BOB MURRAY
NEW FRIAR BASEBALL COACH

P.B. 2/20/56

Bob Murray, Pro Baseball Vet, Named Friar Baseball Coach

By JOE MCHENRY

The Providence College Friars have named Bobby Murray, a man of wide playing and managerial experience, as their new baseball coach. The announcement came from the Rev. A.B. Begley, O.P., athletic director for the Friars.

Murray is a native of Nashua, N.H., who has been a player, scout, manager and part owner in pro ball and coached the Nashua Legion to the New Hampshire State championship. This is his first college coaching post.

Lots of Experience

"I wouldn't say I was an outstanding hitter," Murray told me today, "but I have had a lot of experience and played from Coast to Coast. I have high hopes that I can do a good job at Providence College and I have always been heart and soul in the game.

"I played for Jack Flynn, who also coached Providence College, when I was more or less a kid in the Eastern League, and I always admired Flynn, both as a baseball strategist and as an outstanding man.

"I was with Washington for a while but I played most of my baseball in the minors. I was the property of both the Braves and the Yankees but I never played with either. I played in Rhode Island years ago, with Gabby Hartnett, the late Joey Connolly and Marty Callahan and I know the Cooneys, having played against Jimmy many times," Murray said.

Succeeds Martin

The Friars' new coach succeeds Harold Martin, who has moved his family to Fort Myers, Fla., where he is in the motel business and also teaching at Fort Myers High. Martin handled the club last year and was expected back until he decided to quit this part of the country for the sunny south on Florida's Gulf Coast.

Murray was more less a late starter in the coaching derby. Johnny Pesky practically accepted the job after a talk with Father Begley and then had to turn it down when the Detroit Tigers came along with a managerial post in their farm system. Alex Nahigian, Pawtucket East and Brown coach, and Donald O. Burke, also were leading candidates.

Murray, who was born in Vermont, broke into baseball as a shortstop and second baseman around 1920. He played with Worcester, Rochester, Toledo, Nashville, San Francisco, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Los Angeles, New Orleans and others. He managed for about eight years, then served as a scout for the Braves and the Tigers.

Spoiler

What was your biggest feat, I asked him.

"Well, you remember, Van Lingle Mungo, who pitched for the Dodgers? I always thought he was one of the fastest pitchers, I had ever seen. Sometimes in those early night games, you couldn't see the ball.

"Mungo had us blanked and was working on a no hitter. He would throw that big foot u in the air and that's all you would see and the ball would be by you. Well, he had us, going into the ninth and I hit the ball off the fence, spoiling the no hit, no run effort.

"Last summer when Paul Richards was in Boston with the Baltimore club, we were reminiscing about that game. Paul was catching for Hartford in those days and I was managing Richmond. And that Mungo didn't speak to me until about four years later. He was just a mad ball player," Murray explained.

Fielding Star

Murray hit over .300 in several leagues and led a couple in fielding. He held the record for errorless games by a second baseman in the Southern Association until somebody broke it within the past few years.

The new coach will be in town this week to talk to the students at Providence College and also to get things rolling for the baseball season.

Nashua sent the Friars one of their best in the person of George (Birdie) Tebbetts and Birdie is of the opinion that Murray will make the Friars a fine baseball coach. They have known each other for years.

Bob Murray to Coach P.C. Nine

New Friar Pilot From Tebbetts' Home Town

By JOE McHENRY

Bobby Murray, who has been associated with baseball in various capacities for many years, is the new baseball coach of the Providence College Friars, according to an announcement last night by the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., athletic director.

Murray, who is a native of Nashua, N.H., has been employed as a player, manager, and scout and served in the front office in his baseball duties. He succeeds Harold Martin, who relinquished his teaching and coaching post with the Friars to take over a motel business at Fort Myers, Fla.

The new Providence College coach has the backing of his fellow townsman, George (Birdie) Tebbetts, the former Friar catcher who is now the pilot of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

"I think the people at the college will like Bobby," Birdie told me recently. "He's a smart baseball man and a nice guy to go along with it. He's got all the experience and baseball background. I've known him a long time and I think he will make the Friars a fine coach."

Good Backgrounds

Murray was notified of his appointment over the weekend and will be at the college this week to meet the Providence College candidates and start planning for the coming campaign.

While the Providence College teams have not had many different coaches, all brought a fine baseball background into college coaching. The late Jack Flynn and the late Jack Egan had extensive professional experience while Dr. Artie Quirk, Donat Maynard and Martin were all competent baseball men.

Murray was at one time manager in the Eastern League and before that played the infield with teams in the American Association, International, Pacific Coast, Southern and Eastern Leagues. He had a brief stay with the Washington Senators in the 20s.

Recently Murray has been scouting for the Detroit Tigers and served as business manager for the Corning, N.Y., team in the Pony League, a Tiger farm, in 1953. He also directed the Nashua Legionaires (Sweeney Post) to the New Hampshire championship.

The Friars have been in the market for a coach for some time. They thought Martin would return to his post at PC, but he informed them that he was going into his motel business more seriously and also was taking a position on the faculty at Fort Myers High.

Bid From Pesky

One of the first to put in a bid for the job, and a man who had strong qualifications, was Johnny Pesky, the former Red Sox shortstop. Johnny came to Providence, talked things over with Father Begley and practically accepted the job. Then along came an offer to manage for the Tigers and Johnny withdrew his bid for the PC post and signed with Detroit to handle Durham in the Piedmont League.

Other names that came into the picture along with that of Murray were Alex Nahigian, who has developed some outstanding talent at Pawtucket East High, and Donald O. Burke, who has served as manager of the Providence Grays in the New England League and as a scout for Cincinnati. Burke had an extensive playing career in Tim O'Neil competition and also at Georgetown.

Murray, who operates a storm-window business in his home town, was a guiding force to Tebbetts, before the Nashua Thrush was a figure on the national baseball scene. Bobby was a good hitter in those days and there is nothing that Tebbetts admires more than a good hitter. Murray played second base mostly but also worked at other spots as well.

Murray hit .307 one year in the Southern Association and .304 another time in the American Association. He also led the latter league in fielding and had 514 assists, tops for infielders. Murray was born in St. Alban's, Vt., and spent two years at Norwich before he went into pro ball. He is 57 years old.

Friars Seek to Upset Cross Tonight

Capacity Crowd Certain for Game at P.C. Gym

By JOE McHENRY

Holy Cross makes its lone appearance on a Rhode Island court this season tonight when it opposes the Providence College Friars at 8:15 at Alumni Hall on the PC campus. Meanwhile, Brown takes on Dartmouth at Hanover in an Ivy League test that means much to the Big Green's championship hopes.

The Crusaders, playing a much tougher schedule, have won 20 out of 24 games while the Friars, who have won their last seven in succession, have a record of 13 and 6, including victories over University of Rhode Island and Notre Dame.

Already headed for the NCAA tourney, the Crusaders last weekend bowed to Canisius in a 71-60 game that was closer than the 11-point margin would indicate. The other Cross losses, included one to San Francisco, still unbeaten in 20 games this season, 44 in all, and rating No. 1 in the nation.

The Crusaders' big gun this year and last has been Tommy Heinsohn of Union City, N.J., who recently surpassed Togo Palazzi as the Cross' second all-time scoring leader. The head man in that department is Bob Cousy, who scored 1,775 points in four seasons. Heinsohn has 1,656 to 1,633 for Togo.

Heinsohn, easily the top-ranking player in New England, is also one of the best in the country. He was picked on several pre-season teams and has made "all" selections in his past two seasons. As a sophomore, he turned in one of the best jobs in the NIT while he hit his scoring peak with 44 points against Yale this season.

The Crusaders are coached by Roy Leenig, who had some fine schoolboy teams at St. Peter's Prep in Jersey City. Twice Leenig's teams won the Eastern Catholic tournament at Newport. Leenig replaced Buster Sheary last summer. Since Doggy Julian started the Cross on its way to winning basketball, the Crusaders have never won less than 19 games a season in their last 10 seasons, including the present one.

Joe Hughes, who has been a starting forward for the Cross all season, played his schoolboy basketball at Central Falls and before that in the CYO. Joe, who is a fine student as well as a top-flight hoopman, came under the coaching and teaching influence of Omer Landy, Leo Labossierre and Joe Fay, all Providence College alumni.

Tonight's game also marks the first time that Joe Mullaney will send a team against his Alma Mater. Joe played some fine ball for the Crusaders during Julian's coaching regime and now has the Friars rolling after a slow start.

Providence hasn't won a game from the Cross in a long time. There is a possibility of an upset tonight as PC knocked off Notre Dame last week, which extended the Crusaders the night before. However the Cross is a solid favorite.

The popularity of the Holy Cross team is indicated by the fact that the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., the Friars' athletic director, expects more people to watch tonight's game than showed up last week for Notre Dame's only appearance here in more than 25 years in any sport. Standing room will be available tonight but the reserved seats are gone.

While Heinsohn has been the Cross' big man, Hughes, Joe Liebler, Don Prohovich, George Waddleton and lately Tom Ryan have all played a part in the Crusaders' successful campaign.

The game will be broadcast by Fall River station WSAR-1480, starting at 8:15.

Dartmouth needs a victory over Brown tonight to keep pace with Columbia in the Ivy League. The Big Green has made up most of its lost ground and is even with the Lions in defeats. Brown and Dartmouth dealt the Lions a pair of setbacks last weekend that made it a race again.

Coach Stan Ward's crew have been playing a hustling game and Joe Tebo has been hitting consistently. Tebo leads the Ivy scorers, Pete Campisi, Chuck Merritt, Johnny Lyden, Jerry Alaimo and Tebo are the main reasons for Brown's improved efforts. Merritt and Bill Wadsworth rebounded strongly against Columbia, a department that Dartmouth also is handling successfully.

The Providence College and Holy Cross Frosh meet at PC at 6:45. The Cross also has an outstanding Frosh combine.

Brown Stalking Title In Ice Clash with PC

The college hockey season in Providence will close tonight with the Brown and Providence college teams playing at the Rhode Island Auditorium.

It is the Friars' "home" game, Brown having won their first encounter, 7 to 3, when the Bruins were "at home" on the Auditorium ice.

Although out of the running for the Ivy League crown, the Brown six can win the Rhode Island college hockey championship by defeating Providence College again tonight. The Friars have improved since their earlier game but so, too, have the Bruins. Brown is tied for second in the Ivy League with Yale each having won three games. Brown, however, has lost three and Yale only one game in the league.

Murray, Mullaney Featured At Providence College Rally

Yesterday was a day of days in the lives of two Providence College coaches.

Bobby Murray, the Friars' new baseball coach, met the PC students for the first time at the basketball rally in Alumni Hall and told them he hoped to give Providence a representative team in which they could take a strong rooting interest.

Joe Mullaney, whose basketball squad upset Notre Dame last week, was a much surprised individual when he was presented a pair of monogrammed cuff links commemorating the 85-83 triumph over the Fighting Irish.

The Very Rev. Robert J.

Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College and a rooter for the Friar sports teams, brought down the house when he jokingly asked the students if he should give Coach Joe and the basketball team a trip to Bermuda or just give Mullaney a new contract. And his talk showed that he was much pleased with the way the Friars have been playing of late.

More or less of a surprise starter in this Providence College function at Alumni Hall was the Most Rev. Russell J. McVinney, Bishop of Providence. Bishop McVinney revealed he was of two minds last week at the Notre Dame-PC game.

"After all, I was chaplain of the Notre Dame Alumni Club of Rhode Island for 14 years," the Bishop explained, "but I was rooting for the Friars in the second half."

Yesterday's rally was a fore-runner, to the Holy Cross-Providence College game tonight as well as last night's hockey match with Brown.

Tutless' Hat Trick Leads Brown Over P.C., 7-2

P.J. 2/22/56

All Three Goals Scored in Less Than 2 Minutes

By EARL LOFQUIST

Pete Tutless of Seekonk sparked Brown to a 7-2 victory over Providence College in hockey last night by completing the hat trick in the space of less than two minutes. The game, played at the Auditorium, was the last of the season in Providence for both teams.

On all three goals Tutless, captain of the Bruins, was helped by defenseman Russ Kingman, a ranking candidate for All-Eastern as well as All-Ivy recognition.

