He is a "name," in a sense, and, as important as anything, his recommendations from Norwich and elsewhere were startlingly good.

Thus Providence College has a basketball coach. It's as simple as that.

New Hoop Coach at Providence

Mullaney Faces Toughest N. E. Job After Only Four Months Coaching

By ERNIE ROBERTS

Joe Mullaney—who wanted to be a basketball coach since he was 14 years old—today has his wish but he faces the toughest assignment in New England college circles.

After only four months' coaching experience, the 31-year-old former Holy Cross hero grabbed off the Providence College job. But with it Joe got the toughest schedule in Friar history.

Next Winter—Joe's first on the new job—Providence will play Notre Dame, Holy Cross, St. John's and other national ranking quintets.

"I guess things happen fast in basketball after all. I wasted five years by trying pro ball and the F. B. I. Then Doggie Julian (his old coach) gave me the Dartmouth freshman coaching position last Winter. I never got to Hanover because the Norwich varsity job was available. And now after one season I'm here as Providence coach," said Mullaney last night.

There is no question that the Friars are aiming high in basketball. Not since the 1930 days of Coach Al "General" McClellan have they pointed so far. Now Mullaney has a new $2,000,000 gym, a squad which is three-quarters from the New York metropolitan area . . . and that back-breaking schedule.

"Well, I've wanted to be a coach since I was in high school. Let's see what happens," said Mullaney, who emphasized defense to push Norwich to an 18-6 record and the Vermont state title last Winter.

Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, Providence athletic director, said "We're not going big-time. We intend to stay within our own league and play primarily New England opponents. However, we will attempt to play a few inter-sectional games.

"Since we have dropped football, the emphasis is on basket ball . . . and the administration would have no objections to having it progress as far as Holy Cross," he added.

Which would indicate that if Mullaney can produce, Providence will, too. The Friars have little basket ball competition from Brown, Rhode Island, in the doldrums at present, is 35 miles out of Providence.

Mullaney himself was known as the "brain" of the 1947 national champions from Holy Cross. He was the floor leader of the Crusaders and later played a year of pro ball with the Celtics.

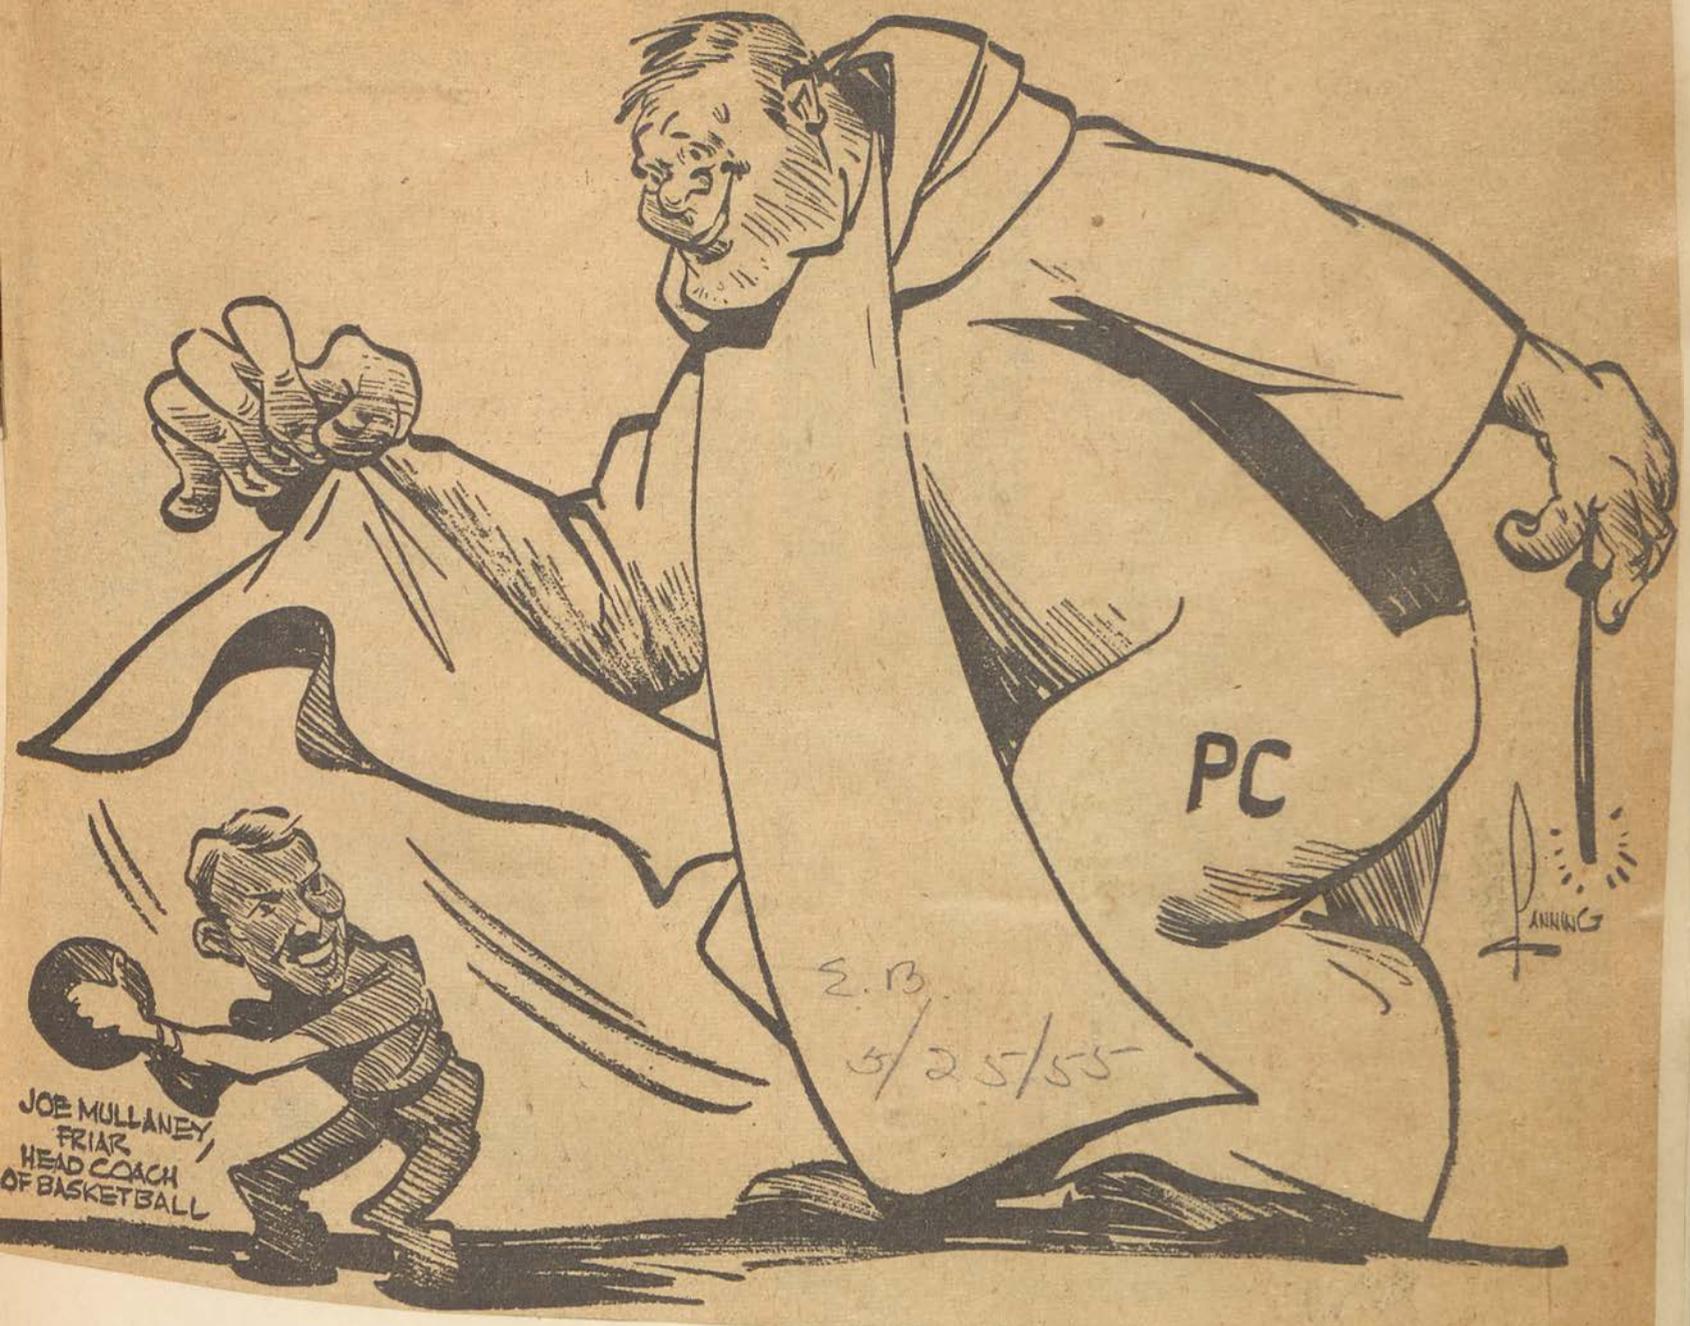

"I think that was a mistake now," said Joe frankly yesterday. "I knew I wouldn't last with the pros and I passed up a chance for college coaching at the time."

As it was, the thin, blond guard from Elmhurst, Long Island, spent almost five years away from basket ball after that. But he got back in the game last Winter and has made the fastest progress in N. E. history since then.

The first Providence game in the new gym will be played against Brown next Dec. 3. On hand for the occasion will be the Fabulous Five of 1931, comprising Jack Kreiger (now Rev. Anselm Kreiger of St. Bonaventure), Bill McCue, Ed Wineapple of Salem, Larry Wheeler of Lowell and Stan Szidla of Newport, R. I.

Joe Mullaney, Holy Cross Grad, Named Friar Basketball Coach

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars, stepping up their basketball program with the completion of their new $2,200,000 Alumni Hall gymnasium, named Joseph (Joe) Mullaney, former Holy Cross star, as their new coach yesterday.

Mullaney comes to the Friars after playing experience on several outstanding Holy Cross teams, a year with the Boston Celtics, and coaching experience at high school and college levels. Last season he coached the Norwich University squad, which had an 18-6 mark and won the Vermont state title.

A former Air Force pilot and FBI agent, Mullaney succeeds Vin Cuddy, who coached the Friars for the past six seasons. Cuddy was recently named coordinator of athletics at PC and will work in close co-operation with the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., Friars' athletic director. Father Begley introduced Mullaney to the press yesterday at a reception in Aquinas Hall.

3-Year Pact?

A sandy-haired individual with a pleasant personality, the new PC coach faced a battery of writers, radio and TV men here and in Boston yesterday. He drove up from Long Island in the morning and signed his contract, believed to be for three years, after a meeting with the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College.

Mullaney said he had never set foot on the Providence College campus until recently and didn't catch the Friars in action last season. However, as a collegian he figured prominently in victories the Cross scored over Brown, PC and Rhody. He recalled a game in which the Cross pulled out a 59-50 decision over the Friars in the Providence City gym.

Mullaney played for the Crusaders in their era of greatness under Alvin (Doggy) Julian and after service as a pilot of B-25 bombers in World War II. The Cross, which included Bob Cousy, Bob Curran, Dermie O'Connell, Ken Hagerty, Mullaney, Frank Oftring, George Kaftan, Andy Laska and Matt Forman at various times, compiled a string of 26 straight at one stretch and met some of the top teams in the nation.

Feeder

Frequently compared with a football quarterback, Mullaney was a feeder for Kaftan and others. He played some fine ball the year the Cross won the NCAA championship, beating Oklahoma, CCNY and Navy for the title. A year later Kentucky, with Ralph Beard, Wah Wah Jones and Alex Groza, took the Crusaders into camp. The Crusaders were the first Eastern team ever to win the NCAA title, since won by La Salle among others.

Mullaney has had a rapid rise in the coaching field. He left the FBI to return to coaching as Julian's assistant and freshman coach at Dartmouth. However, the Norwich job opened shortly before the start of last season and Mullaney stepped in and had a fine year as coach of the Cadets. His team had an 18-3 mark, but dropped its last three, for an 18-6 record for the year.

The Friars are confident that Mullaney is the type of coach they have been seeking although it isn't an easy job that he is stepping into. The Friars, under Cuddy, won eight of their last 12 and some players gained necessary experience that should prove helpful in the coming year.

Mullaney says he will fit his system to the players after he has a chance to watch them awhile. He has played a ball handling game in the past. Last season his Norwich quintet had an enviable non-fouling record that was second best among the small schools nationally.

16 Home Games

Mullaney is happy with his new post and looks forward to next season when the Friars will have a fairly good nucleus but a rugged schedule as well.

Providence will play 16 home games on its new court, which may accommodate up to 4,000, including contests with Notre Dame, Holy Cross, Brown, Georgetown, University of Rhode Island and St. John's. The Fighting Irish, playing their first hoop game in Rhody although they have met the Friars in baseball during the late Jack Flynn's coaching era, will meet PC on their eastern swing which includes games with Holy Cross and Navy.

Mullaney had a busy day yesterday and perhaps he has never had such a busy week. The new Friar coach is being married to Anne Marie Zipp of Flushing, L.I., on Saturday. Up until last weekend he had been dickering over the PC job. The Mullaneys plan to live in Providence and Joe and his bride will be shopping for an apartment shortly.

PC's New Gym—Looking Ahead

E.B. 5/31/55

By GEORGE C. POPKIN

Truly at home in the atomic age is the new $2,000,000 Providence College gymnasium whose massive walls of brick and glass have recast the campus skyline.

Here a student will be able to dine, get a shave, fire on the rifle range, watch television, play ping pong, listen to recorded music, read a book, hold a club meeting, exercise, practice golf, play squash, or just sit in the lounge and doze.

He also will be able to see a basketball game. This coming season the attractions will include Notre Dame.

The seating capacity of this gymnasium of many purposes is roughly 3,500. The permanent seats total 944 with the rest being of the folding bleacher variety.

Complete to Sun Decks

Alumni Hall is one of the more unusual gymnasiums built in recent years. It even has two sun decks which can be converted into outdoor dance pavilions. The powder rooms for women will be in pink. Rest rooms for men will be decorated in gray.

It is located south of Admiral Street and runs parallel to River Avenue. The main entrance is on Cumberland Street, which has been widened to handle the heavier traffic anticipated. A series of steps leads into a spacious foyer which has a ticket window at either end. Straight ahead will be show cases containing trophies snared in inter-collegiate competition through the years.

Another entrance of some proportions is adjacent to the campus proper. It faces toward Harkins Hall and a terrace there opens onto a cafeteria and lounge in the basement.

The cafeteria will function from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. and will be open to the public, although it is primarily intended for the student body. It can feed 450 persons at one time.

New Wall Treatment

It has acoustic plastic in the ceiling to deaden sound and a terrazzo floor. Its walls will be covered with a new type of material which is something like wallpaper and gives a mural effect. Among the cafeteria's attraction is a soda fountain.

The area can be used for dinner dances. Its posts, when decorated, add to the effect for such occasions.

The lounge will contain a post office and cloak room. Right next to it will be a barber shop.

On the first floor are the gymnasium's three basketball courts for intra-mural games. For a varsity game, side court baskets will be raised to the ceiling automatically to clear the center of the stage for perfect visibility.

The bleachers are on all four sides of the main court and can be pulled out by sections, depending upon the size of the crowd. They can be removed entirely and a platform set up for a play or assembly. In such a case, it is estimated that the gym can hold 5,000 persons.

Snack Bar Included

Electrically operated scoreboards are to be at either end of the gym. Refreshment stands will be located at both ends of the second floor where the permanent seats are installed.

The gym floor is a floating proposition to give it resiliency. It has four layers. First there are loose wood boards. A layer of bituminous fill, a sand-like substance, covers that. Diagonal pieces of lumber are on top of that, with the maple floor itself giving it a surface pleasing to players and spectators, for different reasons.

Vents near the floor surface remove foul air. Steam heat will be furnished from a newly installed heating plant. Light is provided by no less than 104 light fixtures in the ceiling, all of which can be reached through a cat walk under the roof.

Drinking fountains on the playing floor especially for the athletes is one of the more unusual features.

The third floor, incidentally, boasts two large rooms which will serve as sleeping quarters for visiting teams. The visitors will have their own locker rooms on the ground floor, just to protect their privacy during skull practice.

Ready for Helicopters

The sun decks are covered with a rubbery substance newly discovered. Helicopters could be landed on them, if it ever comes to that. This is what you call looking ahead.

An unusual room is a fireproof vault for keeping money, precious records and other important material. It is near the athletic director's office and the offices for the sale of reserved tickets.

Over the student lounge will be another lounge, for the alumni who should visit the place. Next to this large room is another which will be used for reception purposes by the college president.

Down in the rear of the basement will be ROTC rooms for map reading and other indoor sports of the Army. Nearby will be elaborate rifle ranges. Targets will sit on steel plates, well sandbagged to prevent ricocheting and noise.

Variety of Uses

Among the many other rooms in the huge building are a general exercise room for boxing and weight lifting, faculty shower rooms, and additional rooms whose use is still undetermined.

A series of squash and handball courts on the second floor offer another unusual touch to the rambling edifice. The rooms are sound-proof. To get in, you enter through a tiny door and come into bare rooms with unusually high ceilings and tall, broad walls.

The corridors which run around the gymnasium court have been sound-proofed so that any conversation there will not blend with the cheers and jeers of the sporting fraternity, disrupting the context.

Four stairways, one at each side of the building, will allow the gym to be emptied swiftly. A complete emergency lighting setup dependent upon a generator driven by natural gas is ready to serve should the lights fail.

The building will create more space in Harkins Hall which now houses a cafeteria and offices that can be reemployed for lecture rooms and other purposes.

Expectations are the gymnasium will be completed in the next month or thereabouts. It likely will not be dedicated until the fall semester.

P.C. Dedicates New Alumni Hall

Several Hundred See Bishop McVinney Bless Gymnasium

Alumni Hall, Providence College's spacious new multi-purpose gymnasium, was blessed and formally dedicated yesterday by the Most Rev. Russell J. McVinney, D.D., Bishop of Providence.

After the dedication, the building was opened to "everyone in Rhode Island" who wanted a look at it, and, in spite of the hot, muggy weather, several hundred persons accepted the all-inclusive invitation that had been made by the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., college president.

The center of interest was the basketball arena, with its broad playing floor of hard white maple and its banked seats for 3,500 spectators.

Ranged around the court on three floors are administrative offices, locker rooms, handball courts and such refinements of latter-day athletic accommodations as sleeping quarters for visiting teams.

Cost More Than $2-Million

In the basement is a large cafeteria and adjoining recreation room, various utility and storage rooms, and a complete ROTC center, including a rifle range.

Alumni Hall, which cost more than two million dollars and took two years for the Gilbane Building Co. to construct, is complete except for some interior furnishings and the installation of such equipment as lockers. It is expected to be ready for full use in time for the fall term.

The ritual for the blessing of the building began at a temporary altar in the front lobby with the singing of "Come, Holy Ghost." Bishop McVinney and his attending priests then proceeded out through a side door and came around to the front steps.

At the top of the steps the Bishop sprinkled holy water on the outer wall and, in the Latin of the ritual, asked Almighty God to grant peace and health to all who enter the building.

The ritual was concluded in a meeting room on the second floor, where the Bishop again sprinkled holy water and then hung a wooden crucifix on the wall.

Silver Key Is Presented

Assisting in the ceremony were Father Slavin, deacon; the Rev. Stephen McCormack, O.P., sub-deacon; the Rev. Charles V. Reichart, O.P., cross bearer; the Rev. Edward Putz, O.P., and the Rev. Charles McHenry, O.P., acolytes; the Rev. Louis Ryan, O.P., thurifer; the Rev. Lloyd A. Mahler, O.P., holy water bearer; the Rev. William Hinnebusch, O.P., crosier bearer; the Rev. David O'Connell, O.P., book bearer; the Rev. John D. Kenney and the Rev. Thomas Fallon, O.P., cantors.

A silver key to the building was presented to Father Slavin by R. Jackson Smith, A.I.A., a partner of Eggers and Higgins of New York City, architects for the building.

Materials for the building came from as far away as Italy, which supplied the marble for the front lobby, and from as close as Anthony Corrado's cement block plant, about two blocks away, Smith said. He described Corrado's cement block as "one of the finest we've used."

A leading consideration in planning the building was simplicity of maintenance, Smith said.

He said Alumni Hall was undoubtedly one of the larger, and certainly one of the most modern, athletic plants in this part of the country, but no competitor in size for some of the university plants in the South and Midwest.

Eggers and Higgins, for instance, is now working on a basketball arena for Indiana University that will seat 17,000, or more than Madison Square Garden, Smith said.

Courts to See Plenty of Use

The basketball courts in Alumni Hall will see plenty of use. Brown University, in a Dec. 3 game, will be the first home opponent.

The lengthy home schedule was posted prominently in the lobby directly behind the temporary altar, and one open house visitor was heard to remark that he hoped Bishop McVinney had included the schedule in his blessing.

Among those who turned out for the open house were many nuns from the college's summer school of theology. They seemed as excited by the building as if they were going to use it themselves. A source of mystification to some of them were the four handball courts which are entered from a second floor corridor through tiny doors about four feet high.

A three-year-old, looking down on the basketball court from the glassed-in mezzanine, said he'd like to play down there.

Swimming Pool Comes Later

Although the cafeteria is in the basement, it enjoys natural lighting through floor-to-ceiling windows along the outside wall where broad steps descend from ground level.

A new steam plant has been built to serve the gym, and it has the capacity to serve the entire college plant, although it is not now connected to the other buildings. Eventual plans call for construction of a swimming pool as part of the gymnasium.

About half of the space in the basement will be used by the Providence College ROTC unit, allow it to bring under one roof a program which until now has been scattered through several campus buildings.

Other features of the building include a student health center, general exercise rooms, six squash courts, a golf practice room, band room, training room, steam room, barber shop and an alumni meeting center with conference rooms for the Board of Governors.

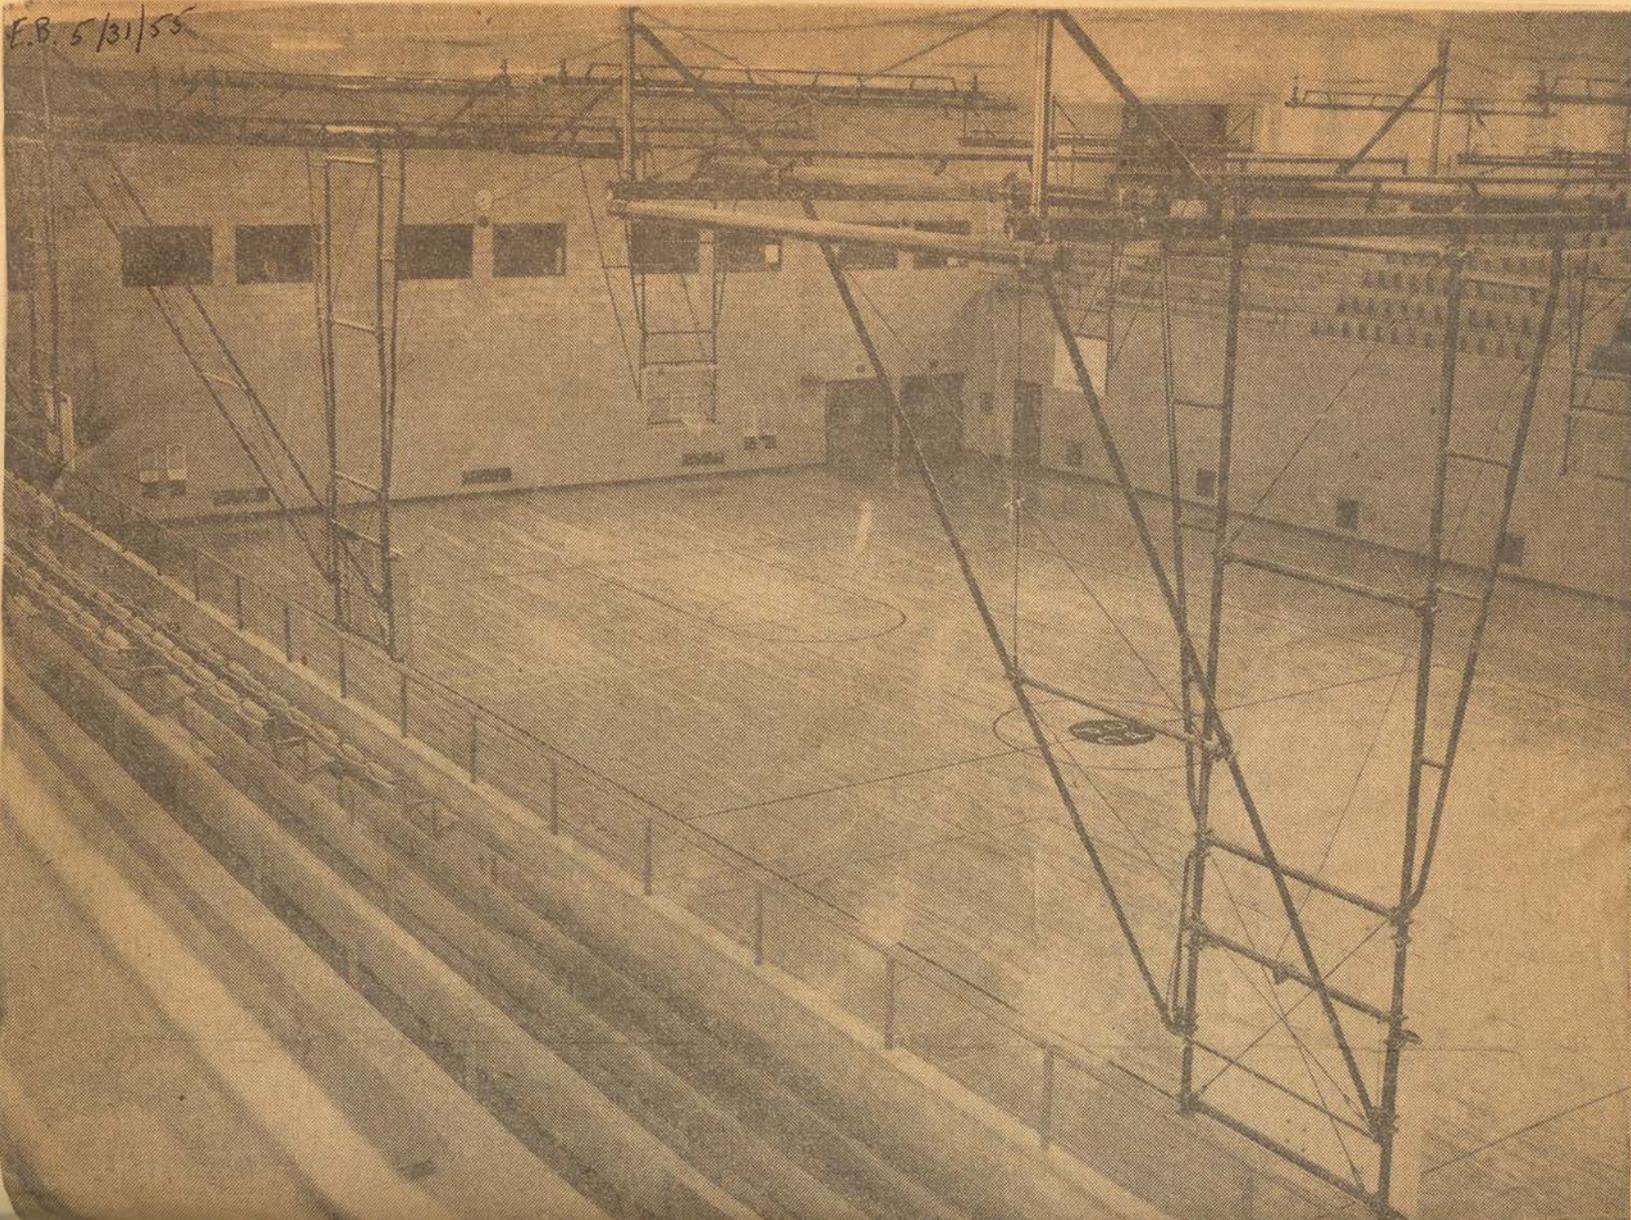

Ventilators and blowers control the air throughout the building and were functioning smoothly yesterday.

Friar Harriers Meet Manhattan Tomorrow

The Providence College cross-country team will open its home season tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, playing host to the IC4A champion Manhattan team in a five-mile test that will start and finish at Hendricken Field.

Greatly strengthened by the group that led last year's Freshman squad to an undefeated season, the Friars nosed out St. John's and finished a close second to Army in their opening effort at West Point last week.

For Saturday's run, Coach Harry Coates has named Rod Boucher, Joe Madden, Billy Hanlon, Al O'Brien, Bob Ruggieri, Mike McDonough, Ed Nelson, Gerry Farley, Phil Desrochers, Bernie Carroll and Tom Jackvony.

Manhattan's hopes rest with Bob Sbarra, Bill St. Clair, Ed McLaughlin, Josh O'Donnell, Andy DePhillips, John Gormally, the ex-La Salle Academy star, Gerry Mualloy, Jim Doulin, John Connolly and Phil Rios.

P.C. Harriers Bow, 24-35, To Manhattan

Manhattan College's cross-country team took a 24-to-35 victory over the Providence College harriers yesterday at Hendricken Field.

Bob Sbarra, a lean senior, took over from Rod Boucher and Bill Hanlon of P.C., the early leaders, on the second lap of the five-mile course and gradually pulled away for an easy 60-yard victory. Boucher and Hanlon followed in that order but the Jaspers then landed Bill St. Clair, Gerry Malloy and Andy DePhillips before Joe Madden romped in for the Friars. The next five men were all from Manhattan. John Gormally, former La Salle Academy ace, came in 11th.

Sbarra was timed in 24:44.1, which establishes a record for the new course at Hendricken Field.

Friars List Hoop Schedule Of 23 Games

The Providence College Friars will play a 23-game basketball schedule, featuring several of the nation's outstanding teams, according to an announcement today by the Rev. Aloysius B. B. Begley, O.P., athletic director for the Friars.

With the opening of their new two million dollar gymnasium, the Friars are expanding their basketball program under Coach Joe Mullaney, former Holy Cross standout. Mullaney succeeded Vin Cuddy as PC coach, with Cuddy taking over a new position as co-ordinator of athletics and assistant to Father Begley.

The new schedule features the first appearance of the Notre Dame University basketball squad in Rhode Island. The Fighting Irish have met the Friars in baseball but this is the first meeting on the court.

After several seasons in which they played the balance of their games on the road, the Friars will have 16 home dates in new Alumni Hall and seven games on the road. Among the seven away contests are games with Brown, Rhode Island and Boston College and a contest with Tufts at Boston Garden.

The gymnasium will be opened with the Brown-PC game on Dec. 3 at which time many of the former Friar basketball greats will be guests of the college at a dinner and sports program.

Georgetown, St. John's, Holy Cross, and St. Francis will be seen on the PC court as well as Brown, Rhody, Boston College and others. PC is meeting the Hoyas for the first time in basketball.

The complete schedule:

December 3. Brown University; 6 at University of Rhode Island; 7. at Assumption College; 10. St. Francis; 12. Tufts at the Boston Garden; 14. Fairfield; 17. Colby.
January 5. St. John's; 8. at St. Anselm's; 11. American International; 14. Springfield; 28. Georgetown.
February 1. University of Rhode Island; 4. New York Athletic Club; 9. Bates; 11. Boston University; 14. Notre Dame; 16. at Boston College; 18. Boston College; 22. Holy Cross; 25. at Springfield; 29. at Brown.

Friar Harriers Sweep B.U.

Special to The Journal-Bulletin
Newton, Mass. — Providence College made a clean sweep of its varsity and freshman cross-country meets with Boston University here yesterday, the P.C. varsity winning, 26-31, and the Freshmen, 19-44.

Bill Hanlon led the Friar varsity harriers, beating out teammate Rod Boucher for the first time this season. Hanlon's margin was about 10 yards in a close battle to the wire. Anthony Patrilllis took third for B.U., about 100 yards back. George Terry, the Terriers' IC4A cross-country champion, placed fifth.

Hanlon's time for the 4.5-mile course was 19:53.5.

The victory was the Friars' third in five meets this season. They will close out their dual-meet schedule Tuesday against Brown over the Bruins' course. A victory would give them the state college championship as they already have defeated the University of Rhode Island.

Tom Cummings led the P.C. Freshmen across the 3.5-mile route in 15:16. Don Lendry, former La Salle Academy star, finished second for the B.U. frosh.

Friars 2nd to Maine In N.E. Harrier Meet

Boston (AP)—Paul Firlotte, University of Maine runner from Lewiston, won individual honors by a five-second margin yesterday with a 24:24 clocking in the New England Intercollegiate Cross-Country Meet at Franklin Park.

Firlotte, who took second in the varsity event a year ago, finished the slightly more than four-mile distance just ahead of Bob Horn of the University of Massachusetts, who was timed at 24:29.

Firlotte's performance helped Maine take the team title with a low of 42 points. Providence College was second with 68 points, with the other entries finishing as follows:

Massachusetts 83, Connecticut 146, Northeastern 153, M.I.T. 161, New Hampshire 225, Rhode Island 244, Springfield 284, Boston University 313, Coast Guard 314, Tufts 323, Brown 325, Vermont 345. Boston College, Bowdoin and Holy Cross had incomplete teams.

URI'S Hill Leads Frosh
In the freshman race, Tom Hill of the University of Rhode Island crossed the finish line one second in front of Don Johnson of New Hampshire. Hill did the 2½ miles in 13:30 and Johnson in 13:31. Hill is from Cranston.

The freshman team scores: Massachusetts 69, Rhode Island 80, Maine 92, New Hampshire 96, Connecticut 153, Providence 171, Springfield 223, Brown 254, Northeastern 319, Tufts 338.

The top 20 varsity finishers:
1. Paul Firlotte, Maine, 24:24; 2. Bob Horn, Massachusetts, 24:29; 3. Rod Boucher, Providence, 24:31; 4. Lew Steiglitz, Connecticut; 5. Bill Hanlon, Providence; 6. Will Lepkowski, Massachusetts; 7. Sta Farrow, Maine; 8. George Terry, Boston University; 9. Dick Law, Maine; 10. Da Rearick, Maine; 11. Ray Smith, M.I.T.; 12. Joe Madden, Providence; 13. Tom Patrilllis, BU; 14. Dave Vaughn, M.I.T.; 15. Paul Hanson, Maine; 16. Bill Spencer, Northeastern; 17. Tom Flynn, Massachusetts; 18. Bill MacQuattie, Rhode Island; 19. Warren Tyler, BU; 20. O'Brien, Providence.

P.C. Hockey Forces Have Depth, Improved Defense

By JOHN MAYNARD

Dick Rondeau thinks he's going to have a pretty fine hockey team at Providence College this season. By the first of the year he should know for sure.

The Friars have a rigorous early schedule that shows 10 games in December, seven of them against major opponents on the road and five of those games within an eight-day period from Dec. 9 to Dec. 17.

If this doesn't bring out the best in them, they can always polish their effort a little more in the Christmas tourney in Boston. They meet Boston University Dec. 26 at the Boston Arena. Then they move to the Lynn Arena for tourney games against Dalhousie University of Nova Scotia Dec. 27 and Tufts Dec. 29.

