Seniors

Senior

JOSEPH WILLIAM McMULLEN

Ph.B.—Social Science

28 Denver St., Pawtucket, R. I.

Saint Raphael Academy, Pawtucket, R. I.

Senior President, '48; Junior Treasurer, '47; VERITAS Advertising Staff, '48, Circulation Staff, '47; Junior Prom Committee, '47; Intramural Basketball and Football, '47, '48; Blackstone Valley Club, '47, '48, Vice-President, '47.

This is ever-likable "Joe," President of the Senior class, veteran of three years in the armed services, Vice-President of the Blackstone Valley Club, and formerly Treasurer of the Junior class. Included in "Joe's" extensive repertoire of accomplishments is a great love for athletics of all types. He expects to continue his studies in graduate school, pursuing social work.

JAMES JOSEPH EGAN

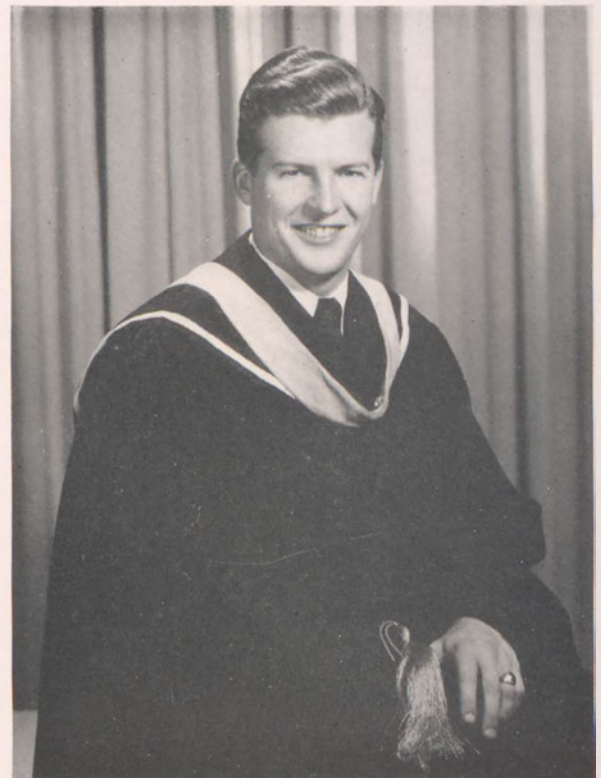

B.S.—Business Administration

256 Rankin Ave., Providence, R. I.

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Senior Vice-President, '48; Sophomore President, '46; Junior Prom Committee, '47; Mid-Winter Dance Committee, '48; Intramural Basketball, '43, '46; Friars Club, '47, '48; Senior Business Club, '48.

"Jim," a veteran of three years in the Army, returned to the college in 1946 to complete the business course he began four years before. He had been active in extracurricular affairs in 1942 and 1943, and he again assumed a position of leadership, when his many friends elected him President of his Sophomore class. As a Junior he contributed invaluable aid to the prom committee. Now, as a Senior, he again holds class office. His efforts in the interest of his Alma Mater have merited the deep appreciation of his fellow students.

Officers

JOSEPH FRANCIS McNALLY

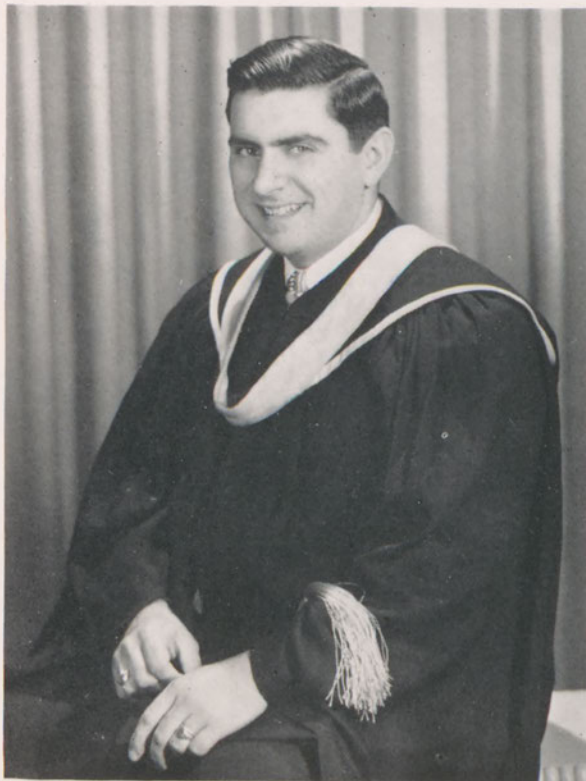

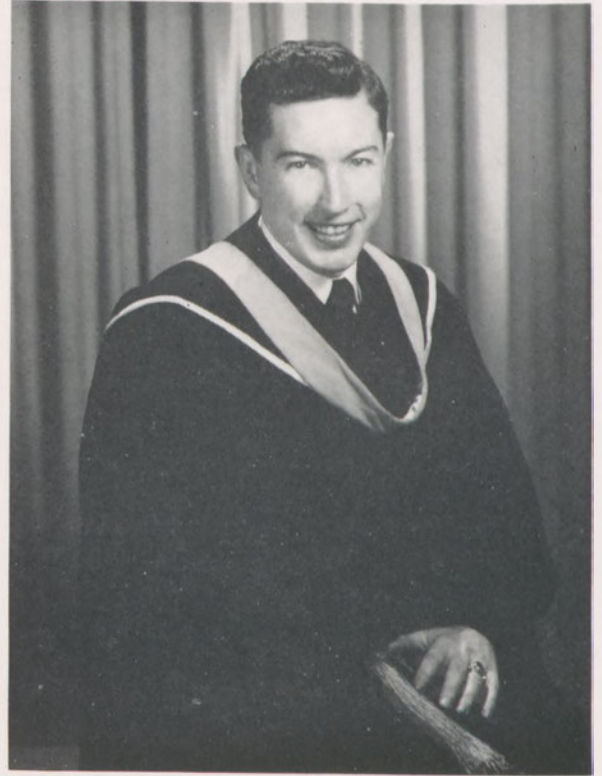

B.S.—Biology

Roberts St., Fiskeville, R. I.

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Dean's Honor List, '48; Senior Secretary, '48; VERITAS Advertising Staff, '48; Junior Prom Committee, '47; Albertus Magnus Club, '47, '48; Friars Club, '47, '48; Kent County Club, '45, '46, '47, '48, Vice-President, '48.

Everyone will long remember "Joe's" hilarious skit which stopped the show during the stage production, "Sing, Mr. Citizen." He has been accepted by Georgetown University, where he intends to study medicine. Whatever branch of medicine "Joe" chooses, we feel sure that he will not only be competent, but also that he will have the finest bedside manner and will keep his patients in stitches.

JOHN PIRO

B.S.—Business Administration

30 Andem St., Providence, R. I.

Classical High School, Providence, R. I.

Senior Treasurer, '48; Assistant Treasurer, Junior Prom Committee, '47; Senior Business Club, '48.

John is a man of many interests, including such widely different accomplishments as playing the piano and woodworking. John enrolled at the college in 1946. Previously he attended Lowell Textile Institute and, while in the Army, the University of Alabama. A thorough-going businessman, he already has a good knowledge of the restaurant business. After graduation he intends to work as an accountant. Eventually, however, John's plan is to open a restaurant of his own, where, according to the future proprietor himself, "the best food in Providence will be served."

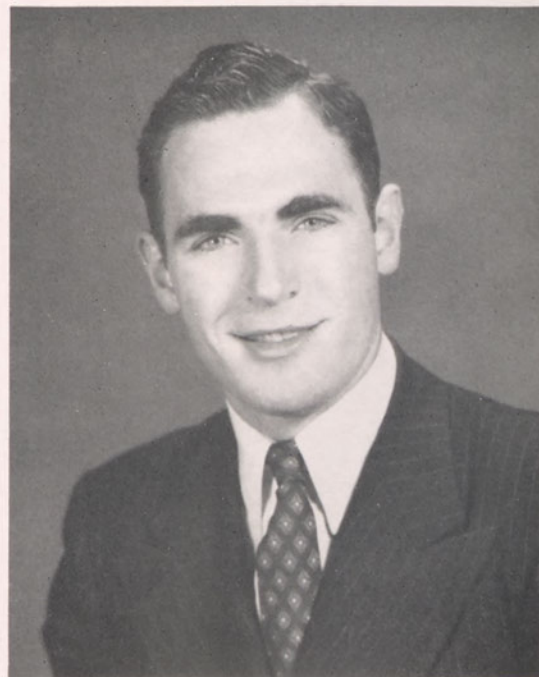

JOSEPH GERALD ACHIN

Ph.B.—Social Science

106 School St., Lowell, Mass.
Lowell High School, Lowell, Mass.

Carolan Club, '46, '47, '48.

Known as "Footsy" to his intimate friends, "Joe" is one of our most ardent hunters and fishermen. No junket is too far, if he thinks there is a good chance of filling his gamebag or creel. A married man, he takes especial pride in his two beautiful children. As a veteran of nearly five years' service in the Naval Air Corps, he has not lost his enthusiasm for aeronautics. After graduation, "Joe" will set his sights on either commercial or naval aviation.

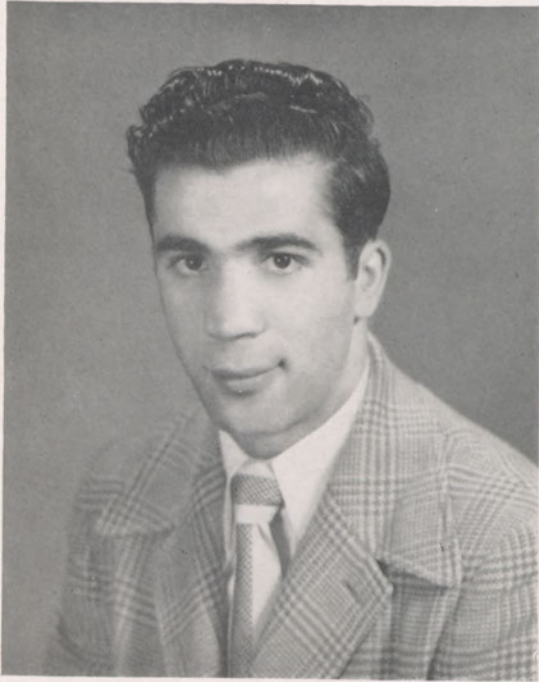

OLIVER WILLIAM ANGELONE

Ph.B.—Education

12 Gage St., West Warwick, R. I.
Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va.

*Varsity Baseball, '46, '47, Captain, '48;
Varsity Basketball, '42, '46; Intramural
Football, '42; Monogram Club, '46, '47, Vice-
President, '48.*

Back from the Army came "Angy" in 1946 to resume his studies and his active participation in college sports. Whether it is the court, the diamond, or the gridiron, he can be counted on for a sparkling performance. His many admirers will tell you that "Bill's" first-baseman play is nothing short of "major-league." This excellent athletic record should be of immense value to him when he enters the field of professional sports.

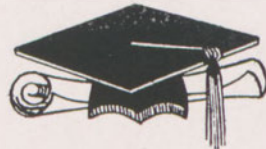

JOHN ARZOOMANIAN

Ph.B.—Social Science

130 Plain St., Providence, R. I.
Central High School, Providence, R. I.

Varsity Basketball, '45, '46; Intramural Basketball, '47, '48; Intramural Football, '47; Monogram Club, '45, '46, '47, Treasurer, '48.

"Arzoo" is well-known for his many stellar performances on the basketball court. A letter-winning forward, he has been a favorite with the fans, who like his spirited, peppery brand of ball. Active also in intramural sports, John plays every game with the same will-to-win that has won him the respect of teammates and opponents alike. Besides his athletic prowess, he will be remembered for his occasional classroom "asides," that were happily cloaked with a good-natured skepticism.

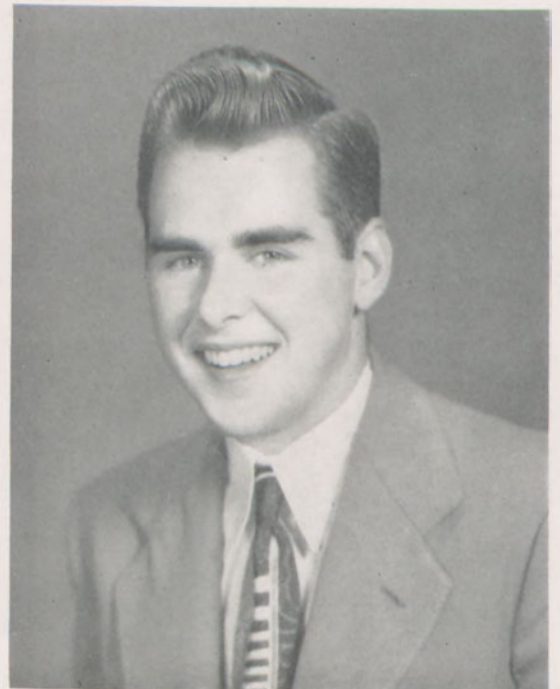

DAVID MARTIN BARRY

B.S.—Biology

492 East Ave., Pawtucket, R. I.
Saint Raphael Academy, Pawtucket, R. I.

Friars Formal Committee, '46, '47; "Turkey Trot" Committee, '47; Intramural Basketball and Football, '45, '46, '47, '48; Albertus Magnus Club, '47, '48; Blackstone Valley Club '47, '48; Friars Club, '46, '47, '48; Pyramid Players, '46, '47.

A jovial, versatile and ambitious fellow, "Dave" made his initial appearance on the campus in 1945. Not only a good student, "Dave" has also shown a keen interest in the sports program at the college. "Dave" is planning to enter Jefferson School of Medicine next fall.

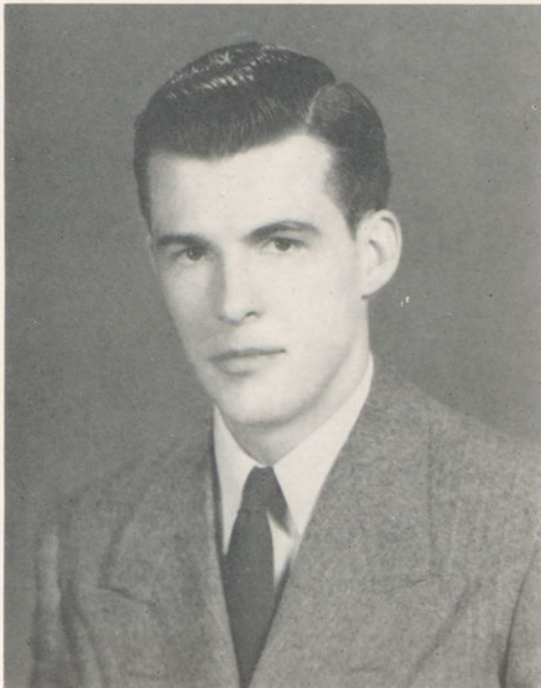

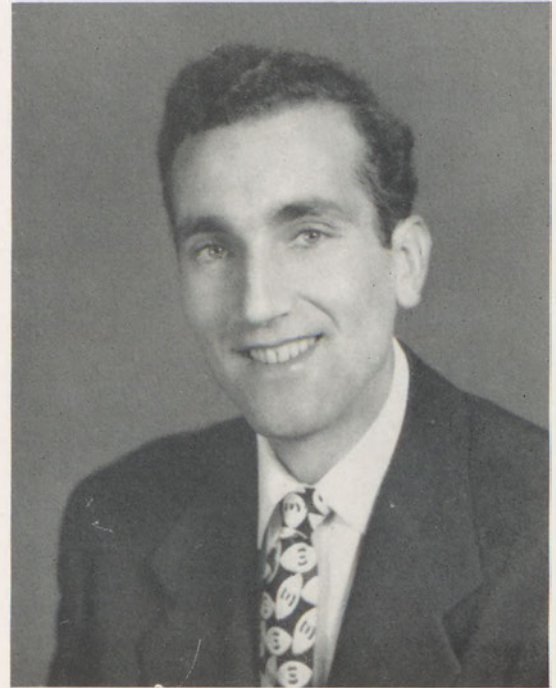

RUDOLPH ERICO BOFFI

Ph.B.—Social Science

194 Carpenter St., Providence, R. I.
Central High School, Providence, R. I.

Freshman Dance Committee, '42; Sophomore Dance Chairman, '43; Track, '42; Intramural Basketball and Football, '43; VERITAS Advertising Staff, '48.