Coming in the opening minutes of the second period, the two-man blitz blew the roof off what had been a tight game.

The first period ended with the score 1-1 and with four men in the penalty box as the result of a roughing and high-sticking melee. Tommy Thompson and Bill Cronin of Brown and Al McMahon and Lou Fontaine of Providence were still sitting it out, the penalties carrying over, when Tutless made the first two of his three tallies.

The first of these was a thing of beauty. A long pass from Kingman to Tutless trapped the Friars in Brown territory. Pete moved in on goalie Phil Crawford, deked him into making the move, and fired home. Forty-one seconds later Kingman carried in and fired a hard shot which Crawford stopped, but Tutless knocked in the rebound.

The Friars had taken the early lead in the eighth minute of the game on a finely executed goal by Capt. Bob Reall. Taking a pass from Ray Blanchette, he skated across the mouth of the cage, feinted goalie Harry Batchelder into dropping to the ice and backhanded the puck into the cage from a difficult angle.

Less than two minutes later Ed Allard, helped by Bill Sepe, scored for Brown, knotting it at 1-1.

Shortly after Tutless' hat trick, Bob Saltonstall got Brown's fifth tally and the total was brought to seven on goals by Cronin and Bob Dashnaw in the third period. Earlier in the final session Mike McDonough had scored the second Providence goal.

High-scoring Ed Monahan suffered a shoulder separation early in the game, and was lost to the Friars thereafter.

The victory was Brown's second over the Friars this season. With each having two road games to play, Brown has won nine and lost eight and Providence has a six-and-11 record.

Rev. Fr. A. A. Krieger, Ex-P.C. Star Cager, Dies in Olean, N.Y.

The Rev. Anselm A. Krieger, O.F.M., one of Providence College's all-time basketball greats, died early today at Olean, N.Y., after a long illness.

Father Krieger, known as Johnny Krieger when he was flashing on the court for the Friars' Fabulous Five in the late 20s and early 30s, had been seriously ill since last fall when he underwent a major operation.

A pleasant man as well as a talented athlete, Father Krieger last visited Providence publicly when the Friars honored the 1928-29 basketball team in conjunction with the opening of their new Alumni Hall athletic building.

At that time, Father Krieger vied with General Al McClellan and Rhody's Frank Keaney in a story telling derby that delighted the Providence College friends and alumni. He kidded the Gen, who was his college coach, but in a serious moment thanked Providence College for the part it played in his life.

Father Krieger was not only an outstanding basketball player but he played the outfield for three years under the late Jack Flynn in days when the Friars were also outstanding in college baseball. In later years he turned to golf for recreation and became a consistent low scorer and conducted classes in the game at St. Bonaventure College.

A convert to the Catholic faith while he was a student at Providence College, Father Krieger coached and taught at La Salle Academy. He went into the Franciscan Order, taking his preliminary training in his native Paterson, N.J. He was ordained in the fall of 1939 and said his first Mass at Paterson.

Best known for his college basketball activity, Father Krieger organized the athletic department at Siena College and later was director of athletics and coach at St. Bonaventure. With Coach Hugh Devore running the football program and Father Krieger handling the finances, the Bonnies built a fine stadium and had outstanding teams on the gridiron.

All N.E. Choice

Father Krieger was an All New England choice in basketball two years running and also mentioned for the All America team. He played with a combine of Eddie Wineapple, Bill McCue, Larry Wheeler, Stan Sydla, which was a ranking team in New England and well ahead of its time.

General McClellan has insisted for years that this combine would have been able to play outstanding basketball in any era. Father Krieger and Wineapple were the top scorers. A year ago Father Krieger wrote an analysis of present day basketball for a Franciscan publication, which was widely received.

Following his graduation from Providence College, Father

Krieger became coach at La Salle. He had helped Jack Cronin and finally succeeded him on the basketball court. His 1932 team was runner-up to Pawtucket High for the state championship.

Outstanding Record

In the 40s, Father Krieger, who could still shoot fouls with the best players on his team, coached St. Bonaventure. His Bonnies scored a notable 50-47 upset over Niagara, rated a 10-point favorite. The 28-29 team that Father Krieger played on at PC lost three games in 20 starts, one of the most outstanding records in Friar athletic history in any sport.

Shortly after his ordination, Father Krieger made a return trip to his Alma Mater and celebrated a solemn high Mass at St. Pius Church that was attended by many friends, and alumni of both LaSalle and Providence College.

John E. Farrell, who was graduate manager of athletic for the Friars and a long time friend of Father Krieger, said today that he was unquestionably one of the finest basketball players Providence ever had.

Father Krieger is survived by a sister, Mrs. Arthur T. Randall of North Scituate, R.I. The funeral will be held in Paterson, N.J., on Tuesday.

Too Many Horses For P.C. to Corral

P.E.D. 2/23/56

BY JOHN HANLON

It is earnestly hoped that Providence College gets its "big" winner in basketball before too many seasons, because if ever a school was yearning for a team to idolize, it is Providence College. Its potential for rabidity is colossal.

HANLON

business.

It was, however, great fun while it lasted. Right off the reel, Ed Donahue flicked in a set shot and the roaring swelled mightily among the Friar partisans in the standing-room crowd of 3,400 at Alumni Hall.

And it crackled in the eardrums as the Friars kept the game in control with their deliberate offense and stingy zone defense. At halftime, when, incredibly, the Friars went off with a five-point lead against the "mighty" Crusaders, the applause of appreciation was thundering.

"That lousy zone defense," muttered a Holy Cross man, correctly diagnosing the Crusaders' trouble. "I still think it should be banned." Providence College people within earshot glared.

Back and Forth

The peak of uncontrolled enthusiasm for the Friars came midway through the second period, when the two teams played give-and-take for about five minutes. Little Frank Tirico, who played brilliantly, first tied it for P.C. at 43-43. Then Holy Cross got a basket.

But Tirico tied it again with two free throws. Holy Cross got a basket. Tirico dropped one and tied it again at 49-49. Holy Cross got a basket. But this time, Mike Pascale did the scoring and made it 51-51. Holy Cross got a basket. Pascale brought the house down by doing an encore that made it 53-53.

But from that point on it was all downhill for the Friars. As the end neared, they tried harder and, in doing so, played directly into the hands of the poised Crusaders, who were able to forge ahead in the last five minutes and take down a victory, 69-60.

"Too much experience for us . . . too many horses," is the way the Friars' coach, Joe Mullaney explained it afterward and he couldn't have been more explicit.

The only possible point he could have added was the clutch playing of Heinsohn, the Crusaders' bellwether. Tom had one of his rougher nights in the first half, but, in keeping with his role on the club, he delivered when needed—rebounding and scoring in the critical moments.

Some Player

Considering the Heinsohn of four seasons back, he has developed into some basketball player. He is not quite as good as his press department would have us believe, but much, much better than he showed over all last night.

As with any star performer, he takes considerable joshing and abuse from the home fans, and he got it in good measure last night. He takes it fairly easily and, talking to him afterward, the impression I gained was that he is a young man with a level viewpoint.

"Do you think you can make the professional league?" he was asked.

"Oh, I wouldn't be that presumptuous," he said. "But maybe I could."

"Who is the best player you faced this season?"

"Easy. Bill Russell of San Francisco. They say he isn't a finished player, but he gave me a terrible time under the basket. All I saw of him all night was the bottom of his sneakers."

Next to Heinsohn, the most-impressive item on display at the game was the evidence that Joe Mullaney has done a bang-up coaching job with this P.C. team. From an earlier look this season, the club seemed to be floundering, with too many changes and not much scheme of action.

But, with all things, it takes time. Joe now has had time and he has worked wonders with his material. It would seem safe to say, then, that the Friars already have one requirement toward getting a big winner. The name is Mullaney.

Friars Fail But Gain Prestige; Brown Five Bows at Hanover

By JOE McHENRY

The Holy Cross Crusaders scored a thrilling 69-60 basketball victory over the Providence College Friars last night in which the Friars gained considerable prestige, even in defeat.

Dartmouth kept in the running for the Ivy League title with a 93-48 triumph over Brown at Hanover, with the Big Green turning in its highest scoring game in history.

With PC's Alumni Hall packed almost to the rafters with 3,400 noisy and enthusiastic fans, the Friars and the Cross really gave them something to cheer and yell about. Providence made a big effort to knock off New England's top club but the Crusaders' all around skill and talent prevailed in the long run.

If the Friars had been shooting up to their performance of the Notre Dame game the final outcome might have been a different story. Providence had the initiative in the first half but built up only a 31-26 edge which wasn't enough, the way the Cross rebounded in the second half.

Tommy Heinsohn, a fine scorer and all around man, gets much of the billing with the Cross but Joe Liebler and George Waddleton were pacing the Purple in its second half drive last night. Heinsohn put in a couple of big hoops in the closing drive. One was a real killer.

Switch Pays Off

Coach Roy Leenig tried a switch in offense at halftime and where the same maneuver didn't work out against the nation's leaders, the San Francisco Dons, it did have a major effect on last night's contest. Coach Leenig, who was happy to win and realized he had been in a real scrap, inserted Pete Houston at center and put Heinsohn at a forward. The Friars couldn't cover that setup as well as they had managed in the first half.

"Losing Johnny Ritch on fouls as early as we did hurt us badly," commented the Friars' Joe Mullaney. "Johnny did a nice job as long as he was in there and Lionel Jenkins also helped with the rebounding. But we couldn't handle the two big men when each took a spot on different sides of the foul lane. Then their little guys started to hit.

"Sure, I would have loved to win it but the kids made a terrific effort and perhaps we will get them another time. Liebler and Waddleton put in the shots but Heinsohn is tough around the boards. Johnny (Ritch) did well against him but we didn't have him for 16 or 17 minutes, and that's a long time against a club like that," Mullaney said.

Liebler A. Smoothie

Ernie Calverley, whose Friar Frosh dropped a 78-71 overtime duel to the Cross Freshmen, thought Ritch was doing the best job on the court as long as he was around. "That Liebler is a smooth player and Heinsohn is a bull when he has to be," Ernie said.

"I expected Providence to give us a fairly close rub," said the youthful boss of the Crusaders. "They have a nice team but we have a few more horses. Next time it may be a different story. After the way Providence has been playing, beating Notre Dame and all, we couldn't take them lightly.

"They showed a big improvement over what I saw one night when I was down here. Joe (Mullaney) has done a nice job with that club. We had some trouble with our shooting in the first half but that was some defense they threw at us. It bothered us with all that collapsing on Tommy (Heinsohn). So we had to do something different and then George Waddleton and (Joe) Liebler gave us the lift when we needed it," Coach Leenig commented.

"That's the best a Providence team has played against the Cross in a long time," said Vin Cuddy, PC's coordinator who had much more trouble with spectator problems than he did with zone defenses last night.

Scoring Honors

Central Falls' Joe Hughes played well for the Purple in the first half and got the ball on a couple of important occasions in the final 10 minutes. Heinsohn and Waddleton shared scoring honors with the Friars' Mike Pascale, all of whom had 22 points. Steady Don Prohovich of the Cross does his work unnoticed.

Frank Tirico (16), Eddie Donahue (12), Ritch (6), Jenkins and Roger Canastrari all chipped in good work for the Friars, who were a fighting aggregation.

Ronnie Judson of Brooklyn's Poly Prep scored 37 points for a new Dartmouth record in the Big Green's sixth Ivy victory in nine games. Judson was within eight of the league scoring mark held by Penn's Ernie Beck. It was Dartmouth's sixth consecutive victory.

Jerry Alaimo and Joe Tebo were Brown's leading scorers with 12 and 11 points respectively. Brown trailed 40-28 at the half. Coach Stan Ward's club had a holiday today and faces Penn here tomorrow night. Penn beat Harvard, 88-73, last night.

Rev. Anselm Krieger, Ex-P.C. Star, Dies

The Rev. Anselm Krieger, O.F.M., one of Providence College's most noted athletes, died yesterday at St. Francis Hospital at Olean, N.Y., after a long illness.

Father Krieger, a native of Paterson, N.J., was one of the Friars' all-time basketball greats at a time when Providence College was a power in New England college basketball.