This writer is weary just from thinking about this fever of activity on ice. But Rondeau, the former Dartmouth scoring ace, doesn't feel it will faze his charges.

Has a Bench Now

"For the first time we have a bench. We'll skate three good lines and have a couple of forwards left over for penalty killing and similar nuisance chores. Our defense will be much better, and you probably won't see any more of those 10-2 and 12-3 scores against us," he says.

The Friars will play the same controlled offensive game that brought them a respectable 8-and-7 record last year and a surprising upset victory over Clarkson Tech.

All five skaters will move inside the blue line when the team is attacking. There will be lots of passing back and forth to shake a man loose for a good, clear shot at the cage.

"I don't go for this shoot, shoot, shoot game. I think a team should control the puck until it has a real opportunity to score. That's why we'll feed and feed until the right man is open.

Squad Has Nice Balance

"The squad has a nice balance of experience and talented newcomers, and I'm pretty sure we'll improve on last year's showing," Rondeau says.

The team's main scoring threat will rest in its veteran first line of Ed Monahan and Bob Reall, wings, and Rod Gorman, center. This trio proved it could score against any defense last year and should be even trickier this season. Reall and Monahan, products of Rhode Island schoolboy hockey, are seniors. Gorman is a junior and a member of the Malden Catholic High School sextet that won the New England schoolboy title in 1953.

On the second line are an all sophomore group comprised of John Cullen, a strapping Canadian skater from Brantford, Ont., Paul Sainato of Malden Catholic and Lou Lafontaine from Hamden, Conn. High School. And skating as a third unit will be a line centered by veteran John Sweeney, with Bernie McCrink and Ted Carter on his wings.

Ex-La Salle Players

McCrink and Sweeney are former La Salle players. Carter is a sophomore from Burrillville. In reserve up front will be Buz Boisvert, Al McMahon and Ed Turcotte.

On the back line the Friars will have four dependable performers led by Mike McDonough, one of the top-scoring defensemen in New England last year. Playing with him will be Paul Lagueux from St. Dominic, another veteran, Roland (Red) Rabitor, all-stater from Burrillville and Ray Blanchette from Notre Dame of Berlin, N.H.

As it has for the past two seasons the goal position still poses a problem for Rondeau. Phil Crawford and Ed Hornstein, a former Mt. Pleasant all-stater, appear to have equal claim to the nets, but unfortunately Rondeau can't play them both at once.

He admits the post is still up in the air and that he may platoon his goalies like Casey Stengel does outfielders. He's hoping that with the defense improved and the pressure off the cage, one or the other may blossom into the No. 1 candidate. Bob Magner, sophomore from Malden Catholic, is out for the season because of a twisted knee suffered in practice.

The Friars have been working out three nights a week at the Auditorium from 10 p.m. until midnight since early October. Rondeau says they're ready right now to tear into their first game with the eastern candidate for the U.S. Olympic six Dec. 2.

How is he going to keep them on competitive edge for two more weeks?

"Well, that's a good question. I'm looking now for teams we can scrimmage against," he says.

The schedule:

Dec. 2, U.S. Olympic team (eastern representatives); Dec. 7, Williams; Dec. 9 and 10, Princeton at Princeton; Dec. 13, Harvard at Cambridge; Dec. 16, Dartmouth at Hanover, N.H.; Dec. 17, RPI at Troy, N.Y.; Dec. 26, Boston University at the Boston Arena; Dec. 27, Dalhousie University of Nova Scotia at Lynn Arena; Dec. 29, Tufts at Lynn Arena.

Jan. 7, Brown; Jan. 10, Harvard; Jan. 14, Yale at New Haven; Jan. 31, Boston University at Boston Arena.

Ramlet Wins Frosh Race

11/8/55 P.B.

The Providence College Friars finished second to Maine and Rhody's Tom Hill won the freshman competition in the New England cross country championships yesterday at Franklin Park, Boston. Maine took the varsity team title with 42 points against 78 for the Friars.

The Friars, rated strong contenders for team laurels, made their best showing by finishing second. Maine's low winning total—all men finishing in the first 15—was exceptional.

Boucher Third

Rod Boucher, a junior from Willimantic, finished third for the Friars, trailing Maine's Paul Firlotte, three-time Yankee Conference champion, and UMass' Bob Horn. Boucher was rated a chance to win as he had made the fastest time over the regular course and was nearly a minute faster than others at the same distance.

With the heavy weekend rains, Fred Tootell of Rhode had to lay out a new course, which was longer than the original. Firlotte ran a fine race and his 24:24 winning time was said to be outstanding considering the footing and the course.

"We knew we had to beat Maine," the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., the Friars' athletic director, said today. "Coach Harry Coates figured we had a good chance but now it's wait until next year. I thought we did a fine job.

Maine Best

"Maine had the best team yesterday but we would have been stronger if Bob Ruggeri hadn't come up with an infection over the weekend. He ran way late but is capable of doing much better. Boucher ran a nice race," Father Begley said.

Bill Hanlon, Frosh winner last year, was with the five or six leaders at the halfway mark. Boucher was seven seconds back of the Maine winner. Boucher, Hanlon and Joe Madden have been the top men with the PC squad that won the State title in dual competition with Brown and URI.

The Friars may or not compete in the IC4A meet next week at Van Courtland Park in the Bronx. If Ruggeri is in shape, they will go according to Father Begley.

With Boucher finishing third, Hanlon was close behind him in fifth. Madden, a Brighton CYO product, was 12th, Al O'Brien of Cranston 20th, and Gerry Farley 28th. Boucher did not compete in schoolboy track as Willimantic had no team. Hanlon was a standout at La Salle and beat BU's George Terry in the Frosh race a year ago.

Rhody Eighth

Rhode Island finished eighth with 244 points, led by Bill MacQuattie, 18th, and Ken Williston, 29th. Ed Sullivan was 25th for Brown, which was 13th in the field with a 325 tally.

Hill, who gave up football, basketball and baseball to take a fling at track, won the Frosh race by one second over Don Johnson of New Hampshire. Hill resides in Cranston and finished second in the NE Prep competition last year in his final year at Moses Brown.

Rhode Island was second in the Frosh race with 80 points while the Friarlets had 171 and Brown 254.

New Yorkers Sweep P.C. Relay Race

La Salle's Quartet, in Fifth, Leads Four Rhode Island Entries

New York relay teams completely dominated the seventh annual Providence College invitational interscholastic four-mile relay yesterday, with three Brooklyn teams and a Mineola quartet having the four best times in the two-heat running of this event.

Bishop Loughlin Memorial High School captured the title with a 19.01.5 performance, 83-10 seconds off the mark set by St. John's Prep last year.

Jim McGuinness started the winners on the victory trail by taking over the lead on the third mile and giving Pete Beyer a 15-yard lead as the anchor mile started. Beyer kept the advantage, although pressed hard midway through the lap by Tom Cawley of St. John's. Beyer finally won by 25 yards. Joe Baxter was leadoff runner and Charlie Goetz number two for the winners.

The Chaminade High School Flyers took the lead on the first mile, as Andy Simons got off to a good start and passed the baton to Bill Smith with a 10-yard lead. Smith kept the position for the second lap, but Jay Bowers gave up the top spot to McGuinness.

St. John's trailed the field on the first mile, moved up to third place on the second round, on Frank Treutlein's hustle and maintained that position on the third mile with Ronnie Colino cutting down the flyer's lead. On the third lap of the anchor mile, Cawley, a smooth runner, made his bid for first place but didn't have quite enough kick to take Beyer.

The second heat of the mile was a thriller, with four local schools competing. George Cushmac of La Salle named to the All-Rhode Island Cross-Country team today, lived up to his billing with a tremendous finish that gave the Maroon a 4.1-second victory over Hope.

The Blue Wave had led all the way, with Pete Augustus, Charlie

O'Connell and Jeff Kenyon outlegging their competitors and giving Dick Middleton a half-lap lead going into the anchor mile. Middleton held the position and led for nine of the 11 laps. Then Cushmac made his bid. Trailing by 30 yards on the gun lap, the La Salle ace put on a spurt that gave him a 25-yard lead at the finish. La Salle's time was 19:52.9.

In the fourth annual Novice Road Race, Roy Hampson of Coventry took top honors over the 2½-mile course, and a leg for his school on the Providence College Spiked Shoe Club Trophy. Mount Pleasant High School, which previously had two winners in Harris Gederman and Bob De Moranville, needs to win only once more to claim the trophy permanently.

The races were run under the direction of Harry A. Coates, Providence College track coach, and Rev. Brother Anthony, F.S.C. athletic director of La Salle. Members of the Rhode Island Timers Guild timed the races.

The summaries:

FOUR-MILE RELAY

Won by Bishop Loughlin Memorial High School (Baxter, Goetz, McGuinness, Beyer); 2, St. John's Prep (Filan, Treutlein, Colino, Cawley); 3, Chaminade High School (Simons, Smith, Bowers, Gododky); 4, St. Francis' Prep (McGannon, Davis, Kennedy, Rorke); 5, La Salle (Dionne, MacIntyre, Wall, Cushmac); 6, Hope (Augustus, O'Connell, Kenyon, Middleton); 7, St. Raphael (Magill, McDevitt, Cahir, McAloon); 8, Warwick (Rathbun, Robinson, Cabot, Dolan). # New P. C. Coach Alternately Encouraged and Downcast

Friar Quintet Needs Spark, Mullaney Says

By JOE McHENRY

Coach Joe Mullaney, sometimes called the quarterback in his playing days with the Holy Cross Crusaders, is looking for just such a guy with similiar talents as he preps his Providence College Friars for the coming basketball season.

Mullaney has been drilling the Friars now for almost a month on their new court in Alumni Hall. This Saturday, Joe puts his team on exhibition to the public for the first time against Stan Ward's Brown Bruins in the first game played in the Friars' new $2,200,000 gymnasium building.

Like every new coach and stage director, Mullaney is both worried and cautious until he sees his product in operation. He has been watching and directing a squad of 17 men daily since Nov. 1 and as yet he isn't entirely sure who will carry the load this season.

'Tougher League'

"I'm better off than I was this time a year ago at Norwich," Joe explained, "but we are still not in the clear. The boys have been working hard and trying. Some days the shooting is fine. Other times they don't look like the same fellows.

"The personnel is better than I had last year but this is a tougher league and it is too early to tell. I think we can do all right with teams in our own league but the way the club goes from hot to cold bothers me.

"Since we started the workouts, I have been looking for several boys who could work together as a team. Some days they do but there has been too much solo stuff. Individual effort is one thing but it takes teamwork to mould a unit in basketball.

"We need a spark. Somebody who can do things and lead the others. If we have any boy like that, I'm still trying to find him. But maybe one will develop as we go along," the new Friar coach said.

The Friars have been working on fundamentals for the most part with an occasional scrimmage with the Frosh, who are coached by Ernie Calverley again this season. Ball-handling, shooting and defensive drills make up a good part of the work.

"We work at half court, five on five, for the most part," Mullaney said. "The kids started out with tremendous enthusiasm but they have bogged down. And playing against the same kids day after day, they get to know each other's mannerisms and defense doesn't mean as much from their point of view."

Hurt by Illness

A year ago the Friars got off to a poor start but were coming in the late season. Center John Ritch showed big improvement with Vin Cuddy's squad last season but he hasn't been consistent so far, according to his coach. Both Cuddy, now the co-ordinator of sports for the Friars, and Mullaney think Ritch has fine potential.

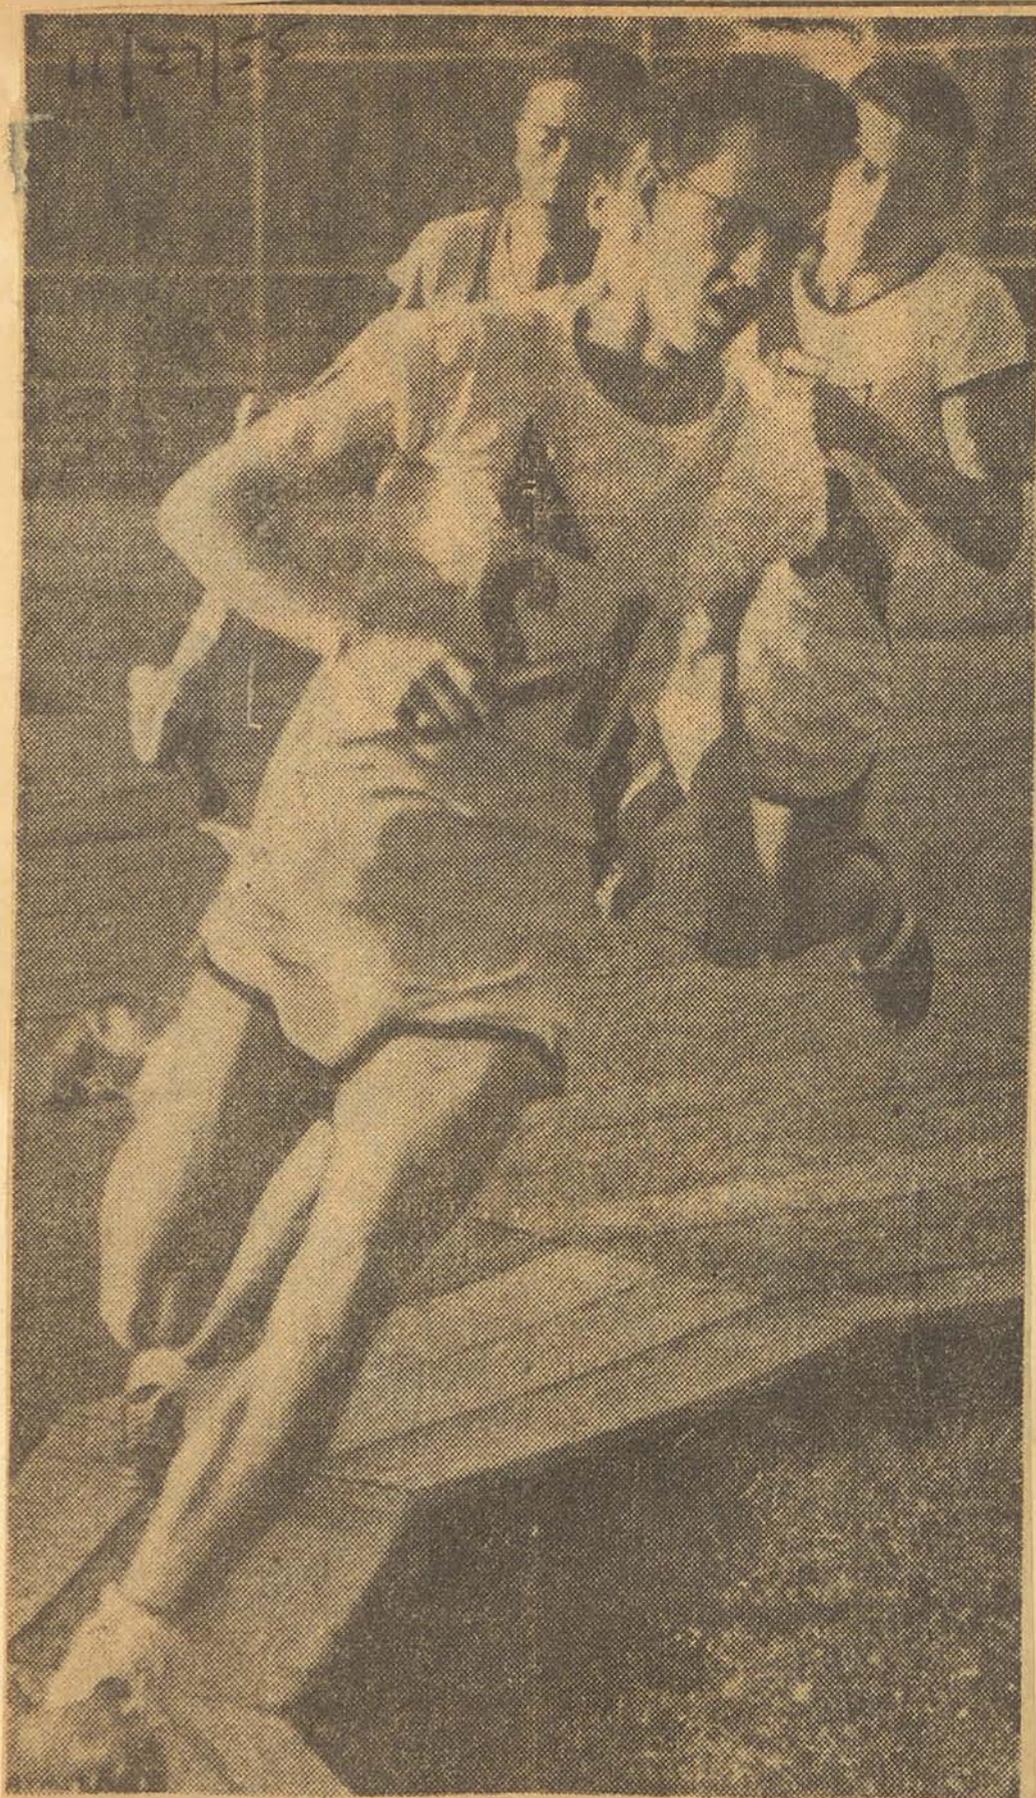

Eddie Donahue, who was out all last season with illness, was expected to be the big gun on this year's squad. He may reach that status eventually but he has shown a tendency to tire and hasn't been playing too soundly. His year lay-off apparently has reduced his effectiveness and left him without as much stamina as before.

If Mullaney had been playing a game yesterday, he might have gone with Frank Williams, Gordie Holmes, Ritch, Pat Grady and Lionel Jenkins. Holmes and Jenkins are Rhode Island schoolboy products from Pawtucket West and Mount St. Charles, respectively. Williams was a good floorman last season. Grady has shown tremendous gain in shooting.

Capt. Donnie Moran has shown flashes of drive and leadership and figures to open against Brown. Mike Pascale, who led the Friars in scoring in the late season last year, and Donahue are offensive threats. Eddie Cahill, a former high scorer at Mount Pleasant High, has been bothered by leg troubles that have cut down his mobility.

The big men are Ritch, Grady and Larry Collamore, according to Mullaney's ratings. His forward-guard squad, and he lumps them all together, includes Moran, Pascale, Williams, Donahue, Cahill, Jenkins, Roland Benoit, Roger Canestrari, Frank Tirico, Holmes, Bob Ferriter, Skip Karam, Ralph Tedesco and Larry Connally.

Close Quarters: The runners were tightly bunched as they came to the second turn on the first lap in the second heat of the Providence College invitation four-mile relay yesterday. Hope's Pete Augustus is ahead, but so close behind that you can barely see his head over the leader's shoulder is Bob Rathbun of Warwick. Bob Magill of St. Raphael is running third and La Salle's Bill Dionne fourth.

Bruins, P.C. To Play in Ice Tourney

AP 1/29/53
Boston—(AP)—The list of college hockey teams competing in the Christmas tourney in the Boston area was completed yesterday. Eleven sextets will play at the Boston and Lynn Arenas including Providence College and Brown.

Other participants are Boston College, Harvard, Clarkson, St. Lawrence, Boston University, Tufts, Northeastern, Holy Cross and Dalhousie University of Nova Scotia.

Each of the local teams will play three games. The Bruins meet Boston College at the Boston Arena, Dec. 26, Tufts at the same place Dec. 27 and Dalhousie at Lynn Dec. 29.

The Friars meet Boston University in Boston Dec. 26, Dalhousie in Lynn Dec. 27 and Tufts in Lynn Dec. 29.

The tournament will have no official winner, although sportswriters covering the event are expected to name an outstanding team.

Former Bruin Headliners On Olympic Hockey Squad

By JOHN MAYNARD

The Eastern Olympic tryout team that plays Providence College tomorrow night at the Auditorium reads like a who's who of recent college hockey stars.

Included on the squad of 28 players are two regulars from last year's Brown team, hard hitting defenseman Bob Borah and goalie Dave Halvorsen. Both are products of the R.I. schoolboy league.

The Olympic candidates meet the Friars in the varsity opener at 7 p.m. Brown and Boston University open their seasons in the second game at 8:30 p.m. At 6 p.m. the Terrier and Bruin freshmen will meet.

Two Squads

The Olympic hopefuls have been working out in Boston for several weeks under the guidance of Harry Cleverly, BU coach. A western group is working out in Minnesota under John Mariucci of the University of Minnesota who will be the U.S. Olympic coach. Mariucci, a former member of the R.I. Reds, is due in Boston Dec. 8. He will look over the Eastern candidates and then help choose an Olympic squad of 17 players.

The team will begin a U.S. tour Dec. 28 at Duluth, Minn., and will work its way eastward, arriving in New England about Jan. 11. No game has been scheduled for Providence, although one was held here in 1952. The Winter Olympics begin at Cortina, Italy, Jan. 26.

The Eastern squad includes five members of the team that represented the U.S. in the world amateur tourney in Europe last winter. They are Don Rigazio of Cambridge, Mass., goalie, Ed Robson of Arlington and Colorado College, Walt Greeley of Harvard, Hank Bothfeld of Princeton and John Titus of Dartmouth, all wings.

Many on the squad are on leave from the armed services including the two Brown players. Borah is an apprentice seaman in the U.S. Coast Guard stationed in Boston. Halvorsen is an ensign aboard the U.S.S. Rooks, a destroyer berthed in Newport. They were co-captains of the Bears last year.

The Eastern squad:

Goal tenders—Joe Carroll, Boston College; Dave Halvorsen, Brown; Don Rigazio, Eugene Erickson.

Defense—Bob Borah, Brown; Len Darrt, Northeastern; Frank O'Grady, BC; Bill Monaghan, BC; John Hansberry, BC; Hig Gould, Yale; Ed Emery, BC.

P.C.'s Fabulous Five Set for a Reunion

By PETE MCCARTHY

Another new college basketball season is upon us and with it a new era in Providence College's athletic history will be launched as the Friars begin play in their new gymnasium.

The lid will be pried off Saturday night when the Friars, under their new coach, Joe Mullaney, will oppose Brown in the inaugural contest. The game itself will be the climax to a gala weekend on Bradley Hill. It's homecoming for P.C. alumni, with the annual Alumni Ball scheduled for Friday night at Harkins Hall, scene of the Friars' basketball activity in the early days. On Saturday there will be a Varsity Club luncheon at noon and supper with the faculty at 5:30 p.m.

College officials are anticipating a large turnout, one that will tax the 3,000-seat capacity of their $2,200,000 gym. And, approximately enough, the team that first put P.C. on the athletic map, the 1928-29 basketball club, has been invited back to the campus as guests of the college.

They have come to be known affectionately in the P.C. family as the "Fabulous Five" and their exploits have been embellished in the retelling down through the years to each new freshman class that has descended on the campus. Not that their accomplishments needed embellishment — they compiled the best record (17-3) in the history of the school. It's just that they made such a mark on their contemporaries, the latter steadfastly refuse to allow their deeds to be dimmed by time. Among P.C. men, whenever the subject of basketball is brought up, you can be sure, if there's an old-timer present, the starting point will always be with the Fabulous Five.

Who are they? First there was Eddie Wineapple, the highest-scoring guard in the nation that year with 278 points. Moderns would scoff at that meager total but it was monumental in those days of low-scoring games when a player was selected to play guard more for his defensive ability than for his scoring. Eddie was the second-highest scorer in the East and was selected on just about every All-America team.

The others were Johnny Krieger, now the Rev. Anselm Krieger, O.F.M., who was the sixth-highest scorer in the East and gained All-America ranking; Captain Larry Wheeler of Providence, Bill McCue and Stan Szydla. The coach of this great team, Albert (Gen) McClellan, and many of the reserves are expected to be on hand, too.

The Gen, for whom the term "character" was originated, at least in the minds of most P. C. men, is now coaching at Belmont Abbey College in North Carolina and is trying to get a game that had been scheduled for Saturday night shifted in order to make the trip to Providence. Failing that, you can bet he'll come up with some other solution to enable him to join in the reunion with his "boys."

The Gen never did forget that team. It's difficult to recall any conversation with him while he was coaching later at Boston College that didn't include a reference to the '28-'29 team. He always maintained that club could have taken any of the great Holy Cross quintets of the postwar era.

You could hardly blame him either when you consider that the Fabulous Five defeated the three top teams in the East that year—Dartmouth, Yale and St. John's—within six days. That was the only loss suffered by St. John's that season and the following season P. C. again handed the Redmen their only setback.

Full House Assured for Opening ## of Friars' New Gym

By PETE McCARTHY

Providence College will unveil its new gymnasium, its new coach and its 1955-56 basketball team all at once tomorrow night when the Friars open their season against Brown. The game, incidentally, is the Bruins' season inaugural, too, and will be preceded by a freshman game between the two schools starting at 7 o'clock.

It's homecoming weekend at Providence College and the large number of returning alumni has already assured a sellout for the 3,000-seat arena. It will mark the first time a P.C. five has played on the campus since World War II. Since then the Friars have played their home games first at City Gym, and for the last several years at Mount Pleasant High School.

Homecoming activities leading up to the game itself promise to make it a big weekend at P.C. and the presence of the Friars' Fabulous Five—the 1928-29 quintet that won 17 and lost only three—will add more luster to the occasion. The most successful basketball team in P.C. history comprised Johnny Krieger, now the Rev. Anselm Krieger, O.F.M., Eddie Wineapple, Captain Larry Wheeler, Bill McCue and Stan Szydla. They will be introduced to the assemblage before the varsity game.

Joe Mullaney, the former Holy Cross and Boston Celtics star, will be making his debut as the P.C. coach, having succeeded Vin Cuddy, who is now coordinator of athletics for the Friars.

Mullaney has inherited a squad of seven returning lettermen from a team that won nine and lost 12 last season but finished strong with seven victories in its last 11 games. One of those losses was a one-pointer in double overtime to Brown and another was a two-pointer to Boston College.

Mullaney has several promising players up from last year's successful freshman squad. However, it doesn't necessarily add up to the conclusion that the Friars are loaded. Actually the problem he's faced with is this: out of a squad of 17, he has not been able to single out, say, five or seven players who stand out above the rest. He rates all of them as good, each with his own special skills—and deficiencies—but has been hard-pressed over the month-long practice period to detect a group of five that would make for the best working unit. He says he is going to have to experiment with several combinations in the early games in hopes of finding the answer.

For a starting team tomorrow, though, he has come up with a largely veteran lineup of John Ritch, 6:6 center holdover from last year; Pat Grady, 6:5 junior; Captain Don Moran, 6:0 senior; Mike Pascale, 6:2 junior; with the fifth man probably to be selected from among Ed Donahue, 6:3 sophomore; Larry Connolly, 5:7 junior; and Ralph Tedesco, 5:11 senior. All except Donahue are lettermen.

In reserve he will have such big men as Larry Collamore, a senior, and Lionel Jenkins, a sophomore and a former All-Stater while at Mount St. Charles; junior letterman Frank Williams and sophomore Frank Tirico.

Coach Stan Ward of Brown, on the other hand, has troubles that make Mullaney's seem rather minor. He lost six of his first seven men from a squad that was able to win only seven of 25 games. In addition he has two other lettermen back.

However, the Bruin coach is far from discouraged. He says he has the "smallest major-college team in the country" but expects by the middle of the season his boys should be "good players by Ivy League standards."

The Bruins' most experienced player is Pete Campisi, a 5:10 senior who scored 124 points last year. The other returning lettermen are Phil Gerould and Captain Charlie Merritt, both seniors, who scored 60 and 40 points, respectively, last season. Each stands 6:3. Rounding out the starting five will be a pair of high-scoring members of last year's freshman quintet. They are Joe Tebo, 5:10, who averaged 20 points a game, and Jerry Alaimo, 6:3, who was a shade behind Tebo with 18.9.

Ward says his bench is an unknown quantity at this stage but expects most of the help in the reserve department will come from Arnold Smith, a 5:9 senior who played little last year; and from two 6:4 sophomores, Max McCreary and Joe Nuttall.

P.C. Lettermen to Honor Keaney and McClellan

Frank W. Keaney and General Al McClellan, whose teams waged some exciting struggles on the basketball court in their coaching days at the University of Rhode Island and Providence College respectively, will be guests of the Varsity Lettermen's Club Saturday at Providence College.

Both coaches had some great teams and outstanding players at Rhody and PC and each has numbered some of the East's crack teams among his victories. The occasion will be a luncheon, starting at noon, in PC's new cafeteria, another highlight in the opening of the Friars' Alumni Hall, one of the finest gymnasium plants in the East.

The Varsity Lettermen's Club is a comparatively new organization made up of lettermen among the PC alumni. Included in its rolls are Hank Soar, Birdie Tebbetts, Charlie Reynolds, Eddie Wineapple, Bobby Moran, Karl Sherry and other Friar sports immortals.

Joe McGee, who coached the Friar football team to its biggest victory, a triumph over the Boston College Eagles, is president of the club and will be toastmaster at the luncheon. Paul F. Mackesey, athletic director at Brown University, will also attend.

The Friars' great basketball team of the 1928-29 season will be on hand. This group, which has been brought together again mainly through the efforts of John E. Farrell and the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., the Friars' athletic director, had a 17-3 record and was a ranking Eastern quintet.

It included Larry Wheeler, Eddie Wineapple, Johnny Krieger (the Rev. Anselm Krieger, O.F.M.), Bill McCue, Stan Sydzla, Mark McGovern, Dr. George Cody, Lou Imbriano and Mickey Foster. All have said they would be present, except Foster. Father Krieger, an exceptional foul shooter whom

Gen. McClellan would match with anybody, has been ill and recently recuperated on the Cape.

McClellan's Friars dropped the Auditorium game to Keaney's Rams one season and then evened things up by beating Rhody in Rodman Hall, which was an almost unprecedented feat in those days. Long time friends and rivals, Rhody's Mr. Basketball and the Gen will enjoy their reunion.

The Friars, coached by Joe Mullaney this season, and Brown will be opening their campaigns with Saturday's first game in PC's $2,200,000 athletic building.

Basketball Bits And a Grid Bonus

By JOHN HANLON

These are busy times on our local sports scene, with one day playfully chasing the other, as Mr. Mencken put it, like kittens chasing their tails. But the result is that several doings tend to get pushed back. Hence, this is a one-shot bid to consider many items, with a special bonus of a slight sermon tossed in at the end.

HANLON

Much of the stress lately has been on fights and football, with special reference to the University of Rhode Island's football game in the Refrigerator Bowl this weekend. But as sure as taxes, the winter-sports season is with us and in fact starts tomorrow.

A major item on the program is the inaugural of Providence College's new gymnasium, which will be dedicated with appropriate festivities before the basketball game with Brown. This gym is a splendid addition to our sports facilities hereabouts; the seating facilities are excellent and the entire setup is of major-league caliber.

Toughest

In a sense, so is the Friars' schedule. Among the teams coming in are St. Francis College, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Boston College and Holy Cross, all of which will make stern testing for the club's new coach, Joe Mullaney, who also is, by the way, another fine addition to our sports scene.

R.I. College-Hockey Season

Opens Tonight

P.J. 12/2/55

P.C., Brown Both Listed on 3-Game Card

By JOHN MAYNARD

The three-month-long college-hockey season opens in Providence tonight, with Brown meeting Boston University and Providence College playing the Eastern candidates for the U.S. Olympic team at the R.I. Auditorium.

Game time is 8:30 o'clock for the Brown-Terrier contest and 7 p.m. for the Friar-Olympic meeting. All three of the college sextets will be opening their seasons. A freshman game between Brown and B.U. is listed for 6 p.m.

In the feature event Jim Fullerton, former hockey coach at the Northwood School in Lake Placid, N.Y., will be making his debut as Brown's head coach. He inherits a team from Don Whiston that has a promising starting six, but little depth. One of its leading scorers, Tommy Thompson, will not report until Christmas vacation or later.

Starting Team

The starting team lines up this way: Capt. Pete Tutless, a fine all-round player, at center, and Georgie Conn and Bill Sepe on his wings. At defense will be Russ Kingman, an all-New England choice last season, and Ken Rider, also a regular on the 1954-55 squad. In the goal will be either Harry Bachelder, a promising sophomore from Peabody, Mass., or Bill Lewis, understudy for Dave Halvorsen last season.

Harry Cleverly's Terriers are on the upswing after two years in the wilderness. They have only one holdover on their starting six — Jack Murphy, an all-New England forward for two straight years. Four others are promising sophomores from last year's freshman team, which had a 14-and-1 record. The other is a junior.

Up Front

Playing up front with Murphy are Tony Cicoria, the lone junior, and Donald MacLeod, a former Needham resident now living on Prince Edward Island in Canada. At defense are Sarge Kinlin, a 24-year-old Navy veteran with wide hockey experience, and Bob Dupuis. In the cage is Ralph Vito, who had a slow start last year, but came along fast.

Dick Rondeau's Friars shape-up as a sextet on which promising sophomores and rink-wise veterans are nicely blended. They could go places in Eastern hockey this season with their strengthened defense and improved bench.

The starting six will have Bob Reall, Ed Monahan and Rod Gorman, all veterans, up front; Mike McDonough and sophomore Red Rabor, a former All-Stater from Burrillville, at defense; and Ed Hornstein, former Mt. Pleasant All-Stater in the cage.

Reall, playing his fourth year at P.C., has been named captain for the third straight season.

P.C.'s opponents are a star-studded lot. Included among the 28 hopefuls on the roster are Bob Borah, and Dave Halvorsen, co-captains at Brown last year and now in the service. Also on the squad are fine players from the U.S. team that competed in the world tournament in Europe last year. They are Don Rigazio, goalie, and Walt Greeley, John Titus, Hank Bothfeld and Ed Robson, wings.

The Olympic candidates have been working out in Boston for several weeks under Cleverly's guidance. A Western group, including Harvard's superstar, Bill Cleary, now in service, is working out in Minneapolis with John Mariucci, the U.S. Olympic head coach. Mariucci will arrive in Boston Dec. 8 and select a squad of 17 players from the Eastern and Western candidates. The final group will then begin a U.S. tour Dec. 28 before heading for Cortina, Italy, site of the winter Olympics.

Providence is not on the tour schedule, so tonight is the only chance to see some of the Olympic performers locally.

Friars Beat Brown

New Era at P.C. Launched With 71-55 Success

By PETE MCCARTHY

Providence College's basketball team successfully launched a new era in P.C. athletic history by defeating Brown, 71 to 55, in the inaugural game in the Friar's new gymnasium last night before an overflow capacity home coming crowd of 3,200.

The Friars, making their bow under their new coach, Joe Mullaney, took command late in the first half and were never headed thereafter as they rolled to victory. Mullaney two-platooned the Bruins throughout the contest, tossing 17 men into the fray. And over the long haul, the Friars wore down their opponent with sheer numbers.

Of the various combinations Mullaney employed, a group composed of four sophomores and one junior provided the most spirited action immediately after the start of the second half.

Inheriting a 28-21 halftime lead, a quintet comprising Lionel Jenkins, Frank Tirico, Gordon Holmes, Roger Canastrari and junior Frank Williams, outspeeded the Bruins in rolling up a 40-25 margin at the 3:30 mark. That splurge just about settled the issue although Brown fought back and closed the gap to seven points and later to five at 51-46 with half the period gone.