“Rudy” is noted especially for his classroom orations. While serving overseas in the Army, he attended the University of Florence, where he studied Roman law and customs. “Rudy” is active in sports, both as a spectator and a participant. Knowing him as an accomplished ballroom dancer, many students enjoy watching him at the various college hops. He also has a strong interest in modern music. “Rudy’s” talent will find an outlet at Boston University Law School.

ALFRED LAWRENCE BONING

Ph.B.—Social Science

138 Benefit St., Providence, R. I.
Wilmington High School, Wilmington, Del.

Dean's Honor List, '48; Alembic, '47, '48; VERITAS Literary Board, '48.

“Al” came to this campus from Army service. Previously he had attended the University of Delaware and Michigan State College. Advertising, which field he intends to pursue, has consumed much of his attention during his college years. Those who have read his Alembic articles are well aware of his outstanding literary ability. During his last year at the college, “Al” has joined the ranks of the proud fathers of his class. Certainly, high achievement looms ahead for him.

THOMAS HENRY BOOTH, JR.

Ph.B.—Social Science

112 Coral St., Fall River, Mass.

Monsignor Coyle High School, Taunton, Mass.

VERITAS Advertising Staff, '48; Fall River Club, '43, '47, '48.

"Tom" is known as one of our better students. He has also contributed his share to college activities. His genial and forthright personality have won him many friends. An Air Corps veteran, he was originally a member of the class of 1946. He resumed his education at his Alma Mater in the fall of that year. Photography is "Tom's" favorite extracurricular interest. He is also intrigued by the appearance of all sorts of objects under a microscope. He looks forward to a career in business.

STEPHEN JOSEPH BRANNON

B.S.—Physics

11 Almy St., Providence, R. I.

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

*Intramural Basketball and Softball, '44;
Phi Chi Club, '46, '47, '48.*

"Steve" is a quiet and studious member of the Senior class. His pleasant smile, his pleasing personality, and his understanding have contributed in winning for him many sincere friends. Concealed beneath "Steve's" intellectuality is an enthusiasm for athletics. Participating in all Phi Chi and many other college activities, he still finds time to enjoy the art of magic as a hobby. "Steve" plans to venture into the wide-open field of electronics.

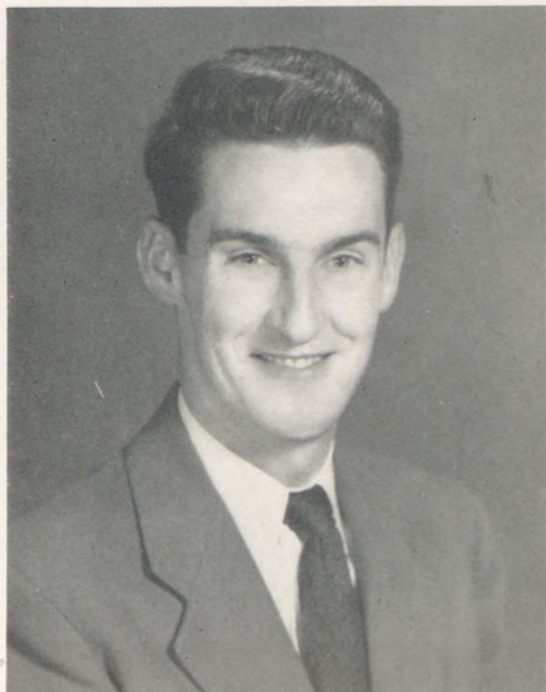

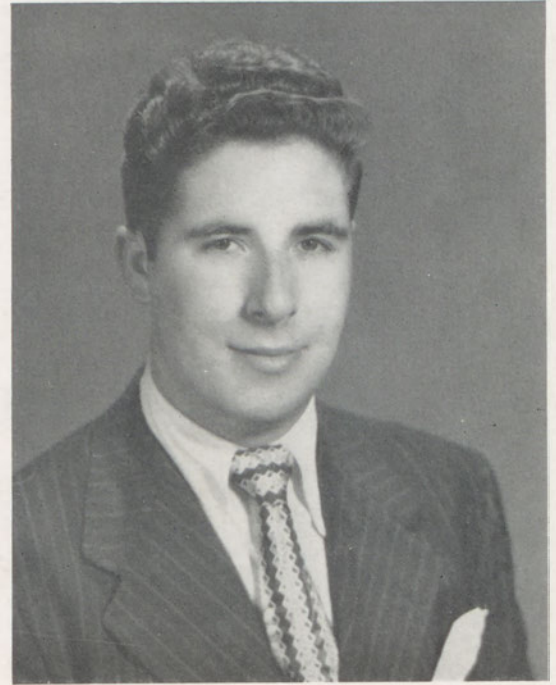

RICHARD CHASE BROADMAN

Ph.B.—Social Science

82 Eaton St., Providence, R. I.
Hope High School, Providence, R. I.

Cowl News Reporter, '46, '47, '48; Inter-collegiate Press Association Delegate, '47; Debating Union, '47.

"Dick" is remembered as one of the greatest sufferers of the "open the door" mania of 1947. The same good humor that carried him through those trials has been apparent throughout his four years. Many of us enjoy the laughter-provoking features in the Cowl, but few realize that he is one of the anonymous writers behind them. An occupation which he particularly enjoys is lighting and re-lighting his "Swedish" pipe. He hopes to continue his studies in law school this fall.

JOHN DANIEL BUCKLEY

A.B.—Social Science

8 Sargent St., Cambridge, Mass.
Saint John's High School, Cambridge, Mass.

Intramural Basketball and Football, '46, '47, '48; Carolan Club, '47, '48; Glee Club, '46, '47, '48; Greater Boston Club, '47, '48; Philomusian Society, '41, '42.

Linguistically inclined, "Jack" can boast of a fairly extensive knowledge of Latin, Greek, and, oddly enough, Japanese. While in the Navy, he studied at an oriental language school, and this accounts for his command of the last-mentioned tongue. Before coming to Providence College in 1940, he spent a year at Boston College. His hobbies include participation in sports and in group songfests. "Jack" will set out to make his mark in the business world this June.

THOMAS FRANCIS BURNS

Ph.B.—Social Science

91 Winter St., Fall River, Mass.

Monsignor Coyle High School, Taunton, Mass.

Varsity Baseball, '47, '48; Intramural Football and Basketball, '47, '48; Fall River Club, '46, '47, '48.

As a shortstop on baseball nines at Holy Cross and Villanova in his Freshman and Sophomore years respectively, "Tom" demonstrated considerable adeptness. From 1943 to 1946 he served with the Army, continuing to play ball during his recreation hours. In September, 1946, he registered at Providence College. In his capacity as shortstop he has proved himself an invaluable asset to the Friars. But "Tom's" skill in athletics does not end with baseball. His fellow students rate him an excellent basketball player as well. After graduation he plans to attend the School of Social Work at Boston College.

ROBERT EDWARD CAPPALLI

B.S.—Physics

85 Freese St., Providence, R. I.

Mount Pleasant High School, Providence, R. I.

Phi Chi Club, '46, '47, '48.

With his good-natured radioactive smile, "Bob" is one of the most likable students at the college. He is usually seen tinkering with all kinds of equipment in the physics lab. "Bob" enjoys sports in general, but is especially talented when swinging golf clubs. He is an active member of the Phi Chi Club, and participates in all other science activities. "Bob" intends to enter the industrial world, where, no doubt, his intellectual curiosity will be invaluable.

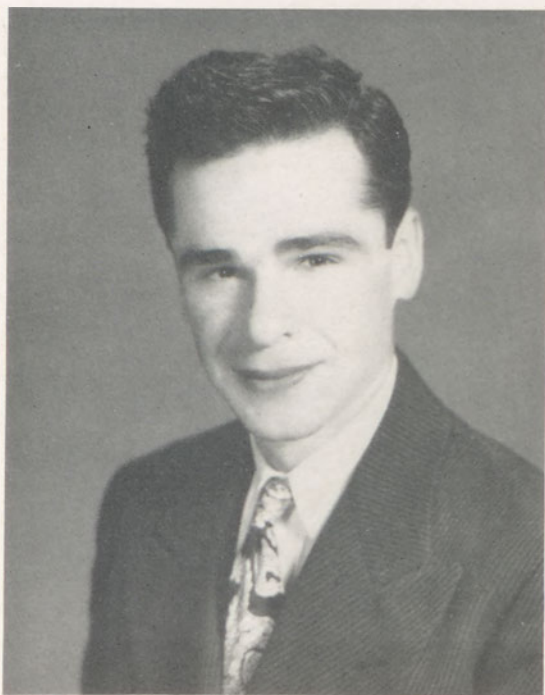

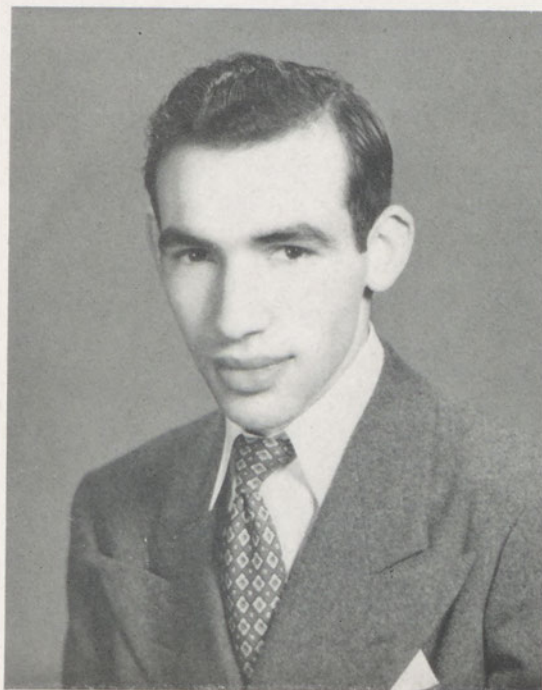

ERMINIO RAYMOND CARDI

B.S.—Biology

1681 Cranston St., Cranston, R. I.
La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Albertus Magnus Club, '47, '48.

Called "the prof" by the science students, Erminio enjoys walking in the woods, viewing the scenic beauties of nature. He has painted many landscapes of the Rhode Island countryside, and it is not an uncommon sight to see him trudging along a road with paint brushes in his hand and an easel over his shoulder. Erminio also likes classical music but he is no snob and just as often turns an appreciative ear to sweet and popular recordings. After graduation, he hopes to attend Georgetown University, where he will study medicine.

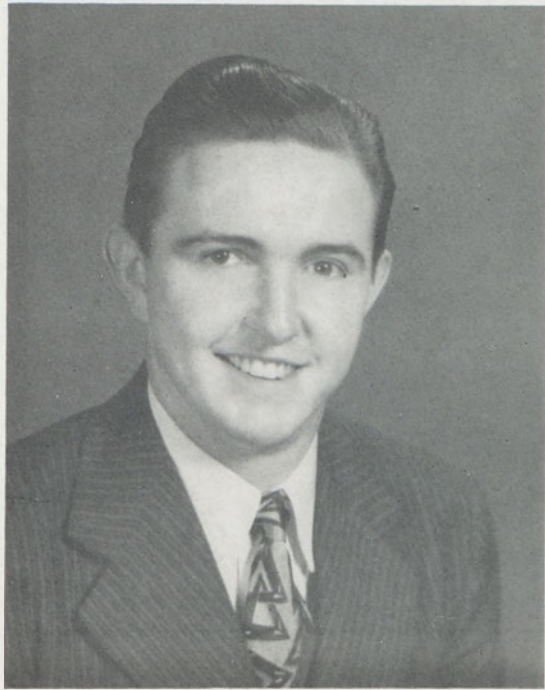

HARRY CARLIN

B.S.—Biology

33 Blodgett Ave., Pawtucket, R. I.
Pawtucket High School, Pawtucket, R. I.

Albertus Magnus Club, '47, '48.

Harry entered the college with the class of 1940, but like so many other students at that time, he had to set his courses aside while Uncle Sam enjoyed his company from 1942 until 1945. He is quiet, unassuming, and always ready to lend a helping hand. He has maintained a high scholastic standing in his entire four years. Always an interesting conversationalist, he is particularly well-informed on matters scientific. Harry plans to further his education at graduate school.

EVERETT JOSEPH CARMODY

B.S.—Biology

71 Kinfield St., Providence, R. I.
Classical High School, Providence, R. I.

Dean's Honor List, '48; Albertus Magnus Club, '47, '48.

Hesitant to criticize, but always ready to compliment, Everett is well-liked by his fellow students. When it comes to conversation, he is not found wanting; politics, economics, science, sociological problems, and current literature are some subjects which he can discuss with ease. His varied interests also include photography, mechanics, and a pair of pedigree Irish setters, in which he takes especial pride. In short, Everett enters wholeheartedly into whatever captures his attention. Next September he will enter Tufts Medical School.

THOMAS ERNEST FRANCIS CARROLL

Ph.B.—Social Science

8 Belmont Ave., Providence, R. I.
Classical High School, Providence, R. I.

Dean's Honor List, '48; Frosh Hop Committee, '43; Junior Prom Publicity Committee Chairman, '47; "Turkey Trot" Committee, '48; Cowl Editor, '46, '47, '48, News Editor, '43, Feature Writer and Reporter, '42; Intercollegiate Press Delegate, '47, '48; Secretary, '48; VERITAS Associate Editor, '48; Debating Union, '42, '43, Manager, '43; Cross-Country, '43.

An Army veteran, "Tom" left college after completing his Freshman year in 1943 and returned in 1946. Perhaps he is best known as the reviver of the Cowl. One of our finest scholars, "Tom" excels in the fields of philosophy and jurisprudence. His capacity for detail and organization is an asset which he will take with him when he goes to law school.

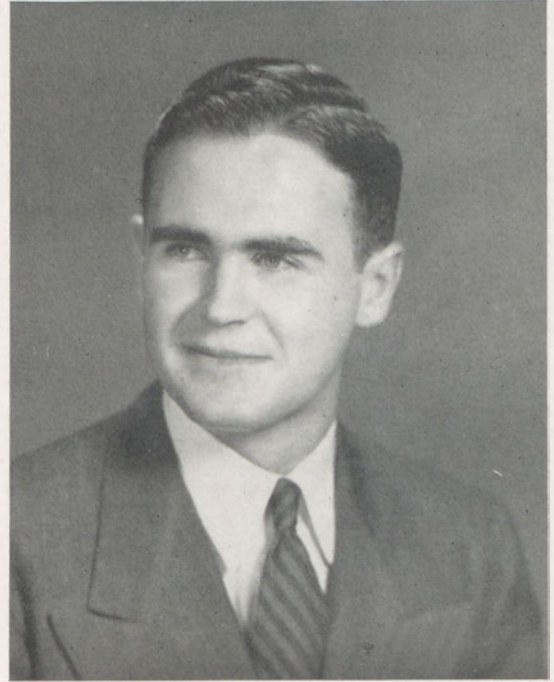

JOSEPH GERARD CASSIDY

B.S.—Biology

20 Pleasant St., Uxbridge, Mass.
Saint Mary's Academy, Milford, Mass.

Freshman President, '45; VERITAS Advertising Staff, '48; Intramural Baseball, Basketball and Football, '45, '46, '47, '48; Albertus Magnus Club, '47, '48, Vice-President, '47; Carolan Club, '45, '46, '47, '48, Dance Chairman, '46; Debating Union, '47; Friars Club, '45, '46, '47, '48, Formal Dance Chairman, '48, Vice-President, '48; Glee Club, '46, '48; Greater Boston Club, '47, Secretary, '48.

Combine the qualities of diligence, ability, and spirit into one person and you have some notion of the ever-popular "Joe." With all his interest in extra-curricular functions, he has maintained a high scholastic average. "Joe" aspires to the medical profession.

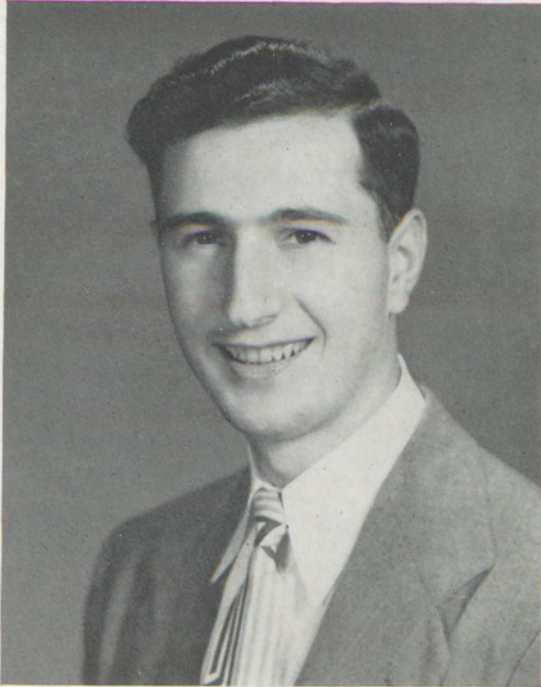

VINCENT ERNEST CINQUEGRANA, JR.