Coached by General Al McClellan, the Friars of Johnny Krieger, Eddie Wineapple, Larry Wheeler, Stan Sydla, and Bill McCue were a strong outfit that won 17 out of 20 games, including victories over Dartmouth, Yale, St. John's and Holy Cross.

Noted for his scoring ability, Father Krieger was an excellent foul shooter and able to sink them as recently as last winter. During the 1928-29 season when Father Krieger made the All New England team, his foul shooting gave the Friars a one-point triumph over Yale.

In his college days, newspaper stories of the Providence games frequently referred to the Paterson twins, Father Krieger and Bill McCue. And when Father Krieger became a convert to the Catholic faith, Bill McCue was his godfather.

Also Played Baseball

Father Krieger not only made his mark in the sports field but also taught philosophy, history and religion at Siena and St. Bonaventure Colleges. He played baseball for three years at PC and later took up golf and shot in the low 70's. He also wrote about sports.

When coaches were scarce at St. Bonaventure, Father Krieger took over the basketball post and coached the 1945-46 team to a 12-3 record, including a 50-47 upset over favored Niagara. Earlier he had coached basketball at La Salle, first helping Jack Cronin and then taking over himself. One of his Maroon teams was runnerup to Pawtucket for the state title.

A pleasant, likable man, Father Krieger had a hand in putting St. Bonaventure football on the map with the capable Hugh Devore handling the coaching and Father Krieger handling the business end. The Bonnies also built a fine football

The Friars brought back their 1928-29 team for the opening of their new Alumni Hall in December. And Father Krieger, ill though he was and knowing that he might not be around to see the start of another season, took the floor and regaled the Providence College friends, alumni and foes with stories. He was shooting in a fast league that day with the inimitable Frank Keaney of the University of Rhode Island and the popular General were other features on the program.

Father Krieger frequently expressed his loyalty to Providence College and much of his schooling formed the pattern of his life. He became a convert to Catholicism in his junior year. He left a coaching post at La Salle to enter the Franciscan Order, beginning his training in his native Paterson.

He was ordained in 1939 and said his first Mass in Washington, D.C. Shortly thereafter he made a visit to Providence and said a solemn high Mass at St. Pius Church that was attended by many of his La Salle and Providence friends and alumni.

Father Krieger underwent major surgery last fall and had been making slow progress since. He had tried to remain as active as possible until lately. His death came suddenly early yesterday morning.

Coach McClellan always referred to his team of "Krieger-McCue-Wheeler-and Wineapple" as one that could hold its own in any game in any era. And when Holy Cross' great teams of the 40's came along, the Gen used the old Friars as his measuring stick. They were the greats of their day.

John E. Farrell, who was graduate manager of athletics for the Friars during Father Krieger's playing days and later, said yesterday that he was unquestionably one of the finest basketball players Providence ever had. Father Krieger, like other PC alumni, must have enjoyed the Friars' recent upset of Notre Dame, a milestone in Providence College history.

Father Krieger was a school chum of Lou Costello, the movie comedian, and George (Birdie) Tebbets, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, was among his closest friends.

A solemn requiem Mass will be celebrated tomorrow at 10 a.m. at St. Bonaventure Church at Allegany, N.Y. The funeral will be held next Tuesday at 10 a.m. at St. Bonaventure Church in Paterson, with a solemn requiem Mass. The Franciscans will chant their "office of the dead" tonight at the college.

Father Krieger is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Arthur T. Randall of North Scituate, R.I., and Mrs. James Murner of Paterson; and also a brother, Noel Krieger of Paterson.

P.C. Freshman Sextet Jolts Harvard Frosh

Special to The Journal-Bulletin 2/24/56

Cambridge, Mass. — Providence College's freshman hockey team snapped the Harvard Freshmen's 16-game winning streak by scoring a 4-2 victory yesterday at Watson Rink. The Friarlets pumped home four goals in the opening period and then were stymied by Cleary's sensational goal-tending in the final two sessions.

Mike Lovett opened the scoring for P.C. at 5:10 of the opening period. Ray Labbe counted at 6:43 and Joe Barile made it 3-0 just 17 seconds later. Bob Leonard tallied the final P.C. goal at 15:41.

Balboni and Reilly scored for the Crimson frosh in the second period.

The play of Bert Lajoie at defense and Don Gerard on goal were key factors in the Friarlets' triumph, their fifth of the season, as against one defeat.

The summary:

PROVIDENCE FRESHMEN (4)
Goal—Gerard, Toomey; defense—Zifcak, Lajoie, DelloStritto, Ford, Fillion; forwards—Ray, Labbe, Boudreau, O'Connor, Leonard, Carvelli, McDonald, Bisch, Dominique, Barile, Lovett.

BOWDOIN TRACKMEN TRAMPLE PROVIDENCE

Lewiston
BRUNSWICK, Maine — Bowdoin gave up only two firsts to Providence College in track at the Hyde Building Friday afternoon as it downed the visitors from Rhode Island 91-35. Providence goes on for more action Saturday against Bates at Lewiston.

Paced by its high-scoring pair, Dwight Eaton and Bill McWilliams, the Polar Bears outscored the Friars in all but the 600 and two-mile run. Eaton competed under wraps in the broadjump, dash and 300, winning handily, and tied for first in the vault and high jump. McWilliams took two firsts and a second. All marks were meet records as the series is a new one.

Friar Five Shoots for State Title

Bear Trap Could Be Set For Mullaneymen Tonight

By JOE McHENRY

The Brown Bears could be setting a trap for the Providence College Friars—the same one they sprung on Princeton and Columbia—when the two teams meet tonight in the finale of the intra-State championship competition at 8:30 at Marvel Gym.

With victories in seven of their last nine games, the Friars are favored and a victory would give the PC squad the state crown. A year ago the Friars were closing with a rush but the Bruins beat them in a double overtime.

"They beat us the first time," commented Stan Ward, Brown's enterprising coach who has been studying the Friars at every available opportunity. "But we were a green, inexperienced team then and they were opening that new gym. And they were higher than a kite.

"We've got a lot of psychological things going for us this time. It's going to help us playing on our home court where we have been tough. And I think our squad wants to win this one badly enough to play one of its best games. We did well against some good clubs on our own floor and it should be a good ball game. I think we will give them a battle," Ward said.

Shrewd Ones

Both Ward and the Friars' Joe Mullaney are shrewd strategists. Each is pretty cagey in his maneuvering and picking out weaknesses on which to capitalize.

The Friars can either set their defenses to block off Joe Tebo's scoring chances or they can figure on Tebo getting a minimum and plotting a check in some other direction.

Tebo is one of the best small men in New England. He was the gunner in Brown's outstanding games against Princeton, Columbia and Penn, and when he was checked by Dartmouth, the Big Green won rather easily. The Friars' coach watched Tebo against Columbia when he had a big night and rates him a fine all-around player.

The Friars have dropped their last games to Holy Cross and Springfield. They played the Maroons without Lionel Jenkins, who will be available tonight, and lost their scorer, Mike Pascale, on fouls. Mike is the Tebo of the PC attack although a different style of shooter entirely. Tebo combines some of the best attributes of Pascale and some of Frank Tirico's set ability, which makes a good combination.

If the Friars win, they will clinch the state title with a 3-1 record and gain a leg on the Rhode Island Intercollegiate Basketball Trophy that is being put into competition by the 1925 alumni group of the University of Rhode Island.

Switch in Lineup

The trophy, which includes a Ram for Rhody, a Bear for Brown and a Dalmation for the Friars, is the product of a committee of Earle K. Johnson, George Gaddes and Allen Straus, all URI alumni from Cranston. The trophy will be presented to Dr. Carl R. Woodward, president of Rhode Island, to be awarded at some later date. If the race ends in a tie, it will remain in Rhody's possession for the time being.

Coach Ward has contended right along that the Friars will have trouble with his club. He is switching his personnel, getting Bill Wadsworth, who rebounded well against Columbia, into action, in an effort to combat PC's taller players. Chuck Merritt, Wadsworth and John Lyden are counted upon for rebounding against PC's Ed Donahue, Johnny Ritch, and Jenkins.

Coach Mullaney was working on ways to get Frank Williams, the alert ball-handler, into his lineup yesterday at Alumni Hall. Jenkins' eye injury is OK and he will start but Williams figures to operate, probably as a nuisance, value in checking Tebo.

Ward's team upset Vin Cuddy's club, 79-78, a year ago with Pascale's hoop sending the game into overtime and Pete Campisi's two-pointer winning it. The series, which saw the Friars take a big lead in the early years with 11 straight victories under Gen. Al McClellan, is now tied at 20 victories apiece.

The Brown and PC Frosh, both with good clubs, meet at 6:30.

Brown's hockey forces are at Princeton tonight, shooting for a sweep in the annual series. A victory will put Brown in second place outright in the Ivy League. Pete Tutless' scoring and Harry Batchelder's goal tending have sparked the Bruins, who have won their last four from Tufts, Yale, Providence College and Dartmouth.

P.C. Faces Strong Foe In Springfield Today

BY JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars, who have won seven of their last eight basketball starts, face another tough foe this afternoon when they take on the Springfield College Maroons at Springfield, Mass. The tap-off is at 4 o'clock.

The Friars played well in their last outing against Holy Cross and had won seven straight until the Crusaders took them. Lionel Jenkins, who has won a starting role with his rebounding and his hustle, may see only limited service for P.C. today as he suffered a three-stitch cut over an eye in practice.

Coach Joe Mullaney is well aware of the upset possibilities of the Maroons, who scored a comparatively easy 81-68 triumph over Tufts this week. Paul Grogran had 21 points against the Jumbos while Ronnie Clark, Springfield's giant center, has also been showing a more effective game of late.

The Friars nipped Springfield by two-points in their first meeting on Pat Grady's foul shooting. Providence has generally had the Indian sign on Springfield hoop squads in recent seasons. Everett Aldrich, former East Providence athlete, is a top reserve for the Maroons and did well against Tufts.

The Friar hockey contingent left yesterday for up-State New York where it is meeting Clarkson tonight at Potsdam and St. Lawrence on Monday night. Coach Dick Rondeau lost his ace scorer in the Brown game when Eddie Monahan came up with a shoulder separation in the first period. Monahan has been one of the East's leading scorers.

Both Clarkson and the Larries are among the best college squads in the nation. St. Lawrence is coached by George Menard, former Burrillville and Brown athlete.

Providence College opposes Bates in a dual track meet at Lewiston while Brown and the University of Rhode Island have entries in the IC4A meet at Madison Square Garden. Among the 25 Rams nominated by Coach Mal Williams are Jim Warren, sprints; Bob Mairs, hurdles; Carlo Roberti, shot; Bill MacQuattie, distances; and Jerry Ferrara and Chris Seegar in the high jump. Brown has entered mile relay teams in freshman and varsity competition.

Maroon Foul Shooting Features 75-67 Upset

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
 Springfield, Mass. — Providence College's Friars couldn't catch Springfield from the free-throw line here yesterday and lost a 75-67 decision at the winners' field house.

The gymnasts hit on 21 of 25 free throws and P.C. got 11 of 31.

After trailing at halftime, 33-30, the Friars went ahead once in the second half at 49-48 and were close the rest of the way until the final five minutes.

At that point, they lost their top scorer (20 points) Mike Pascale on five fouls and with him went their chances for a victory. Springfield quickly broke the 59-59 tie and pulled away.

Captain Ronnie Clark clinched it for the gymnasts with six straight free throws in the last two minutes as the Friars attempted to break up the freeze. Charlie McCord of Springfield topped the scorers with 26 points. Clark had 20 and Ed Donahue of P.C. collected 17.

The loss, second in a row for the Friars after a seven-game winning streak, puts their record at 13-8. Springfield now is 7-14.

In the preliminary game, Springfield's Freshmen checked a late rally by the P.C. Freshmen and scored a 75-71 victory. The Friar yearlings had trailed by 14 points at one stage.

Bates Downs Providence on Track, 69-53

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
 Lewiston, Maine — Scoring heavily in the field events, Bates College defeated Providence College, 69-53, in a track meet held here yesterday afternoon.