At this point the first-stringers Mike Pascale, John Ritch, Larry Connolly and Ed Donahue joined Jenkins in the lineup and boosted the Friars back into a 61-48 bulge. From there, P. C. reserves rode their comfortable advantage to the finish.

Brown made a battle of it for most of the first half as both teams were plagued by the usual opening-game jitters. The score was tied seven times. P. C. led on six occasions and Brown five. For the first 15 minutes, the fortunes of battle switched with almost every score.

Ed Cahill's set shot from the side put P.C. ahead to stay at 22-21 with four minutes to go in the half and the Friars increased their margin to 28-21 at intermission on points by Tirico, Jenkins and Pat Grady.

Brown's Joe Tebo, a sophomore, took down scoring honors for the game with 18 points. Ritch and Pascale paced the Friars with 12 and 11, respectively. Thirteen of the 17 P.C. participants broke into the scoring column.

P.C. outscored Brown from the floor, 24 to 16. Each team converted 23 free throws.

The Brown Freshmen took the opener, 70-60, with Denny Stalica and Al Paulsen pacing the Cubs' attack. Pete Schmenti was high man for the young Friars with 20 points.

John Lydon, a Bruin sub, suffered a knee injury midway through the second half and was treated by Dr. Edwin B. O'Reilly and sent to the Brown Infirmary.

P.C. Bows, 8-3, In Game With East Olympics

Untested sophomores touched off a third-period rally last night that rocketed Brown's hockey team to a rousing 5-3 victory over Boston University.

The contest was the opener for both teams and the feature game of a tripleheader played at the R.I. Auditorium before 2,577 fans.

Providence College started its season with an 8-3 loss to the Eastern candidate for the U.S. Olympic team and the Boston University Freshmen defeated Brown, 4-1.

Paul Prindle, a sophomore from Arlington, Mass., started the Bear varsity on the way to their victory with goals at 7:56 and 9:03 of the third period.

This erased what appeared to be a safe Terrier lead of 3-1 and made it a new game. Ronnie Dashnaw, another sophomore, from Lake Placid, N.Y., put the winners ahead at 17:06 with a tremendous backhand shot from 20 feet out.

Tutless Scores

Thirteen seconds later Capt. Pete Tutless, former all-Stater from East Providence, put the Terriers out of business. He swooped in for a loose puck in front of the B.U. cage and drove it point-blank at Goalie Ralph Vito.

It was a great victory for the Bruins to present to Jim Fullerton, who was making his debut as their coach.

Another sophomore, Goalie Harry Batchelder, played an important role in their victory. He held off the eager Terriers when the Bruins drew overlapping minor penalties at 11:57 and 13:33 of the final period. Batchelder, who played the first and third periods, had 16 saves. Bill Lewis, the other Bear goalie, had 11. Vito had 23.

The Terriers led by 1-0 and 3-1 at the period marks. Their second-period goals came 36 seconds apart and had B.U. rooters screaming. "Roll it up!" The cry proved premature.

The Olympic hopefuls took the lead at 35 seconds of the first period on Hig Goulds' well-placed 20-footer into the far corner and held it all the way.

Although outshot and outshuffled, they were able to build up a 3-1 lead by the end of the period because of their pinpoint shooting. They increased the margin to 5-2 by the end of the second period after they had gotten better organized.

Jim Vigliorolo of Belmont, one of the few non-collegians on the team, led the scoring with two goals and two assists. Sherm Saltmarsh, former Boston College star, and Roger Gibson, former Middlebury player, each had a goal and two assists.

Capt. Bobby Reall scored a goal and an assist for the Friars. The goal was a costly one. Reall crashed headlong into the boards after he had converted Mike McDonough's long shot and had to leave the game because of a strained ankle and knee.

Lou LaFontaine, Friar sophomore, started a fight with Frank O'Grady, former B. C. ace, late in the third period and was banished. O'Grady and Larry Noble of the Olympics and P.C.'s Paul Sainato drew minors for roughing during the same brief melee.

Saves were 26 for P.C.'s Ed Hornstein, and 20 for Dave Halvorsen, former Brown net-tender, and Gene Erickson, the two Olympic goalies.

Brown, R.I. Join P.C. in Paying Tribute to Its Founding Leaders

Tribute was paid yesterday to those responsible for the growth and expansion of Providence College, as returning alumni were welcomed back to Alumni Hall, the college's new $2,200,000 athletic building, which was formally opened for competition at last night's basketball game with Brown.

Officials of Brown and the University of Rhode Island joined with the founding Dominican Fathers and P.C. alumni and congratulated them on their successful development in the 36-year history of the school.

John E. Farrell, '26, the toastmaster at the noon luncheon in Alumni Hall, in turn paid tribute to Brown for its tremendous help in the early days of P.C. athletics.

Farrell, graduate manager of athletics until 1938, said "How wonderful it is that we are playing Brown in our opener tonight. Our best friend was Frederick W. Marvel, Brown's athletic director, and we were favored by his sound advice and generous assistance in getting our athletic program started."

Honored Guests

Honored guests at the luncheon were the members of the 1928-29 P.C. basketball team, which compiled the most-successful record (17-3) in the school's history. The starting five of Johnny Krieger, now the Rev. Anselm Krieger, O.F.M., Eddie Wineapple, Capt. Larry Wheeler, Stan Szydla and Bill McCue, were given a great ovation when introduced by Farrell.

Father Krieger, who is convalescing after two serious operations, sounded the keynote of the team's sentiment when he said, "Providence College did far more for us than we did for the college. We are most deeply honored to be here." Father Krieger regaled his listeners with imitations of his P.C. coach, Al (Gen.) McClellan, and the latter's staunch rival, Frank Keaney, U.R.I. coach at the time, both of whom were honored guests at the luncheon.

McClellan, now coach at Belmont Abbey College in North Carolina, told the college officials how pleased he was to see it fulfill its dream. He recalled many of the highlights of P.C.'s early days in sports and, pausing, turned to Keaney and said, "I'm proud to be at the same table with you, Frank, because you are one of the greatest coaches of all time."

Others Introduced

Keaney, now U.R.I. athletic director, recalled that "The Gen and I never agreed on anything" and said he was pleased to take part in the program because "I know how much you at Providence College deserve to have a building like this."

Others introduced at the head table were the very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College, who gave a short address of welcome and congratulated the 1928-29 team; the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., P.C. athletic director; John Mullaney, P.C.'s new varsity basketball coach; Ernie Calverly, Friar freshman coach; William E. McCabe, P.C. alumni president, and the Rev. James J. Joyce, O.P., '27, a missionary in China recently released after five years' captivity at a Red China prison camp. Father Joyce was a special honored guest of the alumni for the weekend.

After the luncheon, the alumni held their annual business meeting, at which Father Slavin reviewed the progress the school has made in the last year. He disclosed that the Alumni Fund for 1955 has reached a total of $113,742.

Before the game, the homecoming queen, Miss Ann Wall, of Medford, Mass., was introduced and received a corsage from McCabe. McCabe then introduced the 1928-29 team and presented the Alumni Service Award to Father Slavin "for making a reality of our dream."

Overflow Crowd of 3200 Sees Friars Open New Gym by Beating Brown

12/5/55 FR. NEWS HN.

By FRANK McGRATH
Herald News Sports Editor

A new era in the athletic history of 36-year-old Providence College began Saturday night when the Friars opened the basketball season with a 71-55 victory over Brown University.

The victory was sweet, of course to the Friars, their coaches and rooters, but two features in connection with the game made the triumph over Brown secondary, to a certain extent.

Beautiful Gym

The season's opener was the first varsity game in the beautiful gymnasium of Alumni Hall, the college's new $2,200,000 athletic building, and it was played before a sellout crowd of 3,200, just 200 more than the seating capacity.

Actually, the first game in the new gym resulted in a defeat for Providence College Freshmen, who dropped a 70-60 decision to Brown Freshmen, but the varsity victory was a fitting finish to a great day in Providence College history.

Old-Timers Introduced

An interesting prelude to the game was the introduction of Coach Al (General) McClellan and several members of his 1928-29 PC team, known as the Fabulous Five, which compiled a 17-3 record against strong opposition.

The five regulars on the outstanding basketball team in PC history were Ed Wineapple, Johnny Krieger (now the Rev. Anselm Krieger, O.F.M.), Capt. Larry Wheeler, Will McCue and Stan Szydla, all of whom were present Saturday.

Other members of the 1928-29 squad were William Cooley, William Gainer, George Cody Edward Derivan, James Welch, John McCormac.

The Fabulous Friars jumped from obscurity to a national power by successive upset victories over Dartmouth at Hanover (34-32), Yale at New Haven (28-27) and St. John's at Brooklyn (32-30).

Had 17-3 Record

From that auspicious start, the Friars went on to their 17-3 season. Wineapple was second highest scorer in the East with 278 points. The PC record for the previous season was seven wins, nine losses.

Members of the Fabulous Friars were introduced by Bill McCabe, president of the Providence College Alumni Association, and all were greeted with thunderous applause as they lined up on the gymnasium floor.

Coach McClellan, whose Belmont Abbey (North Carolina) team was defeated Saturday while he was hobnobbing with old friends at PC, tossed up the ball to start the PC-Brown game. Before play got underway, however, there was a quick whistle. Al extended his best wishes to the rival captains, and turned the game over to Referees Jim Duffy and Twohey.

Award for Fr. Slavin

Pre-game ceremonies also included the introduction, by McCabe, of Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O. P., president of Providence College, and Miss Ann Wall of Medford.

Father Slavin was presented the first Alumni Service Award "for making a reality of our dream." Miss Wall, the homecoming queen, was presented a corsage.

Sportswriters from many Rhode Island and Massachusetts newspapers, including The Herald News, were dinner guests of the college and had an opportunity to inspect the new gymnasium before the freshman teams took possession.

Making certain that their guests were given every attention before, during and after the dinner were Rev. A. B. Begley, O. P., athletic director; Vin Cuddy, coordinator of athletics and Paul Connolly, formerly of Fall River, sports publicity director.

Opens with Luncheon

First event of the day was a noon luncheon in Alumni Hall, at which the founding Dominican Fathers and PC Alumni were congratulated by officials of Brown University and the University of Rhode Island.

Toastmaster was John E. Farrell, '26, who expressed gratitude to Brown "for its tremendous help in the early days of PC athletics." Farrell was graduate manager of athletics at PC until 1938.

Guests at the luncheon, in addition to members of the Fabulous Five and Coach McClellan, included Frank Keaney, director of athletics at University of Rhode Island.

Introduced were Fathers Slavlin and Begley, varsity Coach Joe Mullaney, freshman coach Ernie Calverley, Alumni President McCabe and Rev. James J. Joyce, O. P., '27, a missionary in China recently released from a Red China prison camp after five years of captivity.

Father Slavlin revealed at the annual alumni business meeting, that the Alumni Fund for 1955 is now $113,742.

Karam Sees Action

In getting their season off to an auspicious start, the Friars led, 28-21, at halftime and outscored Brown, 43-34, in the second half.

Coach Mullaney used 17 players, including sophomore Tom (Skip) Karam of Fall River, who caged three foul shots.

Joe Tebo of Brown was the game's high scorer with 18 points, and John Ritch led the Friars with 12, one more than Mike Paseale.

Providence outscored Brown from the floor, 24-16. They were even on foul points, each caging 23 free throws.

Attracting particular attention because of their exceptional all-around performances were Frank Williams and Lionel Jenkins, guard and forward, respectively.

Following the game, the alumni and others gathered in the dining hall of the new Alumni building and talked over the game and others to come.

It was a great day in Providence College history and a fitting start for what is expected to be a most interesting basketball season.

St. Francis Next

Next home game for the Friars is Saturday night against St. Francis College Terriers of Brooklyn. Then, in order, will be Fairfield, Colby, St. John's (Brooklyn), American International, Springfield, Georgetown, Rhode Island, New York A. C., Bates, Boston University, Notre Dame (Feb. 14), Boston College, Holy Cross, Trinity.

The varsity intercollegiate athletic program at Providence College includes basketball, baseball, hockey, rifle, cross-country and indoor and outdoor track and field. Freshman teams are also maintained in these sports.

Touch football, boxing, basketball, volleyball, badminton, squash, handball and softball are included on the intramural program.

Golf, tennis and swimming teams at PC are on an informal basis at the present time.

Providence College is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, Eastern College Athletic Conference, Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, New England Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association, New England Amateur Athletic Union, and New England College Conference on Athletics.

In addition to officials already mentioned, Rev. Herman Schneider, O. P., is assistant director of athletics; Harry Coates, varsity coach of track and cross-country; Dick Roudeau, varsity hockey coach; Pete Louthus, trainer; Stephen Kazan, equipment manager; Dr. Edwin B. O'Reilly and Dr. William J. Schwab, team physicians; Don Moran, '56, basketball captain; John E. Reidy, '56, basketball manager.

The stars of yesteryear returned to their Alma Mater, Saturday, as honored guests at a luncheon and basketball game between P.C. and Brown.

LAWRENCE "TOADIE" WHEELER, former Newporter and Rogers High sports great, were among the old P. C. stars who were honored at a luncheon before the new Providence College gymnasium was officially opened Saturday. Wheeler was the center on the 1928-29 Friar team which compiled a 17-3 record—the best in Providence's basketball history.

Other regulars on that crack team were Stanley Sydle, who later coached in Newport at De La Salle; the Rev. Anselm Grueger, Bill McCue and Eddie Wineapple, the first New Englander to be hailed as an All-American cager. Coach General Al McClellan, now mentor at Belmont Abbey College in North Carolina where Wheeler's brother Howard is thletic director, joined his old players in the reunion.

Wheeler rates as one of Newport's best all-time athletes. He was an All-New England center twice both in high school and college. One of the hardest right-handed batters in the Sunset Baseball League, Wheeler also shone in schoolboy and college football. He coached for several years at Portsmouth Priory.

P.C.-U.R.I. Basketball Tonight

P. J. 6/5

Shapes Up as Fairly Even Contest

Friars Have the Depth, Rams the Experience

By PETE McCARTHY

Providence College and the University of Rhode Island will renew their basketball rivalry tonight at Keaney Gym in what appears in advance to be a fairly even ball game.

Each team has one game under its belt and although the Friars won and the Rams lost, neither game furnished anything resembling a true line on tonight's contestants.

P.C. won, as expected, against an inexperienced Brown quintet in the inaugural game at the Friars' new gym but Coach Joe Mullaney is still beset with the problem of uncovering his best five men. Mullaney, in his P.C. coaching debut, used all 17 players on his squad against the Bruins and 13 of them figured in the scoring.

The Friars' starting five, composed of veterans John Ritch, Pat Grady, Captain Don Moran, Mike Pascale and sophomore Donahue, saw more action than the rest. On the whole, that group played steady ball but didn't show sufficient excellence to make it stand out above unit comprising four sophomores and one junior.

Gordon Holmes, Roger Canastrari, Lionel Jenkins, Frank Tirico, all second-year men, and junior Frank Williams took over at the start of the second half and boosted a 28-21 P.C. half-time bulge to 40-25 in 3½ minutes. They showed more speed than the rest but lack the height needed to be effective against stronger teams looming on the Friars' horizon.

It is expected that Mullaney will continue to experiment with his large squad, leaning more to the seven returning lettermen, perhaps, and working the sophomores in at every opportunity.

Coach Jack Guy of the Rams can't match P.C. in quantity but appears to have the edge in key personnel at this stage. Junior Bill Von Weyhe scored 36 points as the Rams dropped their opener Saturday to a real good St. Joseph's team at Philadelphia, 84-72. Ronnie Marozzi, another junior, contributed 13 and Co-Captain Eric Anderson and sophomore Steve Madreperla each racked up eight. These four, along with Co-Captain Bob Stairs, Denny Hayworth and Ken Peckham, give the Rams a strong nucleus. But from there Guy is hard pressed for adequate reserve strength.

Tonight's game is the 42nd in the PC-URI series, with the Rams holding a 30-11 edge. Friar victories at Kingston have been rare, indeed. There have been only three and last season's success was the first since P.C. scored two in succession in 1935 and 1936.

Tonight's varsity game will be preceded by a contest between the schools' freshman teams at 6:30 o'clock.

THE PRESS WAS PLEASED with working conditions in the fine new Providence College Gym. Unlike the University of Rhode Island press box at Kingston, reporters have a unobstructed view of the court. PC, its athletic director the Rev. A. B. Begley and Vin Cuddy, coordinator of athletics, did a splendid job in welcoming and entertaining the press.

Since PC is the new location of the state schoolboy basketball tournament next March comments by an expert tournament man like Hugh J. McGowan Jr. are worth considering. He points out that PC, with a seating capacity of 3,100, would not have been able to accommodate the banner 5000 crowd which swarmed into Keaney Gym one night last March.

The Providence gym is handier, much more accessible for Newporters and easier on the pocketbook. But there is a question whether it can handle the growing Rhode Island tournament. An estimated 2,000 to 2,200 Newporters made the arduous ferry-bridge journey to Kingston when Rogers and De La Salle clashed in 1954 and '55.

Newport moaned about slow transportation and long stretches between boats. But an even louder wail will be heard if ticket allocations are cut and hundreds of local fans are unable to purchase them. Many local people do not become excited about basketball until tournament time rolls around. This tourney fever is nothing new. It's been going on since the Tufts tournament 35 years ago.

Assumption Defeats Friars

60-57 Victory Greyhound's 1st Over P.C.

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
Worcester — Striking in the waning moments of the game, Assumption's determined basketball team posted its first victory in the history of the sport over Providence College here last night, 60 to 57.

Assumption really wanted this one for its coach, Andy Laska, a teammate on the Holy Cross varsity with Joe Mullaney, the Friars' new coach. And the band box confines of their court helped.

The two schools had met in 28 previous basketball games and the Friars had won them all. But last night the Friars were outshot, for the winners' "batting average" from the floor was 23 out of 39. Providence registered with 21 of 49 shots from the floor.

The Friars trailed by a point, 50-49, with five minutes to go. Their Frank Tirico made good on two free shots and Gordie Holmes put in a jump shot. That made it 53-50 in favor of the visitors.

Then the Greyhounds moved in with the quick strike that settled the issue.

Dan Gearin scored on a layup and Roy Lemenager on a set shot. From that point Assumption was never headed. Two field goals by Joe O'Brien wrapped it up.

Over the previous going, the Friars had made it an even struggle. The halftime score had been 31-30 in favor of Assumption after a 25-25 tie at the 12-minute mark.

With this defeat, Providence's record is one won and two lost. The previous victory was over Brown in the opener and the loss to the University of Rhode Island.

Providence's Mike Pascale led the scoring with 19 points, edging Assumption's O'Brien by one for game honors. John Ritch, the Friars' center, had 11 and Tirico 12.

Friars Play St. Francis

12/10/55
Joe Mullaney's Friars will be seeking to end a two-game losing streak in their game with St. Francis, a team that beat them last year, 71-63. The visitors are undefeated this season with victories over Loyola of Baltimore, Adelphi of Garden City, Long Island, and Fairfield.

Johnny Rich, Pat Grady, Ed Cahill, Mike Pascale and Lionel Jenkins are among the top P.C. scorers. For St. Francis, Alvin Inniss, who stands 6:7, generally sets the scoring pace.

In the preliminary to this game, the P.C. Freshmen will oppose Westerly High School at 6:45 p.m.

There also will be a freshman prelim at the Brown-Coast Guard swimming meet. This one is set for 2 p.m. Brown's varsity will be opening a nine-meet season in the feature event. The Bruins won three and lost seven last year.

went on to a 7-4 victory over Providence College here last night. The defeat was the first in two collegiate starts for the Friars, who previously had defeated Williams and dropped an exhibition-game decision to the Eastern candidates for the Olympic team.

After the Princeton opening surge, the Friars seemed on their way to a strong comeback last night when Bobby Real and Mike McDonough of the visitors tallied in the second period while the Tigers were going scoreless.

The Friars, however, were badly hit midway in the second stanza when Rod Gorman, center on their first-line, went out of action with an injury, receiving a thigh slash that required seven stitches to close. He was cut by a skate when he went to the ice in a scrimmage behind the cage.

Princeton staged another scoring spurt in the final period, with three goals in the first five minutes.

Providence College, on a five-game road trip, plays the Tigers here again at 2 p.m. today.

Again, 5 to 2

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Princeton, N.J. — Taking charge of the game in the second period after an evenly fought opening chapter, Princeton's hockey team defeated Providence College, 5-2, yesterday for the second Tiger victory over the Friars in two days.

The visitors shot to the front early on Eddie Monahan's unassisted goal at 3:03, but Princeton tied it up in the last minute of the period and went ahead to stay on Henry Rulon Miller's tally in the sixth minute of the second stanza.

The Providence College attack was slowed up by the absence of Rod Gorman, center on the first-string line, who was injured in Friday night's game here.

Gorman suffered a skate cut that required seven stitches, but is expected to return to action for the Friars' game with Harvard Tuesday at Cambridge.

Friars Bow to St. Francis

Brooklyn Five Hands P.C. 3rd Setback, 91-67

By BOB ENGLERT

Breaking the game wide open in the final five minutes of the first half, a rugged and hard-driving St. Francis quintet from Brooklyn handed Providence College its third straight setback of the season last night when it thumped the Friars, 91-67, before 1,500 at Alumni Hall.

The undefeated Terriers from the Borough of Churches drove continually as they outhustled and outrebounded the Friars all the way. With Al Inniss, 6-6 center and the solidly built Walt Adamushko dominating the boards, the Friars seldom got more than one shot and had their troubles setting up offensively.

St. Francis, although not the smoothest quintet to watch, got the job done nevertheless, and after the first 15 minutes of play, had little difficulty in registering its fourth straight success. The Friars have now won one and lost three.

Inniss, in addition to his fine defensive play, proved a thorn in the side of the Friars at the other end of the court as well. He pumped in 21 points, 17 of them in the first half on seven baskets and a like number of free throws.

Scoring honors, however, went to teammate and captain Dan Mannix, who tallied 23 points and turned in a fine all-around performance. Jim Murphy, a hard-working guard, hooped 19. Lionel Jenkins, the former All-Stater from Mt. St. Charles, was the top gun for P.C., with 14 points and was probably the only Friar to give Inniss an argument under the boards. Frank Tirico trailed Jenkins in the scoring with 11.

The game started out as if it preliminary contest, the high-scoring Providence College freshmen routed Westerly's defending state schoolboy champions, 88 to 55 as Pete Schementi with 22 points and Ken Clements, with 21, paced the attack.

Friars Trounce Tufts,

Give-and-Go

Paul McAdams made it 69-67 with a layup on a give-and-go play and Denny Peckham boosted the Rams back on top by three points again with a free throw. Peckham missed his second shot and Steve Madreperla then missed two free shots.

There now was 1:50 to go and the Eagles' Jack Harrington, former All-Stater from De La-Salle Academy, sank a layup on a driving play and was fouled by Marozzi. Harrington missed a chance to tie it up and he, in fact, gave the Rams a big break when he fouled Madreperla.

But Madreperla missed and BC got the rebound. Working the ball in deliberately with a minute to go, Dick Dunn drove in and sank a layup, sending the Eagles ahead, 71-70. The Rams then tried for that "sure" shot but Von Weyhe's one-hander from the keyhole rolled off the basket and BC took the rebound.

With a half-minute to go, Denny Hawwroth fouled Dick Skeffington and the Eagle sank both for a 73-70 BC lead. Co-Captain Eric Anderson gave the Rams their last ray of hope by sinking a set from the side. But with only 15 seconds remaining, Von Weyhe fouled Skeffington on the throw-in and the latter sank both free shots. The final buzzer sounded before the Rams could get a shot away.

It was a disheartening loss for the Rams, for they seemed to be in command of the situation through all but the early part of the second half when their defense became ragged and they failed to score on nine straight occasions when they had possession.

Nevertheless, it was a great comeback triumph for Dino Martin's club. The Eagles had no one standout, making it on good height and balance. Dunn was high with 18, but McAdams, Cahill, Harrington and John Magee all hit double figures.

Marozzi was top scorer for the night with 29 and Von Weyhe checked in with 22.

Free Throws Off

The Eagles, outscored by 28-25, won it at the foul line, where they converted 25 out of 32 tries, whereas Rhode Island made good on only 16 of 29.

It took Providence College about five minutes to get rolling in their game but once they did, there was little doubt as to the outcome. The Jumbos scored first and led by 2-0 and 4-2 but after the Friars moved ahead, 6-4, on Mike Pascale's basket, they stayed in the driver's seat the rest of the way.

With the starting five of Pascale, John Ritch, Frank Tirico, Lionel Jenkins and Ed Donahue working well together, P.C. quickly opened the gap. They ran it up to 16-5 and then to 26-12 before Tufts began to recover.

During that stretch the Jumbos were getting their share of shots at the hoop but they just couldn't buy a basket. For the first 14 minutes they managed to sink only four of 28 shots from the floor. Over the route P.C. sank 31 of 79 shots, Tufts only 16 of 66.

Coach Joe Mullaney substituted freely throughout the contest and a quintet of Jenkins, Frank Williams, Roger Canastrari, Rollie Benoit and Ralph Tedesco finished up the first half for the Friars sporting a 30-19 bulge at intermission.

The Friars enjoyed their most profitable stretch of the game at the start of the second half as they moved out to a commanding 51-28 lead at the eight-minute mark. Over that stretch Tirico scored eight points, Pascale seven and Jenkins, Ritch and Pat Grady two each.

That burst just about sealed Tufts' doom but the Jumbos, led by Al Muench, Don Singdahlsen and Bob Fasciano, kept battling and twice cut the P.C. lead to 15 points.

Pascale and Tirico paced the P.C. scoring with 17 and 16 points, respectively, but 14 of the 15 Friars figured in the point-making. Jenkins fouled out for the Friars 5½ minutes after the second half started.

Late Scramble By B.C. Tops Rhody, 75-72

By PETE McCARTHY
Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

Boston Garden—Rhode Island Rams gained an even split in the college basketball double-header here last night, Providence College scoring an easy 76-55 victory over Tufts and the University of Rhode Island dropping a heart-breaker, 75-72, to Boston College.

The nightcap between the Rams and the Eagles was a thriller most of the way but the crowd of 2,464 didn't warm up to the action until the hectic closing minutes when the fortunes of battle changed swiftly.

First, it was the Rams who got the spectators stirring when they came from a 46-56 deficit at the six-minute mark of the second half and finally overtook the Eagles at 65-63 with 14 minutes gone. During that time it was the Rams' high-scoring twins, Bill Von Weyhe and Ronnie Marozzi, who did the job, the former getting 10 points and the latter nine.

Von Weyhe hit again with a one-hander and after Pat Cahill sank a brace of free throws for the Eagles, Marozzi caged a jump shot, once again restoring the Rams' lead to four. There were now only three minutes left to play and it appeared the Rams could win it by their typical finishes of controlling the ball.

They had five opportunities to increase their lead from the foul line but missed on four of them and gave the Eagles their chance to recover.

Friars Play Tufts and Rams Face B.C. In Hoop Twin Bill at Boston Tonight

By JOE McHENRY

Joe Mullaney takes his Providence College Friars to the Boston Garden tonight, scene of many of his collegiate triumphs while a player at Holy Cross. The Friars and Tufts Jumbos open a doubleheader program at 7 o'clock, with Boston College and the University of Rhode Island Rams meeting in the windup at 8:45.

The first twin bill of the Boston season has a decided Rhode Island flavor. In addition to having the Friars and the Rams on the bill, coach Don Martin of the Eagles is a former Newport and Providence Steam Roller ace and Woody Grimshaw, now coaching Tufts, ranks with Brown's all time players.

All four competitors tonight dropped decisions over the weekend. The Friars found St. Francis of Brooklyn too tough and too polished. Tufts couldn't repeat its victory of last season over UMass. Both the Eagles and the Rams were beaten in overtime by Williams and Brown, respectively.

65 for Tebo

Sophomore Joe Tebo was outstanding in Brown's victory over Rhode. He's the state's second high scorer with 65 points. Friar Mike Pascale is next with 62. Mike played only the first half against St. Francis. URI's Ronnie Marozzi has 54. PC's Lionel Jenkins and John Ritch have 45. Sophomore Frank Tirico, who sparked the PC team against the Terriers from Brooklyn, has 44.

Tufts figures to give the Friars a close battle. Bob Gardner and Bob Fasciano have been the Jumbo leading players.

Center Rod Gurney, worse for wear after being cut on the leg in the Princeton game, was back in classes at PC today. Coach Dick Rondeau hoped to have him available for tomorrow night's hockey clash with Harvard at Boston Garden. The Crimson shut out Middlebury after dropping a 4-3 decision to Boston University's hustling club.

The lambs turned into wolves last night at the Garden.

Providence College, in its first formal season of hockey, administered a stunning 5-4 overtime defeat to heavily-favored Harvard, last year's Eastern titlist, and Northeastern University, considered an easy pushover for Boston College, barely bowed, 3-2, losing a 2-1 advantage over the final two-and-a-half minutes of play.

Kane B.C. Hero

The college doubleheader, watched by only 1245, provided the two most exciting games that have been served up in many a season. Sophomore Dick Kane of Natick saved the Eagles' scalp at 17:23 of the final period when he tipped in Billy Leary's rebound to tie the game at 3-3. At 18:51, Frankie Quinn popped in Jimmy Tiernan's pass from the corner for the winner.

But the finale was even more of a sizzler with the Friars capitalizing on a double penalty against the Crimson in the 18th minute of the final period to tie, then winning it after four minutes and 51 seconds of sudden-death overtime.

Rod Gorman, formerly of Malden Catholic, was the stand-out star of Providence's victory. He had three goals, including the equalizer and the winner, and also assisted on Ed Monahan's goal at 1:44 of the third period that started the visitors on the road back from a 4-2 deficit.

The Friars had much the better of the play in the overtime and had been thwarted several times when Monahan passed across the goal mouth on the winner and Gorman was on the far side to shove it past Goalie Charlie Flynn.

Harvard ran off to a 2-0 edge in the first period on goals by Ed Owen and Bobby McVey but Lou LaFontaine sank a 30-footer at 7:04 of the middle period only to have Terry O'Malley push in a loose puck at 8:11. Gorman came up with his first tally at 14:43 on a Monahan pass, but Bobby Cleary intercepted a pass-out to make it 4-2 at 17:10.

Gorman's pass from the corner was deflected past Flynn at 1:44 of the third and, when Dan Ulyot was detected for a leg check at 16:37, Providence launched another drive. This one was stopped in the crease and Cleary was chased for handling the puck at 17:05.

That set the stage for the visitors and Gorman polished off Monahan's pass from the left corner to send the game into overtime.

Friars in Garden Ice Bow Vs Harvard; BC-NU Duel

Providence College makes its debut as a member of the Eastern Collegiate hockey league at the Garden tonight. The Friars face Harvard in the second half of the bill that pairs Boston College and Northeastern in the opener.

Providence was beaten by Princeton Saturday night, but Coach Dick Rondeau hadn't expected great things of the Friars this early in the season. The Rhode Island school still is in the building process.

There are four former Malden Catholic players on the squad. These are Mike McDonough, Rod Gorman, Phil Crawford and Paul Saino. Crawford, the goaler, might start, although Ed Hornstein probably will get the call.

Boston College is rated the top team of the section, but probably will get plenty of opposition for two periods from Northeastern. Dick Kane and Bill Leary of the Eagles have been lamed up, but are expected to start.

Harvard, still smarting from its defeat by Boston University, has a Friday game with Boston College, but is more concerned with tonight's game. The Crimson had a chance to use reserves in beating Middlebury the past Saturday.

Harvard Sextet To Face Friars

Harvard tangles with Providence College in hockey at the Garden tonight in the feature game of a doubleheader which also pits Boston College against Northeastern.

This will be the first local showing of the season for Dick Rondeau's maturing Friar sextet which is expected to play the role of spoiler in the 1955-56 campaign.

Northeastern has three well balanced lines with Needham's Mark Wenham, top New England schoolboy of two years ago, featuring the third line.

P. C. Five Routs Fairfield -

Friars Balance Record With 73-54 Victory

By JOE MCHENRY

The Providence College Friars balanced their basketball record for the season with a 73-54 triumph over the Fairfield University Stags last night before 1,200 fans at Alumni Hall.

Outsizing the Stags and blocking them off from the rebounds, the Friars had less trouble than usual with the Fairfield crew, which has provided tough opposition in recent seasons. Rebuilding after several fine teams, the Stags are a little short on experienced and polished talent this season.

It was the second successive victory for the Friars and their third in six starts. Coach Joe Mullaney used all available manpower, with 15 players getting into the box score. Only Gordon Holmes and Ed Cahill, both on the sick list, did not see action as the Friars built up a 19-point victory margin.

The Providence College scoring was well divided for the most part. However, Frank Tirico, New York City sophomore, was top man with 13 points, on five baskets, two from outside and three from close up.

Tirico has been playing a steady game and seems to give the Friars some lift. He played well in the early moments as the Friars showed some of their best basketball. Later when the small New Yorker was on the bench, his usual playing companions did not function as well without him.

The Friars showed some good passing and teamwork in the first half, more on the style of game that Mullaney is trying to put across. After the Stags got two sets by Len Paoletta, Providence outscored them, 19-7, with good sound basketball.

The combination of John Ritch at center operating with Mike Pascale, Eddie Donahue, Don Moran and Tirico worked the best of the units in the first half. Later a quintet of Frank Williams, Ted Tedesco, Lionel Jenkins, Larry Connolly and Roger Canastrari took over and played well in spots.

Jenkins, who has loads of talent, put in a flashy jump shot and rebounded well at times. Pat Grady, the Pittsfield junior, turned in some good work also. However, the Friars did not keep the pressure on at all times and were hot and cold in the second half after getting a 10-point bulge, 37-27, in the first 20 minutes.

Pedro Tagatac, Bridgeport sophomore of Philippine extraction, turned in an outstanding job for Fairfield. One of the smallest men on the court, Tagatac scored nine baskets and 20 points. He was outsized but seldom outthrustled and did his best work in the second half. Paoletta dropped in six hoops, mostly on overhead set shots.

The Quonset Flyers gained a two-point lead in the first half, 31-29, and remained out front as they accounted for a 55-48 decision over the Friar Frosh in the preliminary. Jim Hill and Red Rudloff paced the Sailors with 15 and 10 points respectively. Pete Schementi and Ken Clements were the top men for the Friarlets.

--B. C. Edges N. U., 3-2

By GERRY MOORE

Rod Gorman, former Malden Catholic High star, scored his third goal of the night after 4:51 of overtime to give Providence a 5 to 4 victory over Harvard after Boston College had just escaped with a 3 to 2 win over Northeastern by scoring twice with less than three minutes left to play in a college hockey doubleheader that tossed form to the winds at the Garden last night.

Upset Averted

A small crowd of 1245 thought they saw the upset of the season barely averted when Dick Kane tallied at 17:23 of the final period and Frank Quinn followed up at 18:51 to enable the highly rated Eagles prevail over the scrappy Huskies.

But it was only the beginning of what looks like a new era in Eastern college hockey.

Coach Dick Rondeau's Providence Friars three times trailed the Crimson by two goals, but the visitors' combination of Gorman and Ed Monahan, a product of Hope High in Providence, was not to be denied.

They took advantage of Harvard penalties to tie the score for the first time in the contest during the final regulation period which they entered on the wrong end of a 4 to 2 count.

With Al Wells still serving an overlapping penalty from the second session, Monahan, who assisted on all three of Gorman's goals, scored at 1:44 of the finale.