A.B.—Letters

1683 Fall River Ave., Seekonk, Mass.
Classical High School, Providence, R. I.

Junior Prom Publicity Committee, '47; "Turkey Trot" Committee, '47; Cowl, '46, '47, '48, Sports Reporter, '46, '47, Sports Editor, '47, '48; VERITAS Literary Board, '48; Pyramid Players, '40, '46, '47, '48, Stage Manager, '47, Vice-President, '48.

"Vin" has constantly displayed an affable good nature that has won him many lasting friends. He has distinguished himself as sports editor of the Cowl and in his stage designing for the Pyramid Players. After the interruption which came with his war service in the Air Corps, "Vin" came back to Providence in the early part of 1946. Graduate work in foreign affairs toward a career in the diplomatic service is the next step for "Vin."

JOHN JOSEPH CIPOLLA

B.S.—Biology

87 Pontiac St., Natick, R. I.

Lockwood High School, Warwick, R. I.

Albertus Magnus Club, '46, '47; Kent County Club, '42, '46, '47.

"Chippy," as he is known to his friends, is truly our idea of what a college graduate should be. In classes he has always applied himself with eagerness. At "Ralfs," this perfect host has shown his fellow students the fuller meaning of sociability and hospitality. He first came to the college in June, 1942. John, while serving his country, attended Washington University in St. Louis and Tufts Medical College. Quiet but affable, he has always placed at our disposal the experience he has gained in these institutions and in the Army. Next step for him is medical school.

VINCENT A. COADY

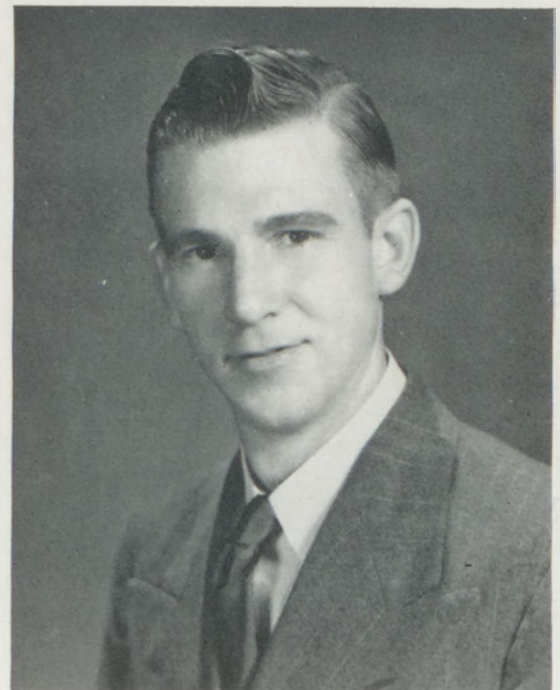

B.S.—Business Administration

554 Center St., Fall River, Mass.

Monsignor Coyle High School, Taunton, Mass.

Fall River Club, '46, '47, '48, Vice-President, '47; Senior Business Club, '48.

Vincent's college career began back in 1941, when he enrolled at Northeastern University. After a year there, he enlisted in the armed forces. While in the Army, he completed a training program at North Carolina State College in 1944. Since his registration at Providence College in 1946, "Vin" has exhibited highly receptive faculties in all matters pertaining to the business world. Coldly practical in finance and politics, he gives strong evidence of extensive reading.

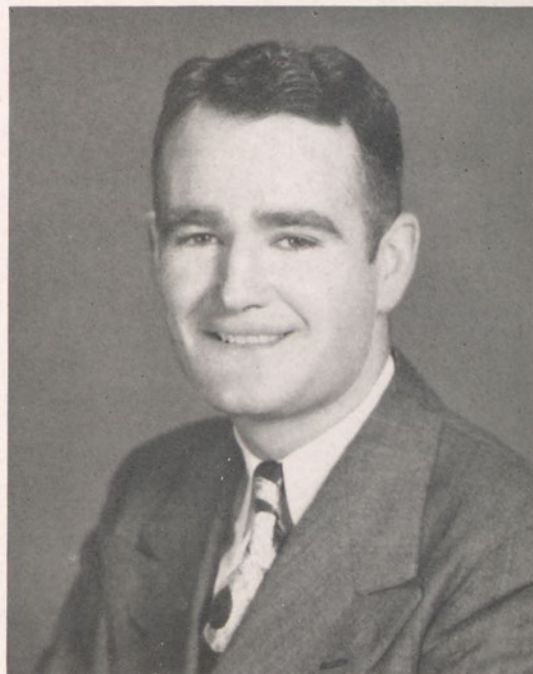

FRANCIS JOSEPH COFFEY

B.S.—Business Administration

175 Norwood Ave., Edgewood, R. I.
Cranston High School, Cranston, R. I.

President, Senior Business Club, '48; Mid-Winter Dance Committee, '48.

Meet "Frank," an Army veteran. We remember him for his calm analysis of classroom problems, and for the numerous activities which marked his term of office as President of the Senior Business Club. "Frank" shared in the responsibility for the long-ranged program which this club launched last February. There is no doubt that his foresight has insured for this organization, as well as for himself, a "future unlimited."

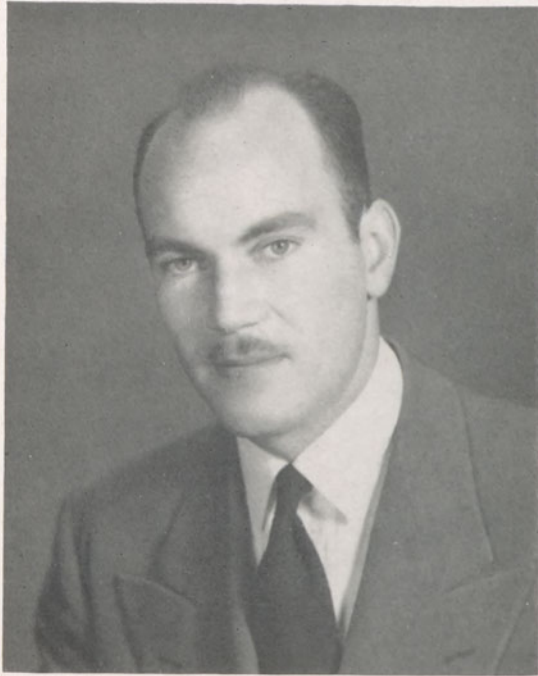

RICHARD LAWRENCE CONNOLLY

Ph.B.—Social Science

660 Hope St., Providence, R. I.
Hope High School, Providence, R. I.

Cowl News Reporter, '47; VERITAS Literary Board, '48.

Enrolling in September of 1940, "Dick's" course of studies was interrupted from 1943 to 1946 while he served in the Army. Best known for a dry humor that has vanquished many a difficult situation in and out of classrooms, "Dick's" ability to see the brighter side is the envy of his classmates. His interests are varied, but his favorite pastime is cartooning. A glance at his notebooks reveals that he is able to intertwine a rare sense of humor with the most complicated of philosophical subjects.

JOSEPH ARTHUR CONWAY

Ph.B.—Social Science

540 Dexter St., Providence, R. I.
Malden High School, Malden, Mass.

Alembic Editor, '41.

Since returning to college in February, 1947, "Joe's" time has been well-occupied. Studies, an off-campus job, a wife, and two daughters assure no "dull moments" in his life. He has always maintained an enviable scholastic record. A member of the class of 1943, "Joe" served in the Army Air Corps. While he has been unable to find time for extracurricular activities since his return, many remember his excellent work as editor of the Alembic in 1941. His mature judgment and distinctive appearance have won our respect.

EDWARD ARTHUR CORMIER

B.S.—Business Administration

785 County St., New Bedford, Mass.
Holy Family High School, New Bedford, Mass.

Dean's Honor List, '48; VERITAS Business Staff, '48; Carolan Club, '47, '48; New Bedford Club, '41, '42, '47, '48; Senior Business Club, '48.

Tackling books and school functions with equal vigor, "Ed" is another veteran who has gone far in making up for time spent in service. After two years in the Army, he returned to school in the fall term of 1945. Like many of this graduating class, "Ed" was originally a member of the 1945 class. He plans to pursue business courses at graduate school. His truly exceptional scholastic and extracurricular records point, almost inevitably, to equally high achievements in the future.

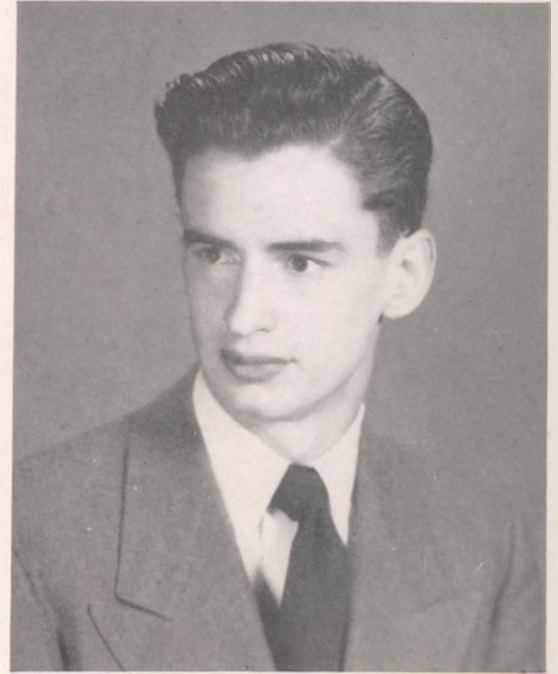

FRANCIS JOHN COUGHLIN

Ph.B.—Social Science

122 Bridge St., Manchester, Mass.
Story High School, Manchester, Mass.

Catholic Student Peace Federation, '46, '47, Vice-President, '48; Cowl Sports Editor, '46; VERITAS Sports Editor, '48; Junior Prom Committee, '47; Carolan Club, '46, '47, '48, Dance Committee, '47, '48; Greater Boston Club, '47, '48, President, '48; Cheer Leader, '47, '48; Debating Union, '46, '47, '48; Pyramid Players, '46, '47, '48.

“Fran’s” enthusiasm and drive have been instrumental in the success of many of our college functions. Perhaps his admirable school spirit will be best revealed by recalling his outstanding performance as a cheerleader. “Fran’s” ambition is a business career.

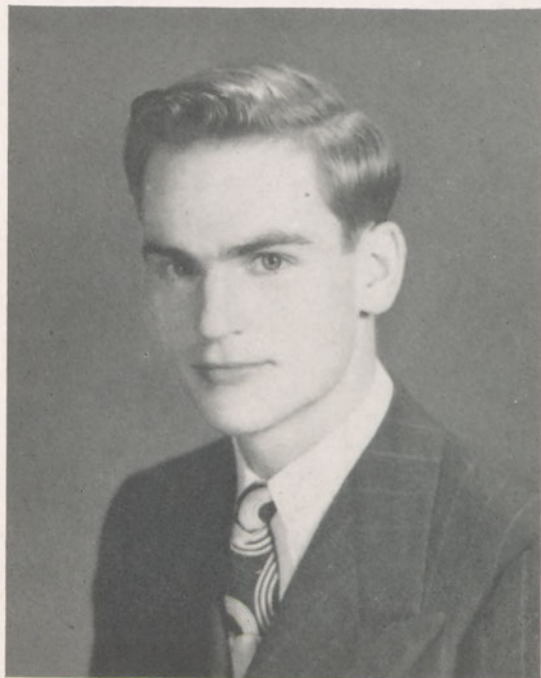

WILLIAM GERARD CRONIN

Ph.B.—Education

449 Broadway, Pawtucket, R. I.
Saint Raphael Academy, Pawtucket, R. I.

Dean’s Honor List, '48; Alembic Editorial Board, '47; Cowl Columnist, '46, '47; VERITAS Literary Board, '48.

The field of psychology will always welcome a newcomer. Our candidate from the 1948 graduating class is “Bill.” One of the deep thinkers of the class, he likes to write on philosophical subjects. He is very avid in his pursuit of knowledge. Many of us remember very vividly his lengthy and interesting discussions, filled with his delightfully subtle humor. For one who manifests such a tremendous interest in psychology, we trust that “Bill” will have little trouble in gaining his doctorate.

JOHN RAYMOND CROOK

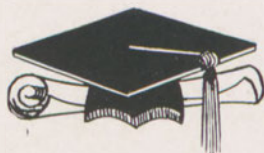

Ph.B.—Social Science

18 Home Ave., Providence, R. I.

Classical High School, Providence, R. I.

Junior Prom Publicity Committee, '47; Cowl Co-Editor, '46, Feature Editor, '46, Editorial Board, '47, '48, Reporter, '43; Intercollegiate Press Association Delegate, '47, '48; VERITAS Associate Editor, '48; Debating Union, '43; Cross-Country, '43.

We all have enjoyed John's satirical feature stories in the Cowl. In 1943 he went on active duty with the Navy. He attended Trinity College and Northwestern University. Outside college, his main interest is the Naval Reserve. Law school is next on his agenda. With his superior scholarship, we feel certain that John will continue to be a leader.

B.S.—Business Administration

691 Madison St., Fall River, Mass.

Monsignor Coyle High School, Taunton, Mass.

Senior Business Club, '48.

Beginning his college education at the University of Notre Dame in 1941, "Jim" spent three years with the Army before enrolling at Providence College in 1946. Ever appreciative of a good joke, he has on occasion displayed a spontaneous humor. Outside business interests in his hometown leave him with little time for extracurricular activities. Nevertheless, he has made important contributions to the revitalization of the Business Club at the college. His capacity for sustained work singles him out as an ideal candidate for success in his future ventures.

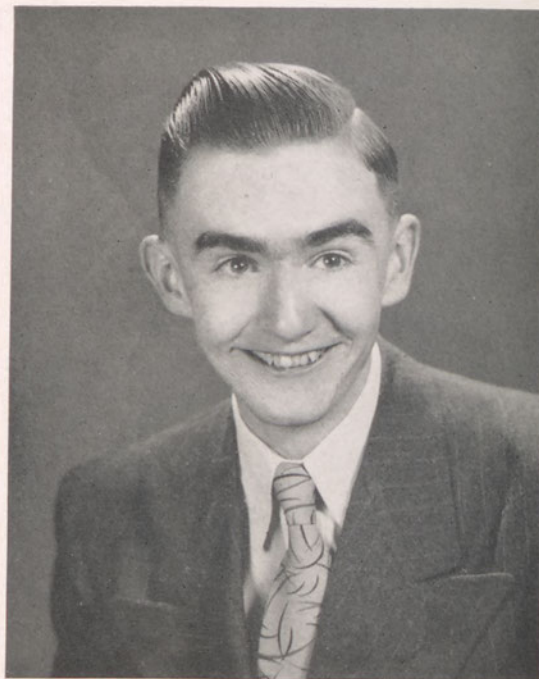

JOHN PETER DEASY, JR.

A.B.—Education

29 Linden Ave., Rumford, R. I.
Saint Raphael Academy, Pawtucket, R. I.

Dean's Honor List, '48; Alembic, '47, '48; VERITAS Literary Board, '48; Junior Prom Committee, Secretary, '47; Blackstone Valley Club, '47, '48; Pyramid Players Publi-city, '46.

John is a hard-working fellow with a real talent for organizing and getting things done. Because of these qualities his classmates have called upon him again and again to aid in various class activities. His many interests include politics and writing. He is known for his interesting contributions to the college literary magazine, the Alembic. To his chosen profession of teaching John brings a quality of sincere purposiveness.

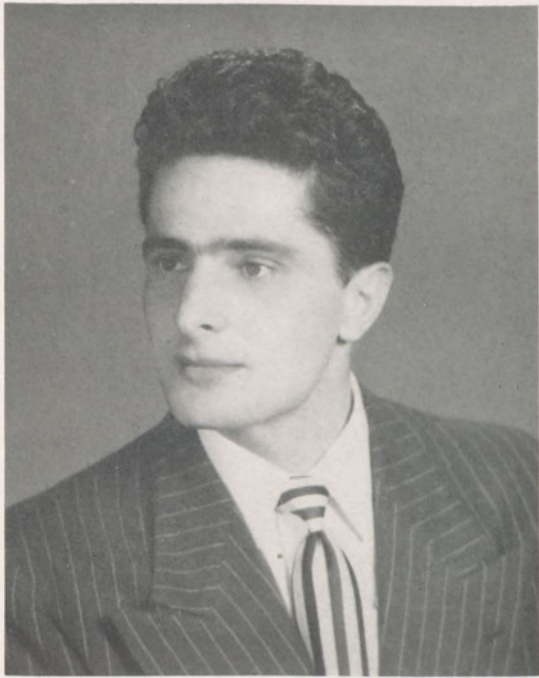

JOHN FRANCIS DENNIGAN

B.S.—Chemistry

28 Mawney St., Providence, R. I.
West Warwick High School, West Warwick, R. I.

Phi Chi Club, '46, '47, '48.