Bates swept all three places in both the discus and the 35-pound weight, and gained the first two places in the pole vault and high jump.

Individual winners for the Friars were Don Fahey with a double in the 45-yard low hurdles and the broad jump; Gene Amaral in the 40-yard dash, Bill Hanlon in the two-mile run, Jerry Farley in the 600-yard run, and Ed Aron in the shot put.

St. Lawrence Six Jolts Friars

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
Canton, N.Y. — Providence College's hockey team opened a two-game swing of upstate New York here yesterday by absorbing a 15-2 shellacking from St. Lawrence's strong sextet.

The Friars held the Larries to two goals in the first period, but after that it was no contest. St. Lawrence smashed home five goals in the second period for a 7-0 lead and then tallied eight more in the finale while holding the Friars to two.

Ron O'Brien led the barrage before a crowd of 2,000 in Appleton Arena. He scored four goals and assisted on three others. He accomplished the "hat trick" with three consecutive goals in the first nine minutes of the second period.

Paul Sainato and Rod Gorman collected the Providence goals as the Friars went down to their 11th defeat. They have won seven. St. Lawrence's record now is 13 victories and three losses.

Phil Crawford played the first two periods in goal for P.C. and had 11 saves. Ed Hornstein finished up and had eight saves.

For St. Lawrence, Bill Sloan stopped nine in the first two periods and Sarge Whittier had four saves in the finale.

St. Lawrence (15)
Goal—Sloan, Whittier; defense—Morrison, Renner, Walker, Riopell, Raper, Lundberg; forwards—Golly, Kinnio, Brown, Hendry, Zifcak, Fournier, O'Brien, McLean, Stitt.

Rams' Von Weyhe Figures to Join Bruins' Tebo in Record Making

By JOE McHENRY

Tebo, with 440 points, erased the single season's record of Lou Murgio of Bristol and is still going. This week Tebo has two games, going against the Providence College Friars on Wednesday night and against the Dartmouth Indians on Saturday. Both games are on his home court at Marvel Gym where he generally does his best work.

Springfield is a funny team. They started slowly but have been playing fairly well in their last few games. The Friars might have beaten them with a more consistent effort. However, Ronnie Clark, Springfield's big center, had one of his top performances against PC while Paul Grogan and Charlie McCord both shot well.

"We had a chance to win it," commented the Friars' Joe Mulaney, "but things were just missing when they should have been clicking. The game was tied up at 59-all but they moved on from there and we were hot and cold. I thought we had it a couple of times but something always happened.

"I would say Eddie Donahue played our best ball. We missed Lionel Jenkins, whom I hope will be ready for the Brown game. Jenks got hurt in a scramble out here in practice and his eye was completely closed. The doctors didn't want him to play. I hope he's O.K. because we will need to be ready and have everybody available for them (Brown) Wednesday," Joe said.

One of the surprising aspects of the game was that Mike Pascale, who is generally fouled a half dozen times at least, didn't get a single foul shot. Mike had 10 baskets for 20 points. John Ritch also played well while Frank Tirico contributed 10 points. It was the Friars' second straight defeat after a run of seven victories.

Coach Stan Ward's Brown team has a chance to throw a monkey wrench in the state championship series and also in the Ivy race. The Friars are leading for the state title but it would be a three-way tie. The Brown coach has scouted the Friars in several of their recent outings and the Bruins figure to be shooting for that one and also against Dartmouth.

Dick Rondeau's PC skaters tackle Clarkson tonight. The Clarkson team has a 12-0 record in NCAA competition. The Friars are weakened without Eddie Monahan but knocked off the Golden Knights in a real shocker a year ago. Harvard may figure in the Eastern NCAA picture yet.

Pete Tutless had two big games last week as Brown scored triumphs over PC and Dartmouth. Pete, who also played his prep school hockey under Jim Fullerton at Northwood, had three goals against the Big Green. His scoring splurges turned the tide in both games.

Snarl or Snore? Bruins Have 2 Rivals Worried

By JOE McHENRY

A couple of coaching buddies are casting an anxious eye in Coach Stan Ward's direction this week, for the Brown Bruins are in a position to scramble the state championship and the Ivy League race in their games with Providence College and Dartmouth.

The Friars, who have had a good season in Coach Joe Mullaney's first campaign at PC, can wrap up the state championship with a victory over the Bruins on Wednesday night at Marvel Gym. And Doggy Julian's Big Green may run into a snarling, revengeful Bruno when Dartmouth makes its annual visit on Saturday night.

Julian and Mullaney, who worked together as coach and player on some great teams at Holy Cross, can not afford to give Bruno any openings. Brown has played some surprising games of late and could upset either or both foes this week.

Friars Upset

The Friars, who were riding high with a seven-game winning string until Holy Cross came along, were upset themselves Saturday when Springfield pulled out a 75-67 verdict. Dartmouth, catching Penn after Brown had given them a rugged workout, took over the Ivy League lead with its victory while Columbia bowed to Cornell.

Coach Mullaney was disappointed with the work of his charges against the Maroons. There was too much "free lance stuff" by the Providence College quintet to suit the coach after the Friars had played a strong team game in their recent victories.

"We played fair in spots but actually not good enough," the PC coach commented. "We didn't do as much defensively as I expected. We started to move after a very slow start but then we let up and they caught us again.

"Springfield played very well in the last few minutes when we were still in the ball game. We still had a chance with 80 seconds remaining and we were four points down with 40 seconds left. We could have won if we played close to what we had been doing in our last three or four games. But there was a big drop-off and too much individual and free lance work," Mullaney said.

In the final minute, Ronnie Clark, the Maroons' 6-foot-9 center and captain, "goal tended" on a set shot by the Friars' Frank

"It was a definite goal-tending job from my viewpoint," Mullaney contended, "and Stan Ward and Jack Guy (Brown and Rhody coaches who were scouting the game) agreed with me later. But it wasn't called. Not only did we lose that hoop, which we should have had according to the rules, but somebody on our team fouled. I thought it was obvious, the goal tending."

Jenkins Out

Charlie McCord, a fine set shot, led the Maroons with 26 points while Clark put in 21. Without Lionel Jenkins, who was out with a bad cut and closed eye, the Friars did not rebound as well as they have. Eddie Donahue, John Ritch and Mike Tirico did the best work for Providence.

Rhody, back from a winning junket to Maine and boasting seven victories in its last eight starts, faces Springfield tomorrow night at Frank Keaney Gym. The Rams have been playing at a terrific pace and took the Maine folks by storm with their brilliant basketball. Rhody's only two losses in a long time were in overtime to the UConns and a two-pointer to the Friars.

Russ Gray, who chronicled many of Lou Murgio's athletic feats, has dispatched a missive to the Bristolite, who is now working for Uncle Sam in Hawaii, telling him of Joe Tebo's great scoring for the Bruins. Tebo erased Murgio's one-season scoring mark when he boosted his total to 440 points with an outstanding 38-point effort against Pennsylvania Friday night. Joe's shooting also inspired the Bruins to a strong finish.

Around and About . . . The Providence College Friars face the strong Clarkson sextet tonight at Potsdam, hopeful of improving on their efforts against St. Lawrence. . . . Rhody's Bob Mairs got a fourth in the 60-yard high hurdles in the IC4A meet. . . . Holy Cross and UConn meet tonight at Boston Garden, with St. Anselm's facing BC in the opener. . . . Brown has won its last three hockey starts and has been impressive doing it. . . . The Bruins play Princeton in their next outing at Tigertown Wednesday.

Special to The Journal Bulletin
 Potsdam, N. Y. — Clarkson Tech's unbeaten hockey team sped to its 19th straight victory of the season last night, getting an 8-3 decision over a Providence College sextet that had a lot of determination but neither the swiftness nor the passing finesse to match the opposition. Outstanding in the Friars' stand against the team that rates near the top, if not at the peak, in the nation were Eddie Hornstein, who turned 47 Clarkson shots away from the P.C. nets, and John (Roscoe) Sweeney, who scored all three of the Providence goals.

An idea of the versatility of Clarkson's attack can be gained from the fact that the eight goals scored by the Golden Knights were spread around among seven players. Grant Childerhouse tallied twice and the others were scored by Tom Sherby, Don Seale, Al Ziebarth, Tom Meeker, Art Quartermain and Don Williamson.

The Friars held Clarkson scoreless for the first 10 minutes and aroused P.C. hopes that an upset was in the making which would surpass even the surprise 4-3 defeat Providence hung on the Golden Knights here last year. Sherby finally slipped one past Hornstein at 10:58, however, and Seale made it 2-0 a little more than a minute later.

Ziebarth upped the margin to 3-0 in the ninth minute of the second period, but Sweeney put the Friars back in the game at 13:40 with the first of his trio, on assists from Bobby Reall and Rod Gorman. Late in the period quick goals by Childerhouse and Meeker brought the Knights a 5-1 advantage.

Childerhouse's second goal at 9:15 in the third period seemed to have put Clarkson out of the Friars' reach, but in the interval of a minute young Mr. Sweeney scored twice and gave P.C. a flicker of hope. That was all for the visitors, however, as Clarkson again moved into full command on Quartermain's counter 36 seconds after Sweeney's third tally. Williamson netted the final Clarkson goal in the 17th minute.

P.C.'s Moran Named On New England Club

Boston — (AP)—Twelve players, including 11 captains, were named yesterday to represent the "New England" squad against a "Greater Boston" team in an all-star game for the benefit of basketball's Hall of Fame March 7 at Brandeis University.

The "New England" squad selections were announced at the weekly basketball writers' luncheon. Twelve schools are represented.

The squad:

Ronnie Clark, Springfield; John O'Donnell, American International; Doug Hawkins, Amherst; Paul Aho, Massachusetts; Bob Moran, Providence College; Pat McCarthy, St. Anselm's; Leonard Paaletta, Fairfield University; Jim Davins, Bridgeport; Bob Dunn, Bates; Fred Rhodes, Clark; Bob Raymond, Colby, and Ronnie Dunn, Stonehill. Ronnie Dunn is the only noncaptain chosen.

This Morning...

With Shirley Povich

TAMPA, FLA., Feb. 28—Birdie Tebbetts, who is perhaps Providence College's most distinguished alumnus, is now managing the Cincinnati Reds as a sort of social experiment, he would have you believe. "I would like," he said, "to determine the effects that winning the pennant would have on a man's ego, my own, for instance."

However, there are some who may prefer to believe that Tebbetts is less interested in such research than in hard values like World Series checks and better managerial contracts. "I expect," he agreed, "that there are some who think in those terms because that sort of person is always with us."

If Tebbetts has not yet proved himself the best of National League managers, he long ago demonstrated that he was the most articulate among them. He is more in demand as a speech-maker on the winter banquet circuit than any of his colleagues and sometimes commands fancy fees.

"Sometimes I get weary during the banquet season of hearing all that football talk, particularly in Ohio," said Tebbetts, "so I have to start bragging about my own school. I have to remind them that Providence hasn't lost a football game in seven years. Of course, I don't explain that we dropped football seven years ago."

WHO NEEDS A BROOM?

Moran Clicks, Tebo Curbed As P.C. Wins Hoop Title

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars won the city and state basketball crowns outright for the first time in years last night with a surprising 79-64 triumph over Brown at Marvel Gym.

It wasn't surprising that the Friars beat the Bruins as decisively as they did but did it with two of their key men on the sidelines. Mike Pascale and Eddie Donahue could go no closer to the scene of action than the PC campus where they were confined by the college for disciplinary reasons.

The Friars were gim and determined as they took the court and Coach Joe Mullaney was the grimmest. The PC team started out very well and had a 12-0 advantage. They seemed ready to sweep the Bruins off the court but Brown braced and fought back almost even.

The Difference

The man whom coach Stan Ward of Brown said "made the difference" entered the game rather inauspiciously but it wasn't long before both clubs, and the 1400 fans, knew Donie Moran was around. Moran is PC's captain and he has had an up-and-down season.

Last night, Moran played one of the better games of his college career. A lot of the bad breaks that Moran has experienced evened up last night. Donie led the Friars in scoring with 17 points and also led them to a fine victory. One of his driving baskets down the center alley was as nifty a play as you will see anytime in a college game.