Thereupon, Captain Charley Flynn, the Harvard goalie, put on a brilliant exhibition against the inspired Friars until late in the period when Dan Ulliyot and Bobby Cleary drew successive penalties. Gorman took advantage of the two-man advantage to slap home the tying tally.

HARVARD—Goal, Flynn; defense, Copeland, Ulliyot; forwards, Guttu Cleary, O'Malley.

Alternates—Crehore, McVey, Noves Summers, Worthen, Owen, Nicholas Wells, Cell, Little.

PROVIDENCE — Goal, Hornstein; defense, Rabor, McDonough; forwards, Reall, McCrink, Gorman.

Alternates—Lagueux, Sweeney, Turcotte, Blanchette, Boisvert, Carter, McMahon, Monahan, Cainato, Cullen, LaFontaine, Crawford.

Referees—Edgeworth and Temple.

First period—Harvard, Owen (Crehore), 16:20; Harvard, McVey, 18:00. Penalty—Gorman (hooking, 15:05).

Second period—Providence, LeFontaine, 7:04; Harvard, O'Malley, 8:11; Providence, Gorman (Monahan), 14:43; Harvard, Cleary, 17:10. Penalties—Summers (charging, 10:00); Ulliyot (checking in centre zone, 12:20); Wells (charging, 19:59).

Third period—Providence, Monahan (Gorman), 1:44; Providence, Gorman (Monahan, Rabor), 17:18. Penalties—Ulliyot (leg check, 16:37); Cleary (handling the puck, 17:05).

Overtime period—Providence, Gorman (Monahan), 4:51. Penalties—Owen (interference, 3:01).

Providence Upsets Harvard, 5-4, on Gorman's Goal in Overtime

By LEONARD McFOWLE

Rod Gorman of Malden tallied his third goal of the night to give Providence College an overtime victory, 5-4, over Harvard at the Garden last night. Providence, two down after one period, came from behind to cash in on costly penalties against the overrated Crimson.

Competitionwise it was a great night for a sparse 1300, for highly-rated Boston College was forced to come from behind, also, to overhaul Northeastern and win, 3-2, in the final 2½ minutes of the opening game. Sophomore Dick Kane and senior Frank Quinn executed the tiring Huskies with goals at 17:43 and 18:51.

Coach Jimmy Bell's six—as good a skating club as Northeastern ever possessed—soundly drilled in position play, and keyed up for the contest, seemed headed for the first ice victory the Red and Black had ever scored over the Eagles. But, Kane and Quinn finally found the range which B. C., possibly looking beyond the Huskies to Brown and Harvard, had been missing all night.

B. C. took a 1-0 lead in the second period on Bill Leary's goal, but Northeastern came back to tie the score on a goal by Richie Johnson. Northeastern went ahead when a shot by Bill Sears bounced off teammate Dick Bryant's skate and trickled into an open net midway through the third period.

Harvard jumped the Friars with tallies by Ed Owens and Bob McVey in the opening period and the teams swapped two goals apiece in the second. Then, after Ed Monahan scored early in the third period, Gorman got his second goal when Harvard had two players in the box at 17:18. Another Harvard player was in the ## COLLEGE ROW.

Don't Bet on the Way A Basketball Bounces

By PETE McCARTHY

Anyone foolish enough to gamble hard-earned bucks on a college basketball game certainly could have convinced himself of the folly of his ways by examining closely three local basketball results last week.

Providence College defeated Brown pretty much as it pleased in its opening game and trailed most of the way as it bowed to Rhode Island three days later at Kingston. Consequently the Rams were solid favorites to whip the Bruins later in the week.

So what happened? Brown took the Rams in overtime.

Then when you considered the fact that Brown was barely able to squeeze past Tufts by two points, it seemed fairly likely that P.C. would have trouble with the Jumbos. Quite the contrary. The Friars took command early and won as they pleased over Woody Grimshaw's club Monday at the Boston Garden.

Coach Joe Mullaney is beginning to see a little daylight in sifting down his unweildy P.C. squad. Some of the Friar sophomores, notably Lionel Jenkins and Frank Tirico, are showing signs of pulling away from the pack. Once Mullaney can settle on five or seven "first-stringers," you can look for the Friars to present a more solid front.

Of course, P.C.'s early scheduling hasn't helped Mullaney ease into his chores gradually. Seven games in 14 nights have kept the pressure on constantly. However, such a policy may prove a boon to the Friars when they embark on the tougher portion of their season after the holidays.

P.C. Cagers Romp at Home But Rams Falter in N.Y.

By JOE McHENRY
A couple of All Hallows High School alumni figured in a Providence College victory and a University of Rhode Island defeat on the basketball court last night. The Friars scored a 73-54 triumph over Fairfield while the Fordham Rams beat Rhody, 89-71, in Gotham.

Leading the Providence College offense against Fairfield was sophomore Frank Tirico. He grew up in New York City and played with Ernie Haynes, a young man who had much to do with Fordham's first victory of the season last night.

All Hallows is located in the Bronx, near Yankee Stadium, and has turned out some fine basketball players over the years. Newporters haven't forgotten All Hallows as the New Yorkers twice won the ESCIT tourney in recent seasons.

While Tirico and Haynes were doing their bits outstandingly, a third All Hallows grad, Bob Cunningham, broke into the North Carolina lineup and scored five points as the Tarheels trimmed Alabama (99-77) last night at Chapel Hill.

Tirico a Spark

The Friars played some sound basketball for the first time on their home court at Alumni Hall. Coach Joe Mullaney liked their work in the first half but was disappointed with some of the loose ball handling that came later.

Tirico, on the small side, adds something to the Friars balance for they do better when he is on the floor. Frank scored 13 points last night as the Friars took command in the first half and coasted home to their third victory in six starts.

Lionel Jenkins, another sophomore from Mount St. Charles, added a dash of spice to the PC offense. Lionel worked with the second unit last night as 15 players got into the action. The scoring was well divided with Jenkins, Larry Connolly and Pat Grady each getting eight points and Mike Pascale and Roger Canastrari seven.

Brown Five, Friar Sextet Facing Challenging Away-games Tonight

By JOE McHENRY

Confident of continuing their recent successes, the Brown basketball team and the Providence College hockey forces face challenging games tonight away from their home haliwicks.

Coach Stan Ward of the Bruins is confident that his club stands a good chance against Cornell at Ithaca. PC's Dick Rondeau hopes to see his charges score a decision over Dartmouth, his Alma Mater and his former coach, Eddie Jeremiah, at Hanover.

The Providence College basketball squad has the home front pretty much to itself, facing the Colby College Mules tomorrow night at new Alumni Hall.

will try to add the Big Green to its victories alongside Harvard.

"We have been playing strong offensive hockey," Rondeau said today, "and that's the kind of game we are hoping to play tonight and tomorrow night at RPI. We are in good condition and ready mentally and physically for the trip.

"Mike McDonough has been our outstanding man so far. The kids call him "Iron Mike" as he has been a 60-minute man on defense. Red Rabitor and Ray Blanchette have been alternating at the other defense spot.

"Eddie Monahan, Bobby Reall, Rod Gorman and McDonough have all been playing fine hockey. They are steady performers. I would like to get more help from my second and third lines. We need a better scoring punch and that's where it has to come from.

"Phil Crawford will start in goal tonight," Rondeau said. "I'm planning to alternate Ed Hornstein and Crawford, depending on how things go. Crawford rates the nod tonight as he did a terrific job in our victory over Harvard. Both Dartmouth and RPI are good and we can't afford to let down."

Lee Williams, one of the more colorful younger coaches in New England basketball, brings his Colby squad to southern New England after victories over his other Maine State foes, Bates, Maine and Bowdoin. The Mules play Boston University tonight, giving Coach Joe Mullaney a chance to look them over.

Pre-Yule Windup

The Friars, who have won two games this week, will be winding up their pre-Christmas schedule tomorrow night. Colby bowed to Yale and Dartmouth but both Ivy League squads have acquitted themselves well this season. Except for the 52-41 loss to Dartmouth in a ball control game, Colby has been a scoring club on the most part.

Harry Coates, who has produced more athletes for United States Olympic Games teams than any other track coach, with the possible exception of USC's Dean Cromwell, is spending a couple of days in Reno en route to Los Angeles to receive honors worthy of his lifetime career in the sport.

Harry has been elected to the Hall of Fame sponsored by the Helms Foundation of L.A., and will visit that locale later this week at the personal invitation of director Bill Schroeder. Renoites will remember the latter as president of the Sunset Baseball League of 1947; he's now doing full-time work with the Helms sports group.

Harry Coates dropped off in Reno for a reunion with one of his old-time track stars, Frank Zuna, a great marathon runner of the early 20's who is now a master plumber here. Today he'll attend the weekly Sierra Nevada Sports-writers & Broadcasters luncheon, along with Zuna. He'll probably discuss some of the current day track stars, and also speak a little on a subject he's found interesting since coming here, the effect of high altitude and rarefied air on athletic competitors.

Now located at Providence College, R. I., Harry Coates spent 25 years as track mentor at Seton Hall, and also has been coach at Villanova, in Philadelphia. He also was prominent in ranks of top prep schools, such as Mercersburg Academy, and on the side he handled some top individual AAU athletes like Zuna, who won the Boston Marathon, competed in Europe and probably won as many trophies as any man who ever drew on spiked shoes.

He turned out such stars as Gus Desch, John Gibson, Mel Dalton, Walter Ghegen, Albert Hulsebosch, Lou Gregory, Mike Devaney, Ben and Platt Adams, Pat Flynn and many others whose names will be found on the rosters of Olympic and collegiate teams.

Brawl in Boston could be the title of this shot of a free-for-all that marked the Providence College-Boston University hockey tilt last night at Boston Arena. Six players were ejected from the game which BU won 14 to 3. Most seriously injured was the Friar goalie, Ed Hornstein, shown on the ice. He suffered a cut over his eye that required three stitches.

Friars Notch 5-3 Triumph At Hanover

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

Hanover, N. H.—Providence College's hockey team scored its second big victory over an Ivy League opponent in four days here yesterday by beating Dartmouth, 5-3.

In whipping the alma mater of their coach, Dick Rondeau, the Friars duplicated their come-from-behind feat of Tuesday night against Harvard.

Rod Gorman was the offensive leader in that one as the Friars rallied in the third period and finally beat the Crimson in overtime, 5-4. Gorman contributed three goals.

Yesterday it was Ed Monahan, a mate of Gorman on the high-powered first line, who showed the way. Monahan banged home four goals, three of them coming in the third period when P.C. rallied for four.

Monahan got his first goal at 9:20 in the first period on an assist from Captain Bob Reall after Dartmouth had taken a 1-0 lead. The Indians broke the tie with a goal in the second period and held a 2-1 lead going into the finale.

Then Monahan got going. First he tied the score with a goal at 1:32, Reall again assisting. Then, after Rollie Rabitor had put the Friars ahead with a goal at 10:45 on an assist from Gorman and the Indians had tied it again at 12:02, Monahan wrapped it up with goals at 14:09 and 16:30.

A crowd of 700 watched the game at Davis Field House. The Indians, like Harvard, a traditional power in the Ivy League, played without the services of their captain, Abner Oakes. The first-line center has been sidelined for the season by an ankle injury.

Goalie Phil Crawford of P.C. had 29 saves to 26 for Bagnell, his rival in the Dartmouth nets.

The Friars now go to Troy, N.Y., tonight for a game with R.P.I. Then it's back to Providence. Their record stands at three victories and two losses in intercollegiate play. Both defeats were administered by Princeton.

Friar Quintet Seeking Third Straight Tonight

12/17/55

By JOE McHENRY

Providence College closes out the first portion of its basketball schedule tonight at Alumni Hall against the Colby College Mules. The varsity game is scheduled for 8:30, after a meeting between the PC Freshmen and the Harvard Freshmen at 7 o'clock.

The Friars will be gunning for their third straight victory against the Mules, who have a tall and experienced team this season. Colby won the Maine state crown for the fourth straight time last year and are on their way to that title again with decisions over Bates (85-74), Maine (65-64) and Bowdoin (82-68).

Colby lost to Boston University last night, 83-60.

Coach Joe Mullaney did considerable shuffling of his talent in the Friars' victories over Tufts and Fairfield this week. At times in both games, the Friars showed some good ball handling and teamwork, but lacked the consistency that the new Friar coach is trying to develop.

The Friars will need all their big men tonight as Coach Lee Williams has 6-foot-6 Justin Cross, 6-foot-5 Dave Van Alen and Bob Raymond, another 6-foot-5 individual, all ready for action against the PC quintet. Raymond is one of eight lettermen available.

Capt. Bob Bruns, a native of Forest Hills, N. Y., the tennis captain, has turned in some fine work this season and last. Bruns was Colby's top scorer as the Mules compiled an 18-6 record last season. Colby snapped Brandeis' winning string at 18 games last season and has much of the same personnel now, plus members of an unbeaten Freshman squad.

The Friars' starting lineup may include John Ritch at center, working with Frank Tirico, Eddie Donahue, Mike Pascale and either Don Moran or Lionel Jenkins. Ritch has been slow rounding into top playing form according to the PC camp.

Tirico, who moves around and handles the ball well, has taken over as a spark with the Friars, although this job was slated for other hands when the practice got under way. With tonight's game, the Friars wind up the early season and don't resume their schedule until Thursday, Feb. 5, when the St. John's Redmen play in Providence.

Six Players Banished; Hornstein Top Casualty

Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

Boston—The fourth annual Boston Arena Christmas tourney opened on a bloody note last night with Boston University and Providence College engaging in one of the worst free-for-alls in the history of college hockey at Boston. The Terriers buried the Friars, 14-3, before 2,500 fans. In the tournament's only other game last night Brown gave Boston College fits before the Eagles could come up with a three-goal splurge in the final period and win out, 5-3.

At the time of the B.U.-P.C. fracas, the Terriers led, 6-3, and had all but won the game. The fireworks came with two minutes left in the second period after a little by-play during a face-off between Rod Gorman of P.C. and Jack Murphy, B.U.'s All-New England winger.

The first overt act was Murphy's swinging his stick across Gorman's pants. This immediately brought on a fist-fight between these two that eventually involved all players on the ice including the two goal-tenders. Both Dick Rondeau, P.C. coach, and Harry Cleverly of B.U. did a good job of keeping the reserves on the bench during the brawling.

Finally when the two officials and two uniformed cops couldn't end the battle, Rondeau and Cleverly went out on the ice and led their more fired-up players off the ice.

The main combatants aside from Murphy and Gorman were P.C. goalie Ed Hornstein and defenseman Ray Blanchette, B.U. winger Tony Cicoria and Goalie Ralph Vito. All six received five-minute majors and match misconduct penalties and were banished from the game. Hornstein was the chief casualty, the former Mount Pleasant All-Stater being gashed by a skate over the right eye. Dr. Kenneth Christophe, B. U. team physician, put in three stitches to close the wound.

Murphy was hit on the head with a flying stick and bled a little but needed no stitches. The fighting lasted five minutes and delayed the game 15 minutes. At the close, the ice was littered with gloves and sticks. Blood-spots tinted the surface crimson in the places where Hornstein and Murphy fell.

Veteran press box observers called it the most bloody and vicious college fight they have seen although not the biggest for number of players involved. One Boston reporter harked back five years to a brawl between Michigan and B.U. for anything like it.

After the game Rondeau said: "I have nothing to say. We were beaten and that's all there was to it."

The game was close for one period although P.C. trailed from the 21-second mark on. The winners broke it open with three goals within 3½ minutes early in the second period.

Their chief goal-getters were John Carruthers, sophomore wing from Calgary, with three goals and five assists, and Mike Manning, a junior from Malden, with four goals and four assists. Eddie Monahan scored two goals and sophomore Lou LaFontaine one for P.C.

The Bruins meet Tufts tonight at the Arena at 9 p.m. Providence College plays Dalhousie University of Halifax, N.S., at the Lynn Arena at 7 p.m. The Friars' record is now three-and-five. B.U. has won five and lost one.

Both Rhody squads stayed in Boston overnight. X rays have been scheduled for today on the injured shoulder of Tutless.

Bloody Free-For-All Marks Friars' Rout by B.U. Six

F. B. 12/29/55

By JOHN MAYNARD

Brown and Providence College both lost last night in the opening games of the fourth annual Boston Arena Christmas hockey tourney.

But each team has a chance to bound back tonight as action in the holiday competition continues. Jim Fullerton's Bruins have a better chance of victory. They play Tufts at the Boston Arena at 9 o'clock and should rank as favorites despite the loss of Capt. Pete Tutless and two other wingers.

PC has a tough row to hoe. The Friars meet a Nova Scotia sextet from Dalhousie University. Obviously the Canadians haven't come down to the Christmas tourney to be patsies for the American sextets. Even their coach, DeWitt Dargie, concedes they are quite a team.

The game is listed for the North Shore Sports Center in Lynn at 7 o'clock. Both Brown and PC play there Thursday with the Bruins meeting Dalhousie at 9 p.m. and PC meeting Tufts at 7 p.m.

Bloody Free-for All

Last night before 2,500 at the Boston Arena the Friars bowed to Boston University, 14-3, in a game marked by a bloody free-for-all at the close of the second period. The coaches, Dick Rondeau for PC and Harry Cleverly of BU, had to go out on the ice and lead their irate players off before the fighting could be stopped. Two officials and two policemen had tried and failed.

Six players, goalie Ed Hornstein, Ray Blanchette and Rod Gorman for PC and Tony Cicoria, Ralph Vito and Jack Murphy for BU, were banished. Hornstein suffered a skate gash above his right eye requiring three stitches.

Murphy was cut on the head, but needed no stitches.

First Overt Act

The fight started between Murphy and Gorman after a face-off. The first overt act came when Murphy whacked his stick across the seat of Gorman's pants. The two went at it and soon almost all the players on the ice were involved. The coaches kept the reserves on the bench.

The Friars trailed from the 21-second mark of the first period, but were in the game until early in the second period when the Terriers picked up three and forged to a 6-3 lead. This was the score when the boys turned from hockey to brawling.

John Carruthers, a sophomore from Calgary, and Mike Manning of Malden, were the scoring leaders for the winners. Carruthers had three goals and five assists. Manning had four-and-four. Ed Monahan bagged two goals for the losers.

Second Defeat

Brown dropped a decision to BC for the second time this season. The score was 5-3 as against 4-1 in the first meeting in Providence.

Fullerton's sextet played its best game of the season, with goalie Harry Batchelder and defenseman Russ Kingman especially outstanding. When Tutless went out in the first period with a shoulder injury as the result of a hard check by Don Fox, Kingman took over his center spot and played there and in his regular defense post.

Defenseman Ken Rider and Bob Saltonstall got their first goals of the season for the Bears. Roddie Dashnaw also scored for the losers. Carl Marino (twice), Dick Michaud and Frank Quinn netted the puck for the winners.

Quinn's goal at 9:34 of the final period was the deciding tally. It came with two Bears off the ice on minor penalties. Michaud put in an insurance tally 23 seconds later with Brown one man short.

Great Chance

Leading 3-1 early in the second period, Brown had a great chance to take command of the game when BC players went off on minors 40 seconds apart. They failed to net the puck, however, despite their two-man advantage.

Bill Sepe and Bill Cooper, regular forwards, did not dress for the game last night. They were unable to practice with the team last week, and Fullerton does not expect to use them during the Christmas tourney.

The victory was the sixth in six starts for BC, which is New England's top sextet. Brown has won one and lost three. PC's record is now three-and-five. BU has fashioned a string of five straight after dropping its opener to Brown, 5-3.

St. John's Five Foils Friars, 79-59

1/4/56 Redmen Take Command After Close First Half

By JOE MCHENRY

The St. John's University Redmen, generally rated a strong squad among metropolitan New York teams, scored a clean sweep on their first Rhode Island invasion in years with a 79-59 triumph over the Providence College Friars last night at Alumni Hall. Wednesday the Redmen took the URI Rams into camp also.

The Redmen played more of a running game last night against PC than they did against Rhody. However, Dick Duckett, the set shot and playmaker, and lanky Mike Parenti, who uses his 6-7 height to good advantage at times, paced the Redmen again and contributed some fine basketball on the two-game visit.

Although having their pre-holiday winning string of three victories scissored, the Friars played very well at times and made it an interesting ball game. The Redmen had them outmanned in personnel, but the Friars made a good game of it until the experience and savvy of the visitors started to tell.

Providence played a much better game last night than in their pre-Christmas joust with St. Francis, the Friars' other Brooklyn rival. Unlike the Rams, the Friars were never close enough in the final minutes to have stolen the ball game but they made the Redmen hustle and play heads up basketball.

Among the 2,000 fans who witnessed the game were the Most Rev. Russell J. McVinney,

Friars Shine in First Half

Shooting for an upset, the Friars probably played their best ball of the season in the first half. They fell 11 points behind before Ralph (Teddy) Tedesco got into action and led them in several rallies that closed the gap to three points at halftime. With the Redmen out ahead, 37-34, at intermission, it was still anybody's game and PC had a good chance at that time.

Tedesco, a senior from St. Francis Prep, turned in his best job of the season last night against some of his fellow residents from the Borough of Churches. Teddy was hot with his shooting, sinking seven out of nine shots in the first half. Some of his hoops were of the spectacular variety.

Coach Joe Mullaney got a better effort from some of his bench last night than he did from some of his starters. Center John Ritch played outstanding ball in the early going when PC was hitting, handling the ball well and doing some rebounding and driving as well.

During the intermission, coach Dusty DeStefano of the Redmen changed several phases of his offense and defense, making adjustments to counteract the PC late drive of the first half. Then the Redmen moved around more and when things opened up, Parenti and Bill Chrystal started doing more business around the hoop.

Duckett Solid

Duckett proved himself a solid ball player in his two games against Rhody and PC. Last night he wasn't shooting as well but he had seven hoops. He also directed the St. John's offense, with Parenti, Bill Cowley, Dick Grogan and Chrystal hitting for double figures as well as himself. Cowley and Grogan drove well upon several occasions.

Before the Friars cut down St. John's lead to three points in the first half they were behind 29-18. Tedesco and Donie Moran teamed on a stretch run of 10 points, cutting the edge to 31-28. While Ted did the scoring on four of the five hoops, Moran figured in three of them. Parenti's four points in the closing minutes actually represented St. John's lead at the half.

Duckett scored on a drive and Parenti tapped and hooked in two baskets and the St. Redmen had a better working margin shortly after the start of the second half. Gradually they pulled away, with PC trailing by eleven, 58-47, around the 10-minute mark. Frank Tirico of the Friars had 10 points while Pat Grady put in three hoops in a spot role.

P.C. Loses Overtime Game in Holiday Ice Tourney

Friars Edged By Dalhousie At Lynn, 6-5

Special to The Journal-Bulletin

Lynn, Mass.—A fast-skating Dalhousie University hockey team from Halifax, N.S., edged Providence College, 6-5, at the Sports Center here last night on Don Hill's goal in the eighth minute of overtime in a game in the Boston Holiday Hockey Tourney.

Showing vast improvement over their performance of the previous evening when they dropped a 14-3 decision to Boston University, the Friars from Providence held a 3-2 lead going into the final period, but at that point lost the services of their regular goalie, Ed Hornstein.

Hornstein, who suffered a two-stitch cut over his right eye Monday night during the wild free-for-all that marred the P.C.-B.U. game, received a gash over his left eye last night in the opening minute of the third period and had to leave the contest. The injury came just after he had made a stop. He was slashed by a stick when one of the opposition was trying to cage the rebound.

Bob Wagner was called in from a seat in the stands as Hornstein's replacement and, although he made 12 stops in the third period and six in the overtime, he yielded four of the Nova Scotians' six goals.

Paul Sainato scored two of the Friars' goals and Lou LaFontaine, Bernie McCrink and Ed Monahan tallied the others.

Providence had a 5-4 lead in the last minute of regular play, but Dick Snow of Dalhousie tied the tally with only six seconds left when he caged an unassisted shot while the Friars were short one man and Dalhousie was short two.

Hill's goal in the overtime was his second of the game.

In another tourney game here, St. Lawrence blanked Boston University, 6-0.

P. C. Upsets St. Anselm's at Manchester

Friars Play Best Game Of Season, Win, 69-56

By JOE McHENRY

Manchester, N. H.—The Providence College Friars scored a 69-56 triumph over the St. Anselm's Hawks that must go down as one of the top upsets in smaller New England college competition here yesterday at Bradley Gymnasium.

The Friars played by far their best game of the season and took the Hawks, who had lost only to Holy Cross, completely by surprise. The partisan crowd of 1,000 who braved the day's sleet storm was treated to a highly exciting game but one that went contrary to their expectations.

Providence played the sort of game Coach Joe Mullaney has been proposing and demonstrating almost daily at the Friars' practice sessions.

There were times, of course, when the Friars were erratic but generally the team hustled its head off and played a more poised game than it has been showing. The Hawks, with a 7-1 record and a team that can move the ball, never caught up with PC once the Friars took command.

There were some fine individual efforts among the Friars but overall it was a team victory. The boys worked the ball around more than usual, setting up for a good, clean shot. In the first half, this sure-shot, ball control effort resulted in a 14-point, 37-23 advantage, with PC making 12 hoops in 30 tries including rebounds.

Frankie O'Connell, a La Salle of New York alumnus, took down the game's scoring leadership with 21 points. Coach Al Grenert of the Hawks rates him one of the best small men in New England and he certainly played with the best of them yesterday.

Beating the Hawks on the Bradley court is no small accomplishment as St. Anselm's had lost only one previous game there in its last three seasons. The Hawks had won 16 straight games since bowing to St. Michael's 75-71, on March 1, 1954.

Coach Mullaney shook up his lineup before yesterday's game and started what has been generally considered his second unit.

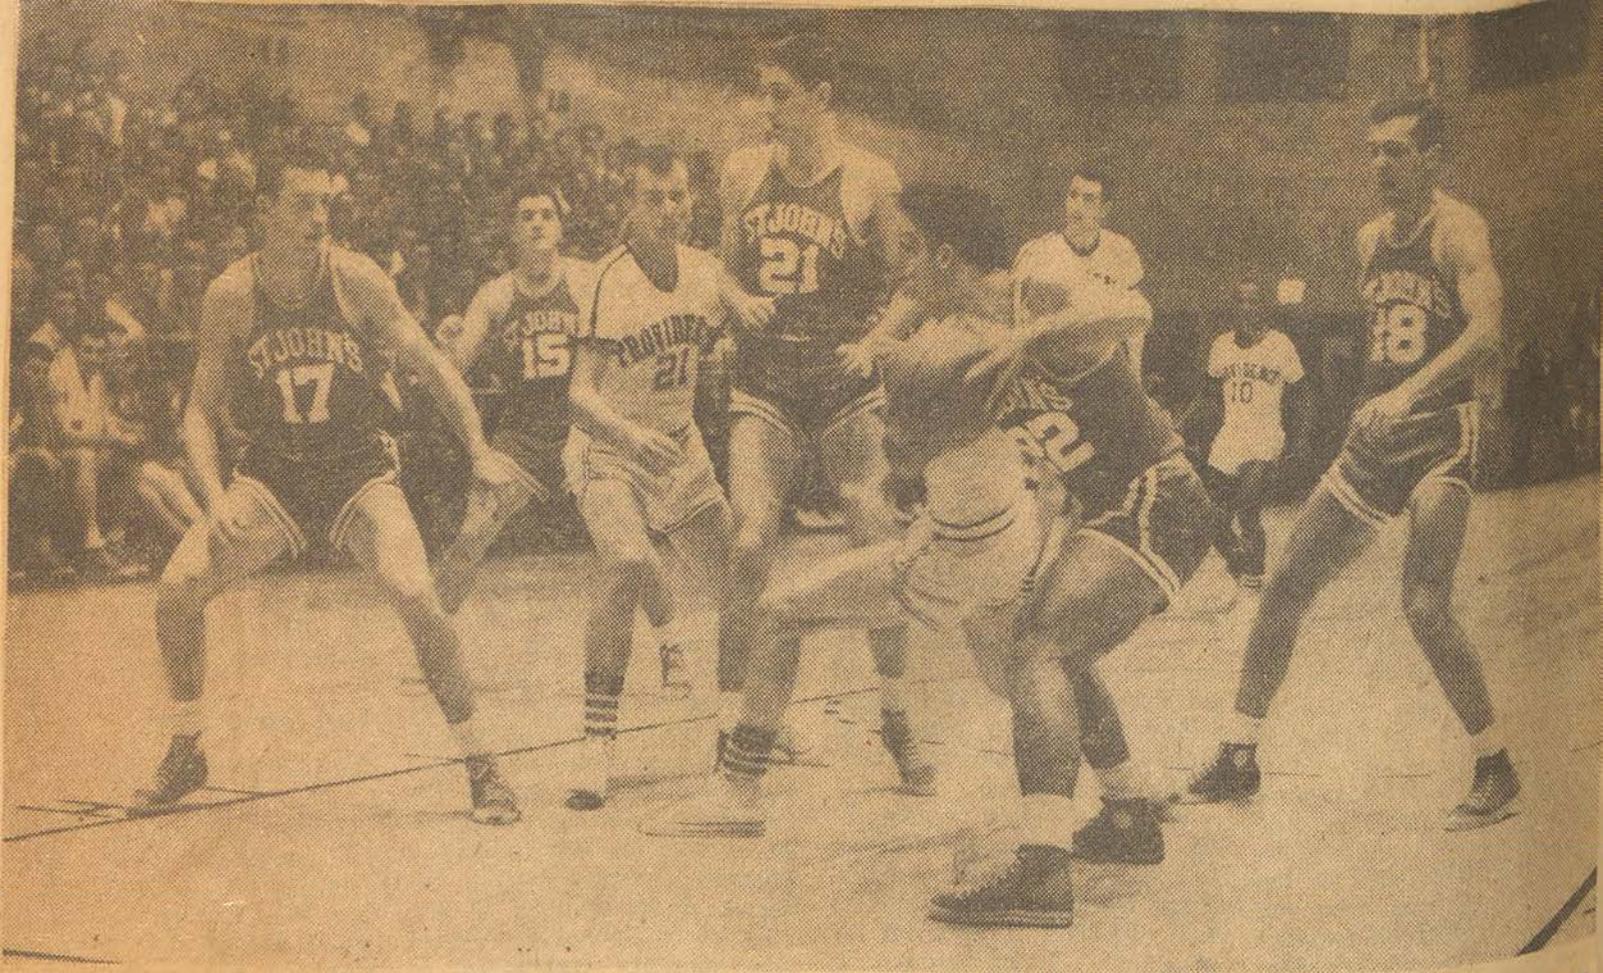

This group outplayed the Hawks and had a 17-12 advantage when the other unit took over and increased the Providence advantage.

The high-scoring Hawks were limited to 17 field goals by the tightened Providence defense. St. Anselm's probably didn't play as well as it has in some other games but even the highly rated Holy Cross team didn't handle the Hawks as confidently and efficiently, according to some of the St. Anselm's rabid fandom.

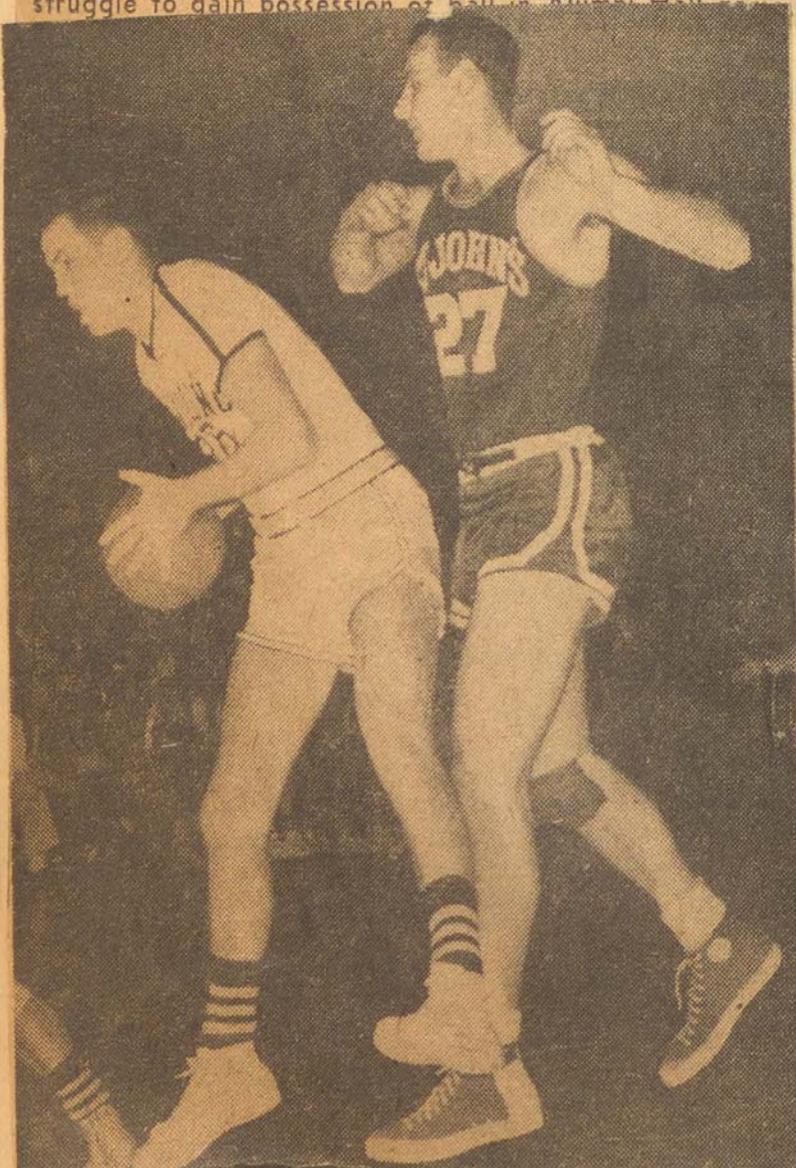

Frank Tirico, New York sophomore who has played against O'Donnell many times as a schoolboy, paced the starting unit with 17 points, while Ted Tedesco, who played well defensively, had 13 points with the second group. Donie Moran, Frank Williams and Tirico stood out among the backcourt men. Lionel Jenkins, John Ritch, Roger Canastrari, Pat Grady, Ed Donahue and Mike Pascale all worked well in their roles, also.

The Hawks, who are used to going out front and staying there, never were ahead of the Friars after Tirico's first two hoops. Providence had 10 to 14-point margins in the first half. The Hawks made a stretch drive and cut the score to eight points (58-50) once but never closed in during the hectic second half that had the fans in an uproar most of the way with speedy, aggressive play.

P.C. Shooters Stymied by Aces' Defense

By JOE McHENRY

American International, playing one of its top games, completely grounded the low-flying Providence College Friars with an 88-68 setback last night at Alumni Hall.

The Friars, who had visions of grandeur after polishing off St. Anselm's last Sunday with a fine display of sound basketball, couldn't get rolling last night. The Aces were close to what the name implies although they didn't have to be that good the way the ball was rolling for Providence.

Much of the ground that was gained in the upset of the Hawks was lost last night, for the Hawks in turn had walloped A.I.C. The Friars never showed their form of the St. Anselm's victory and quite definitely were surprised and shocked by the speed and shooting of the Springfield visitors.

The Aces' zone defense loomed as a medieval bulwark at times. The Friars were rarely able to penetrate it, being forced to shoot mostly from outside. However, it wasn't the Aces alone, for the Friars did not play their usual spirited game.