John is always willing to help his classmates. In his quiet manner, he has made many friends. He is not only a veteran of the past conflict, but also a veteran of the "Battle of P. C.", which began way back in 1936. Married, with one child, John is forever trying to convince everyone that "Junior" plays no part in his perfect analysis of unknown chemical compounds. John's future plans lie in textile chemistry. May he find shelter under the wing of success (before something goes bang!).

DAN ANTHONY DI IUGLIO

Ph.B.—Social Science

Landon St., Woodbridge, Conn.

Hopkins Preparatory School, New Haven, Conn.

Junior Secretary, '47; Cowl Columnist, '46, '47, '48; VERITAS Editor, '48; Junior Prom Chairman, '47; Intramural Football, '41, '42; Cross-Country, '43; Carolan Club, '42, '46, '47, '48, Publicity Chairman, '47, President, '48; New Haven Club, '42, '46, '47, '48, Secretary, '42, Dance Chairman, '46, President, '48.

Dan's cooperation in all class activities, his talent for organization, and his strong personality, have won him many honors. Since his return to the college from service in the Army in 1946, he has always been a willing worker and a capable leader. The ability that he so clearly demonstrates assures him of a brilliant future.

KENNETH ANTHONY DI SAIA

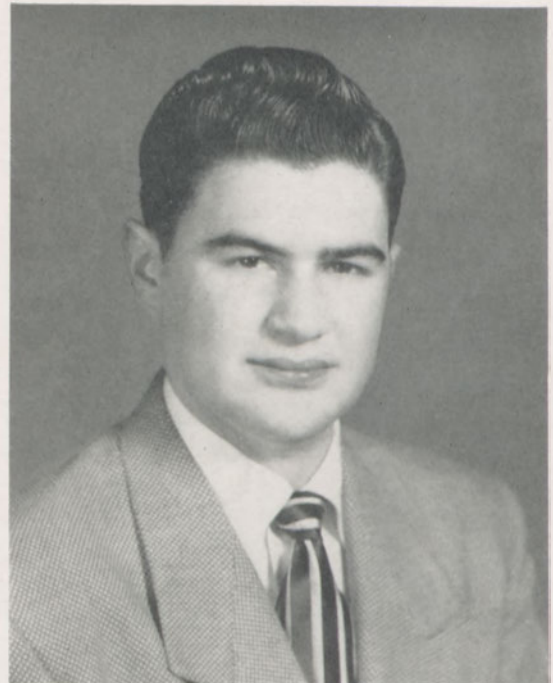

B.S.—Physics

369 Mount Pleasant Ave., Providence, R. I.

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Junior Prom Publicity Committee, '47; Phi Chi Club, '43, '46, '47, '48.

"Kenny's" spare time since his return from the Army has been devoted to many fascinating hobbies. Golf, photography, art and music are his extracurricular pastimes, but he really excels in his artistic work. Most of the student body have admired his colorful posters, which have been the selling point for many college dances. "Kenny" does well in physics, furthering his interest in scientific subjects by active participation in the Phi Chi Club. "Kenny" hopes to combine his many skills to concentrate on a career as an architect.

JOHN FRANCIS DOLAN

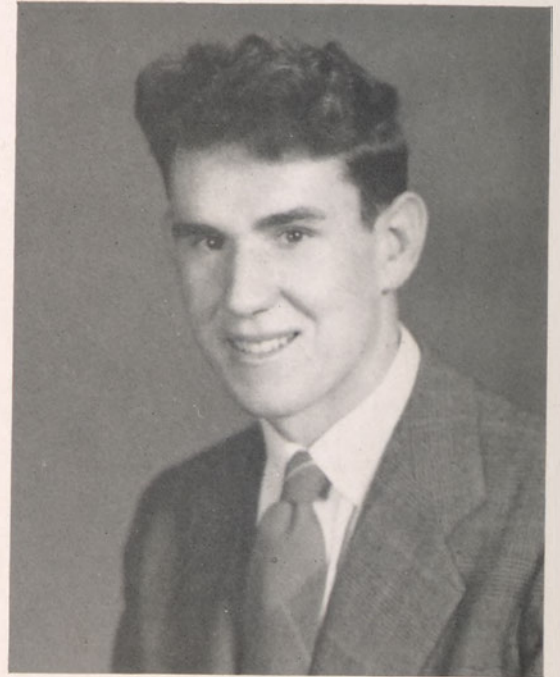

Ph.B.—Social Science

117 Tyndall Ave., Providence, R. I.

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Dean's Honor List, '48; Intramural Basketball, '42, '48.

"John F." is one of the two John Dolans in the Senior class. He also is an excellent student. Though ordinarily quiet and unassuming, he is full of pranks and pungent remarks. John completed a year at the college before he joined the Navy. He attended Harvard University and Cornell University while in the service, returning to this campus in 1946. John would like to go to law school. His past successes are a certain indication that his future will be one of great promise.

JOHN IGNATIUS DOLAN, JR.

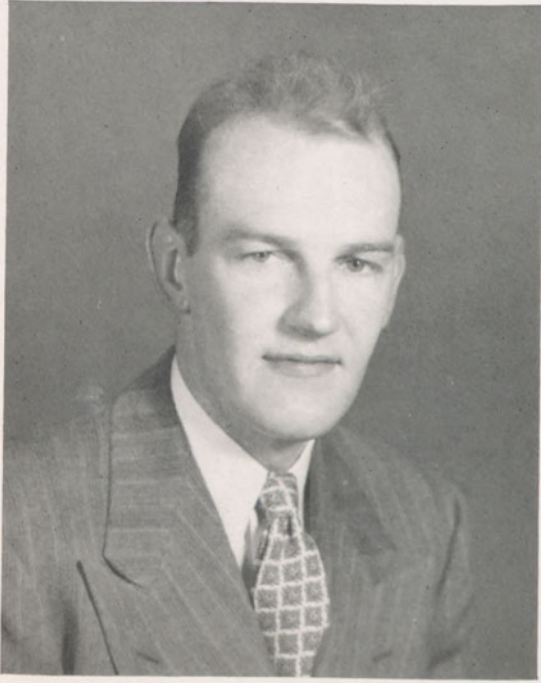

Ph.B.—Social Science

44 Clyde St., Pawtucket, R. I.

Pawtucket West High School, Pawtucket, R. I.

Dean's Honor List, '48; Intramural Basketball, '41, '46, '47; Blackstone Valley Club, '41, '46, '47, '48.

"John I." is the other half of the John Dolans in the Senior class, who have plagued professors and students alike with their similar names. He is a quiet, intelligent student who would rather let his deeds speak for themselves than boast of them. He is quite apt at athletics, and has starred in intramural competition. He entered the college in 1941, but left to join the Coast Guard, where he served four years before coming back in 1946. After graduation, John plans to enter the business field.

DANIEL SYLVESTER DONOVAN, JR.

"Dan" should hold a sizeable portion, if not the complete possession, of the title, "class wit." His well-thrust shafts of humor have been lecture room treats. He returned to college in the fall term of 1947. His favorite pastime is sending and receiving messages from other amateur radio enthusiasts. As a communications man in the cavalry, he laid a groundwork of practical experience for this hobby. "Dan" looks forward to law school after graduation.

JOHN PATRICK DRISCOLL

Ph.B.—Social Science

91 East Main St., Jewett City, Conn.

Griswold High School, Jewett City, Conn.

Carolan Club, '42, '43, '46, '47.

"Handsome Jack" they call him at the dorm, for certainly no one deserves this title more than he. Garbed in his sartorial splendor he has made many a young lady at a dance turn her head in his direction. "Jack" likes to bowl and play basketball in his spare time, yet he gives considerable time to philosophy. His efforts in class to break down this difficult subject into plain everyday "horse-sense" have aided many of his fellow students in seeing the light. "Jack" served three years in the Marine Corps before returning to the school in 1946. He has no definite future plans.

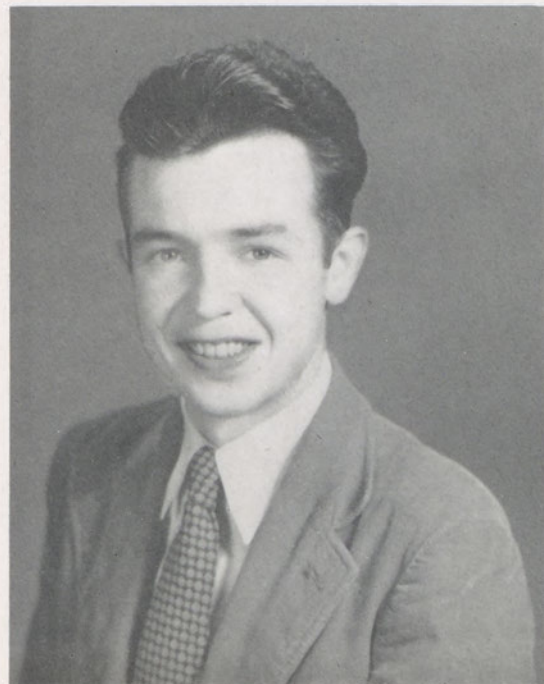

WILLIAM FRANCIS DUFFY

Ph.B.—Social Science

46 Richmond St., Fall River, Mass.
Durfee High School, Fall River, Mass.

Fall River Club, '47, '48; Glee Club, '42, '47, '48.

“Duff’s” sincere and genial manner have won him many friends. A participant in cafeteria and between-class sessions, he likes only two things better than conversation, fishing and sailing. His explanations for the poor, winter-time transportation facilities between Fall River and Providence College have been classics. “Duff,” a former member of the class of 1944, served four years with the Coast Guard. He has made no definite plans, but a career as a salesman would be to his liking.

HILMAR WILSON EARL

Ph.B.—Social Science

125 Summit St., Pawtucket, R. I.
Salinas Junior College, Salinas, Calif.

VERITAS Advertising Board, '48; "Family Hour" Committee, '48; Intramural Baseball and Football, '46, '47.

A member of the Air Corps during the war, “Bill,” originally from California, married a New England girl and joined our class as a Sophomore in February, 1946. Since then he has made numerous friends and has been the genial host at many an informal party. He is always ready to participate in what he terms “a good, rugged but friendly, debate.” “Bill” retains his interest in flying, and is especially fond of hunting. Upon graduating, he plans to return to California, where, after graduate school at the University of California, he hopes to practice law.

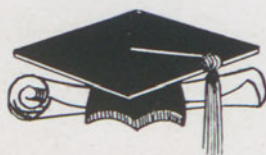

GERALD JOSEPH ELWOOD

Ph.B.—Education

25 Garfield St., Central Falls, R. I.
Saint Raphael Academy, Pawtucket, R. I.

Blackstone Valley Club, '46, '47, '48.

Here is one red-head without a temper. In fact, "Gerry" has the best disposition we know of. Many a dull classroom has been suddenly brightened by his booming laugh. Come what may, "Gerry" takes things in his stride. The snows of last winter, finals, and what have you—nothing ruffles his even disposition. He has no future plans at the moment, but his infectious laugh, effervescent personality, and unwillingness to let anything upset him promise to win him friends wherever he goes. Despite his leaning toward frivolity, "Gerry" has applied himself well in his studies.

ARNOLD ERENKRANTZ

39 Longfellow Terrace, Providence, R. I.
Classical High School, Providence, R. I.

Cowl News Reporter, '48; Band and Orchestra, '45, '46; Albertus Magnus Club, '46.

Arnold is a conscientious student who has worked hard at his studies during his four years. Besides attaining high grades, he has proved himself an excellent musician. At many of the Albertus Magnus Club meetings he led community singing with his clarinet. In his last year he also found time to write for the Cowl. Ever since he registered at the college in June, 1945, he has dreamed of becoming a dentist. We wish him all the luck in the world.

HAROLD FRANCIS FAGAN

Ph.B.—Social Science

Lowell High School, Lowell, Mass.

Varsity Baseball, '46, '47; Intramural Basketball, '46, '47, '48; Carolan Club, '46, '47, '48; Greater Boston Club, '47, '48.

After completing his Freshman year at Boston College, Harold went into the Army, where he served three years. In February, 1946, he enrolled at Providence College. Soon afterwards he gained the admiration of his fellow Sophomores as second baseman on the varsity nine. Besides baseball, he enjoys playing basketball and tennis. But, with all his interests in sports, Harold is a better than average student. He intends to study further in the field of sociology at graduate school.

JOHN FELIX FAVICCHIO

Ph.B.—Social Science

89 Chandler Ave., Pawtucket, R. I.
Mount Pleasant High School, Providence, R. I.

John is probably one of the best known students in the college. Usually the focal point of a tempestuous discussion, he always manages to emerge with flying colors. John's favorite subject of conversation is that of political science. Students and faculty alike have been appreciative audiences when he discourses on this theme, and those who came to disagree, remained to agree. John spent two years in the Army, which time interrupted his course of studies that he began in 1942. John came back to the college in September, 1945, and has been a dominant man around the campus as of that date. Listed among his future plans is his desire to do graduate work in Europe in one of the leading universities.

LEONARD SAMUEL FELDBERG

"Lenny's" ready grin and dry humor have long been a part of the daily scene. His pungent anecdotes have always been a source of pleasure to many of the less-expressive members of the class. In spite of a rather full schedule in the biology labs, he has found time to take part in many activities. A veteran of the Hospital Corps of the Navy, "Lenny" originally enrolled with the class of 1945. He returned to college in the fall of 1946. He intends to enter dental school upon graduation.

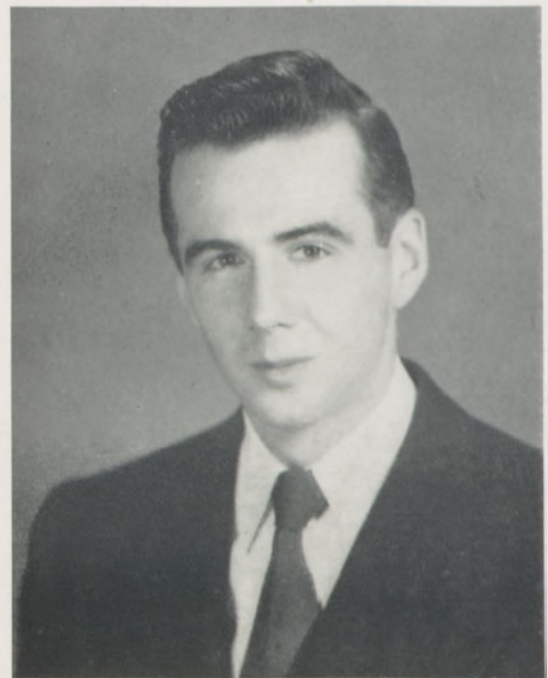

GERALD MARK FERRICK

B.S.—Business Administration

114 Pocasset Ave., Providence, R. I.
La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

VERITAS Literary Board, '48; Mid-Winter Dance Committee, '48; Senior Business Club, '48.

After duty with the Navy, Gerald returned to the college in 1946 to complete his education. A scholarly, contemplative man, he has had no difficulty with his studies. A mature appreciation of Thomistic philosophy and a depth of practical knowledge have produced for the business world a man in full, true stature. Gerald plans graduate work at Columbia University, where we trust he will continue his good scholastic record. His ability, dependability, and popularity insure him future success.