Moran supplied the lift and spark when it was needed. His two hoops in the closing minutes of the first half proved to Bruno that it was going to take a big job to beat his club. It was the first time Moran's class had won a game from the Bruins at Marvel Gym and he led the way.

Hard-earned basketball triumphs are never a one-man effort entirely. Johnny Ritch and Lionel Jenkins contributed some outstanding work on the boards. Frank Williams, Gordie Holmes, Frank Tirico and Moran handled the ball and played some tenacious defense. Moran, Tirico, Ritch, Jenkins, Ted Tedesco and Holmes all put in some nice shots.

Pressure

Brown's Joe Tebo went into last night's game with more pressure than he has experienced at most any other time this season. He did well to collect 20 points, for the Friars aimed at choking his shooting to a minimum and gave him no easy shots and not too much leeway. The Friars defended him to three hops in the first half as they accumulated a 10-point edge, 36-26.

Coach Ward had his club geared to a strong effort and he had the Friars well scouted. But when word got around that Pascale and Donahue weren't playing, that hurt the Bruins psychologically. And Moran upset the defenses, somewhat like Ted Tedesco did on an earlier night against the St. John's Redmen. In either case, you didn't figure on Donie or Teddy reaching the heights they did.

"We had to have some rebounding from Ritch and Jenks," commented the Friars' Mullaney. "We changed out attack and I guess it was much faster if anything. I kept alternating the small men and they all did a good job. Ritch and Jenks were great and Donie has never played as well this season. And Frankie Tirico did well, too."

Speed

"Donie Moran was the guy," said the Bruins' coach. "He came in with some good plays when they needed them badly and then killed us in the second half. All right, you figure Pascale for so many and then he don't play. But Moran comes along and probably does a better job: And it gives a team a lift, I know."

"Jerry Alaimo, Tebo, and Chuck Merritt were our best men. Merritt, like Ritch, plays a good, steady game and you need to have those kind of men to make things go. Now and then, they get you a good hoop but they are working all the time. Providence played well and I think they had more speed with tonight's setup," Ward commented.

Providence won the state championship outright for the first time since the mid-30s when General McClillan was the PC mentor according to the Friar records. The Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., PC's athletic director, and Vin Cuddy, former Friar coach and new coordinator, sweated out the triumph, which was richly deserved.

Perhaps it's an omen for close competition in the future as the Friar Freshmen and the Brown Cubs split their season series and tied for the Freshmen title. The Friars, coached by Ernie Calverley, scored a 74-61 verdict last night over Jack Hefernan's Cubs. Pete Schement paced the scorer with 25 points while Ken Clements (15), Dick Bessette (16), Allen Poulser (13) and Bill Suter (10) stood out for their respective teams.

Don Moran Leads P. C. Five Over Brown

79-64 Victory Gives Friars State Crown

By JOE McHENRY

Donie Moran, spirited but unsung captain of the Friars, came off the bench and sparked the Providence College quintet to a 79-64 triumph over Brown last night before 1,400 fans at Marvel Gym. The triumph gave the Friars both the city and state college basketball championships.

Coach Joe Mullaney was forced to revise his starting lineup when Mike Pascale, his leading scorer, and Eddie Donahue, steady backcourt man, were confined to the PC campus for disciplinary reasons.

Moran, a senior from Brooklyn who has played less this year than last, did not start the game last night but his hustle and scoring contributions were major factors in the triumph. Moran, whose brother Bob holds the PC scoring records, led the Friars with 17 points and put in some real nice shots.

Change Offense

The Friars were expected to be hard hit with two of their key men missing but the way things worked out, it had an opposite effect. The Providence College team changed its offense somewhat to adjust for its absent players and overall, turned in a good job.

Brown, hoping for an upset, got off to a poor start but fought back into contention. When the Bruins came up almost even, the Friars started to roll again and Brown never could close it up. Jerry Alaimo had one of his best nights in recent games and tossed in 26 points, best on either club.

Joe Tebo, Brown's great little scorer, was bothered more than usual by the Friars' defenses, although he scored 20 points. Frank Williams, Frank Tirico, Moran and Gordie Holmes all had a hand in guarding the Bruins' supershooter and they made his work much tougher than it has been in a good many games this season.

Providence was a determined team last night as it chalked up its first state championship in postwar basketball. The Friars ended the State series with a 3-1 record, including a sweep of the Bruins for the first time in history. Providence has beaten Brown before when the teams played only one game but never twice since it became a two-game setup.

Moran stood out on the court last night. A mild-mannered fellow who is noted for his ball-handling, Donie stuck in two key hoops in the last four minutes of the first half that helped the Friars to a 10-point lead, 36-26, at intermission. And some of his work in the second half was terrific.

Tebo Closely Guarded

The Friars were faced with a rebounding problem if either John Ritch or Lionel Jenkins fouled out early. Each played well. Jenkins was flashy and scored 13 points. Ritch was steady and dependable and had 13 rebounds. He had three tap-in rebounds for baskets in the first half, and they all hurt Brown.

Brown's best chance depended on Tebo having a big night and carrying the club along with him. But it wasn't that sort of a game. Joe put in nine hoops, all told, but he didn't get an easy shot for a long time. The pleasant-looking sophomore had Tirico, or Williams, or Moran breathing just a head away and they made it rough. Joe did a fine job considering that he was marked and guarded from the outset and had nothing easy.

Alaimo had more freedom than Joe and threw in some good shots. Brown's Chuck Merritt battled the Friars for rebounds and helped his club as best he could. Merritt, Pete Campisi and Johnny Lyden all fouled out for the Bruins and the Friars eventually lost Holmes and Jenkins. But Brown's departures hurt the most.

The Friars handled the ball well last night, with three ball-handlers usually working with two big men. Ted Tedesco and Pat Grady also contributed some spot work. Tirico put in 16 points, one of his hoops was a real picture play on a drive.

Brown came up from 0-12 to 17-18 but never led once and trailed by 10 to 14 points in the second half. They could match PC at times but never cut the margin.

The Brown and PC Freshman teams, coached by Jack Hefferman and Ernie Calverley respectively, share the freshman state crown, each having 3-1 records and splitting their season's series. The young Friars won, 74-61, last night with Pete Schementi (25), Dick Bessette (16) and Ken Clements (15), its pacemakers. Allen Poulsen and Bill Suter were best for the Bruin Cubs.

Tight Mile Finish Features Providence College Meet

The weather, a fast dry track, a "runners' wind" and a thrilling finish in the mile made the Providence College invitation track meet yesterday on the college board track a highly successful one.

Nearly 200 schoolboys from the state participated in this first and only major winter track meet held outdoors. And it was the final schoolboy meet of the season.

Awards were made to the top three finishers in each event and the winning quartet in the freshmen-sophomore relay. No team scores were kept. The helpful wind made some of the times in the finals questionable to some of the officials.

As has been the fact all season, the mile run again stole the spotlight. A mediocre first heat was won by Bill Carroll of La Salle in 5:04.6. In the second heat, Keer MacIntyre and Bob Wall of La Salle seemed to be having it pretty much their own way. Then Charlie O'Connell of Hope came into contention, kept right up with the Maroon runners, paced himself for a final spurt and overtook the La Sallians at the finish and won by two feet. His time of 4:56.9 gave him the gold medal. Wall was second, MacIntyre third and Carroll took the fourth spot.

George Cushmac of La Salle won the 1,000 in 2:27.7. The Maroon speedster took the lead right at the start and held on all the way. Ed McNamara, another Maroon runner who had won the first heat, took second place on the time basis. Bruce Morrill of Central was third and Dave Ring of East Providence fourth.

Ike Wallace of Hope was the only double winner. He grabbed first honors in the 600 and the 45-yard low hurdles. Wallace finished ahead of Bill Dionne of La Salle in the 600 in 1:19.7. The final in the hurdles was a three-man race, with Wallace in front by about a yard. Steve Mairs of East Providence was second and Ronnie Allen of the Townies third.

Bill Simmons of Classical won the 50-yard dash in an unprecedented time of 5.6 seconds. Bob Hyman of Central took second, Al Jurgelevicius of La Salle third and Dennis Thayer of Hope fourth.

Warren Johnson of Hope won the first heat in the 300 in 34.6 and this was enough to cop the event. Thayer, winner of the third heat, was second. Simmons was third and Charlie Reilly of East Providence, fourth.

The relay race, run for the benefit of freshmen and sophomore athletes, was won by Hope's quartet of Tom Edmundson, Manny Rozario, Bill Brown and Warren Johnson. Classical's team led on the first lap but Rozario took over the Blue Wave team remained out front the rest of the way.

Medals were awarded to the runners by Frank Sherman, referee of the meet, in the absence of Harry A. Coates, track coach at P.C., who was ill. The judges and members of the R.I. Timers Guild were guests of

The Friars are favored over Trinity but it is a foe that they can't take lightly. PC has had a run of successful winning efforts, taking eight of the last 10 decisions and playing well in one of their losing efforts against Holy Cross.

Good Scorer

Trinity has a good scorer in Jack McGowan, with a 20-point average, a big man in 6 foot 8 Bob Godfrey, and a sizeable team that has won nine out of 15 for the year. This week Trinity gave UMass a rough time of it and beat Wesleyan. The UMass game was surprising as Trinity led for some distance and bowed 68-59 to a club that is 17-6 for the season, best mark in the Yankee Conference.

Syracuse Shears Rams ...

Big Green Favored Over Brown Tonight P.C. to Host Trinity

The Friars have only two seniors playing their final college games. They are Captain Donie Moran and Ted Tedesco, a couple of Brooklynites. Moran played one of his top games in PC's 79-64 victory over Brown that clinched the state title. Johnny Ritch, Moran, Frank Tirico, Lionel Jenkins and either Gordie Holmes or Frankie Williams will be the Providence starters.

Rams Smothered

Syracuse smothered Rhode Island under a barrage of field goals early in the second half in a game at Syracuse last night and when the fighting was over the home team had a 106-82 victory.

The Orangemen's total tied the school's all-time high set in 1945.

The game was close enough over the first half, the tally at that point being 51-46 in favor of Syracuse. But the early third-quarter blitz was too much to overcome.

Ronnie Marozzi led the URI scorers with 24 points and Bill Van Weyhe had 18.

Friar Sextet to Play In Halifax Carnival

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars, who thought they had completed their hockey season last week against Clarkson, will have two more games of an international nature when they take on Dalhousie University's strong sextet next week at Halifax, Nova Scotia.

The Friars have been invited to participate in Dalhousie's annual winter carnival which features "Founders Week" and accepted the invitation which will take a Providence College sports group into Canada for the first time.

Dalhousie is one of the strongest Eastern Canadian college hockey teams and won all three games in its visit to the Greater Boston Christmas holiday tournament, including an uphill triumph over the Friars in a thrilling overtime contest.

During the Boston tournament some of the Friars and Canadians palled around together after their close contest and this association of the students is believed to have had a big influence on the invitation being extended to the Friars.

Thriller at Lynn

"They have a fine hockey team," commented Dick Rondeau, the former Dartmouth athlete who coaches the PC squad. "We met them in their first game at Lynn and it was a good one. We had a 5-4 lead in the final minutes and they tied us up with 16 seconds left. And then they beat us in the overtime. It was a real good contest.

"Later Dalhousie defeated Brown (7-2) and Harvard (6-5). When some of the coaches got together at the close of the tournament, we more or less bracketed Dalhousie with St. Lawrence and Clarkson. They were the only three teams that won all their games in the tournament.

"We played a fine game in the finale with Clarkson last Monday. They are an excellent team but we didn't do badly at all. They are undefeated in 19 games. We might have upset them or made it closer with a little bit better skating and the help that Eddie Monahan might have given us if he were available.

"Dalhousie has some good skaters and a fine goalie in Gerry Gaydamack, who played well in the Brown game. They hustle, and like all those Canadian kids, they can skate. They played by American college rules down here and that might have effected their game some," Rondeau said.

Team to Travel By Air

The Friars will fly to Halifax via Trans-Canada Airlines from Boston and play two games, on Monday, March 12, and Tuesday, March 13. The first game will be played under American college rules and the second under Canadian rules.