You can't fault the Aces much, for they hustled and shot 36 baskets. They held a 10-point advantage, 41-31, at halftime and led by as many as 19 at times in the second half. The visitors had 16 hoops on 27 shots in the first half alone and controlled the rebounds pretty well also.

Coach Joe Mullaney of the Friars was not his usual talkative self and you couldn't blame him for there was such a wide gap in the play of his charges from Sunday to Wednesday. It didn't look like a reasonable facsimile of the impressive Sunday winners.

Coached by an alumnus, Bill Callahan, who once played against the Friars, American International has played well in its last two starts against Brandeis and P.C. Richie Kross, a lanky center, was too much for the Friars to handle and Jack Jones, Duke Dukeshire, Lou Plante, John Nehmer and Jack O'Donnell all helped out.

Providence's best performers were Frank Tirico, who put in several set shots, and Roger Canastrari, who played well and contributed 12 points. Gordie Holmes hit for three hoops in a spot role as did Ted Tedesco. The contributions of PC's big men were negligible. Tirico was high Providence scorer with 16 points.

The game started at a slow pace but the Friars were up to that and forged into a 17-14 advantage after the first nine minutes. Then Jones, Kross, Duke and Plante put together an 11-point rally, took a 25-17 lead and were never headed. At times, it seemed that the Friars were going to bounce back but each short rally was met by a stronger A.I.C. drive.

Ken Clements and Pete Schementi led the PC Freshmen to their fifth victory in nine games with 20 and 18 points as the Friarlets defeated the USS Hailey quintet, 99-53. Cline had 14 for the Sailors.

2 Free Throws By Pat Grady Save Victory

By JOE McHENRY

Pat Grady, a whiz in practice, put in two clutch free throws as the Providence College Friars came from behind in the final 66 seconds and scored a thrilling 62-61 triumph over Springfield College before 1,100 fans last night at Alumni Hall.

The Friars had a comfortable 11-point lead late in the first half and started the second half with a nine-point bulge, 37-28. The Maroons, who played a strong second half, came back with a vengeance and almost tipped over the apple cart.

The Friars had a 57-55 advantage going into the final five minutes. This was boosted to five points when Gordie Holmes scored on a drive play, was fouled and made good on the conversion for three points.

However, the Maroons, who were doing a fine job after their slow start, rebounded. Wayne Wilson put in two foul shots and Tommy Karanda tapped in a basket in a scramble under the Springfield hoop. This cut the Providence margin to one point, 60-59.

Both teams had several scoring chances but misfired in their haste to get the advantage. In a drive play, Holmes fouled Ed Bilik of the Maroons with 77 seconds remaining in the game.

Cool

Coach John Bunn, a strategist of long standing in the basketball world, took two time-outs to give his men a chance to catch their breath. Then Bilik walked up to the foul line, cool as could be it seemed, and put in two shots. This two-point effort by the slim junior, who worked his way up from the junior varsity, put Springfield ahead, 61-60.

The Friars were desperately trying to maneuver their men into position for a good shot when Karanda fouled Grady. Pat had come into the game when center John Ritch fouled out with 9:35 remaining. At the time of Ritch's departure, many thought the big center's exit meant the finish of PC's chances of scoring a hard-fought decision.

When Grady, the lanky junior from Pittsfield, Mass., went to the free-throw line he had one foul conversion to his credit in the Friars' last three games. He had gone scoreless against St. Anselm's and had one point against A.I.C. But last night, it was a different story.

Grady put his first shot in clean and the score was tied at 61-all. With the game riding on his individual effort, Pat took a bead on the hoop and shot again. The ball teetered on the rim and dropped through for the vital point as the Friar adherents roared.

Chance for Maroons

But the game wasn't over yet as there was one minute and six seconds remaining with Springfield in possession. The Maroons brought the ball up court and

Providence took a time-out with 41 seconds to go and the strategy was to hold the ball and kill the clock with a team of Pascale, Holmes, Grady, Fran Tirico and Lionel Jenkins operating for the Friars. Jenkins took a shot in that remaining time and recovered the miss. PC held the ball, except for that brief pitch, and moved it around in a helter-skelter pattern of game-saving basketball.

The Friars had enough left to come back in the closing minutes but the Maroons put up a fine scrap. Both teams lost their big men, Ritch of the Friars and Ronnie Clark of the Maroons, with more than nine minutes to go.

Each club had its heroes, although scoring honors went to Roger Canastrari and Pascale of the Friars with 17 and 13 points, respectively. Jenkins did some outstanding work in the clutch final minutes as did Holmes and Pascale. Canastrari had six hoops in seven shots in the first half. The game was tied 12 times, indicating the closeness of the competition.

Ken Clements, Pete Schementi, Dick Bessette and Buzz Martin paced the Providence Freshmen to an 81-66 victory over the Springfield Freshmen.

Eli Skaters Rock

Providence 10-3

By DAN WALLACE

The Yale hockey team, readying for its Ivy League wars which commence next Saturday at Hanover, N. H. against Dartmouth, gained impetus as the game progressed and walloped the Providence College Friars 10-3 before an estimated 900 fans at the Arena last night.

The Elis, with captain Dave Ingalls, George Bullwinkel and Ken MacKenzie each scoring twice, started from a one goal deficit in the opening period—tied the score, and then added four in the second session and five in the third to rout the invaders.

Senior wingman Jack Akers was high point man for the Elis as he assisted on four goals in the winning cause.

Start Late

The game started 15 minutes late as the icy road conditions delayed the arrival of the officials. Yale had the first opportunity in the game when Ed Monohan was put off for holding, but although the Elis controlled the puck in Providence zone they tried to set up the perfect play and as a succeeded in getting just one shot at the cage in two minutes.

Halfway through the session Yale's Pierre Bourquin was put off for board checking and after the short-handed Elis had fought off the Friars for nearly the entire penalty period the invaders finally broke through. Soph center Paul Sainato slaped in a 10-footer from directly in front of the cage.

Yale also took advantage of an edge in manpower to score their first goal. This came just two minutes after the Friars had taken the lead when, after goalie Ed Hornstein had blocked Jack Akers' shot Akers passed left to Jim Brady who flicked the disk past the net tender.

Each team had chances during the latter portion of the period but neither were able to score. Yale had a two man advantage at one point but were able to do nothing about it. Providence College took over the initiative in the closing minutes of the period as they peppered goalie George Scherer. The Elis were having a hard time trying to clear the puck from their own zone.

The Elis started the second period as though they knew they could take the Rhode Islanders and before the buzzer sounded they had scored four times to take commanding 5-1 lead.

The tie-breaking goal came off the stick of captain Ingalls after only 1:34 of the period. The Eli leader, playing with one wrist in a cast and a protective gauntlet on the other, picked up a pass from Akers and forced the disk past the thrusting foot of goalie Hornstein.

The game, which was fairly rough in the first period, became even more so in the second although fewer penalties were called.

Yale, pressing the attack, missed narrowly on numerous occasions during the early minutes of the period and finally scored twice midway through the session. They took a 3-1 lead when defenseman Jay Kahle passed to Bullwinkel who skated down the right side and neatly stick-handled his way in for the scoring shot at goal. This marker came at 11:48 and was followed at 14:06 by a tally off the stick of Gus Wurtele. Wurtele tipped in a long blast from the blue line by Akers.

Pull Goalie

Coach Dick Rondeau of the Friars pulled his goalie, Hornstein, out of the cage with less than a minute remaining of the period when the visitors had a face-off deep in Yale zone. The strategy of putting an extra forward on the ice backfired, however, when Brady took the puck from the face-off and out-sprinted the frantic Friars to nudge the rubber into the undefended goal and give the Blue a four goal advantage. Phil Crawford took over in the Providence nets at this point.

The third period was a nightmare for the goal tenders as seven goals were scored by the rival sextets. The Blue and the Friars swapped the first four goals to make the score 7-3 after the half-way mark of the final session had been reached, but from that point on it was all Yale.

Ed Monohan of the visitors had to leave the ice twice during the course of the game with injuries, while the center of the Providence first line, Rod Gorman played with a face mask to protect a bad nose break incurred in the Christmas tournament's at Boston.

P.C. Athletic Head Reports on Trends At NCAA Convention

By JOE McHENRY

With exams under way, things were slow at Alumni Hall yesterday. There were a couple of Providence College students shooting baskets, each with half a gym to play on. Then Pete Louthis was schooling a student pugilist in a phase of self defense in an exercise room. The coaches' office was empty.

Up on the second floor in the Athletic Department, there was considerable conversation, for the Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., was back from California. And the PC athletic director was discussing his trip, the NCAA convention and such, with Joe Mullaney and Vin Cuddy, who in turn were offering some basketball talk.

Mullaney, in case you didn't know, is the only accident victim among the state's college coaches presently, having just recovered from a three-stitch cut over his left eye as a result of a practice collision. And he's still taking heat treatments for his shoulder, all of which was news to Father Begley.

Discusses TV

Football. . . .
"There wasn't as much emphasis on the TV this time," Father Begley said. "I read where Moose Krause voted against the program but I didn't here a solitary voice at the time. Usually Father Joyce, the president of Notre Dame, has a prepared statement about the TV policy. This time he did say that TV-ing of games over a closed circuit to the hotels didn't work out as they expected. I don't think they will try it again."

Basketball. . . .

"It was sort of understood that the NCAA was going to come out with its plan for two basketball tournaments, one for colleges and the other for universities. It just about means the end of the NAIA tourney at Kansas City because the so-called college tournament will be for the smaller schools.

"You have to declare yourself as to which tournament you want to compete in a year ahead. San Francisco, for instance, could compete in either if they declared themselves. Al Duer spoke for the NAIA but he was fighting a losing battle." (This directly effects teams like Providence College, for the Friars won the right to compete in the NAIA and made the trip to Kansas City during Vin Cuddy's regime and later Cuddy was their representative in the New England area.)

Mackesey Helped

"This was something that was coming with so many good teams among the smaller schools and it may be fairer in the long run. We (meaning the East) had quite a time trying to get some of our legislation on pre-season scrimmages in basketball before the NCAA body.

"Victor O. Schmidt, the commissioner of the Pacific Coast Conference, presided and for some reason, he didn't want to recognize our problem. We were out of order each time one of our group tried to introduce the question. Paul Mackesey of Brown was a strong supporter for the East in this fight and helped put it over.

"Finally Schmidt had to put a question of an earlier practice start before the body when it was introduced by an Oregon man and a member of his conference. So they passed the practice start as of Oct. 15 and then we brought up the matter of scrimmages. The Pacific Coast and the Big Ten didn't want it but it is a help to independent teams, especially in the East. And it was finally voted upon favorably. Now the Eastern College Conference has to approve it as we are a conference (ECAC) within a conference (NCAA)."

About the trip. . . .

"The trip was wonderful. I went home to Candaa for Christmas and I left for California from Toronto on the Canadian Pacific. It was a 69-hour trip, with radio, comments of scenery and points of interest and visual-dome cars. We saw plenty of snow in some places and it was 51 degrees below zero at Lake Louise. I had never seen Western Canada and it was an education.

"The smog is really a serious situation in Los Angeles and they haven't found a way to combat it. It really stings your eyes and makes you uncomfortable.

"When I arrived in San Francisco at our house (the Dominican parish rectory), I was greeted with a Boston paper that told of our hockey game with Boston University and the battle on the ice. And it was a surprise to me, as I hadn't seen anything about it in other papers enroute and was really out of touch. I got the result of the AIC game (the Aces beat the Friars) in Amarillo. I heard a lot of fine comments on the San Francisco basketball team but the people want them to switch their next game to the Cow Palace so more people can see it," Father Begley explained.

The Boneheaded Play

"NOW that I'm a manager," said Birdie Tebbetts with a sly grin, "I will have to make a special effort to remove one mental block that has been interfering with my work."

There was a gleam in his eyes when he spoke—just enough to make a fellow a little suspicious of him. That lively mind of his was working overtime again and that tongue was wagging away at its usual non-stop rate. But the Cincinnati skipper is always worth listening to. Even though he sometimes embroiders his tales to suit his purpose, conversations with him are remembered weeks later—as is the case here.

"Whenever I'm about to bawl out one of my heroes for pulling a stupid play," he continued in airy fashion, "my conscience begins to nag me. Let me tell you why."

Let him tell? How could anyone stop him?

"One day," he said, boring inexorably ahead, "I'm catching for the Boston Red Sox and for Marse Joe McCarthy, one of the truly great managers of this business. It's the ninth inning and we have a one-run lead with two out against the Athletics. Ferris Fain is on second as the count reaches three balls and two strikes on the batter. Ellis Kinder is our pitcher and he whips in a beauty.

Confusion Reigns

"'Attaboy,' I holler at Kinder.

"'Ball four,' says the umpire.

"So I blow my top. I wheel at the umpire. I rave and rant. And while I'm busy with the conversation, Fain steals third base. Now I'm in a worse pickle. Out of the dugout stomps McCarthy, blood in his eyes. Those eyes, by the way, are focused entirely on me.

"Tebbets,' he splutters. 'I never saw such a stupid play in my life. The great Tebbetts, the smartest catcher in the league. Phooey. You're the dumbest, the most rock-headed, the * * *

"He's still groping for expletives when I interrupt.

"'Just a minute, Joe,' I say. 'I called time.'

"'If you called time,' he says, 'then Fain has to return to his base. Where did you signal time?'

"'Charley Berry, the umpire at third base,' I say. He turns to Berry.

Questions and Answers

"'Did Tebbetts signal you that he was calling time?' asks Joe.

"'He certainly did,' says Berry. Good old Charley. I could have kissed him for that.

"'When?' asks Joe, a much too persistent man.

"'After Fain had stolen third,' says Charley, yanking the rug from under me. Now I'm in for it—but good. McCarthy is practically spouting sparks as he bears down on me again.

"'Of all the stupid, lunk-headed * * * begins Joe all over again, like a record someone forgot to turn off.

Birdie Tebbetts

With twinkling eyes he spins his yarns

"I wasn't blaming him but I'm so mad at myself that I couldn't stand any more salt being poured into my wide-open wounds.

"'Just a minute, Joe,' I say. 'I pulled a rock and no one is sorrier about it than I am. I agree fully with everything you say. I'm stupid and I deserve to be bawled out. But I'm so mad that I can't take any more. So suppose we end the discussion right now.'

Obeying Orders

"'Okay, Birdie,' says McCarthy with a mildness and understanding that astonishes me. So he walks back to the dugout.

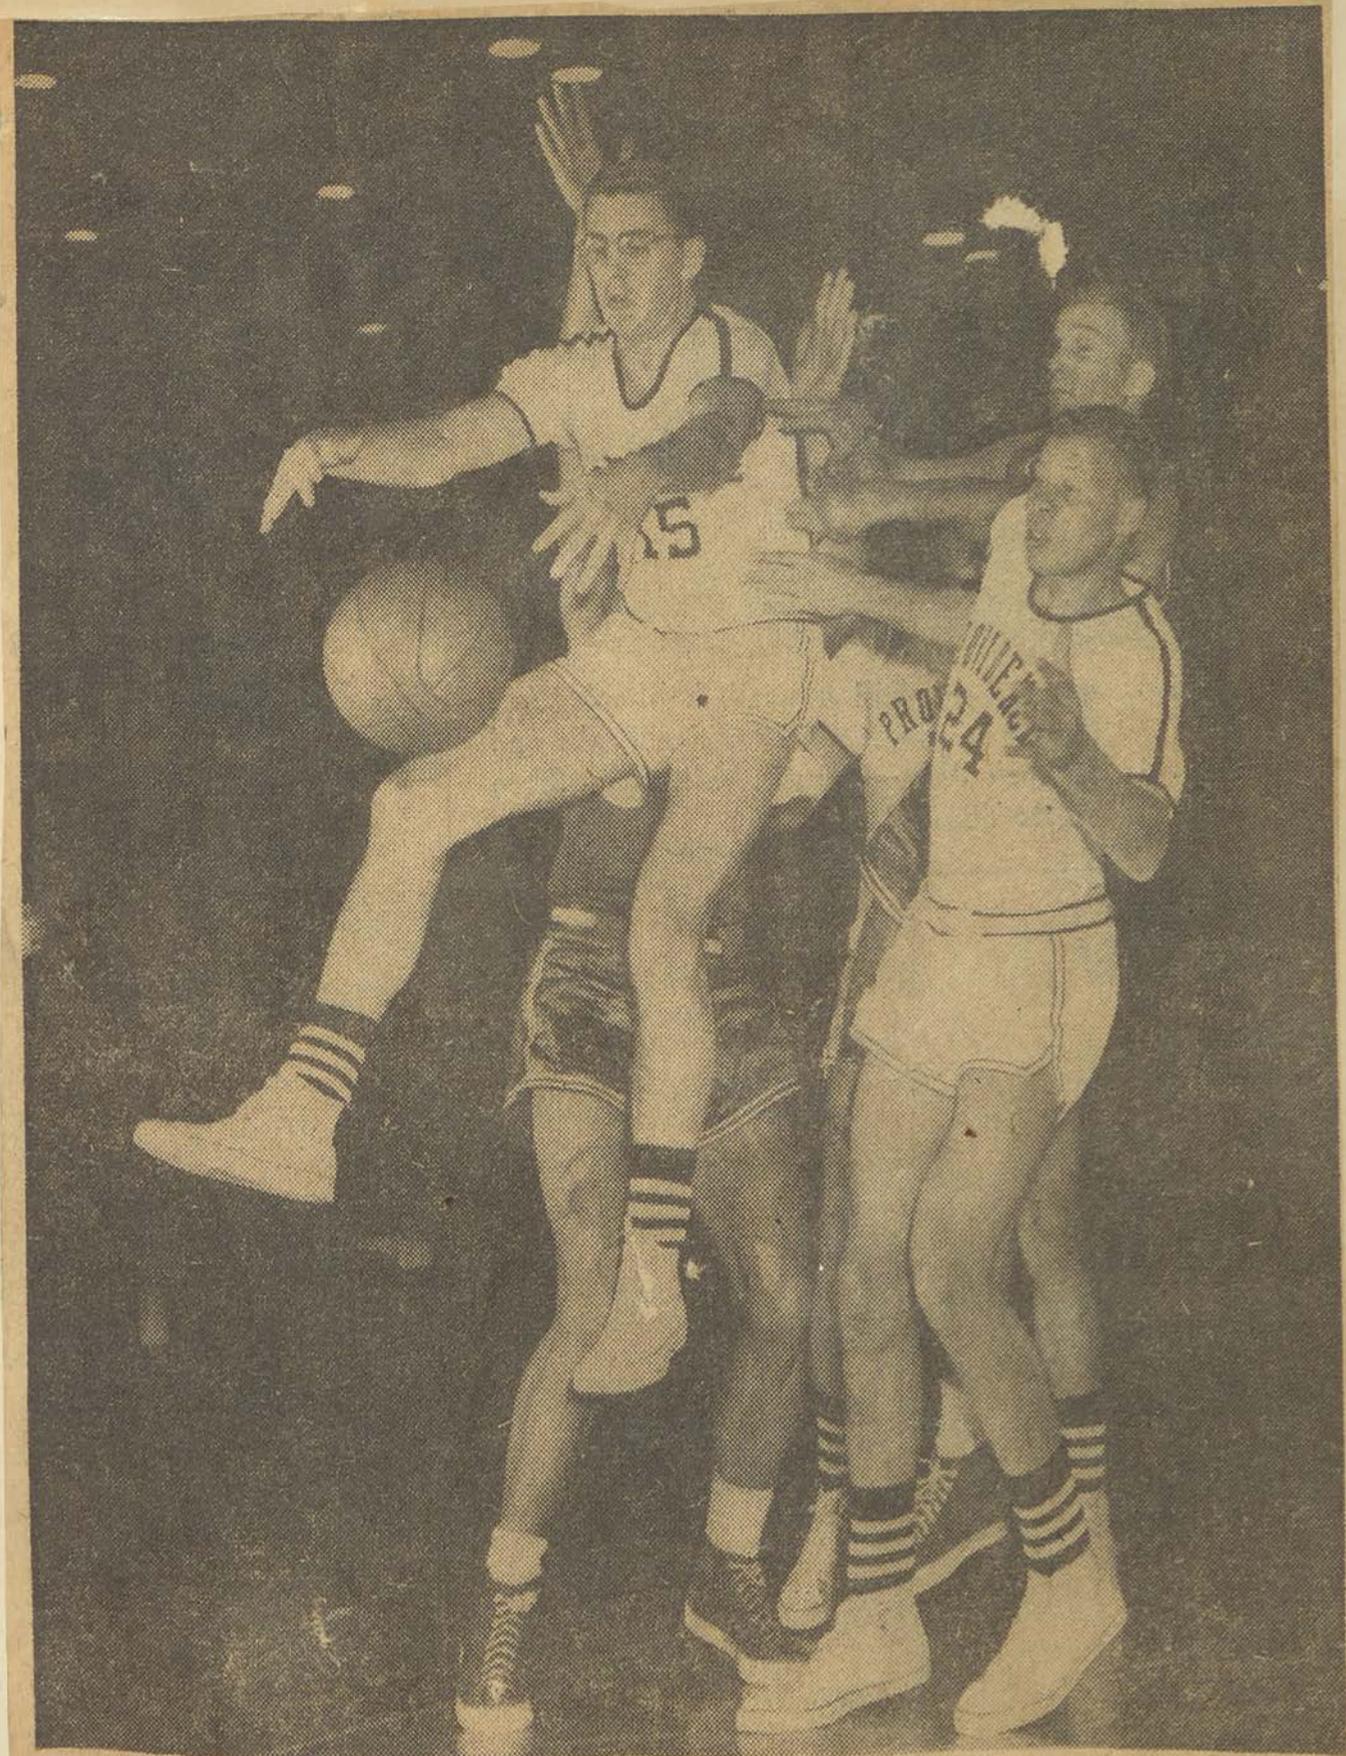

"I survey the situation. Fain, that good-for-nothing lout, is standing on third base and giving me the horse laugh. The other guy is on first. I walk out to the mound for a word with Kinder, who already was old enough to know better.

"'Old man,' I say to our ancient relief pitcher. 'I have never been so embarrassed in my life. I'm on the hook and I'm relying on you to get me off. If you don't, I'm dead. But before I die, I guarantee to come back out here, yank out your right arm by the roots and club you over the head with it. In brief, don't let that run score.'

"'Relax, Birdie,' he says. 'I'll get rid of him for you.'

"'If I remember rightly, Kinder only threw three pitches and struck the guy out. I could look McCarthy in the eye again. But that episode so shook me to my foundations that I still hesitate to bawl out one of my hired hands when he's pulled a rock-headed play.'

Being a college graduate, Birdie not only knows all the words but he is also most expert at piecing them together. As a non-stop conversationalist he isn't quite in the class with Casey Stengel. But he is young. Give him time.

P.C. Quintet Hits Stride, Defeats Colby

Friar Shooting From Foul Line Wins It, 74-62

By JOE McHENRY

Playing their most consistent basketball of the season, the Providence College Friars scored a 74-62 triumph over Colby College last night before 1,200 fans at Alumni Hall.

The Friars, who handled the ball well and showed more concentrated teamwork, won the game from the foul line. The Mules, by a late surge, had a 23-22 edge in field goals but were outshot by a 30-16 margin in the free throw department.

Chief contributors to the Friars' second-half effort from the foul line were Donny Moran and Frank Tirico, who each contributed 11 points on foul shots for a collective total of 22 points in 26 tries during that span.

Coach Joe Mullaney started sophomore Lionel Jenkins to get more height into the P.C. lineup and the former Mt. St. Charles athlete turned in his best job of the season. Jenkins not only scored 16 points but was prominent in the rebounding department along with John Ritch.

The Friars had their best collective effort of the year in winning their fourth game in seven starts. They have won their last three and have looked much better doing it.

Colby, a rangy club, played fine ball in spots but couldn't match the Friars point production in the second half when P.C. had its almost flawless shooting from the foul line as well as strong defensive work.

Moran, who has been in and out of the lineup this season, came into the game in the first half and stayed the rest of the distance. At times, his shooting from the foul line recalled the work of his older brother, Bobbie, one of the best free-throw men in Friar basketball history.

The Friars needed better ball handling and sharper rebounding against the Mules and Ritch. Jenkins, Mike Pascale, Tirico and Moran provided it. Ritch played some of the ball that made him a standout at times in his sophomore season and had his best game by far.

The Mules went ahead, 14-10, mostly on the individual effort of Charlie Twigg, who put in his first seven shots, including five baskets and two free throws. Down by 26-20, Providence launched a drive that put them in the driver's seat. They generally had command of the game thereafter.

Redmen Take Command After Close First Half

By JOE McHENRY

The St. John's University Redmen, generally rated a strong squad among metropolitan New York teams, scored a clean sweep on their first Rhode Island invasion in years with a 79-59 triumph over the Providence College Friars last night at Alumni Hall. Wednesday the Redmen took the URI Rams into camp also.

The Redmen played more of a running game last night against PC than they did against Rody. However, Dick Duckett, the set shot and playmaker, and heavy Mike Parenti, who uses his 6-7 height to good advantage at times, paced the Redmen again and contributed some fine basketball on the two-game visit.

Although having their pre-holiday winning string of three victories scissored, the Friars played very well at times and made it an interesting ball game. The Redmen had them outmanned in personnel, but the Friars made a good game of it until the experience and savvy of the visitors started to tell.

Providence played a much better game last night than in their pre-Christmas joust with St. Francis, the Friars' other Brooklyn rival. Unlike the Rams, the Friars were never close enough in the final minutes to have stolen the ball game but they made the Redmen hustle and play heads up basketball.

Among the 2,000 fans who witnessed the game were the Most Rev. Russell J. McVinnay, bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Providence; Governor Roberts and Lieut. Gov. John F. McKiernan, who were guests of the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavín, O.P., president of Providence College.

Friars Shine in First Half

Shooting for an upset, the Friars probably played their best ball of the season in the first half. They fell 11 points behind before Ralph (Teddy) Tedesco got into action and led them in several rallies that closed the gap to three points at halftime. With the Redmen out ahead, 37-34, at intermission, it was still anybody's game and PC had a good chance at that time.

Tedesco, a senior from St. Francis Prep, turned in his best job of the season last night against some of his fellow residents from the Borough of Churches. Teddy was hot with his shooting, sinking seven out of nine shots in the first half. Some of his hoops were of the spectacular variety.

Coach Joe Mullaney got a better effort from some of his bench last night than he did from some of his starters. Center John Ritch played outstanding ball in the early going when PC was hitting, handling the ball well and doing some rebounding and driving as well.

During the intermission, coach Dusty DeStefano of the Redmen changed several phases of his offense and defense, making adjustments to counteract the PC late drive of the first half. Then the Redmen moved around more and when things opened up, Parenti and Bill Chrystal started doing more business around the hoop.

Duckett Solid

Duckett proved himself a solid ball player in his two games against Rody and PC. Last night he wasn't shooting as well but he had seven hoops. He also directed the St. John's offense with Parenti, Bill Cowley, Dick Grogan and Chrystal hitting for double figures as well as himself. Cowley and Grogan drove well upon several occasions.

Before the Friars cut down St. John's lead to three points in the first half they were behind 29-18. Tedesco and Donie Moran teamed on a stretch run of 10 points, cutting the edge to 31-28. While Ted did the scoring on four of the five hoops, Moran figured in three of them. Parenti's four points in the closing minutes actually represented St. John's lead at the half.

Duckett scored on a drive and Parenti tapped and hooked in two baskets and the St. Redmen had a better working margin shortly after the start of the second half. Gradually they pulled away, with PC trailing by eleven, 58-47, around the 10-minute mark. Frank Tirico of the Friars had 10 points while Pat Grady put in three hoops in a spot role.

RPI Hockey Team Conquers Providence College, 6 to 2

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Troy, N. Y.—Rensselaer Polytech's hockey team handed Providence College its first defeat in three games by scoring a 6-2 victory here last night.

The Engineers, with several Canadians in their lineup, were too tricky for the Friars, as they scored twice in each period, much to the delight of the 5,100 partisans in the RPI field house.

Sloan Sargeant opened the scoring for RPI, beating goalie Phil Crawford at 3:20 of the first period. Ed Monahan tied it up for the Friars with a goal at 5:12. Bobby Reall and Rod Gorman supplied assists on the play.

Ron Palmer sent the Engineers ahead to stay at 11:10 and he made it 3-1 at 9:51 of the second period while P.C. was two men short via penalties. Arnie Perret made it 4-1 at 17:11.

Bernie McCrink got one goal back for the Friars in the third period on an assist from John Sweeney, but subsequent goals by Dick Chiarelli and Pete McArthur closed the gates.

John Stoppen had 30 saves in the RPI goal. Crawford, playing the first and third periods for the Friars, turned aside 28 shots. Ed Hornstein stopped 11 in the second period.

The victory was the fourth in six games for RPI. P.C.'s record is 3-3.

Only Seconds to Go: Joe Montana of St. John's looks for a teammate to pass to as Providence College players struggle to gain possession of ball in Alumni Hall game. Photo was taken 46 seconds from end of game.

Coach Joe Mullaney of the Friars was not his usual talkative self and you couldn't blame him for there was such a wide gap in the play of his charges from Sunday to Wednesday. It didn't look like a reasonable facsimile of the impressive Sunday winners.

Coached by an alumnus, Bill Callahan, who once played against the Friars, American International has played well in its last two starts against Brandeis and P.C. Richie Kross, a lanky center, was too much for the Friars to handle and Jack Jones, Duke Dukeshire, Lou Plante, John Nehmer and Jack O'Donnell all helped out.

Providence's best performers were Frank Tirico, who put in several set shots, and Roger Canastrari, who played well and contributed 12 points. Gordie Holmes hit for three hoops in a spot role as did Ted Tedesco. The contributions of PC's big men were negligible. Tirico was high Providence scorer with 16 points.

The game started at a slow pace but the Friars were up to that and forged into a 17-14 advantage after the first nine minutes. Then Jones, Kross, Duke and Plante put together an 11-point rally, took a 25-17 lead and were never headed. At times, it seemed that the Friars were going to bounce back but each short rally was met by a stronger A.I.C. drive.

Ken Clements and Pete Schementi led the PC Freshmen to their fifth victory in nine games with 20 and 18 points as the Friarlets defeated the USS Hailey quintet, 39-53. Cline had 14 for the Sailors.

A.I.C. Surprises Friars, 88-68

P.C. Shooters Stymied by Aces' Defense

By JOE McHENRY

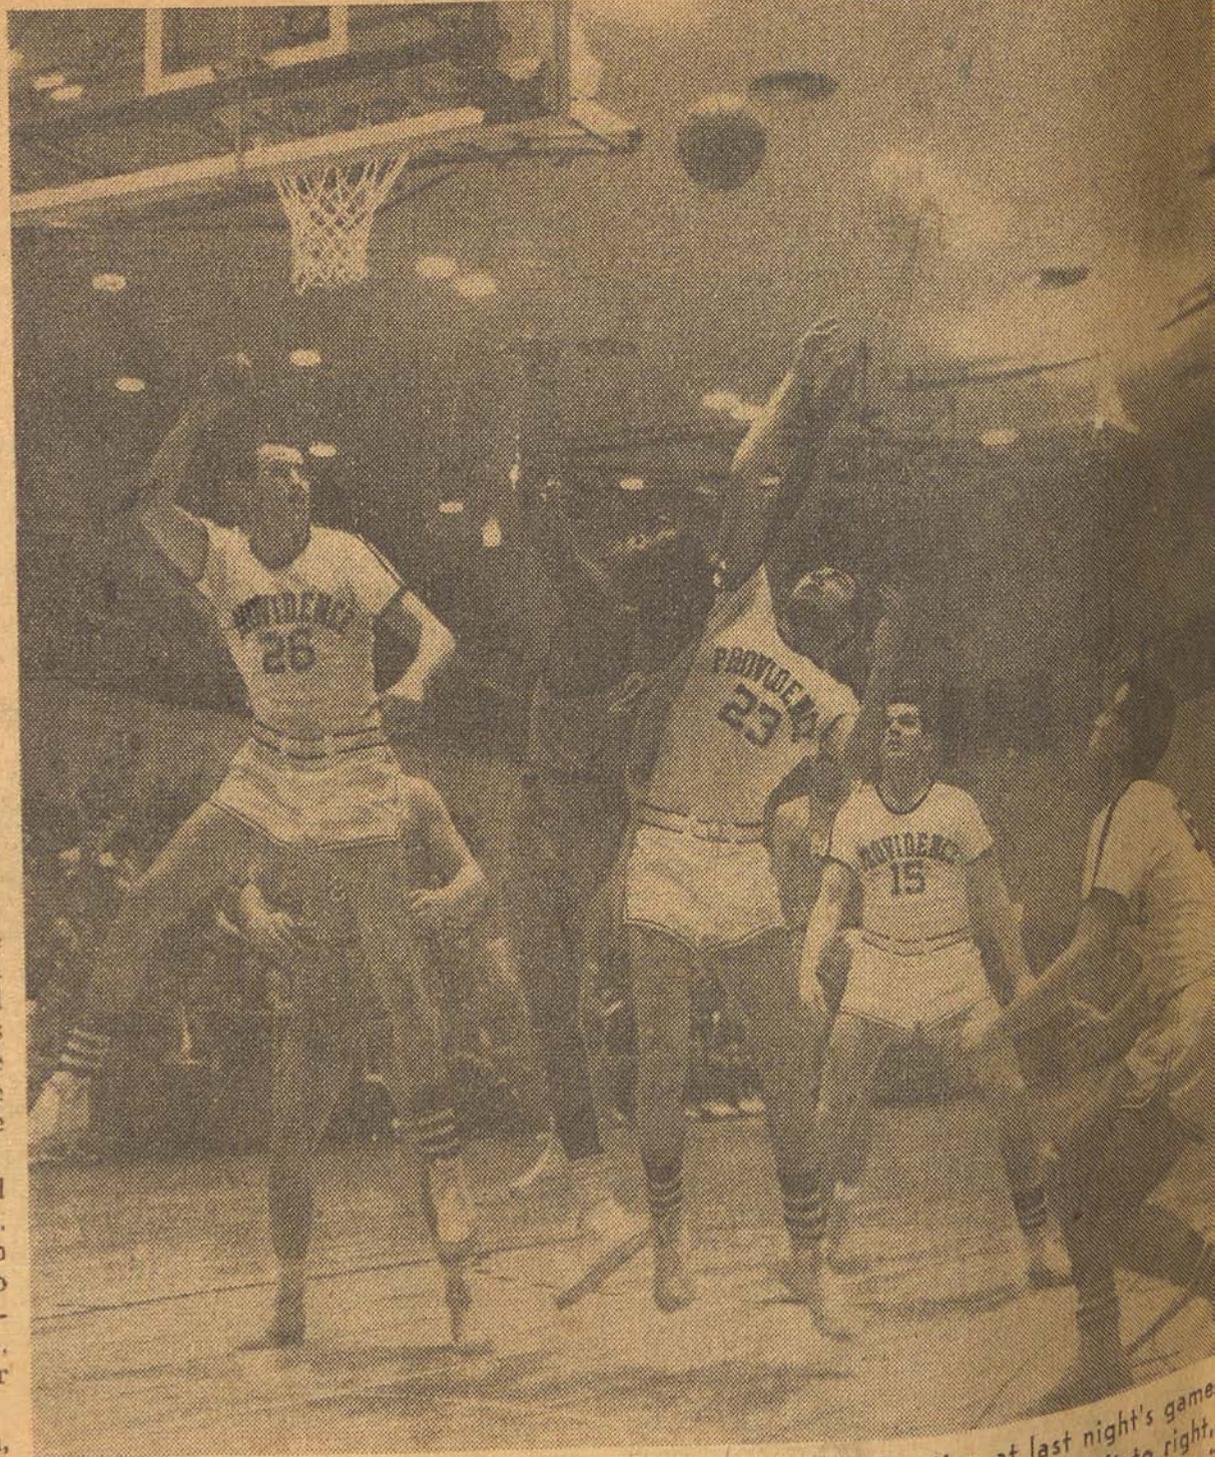

American International, playing one of its top games, completely grounded the low-flying Providence College Friars with an 88-68 setback last night at Alumni Hall.