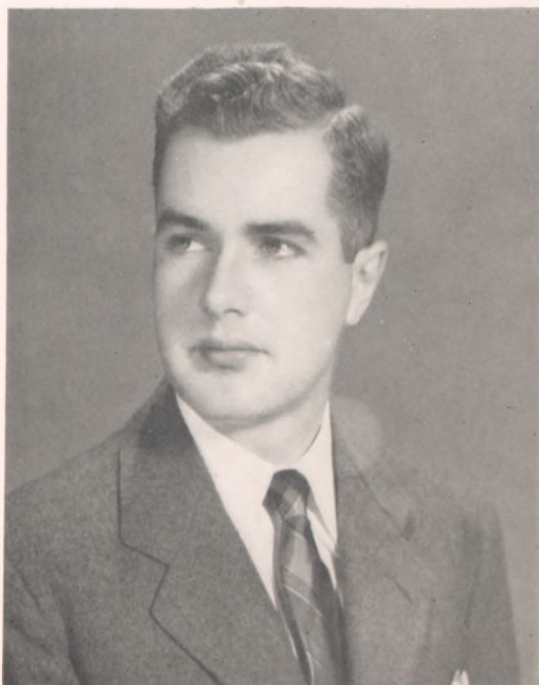

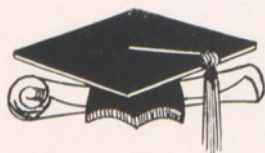

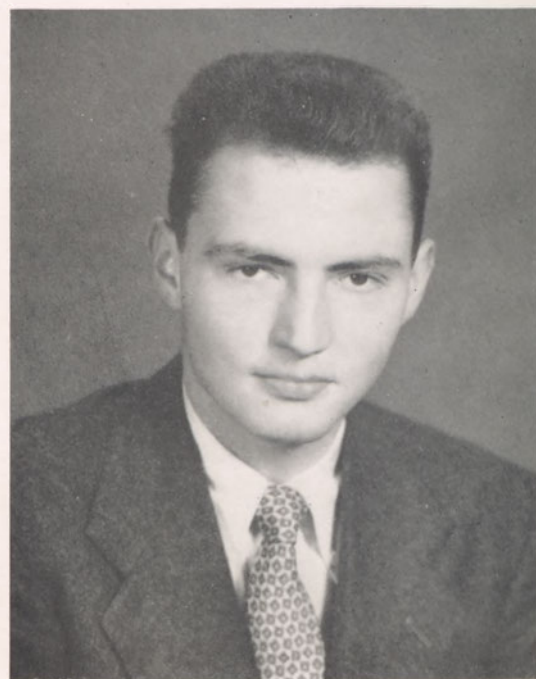

L. MICHAEL FITZGERALD

Ph.B.—Social Science

23 Huttleston Ave., Fairhaven, Mass.
Saint John's Preparatory School, Danvers, Mass.

Carolán Club, '46, '47, '48; New Bedford Club, '46, '47, '48.

"Mike" is the school's best example of an unflurried disposition. He always takes the ups and downs of collegiate curriculum in his stride. Politics is the only subject that makes him bat an eye, and he has definite opinions on the current happenings of the day. "Mike" is a crack hunter, too. He needs little persuasion to pick up his boots and his gun and set out to the nearest marsh or river where ducks can be found in any great numbers. At one time, "Mike" was a page in the Rhode Island Assembly, where he gathered pointers which will be useful for his future legal career.

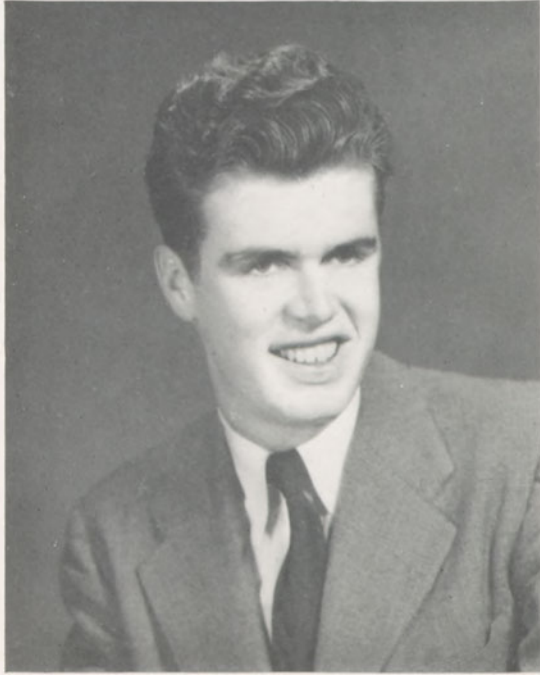

JOSEPH ROBERT FLYNN

"Joe" came to Providence College in January of 1943 from a family which already claims three doctors, to continue the Flynn tradition at P.C. After entering the college, "Joe" found Uncle Sam beckoning, as did so many other students at that time. He served in the Army from August, 1943, until October, 1945. Although "Joe" claims that his hobby is "sleeping in the afternoon," his high standing, both socially and scholastically tend to contradict his claim.

WALTER JOSEPH FLYNN

Ph.B.—Social Science

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Intramural Basketball, '42, '47.

"Walt" is our tallest Senior, standing a mere 6' 3". During the summer of 1942, "Walt" started his courses at P.C. But a year later he was a bluejacket of Uncle Sam, serving with the P.T.'s in the Pacific. He returned to college in 1946. While at P.C., "Walt" has not had much time to devote to extra-curricular activities, as he has been developing a chain store to a peak of efficiency. Despite his outside work, however, the college dances that he has not attended have been few. "Walt" has decided on a legal career, but at present has not definitely decided what law school he wishes to attend.

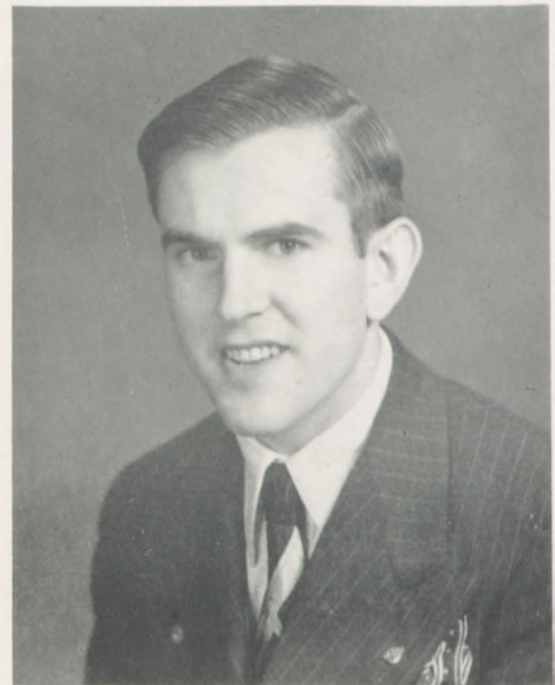

TIMOTHY JOSEPH FOLEY

Ph.B.—Social Science

97 Greene St., Pawtucket, R. I.
East High School, Pawtucket, R. I.

Blackstone Valley Club, '46, '47, '48.

Ordinarily a listener rather than a talker, "Tim" seldom advances opinions on controversial subjects, preferring to weigh the comments of his friends. Yet, when the discussion touches any phase of politics, national or local, he is prepared to make definite and pertinent assertions. His knowledge of political issues, undoubtedly, stems from his part-time job as a clerk at meetings of the Rhode Island General Assembly. At present, "Tim" is weighing the advantages of several fields. But right now his consuming interests is politics, and regardless of what field he chooses, it is fairly certain that he will be a factor in the politics of tomorrow.

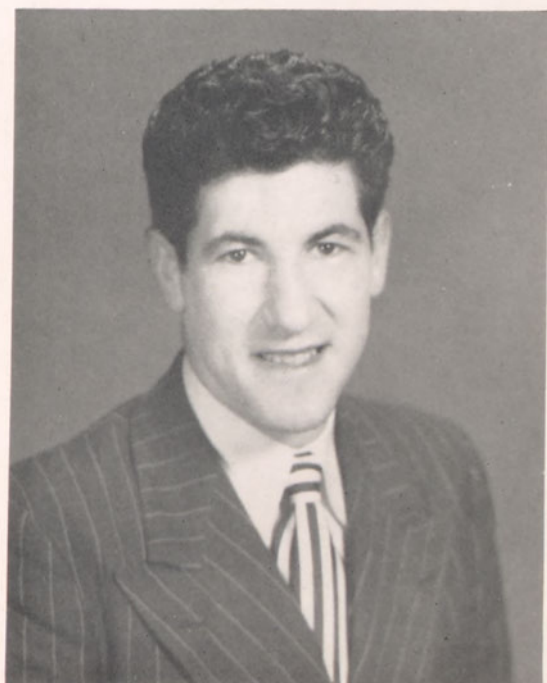

ARTHUR FREDERICK FONTAINE

Ph.B.—Social Science

64 Capital St., Pawtucket, R. I.
Saint Raphael Academy, Pawtucket, R. I.

VERITAS Advertising Staff, '48.

Quiet and leisurely, Arthur has nevertheless made himself well-known among his classmates. The humor he has inspired in all of his classes has long ago become legendary. Arthur served in the Navy during the war. His outside interests in photography, stamp and coin collecting keep him quite busy; but he has always found time to attend most of our college functions. As an after-graduation ambition, he lists the field of social work. To his career he brings the valuable ability of being able to remain cool under the most trying circumstances.

“Tony” first began his studies at the college in January, 1943. His career at P.C. was interrupted by service in the Navy, where he attended Trinity College, and also served with the Pacific Fleet. He resumed his studies two and one-half years later. Possessing a jovial personality, he has won a host of friends and a reputation as the foremost pin-ball artist in the class. Never shirking his scholastic duties, he has still found time to become a “dancer non-pareil of all tempos” from waltz to jive.

With three years of Navy service, including a year at Holy Cross College under the V-12 program, Frank registered as a Sophomore at P.C. in 1946. Always a sports enthusiast, he has evidenced a strong interest in other extra-curricular doings as well. When the occasion warrants it, he can be counted on for concrete, practical ideas. Being prepared with the correct answer is a habit with him. An education student, Frank looks forward to the day when he will be asking the questions in the classroom.

The mathematical "genius," "Howie" is one of our more quiet classmates. His magnetic attraction is not only an asset in acquiring friends, but is useful too in the physics laboratory. Originally a member of the 1937 Freshman class, "Howie's" stay at P.C. was interrupted by service in the Navy, where he attended Radio Operators School and Radio Material School. Since his return in 1946, his courtesy and generosity have made him popular among his classmates. From his past record, we feel sure that "Howie" will achieve success in whatever he undertakes.

Since his discharge from the Navy, "Bob" has made his presence known both on and off campus. He enjoys discussions where he can concentrate on the issue and disregard personalities. His fellow students have been entertained often by his proficient manipulation of a deck of cards and other feats of magic. Also interested in music, photography, and art, "Bob" will bring distinct talent with him whether he goes into business or on to graduate school.

A Navy veteran, "Bob," not only carries a full academic course, not only shoulders those heavy responsibilities which fall to the head of a family of three, but also manages to work eight hours a day, six days a week, as a member of the police force in his hometown. Yet, with all this, he has done his share in extracurricular activities at the college. His fellow commuters elected him President of the Fall River Club. Likewise, in the Phi Chi Club he has been a very energetic member. It is certainly a testimonial to his grit and perseverance that "Bob" has shown himself a better than average student.

"Matt" is one of the younger graduates of our class. In addition to pursuing the course of studies necessary for his business degree, "Matt" is deeply interested in ocean commerce. He has devoted considerable time to his hobby, boat building. However, he does not spend all his days tinkering with yachts, for he is always alert to the significant happenings in world trade. Whether "Matt" chooses the sea or a more prosaic business ashore, it is certain he will win his share of acclaim.

Almost seven years ago "Maury" came to P. C. His education was interrupted by service in the Army, and it was not until three years later that he resumed his studies. "Intelligence" could be his middle name, for he is a very good student, excelling in all his studies. He has exhibited additional talents at the keyboard on more than one occasion by playing the classics with considerable skill. "Maury" plans to continue his biological studies in graduate school after which he intends doing technical work in bacteriology.

"Joe" began his studies at the college in September, 1942, and, after completing one year, the Navy appropriated him. He was sent to Dartmouth College, and then to Harvard University for training in the supply branch of the Navy. "Joe" came back to the college in 1946. Quiet and soft-spoken in class "Joe" is in sharp contrast when present at an off-campus gathering. There he comes to the fore with his sparkling witticisms. With his industry, which is the parent to good fortune, we feel that "Joe" will accomplish whatever he starts out to do.

JOHN BERNARD HAGERTY, JR.

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Kent County Club, '41, '42, '47, '48.

Another of La Salle's many sons who has continued his education on "the hill," John first came to the college in September, 1940. He left in 1942 to serve three years in the Navy. A quiet fellow, who does very well in the classroom, John has had considerable family responsibility while carrying on his studies. He is eager to enter the field of journalism, in which he has already had experience, having covered the political issues for his home town paper, the Rhode Island Pendulum. With his facility for analyzing matters of political moment, his future is assured.

"Jake," with his sunny disposition and his winning smile, is clever, humorous, and studious. Originally a member of the class of 1945, his college career was interrupted by service in the Army. As Vice-President of the Phi Chi Club, he has displayed leadership qualities which should serve him well in his chosen field, chemistry. His hobbies are photography and radio. We are confident that his attainments will reflect creditably upon himself and the college when he continues his studies at graduate school.

La Salle Academy, Providence, R. I.

Senior Business Club, '48.

Throughout his four years at college, "Ray" has established a notable reputation for good workmanship which many students find hard to excel. Possessed of a pleasing personality and a dry humor, he is always welcome at college functions. He has been unfailing in his support of the athletic program and is quick to volunteer his time and abilities to further the successes of the Friar teams. "Ray" has shown an aptitude and enthusiasm for all business subjects in general, and it goes without saying that he will be a "natural" in any commercial enterprise.

Senior Business Club Treasurer, '48.

"Gene" enrolled at the college in 1940, but his studies were interrupted by the war. He served three years in the Air Corps before enrolling in our class. "Gene" has already shouldered the responsibility of public office in his native city of Pawtucket. His two terms as city councilman have given strong indication that there is soon to be another alumnus high in the affairs of government. After graduation, Eugene will enter the Wharton School of Government, at the University of Pennsylvania.

"Mel" is the cheery fellow, endowed with an impelling intellectual curiosity, characterized by prefacing most of his sentences with those now-familiar words—"I wonder." This engaging Cranstonian does not limit himself solely to academic endeavors, but finds outlet and expression for his well-rounded personality in extracurricular activities. The medical profession will have added a zealous and industrious practitioner when "Mel" takes his place among those who devote themselves to the Hippocratic art. Although service with the Navy delayed "Mel's" education, he has got back into the swing of studies in a big way.

An active member of the class, "Vin" has taken part in many extracurricular functions. Particularly as a member of the college dramatic society has he demonstrated his versatility. He has participated as a make-up man, as a prop-technician, and as an actor. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Pyramid Players. "Vin's" thorough and contemplative nature, coupled with his originality, have been of real value to the class. Present plans call for graduate school in the fall.

"Al" registered at the college in February, 1946, shortly after he was released from the Army. Prior to the war, he attended and was graduated from Bryant college. "Al" is a married man with many responsibilities, which prevent him from taking a part in collegiate affairs, yet he does indulge in the pastime of making model airplanes. Music also intrigues him, and he listens with an attentive ear to any new hit song that the juke box plays in the cafeteria. However, his first love remains grand opera. Since he is majoring in accounting, "Al" hopes to apply his knowledge in the field of business.

MARIO IZZO

Ph.B.—Social Science

Mount Pleasant High School, Providence, R. I.

Mario enrolled at Providence College in September of 1942. His education was suspended while he served in the Army from 1943 until 1945. Mario has a razor-edged sense of humor, and his friendly smile has won him a legion of companions during the past few years. His hobby is collecting odd pipes. We feel sure that he samples them, for rarely will you find Mario that he is not smoking one of these pipes. Mario is planning to attend law school in the fall.

A member of the late Friar football team, "Bill" is remembered by some as a ferocious man on the gridiron, who smeared many an opponent's favorite play. But the younger students know him as a quiet, likeable fellow. After four years in the Navy, "Bill" returned to college with the added responsibilities of a wife and the job of guarding the city of Worcester by night as a patrolman on the police force. "Bill's" plans for the future are uncertain at the present, he says. No one will doubt, however, that he has already a toe-hold on a rung of the proverbial ladder of success.

After service in the Air Corps, "Bill" came back in 1946 to pursue further his study of chemistry. While in the Air Force, he attended the University of Buffalo. The sciences, sailing, and "tinkering" are the things that claim most of his attention. Most of the time you could find him pre-occupied in the laboratory. If he was not there, you could go down to Matunuck and, somewhere along the beach, you would be likely to see him working like a beaver on his boat. The sciences call for men of vision today. "Bill" has just that kind of ability.

Well-versed in the fine points of scholarship, "Ed" has been a leading student since his return to the college from the Army in 1946. In addition, he has played a great deal of basketball. He was high scorer in intramural competition last year, when he paced the Shamrocks in the campus basketball loop. He is an active member of St. John's Council, Knights of Columbus, of Attleboro. He takes a keen interest in photography. "Ed's" chosen profession is law, and he is planning to study corporation law at Georgetown University.