Dalhousie is a long-established school with a curriculum that includes liberal arts, sciences, medicine, law and divinity degrees in undergraduate and graduate schools. It was founded in 1838 by the Rt. Honorable George Ramsey, the ninth Earl of Dalhousie. It became a co-ed institution in 1881 and has had some students from the Eastern U.S. Seaboard.

How do American and Canadian rules differ? Here's Rondeau's explanation on that.

"The Canadian rules are pretty much like those in use in the American Hockey League," Rondeau said. "They allow more freedom on bumping and contact, including bumping in the center zone. You'll notice the Reds do more checking than the colleges.

Canadian Play Rougher

"The American rules allow checking in your own defensive zone. Also you can pass all the way to the second blue line, or go in and pick up the puck. With the Canadians and the pros, you can only pass up the red line in the middle. The Canadians allow for a little rougher play but it is easy enough for both teams to adapt themselves to the other's rules."

The Friars' big gun has been Eddie Monahan, who played his school hockey under Eddie Mulen at Rondeau's first hockey alma mater, Hope High. Monahan, who was injured in the Brown game when he crashed into the boards, is eighth among the Eastern's leading scorers. Jerry Kearns of Rensselaer Poly is the Eastern leader with 57 points. Monahan has 43 and is high among the scorers in New England also.

The Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., the Friars' athletic director, has been working on the details of the trip. Coach Rondeau and the Rev. Herman D. Schneider, O.P., who direct the hockey operations, will have the team resume practice as soon as ice is available. The playoff and rest, it is believed, will be beneficial to their charges.

P.C. in Finale Tonight; Athletes Vie In Invitation Meet at P.C.

The Friars, who have won eight of their last 10 starts, conclude their first season under Joe Mullaney's direction tonight with a Trinity squad that could prove dangerous. The Bantams have a winning 9-6 record for the season and a sizable squad that gave UMass trouble and beat Wesleyan, 76-72, this week.

Providence's starting lineup is uncertain although Mike Pascale and Eddie Donahue, who missed the Brown game because of disciplinary reasons, are available tonight. Johnny Ritch and Lionel Jenkins, who handle the Friar rebounding will be stacked up against Trinity's Bob Godfrey, a 6-foot-8 giant who had a big game against UMass.

This is the final college game for Capt. Donie Moran, who played an outstanding game against Brown, and Teddy Tedesco. Ritch, Jenkins, Moran, Frank Tirico and either Gordie Holmes or Frank Williams will be the PC starters.

The winter indoor track season will move outdoors today, when the annual Providence College invitation track meet will be held on the college board track (weather permitting).

A seven-event program, arranged by Harry A. Coates, the college track coach, will start at 1 p.m. Medals will be awarded to the top three finishers in each event and the winning team in the freshmen-sophomore relay.

There will be no team scores kept, so individuals will participate "on their own," although entered by their respective coaches.

The six individual events and probable winners are 50-yard dash—Bill Simmons of Classical; 300-yard run—Bob Hyman of Central; 600-yard run — Bob Hanson of Barrington; 1,000-yard run—George Cushmac of La Salle or Pete Augustus of Hope; mile—Keer MacIntyre of La Salle; 45-yard low hurdles—Ike Wallace of Hope or John Reisert of La Salle.

Friars Defeat Trinity, 76 to 68

By JOE McHENRY

After trailing at halftime, the Providence College Friars bounced back with a strong second half drive and scored a 76-68 triumph over Trinity College before 1,500 fans last night at P.C. Alumni Hall.

The Friars were outplayed in the first half by the hustling Bantams, who brought an outstanding shooter with them. Jack McGowan, a sophomore from Branford, Conn., put on an outstanding demonstration in the final game of the Friars' home season, netting 15 baskets for 30 points.

Despite McGowan's terrific shooting, the Friars won the game and had to play good basketball to do it. The Providence ball handling was on the sloppy side in the first half but it was steady and effective in the final 20 minutes.

Williams Steadies P.C.

Coach Joe Mullaney inserted Frank Williams in his lineup after intermission and the dynamic little guy from New Haven played a leading role in the victory. Williams steadied the P.C. offense and set up some nice scoring chances for his mates.

While Williams added poise and prosperity to the Friars in the second half, he was ably assisted by Frank Tirico a New York City sophomore. Tirico was the Friars top scorer with 24 points. He put in some nice sets in the second half and was generally effective on drive plays and in moving the ball. While the Friars were not rebounding to any great extent in the first half, Lionel Jenkins made some key grabs in the second and choked off Trinity bids.

McGowan, who was popping them in from 20 and 30 feet in the first half, had much more trouble with Williams' pressing defensive work in the second half. However, there was no question that Trinity's scoring leader was enjoying a hot night and is quite a ball player.

The Friars closed out their season with a fine second half. They started the game at a brisk pace but couldn't maintain it. Once Coach Mullaney put in a new lineup in an effort to get things straightened out but that didn't work out. Trinity with 6-8 Bob Godfrey and McGowan's sharp shooting, had the Friars on the run and led them 39-35 at the half and 47-41 later.

Trailing by six points in the second half, the Friars suddenly found themselves. Turico started the winning drive with Jenkins, Don Moran, Ritch and Mike Pascale and Williams all having a hand in it. The Friars tied the score at 12:48 on Williams' pop from the foul line and when they finally finished off a fast moving surge the score was 57-47. The Friars maintained that margin throughout the final nine minutes.

The Providence frosh piled up a 40-17 advantage in the first half and coasted to an 82-56 triumph over the Trinity Frosh.

They Also Serve Who Stand and Wait

P.B. 3/1/56
By JOHN HANLON

The basketball career of Don Moran at Providence College was, on the whole, an unspectacular one and might be dismissed lightly if it were not for this one point:

HANLON

Don was the team captain this past season, but he hardly ever played. The story is in the way he handled this difficult situation.

Right from the start he figured to have trouble making the team. There were bigger men coming onto the varsity, some were better. A new era was in the making for the Friars and Don was a benchwarmer. He figures his average playing time this season was about four minutes a game.

A lesser young man might have seethed and boiled under these circumstances and, conceivably, could have made matters unpleasant for the Friars' new coach, Joe Mullaney. Don did not. And although he did not get much out of the playing phase of the game, it is quite possible that he won a better battle by sticking with his captaincy to the end. Many think so.

Team Leader Throughout

"Donny was wonderful all season," Mullaney was saying yesterday at the Friars' gym, with Don sitting across the desk and listening to the estimate. "In certain situations he could play great. He was great driving in and he fitted into the style of team play I like. But I've told him this before; I think his shooting fell off in the games, possibly because he tried too hard.

"Actually," Joe went on, "I said from the start of the season that there wasn't too much difference between our 15 men. Basically I like team play and I don't accentuate one man and I like to think I can substitute any player and not have us lose anything as a team.

"But after a while we got a combination going and" ... he shrugged and looked to Donny ... "we had to go with it." The combination did not, generally, include Moran.

However, Don was still the first man on the practice court each day and the last to leave. The only noticeable effect his not playing had on him was that he worked harder than ever in practice. And he remained the team leader throughout.

Highest Compliment

A man who is unstinting in his praise for Donny's handling of the situation is Vin Cuddy, the former coach of the Friars who had Don and his brother, Bobby, for the bulk of their college careers.

"I have been in this game as a coach for eight years," said Vin, warming to the subject of the Morans, "and I can say this: Bobby and Donny Moran are the finest young men I've ever known in the game. I just hope my three sons will be like them. When you want to talk about real American boys, you can start and stop with the Morans."

And what about Don himself? How does he feel about his nonplaying captaincy?

"At first," he said, "it bothered me a lot. I couldn't even sleep nights. But then I guess I got over it and I tried harder in practice. There were a lot of us that way; as the coach says, there wasn't too much difference between us and I guess we were trying to show him what we could do.

"I know one thing it did. It made us a better team. With all of us trying to get in there, it made those first five guys work all the harder and, well, something came out of it."

Grand Finish

The "something," as far as the record book shows, was a winning season of 15-8 and this was compiled after the balance, at one stage of the season, stood at six victories and six defeats. For Don, of course, there was more to it than that.

Actually, he did not finish off the year on the bench and perhaps this is the best tribute to him. At the end of the season, when he should have been completely "down," he played his best game of all.

This was against Brown. As usual, he didn't start. But he went into the game in the first half, got four key baskets and then in the second half spurred his team to victory. Afterward, Brown's coach singled out Don as the "difference" between victory and defeat.

So, by staying with it, Don came out of it as a team captain should, and the season wasn't wasted.

"I guess," said Don, "I learned more basketball this season than I ever did before."

P.C. Frosh Six Loses at Yale

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
 New Haven—Yale's freshman hockey team unleashed a four-goal barrage in the first period and handed the Providence College freshman sextet its first defeat of the season, 8-7, yesterday at the New Haven Arena.

The Friarlets stormed back with five goals in the third period but time ran out on them before they could net the equalizer. Before yesterday's game the P.C. Frosh had run up six straight victories.

P.C.'s top line of Joe Barile, George Boudreau and Bob O'Connor accounted for six goals, with Barile, a former Hamden High School star playing before the home folk, netting three. He also assisted on two goals by O'Connor and the one by Boudreau. Jim Ford tallied P.C.'s opening goal with an assist from Mike Lovett.

Hoyt Ammidon scored what proved to be Yale's winning goal at 18:22 of the final period, giving the the Elis an 8-6 lead.

The summary:

Boston Team Whips N.E. Quintet In College All-Star Tilt, 72-66

Waltham, Mass. — (AP) — Brandeis' Jim Houston, injured in the opening seconds, came back after treatment and led the Greater Boston Collegians to a 72-66 victory over New England College Seniors last night in an all-star basketball game.

Houston, a 6'5" center shifted to guard for the game, snapped a 20-all deadlock with a corner set shot and topped all scorers with 21 points.

The Brandeis ace suffered an ankle injury in the first minute of play and then took ice-pack treatment before returning to action and breaking the tie. He added four more baskets as Greater Boston pulled into a 36-24 halftime lead.

The New England squad pulled within five points midway through the second half, but Houston then hit for another basket and Greater Boston remained well in front for the rest of the way.

Dick Brooks of Northeastern had 11 points for Greater Boston, while Kevin Thomas of Boston University and Jim Brosnahan of Boston College each had 10.

Ronnie Clark, Springfield's big center, led the New England scorers with 16 points. Bob Moran of Providence College had 10.

P.C. Hockey Team Off For Canada Tomorrow

By JOE McHENRY

Providence College's hockey team will take off from Boston's Logan Airport early tomorrow for the two-game visit to Dalhousie University in Nova Scotia.

This will be one of the longest sports junkets in Friar history. Only Vin Cuddy's Friar basketball team flew farther, for participation in the NAIA Tournament at Kansas City. The Friar football team, under the direction of Hugh Devore, visited Cincinnati to play Xavier.

Dalhousie is among the strongest Canadian teams in the Eastern area. During the Greater Boston Christmas tourney, the Tigers from Halifax won all three starts, against the Friars, Brown and Harvard. This all-winning feat was matched by Clarkson, undefeated in 19 games, and St. Lawrence, picked for the NCAA tournament in Colorado.

After Mass at 4:45 a.m., the Friars will leave for Boston by bus at 5:15. They are due at Logan International Airport around 7 a.m. Departure for Halifax is scheduled for 7:25.

There will be a 20-man party, headed by the Rev. Herman D. Schneider, O.P., hockey moderator and assistant athletic director, and Coach Dick Rondeau, aboard the Trans-Canada Airways plane. The Friars are due in Halifax around noon, after a stopover at St. John's, N.B., for customs inspection.

The first game on Monday night will be played under U.S. rules, and the second, on Tuesday afternoon, will be conducted under Canadian rules, which allow for more contact. The games will feature the annual "Founder's Week," which is similar to a U.S. college's winter carnival.

GENERALLY SPEAKING Providence College was an ideal place for the state schoolboy tournament. The Rev. A. B. Begley, faculty athletic head, and Vin Cuddy, athletic director, were perfect hosts, doing their best to make players, coaches and fans at home in the Friars' fine gymnasium. Words Unlimited, headed by Hugh J. McGowan, Jr., of Newport, presided in faultless fashion over the press-box and brought order to the tournament selection method.