The Friars, who had visions of grandeur after polishing off St. Anselm's last Sunday with a fine display of sound basketball, couldn't get rolling last night. The Aces were close to what the name implies although they didn't have to be that good the way the ball was rolling for Providence.

Much of the ground that was gained in the upset of the Hawks was lost last night, for the Hawks in turn had walloped A.I.C. The Friars never showed their form of the St. Anselm's victory and quite definitely were surprised and shocked by the speed and shooting of the Springfield visitors.

The Aces' zone defense loomed as a medieval bulwark at times. The Friars were rarely able to penetrate it, being forced to shoot mostly from outside. However, it wasn't the Aces alone, for the Friars did not play their usual spirited game.

You can't fault the Aces much, for they hustled and shot 36 baskets. They held a 10-point advantage, 41-31, at halftime and led by as many as 19 at times in the second half. The visitors had 16 hoops on 27 shots in the first half alone and controlled the rebounds pretty well also.

Friar Quintet Hosts Hoyas Tomorrow

The Providence College Friars will resume their basketball schedule tomorrow night at Alumni Hall on the PC campus when they play host to the Georgetown University squad. The Friar Frosh meet Leicester Junior College in the preliminary at 6:45 o'clock.

The Hoyas are opening a three-game trip tonight against St. Peter's College in Jersey City. They play the Friars tomorrow night for the first time and oppose the Holy Cross Crusaders on Monday night at Worcester. They are also in action next Wednesday on their home court against St. Joseph's.

10-Day Layoff

The Friars closed their pre-exam period with a victory over Springfield and have played some of their best ball in their recent contests. Providence resumed practice on Tuesday after a lay-off of approximately 10 days.

Buddy Jeannette is the coach of the Georgetown club and Jack Haggerty, the former football coach, is the athletic director. The Hoyas met the Friars in baseball and have played the University of Rhode Island in basketball.

Started Slowly

Georgetown started slowly this season but has played well in its last four starts. Recently the Hoyas tied Maryland in the final minute and dropped a highly exciting, 62-57, thriller. Maryland finally beat them from the foul line in the overtime session.

The Hoyas have a rangy lineup, built around Joe Missett, who has averaged 20 points a game. The late spurts of Ken Pichett and Matt White have given the club new life. Providence needs to play a consistent game for the Hoyas have been on the move lately.

2 Free Throws By Pat Grady Save Victory

By JOE McHENRY

Pat Grady, a whiz in practice, put in two clutch free throws as the Providence College Friars came from behind in the final 66 seconds and scored a thrilling 62-61 triumph over Springfield College before 1,100 fans last night at Alumni Hall.

The Friars had a comfortable 11-point lead late in the first half and started the second half with a nine-point bulge, 37-28. The Maroons, who played a strong second half, came back with a vengeance and almost tipped over the apple cart.

The Friars had a 57-55 advantage going into the final five minutes. This was boosted to five points when Gordie Holmes scored on a drive play, was fouled and made good on the conversion for three points.

However, the Maroons, who were doing a fine job after their slow start, rebounded. Wayne Wilson put in two foul shots and Tommy Karanda tapped in a basket in a scramble under the Springfield hoop. This cut the Providence margin to one point, 60-59.

Both teams had several scoring chances but misfired in their haste to get the advantage. In a drive play, Holmes fouled Ed Bilik of the Maroons with 77 seconds remaining in the game.

Cool

Coach John Bunn, a strategist of long standing in the basketball world, took two time-outs to give his men a chance to catch their breath. Then Bilick walked up to the foul line, cool as could be it seemed, and put in two shots. This two-point effort by the slim junior, who worked his way up from the junior varsity, put Springfield ahead, 61-60.

The Friars were desperately trying to maneuver their men into position for a good shot when Karanda fouled Grady. Pat had come into the game when center John Ritch fouled out with 9:35 remaining. At the time of Ritch's departure, many thought the big center's exit meant the finish of PC's chances of scoring a hard-fought decision.

When Grady, the lanky junior from Pittsfield, Mass., went to the free-throw line he had one foul conversion to his credit in the Friars' last three games. He had gone scoreless against St. Anselm's and had one point against A.I.C. But last night, it was a different story.

Grady put his first shot in clean and the score was tied at 61-all. With the game riding on his individual effort, Pat took a bead on the hoop and shot again. The ball teetered on the rim and dropped through for the vital point as the Friar adherents roared.

Chance for Maroons

But the game wasn't over yet as there was one minute and six seconds remaining with Springfield in possession. The Maroons brought the ball up court and

Tirico and Lionel Jenkins operating for the Friars, Jenkins took a shot in that remaining time and recovered the miss. PC held the ball, except for that brief pitch, and moved it around in a helter-skelter pattern of game-saving basketball.

The Friars had enough left to come back in the closing minutes but the Maroons put up a fine scrap. Both teams lost their big men, Ritch of the Friars and Ronnie Clark of the Maroons, with more than nine minutes to go.

Each club had its heroes, although scoring honors went to Roger Canastrari and Pascale of the Friars with 17 and 13 points, respectively. Jenkins did some outstanding work in the clutch final minutes as did Holmes and Pascale. Canastrari had six hoops in seven shots in the first half. The game was tied 12 times, indicating the closeness of the competition.

Ken Clements, Pete Schementi, Dick Bessette and Buzz Martin paced the Providence Freshmen to an 81-66 victory over the Springfield Freshmen.

Mal Brown Chapter At P.C. Elects

The Mal Brown Chapter of the Providence College Alumni Assn. elected Charles E. Joyce Jr., '47 of Providence president at a meeting last night at Alumni Hall.

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College, was named honorary president of the chapter.

Other officers elected are: John J. McViker, '51, vice president; Charles E. Hogan, '52, secretary; and Robert A. Gentile, '51, treasurer.

Charles F. Bresnahan, '49; John F. Goode, '50; George E. Murphy Jr., '52; William F. Cottam, '52; and James J. Walsh, '51, were elected to the executive committee.

The objectives of the organization are "to foster the athletic program at Providence College and create interest in and loyalty to Providence College through social activities."

Georgetown Hoya Five Favored Over P.C. Friar Quintet Tonight

By JOE McHENRY

Rebounding played a prominent part in Georgetown's victory over St. Peter's last night at Jersey City and the Hoyas figure to have a similar edge on the Providence College Friars in that department. Tonight's meeting at Alumni Hall, on the PC campus, gets underway at 8:15.

The Friars will be swinging into action after a two-week layoff. Providence scored a thrilling triumph over Springfield in its last start before the mid-year exams. Georgetown has played well in its last five outings, defeating Loyola (78-66), American University (82-63), St. Peter's (82-69) and dropping close ones to Seton Hall (87-85) and Maryland (62-57 in overtime).

Coached by Buddy Jeannette, the Hoyas have a rangy club. Last night in Jersey, Dale Smith, 6 foot 2 boardman, and center Joe Missett, who reaches 6 foot 6½, dominated the rebounding against St. Pete's smaller but aggressive squad. Georgetown got a 13-point edge in the first half, 41-28, but St. Pete played them even after that.

Matt White, who had an outstanding game against Maryland, getting 22 points, was held to a basket in the first half last night. The Hoyas might have won the Maryland game in regulation. They had a successful free throw disallowed when the referee ruled the wrong man made it. Ken Pichette had 18 points last night and Missett 17. Dick Percudani is the Hoya starter and playmaker.

Coach Joe Mullaney of the Friars says he may throw a little zone defense at the visitors. His scouting reports say that the Hoyas have been coming lately after a slow beginning. The Friars worked on defense most of the week. They had a terrific practice drill on Thursday but were not as effective yesterday.

This is the first basketball meeting between PC and Georgetown. Rhody has the third largest number of Georgetown alumni among the states. The Hoyas are playing PC and Holy Cross on this trip and have been in NE many times before for football and baseball generally.

The Friars are starting pretty much the same club that has been working together all season. That group includes Eddie Donahue, Frank Tirico, Pat Grady, Johnny Ritch and Capt. Donie Moran. Grady, who sunk winning free throws against Springfield, has been playing brilliantly in practice.

Gordie Holmes, Ted Tedesco and Lionel Jenkins also figure close to the starting group. Holmes did a fine job in the second half against Springfield. On their good nights, the Friars have played well but the Hoyas are favored tonight.

Providence's last victory over Georgetown goes back to the 30s when Charlie Burdge, now coach at Warren, and Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, formed the PC battery in a 13-3 baseball triumph. Chief Marsella, Leo Marion, Johnny Madden and Oc Perrin, were also in that lineup as PC won its seventh straight game under the late Jack Flynn.

There are no New Englanders on the Georgetown squad although Jeannette was a familiar figure in this area in the early days of the NBA as playing coach of the Baltimore Bullets. He succeeded an ex-Steam Roller shooter, Buddy O'Grady, as Hoya coach. Ernie Calverley, who now coaches the PC Frosh, played against both Jeannette and O'Grady. Ernie's forces meet Leicester Junior College at 6:45 tonight.

Friars Back in Action With Hoyas Tonight

By JOE McHENRY

The Georgetown Hoyas make one of their infrequent appearance in New England tonight when they oppose the Providence College Friars in basketball at Alumni Hall on the PC campus. The PC-Georgetown game is set for 8:15. After a game between the Friar Frosh at Leicester Junior College at 6:45.

The Hoyas, who are coached by Buddy Jeannette have started to roll in recent games after a slow start. Last night Georgetown thumped St. Peter's of New Jersey, 82-69. In their previous start, the Hoyas bowed to Maryland, 62-57, in overtime.

Jeannette had an outstanding record as a pro player and coach, once leading the Baltimore Bullets to the BAA championship and pacing the entire league in free-throw percentage. He is in his fourth season with the Hoyas, who won the Boston Garden-Arena tourney in his first year as Georgetown coach.

Friars Hot and Cold

The Friars have had two weeks off from game-competition since they knocked off Springfield on Pat Grady's foul-shooting in the clutch. They resumed practice this week after their exams and have been hot and cold on the practice floor since.

"We looked good on Thursday," commented Coach Joe Mullaney of PC," but yesterday it was an entirely different story. I hope we are up and ready for them tomorrow (tonight). Sometimes you come up with a terrific job when things don't gel in practice. I hope so.

"They have a good club. They started with good personnel but things didn't work out. The last four games, Georgetown has been good. They have a big center (Joe Missett), who has been averaging around 19 a game and Matt White has picked them up lately.

P.C. to Shift Defenses

"I'll probably change my defenses around a little. We will mix in a zone now and then. It may bother them. They may be little tired for us after playing St. Peter's which has an aggressive club," Mullaney said.

Providence will open with a lineup of John Ritch, Eddie Donahue, Frank Tirico, Pat Grady and Capt. Donie Moran. Ted Tedesco and Gordie Holmes, who have sparked the club in relief roles, will work in similar spots tonight while Lionel Jenkins is also due for considerable action.

Eddie Monahan Tops Collegians With 27 Points

By JOHN MAYNARD

With seven hockey games left on the schedule, Providence College's first line of Captain Bob Reall, Ed Monahan and Rod Gorman continues to pace the Friars in scoring.

Monahan, veteran wing, is the top goal-getter of the trio with 14 and is tied for the lead in assists with Reall. Each has chalked up 13 assists in 13 games to date.

The totals for the three are: Monahan 14-13-27; Gorman 10-12-22; and Reall 6-13-19.

Rod Dashnaw, sophomore center from Lake Placid, N. Y., is tops for Brown in both goals and assists. His total is 9-and-10 for 19 points. Behind him in the scoring column are Captain Pete Tutless, with 8-7-15, and Russ Kingman, a defenseman, with 5-6-11. Brown has played 10 games to date.

Exam Period

Both the Friars and Bruins are idle at the present time because of examinations and the Ice Capades' annual invasion of the R.I. Auditorium. Both resume play Jan. 31 at the Boston Arena. The Friars play Boston University, and Brown meets Northeastern.

Jim Fullerton's Bruin six will be minus two wings when it plays again. George Conn expects to be graduated at mid-year and Bill Cronin has been placed on college discipline and is presumably through for the season.

This is a big loss for Brown, which is short of manpower anyway. Fullerton is hoping Ed Alford and sophomore Dick Benson will join the squad at the start of the semester and fill the gaps left by Conn and Cronin. Tommy Thompson's return is also hoped for.

PC and Brown scoring to date:

Friar, Ram Fives Clash

Wednesday Night

The Rhode Island college brawn activities get back into full swing this week after some time out for brainwork and examinations.

Wednesday has two strong basketball pairings with Providence College meeting Rhode Island at PC and Brown facing Yale in an Ivy League game at Marvel Gym.

The Friars resumed their hoop activities against Georgetown Saturday night and were outgunned by the Hoyas, 77-51. Tonight the Georgetown club stacks up against a much stiffer test in the Holy Cross Crusaders and will probably have its two-game winning string terminated at Worcester.

Coach Buddy Jeannette's Hoyas played much sounder ball than the Friars and took full advantage of their ability to outrebound PC when it counted. Georgetown shot better than PC and also was generally able to retrieve the ball when it missed. The Friars had some one-shot misses and that's usually telling unless it can be counteracted in some other manner.

Hoyas Improved

The Hoyas have improved their team play off their early games and may give the Cross a game of it tonight. The Friars were not up for one of their better performances except for an occasional short-lived spurt. The bench played better than the starters but faced a big deficit. Eddie Donahue, who was ill and out of action all last season, showed some effective play in the second half, indicating that he may be coming around to his earlier sophomore form.

Coach Joe Mullaney of the Friars was quite disappointed in the outcome, figuring on a closer game and more of a contest.

Because of time out for exams the Bruins and the Rams won't have too many practice sessions under their collective belts by the time they face their first games. Coach Jack Guy hopes for better results during the second half of the schedule, but says he has no new personnel that will greatly strengthen the club. Rhody plays PC on Wednesday and then has a Yankee Conference game with Maine on Saturday at Keaney Gymnasium.

On the hockey scene, both the Friars and the Bruins will skate in a double header tomorrow night at Boston Arena. Brown meets Northeastern in one half of the doubleheader while PC hopes to get on a winning track against Boston University in the other game. You will recall the Friar-BU tilt was entirely on the aggressive side in their last meeting.

Around and About . . . Yale unbeaten in years and years against Eastern and New England aquatic opposition, meets Joe Watmough's Bruins in freshman and varsity swimming Saturday at New Haven. . . . Gerry Farley's strong anchor leg gave Harry Coates' Friar mile relay forces a victory over UMass, RPI and MIT in the BAA meet. . . . Leicester Junior College topped the PC Frosh for the second time and must be one of the better basketball teams in their circuit.

Temple, St. Francis of Brooklyn and the Cross must be rated at the top among Eastern quintets. . . . Hugh Greer's UConn's won a good one from Colgate while St. John's gave strong NC State a rub. . . . Andy Anderton's Brown grapplers meet Princeton here Saturday, still unbeaten. . . . The Bruins also did well in the NEAAU tuneup Saturday at Boston.

P.C. Shooting Far Off Form Against Hoyas

By JOE McHENRY

The Georgetown Hoyas made their first basketball visit to Rhody a winning one, scoring a 77-51 triumph over the Providence College Friars before nearly 1,000 fans last night at Alumni Hall.

It was the second successive victory for the Hoyas on their trip, which winds up tomorrow night against Holy Cross, New England's top team.

The Friars were off form last night and not as much a match for the visitors as was expected in some quarters. The Hoyas played well in spots, with Joe Missett taking down scoring and rebounding honors. Missett had 19 points and was generally useful around the backboards.

Both teams tried to play it slow, smart and deliberate at the outset. This style seemed to favor the Hoyas more than the hustling, slam-bang type of game the Friars have employed in some of their other encounters.

Poor Average

One statistic of the game speaks volumes. The Friars made only eight baskets in their 39 shots in the first half and none on their first 11 in the second. That gave them eight hoops in 50 tries, an extremely low average considering that some of the shots were from good positions.

After a slow start, the Hoyas are starting to play an effective brand of basketball. Coach Buddy Jeannette, the former professional coach and star player, has moulded a strong club together now, one that has given a fine account of itself in its last half-dozen games or so.

Providence was in the game only in the first few minutes of action. The Friars went ahead when Pat Grady and Frank Tirico put in their only hoops. Gradually the Hoyas got their bearings and shot into a 10-point lead, featuring general team work rather than individuality.

Missett was the key man in some instances but Ken Pichette, Jack Walsh, Dale Smith, Jack Clark and Dick Percudani all contributed some effective work. Fundamentally, the Hoyas played a sound game and when they were hitting on their shot they riddled the Friars' defenses.

Rather than showing pep and vitality after their layoff, the Friars were sluggish and couldn't untrack when the game was within their grasp. They bounced back strong in the late minutes of the first half but they had played nearly five minutes without a hoop at one stage and Georgetown kept boosting its total.

Lead Sliced

The Friars might have made it much closer had they continued their drive and hustle of the final seven minutes or so of the first half. A combination of Ted Tedesco, Lionel Jenkins, Roger Canastrari, Gordie Holmes and Frank Williams put life in the PC attack and cut the lead from 17 points to nine. Later the Friars couldn't play at a consistent pace.

Georgetown had a 26-20 edge in field goals and a 25-11 margin in free throws. There was some contact in spots. The Hoyas removed any doubt of PC coming back and making a game of it when they doubled the Friar total, 48-24, early in the second half. They had a nine-point run as the Friars missed 11 straight shots.

Leicester Junior College, featuring Mac McGrath, who had 25 points, defeated the Providence College Freshmen, 60-49, in the preliminary. Pete Schementi and Ken Clements led the PC Frosh, who trailed, 29-25, at the half.

P.C., URI Play Wednesday as Bears Meet Yale

The Rhode Island college sports activities get back into swing this week after some time out for brainwork and examinations.

Wednesday has two strong basketball pairings with Providence College meeting Rhode Island at PC and Brown facing Yale in an Ivy League game at Marvel Gym.

Coach Stan Ward of the Bruins, who scouted a couple of future foes during the layoff, will have Phil Gerould back on the squad for the rest of the season. Gerould, one of the few married collegians on a local college sports team, quit the squad last month but is returning. This bolsters the Bruins as he is a letterman and was a starter before he became ill and then decided to give up the sport. Johnny Lyden has developed well on offense during Gerould's absence.

On the hockey scene, both the Friars and the Bruins will skate in a doubleheader tomorrow night at Boston Arena. Brown meets Northeastern in one half of the doubleheader while PC hopes to get on a winning track against Boston University in the other game.

BU Icemen Face Friars, Huskies Host To Brown

Terrier Hockey Coach Harry Cleverly unveils his revamped squad tonight against the visiting Friars of Providence College. Faceoff time is 7 p.m. at the Garden.

In the nightcap Brown meets Northeastern at 9 p.m.

The B.U.-Providence game is a rematch, with the Terriers owning a 14-3 victory tag on the Friars during the Arena Christmas Tourney.

It was that night that fists and tempers went berserk with six players being thrown off the ice after a 10-minute melee. A slashing incident had preceded the brawl.

The teams' two goalies came out as peacemakers, but joined the fracas instead and the two officials got nowhere until aided by Arena policemen.

Cleverly's players will be on their best behavior tonight, but will be operating without three key players. Goalie Ralph Vito and forwards Curt Ford and Forbes Keith have retired from the squad.

Moving up to fill a first line wing gap will be rough defenseman Sarge Kinlin. Jack Murphy, much improved of late, and Tony Cicoria complete the line.

The Terriers' high-scoring center, Jack Carruthers, will be flanked by Joe Quinn and Mike Manning on the second line. Carruthers has registered 19 points.

On the third line Bill Sweeney is the middleman with wings Dick McAdoo and Billy Sullivan.

Operating in the B.U. nets will be veteran Bill McDonnell.

A former Malden Catholic goalie, McDonnell was an All-Scholastic when his high school copped the New England hockey championship back in 1951.

On defense Cleverly has newcomer Red MacLeod plus Len Driscoll, Don MacLeod and Bob Dupuis.

The Terriers will be aiming for their ninth win in 13 starts.

Monahan Scores Six

Providence, Brown Beat

B. U. and N. U.

By JIM CARFIELD

Boston University and Providence left their boxing gloves at home for their return hockey match at the Garden last night, but the scoring punch of Friar senior Ed Monahan kayoed the Terriers, 10-9, in sudden death overtime.

Brown struck twice in the final eight minutes to whip Northeastern in the nightcap, 5-3, and make it a dismal night for the 1460 spectators on hand.

B. U. Crippled

Monahan, one of the East's leading scorers, delivered six goals and an assist for the battling Friars, including the payoff shot in overtime. B. U. won the first game, 13-3, amidst a wild brawl.

Despite losing three players on scholastic deficiencies and Capt. Jack Murphy with a broken jaw suffered in practice, the Terriers seemed on the way to a repeat romp as they rushed to a 2-0 lead in the opening period.

Providence lashed back to grab a 6-5 lead in the middle stanza, however, as Monahan's lamp-lighting more than offset a hat trick effort by B.U.'s John Carruthers. The Friar ace figured in three of the first six goals, and scored all three for Providence in the third period.

B.U. managed a 9-9 tie at 19:32 of the session on Len Driscoll's screen from the blue line with six Terrier forwards on duty, but Monahan caged his sixth—and the upset win—at 1:28 of the overtime with B.U. a man short.

Assisting on his 12-foot blast were Capt. Bob Reall and Rod Gorman, former Malden Catholic star.

Russ Kingman's 25-foot screen severed a 3-3 tie for Brown in the second game at 13:52 of the finale, then Capt. Pete Tutless sank his second goal of the game to settle matters at 18:27.

Earlier, each team had scored thrice in the second session with the Bruins opening up a 2-0 edge on goals by Rod Dashnaw and Ken Cook in the fifth minute of the frame before the Huskies lashed back. Richie Cavanaugh led the Northeastern assault with two goals and assist.

PROVIDENCE (10)—Goal, Crawford. Hornstein; defense, McDonough. Rabor Blanchette; forwards, Reall, Monahan, Sweeney, Gorman, Sainato, McCrink, Carter, McMahon, Carter, Boisvert.

N.E. Hoop Coaches Scored

1/31/36

By JOHN COLLINS

There was a quiet, leisurely basketball luncheon at the Hotel Lenox yesterday with the rain beating on the windows and the B. & A. trains huffing outside.

Quiet and leisurely, that is, until Merrimack College's towering basketball coach, Kevin Harrington, figuratively placed himself on the edge of the hotel roof and waited to be pushed.

H. C., PROVIDENCE ARE EXCEPTIONS

Harrington, a former St. Mary's of Lynn and St. Louis U. hoopster, made his first luncheon visit historical by lambasting New England high school and college basketball as "unchanged and stagnant in recent years."

"Why, a Western team playing a New England college wouldn't even bother to scout it," snorted the 6-foot-10 coach who doubles as history teacher at the young North Andover school. "The Westerners know that New England high school and college teams—with few exceptions—use the same offense and so don't need to scout.

"High school players here are bottle-fed with the figure eight and weaned on the four- or five-man weave. In the advance stages they might try to open up the middle but never a screen or double pivot or advanced-type offense.

"I maintain that hoop players in New England are as good as those anywhere," he continued, "but they aren't put to use. They learn nothing in high school and little on the college level.

"The only schools that have changed in 20 years are Holy Cross and Providence where they have escaped the 'sameness.'"

Then he won a few more friends in the coaching profession by adding, "The zone defense is a product of a weak mind."

B.U.'S ZUNIC SPEAKS IN REBUTTAL

Harrington hit a positive note by saying, "Televising the Celtics' games is the greatest thing that's happened to New England basketball. It's given the boys some ideas that are new to them. You might call it 'forced feeding.'"

The 27-year-old coach then went on to castigate high school coaches for not working with big awkward youngsters and college coaches for not being willing to "take a chance" with them.

He told how he had tried to get into school locally without success and finally, after Army service and several summers on the Borscht hoop circuit, was finally taken by St. Louis' Ed Hickey.

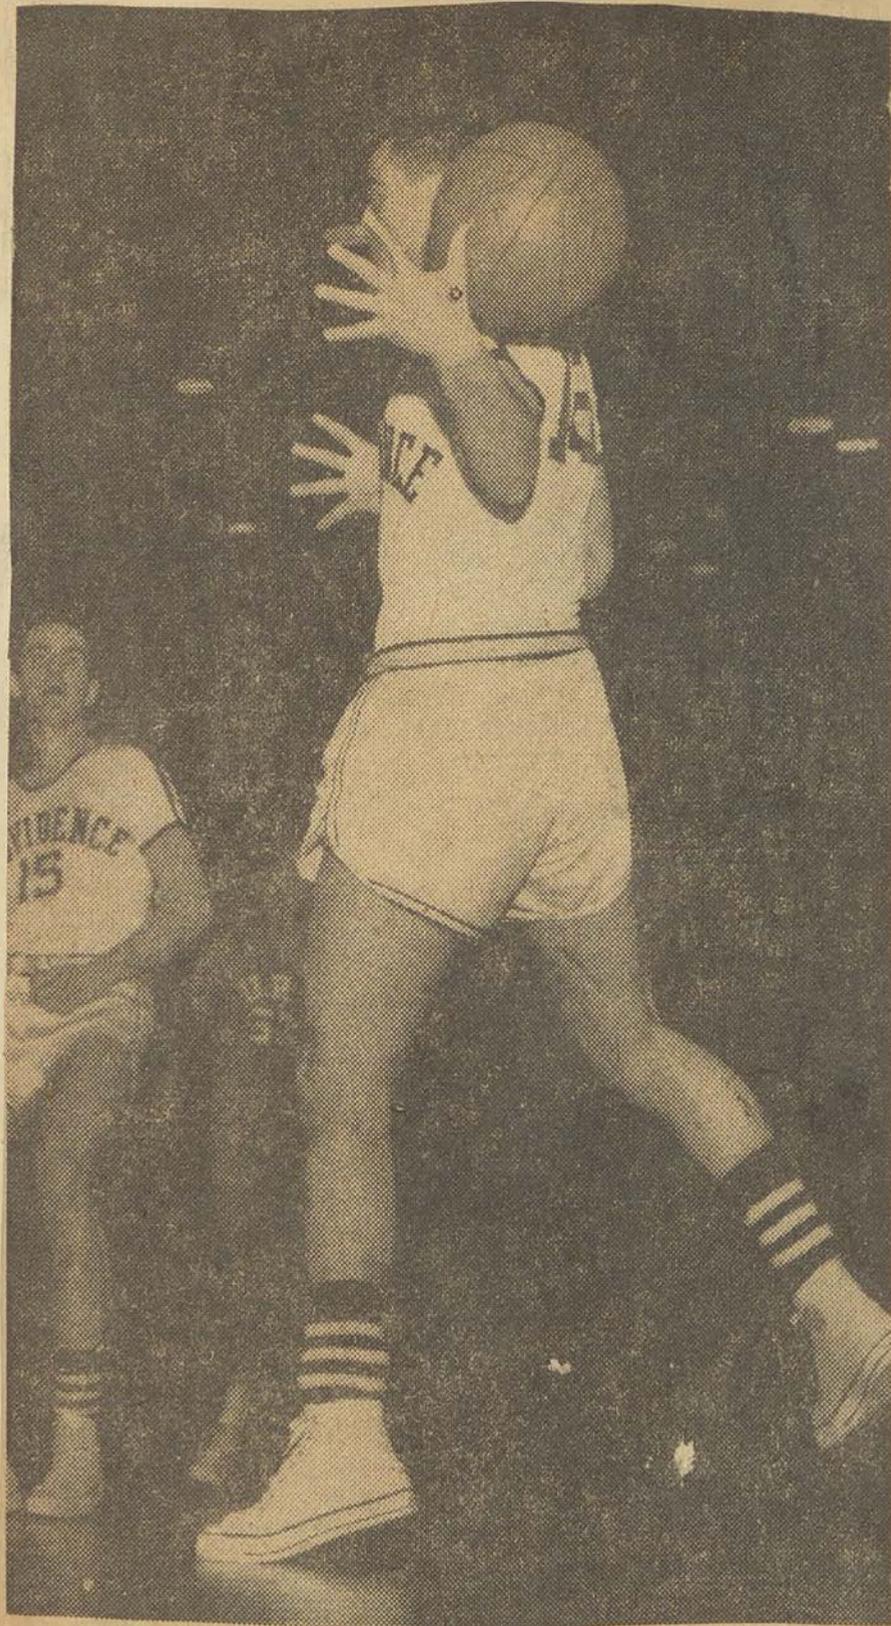

B.U.'s Matt Zunic was the first to speak in rebuttal. "Certainly we use a variety of offenses," asserted the former pro player. "We vary them first to fit our material and then to each opponent."

Dino Martin of B.C., another ex-pro, backed up Zunic and then cited Quincy's Monroe MacLain and Durfee's Luke Urban as just two of numerous high school coaches who employ a variety of attacks. Martin added, "I'd rather have a player strong in fundamentals, anyway, than one who has already been working on single and double screens."

St. Anselm's Al Grenert was another Harrington critic and Providence's Paul Connolly concluded the luncheon by noting that Georgetown's Buddy Jeanette used a "weak mind and a strong zone" to beat the Friars Saturday night.

That tramping sound heard around Copley Square is the coaching phalanx marching to push Mr. Harrington from his precarious, if figurative, roof edge position.

2 Free Throws by Pascale Beat Rams for P.C., 82-80

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars nipped the University of Rhode Island, 82-80, in a highly interesting basketball contest last night before more than 2,000 fans at PC's Alumni Hall.

It was a battle right down to the wire, with both clubs showing some fine ball handling and shooting at times. The Rams overcame the Friars' 43-38 half-time lead and the score was reasonably close for the entire second half.

Mike Pascale, a junior who prepped at Manual Training High in Brooklyn, put in the decisive points for the Friars. He made good on two free throws with three seconds remaining after being fouled in a scramble near the Providence basket.

The Friars generally played a much improved game over their work against Georgetown but seldom could pull away for any appreciable margin against the fighting Rams. The Friars led or were tied over the final seven minutes but the game was never safe until the final buzzer.

Off-Balance Shot

Bill Von Weyhe carried the load for Rhody and turned in one of the top performances by a visiting player on PC's new court. The smooth junior from Jersey scored 28 points for Rhody and was invaluable in other ways as well.

Considering their long layoff, the Rams did a terrific job and it was one of those games that could have gone the other way just as well. Rhody held control of the ball for two-thirds of the game's last 98 seconds and lost it when Bob Stairs took an off-balance shot with 34 seconds showing on the clock.

The Friars took a time-out with 27 seconds to go and decided to wait for the last good shot. With Frank Tirico directing the operation more or less, Pascale started in from the left side. The Rams converged and in the scramble, Mike drew a foul. He may have been bumped by either Pete Kohlsaas or Stairs but Stairs was charged with the foul.

Pascale, who played one of the top games of his college career, scored the first free throw cleanly, putting PC ahead, 81-80, and then dropped the second one in on a throw that wobbled a bit. Kohlsaas grabbed the ball on the throw in and winged it down the court but it missed the board as the buzzer went off.

Tirico, who scored 27 points in all, paced the Friars in the first half as they built up a seven-point margin, 45-38. Then Providence boosted the lead to 11 in 41 seconds of the second half when Johnny Ritch and Pascale scored a pair of quick hoops.

15-Point Surge

Here Rhody came bounding back and ran its total up to 53 while Providence was limited to one basket on Lionel Jenkins' hoop. Ron Marozzi, Stairs, Andy Anderson and Frank Mormando contributed to the 15-point surge by Rhody while Von Weyhe set up two of the baskets with perfect passes.

After Rhody got on even terms and even went ahead by four at 57-53, the game settled down to a definite pattern. Both clubs tried hard last night and put on a fine game. Once it looked as though the Friars were going to break it open when they showed some strong offensive work but then Rhody surged back again and stuck with them.

Inside the five-minute mark, the Friars led, 74-71. After Stairs made two free throws, Eddie Donahue and Tirico collaborated on a nice hoop, making it 76-73. Short pops by Von Weyhe and Pascale offset each other. Von Weyhe made a free throw and then a basket as a result of a missed foul when Anderson gave him a perfect tap for an easy hoop that tied the score at 78-all.

Tirico scored for the Friars and Von Weyhe made a basket on the end of a weave that made it 80-all. Pat Grady had a free throw and missed and Rhody got the ball with 1:38 remaining. Perhaps the Rams were a little too eager but they held the ball nicely before Stairs fired and PC recovered. Later Pas-

Ed Monahan, Providence College right winger, blasted home six goals—including the winning marker—as the Friars edged Boston University, 6-5, in an overtime hockey game at Boston Garden last night. It was a good night for Rhode Island all around, for in the second game of the double feature, Brown won over Northeastern, 5-3.

The victories were the sweetener because earlier in the season Providence College and Brown had lost to the opponents they defeated last night.

The sixth of Monahan's goals came at 1:28 of the overtime period.

The first period of the 10-9 game gave scant hint that the Friars would go on a scoring spree. It ended with the score 2-0 against them, and at no time did they look particularly dangerous.

It was after the score had gone 3-0 against them that the Friars began to bomb. Captain Bob Reall started it off with an unassisted tally. The Terriers promptly made it 4-1. Al McMahon soloed for another Providence score. He was to repeat the feat later in the same period, but Rod Gorman scored one and Monahan two in between. At the end of the hectic session the score favored Providence 6-5.

Monahan scored three more goals in the third session, but even this sterling effort was not enough. Boston University scored four in this period, twice overcoming a two-goal deficit.

The 1,460 spectators were in an uproar during the last minute of the game when the Terriers withdrew their goalie and packed the Providence zone. Their Leonard Driscoll tied it up with 28 seconds to go, sending the contest into overtime.

P. C., U.R.I. Fives, Bear Six in Action Tonight

The Providence College Friars entertain the New York A.C. at Alumni Hall (8:15) and the University of Rhode Island faces the University of Maine at Kingston (8:15) in tonight's college basketball encounters.

Coach Jim Fullerton's Brown hockey forces meet Princeton at the R.I. Auditorium (8:30) in a key match in the Ivy League, with both teams hoping to figure in the title picture this season.

The Friars and the Rams staged a basketball thriller in their intra-state meeting this week, with PC edging out an 82-80 triumph. Both squads played some fine basketball in that contest which may be an indication of things to come over the balance of the season.

Strong Squad

The New York A.C., which specializes in track and field and swimming, has a strong basketball squad composed of former collegians. Bob Derderian, who was outstanding at NYU, paced the NYAC forces in last season's 77-72 triumph over the Friars at New York. Timmy O'Connell and Tom O'Toole, ex-BC, Bob Magilligan of Holy Cross, Frank Mulzoff of St. John's, and John Johnstone, big center, are some of their top players.