Quiet, reserved and modest, "Dick" is an industrious student and worker. Studies give him no trouble, for he sails serenely along with little worry. He is especially intrigued by gadgets of all descriptions, and his projects in the physics laboratory are usually quite intricate. An active member of the Phi Chi Club, "Dick" also finds time to display his talent in music. He is undecided as to his future plans, but we feel that he will triumph in whatever field of physics he endeavors to conquer.

A Navy veteran, "Bob" came to our campus after having attended Northeastern University and Cornell University. He retains his membership in the Cornell Society of Engineers. "Bob" is a quiet, very capable scholar with a penchant for grasping the core of things. In the business administration department "Bob" has a record for sustained high quality. Outside of the classroom, "Bob's" interest is directed toward the outdoor sports of hunting, fishing and sailing. The goal he has in the field of production and accounting demands just the qualities "Bob" has consistently displayed.

Well-known about the college for his literary activities, "Max" has won distinction as editor of the Alembic, and as a member of the Cowl editorial board. Following service in the Army, he returned to his studies and literary activities in 1946. "Max" was chiefly instrumental in reviving the Alembic. His writing experience and his unceasing effort have resulted in a renewal of student interest in this publication. He is married and the father of a son. "Max" plans to enter the teaching profession.

As the "mighty mite" of the basketball team, "Leo" has more than compensated for his smallness in stature by a sizable portion of skill and determination. In the classroom, as well, this same pluck has been important to his success as a student. Unfortunately, illness has benched him for the past two seasons, but his love for sports is too great for him to remain entirely inactive. He has acted as assistant basketball coach at his high-school Alma Mater. Teaching is his goal. Chances are, he will do some coaching, too.

His education interrupted by service in the Army, "Pete" was originally a member of the class of 1941. He returned to his Alma Mater in the fall term of 1946. As a married man with two children, he is naturally more serious-minded than many of us. Nevertheless, he has earned himself a reputation as a subtle wit, in addition to distinguishing himself as one of the better scholars in our class. No "cafeteria session" has been really complete without his little quips of humor. Although he has made no definite plans as to his future career, we feel rather confident that he will be successful in whatever he undertakes.

After three years in the Army, "Art," formerly a member of the class of 1944, again registered in 1946 as a student at the college. Quiet by nature, he, nevertheless, has become well-known as an all-around athlete. While here he has played basketball in intramural competition. In his hometown he belongs to an amateur football team. During the winter months he goes in for skating and hockey. His good sportsmanship and scholarly approach to problems should prove invaluable to him when he enters the sales phase of business.

Hector joined the class of 1948, after duty with the Army Air Corps. Before his military service, he was a student at Massachusetts University. Hector is a likeable fellow, with a host of friends throughout the school. His application and diligence have been rewarded by the fine grades he has attained. He is alert and has a wide range of interests, which are too great in number to be catalogued here. Hector's innate sociability has often been the impetus which makes for a pleasant college gathering and it is this quality which promises to make him a successful businessman.

A veteran of the Army Air Corps, "Jim" is a married man and the father of one child. "Jim" originally started out at the Rhode Island College of Education, but the war intervened, and now "Jim" is completing his collegiate work here at the college. Married life seems to offer no handicap as far as his scholarship is concerned, for "Jim" handles domestic and scholastic homework with equal aplomb. "Jim" would like to spend the next few years studying law. We know that he is well-equipped to be an able member of the bar.

John has been a loyal participant in class activities. Serving as sports editor for the Cowl and VERITAS, and holding down an outfield position with the varsity baseball team are but a few of his accomplishments. "Mac's" disarming grin covers a puckish sense of humor that has made its effect known in the classroom and on the diamond alike. An avid follower of sports, both as a spectator and a participant, “Bob” has made many friends while engaged in intramural competitions at the college. He has been no less diligent in the pursuit of his studies. Younger than many of us, he has held his own, never hesitating to contribute ideas in the interest of his class. His unselfish enthusiasm has earned him our sincere respect. We have no qualms of conscience when we say that “Bob,” with his amiable but outspoken nature, will be successful in the business world and an alumnus of whom the college can be proud.

“Mac” is a man with many interesting sides to his personality. Sometimes in class he probes deeply and seriously into the problem at hand, which he explains in a solemn, dignified manner, but at other times he launches into a laughter-provoking dissertation. “Leo” served in the Navy for three years, during which time he attended Williams College and the University of North Carolina. Returning to the school in 1946, he resumed his pre-legal studies. “Leo” is encouraged in his quest for a law career by his wife, and we join her in wishing him happiness and success as an attorney.

He is particularly fond of business subjects, and hopes to find a future in the import-export business. Originally a member of the class of 1946, “Ed” resumed his education in the winter term of that year, after having served in the Army for almost three years. Never at a loss for words, because he can fall back on a second language, “Babe” made ample use of his knowledge of the French language while in France with the Army. It is rumored that he has since been corresponding with a young lady in Fontainebleau. He has a fine sense of humor, plus a poker-face expression, which causes many of his companions to fall into the subtle traps he sets for them. His main hobby is puffing noisily on his briar pipe, but he also enters the social life of the campus with a great deal of enthusiasm. Armand has been accepted by Boston Law School.

In the classroom, his practice of weighing a question carefully before answering gives him an advantage over many of us who often answer rather recklessly with the first idea that comes to mind. Aside from studies, Angelo is an ardent sports enthusiast. He has played C.Y.O. and Independent League baseball and both football and basketball in intramural competition. Although his future plans are indefinite he is seriously considering becoming a pharmacist.

An Air Force veteran of more than two years, Claudio returned to this campus in 1945. Sports are his big interest, and the more rugged, the better. Claudio was crowned heavyweight boxing champion in the college tournament held in 1943. The game of soccer, however, has been his special forte for the past few seasons. He is a familiar figure at informal sports contests about the school. For all his addiction to sports, Claudio has evidenced a seriously penetrative mind in his studies. His ambition is to enter the teaching profession.

Whereas many of us stand in awe before the mysteries of higher mathematics, "Bob" delights in working out its manifold problems. In fact, he is planning to teach this intricate subject. His honor grades throughout his years at P. C. point him out as a true scholar. With interests ranging from the short stories of Guy de Maupassant and Edgar Allan Poe to the music of operetta and grand opera, "Bob" is a welcome member in any group discussion. We rather envy those who some day will receive the benefit of his erudition in a college lecture hall.

John is completing the course of studies which he began in September, 1941. A veteran-student of no mean ability, he attended Brown University and Harvard University while in the Navy. He is interested in the science of logistics. His experience in the service in that regard will benefit him in the world of trade and commerce. As a member of the Senior Business Club, he has ably assisted that organization on many occasions. We will not be surprised if, in future years, he becomes one of our more illustrious alumni.

Getting "Tom" to talk exclusively about himself is a difficult task. Somehow, his many friends are generally the heroes of his conversations. But on one subject in particular, commuting to the college from Fall River, he is ready to tell many humorous anecdotes. Once in the classroom, however, he has been a serious student-veteran. When he first attended the college during the 1941, 1942, and 1943 terms, "Tom" formed an attachment for his Alma Mater, which actually became stronger during his two years with the Army. So, like many of us, he is both happy to graduate and a little sad at the termination of his days at undergraduate school.

Anyone who has ever attended a P. C. dance, knows "Obie"; for it is his proud boast that he has never missed one since he entered college in 1945. A likable fellow in all ways, "Frank" would win a popularity contest hands down among the students in the cafeteria. He has proven to be an invaluable man on the VERITAS advertising staff. He also finds time to support all Friar teams and activities. "Frank" intends to follow in his Dad's footsteps in the practice of law.

One of the Friars' fine athletes is "Red," a student-veteran with his eyes on a law career. He is well known in collegiate circles as a pitcher with a whistling fast ball. One of his most notable achievements was the no-hit game he pitched against the Quonset Flyers in 1947. Always conscientious, "Tom" is one of the hardest working athletes on the varsity nine. When he leaves the black and white stamping grounds, he will leave behind the memory of an outstanding diamond star.

"Ed" is really an old-timer at the college having entered in 1937. After several years separation from his studies because of outside work and service in the Army, he returned to the campus in 1946. Despite his long absence from school, he has never lost the habit of working hard and attaining honor grades. His favorite subject is bacteriology and he also adds to his knowledge on the practical phases of the subject by working in the laboratory of the Charles V. Chapin Hospital. "Orry" is a quiet lad at times, but he likes to indulge in the well-known art of debating. Give him his camera, his pipe, his "pork-pie" hat, and his wife, and he will be set for life. Entering P.C. in September, 1942, he had to postpone his education when he joined the Army Air Corps. He specialized in photography at Yale University. One of the pleasures of his life is his wife's piano playing. If reports are correct, "Orry" will not only receive his diploma in June but also a special graduation gift. He hopes to continue in the field of photography.

A man who is admired in life is one who can apply in practice what he has learned in theory. Such a man is "Larry." A chemistry major, he has become so engrossed in this field that he has set up a home laboratory where he spends many an evening. His pleasant disposition has become known to all his classmates since he first entered the college in June, 1945. He has always been cooperative in regard to extracurricular activities. His future plans are not definite, but whatever he may choose to do, we are certain that he will be one of our more active alumni.

"Ed" left college to serve three years in the Coast Guard. He returned with an almost insatiable appetite to complete his studies. Here is the personification of an amazing capacity for work, coupled with single-mindedness. His apparent lightheartedness belies his very real seriousness underneath. Before beginning his career, "Ed" plans to do graduate work in business at Harvard University.

Very few members of this class could be said to have more school spirit than John. One of the original members of the class of 1948, he began his studies here in January, 1945. He is one of the youngest members of the class. He has lent himself wholeheartedly to all school activities both social and athletic. With all this he has always maintained a good standing scholastically. Now, he aspires to furthering his education at medical school.

A much sought-after man whenever intramural teams are being organized, "Smiling Ed" has played football for both the "Pawtucket Grads" and the "Lonsdale Shamrocks." He also participated in baseball and basketball. He entered college in 1941, left for Army service in February, 1943, and returned in December, 1945. Since then, "Ed" has been dividing his time between home life, (he is married), studies, and his many sports interests. He hopes to obtain a masters degree in physical education at Columbia University.

"Bill" first entered the college in September, 1942. Later he completed three years in the Marine Corps. He manages his triple duties as a student, father, and husband with great aptitude. His increased responsibilities never overwhelm "Bill," for he makes good account of himself in all his scholastic endeavors. It goes without saying that his favorite subject is accounting. We know that his wife and children have a right to be justly proud of him for his present successes and for those which are sure to come to him upon graduation.

Harry is one of the most versatile members of the class. He indulges in a host of extracurricular pastimes of various kinds, such as ice skating, horseback riding, stamp collecting, photography, and collecting phonograph records. He regularly attends all the college dances and has been a prominent member of many clubs, to which he gives a great deal of his time and talents. A football enthusiast, he is always in demand to play on the intramural teams. Harry spent several years in the Army before he resumed his pre-legal course here. Graduate work in law will be the next step in his education.

Medicine is "Tom's" objective in life. Judging by his record here at the college, he should encounter little difficulty in realizing this ambition. Since he came to the campus in 1945, he has done very well in his studies. But do not think he has been a slave to the books. Athletics and club activities have also taken a share of his attention. As president of the Blackstone Valley Club in his Junior year, he injected a spirit of camaraderie into the organization with his youthful enthusiasm. Deriving a great deal of pleasure from group singing, he played a role in last year's Glee Club holiday presentations.

Roland has proved himself a humorist and scholar during his sojourn at P. C. A veteran of World War II, Roland was originally a member of the Freshman class in 1942. He renewed his studies in the spring term of 1946. Roland is our best example of what marriage does to a man. He has not only succeeded in his studies, but has also, with his mathematical mind and ingenuity, constructed a beautiful house during his spare time. Roland is undecided as to his future post-graduate years, but most likely he will retain his interest in chemistry.

“Bob” is recognized on campus as an addict of brown tweed suits. He is good natured and prefers to speak about baseball or redheads. He is a willing listener, however, at meal times when his healthy appetite dominates all other issues. Always willing to enjoy the better things of life, he believes in preparing for them by getting plenty of sleep. In any conversation involving sports, he always has much to contribute. A broad smile is the essence of his personality which he intends to apply to the profession of teacher-coach.

“Jake” recently married, after confusing his fellow students for over three and one-half years with a pseudo-misogynistic attitude. An enterprising businessman, he has spent most of his time off campus running his own truck farm in Woodbridge, Connecticut. Completing his first two years of college work, he went into the Air Corps in 1942. Nearly four years later he resumed his education as a member of our class. His mature approach to all his subjects has made him a counsellor of some of the younger members of the class. Some have the will to do; others have the ability. "Bob" has both, and uses them to advantage. This scholar first entered the college in January, 1945, and has since won the admiration of all who have come in contact with him. He has enlarged his scope of medical knowledge by working as a lab assistant after school hours and during the summer months in local hospitals. Somehow, he has also found time to participate in a variety of school activities, joining the ranks of those versatile students who can handle several tasks with ease.

Albert came to the college after serving with the Navy. In the pre-war years he attended Bryant College in Providence. A quiet, soft-spoken young man, he has made a good scholastic record and plans graduate work at Columbia University. Such a background bespeaks a promising career for him in his chosen field, business, and if it is not assuming too much, one might add, a well-rounded career. He is possessed of that quality of mind that is uniquely Tuscan—a sound business sense and an appreciation of the arts.

Frank learned how to look on the bright side of life long ago, and it is a serious situation indeed that does not produce a chuckle from him. Ever-ready with a soft-spoken remark that is certain to be apt, Frank is modest, diligent, carefree and congenial. He is a veteran of the Navy and is married. He has been a busy student, persistently doing well in his studies while also being a substantial help in the management of his father's business. Frank's tireless efforts to establish an undergraduate "Providence Club" have so far gone unrewarded. His future calls for law school or a business of his own.

"Bill's" smile has been seen everywhere. His career at Providence College has been one marked with exuberant vivacity. His little quips of humor are pleasant to recall. Especially so is his now classic definition of Thomism,—"nature spelled sideways." Essentially a scholar, not only has he completed the required courses for a business degree, but he has also studied Latin and Greek. Rumor has it that he has been accepted at the Dominican Novitiate this fall.

Always friendly and ready to help out a fellow student, "Al" possesses all the attributes that win popularity. A Navy man, he came back to the books in the spring of '46, after three years in the service. "Al" likes to sketch as a pastime, but maintains a deep interest in philosophy, often doing research work on his own outside the classroom. This capacity for scholarship plus his neatness in dress will make "Al" an impressive figure in the courtroom. He will enter Boston University in the fall and make law his profession.

Kent County Club

Residents of Kent County gather frequently throughout the year at the social events sponsored by their own club. One of the oldest organizations in the college, the Kent County Club offers an excellent means for the men from this part of Rhode Island to meet one another. Joseph F. McNally, Albert N. Verville, Bernard Archambault, and John Gagnon were President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer, respectively, for the academic year, 1947-48.

Left to right: D. Magiera, G. McKenna, R. Levesque, J. McNally, J. Gagnon, R. Maynard, G. Dion, B. Archambault.

Metropolitan Club

Founded—1934

The students from New York City and vicinity are eligible for membership in this club which aims at keeping the Gotham boys and their friends together even during the vacations. Social events around Christmas and Easter in their city characterize their off-campus activities. On the campus they are the greatest boosters of the "greatest city in the world."

PRESIDENT
Vincent Mariano of New York City

First row: Burns, Ferguson, Bernabei, Murphy, Lombardi, Cavanaugh.
Second row: Mariano, Moore, Gorman, Kreutz, Silver, Hayden.

PRESIDENT

Ferdinand Sowa '48 of Acushnet, Mass.

Monogram Club

Founded—1939

The students who have won their monogram in Varsity sports make up this club. It is a social organization, therefore, of the athletes and team managers upon whom the Athletic Director and coaches have set their seal of approval. The chief social function of the club is the "Varsity Hop," held usually during the winter, but this year in April. Ferd Sowa, this year's Basketball captain, is the President.

First row: Angelone, Sowa, Labossiere.

Second row: Mozelewski, Mahoney, Killian, Edwards, Littlefield, Parsons, O'Halloron, Lozski.

Newport Club

Founded—1938

The Newport Club was organized to offer to students from this area a society capable of filling their leisure hours with healthy recreation and educational programs of common interest. The club was suspended during the war but it has been revived this year with big plans for the future. The officers are: Thomas Hyder, President; and Peter Razza, Treasurer.