But the 1,000 additional seats the University of Rhode Island has over the peak load at P. C. would have come in handy. Fans were turned away at the semi-finals and finals. Probably without Newport and Westerly rooters the P. C. gym would have been large enough, but Newport and Westerly play more often than not in the finals.

Dalhousie Six Downs P. C., 6-3, on 4-goal 3rd Period

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Halifax, Nova Scotia.—Providence College's touring hockey team held the lead into the third period against Dalhousie University here last night but then yielded four goals and lost to the Canadian collegians, 6-3.

The game, played before a crowd of 2,000 at the university rink, was the first of a two-game series. It was played under American rules. The second game, scheduled for this afternoon, will be played under Canadian rules.

P. C. broke a 2-2 tie in the third period when John Sweeney connected at 2:12 after passes from Rod Gorman and Bob Reall. But Dalhousie tied the score at 2:21 and then added three goals.

Ed Hornstein had 38 saves for the Friars as against 29 for his rival goalie, Rod Frazier.

Reall and Paul Sainato scored the other two goals for the Friars.

The summary:

DALHOUSIE (6)

Goal—Frazier; defense—Fitch, Perry, Nickerson, MacLeod; forwards—Snow, Street, Hill, Dufaney, McSweeney, Dewis, McDonald, Greene, Tefhany, Lewis.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE (3)

Dalhousie Turns Back Friar Sextet, 8 to 2

Halifax, N.S. — Thrown off stride by their first hockey venture under Canadian rules, the Providence College Friars were defeated, 8-2, here yesterday afternoon by the speedy Dalhousie University sextet.

Dalhousie had defeated the Friars, 6-3, under American rules Monday night. The games, features of Dalhousie's winter carnival, drew good crowds. Monday's game was witnessed by 2,000 fans and yesterday's by approximately 1,700.

The Friars, playing at Dalhousie by invitation of the Canadian collegians, were guests last night at a party and dance and will fly home this afternoon, leaving at 3 o'clock.

The Friars couldn't seem to catch on to the trick of making their passes within a single zone, as required by the Canadian rules, but their hosts, perfectly at home, got away to a flying start. They scored two goals in the first period and five in the second. Actually they racked up all their tallies before Paul Sainato scored for P. C. at 13:26 of the finale. Bernie McCrink got the other goal for Providence in the final minute of play.

Ed Hornstein, P. C.'s regular goalie, was unable to play yesterday, Phil Crawford replacing him. Hornstein was struck on the knee by a stick Monday night and yesterday was unable to walk—or skate—with sufficient agility to warrant his participating in the game.

See Action This Week

By PETE McCARTHY

Schedule-wise, if not weather-wise, spring is bustin' out all over this week along the local college-sports front, with all three colleges sending their baseball and other spring sports teams into action.

Providence College and the University of Rhode Island will be starting from scratch while Brown, although making its official season's start, already has had the advantage of a week's competition in Florida's sunny clime.

Providence College, which opens against American International College at Springfield on Wednesday, will for the second time in the present school year, be fielding a team with a new coach. Bobby Murray of Manchester, N.H., a veteran baseball man, is taking over after the resignation last summer of Hal Martin, who is now teaching and operating a motel in Florida. And Murray is faced with approximately the same problem that confronted the Friars' other new coach, basketball boss Joe Mullaney.

The Friar squad is blessed with a sizable number of returning veterans plus a sprinkling of sophomore prospects but with only two outdoor workouts possible to date, Murray has a lot of sifting to do before settling on a starting lineup.

For pitchers he has juniors Herb Hearne and Jim Coates, the latter being the author of a no-hitter against Brandeis last season, and sophomores Larry Cummings and Ed Slattery. Hearne and Coates are righthanders and the other two are southpaws.

In the Outfield

Behind the plate he has Tom Cahill, regular catcher last season and rated a solid college receiver. At first he must find a replacement for Dick Howe and at the moment Ed Lewis, a left-handed sophomore from West Haven, appears to be the man. For the rest of the infield there are at least two good men for each position. Art Aloisio, the regular second baseman last year is battling it out with sophomore basketball star Frank Tirico. At short it's a fight between senior Bob Woods, top man a year ago, and sophomore Herb Nicholas from Cranston. Sophomore Red Rabitor, the ex-Burrillville All-Stater, is giving Captain Buzz Moore a real argument for the third-base post.

In the outfield, veteran Mike McDonough in center and John Healey in left appear to have the edge, with the right-field berth likely to go to either Bill Regan, who played some last season, or sophomore Lou Fontaine.

The Friars will open their home season Saturday against Springfield.

Aces Spoil P.C. Debut On Diamond by 9 to 1

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Springfield, Mass.—American International College's baseball team, fortified by experience gained on its recent Southern trip, spoiled Providence College's debut here yesterday by scoring a 9-1 victory.

The Aces banged out 15 hits off three P.C. pitchers and their own Pete Fisher shut the Friars off with six hits. Fisher gave up P.C.'s run in the first inning and blanked the visitors for the rest of the way.

The Aces tied it up in the second and broke the game wide open with a four-run outburst in the fifth at the expense of sophomore Paul Sainato, who had relieved the starter, Jim Coates, on the P.C. mound. Sainato was nicked for another run in the sixth and Ed Slattery, the third Friar pitcher, yielded three more runs in the last two innings.

P.C. threatened in the sixth, in which it loaded the bases on singles by Art Aloisio and Tom Cahill and a walk to Bob Woods, but Mike McDonough hit into a double play, ending the inning.

McDonough, however, was the Friars' leading hitter with a double and a single in four trips. Woods also doubled for P.C.

P.C. Nine Bows To Springfield

The Springfield College baseball team, aided by seven walks and three costly Providence College errors, yesterday turned back the Friars, 2-0, at Hendricken Field. The game was Providence's first of the season at home and marked its second defeat in as many starts.

Jim Martens yielded five hits in going the route for the winners. He struck out eight and walked only one. Meanwhile, his mates provided an errorless performance afield.

Despite the loss to the Maroons, who were the District One representatives in the NCAA tourney last season, the Friars found some encouraging signs in their performance. Not the least of these was a four-inning pitching job by Larry Cummings, sophomore left-hander, who yielded only one hit and fanned six during his tenure.

Two of the five hits garnered by the Friars were of the extra-base variety. Both were doubles, hit by Tom Cahill and Frank Tirico. Tirico also got two singles in leading the Providence attack.

Springfield notched its first run in the fourth on two walks, a sacrifice and an error and added its second in the seventh.

The latter run was scored by Martens, who had singled moved to second on a walk to Ben Wickman and raced home when catcher Bob Gaiser threw wide to first base in attempting to pick Wickman off the bag.

Cummings, the PC starter, was followed to the mound by Jim Coates, Ed Slattery and Herb Hearne.

State Series This Week

Friars Slated To Make Visit To URI Today

By PETE McCARTHY

The Rhode Island collegiate baseball season is five games old now and, against outside competition, the three local colleges have managed to post only one victory—URI's 11-0 blanking of Quonset in its opener.

But the one-sided picture is bound to change this week when the three start facing each other in the state series, which is scheduled to begin today at Kingston with Providence College facing Rhode Island, weather permitting. Game time for that one is 3 o'clock.

For the Friars, who dropped their first two games last week (A.I.C., 9-1, and Springfield, 2-0), today's game will be the first of three this week. They will entertain Brandeis Thursday and Assumption Friday. Like other New England nines not favored with a preseason trip South, the Friars have been handicapped by lack of practice but their new coach, Bob Murray, isn't complaining, at least not yet.

Against Springfield Saturday, the P.C. pitchers were pitchin' but the hitters weren't hittin' and the Maroon capitalized on a wild pitch and an error for both its runs. The Friar coach believes that the combination of some warmer weather and a few more games and workouts under the collective belts is all his boys need to gel into a solid college team.

Rain Washes Out Friar-Ram Clash

By PETE McCARTHY

Weather continued to be the dominant factor in the spring college sports picture as today's rain washed out the baseball game scheduled between Providence College and the University of Rhode Island at Kingston.

Also called off today was a freshman baseball game between P.C. and URI, which will be played Wednesday at Hendricken Field, and a tennis match between Brown and Boston University. The tennis match will be played on May 7.

P.C. and URI athletic officials were to confer later in the day to determine a playing date for their varsity baseball game.

The tempo steps up appreciably this week for all three R.I. colleges with baseball, track, tennis and golf on the agenda. The Rhode Island nine has two more games listed, with Brown at Aldrich Field Wednesday and Maine at Kingston Saturday.

Brown also plays Army Friday and Holy Cross Saturday, both games at home. The P.C. nine will entertain Brandeis Thursday and Assumption Friday.

The Bruin and Friar each dropped two games last week but their respective coaches, Lefty LeFebvre and Bob Murray, saw encouraging signs in Saturday's games wherein the Bears lost to Yale (9-1) and P.C. bowed to Springfield (2-0).

P.C. Yearlings Get 15 Walks, Top URI, 8-2

Fifteen walks proved a big help to the Providence College Freshman baseball team yesterday in an 8-2 victory over the University of Rhode Island Frosh at Hendricken Field.

The Friars got only four hits off three Rhody pitchers and the Rams collected five against two Providence hurlers. Joe Gugliermo, one of the Friar pair, struck out 10 batters.

Friars' Nine Subdues Brandeis

Rabitor Paces 9-4 Triumph With 5 RBI's

Red Rabitor drove in five runs, three on a home run to left field, as Providence College's baseball team scored its first victory of the season yesterday by defeating Brandeis, 9-4, at Hendricken Field. Rabitor's circuit wallop, with Ed Lewis and Mike McDonough on base in the third inning, broke a scoreless tie and the Friars held the lead the rest of the way. The P.C. left fielder's other two RBI's came on sacrifices.

The Friars picked up single runs in the sixth and eighth and four in the seventh. Bud Slattery pitched the first five innings for the Friars and blanked the visitors until the fifth, in which they scored twice on a single by Jim Stehlin, a walk to Skeets Karvoski, a single by Dick Cunningham and an infield error. Herb Hearne pitched the last four innings for P.C. and gave up single runs in the seventh and eighth. Buzz Moore, Ed Lewis and McDonough shared batting honors for the Friars with two hits each. Lewis and McDonough each hit a double.

The Friars, whose record now is 1-2, will play Assumption today at Hendricken Field at 3 o'clock.

Ritacco Hurls Friars Past Assumption, 4-2

On the strength of a superb pitching job by sophomore Bob Ritacco, who gave up only two hits, struck out 18 and allowed one walk, Providence College scored a 4-2 baseball victory over Assumption College of Worcester yesterday at Hendricken Field. It was the Friars' second triumph in four games and the first start of the season for Assumption.

Providence College could get only three hits off Assumption's Joe O'Brien, but two of them were for extra bases, a triple by catcher Tom Cahill and a double by right fielder Art Aloisio.

Assumption didn't break into the scoring column until the ninth, when Friar fielding lapses, a wild pitch by Ritacco and a double by Phil Goyette brought the visitors their two runs.

Cahill's triple in the first inning set up U.C.'s first run, with Ed Lewis singling Cahill home. The Friars added another tally in the third without the help of a hit. Bob Woods walked and stole second. Cahill was passed and he and Woods each advanced a base when one of O'Brien's pitches hit Buzz Moore. A walk to Red Rabitor moved Woods home.

Nor did the Friars need hits to score the two runs that represented their margin of victory. They tallied in the fifth when Moore drew a base on balls, went around to third on a wild pitch and came home on Mike McDonough's sacrifice fly. Their final tally, in the "sixth, came as Frank Tirico walked, stole second and scored from there on another wild pitch by O'Brien, who had three in all.

In the ninth Assumption's Roger Lemanger reached first when Ritacco bobbled a ground ball. When a third strike on Bill Ormand got by catcher Bob Baiser, Ormand wound up on second and Lemanger on third. Lemanger then tallied on Ritacco's wild pitch. Goyette's double brought Ormand home, but Ritacco ended the threat by fanning Joe Sweeney for the third out.

Rondeau Leaving P.C. Hockey Po

Dick Rondeau, Providence College hockey coach, announced last night that he will not return to his position at the college next year.