Phil Lynch, former Friar, is a starting guard for the visitors while Jackie Moran, a Boston College grad and brother of the Friars' Bobby and Donie Moran, is also playing with the New York club. John Keating, another ex-Friar, spells Johnstone.

Coach Joe Mullaney's Friars have a tough foe as the New Yorkers have victories over BC, Georgetown and Aldephi and lost a 93-89 squeaker to Williams. Providence played better against URI. John Ritch, Frank Tirico, Mike Pascale, Eddie Donahue and either Ted Tedesco, Gordie Holmes or Don Moran looms as PC starters.

The Providence College Friars took the lead in the state championship series last night with a thrilling 82-80 triumph over the University of Rhode Island at Alumni Hall. Across town at Marvel Gym, Yale moved out of the Ivy League cellar with an 81-53 verdict over Brown.

Mike Pascale, who has had several disappointments this season, won the game for the Friars with two free throws in the final seconds. Mike was also back in his scoring groove of last season, dropping in 24 points and pacing the Friars in the second half.

When two teams battle as closely and play as keenly as the Rams and the Friars did last night, most everybody contributes something to his team's effectiveness. Men like the Friars' Pascale and Frank Tirico stood out along with Rhody's Bill Von Weyhe, but Andy Anderson, Johnny Ritch, Ron Marozzi, Eddie Donahue, Gordie Holmes, Lionel Jenkins and Bob Stairs helped out plenty.

"All the kids played well," commented coach Joe Mullaney of the Friars, who was a much relieved and happier guy after last night's contest than he has been after some others you might mention.

the officiating and said so. Both clubs suffered in this department for the Friars' stock dropped when Ritch fouled out on what many considered a legal block on a Von Weyhe shot. Then Marozzi's departure didn't help the Rams. Two men fouled out or came close to it trying to handle Pascale, who had 14 points on free throws.

"Our club came back stronger than I thought it would after the layoff we had on account of exams," Guy commented, "but I knew the Friars would play a much better game against us than they did against Georgetown. They were ready tonight."

One of Those Things

How could you run up 100 points against a Rhody team? somebody asked Ernie Calverley, who with Frank Keaney made Rhode Island basketball history. Ernie's PC Frosh won from the Ramlets, 100 to 59.

"It was just one of those things," Ernie said. "Our team played pretty good. I thought Von Weyhe did a great job for the R.I. varsity. He's a nice ball player."

With the score tied at 80-all and about two minutes remaining, both teams had chances to win. The Rams had possession the longer of the two in the closing 98 seconds and missed their one shot. Pascale was fouled going in with three seconds left and put in two shots that gave the Friars their second victory against one loss in the State series. Rhody is one-and-two, while Brown is one-and-one.

PC's Mullaney Breathes Easier With Victory Over New York A.C.

By JOE McHENRY

Coach Joe Mullaney is not what you would call a relaxed individual as he sits on the bench and directs the Providence College basketball team. But then Brown's Stan Ward and Rhody's Jack Guy, who hold similar portfolios are not either and you might mention PC's Vir Cuddy, Dartmouth's Dogg, Julian, and Buster Sheary, ex of Holy Cross, who fall into the same pattern.

Saturday night the Friars played a sound game in scoring a 79-63 triumph over the New York A.C., which has beaten at least one team that topped Providence and another that carried them into the final minutes. And Mullaney had a few easier moments.

The Friars have played several good games this season but none as convincingly effective as against the Winged Foot squad, which numbered several former college stars in its ranks.

Johnny Ritch, the big center who started to play well in the closing games of the 1954-55 season, turned in his best job of the current campaign Saturday night. Generally the whole Friar outfit played well with Eddie Donahue, Frank Tirico, Lionel Jenkins, Mike Pascale, Gordie Holmes and Pat Grady all helping out.

There were two Morans on the PC court for the first time in a long time. One was Jackie, a former BC playmaker and ex-Marine, and Capt. Donie of the Friars. It is rather unusual to have brother guarding brother, and they did that for a spell. Jackie, who paved the way for another brother, Bobby, PC's all-time scorer, and Donie, is still a sharp floorman and put in one of the nicest hoops of the night. Actually Jim Moran, a Niagara product, also got into the act but he's not one of Brooklyn's boys.

The last time the Brooklyn Morans were together, Bobby was popping the points in with his mother and family in attendance at Seton Hall. Then Jackie was serving in Korea. Now Jack and Donnie get to play against each other and Bobby is serving with Uncle

The Providence College hockey team gets back into action against American International this Thursday. The Aces outscored the Army on Saturday. Coach Dick Rondeau's club outplayed Boston University with Eddie Monahan playing like a combination of Hobey Baker, Howie Morenz and Maurice Richard

Friar Frosh Win, 74-70, At Cheshire

Special to The Journal-Bulletin
Cheshire, Conn.—Providence College's freshman basketball team rallied in the second half and defeated Cheshire Academy, 74-70, here yesterday. The Friar yearlings had trailed by two points at halftime, 29-27.

Dan McLaughlin paced the attack with 27 points as P.C. scored its ninth victory of the season against six defeats.

Cheshire, whose high scorer was Tom Barile with 21 points, has yet to win a game in six tries this season.

Ram, Friar Fives Both Win, Over Maine, New York AC

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars played some of their best basketball of the season and knocked off the New York Athletic Club quintet, 79-63, before 1,000 enthusiastic rooters last night at PC's Alumni Hall.

The Friars, who have been hot, cold and erratic, played a smooth, relaxed brand of ball last night. A similar performance in some of PC's losing ventures against superior college clubs might have put some of the "lost" games on the winning side of the ledger. It was that kind of a performance.

Coach Joe Mullaney started a crew of center John Ritch working with Mike Pascale, Eddie Donahue, Lionel Jenkins and Frank Tirico. And that outfit turned in the most consistent team play shown by the Friars in any one game this season. The Friars may have played flashier and more aggressively but seldom have they handled the ball and shot as effectively.

It was a team victory for the Friars with the starting group all turning in some fine individual efforts and blending their talents into a team operation as well. Ritch, who scored 12 points, had his best game of the year for general all-around value.

Scoring honors also went to Pascale and Tirico, who had 18 and 11 points, respectively. This pair has paced the Friar scoring in victories over Rhody and the NYAC. Pat Grady, Ted Tedesco,

Coached by Vince Leddy, former Georgetown athlete, the Winged Foot squad showed some classy ball-handling and shooting but eventually was worn down by the collegians. Frank Higgins, former BC Eagle, had six baskets, several of which came on long set shots. The New Yorkers suffered their fourth loss and by their widest margin. They have posted eight victories, including decisions over Springfield, BC, Georgetown and Puerto Rico.

Phil Lynch and John Keating, a couple of former Friars, scored six and eight points, respectively, against their alma mater. Tim O'Connell and Tommy O'Toole, ex-Eagles, also had their moments. There was a family "feud" on the court when Captain Donnie Moran of the Friars was paired off against his brother, Jackie, former Marine from Brooklyn. Jackie had eight points.

The first half was well played on both sides with the Friars taking the lead on a series of fouls shots and a hoop by Pascale. PC was ahead, 20-14, at the 10-minute mark and led, 30-21, with five minutes remaining. Despite the Friars' 10-point advantage, 42-32, both clubs shot well, with PC setting up nicely. The Friars had 17 hoops in 32 tries.

Higgins and Bob Derderian, the club's leading scorer with a 19.8 average, kept the NYAC in the running early in the second half. Then Friars got three quick hoops by Pascale, Ritch and Tirico and were well on the way to victory. Ritch and Jenkins helped around the boards.

Wayne Lawrence scored 29 points for Stonington High in a losing cause against the PC Frosh. The Friarlets, leading,

P.C. Quintet Takes Its Time, Prevails Over Bates, 78-72

By PETE McCARTHY

Providence College's basketball team tossed a 49 per cent shooting average at the Bates Bobcats last night and after overcoming an early nine-point deficit, scored a 78-72 victory before 1,000 fans at Alumni Hall.

In registering their third straight triumph and their ninth in 15 games, the Friars went for the sure shot most of the way and their patience paid off. They connected on 29 of 59 attempts from the floor.

A slightly slippery court, caused by the high humidity, militated against driving tactics or fast breaks so the Friars used their weaving offense mainly and set up numerous set shots against the Bobcats' collapsing defense.

Mike Pascale was the most prolific sniper, getting 28 points. Most of Mike's eight baskets came on his one-hand jump shot from either side of the foul circle. In addition he converted 12 of 17 free throws. Frank Tirico contributed 14 points and big John Ritch had 11.

Ritch turned in his best all-around game of the season, dominating both backboards and helping set up many of PC's scores. This trio plus Lionel Jenkins and Ed Donahue played as a unit most of the first half, being spelled briefly by Gordon Holmes and Pat Grady. Holmes replaced Jenkins again right after the start of the second half when the latter slipped going in for a lay-up and suffered a charley horse in his left leg. He retired for the night but the injury is not expected to keep him out of the Boston University game tomorrow night.

The Bobcats threatened to run away from the Friars in the opening minutes as they pulled out to a 9-0 lead. It wasn't until 2:43 of the period that the Friars scored their first basket. But then Ritch, Pascale and Tirico caught fire and finally pulled PC even at 12-12 seven minutes along.

It was touch and go for the next seven minutes with the lead changing hands until Pascale put the Friars ahead, 34-32, on a three-point play. The Bobcats never caught them again. PC led by 48-44 at halftime and their lead during the final 20 minutes fluctuated from three to 13 points. The Friars were sporting a 78-65 bulge with 2:52 remaining when the Bobcats closed with a rush against the PC reserves.

John Manteiga, 6'4" sophomore from Fall River, led the Bobcats with 20 points, but he was blanked from the floor during the second half. He fouled out with three minutes to play. George Schroder, playing his first game since his discharge from the Army, chipped in 12 points and was Bates' top floor man. Dave Rushefsky, used mostly in the second half, dropped in five set shots.

The Providence College Freshmen swamped Nichols Junior College, 71-41, in the preliminary game for their 10th victory in 16 starts. Pete Schementi (21), Ken Clements (18) and Dick Bessette (11) led the Friarlets' attack.

Brown Six to Host Harvard; P.C. Away

By EARL LOFQUIST

Both Rhode Island college hockey teams are playing tomorrow night, with Providence College going to Lynn for a game with St. Francis Xavier and Brown meeting Harvard at the Auditorium here.

The Friars had it a little rough last night at Springfield, where they blew a 3-1 lead in the last period and bowed to American International College, 5 to 3. The home team, as the score indicates, came up with four goals in the final period.

Bear Five Plays At Yale; Friar Six Meets H.C.

By JOE McHENRY

Brown plays Yale in basketball at New Haven tonight in an Ivy League contest while the Providence College sextet faces Holy Cross at Worcester in the first formal hockey meeting between the two schools.

Coached by Mel Massucco, the Crusaders have been playing more or less of a formal hockey schedule this season. Two years ago, Dick Rondeau's PC skaters beat them in high-scoring encounter. The Friars scored an uphill triumph over BU, 10-9, in their last start. They will play AIC and St. Francis Xavier of Antigonish, N. S., later in the week.

Eddie Monahan, who scored six goals against Boston University, has boosted his point production to 27 points, which is 14th in the nation and third in New England. The former Hope athlete is three points behind Dick Cavanaugh of Northeastern, who has 30, and one behind Fred Vorder, also of Northeastern, with 28. They are the top trio in the area.

The Friar lineup will include Bobby Reall, Monahan and Rod Gorman on the forward line, Mike McDonough and Ray Blanchette at defense and Phil Crawford in the goal. The Reall-Monahan-Gorman line accounted for eight goals in the BU victory, which gave the Friars a 5-8 tally for the season.

Friar Six Routs H.C., 10-3; Monahan, McDonough Star

Special to the Journal-Bulletin Worcester, Mass.—A sharp-shooting Providence College hockey team packed too many guns for Holy Cross here last night and had little trouble in registering a 10-3 triumph at the Worcester Arena.

With clever Ed Monahan, veteran forward, and defenseman Iron Mike McDonough leading the scoring parade with three goals each, the favored Friars got off to a commanding early lead and won as they pleased.

Monahan, one of the country's leading scorers, added five points to his season's total as he added a pair of assists to his trio of goals. All three scores came in the opening period and were the big blasts as Providence College raced out to a 4-1 advantage.

McDonough got the first of his three goals in the second period and then picked up his other two in the final five minutes of the game.

The victory was P.C.'s sixth against eight losses.

Brown Six Hosts Harvard; Friars Entertain B.U. Five

By JOE McHENRY

Coach Jim Fullerton's Brown hockey forces take on Harvard tonight at the Auditorium at 8:30 while Boston University's strong basketball squad meets the Providence College Friars at 8:15 at PC's Alumni Hall.

The Bruins' bid for the Ivy League hockey crown got a jolt this week from Yale but a victory over the Crimson would tighten up the league race. Harvard, winner over Providence and Brown in its last meetings, has a 3-0 record in the league. Brown has played an improved game lately and is a match for the Ivy's defending champs.

Three-Game Skein

The Friars will have to continue BU's big center, Kevin Thomas, if they are going to prolong their current winning string which has now reached three games. That means Coach Joe Mullaney will need some strong rebounding work from Johnny Ritch and Lionel Jenkins, as well as from Pat Grady, who may spell either.

Thomas, who is 6 foot 9, rates with the better players in New England and once scored 47 points this season. He had 27 a week ago as BU dropped a 67-64 decision to Penn State after leading most of the route. The Terriers are 10 and 5, with Holy Cross the only NE team to top them.

Providence played well against URI and New York A.C., but had some trouble with Bates, which proved stronger than anticipated. "Our defense wasn't too good against Bates," commented Coach Mullaney. "We will have to do better against BU. They have had their ups and downs too and only sneaked by Tufts in a one-pointer this week."

Notre Dame Tuesday

The Friars, if they can get by tonight, will have a run of four victories for Notre Dame, which comes here Tuesday. The ND squad plays at Navy today and against the Cross Monday at Boston Garden. The Crusaders have a tough one on their hands tonight, meeting Dartmouth at Hanover. The Cross should win but Dartmouth has a faculty of upsetting clubs on its home terrain.

The PC hockey team tangles with St. Francis Xavier of Antigonish, N.S., tonight at Lynn. The Nova Scotians gained a 3-0 lead on BC last night before the Eagles rallied for a 7-4 victory, their 13th of the year. The Friars beat Holy Cross and bowed to AIC this week.

4-Goal Barrage In Finale Ruins Friars, 5 to 3

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Springfield, Mass.—Four unassisted goals in the last period wiped out a 3-1 Providence College lead and gave American International's hockey team a 5-3 victory over the Friars here last night at Springfield Arena.

The final goal, at 19:32, sailed into an empty P.C. net, the Friars having removed goalie Ed Hornstein in a last-minute bid to tie the score.

The strike that ruined P.C. came halfway through the finale when the Aces scored two goals in 22 seconds. That tied the score at 3-3 and a couple of minutes later, at 12:45, AIC went ahead with another unassisted goal.

P. C. had taken a 2-1 lead in the first period and added another goal in the second period while holding AIC scoreless.

The Aces kept the pressure on Hornstein throughout the game, though. He had 18 saves in the first period, 12 in the second and 14 in the third for a total of 44.

Nova Scotian Sextet Downs Friars, 6-3

2/12/56
Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Lynn, Mass. — The Providence College Friars hockey team went down to its 10th defeat of the season here last night as it lost a 6-to-3 decision to the St. Francis Xavier team of Nova Scotia.

The Canadians took a two-goal lead before Ed Monahan could register the first Providence goal. Lou LaFontaine added another Providence tally in the second period and that goal, together with another score by Monahan, cut the Canadians' edge to 4 to 3 as the final period started.

The Friars tired in the last period and failed to score while St. Francis added to its margin with a pair of goals. The Friars have scored seven victories this season. Phil Crawford in the Providence nets, had a busy evening and turned in several fine saves.

B.U.'s Coach Ejected As P.C. Wins, 69-65

By JOE McHENRY

In one of the wildest finishes seen in local college basketball in quite some time, the Providence College Friars nosed out the favored Boston University Terriers, 69-65, before 1,500 excited fans last night at Alumni Hall.

In the hectic, turbulent ending, Coach Matt Zunic of the Terriers was ejected from the court by Referee George Pappas of Lynn, Mass., and left the bench only after much persuasion under police escort.

Both teams played some fine basketball, with the Friars coming up with a good performance in upsetting the Terriers, who had lost only to Holy Cross in their New England competition.

Providence College has not engaged in many finishes such as last night's. The highly partisan crowd was on its feet at the finish, with Zunic very much a storm center before he consented to leave the playing floor, with his team trailing 66-65, with six seconds remaining.

Running Feud

Zunic, usually a mild-mannered individual off the court, and Pappas had more or less of a running feud during parts of the encounter. As the first half ended, Zunic and Pappas had an exchange of words near the scorer's bench, while the Friars' Joe Mullaney conferred with Walter Day, the other arbiter. As Zunic turned to leave, he shot some vituperative language at the much-smaller Pappas and the latter called a technical foul against him and the Terriers.

With the Friars having a one-point lead, 66-65, and Boston University working the ball around for a good, clean shot inside the 10-second mark, Pappas called a traveling violation against BU's Nate Koppel, who was within easy shooting range. Then apparently Zunic exploded vocally in Pappas' direction and the referee called a technical foul against him and his team.

The BU coach followed the referee to the foul line and then Pappas dramatically ejected him. Zunic didn't want to go and three members of the Providence College police force came on the scene. Vin Cuddy, PC's coordinator of sports, helped the situation and more or less persuaded Zunic to do as Pappas wanted.

Spectator Goes for Referee

Things didn't cool down any after Zunic left the playing premises, and before the finish Pappas had assessed another technical, this time against Mario Sottile, BU co-captain. When the game ended and Pappas headed for the referee's dressing room, Cuddy and one of the Dominican fathers restrained a burly spectator who tried to put his hands on the small referee.

The game was played at an aggressive pace, so much so that John Ritch, the Friars' big center and chief rebounder, fouled out in the first half. The officiating, about the same generally as most PC games, was adequate for the most part. Day and Pappas, who work other New England college games frequently, were assigned to last night's encounter by the office of Asa Bushnell, Eastern commissioner with offices in New York, as are officials for all Providence home games.

Mike Pascale, led the Friars with 29 points, his highest career total as a collegian. However Eddie Donahue, Lionel Jenkins, Frank Tirico, Pat Grady, Roger Canistrari and Ritch all played hard, effective ball. Donahue, Pascale and Jenkins played about as well as they have at any time in college basketball competition for the Friars.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Terriers, who once trailed by 11 points and finally fought up even in the second half and went ahead three different times by one and two points. The Terriers' Kevin Thomas fattened up his scoring with 12 free throws, getting only four hoops but 20 points in all. PC defenced him well at times.

Thomas' hook shot put BU ahead, 59-58 with 6:30 left. Pascale scored for the Friars but Dick Armstrong came back with a set shot, making it 61-60 in BU's favor. Pascale put the Friars out front with a hoop from the side and Canastrari put in a rebound in a scramble. Tirico setup Canastrari for another key shot that made it 66-63 for PC. Thomas put in one of two fouls and BU trailed, 66-65.

When the Friars got the ball with 22 seconds left, they called for a time out, which was their sixth. This gave BU a free throw on the technical foul for the sixth time out and also possession after the shot. Thomas made the shot and BU trailed by one, 66-65. Then BU was working it around for a good shot when Pappas called traveling on Koppel and started a chain of wild happenings.

Tirico put in one free shot and Grady put in a pair before the game ended. Pascale had 16 points in the first half as the Friars led, 42-39. Donahue and Tirico were key men in the closing drive after Ritch and Jenkins had fouled out, while Pascale was the point man. PC was assessed 21 fouls and BU 20.

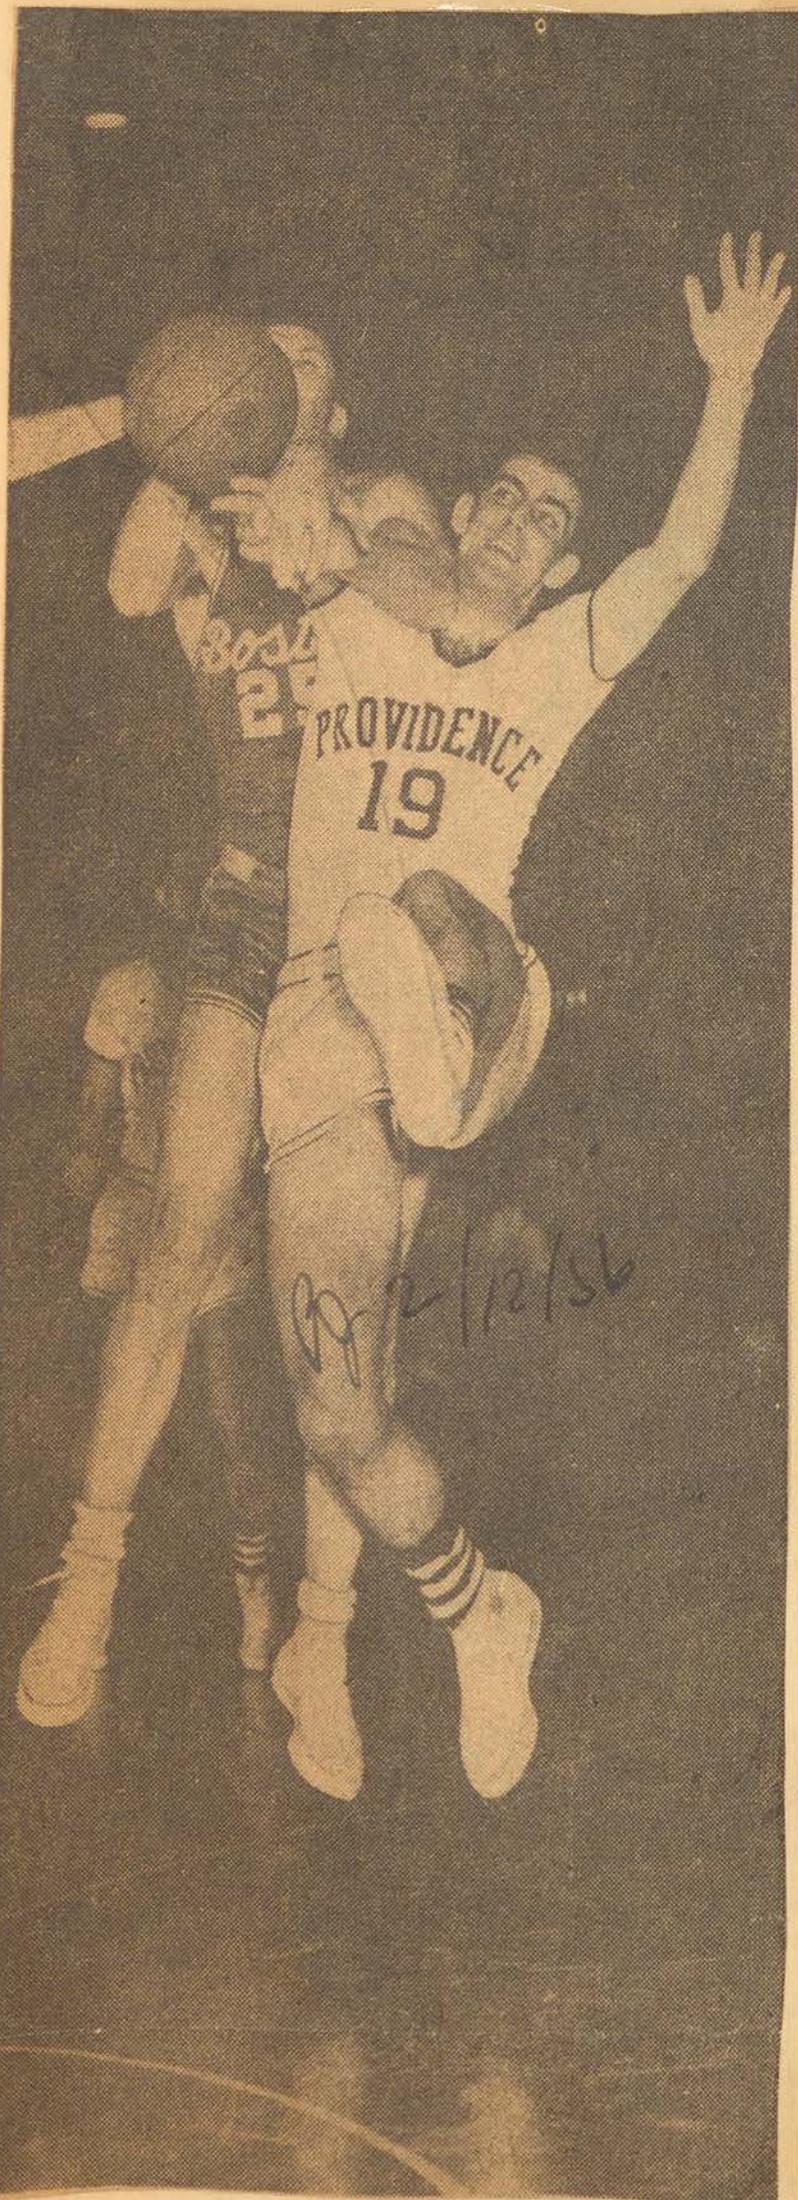

The Providence Frosh scored a 63-58 triumph over the BU Pups with Pete Schementi getting 21 for the Friarlets and Jack Leaman 29 for the Pups.

Rams, Friars

Triumph Over

UMass, Bates

If Billy Von Weyhe, Mike Pascale and Ronnie Marozzi had all been playing in the same lineup and shooting for the same cause last night, they could have just about won a ball game by themselves.

Von Weyhe and Marozzi paced the University of Rhode Island Rams to a 93-78 triumph over Massachusetts in a key Yankee Conference test at Kingston. Meanwhile the Providence College Friars were taking Bates into camp, 78-72, with Pascale as their chief gunner.

30 for Von Weyhe

Von Weyhe had 30 points and Marozzi chipped in 23. Pascale accounted for 28 at PC's Alumni Hall. Collectively this trio had 81 points and 26 baskets, sufficient to win many a ball game and bettering both UMass and Bates' losing totals last night.

Third Straight

The Friars copped their third straight victory on their new court and the six point difference in the outcome is on the deceiving side. Providence actually played better than that and had a 13-point edge going into the final minutes.

Providence faces a much stronger foe tomorrow night in Boston University, which has one of New England's top players in giant Kevin Thomas. The Friars led all during the second half against Bates but the Bobcats spurted several times and closed up the gap appreciably. John Manteiga had 20 points for Bates. Frank Tirico and Johnny Ritch had 14 and 11 respectively.

Visits by Irish, Lions Feature College Week

By JOE McHENRY

This is a big week locally in college basketball with the University of Notre Dame and Columbia playing on Rhode Island courts. The Fighting Irish meet Providence College tomorrow night at PC's Alumni Hall and the Ivy League pace-setters face Brown here Friday at Marvel Gym.

Notre Dame's first basketball visit to these Plantations is one of the top attractions in this or any other season. The Irish opened a three-game Eastern trip Saturday with a 70-63 triumph over Navy and tonight play Holy Cross at Boston Garden. Quite properly, Notre Dame may be looking for some measure of revenge tonight as the Cross handed the Irish one of their more decisive defeats last season.

There was a time earlier in the season when it didn't seem as tough enough opponent for Notre Dame. Currently, however, the Friars have won their last four games and have played some of their best basketball of the year. Providence won an exciting 69-62 decision from Boston University Saturday night.

Up-and-Down Irish

Coached by Johnny Jordan, former Irish captain, Notre Dame has had its ups and downs this season playing a tough schedule. However, the Irish won the Sugar Bowl tournament with victories over Alabama and Utah. Until Saturday night, Holy Cross' only setbacks had come from Alabama and San Francisco, the No. 1 team in the nation. Dartmouth made it three defeats Saturday.

Notre Dame has four of its five starters back from last season. The Irish lost Capt. Jack Stephens via graduation and he now is with the St. Louis club in the NBA. Stephens was one of the top players in the nation last year. However, center Lloyd Aubrey from St. Louis has played well this year. Aubrey, who averages better than 20 points, scored 43 against Butler this season, high mark in Notre Dame basketball.

culminated in Zunic being ejected from the playing area. It was a hard fought game from the outset with PC shackling Kevin Thomas somewhat although committing fouls to do it. The fouls were 21-20, with PC being assessed one more than BU.

Tebo, with 35 points; Billy Weyhe and Ronnie Marozzi with 31 and 24 points respectively, and PC's Pascale, all had big weekends. Tebo and Pascale were major factors in their team's triumphs.

On the hockey scene, Brown and PC hope to get back on a winning trail against Tufts and Northeastern respectively. The Bruins plays Tufts away tomorrow night while PC faces the Huskies at the Auditorium Wednesday night. Harvard just about finished the Bruins' Ivy hopes while PC bowed to St. Francis Xavier of Nova Scotia.

While a large turnout is expected at the Friars' new gymnasium for the Irish visit, the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., the PC athletic director, hasn't yet announced a sell-out. He still had some tickets late yesterday. The Notre Dame is a big draw in basketball and once played to 22,000 plus in Chicago Stadium, the largest college attendance at a basketball game.

Friars Strong Saturday

Coach Matt Zunic of the Terriers and co-referee George Pappas figured in a series of incidents that Around and About . . . The Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., the Friars' director of athletics; Ned Irish, and Gene Flynn of the Cross were among the speakers at the Krause dinner last night at the Harvard Club . . . San Francisco (18-0) and St. Francis of Brooklyn (16-0) are only unbeaten . . . Harvard, 3-1 winner over Brown, is in a good spot in the Ivy hockey circuit with 4-0.

Hoop Lunch on Notes: Matt Zunic, the Boston University coach who was escorted from the court in the closing seconds of Saturday night's game at P.C. had this to say: "The traveling violation that caused all the trouble was called by the official farthest from the player in question. . . . (George) Pappas called it and it should have been (Walter) Day's. . . . he was closest to it . . . Day said to one of my players, 'What did he call?' . . . Then I guess I just lost my head. . . . But I don't want to take anything away from Joe's (Mullaney) victory. . . . His team played fine ball and that (Mike) Pascale sure ruined us. . . . He was like Sharman for the Celtics yesterday . . . couldn't miss."

Friars Geared For Big Effort Against Irish Quintet Tonight

The Providence College Friars will be geared for the "big" effort tonight when they face the University of Notre Dame at PC's Alumni Hall. There's only one game on the program, starting at 8:30, and the game is not a sellout according to the PC athletic office.

Notre Dame is a class ball club as it demonstrated last night in Boston Garden when it bowed to Holy Cross, 84-72, before 9175 customers. The Irish are a far better team than a 7-11 record would indicate but not unbeatable if the Friars come up with a top performance.

Off last night's contest, the Friars will have trouble on the boards for Lloyd Aubrey, John Smyth, Capt. Jack Fannon and Bill Weiman give Notre Dame strong rebounding and defense. The Cross had trouble getting through and hit well on its set shots.

"I had hoped that we would pull this one out," coach Johnny Jordan said in the ND locker-room last night after his club had put up a good ball game. "The Crusaders are a good club, about as good as any we played, possibly excepting Louisville and Illinois. They are terrific, those two.

Same Lineup

"We can't take Providence lightly either. You know we have played some fine games this year but you have to play a little better to win when you are on the road. And some of these teams are really keyed up when they meet us.

"I'm planning on pretty much the same lineup that you saw tonight. I might make a switch in one of my forwards. I thought Aubrey and Smyth did a good job. Our sophomore, Bob Devine, is a fine player. You fellows haven't seen him at his best," Jordan explained.

Coach Joe Mullaney of the Friars was much impressed with the Irish. "They looked pretty good to me," he said. "That Aubrey and Smyth, and Heinsohn, those are all fine players. If we are hitting and the kids are up, we will give a fairly good account of ourselves. Don't forget this is still Notre Dame. And it took a good Holy Cross team to beat them last night, with Heinsohn and Joe Liebler doing some great work."

Have Chance

The Friars have a chance but how much depends on the type of game they play. They have won their last four starts and played well in most of them. Coaches Al Grenert of St. Anselm's and Matt Zunic of Boston University say the Friars could do it, playing at their peak. "A game like they showed against us at Manchester would bother anybody," Grenert commented.

Personnel-wise the Friars don't match either the Cross or ND but playing together and working the ball as they have lately they can play a good brand of ball. Mike Pascale has been the hot shooter lately, getting 29 against BU Saturday. Eddie Donahue, Johnny Ritch, Frank Tirico and Lionel Jenkins are the other Friars' starters and key operators.

Ritch, Jenkins and Donahue will meet their rebounding match in the Notre Dame trio. Scoring honors for the Irish went to Aubrey, with 25, and Smyth, with 18, last night at Boston. Liebler did some deadly set shooting while Heinsohn put in some key hoops when the Irish closed in. Tom Ryan, Joe Hughes and George Waddleton all helped.

High Calibre

Next to Coach Roy Leenig, the happiest people in the Garden, or some of them, were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hughes of Central Falls, Mrs. Mary Lou Whittle and her husband, Fred, and coach Omer Landry of Central Falls High. They were rooting for their "boy" and his board work was of a high calibre as it has been right along.

The Irish, who arrived in town at noon today, came from 10 points back to even last night but then the Cross spurted away from them. Moos Krause, who brought Holy Cross teams here before, was one of those dropped into the Crusader locker-room to extend Notre Dame's congratulations.

Among those watching ND for the first time, there was some doubt as to which is the best ballplayer. The Irish handle the ball well and defended Heinsohn at times. Aubrey is strong underneath and Leenig rates him one of the top men the Cross had faced this season.

JOE McHENRY.

Friars Defeat Notre Dame

Holmes Fires Winning Shot in Thrilling 85-83 Overtime Game

By JOE McHENRY

Gordie Holmes fired the greatest shot of his basketball career last night and it gave the Providence College Friars a thrilling 85-83 overtime victory over Notre Dame at P.C.'s Alumni Hall.

After leading most of the route the Friars were locked in an 83-all tie and it seemed that the game was going into its second overtime period. Providence took a time out with two seconds remaining. Two seconds is a mighty short period but long enough to win a basketball game as P.C. and N.D. found out last night.

The Friars lined up for the throw in the generally acceptable "I" method. Frank Williams had the ball out of bounds at midcourt. Then several Friars broke and Williams gave Holmes a perfect pass near the center line. There wasn't time to think. Holmes just fired the ball in a high arching shot and the buzzer sounded before the ball shot through the hoop.

The winning shot brought a mighty roar from the crowd of 3,400 and then a rush for the court by most of those who had been sitting downstairs. They had Holmes on their shoulders in one spot and Coach Joe Mullaney of the Friars up in the air at another. Some said Joe was crying with happiness, but who could tell definitely?

Mullaney was one of the first to reach Holmes after his perfect pitch and Joe couldn't have been happier if he had made the toss himself. And the Providence College locker room, which has known gloom and despair on occasions this season, was a mighty happy place. You might have thought the Friars had won the World Series, or beaten Notre Dame—which they did.

The Friars have performed some outstanding feats in their young sports history but last night's will go down with the finest of them. This may not be a great Notre Dame basketball team—and nobody is claiming that it is—but it played its heart out and went down with its colors flying.