PRESIDENT

Third row: McKinnon, Dwyer, Mitchell, Lynch.

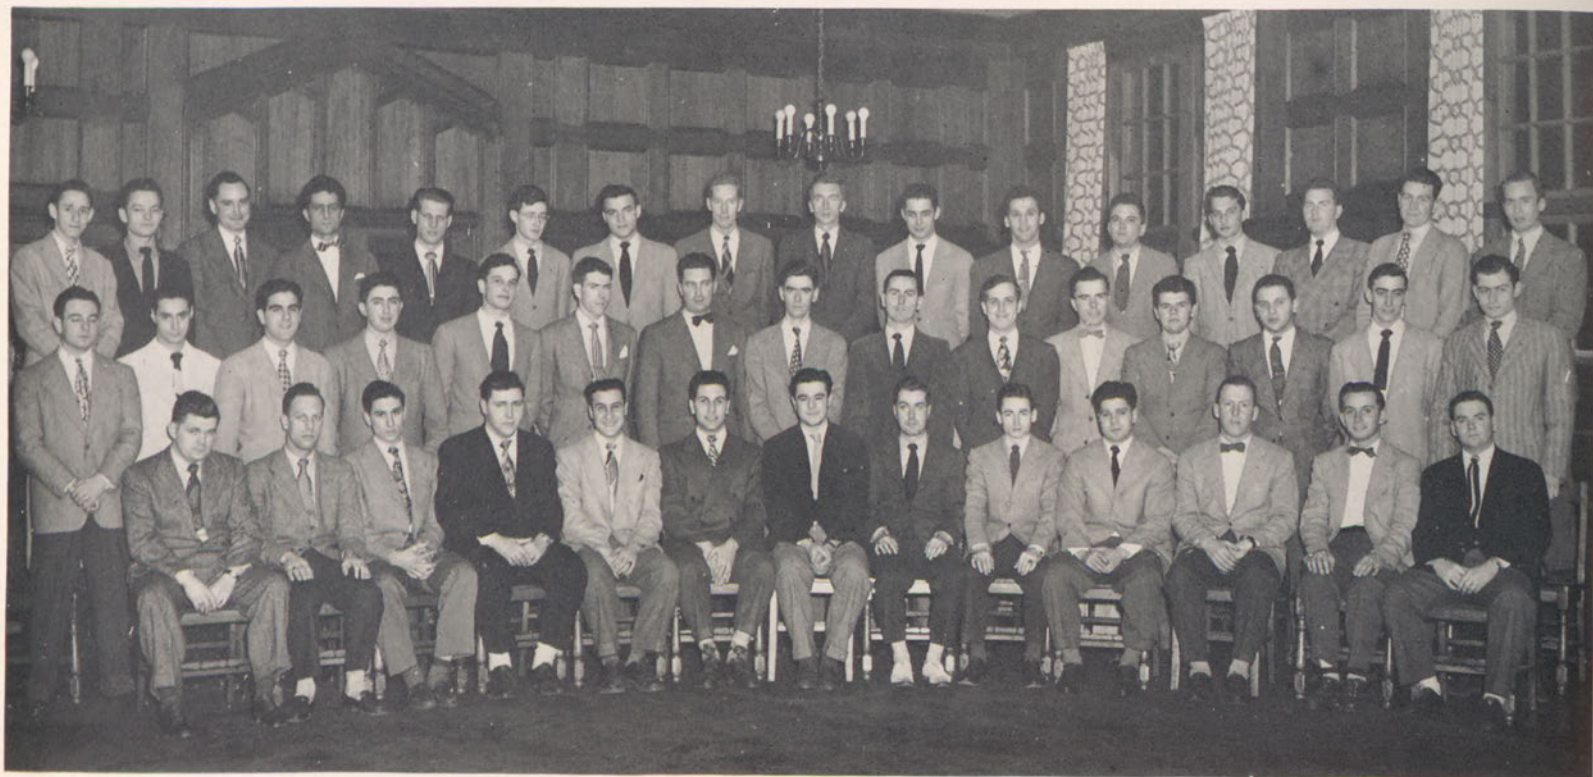

PRESIDENT
Dan DiIuglio '48 of New Haven, Conn.

New Haven Club

Founded—1935

New Haven students at Providence College find the New Haven Club a splendid means of being at home while away from home. Frequent social events serve to keep the New Haven boys together, making friends who will not be lost by graduation. Officers for this year were: Daniel DiIuglio, '48, President; Mark Burns, '49, Vice-President; Frank Basquill, '49, Secretary; and Harry Jordan, '49, Treasurer.

First row: Basquill, Raymond, Conte, Montana, Iardarola, Esposito, Buccino, Flynn, F. DiIuglio, Shanley, Shanahan.

PRESIDENT
Robert L. Martin '48 of Lonsdale

Phi Chi Club

Founded—1936

One of the most active intellectual groups on the campus, the Phi Chi Club holds frequent sessions devoted to the reading of scientific papers and lectures on scientific topics of timely importance. R. L. Martin, '48, was President and other officers were: J. Taylor, '49, Vice-President; and J. Lochran, '50, Secretary.

First row: Hughes, Martin, W. Laughrin, Hanoian, Brannon.
 Second row: Golden, Flaherty, Alexander, Buhrman, DiSaia, Vitale.
 Third row: T. Laughrin, Sullivan, Gettings, Campelli, Walsh, McGowan.
 Fourth row: Healey, Mongeau, Kuljin, Arnsnow, Etter, King, Jutras.
 Fifth row: McCarthy, McKinnon, Leoffler, Hannon, Lachute, Lynch, Hamilton.

Philomusian Club

Founded—1919

The oldest student organization on the campus is the one now housed in Guzman Hall. It was founded by some members of the Silver Jubilee class for the purpose of promoting good fellowship among the Dominican pre-ecclesiastical students. Regular meetings, holiday entertainments and the Lacordaire Debating Society are the principal activities. The officers are: Robert J. Every, President; Charles A. McGrail, Vice-President; John A. Donahue, Secretary; James A. Keating, Treasurer.

Pyramid Players

Founded—1923

Embryonic thespians have an opportunity to develop and display their talents as members of the Pyramid Players. A series of plays and the annual musical comedy provide the dramatic attractions during the college year. The officers for the year were: Edward Gnys, '51, President; Vincent Cinquegrana, '48, Vice-President; and Frank Conway, '49, Treasurer. The Governing Board was composed of John Feeley, '49, Vincent Hughes, '48, Harold Keenan, '50, Harold Lucas, '50, and George Markham, '50.

Pyramid Players

"Derryowen", by Timothy O'Hare, was the 3-act fall presentation by the Players in Harkins Hall, December 12, 13, 14, 1947. The actors interpreted the Irish wit and humor in grand style and provided a delightful evening for the enthusiastic audiences. In the cast were: (lower left) William Gregory '50, Patricia Donovan, Robert Flaherty '51, Mary T. Walsh, Anthony Jarzombek '51, Raymond Scungio '50, and George Markham '50. John Feeley '49 directed the play.

Woonsocket Club

Last but not least of the territorial clubs is the one for the students from Woonsocket and surrounding towns. The club has had an active social season, including a very successful Christmas Dance, a dance during the Easter vacation, and a Communion Breakfast in May. The officers for this year were: John A. Powell, President; Paul Joyce, Vice-President; Paul Doonan, Secretary; and Joseph O'Keefe, Treasurer.

THE ALEMBIC

Founded—1920

As the literary quarterly of Providence College, The Alembic provides a means for the publication of the formal literary efforts of the student body. Editors for this year were Maximilian R. Knickerbocker, Jr., '48, and Robert E. Doherty, '49. Arthur R. Poutray, '49; George Eagle, '50; and Wales B. Henry, '50 were associate editors.

THE COWL

EDITORS

Tom Carroll '48 and Joe Shanley '49

In the first issue of its tenth year of publication and thirteenth year of existence, The Cowl editorially explained its policy as including the following aims: "To report, in an objective manner, all news pertinent to the College and its students; to foster and support extracurricular activities among the student body; to reflect constructive student opinion in conformity with the Catholic viewpoint; and to promote the name of Providence College, its students, and its alumni.

Improvements noted in The Cowl for the academic year, 1947-48, were more pictures per issue and six pages per issue for each full class week. A Christmas edition in three colors and a "sports extra" for the R.I. State vs. P.C. game at the auditorium were published.

Co-Editors this year were Thomas E. F. Carroll of Providence and Joseph V. Shanley of New Haven, Conn. The Editorial Board comprised former editors, John R. Crook of Providence, Maximilian R. Knickerbocker of Cranston, and Edward T. Sullivan of Providence.

CORONATION OF QUEEN
HIGHLIGHTS EVENING

Amid a galaxy of revolving lights, approximately 400 couples are dancing this evening in the Crystal Ballroom of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel to the music of Raymond Scott and his eighteen-piece orchestra on the occasion of the Providence Junior Promenade, sponsored by the Class of 1948.

When the college Alma Mater Song is played at 11:00 p. m. the formal affair will reach its climax with the commencing of the Grand March, led by the members of the Prom Committee and their guests. Committee members are identified by their bluish boutonnières and red ribbons.

Immediately following this procession will be the coronation of the Promenade Queen, Miss Elizabeth Peirce of Providence. Her escort is Mr. Dan Diluglio of New Haven. Prom Chairman and class Secretary. Maid of Honor to the Queen is Miss Frances Stickley of Wakefield, R. I. guest of Mr. Thomas Barry of Coventry, R. I., class President. The Queen and her Maid of Honor will carry arm bouquets of roses. Mr. Barry, on behalf of the Junior Class, will present Miss Peirce with a silver loving cup as a symbol of her royal status for the evening.

Invited guests include Governor and Mrs. John O. Pastore, Mayor Dennis J. Roberts, the Very Rev. Frederick C. Foley, O.P., Dr. Daniel J. O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hanley, Mr. John W. Moroney, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Murphy, Mr. Maurice J. Timlin, Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Martin, Mr. Lawrence Drew, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sullivan, Dr. Frederick J. Burns, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin B. O'Reilly, Mr. Joseph X. Brennan, Mr. Austin F. Shea, Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCaffrey, Miss Ruth A. Coffey, and members of the faculty.

The Friar quintet opened its 1947-48 season in a very impressive fashion, by taking the opening tilt with the Quonset Flyers, 66-59. From the outset, it was apparent that the accent would be on speed and precision with this outfit, which definitely lacked height advantage. Improving steadily, the Friars on Dec. 6 took on the College of the Assumption at the City Gym and trounced them soundly by the score of 53-44.

Apparently inspired by their opening wins, Coach Larry Drew's charges journeyed to Springfield on Dec. 9, thirsting for another win at the expense of American International College. This they accomplished in sparkling fashion to the tune of 62-50.

With the ball now rolling nicely, the Friars made a week-end trip to the big town, New York, and there proceeded to run their victory string to five by copping two thrilling weekend encounters from Upsala and Wagner Colleges on Dec. 12-13 by the counts of 71-61 and 40-37.

On Dec. 17th, the Aces paid a visit to Providence, with intentions of avenging their first defeat at the hands of the Friars. However, the P. C. hoopsters were in for one of their high-scoring nights. They promptly unloaded on the hapless Aces, 73-59.

Our spirited cagers made it seven in a row as they played Colby College on Dec. 19 in a breather, winning 63-46.

On Jan. 7 came the Friars big test as they made for the Boston Arena to try and trip the much-heralded, high-scoring, St. Anselm Hawks. Our snappy hoopsters wasted little time as they rang up a 10-0 lead before the Hawks could score a point, and the Friars went on to take a nifty decision, 60-48.

After hanging up eight consecutive victories, the Drewmen ran smack into a terrifically hopped-up Eagle quintet on Jan. 10, which finally slammed the door on the victory-filled Friars to the score of 62-43.

Undaunted, our resurgent Friars snapped back and rode once again into the victory column on Jan. 14 by taking a close decision from the Coast Guard Academy, 39-37.

The always-unpredictable Springfield Gymnasts came in Jan. 17 to close the first half of the campaign and at the same time impose on the Friars their first home defeat of the young season, as they shot superbly to defeat the Friars 62-53.

The Varsity five ushered in the second half of their campaign on Jan. 24th by tagging the luckless Bruins with a 42-35 beating at the Marvel Gym.

The Friars suffered another double setback, as once again they journeyed to New York, to take on Siena College and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Feb. 6-7. Against Siena, the Friars faced one of the East's undefeated quintets. Siena remained unconquered as they froze the Drewmen, 66-53 at the Troy Armory.

RPI presented a very rangy array, which boasted tremendous height superiority. The Drewmen passed well and shot well but the disadvantage in height was too much of an obstacle to overcome. Consequently, RPI coasted to a rather easy win, 60-48.

Iona College came in on Feb. 11 and gave the Friars a thrilling tussle before bowing out 67-63. The Drewmen achieved great heights in this tilt as they put on a dazzling exhibition of fine team play, crisp passing, and astounding shooting.

At last, Feb. 17 came the "piece de resistance", the State game. The boys were really hep for this one and went after State with vengeance. It turned out to be a terrific battle as the Friars worked like a well-oiled machine, slowed the Rams down to a walk, and managed to give this powerhouse a great battle before fatigue took its toll. It was a question of too much height and copious reserves on the part of the Rams and not enough height and reserves on the part of the Friars. So, in the fourth quarter, the Rams began to roll, finally subduing our hard-fighting Friars by a score of 79-61. The Springfield Gymnasts successfully dedicated their new Gym, Feb. 21 and at the same time defeated Providence College again. Foul shots won the game for them, as they connected for 24 out of 28 tries from the charity ribbon. The Friars outshot them from the floor, but came out on the short end of the score, 56-47.

In a vengeful mood, the Friars entertained Boston College Feb. 24 again with the hope of gaining some lost prestige by defeating the Eagles at the Auditorium. Apparently it wasn't in the cards for the Drewmen dropped a rather dull game to Boston by a count of 54-41.