Providence College was keyed up for an outstanding effort but who imagined the Friars could win the ball game with four of their best players sitting on the bench? When the Friars nipped BU last Saturday, neither Williams, nor Holmes, nor Teddy Tedesco saw much action, if any. And here they were last night, winning the ball game from the Fighting Irish.

Johnny Ritch, Eddie Donahue, Frank Tirico and Mike Pascale, all key men in the Friars scheme of things in their current winning string that has now reached five games, were sitting on the bench when Holmes connected. All had played hard and well but had used up their quota of fouls by that time.

It was justice of a sort that Holmes should be the man to win the ball game. He was placed in a similar spot at the finish of regulation. That time he fired and missed completely on a shot that was much easier by comparison.

Calverley Roots for Pupil

While Holmes, who learned some of his early basketball from Ernie Calverley, was making PC sports history, Rhody's long-shot star was sitting next to Mullaney and rooting in the former Pawtucket Westerner and PC sophomore who played under Calverley last year.

Providence hasn't had a basketball victory to equal last night's triumph in post-war play and perhaps not since the mid 30s.

The Friars played some grand basketball last night. The Irish may have been a little worse for wear after their hard game with Holy Cross the night before but they were a fighting team. They had plenty of chance to coast when the Friars shot into the lead in the first half that once reached 14 points.

Pascale was the Friars' top scorer with 22 points but Williams, who didn't get any, and Jenkins, who got one, were also important. Tedesco, the Brooklyn senior, put in a spectacular one-hand shot that tied the score at 83-all and Holmes helped set it up with a pass.

Unbelievable

Some of the fans couldn't believe what they were seeing as the Friars started out leisurely built up a 13-3 lead and the managed to stay ahead, at 31-22, 40-26 and by 42-32 at the half. They were rebounding well on the defense in the first half and shooting effectively. If they missed, most times ND's rebounders got the ball.

In the second half, the Friars didn't have as much poise. At least they weren't as sure as they had been and Notre Dame started to play better. Providence's lead fluctuated from 65-53 to 67-61 in a reasonably short period. Bob Devine, John Smyth and Lloyd Aubrey accounted for the Irish spurt.

With about four minutes remaining, Notre Dame had come up within three points, 69-66, on Devine's foul-shooting and Smyth's hoop. It was 71-66 and then 73-68. At that point Bill Weiman scored on a drive, Ed Gleason dropped in a free throw and Smyth's tap-in rebound from a scramble tied up the game at 73-each.

Plans Miscarry

The Friars held the ball for a last shot and Holmes had to take it from well out and missed. The idea was for Pascale to shoot as he's PC's most prolific scorer these days but somehow things didn't work out that way.

Notre Dame was favored going into the overtime as the Irish were playing better and PC wasn't doing as well and pressing. The Friars got a basket by Holmes, a free throw by Jenkins and another hoop by Holmes and went ahead, 77-73. John McCarthy's basket from a scramble and Devine's hoop sparked ND but the Irish still trailed, 79-78.

For the first time since the opening tap, Notre Dame took the lead, 81-79, as Smyth converted a pair of free throws after a single point by Gleason. Holmes moved the PC men around with a wave of his hand and drove for the tying basket at 81-each. Then Gleason dribbled down the middle alley to make it 83 for Notre Dame with 1:49 left. Tedesco put in the equalizer and Holmes sent the Friars' rooters home happy with his 45-foot shot.

Friars Upset N.D.

Holmes' Last-Second Shot Gives P.C. 85-83 Victory

By JOE McHENRY

Notre Dame, noted for its brilliant sports triumphs, saw the Providence College Friars reverse the script last night at Alumni Hall in one of the most thrilling finishes this state has ever seen on a basketball court.

Gordie Holmes' 45-foot basket from midcourt that went in after the buzzer gave the Friars an 85-83 overtime victory. It would have been a thriller no matter who was playing but when it happened against the Fighting Irish, that's something that won't be topped in many seasons.

When the game was made, nobody gave the Friars a chance. And even last night after PC had played so well, many figured the Irish's all-around savvy would payoff in the clutch. Instead the Friars came up with their biggest hoop victory in years and years.

Mob Scene

The Friars staged a mob scene that would have done credit to a Cecil B. DeMille after Holmes' winning shot. Gordie played his role terrifically and no matter what he does in the future that pitch will be his trademark. However, Frankie Williams made a perfect pass and the other Friars, Ted Tedesco, Lionel Jenkins and Roger Canastrari, carried out their duties as fakers.

It was an unusual game in a lot of ways. The Friars won it with their four top men, John Ritch, Frank Tirico, Eddie Donahue and Mike Pascale, unable to lend a hand as each had fouled out after turning in an outstanding job. The Friars had to play well to make it a game, even and it was undoubtedly the best all-around game PC has shown in a long time.

"Providence College has a nice team," commented Coach Johnny Jordan. "I thought we did well to get back in the game. After all, we were 10 points down. The Friars were really keyed up but you can't take anything away from them. They saw their chance to win it and they did. That was some shot that kid put in."

"Just Wonderful"

"I never thought we could do it," was one of Joe Mullaney's remarks in one of his more coherent moments. "The kids played swell and I still think Notre Dame has a fine team. When Holy Cross had so much trouble with them the night before, I didn't think it could be done. And if Tedesco hadn't sunk that one-hander we would have been sunk anyway. Holmes' shot was just wonderful."

"That's the greatest sports accomplishment in my time," the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P. said today. "Maybe they underestimated us but it certainly is a splendid victory. Moose Krause (the ND athletic director) said a lot of nice things about our team but naturally they were disappointed. The Notre Dame boys are a fine group and I'm happy everything went the way it did."

Bob Devine, Notre Dame sophomore, was the leading scorer with 24 points, while Smythe and Lloyd Aubrey had 18 and 16. Mike Pascale paced the Friars with 22 while Eddie Donahue had 17.

The Friars have scored other notable sports victories but never have they had the opportunity to beat Notre Dame in basketball until last night. Providence played more like Notre Dame was expected to in the first half. But you couldn't fault the Irish who played an aggressive game and bounded back when many another team would have called it a night.

Key Interception

With Notre Dame ahead by a basket, Williams made a key interception of a long pass. Holmes scored nine of the Friars' last 12 points and also gave Tedesco the ball when Teddy dunked a one-hander on a flashy shot that made it 83-81. Johnny Smyth of the Irish missed a pop shot about seven or eight seconds from the finish that enabled PC to get the ball for its last winning effort.

Jenkins had the presence of mind to get a timeout with two seconds left. It was a long shot chance at best but PC carried in through perfectly and then the Friar fans carried Coach Joe Mullaney and shooter Holmes off the court on their shoulders.

Charlie Callahan, the ND publicity man on sports, has seen many an Irish victory. But he was thrilled at the finish even though his club lost. And so was Paul Neville of the South Bend Tribune and thousands of others. It was that kind of a situation.

"I remember a game we won like that one time," Callahan said. "We beat George Mikan's club. Billy Hassett, you'll remember his brother Buddy, who played with the Braves and the Yankees, put the shot in similarly to this one and the gun went off with the ball in the air. And Mikan's De Paul team was a great one."

Holmes' 45-Foot Shot Gives Friars 85-83 Win Over Irish

PAWTUCKET TIMES 2/8/56

By TED MULCAHEY

A dramatic 45-foot shot by Lincoln's Gordon Holmes gave the Providence College basketball team a spine-tingling 85-83 overtime victory over Notre Dame last night at Alumni Hall.

Standing just inside the mid-court stripe, the former West High star let fly with a breathtaking shot just as the final second of the extra session ticked off on the clock. The ball was in the air when the horn sounded and when it swished cleanly through the hoop bedlam broke loose.

Holmes was mobbed by teammates and students in a demonstration which will long be remembered by the packed gymnasium. Then both Holmes and Coach Joe Mullaney were borne off the court on the shoulders of the PC rooters.

The finish was only fitting to the thrill-packed game which undoubtedly will go down as one of the most brilliant triumphs in the history of Providence College basketball.

Irish Rally

Ahead almost from start to finish, the Friars saw the heavily favored Irish quintet rally in the closing minutes of regulation time to gain a 73-73 tie with 1:25 to play.

The Friars then stalled, waiting for a good shot in the closing seconds. With 12 seconds to play PC took time out to set up what it hoped would be a decisive play. The Friars sought to get the ball to Mike Pascale for the last second shot but Holmes instead wound up with the ball and his hurried shot was wide of the mark.

However, if Holmes was fearful of becoming the "goat" of the game, his fears were short-lived, for the local youngster stole the show in the overtime session.

Nine of the 11 points Holmes

scored during the game came in the five-minute extra session. He broke the tie with a foul shot to open the overtime and after Lionel Jenkins had tossed in another free throw Holmes drove in for a twisting shot to give the Friars a 77-73 bulge.

Ed Gleason converted a foul shot and John McCarthy tapped in the rebound of Gleason's second free throw to cut the PC advantage to a single point.

Notre Dame Takes Lead

Holmes took the pressure off by converting a pair of charity tosses. But then the Irish racked up five points in a row on a driving layup by Bob Devine and foul shots by Gleason and big John Smyth.

That gave Notre Dame an 81-79 lead, its first of the entire game. Again Holmes came through for the Friars, driving in for another basket to deadlock the count.

With 1:49 to go, Gleason tallied for the Irish, but Ralph Tedesco's jump shot evened the score once more at 83-all. Here the Irish went into a stall to run out the clock with the hope of taking a game-winning shot at the finish.

Irish Bid Fails

However, Smyth was harassed on his shot with eight seconds to go and the Friars came out of the scramble with the ball. Only two seconds remained when PC called time out and when play was resumed there was just time enough for Holmes to get off his game-winning shot.

It was by far the high point of the season for the Friar quintet which shot in brilliant fashion, battled tenaciously and never panicked when Notre Dame came roaring down the stretch to deadlock the count and all but pull out the decision.

Making the victory more surprising was the fact that four of the PC regulars were sitting on the bench at the finish, John Ritch, Ed Donahue, Frank Turico and Mike Pascale having fouled out.

But, like the entire PC contingent, they had a great night before they were banished. Pascale tossed in 22 points, Donahue 13, Turico 15 and Ritch 14 in setting the pace for the Friars in the early going.

PC raced to a 9-2 lead at the outset, led by as much as 14 points in the first half and had a 42-32 bulge at the intermission. The Friars continued to set the pace through the second half, opening up a 56-42 gap before Notre Dame started the long road back.

After the Irish had rallied to deadlock the count, the Friar cause looked dismal going into the overtime. But Holmes took over and all but settled the issue himself.

Gordie Holmes, Lincoln Resident, Scores Winning Basket On 45-Footer With 2 Seconds Left To Play

By JOE O'ROURKE

In New York's Madison Square Garden there is a marker embedded in the floor showing the spot from which Ernie Calverly let fly the shot which tied the 1946 National Invitation Tournament game for Rhode Island State against Bowling Green.

The floor of Providence College's Alumni Hall is a lot newer than the one in Madison Square Garden and some people might object to chiseling a piece out of it, but it wouldn't be surprising to see a movement start to put in a marker at the spot where Gordie Holmes stood when he let go the shot which gave the Friars an 85-83 overtime victory over Notre Dame on Tuesday night.

Will Be Remembered

Holmes, a six foot sophomore from Pawtucket West High School and a resident of Lincoln, could quit basketball today assured that he will always be remembered as "The man who beat Notre Dame." His name has been etched indelibly in P. C. Athletic History.

The shot couldn't have come much later in the proceedings. The ball was passed in with two seconds left in the overtime period, and the shot was still in the air when the buzzer sounded. The final buzzer was a signal for pandemonium to break out in Alumni Hall.

Holmes, Mullaney Mobbed

Students rushed on the floor and lifted Holmes to their shoulders. Others grabbed an emotionally spent Joe Mullaney and bore him off beside Holmes. Mullaney piled up some tremendous memories as a player at Holy Cross, but it seems doubtful that any, including the 1947 NCAA tourney victory, could rank with this first big triumph of his still young coaching career.

The Tuesday night victory should call off some of the wolves who had been hollering for Mullaney's scalp even at this early date. There has been some criticism, both verbally and in print, of Joe's efforts to find a winning combination, but the carnivorous beasts who prowl in the shadows seeking another coach to devour will now have to find other game to tackle.

The victory also should drive to cover those who have aimed their barbs at the P. C. Athletic Department for scheduling such teams as Notre Dame, Georgetown, and Holy Cross. The Crusaders will be in town next Wednesday, and there should be another capacity crowd on hand to watch the Friars who should be in an upset mood unless they suffer a natural let-down after surprising the Irish.

Had A Lot Of Help

However, if Holmes was the man who wrote the headlines, he had a lot of help with the other copy. From the opening tap, it was obvious that Providence College was ready for the South Benders.

The crowd sat stunned as Mullaney's marauders moved away to a 13-3 advantage and stayed in front by such impressive margins as 31-22, 40-26, and 42-32.

Notre Dame, which now has lost four of the five overtime games in which it has been involved, began to come on in the second half, but Providence College still stayed in front until the Friars held a 73-68 lead with about three minutes to play.

Bill Weisman's basket, Ed Gleason's free throw, and John Smyth's tap-in of a rebound got Notre Dame even at 73 points. Holmes, seemingly fated to play the role of the giant killer, had an opportunity to win the game on a shot with four seconds remaining in regulation play, but the shot was nowhere near the basket.

Notre Dame gets a brand new fan in the person of Richard Moretti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Moretti of Cranston, who is being given a basketball by Notre Dame's athletic director, Ed (Moose) Krause. Looking on, left to right, are: Mr. Moretti, Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., Providence College athletic director, and Jim Murphy, prexy of the Notre Dame Club of R.I. PROVIDENCE — Providence College's Friars turned in one of their more notable basketball victories last night when they slipped by touring Notre Dame, 85-83, in an overtime thriller at Alumni Hall.

Gordie Holmes took a passout from offside, with two seconds of playing time remaining in the extra session, and fired in the general direction of the basket, all in the same motion. His shot was right on the button, and gave the ambitious Providence five a sweet decision.

Notre Dame lost to Holy Cross the previous night, 84-72.

It looked for all the world that a second extra session would be needed, when Holmes ended things with his dramatic hoop from near the center line.

The crowd of 3,400 let out a mighty roar. Then some of the fans lifted Holmes to their shoulders, while others made their way to Coach Joe Mullaney of the happy victors and lofted him into the air. It will go down, for sure, as one of the great nights in Providence College's athletic history.

Johnny Ritch, Eddie Donahue, Frank Tirico and Mike Pascale, all key men in the Friar offensive scheme, were sitting on the bench when the end came, each having fouled out.

Lionel Jenkins, formerly of Mount St. Charles, although he scored but one basket, played an outstanding game for PC. Roger Canestrari, who learned his basketball under Frank Flynn at Bellingham, also was impressive in the important tailend portion of the hectic fray.

Pascale was the Friars' top scorer with 22 points. Bob Devine of Notre Dame collected 24 points and Johnny Smyth 18.

LAST SECOND SHOT UPSETS JORDAN FIVE

12th Defeat Ends Eastern Tour For N. D.

By PAUL NEVILLE.

Tribune Managing Editor.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Notre Dame's basketball team continued its goodwill tour of the East here Tuesday night by dropping an 85-83 thriller to Providence College on a mid-court shot that swished through the net a split second after the gun signaled the end of an overtime period.

The winning basket, thrown at the hoop from 44 feet out by sophomore substitute Gordon Holmes, brought a swarm of exuberant Providence fans onto the floor to parade the hero off the floor on a wave of cheering humanity.

It was a discouraging loss for the Irish who appeared sluggish and tired after three tough road games in four days, but Coach Johnny Jordan's boys battled back from a 16-point deficit early in the second half to knot the count at 73-all when regulation time expired.

Notre Dame never led during the first 40 minutes, but a free throw by Eddie Gleason and a tap-in by John Smyth when Gleason's second toss missed the rim tied the score at 73 apiece with 1:30 left to play. Providence went into a stall and took time out with 12 seconds left but a last second shot, also by Holmes, missed.

Lead by Four.

In the overtime the Friars took a four-point lead but a free throw by Gleason evened the count at 79 each and two charity tosses by Smyth sent the Irish into the lead for the first time at 81-79. A lay-in by the pesky Holmes tied things again but Gleason's lay-in moved N.D. ahead. Ralph Tedesco's pop from 12 feet out, his only basket of the game, matched Gleason's two-pointer with less than a minute to play in the overtime.

Notre Dame controlled the ball and at the seven-second mark Smyth took a soft jump shot from the side. The ball rolled off the rim, fell into the hands of a Friar who tore down court and called time out with two seconds showing on the clock.

When play was resumed Frank Williams fired the ball in from midcourt to Holmes who was standing behind a screen of three Friars. The Providence guard lofted the ball in a towering arch toward the hoop. The gun sounded as the ball started its downward flight and Notre Dame lost its 12th game of the season, four of them overtime contests.

Slow Starters.

After their grueling game against Holy Cross in Boston Monday night, the Irish were slow to get rolling and chalked up only one basket in the first seven minutes of play while Providence was flushing into a 13-3 lead. With nine minutes remaining in the game the Friars commanded a 10-point lead.

Coach Jordan used substitutes freely in the second half but went all the way with Bob Devine whose drive-ins helped him to 24 points. Lloyd Aubrey had 16 points and Smyth 20. Bill Weiman picked up 10.

Providence got double figure scoring from five men, most damaging of whom was Mike Pasquale whose seven baskets and eight free throws accounted for 22 points. The Friars were deadly from the outside. Ed Donahue had 17 points. Frank Tirico 15, John Ritch 14 and hero Holmes 11. Three Providence players were retired on five fouls while Aubrey and Weiman were picking up five apiece for N.D. The Irish hit on 29 out of 41 free throws.

The game was the first in history between Notre Dame and Providence College and winds up the eastern trip with a victory over Navy and losses to Holy Cross and the Friars. The Irish, with five games remaining, have seven victories.

ND Takes The Lead

Holmes, very much in evidence in the late stages of the ball game, got PC off in front in overtime with a basket. Lionel Jenkins, former Mount St. Charles standout, scored his only point of the game on a free throw, and Holmes, who totaled 11 points for the game, scored another two-pointer. With John McCarthy and Bob Devine leading the way, Notre Dame cut the margin to 79-78 before Smyth's two free throws and another by Gleason put the Indiana lads ahead for the first time at 81-79.

Holmes, certainly a clutch performer, got it knotted at 81 points. Gleason put ND in front again, but Ted Tedesco knotted the score, setting the stage for Holmes' winning toss.

It was a team victory, despite the one-man ending. The subs took over when Johnny Ritch, Frank Tirico, Mike Pascale, and Ed Donahue fouled out.

Pascale led the Friars with 22 points, and Donahue scored 17. Tirico had 15, while Ritch scored 14. Devine with 24 and Smyth with 18 were Notre Dame's high point producers.

Unmatched Jubilation

There may have been bigger nights and bigger victories in Providence College's athletic history, but no observer would have known it on Tuesday night. The gym and locker room were scenes of unmatched jubilation after the final buzzer.

The victory should move Providence College up in the New England college ratings, and a triumph over Holy Cross next Wednesday could lead to big things for a club which seemed destined for mediocrity only a few short weeks ago.

Bruin Six Beats Tufts, 7-1; P.C. to Host Northeastern

Activity of Rhode Island College hockey teams this week, started last night when Brown defeated Tufts 7 to 1, will continue at the Auditorium tonight with Providence College playing Northeastern.

This will be the first time since Jan. 10 that the Providence College six will have the advantage of home ice. The Friars lost to St. Francis Xavier at Lynn in their last game but Coach Dick Rondeau expects their scoring punch to reappear tonight.

Tufts scored its lone goal in the third minute of the game at Lynn but Brown soon took the lead and were in front 3 to 1 at the end of the first period. The Bruins scored four more in the second. Neither team scored in the last period. Pete Tutless scored two of the Brown goals.

This was the seventh victory in 15 games for the Bruins this season. It was their third over Tufts in a three-game series that started in 1951.

Friar Sextet On Home Ice For a Change

For the first time in more than a month, since Jan. 10, the Providence College hockey team will have the advantage of home ice tonight as it plays Northeastern at the Rhode Island Auditorium.

Although the Friars lost to St. Francis Xavier in Lynn the last time out, it is believed that their scoring punch will reassert itself against Northeastern. Ed Monahan is among the nation's high scorers.

Irish Lose On Shot As Time Ends

—A long shot by Gordon Holmes from mid-court as the buzzer sounded enabled Providence College to upset Notre Dame, 85-83, tonight in an overtime basketball thriller at the Friars' new gym.

A long set shot by Holmes at the buzzer ending regulation play just missed and the two teams entered the five-minute overtime tied 73-all. John Smyth's tap-in at 18:30 had deadlocked the count for Notre Dame.

In the overtime, Providence broke into the lead, but Notre Dame came back to go ahead 81-79. A basket by Holmes tied the count again at 81-all, but a two-pointer by Ed Gleason gave the Irish an 81-83 margin.

With 75 seconds to play, Holmes passed to Teddy Tedesco to make it 83-all. Notre Dame took the ball, but lost it with two seconds to go and Providence called time out.

Frank Williams fired the ball in to Holmes, who let go his booming set shot from just inside the midcourt stripe, a split second before the buzzer ending the overtime session.

By JOE McHENRY

Both Providence College and Rhode Island chalked up victories yesterday, with the Friars beating Boston College, 63-51, and the Rams toppling Vermont, 88-78. The Connecticut UConns, who meet Rhody tomorrow night at Storrs, had more trouble than expected scoring an 80-74 verdict over Northeastern

The Friars defeated Don Martin's Eagles yesterday at the Heights with Frank Tirico's set shooting, John Ritch's rebounding and a strong first half attack being the main ingredients. The Eagles played much better in the second half and came within six points before the Friars started to roll again.

There was a letdown by the Friars after the brilliant victory over Notre Dame but it didn't come until the second half. BC had a chance to win it and may prove tougher on the Friars' own court tomorrow night. The Eagles' scrambling style got them back in the game.

"We had the right defense," commented the BC coach, "but one of our boys played it too deep and that gave Tirico an easier shot. He put in some nice ones. I have been impressed with the work of John Ritch. I thought he did well in the Notre Dame game and he was great today."

Calverley Agrees

And that other young old pro, Ernie Calverley, who handles the Friar Frosh, was in agreement. Ernie's squad nearly upset the BC Frosh, who had lost only one game. It was one to three-point game much of the route and BC only had a two-point lead when it clinched the game with two seconds left.

Tirico (21), Eddie Donahue (10), Mike Pascale (15), Lionel Jenkins (8), Ritch (7) and Gordie Holmes (2) did the Friar scoring. Jack Harrington, like his coach a De La Salle alumnus, had 16 points for BC while Dick Dunn of Attleboro chipped in eight. Ken Clements had 25 points for the PC Frosh.

Rhody has won seven of the last eight while PC has a winning streak of six. The Rams could scramble the Conference standing with an upset triumph over UConn, which misses rebounder Art Quimby more than it thought it would.

Friars' Six Triumphs Easily Over Northeastern, 6 to 2

By EARL LOFQUIST

Providence College won a surprisingly easy victory over Northeastern at the Auditorium last night. The score was 6-2, and it would have been higher except for some superior goal-tending by the losing team's Bill Lawn.

Providence's goalie, Phil Crawford, had a shutout going with less than six minutes to play, but then the Friar defense, which had been tight all night, lapsed momentarily and he was beaten by Mark Wenham twice in the space of 26 seconds.

The Friars scored once in the first period, three times in the second and added two more goals in the third. They forced the action all the way, and pretty much controlled the puck the several times they were at a penalty disadvantage. Seven penalties were called against them, as against two for the visitors, perhaps reflecting their greater aggressiveness.

Both sides were at full strength when Wenham got the two goals for Northeastern.

Rod Gorman scored two for Providence, and assisted in the making of two others. The other four Providence goals were made by Paul Sainato, Red Rabor, Ed Monahan and Capt. Bob Reall.

In a game between freshman teams, Providence College defeated Northeastern, 4-2.

This has been the biggest week for fireworks along the local college sports front in a long, long time. Taking the top events, and not necessarily in order of importance, there was Hal Kopp's acceptance of the head football coaching berth at Brigham Young University; Providence College's smashing victory over Notre Dame, and Brown's upset of Princeton in basketball.

The Providence College Friars, who conquered Notre Dame on Tuesday for one of the greatest sports triumphs in PC's history, open a home-and-home series with Boston College today. The Friars and the Eagles meet at Newton today on the BC campus and will play again on Saturday night at PC's Alumni Hall.

Coach Joe Mullaney and the Friars must guard against any let-down against Dino Martin's Eagles. The BC squad played a strong game against Springfield last Saturday, a team that the Friars topped by the margin of Pat Grady's last minute foul shooting. BC defeated the Rams early in the season.

The Friars have been playing well lately, with a run of five straight triumphs. Martin scouted them several times, including the Notre Dame game, and may come up with something to give them trouble. Providence and BC have played some spirited games in recent seasons, with past records meaning little.

Providence Signed Correct Hoop Coach; Proof of Notre Dame Defeat Via Mullaney

By JACK BARRY

Little Providence College upset mighty Notre Dame in basketball last Tuesday night.

The students were still dazedly wandering on the campus at 3 a. m. following the game.

In his own sleep, Rev. A. B. Begley, athletic director, probably smiled happily.

It was Father Begley who led the search last Spring for a new basketball coach to teach the Friars. Vin Cuddy, the incumbent, was moving into the administration field.

Inspiration a Must

"We wanted a coach with experience, but not necessarily years of it—an 'inspirational' man who'd be liked and admired by his players," Fr. Begley said.

The search led to Joe Mullaney, a Boston Garden favorite when he played with Holy Cross in the days of Cousy and Kaftan . . . since then a winning (18-6) coach in his first season at Norwich.

He was named from a final field of six candidates, and now Providence College is celebrating the greatest sports victory of its history.

True, Notre Dame was caught on the rebound from a "must" game against Holy Cross at the Boston Garden the previous night which they lost.

But not even the most ardent Friars' rooters figured Mullaney's team to take this one. The Irish who play one of the roughest schedules in the land, were weary from the terrific pace of the night before in Boston.

Providence, which looked woeiful in losing to Georgetown two weeks earlier, and which was definitely stepping out of its class against a team which had nothing to gain and everything to lose, upset Notre Dame because it played "the way Mullaney wanted them to play."

Had Won Four Straight

With but two seniors on the squad, Providence had won four straight since the Georgetown debacle, and held their poise for the first 37 minutes against Notre Dame.

"We then started to tighten up," said Coach Mullaney, "and a few bad shots were taken. We had a five-point lead with three minutes to go and started to freeze. Our mistakes, which were natural considering how well we had played, told, and the Irish tied us at the end of regulation play, 73-all.

JOE MULLANEY, whose Providence College basket ball squad upset Notre Dame, 85-83, is a winning coach while learning.

It was felt the Friars would wilt here under the overtime pressure and when Coach Mullaney lost his fourth man via the foul route, curtains loomed for Providence.

The Friars' coach had to call on Gordon Holmes, a sophomore, previously at Pawtucket West High School in Lincoln, R. I., to round out his "last resort" quintet, and the "rookie" came through.

The lad drove in for the tying basket at 81-all and then with two seconds left, arched a half-court long set shot, which slipped through the meshes without disturbing a string to give the Friars their unbelievable 85-83 verdict.

Coaches prefer, and rightly so, to give full credit to their players, and Mullaney is no different than others in this respect. But, those close to the scene, and the players themselves, are as one, in awarding full recognition to Mullaney's coaching ability.

How does Joe coach?

As a typical ex-New York player and one who lives, eats and drinks basket ball the year round, Mullaney insists that "ball handling, and ball handling alone, makes good players and good teams."

Moving Minus the Ball

"A boy can learn to shoot," said Joe, "he can practice all alone or against one other lad and learn. But if he can't ball handle he can't help a team. He can't get into position for the good shot. He can't bother his opponent unless he knows how to move, even without the ball . . . that's ball handling."

Mullaney won games at Norwich, with a weak squad, according to the severest Cadet critics, "on defense." Said one, "Joe would stop a game and defense a rival coach right out of his effective attack."

Mullaney is learning to be a better coach as he goes along, and he is winning. The Friars, who figured to do not better than 12-11 or so at the season's outset with their rough schedule, are now 12-6. They have won six straight, and have taken 10 while losing only three to New England opposition.

Fr. Begley said, "I feel a bit vindicated, myself, if I do say so. They said the schedule was too tough, but Mullaney has convinced them he could win despite it. I guess we made the right choice last May."

Newton, Mass. — The Providence College Friars piled up a commanding lead in the first half as they scored a 63-51 triumph over Don Martin's Boston College Eagles here yesterday.

The victory was the sixth straight for the Friars, who played well enough to win but below the form of their victory over Notre Dame earlier in the week.

Frank Tirico, the sharpshooting sophomore from New York City, put on a fine exhibition of set shooting as he led the Friars with 21 points. The Eagles sloughed off in their zone defense and that gave Tirico a chance to show his talents.

Tirico made five of his first eight tosses in the first half as the Friars went out to a 16-point lead, 38-22. He also hit on four more sets in the final 20 minutes and his scoring shots were deadly. When he started to connect early in the first half, the Friars started to pull away.

Hurting

Johnny Ritch of the Friars continued his top-flight work on the boards. The big center from Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., has hit his rebounding and defensive stride of late. His work has been an important but perhaps unsung factor in the club's achievements.

"Outside of Tirico's fine shooting, Ritch's work on the boards hurt us more than anything else," commented Dino Martin, the Newport product who coaches the Eagles.

Providence had a phenomenal run of free shooting in the first half, making its first 14 tries. In that stretch Eddie Donahue had four conversions, Ritch one and Mike Pascale made nine before he missed. The Friars were handling the ball, shooting and driving well in the first half while Boston College was having trouble with its shooting game. Lionel Jenkins put in a couple of nice jumpers in the first half.

The Friars were playing a forcing game at the outset and the Eagles hit a dry spell in which they failed to score a basket in approximately 10 minutes as P.C. boosted its lead from 11 points to 18, and finally 16 at halftime.

Pep Talk

The Eagles, who were shooting for an upset, might have had a better chance if they had reversed the halves and played as well in the first as they did in the second. They shifted their tactics, hustled more and crowded the Friars after intermission.

Providence played it a little leisurely early in the second half and Boston College started to hit. With Newporter Jack Harrington, Ron Bielicki of Buffalo and Attleboro's Dick Dunn doing some good work, the Friars found their lead cut to six points at 46-40.

Coach Joe Mullaney gave his boys a pep talk during a timeout and Providence started to play more like itself again. The Friars had been outscored by a 20-11 margin when they hit the final 10 minutes. Then Tirico, Ritch and Gordie Holmes took charge of things.

Harrington and Dunn led the B.C. scorers with 16 and eight points, respectively, while Tirico (21), Pascale (15) and Donahue (10) paced the Friars.

The capable B.C. Frosh made it 11 out of 12 with a 63-59 triumph over the Friar Freshmen after having led 32-31, at halftime. Ken Clements of the Friars had 25 points and was top scorer.

Friars Ground Eagles Again

77-69 Victory 7th in Row for P.C.

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars ran their current winning string to seven straight with a 77-69 triumph over the Boston College Eagles before 1,500 enthusiastic fans last night at the Friars Alumni Hall.

Playing a smooth floor game and shooting accurately, the Friars swept the series with the Eagles for the first time in several years. The final tally makes the game look a lot closer than it actually was as Providence held commanding leads in the second half.

The Friars have been working as a unit during their current string, which includes triumphs over Rhode Island and Notre Dame. However they have another big test coming up when Holy Cross, New England's ranking team, comes here on Wednesday night.

Lionel Jenkins, the bouncing sophomore from Mount St. Charles, played excellently last night, contributing 13 points and picking off 11 rebounds. He got several of the rebounds in clutch situations that relieved the pressure.

The Eagles played an improved game over their Thursday performance, also against PC, but the Friars are doing an outstanding job these days and fought them off when they did threaten in the second half.

Providence connected for 31 baskets in 70 shots and missed only two free throws in 17 attempts. In the first half, the Friars shot a shade under 50 per cent, putting in some crisp clean shots that had the fans applauding their efforts.

Scoring honors were nearly evenly divided among Mike Pascale, Frank Tirico, Eddie Donahue and Jenkins. Mike leads the club in scoring, who had 18 points and nine baskets. Set-shooter Tirico had eight hoops and some of them were his patented specialties. Johnny Ritch did his bit in the rebounding and defensive department.

Providence started out at a hot pace, with Jenkins, Tirico and Pascale all hitting, and Ritch and Donahue setting up and helping out. The Friars had a 27-19 lead at the 10-minute mark and led by 11, 35-24, with six minutes remaining. Pat Cahill and George Bigalow sparked an Eagle rally that cut the lead to six points as the Friars held a 41-35 advantage at intermission.

Coach Donald Martin sent his club out to play it a little different at the start of the second half and in a short time the Eagles were breathing on the Friars' necks. Jack Harrington a De La Salle grad and All-Stater, put in a shot from the corner and then two free throws, making it 45-40. Dick Skeffington's hoop brought the Eagles within three points, 45-42.

But right there the game assumed a definite Providence tinge. The Friars, who had been outplayed during the Eagles' spurt, suddenly caught fire and inside of three minutes the game was long gone for all the Eagles' hopes and hustle.

Surge That Won Game

Jenkins put in a jumper, Donahue tallied seven straight points, and Tirico went down the alley and scored on a nifty pass from Donahue. That surge, which also included a couple of Jenkins' rebounds that choked off BC bids, decided the ball game. After that, Providence had a 14-point edge, 56-42.

The Friars had margins of 14 to 20 points, leading 73-53, before the Eagles closed it up against the Friar reserves in the late moments.

With George Giersch collecting 28 points, the BC Frosh made it 12 out of 13 with a 74-67 victory over Friarlets. Dick Bessette, former Central Falls athlete, and Pete Schementi paced the young Friars with 24 and 20 respectively.

Providence College will be out to square up its hockey series with Brown when the teams meet Tuesday night at the Auditorium. Jim Fullerton's Bears knocked off Yale, 3-1, Saturday with sophomore Eddie Allard getting two goals and Kevit Cook the other. Brown's defense, centering on goalie Harry Batchelder, checked the Eli bids to pull it out.

The Providence College Friars put their seven-game winning string on the line Wednesday against Holy Cross, which has already accepted a bid to the NCAA as one of the at-large teams. The Crusaders, easily the ranking team in New England, have split their last four, bowing to Dartmouth and Canisius and beating Notre Dame and Colgate.

Tickets are still available for the PC-Crusaders' encounter, although this game figures to bring more people into the Friars' Alumni Hall than did the Notre Dame game last week. Off their victory over the Fighting Irish, the Friars must be given a chance against the Cross.

Tom Heinsohn of the Crusaders, who has been among the nation's top five or six leading scorers for most of the season, is probably the top name player to appear on a Rhode Island court this season. Heinsohn had 33 against Colgate, and 24 against Canisius as the Cross went down to its fourth setback in 24 games.

Friars Shoot Well
Providence shot well Saturday in scoring its second victory over Dino Martin's Boston College squad. The Friars have couple of tough ones on their hands for after the Cross, the go to Springfield, which has generally proven a rough hurdle for them in the past.