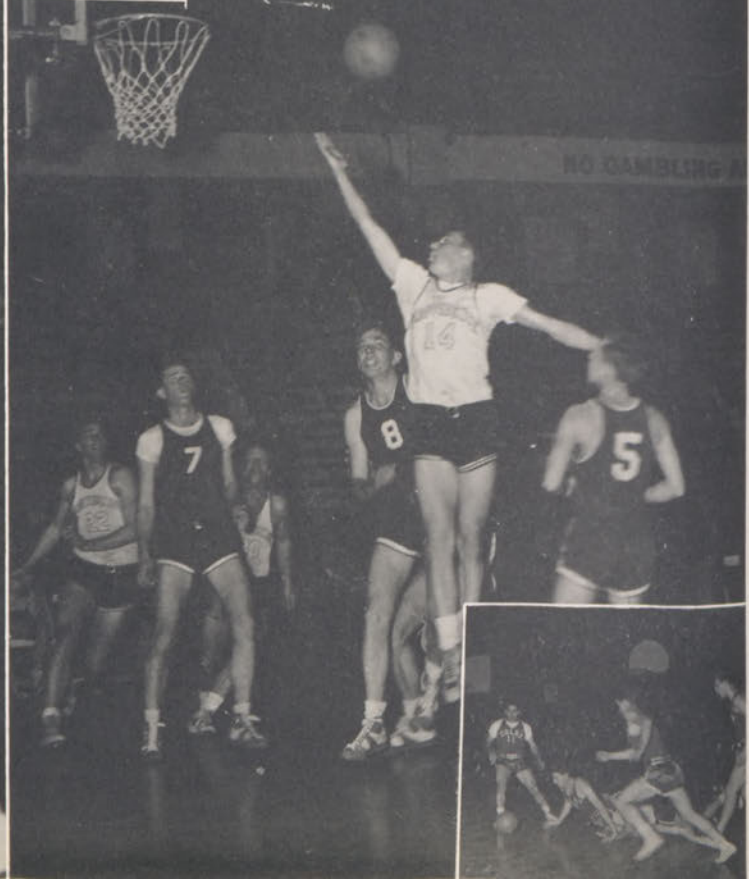

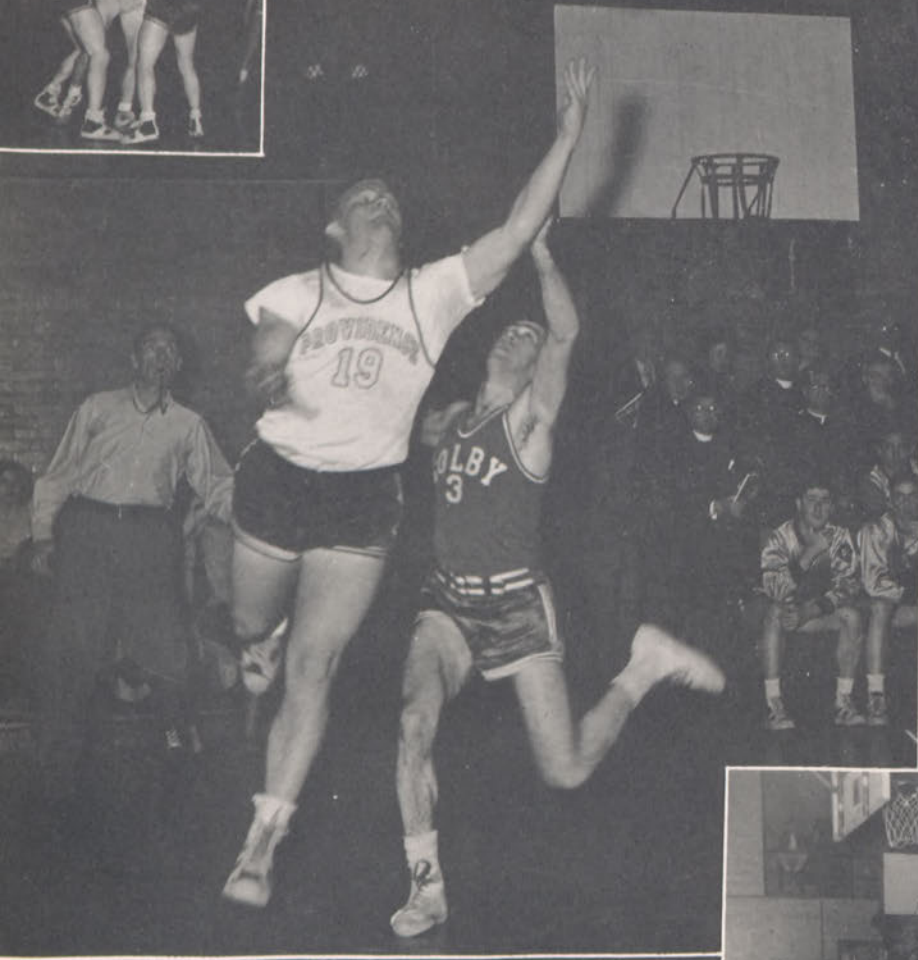

The rampant Rams of R. I. State College ran up their highest score of the season Mar. 3 at Rodman Hall, as they completely swamped our hard-plugging cohorts 108-84. The Friars too ran up their highest count of the season, but State was playing within the chummy confines of Rodman Hall where very few teams beat them.

A rejuvenated and much improved Brown quintet surprised our fighting Friars Mar. 6 by taking a commanding lead in the first 20 minutes, 40-25. The Friar stalwarts snapped back viciously during the second half and almost dragged the game out of the fire but the Bruins held on long enough to take the verdict, 70-64.

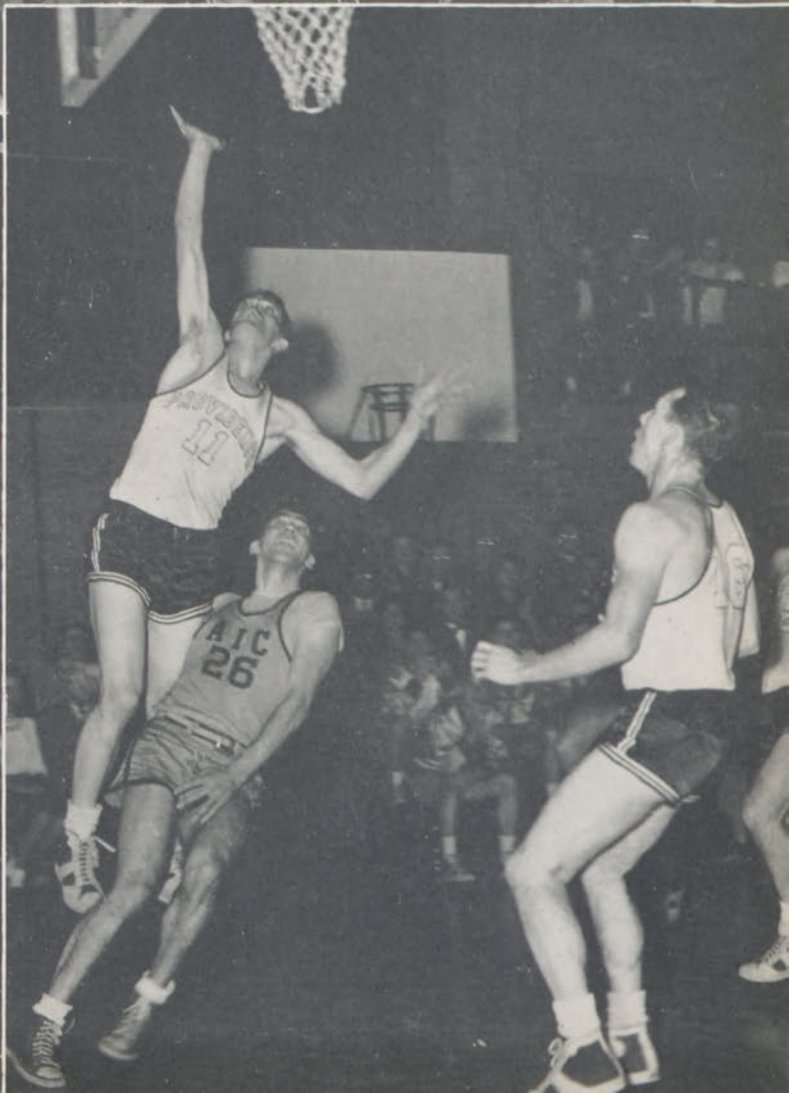

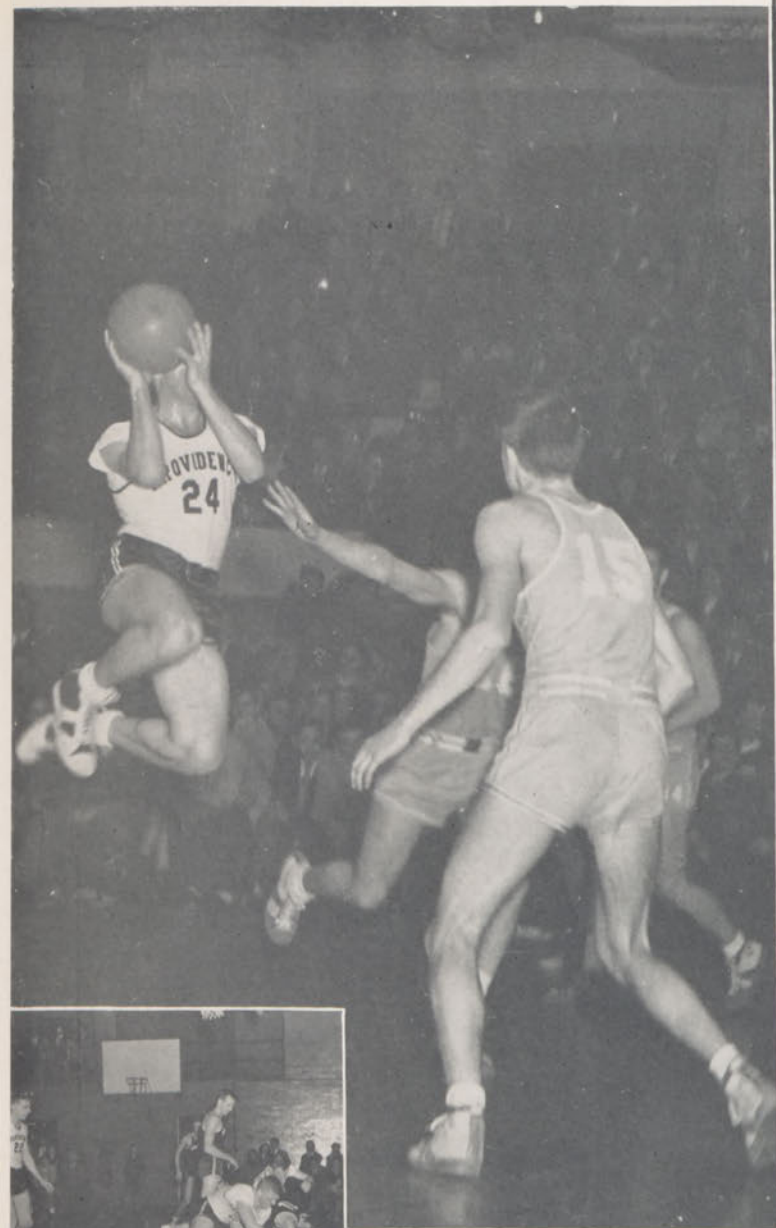

Much to the chagrin of the many Providence College adherents, Coach Larry Drew's forces dropped a heartbreaking finale on Mar. 10 to the Scarlets of Clark University, 61-53, thereby enabling the Friars to close the season with 10 wins and 10 losses.

ON THE DIAMOND

All I can say is that we must have looked funny from the air that day, 300 of us on Hendricken Field. It was back on St. Patrick's Day of last year when Hal Martin called us out for the first time.

We ran that day and the next and the next. Man, how we did run! Lap after lap, duck-walk, crawl, burpees, and then to top it all, every three men sprinted from right field to the gate with the loser lapping the field again. If we lost our "Army legs" Hal should get the credit.

It was a week later that Father Begley broke out the lumber. "Three swings, a bunt, and get out of there," yelled Martin; but some of the guys begged for one more cut, and Hal (he knows how tough it is to lay down the shillalah without getting good wood on at least one) so he said, "OK, take another."

Later in the month Cy Barker showed up and started asking us questions like; "How old are you son? Where didja play before? What's your name, Burns?"

"Naw", growled the kid, "I'm Sullivan," and Jim breaks out with that laugh of his and yells across the infield, "Hey Burnsey, he thinks I'm you."

Cy brought his chair and an inflated cushion to sit on but someone stuck a pin in it. Anyway, Cy stood up while he had us in the sliding pit.

April Fool's Day, we got cut from 300 to 40. Some of the kids with pink slips took it pretty hard. They had to go home and tell their old man "I didn't make it," and if you don't think that's tough, then, you're either a natural or you're not an athlete at all.

They herded us into one of those Quaker stages about noon, April 17, and off we shuffled to meet the sailors down at Quonset. It was a cold day and the wind from the Bay didn't help matters any. After we took a quick peek at the A. T.'s out past right field and grabbed a few rounds of batting a Navy second John (I guess you call him an Ensign) blurted out the line up. It was opening day 1947!

"For Providence College, in left field ... John McBurney; center field ... Ralph Matera; right field ... "Shadow" Shadoian; Bill Angelone ... first base; Joe Parsons ... third base; Bobby Girouard ... second base; Jim Sullivan ... short stop; Weinstock ... catching and O'Halloran ... pitching."

The Ump yells "Play Ball." O'Halloran starts firing the fast one. The swabbies go down wholesale fashion via the K route, and the red-head has himself an honest-to-goodness no-hitter. It happened that fast.

We knocked off Holy Cross the 23rd of April, 8 to 5, in an up-hill battle. O'Halloran fanned ten more, picked up a hard-earned decision. You know the Cross tied Yale as top team in New England last year. Maloney won the game for us; he steps up with three on and two down, the score knotted four all in the ninth, as a pinch hitter no less and bangs a clean single to right. The Crusaders were down from their horses and they knew it.

Next came Springfield and disaster on the 25th of April. It rained, hailed and snowed. But the weather didn't seem to bother them. We out-hit them 16 to 5. But they got seventeen free trips and that sort of counts for the 20 to 4 score. Wow, what a nightmare!

Brown took our measure the next day, 3 to 1, in another frost-bite affair. We K.O.ed their starting pitcher in the seventh, but big Jim Bryan came in and put out the fire.

Rain and cold came back for another week, and we finally got back into action May 10 against Boston College. Our infield booted this one away. The Eagles took the decision 10 to 2. Except for Cy Killian's homer we still showed no hitting attack.

Two days later we went up to the Heights for a return bout with them. This time they blasted Reilly, Foley and Keenan. 18 to 9 Boston College, was the way it wound up. It would have been worse except for Ralph Mattera's 5 R.B.I.'s.

Next day, May 13, we won a big one. Seton Hall, sporting a 12 to 1 record, stopped off on its annual New England swing long enough to cross bats with us at Hendricken Field. It turned out to be number 3 for Tom O'Halloran, aided no little by John Barchi. He rifled two line drives, home-run shots, down the left field line all the way to that 475-foot fence.

Then came our only road trip of the campaign. May 16 we met and licked Upsala, 10 to 8, at East Orange, in a wild ten-inning slug fest. They had us 8 to 0 in the fifth when Hugh Reilly came in and slowed them down to a trot. Angelone belted one out of the park; Cy Killian got four for six and tied the game with two out in the ninth; and Ralph Mattera won the game in the tenth. But Hughie was still the big boy. That night we holed up in the Essex House, Newark.

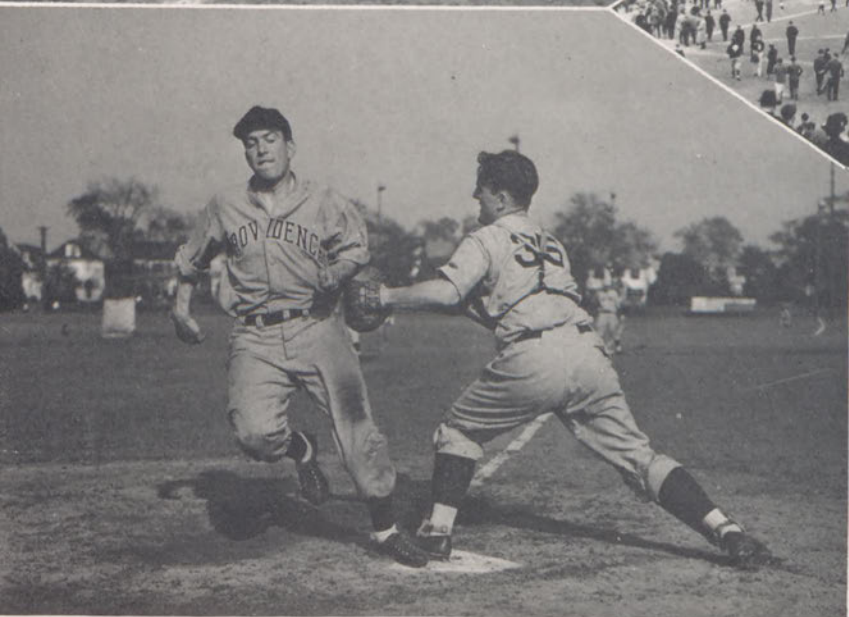

Next day we moved from Newark to South Orange for a second go with the Pirates of Seton Hall. Mike Fay tossed the knuckler with fair-to-middling luck, but dropped the decision 4 to 1.

After the game we started home for the final week of the season. On Tuesday we looked very bad and lost to State 9 to 0, but the next day Fay knuckled Brown down, a sweetheart five-hitter, with P.C. winning 9 to 1. We wound up the season with another dismal performance against Springfield. It's been ages since we licked them. This time they lashed us 9 to 1.

The Alumni Club of Newport invited us down for a testimonial and exhibition at the end of the year. Hal Martin was guest speaker. He said we could have done a lot better but he was still plenty proud of us.

We had won only 5 and lost 9.

OFFICE OF THE CHAPLAIN

TO THE SENIORS

Heartiest congratulations on your Commencement! It is the realization of an ambition, persistent, and difficult of attainment. It is a splendid tribute to your personal effort and intellectual achievement.

May the future hold for each of you continued success and abundant happiness.

TO ALL STUDENTS

I wish to express my profound gratitude for the enthusiastic cooperation that you have shown me during this academic year. The Holy Name Parade in Boston, and the assistance in the campaign for the College War Memorial deserves the highest encomiums. These events were so successful because of the full measure of help that I received from you. My appreciation cannot be expressed in words.

CHARLES H. McKENNA, O.P.
Chaplain

Acknowledgments

To the following we are deeply grateful:

- Members of the Administration of the College;
- The Reverends William R. Clark, O.P., and Thomas H. Kaufman, O.P., faculty moderators of the yearbook;
- Members of the Senior Class for their cooperation;
- Members of the other classes for assistance to the staff;
- The Providence Journal Company for certain sports photos;
- Our advertisers whom we sincerely recommend to the student body and especially to the Class of 1948;
- The many others, too numerous to mention, who have helped in many ways.

The 1948 VERITAS STAFF.