The announcement was made at a testimonial dinner at Oates Tavern for Bobby Reall and John Sweeney, senior members of this year's hockey team, who soon will marry.

Rondeau, former Dartmouth ice star, gave as the reason for his decision: "P.C. does not see fit for a full-time coach, and I cannot stay on a part-time basis. I have done it for the last four years, at a financial loss to myself, and I am no longer able to do so."

He said there was no ill feeling between himself and the administration, but that, "they want a full-time hockey team and a part-time coach."

Although there was no official announcement from the college last night, Rondeau said that he had been notified by letter that his services were no longer required because Providence College had decided to continue hockey without a full-time coach.

The Friars' record last season was seven victories and 14 defeats.

In reference to his association with the team, and particularly with Reall and Sweeney, Rondeau added:

"It has been an extremely happy phase of my hockey career to be with them. They are two great guys."

Bernard McCrink was elected captain of the hockey team for the coming season. He was chosen by members of this year's team, who were among the more than one hundred persons attending the dinner.

McCrink, a junior majoring in education, came to Providence from La Salle Academy, where, in his senior year, he was captain of his team and a member of the Rhode Island All-State hockey squad. He was converted from a defenseman to wing in his freshman year.

Rondeau was toastmaster at the dinner. The principal speaker was Lou Cimini, La Salle hockey coach. Other speakers were the Rev. Herman D. Schneider, O.P., assistant director of athletics, the Rev. Richard D. Danilowicz, O.P., and Edward Hornstein.

Friar-Ram Twin Bill High Spot This Week

By PETE MCCARTHY

There'll be no slackening of the pace this week for the Rhode Island collegiate athletic teams, with action listed for four days.

Featuring the busy schedule will be the baseball doubleheader between Providence College and the University of Rhode Island at Hendricken Field and the annual track meet between Brown and URI at Brown Field. Both events will be held Wednesday afternoon.

On the same day Brown's victoryless nine will entertain Boston College at Aldrich Field in the first of three games on its schedule this week. The Bruins take to the road for Eastern Intercollegiate League games with Penn on Friday and Cornell on Saturday.

The PC-URI twin bill will make up for their game that was rained out at Kingston two weeks ago. Both teams also will be in action again on Saturday. The Friars will be at home to Holy Cross, whom they defeated, 4-0, at Worcester last Saturday on an excellent three-hit pitching job by Bud Slattery. The Rams, who dropped a decision to New Hampshire last Friday and were rained out of their game with Maine at Orono Saturday, will head north again for a doubleheader with Vermont at Burlington.

Friars' Slattery Shuts Out H.C., 4-0

Soph Limits Crusaders to Mere 3 Hits

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Worcester, Mass. — Bud Slattery, sophomore right-hander from Lowell, Mass., limited Holy Cross to three singles yesterday as Providence College turned back the Crusaders, 4-0.

The Friars backed up Slattery's shutout pitching with a solid nine-hit attack, in which the big gunner was first baseman Ed Lewis, who had four hits, one of them a double, in five times at bat. Dick Santaniello of Providence collected two of the Holy Cross hits.

Slattery was in trouble twice but effectively worked himself out of it. The Crusaders loaded the bases on him in the fifth, but he forced Jack Brennan to pop up to catcher Tom Cahill for the inning-ending out.

Providence got away to an early lead with a run in the first inning when leadoff man Art Aloiso drew a walk, was sacrificed to second by Bob Woods and crossed the plate on Capt. Buzz Moore's single.

The visitors made it 3-0 in the third. Woods and Moore walked and Lewis smacked his double, scoring Woods and moving Moore to third. The latter came home on a sacrifice fly by Lou LaFontaine.

The Friars closed out their scoring in the eighth on LaFontaine's safe bunt, Red Rabor's sacrifice and a single by Frank Tirico, his second of the day.

The Providence College record now is four victories and two defeats.

The victory was the second of the season for the rangy 19-year-old Slattery. His previous triumph came when he pitched the first five innings while Providence was scoring a 9-4. He's a product of Lowell victory over Brandeis on April High School.

Slattery struck out five yesterday and walked the same number. His mound opponent, Joe Liebler, also a basketball regular with the Crusaders for three seasons, fanned four and issued four passes, while going the distance for Holy Cross.

Holy Cross has won two and lost two thus far.

H.C. Frosh Stop Friar Frosh, 9-5

The Holy Cross Freshmen baseball team exploded for five runs in the ninth inning and defeated Providence College Freshmen, 9 to 5, yesterday at Henricksen Field.

After having scored two runs in each of the second and third innings, the Crusaders were held in check until the ninth, in which four straight hits and a walk led to the Friars' downfall.

Jim Riordan led the Friars with three hits, including a ninth-inning home run with one man on.

Crusaders Baffled by Slattery's 3-Hit Stint; Liebler Has 1st Loss

By HUGH McGOVERN

Holy Cross, ferocious with the bat in its two previous games, was as tame as a kitten before Providence College's Bud Slattery yesterday and fell to a 4-0 setback at the hands of the Friars at Fitton Field.

The Crusaders, who had thumped Brown and Ithaca pitching for 26 runs, could collect but three singles off the righthanded slants of the Providence twirler and fell to their second shutout setback in four games.

In addition to its anemic hitting, Holy Cross acted listlessly in spoiling the fun for a Junior Prom crowd of nearly 1,000 spectators.

Providence, which was winning for the fourth time in six games, banged nine hits off righthander Joe Liebler and handed the senior from the Bronx his first collegiate setback. He has won three.

The Friars, who hadn't beaten the Crusaders since the 1951 season, scored the only run they needed in the first inning when leadoff hitter Art Aloisio walked, went to second on Bob Wood's sacrifice bunt and scored on Hugh Moore's single into right.

Providence built its lead to 3-0 in the third when Liebler opened the door by passing the first two hitters, Woods and Tom Cahill.

Wind Carries Ball

After Moore forced Cahill at second, Ed Lewis doubled to center to rescue Woods and Lou LaFontaine salvaged the second tally with a sacrifice fly to right.

On Lewis' double, Holy Cross center fielder Dick Santaniello first started in, but the wind carried the ball over his head and the Crusader captain was unable to grab the ball with a desperate grab. Then Santaniello prevented additional trouble by making a diving clutch of Frank Tirico's sinking liner in short center for the third out of the game.

Liebler checked Providence with one hit from the fourth through the seventh, but in the eighth Joe ran into trouble again. LaFontaine started Providence uprising by beating out a bunt down the first base line. After a sacrifice by Red Rabitor, Tirico slammed a run-scoring single into center.

Lewis wound up as Providence's top hitter with three singles besides his double.

Crusaders Baffled

Meanwhile, Slattery, a lank righthander, was baffling the Crusaders. He showed a sneak fast ball, an odd curve and moved the ball around well.

Liebler collected Holy Cross first hit in the second, a line shot into right. Santaniello collected the other two, a slow roller down the third base line in the second and a checked bat single into right in the fourth.

The Crusaders had two splendid chances to score. Jack Stephens reached on an error and Dick Arcand walked to open the fifth. However, Dale Hohl popped and Jim Quinn forced Stephens at third. Don Prohovich walked to fill the bases, but Brennan fouled out to the catcher to kill the chance.

Slattery walked both Stephens and Arcand to open the seventh, but Hohl struck out, pinch-hitter Tom Ryan forced Arcand at second and Prohovich flied to left to end the threat.

FRIAR TAGGED OUT

Holy Cross pitcher Joe Liebler tags Providence College's Frank Tirico out after rundown in eighth inning of yesterday's game at Fitton Field. With two down and Tirico on third, Art Aloisio attempted to steal second. Liebler faked a throw to second and then threw to third sacker Jack Brennan to start the rundown. The Friars, though, won, 4-0.

PURPLE PATCHES

Holy Cross shortstop Don Prohovich came through with two fielding gems in the sixth. First, he raced from his post to grab Rabitor's slow roller through the middle and throw the Friar out. Then he backhanded Bob Woods' liner into the hole.

The Crusaders have four games scheduled this week... They play Connecticut here tomorrow, Dartmouth at Fitton Field Wednesday, Springfield at Springfield Thursday and Providence at Providence, Saturday.

Since 1900, Holy Cross holds a 32-15 margin over Providence in their baseball rivalry.

The Friars have a new coach, Bob Murray, who formerly played with Worcester in the old Eastern League.

Intrastate Tests Take College Stage Today

By PETE McCARTHY

A baseball doubleheader between Providence College and the University of Rhode Island and the annual Brown-URI track meet feature today's college sports program.

In addition there is a baseball game between Brown and Boston College and a tennis match pairing Brown and the University of North Carolina. Both of these are home contests for the Bruins, the tennis match starting at 2 o'clock and the ball game at 3 p.m. at Aldrich Field.

The twin bill at Hendricken Field starts at 1:30 p.m. and the Friars, fresh from their shutout victory over Holy Cross, rule the favorites on the basis of greater pitching depth.

Coach Bob Murray has nominated sophomore right-hander Bob Ritacco to pitch the opener and Herb Hearne, junior right-hander, in the nightcap. Each game is scheduled for seven innings.

Ritacco hurled a two-hitter and fanned 18 in defeating Assumption two weeks ago. Murray plans to give Ed Slattery, who blanked the Crusaders on three hits Saturday, and Larry Cummings some work today to keep them limber for the H. C. nine's invasion Saturday.

Coach Bill Beck will start Ray Peltier in the first game and Dick Nordberg in the second contest. Both are right-handers. He also may use sophomore Dick Pisaturo, who was impressive in his one-inning stint against New Hampshire last week, in one or both games.

The remainder of the lineups of both teams will be unchanged from their recent games. The Rams have a 2-2 record and the Friars have won four straight after losing their first two.

Plante Fans 14 As Friar Frosh Whip Ramlets

Bob Plante struck out 14 in pitching the Providence College freshman baseball team to a 13-4 victory yesterday over the University of Rhode Island yearlings at Kingston.

Plante gave up seven hits. Meanwhile, his mates collected nine safeties and nine walks off two URI pitchers.

The victory was the second for the P.C. Frosh over their Kingston rivals. Earlier the Friars had taken an 8-3 decision.

P.C.'s Ritacco Bests Peltier In Opener

Providence College and the University of Rhode Island yesterday split a baseball doubleheader at Hendricken Field, the Friars winning the opener, 1-0, and the Rams prevailing in the nightcap, 13-4.

Each game went seven innings by agreement.

The opener was a stern pitcher's duel between P. C.'s Bob Ritacco, who yielded five hits, and URI's Ray Peltier, who gave up three. Peltier had a no-hitter going into the seventh inning. It was in that inning that the Friars got the game's only run.

Ed Lewis broke up Peltier's bid for a no-hitter with a single. Lou LaFontaine then moved Lewis to second with another single and, after Red Rabitor had forced Lewis at third, Frank Tirico singled home LaFontaine.

Two Providence double plays, in the first and sixth innings, killed scoring threats by the Rams.

The victory was Ritacco's second, as against no defeats. Peltier now has a 1-1 mark.

In the nightcap, the Rams got 10 hits in taking the decision. They were helped by some shoddy defensive work by the Friars and nine walks.

Sal Ferrara led the winner's attack with a three-for-four performance that included a triple and homer. He drove in six runs.

Herb Hearne led a parade of four pitchers to the Providence mound. He was followed by Ed Slattery, Jim Coates and Rod Gorman.

Meanwhile, Dick Nordberg and Dick Pisaturo held the Friars to five hits. Four of these were yielded by Nordberg in the first six innings.

Providence's record for the season now is 5-3 and Rhody's 4-3.

Cross Nips P.C., 3-2, On Bingle and Bounce

By PETE McCARTHY

Two hits, one a home run by Don Prohovich and the other a fortunate carom off a photographer's arm, were the principal elements in the 3-2 victory scored by Holy Cross over Providence College before about 300 spectators at Hendricken Field yesterday.

The circuit clout came in the eighth inning off relief pitcher Bud Slattery and broke up a 2-2 tie but it didn't appear too safe a margin for the Crusaders when the Friars loaded the bases with nobody out in the last of the ninth.

Ed Lewis opened the inning with a clean single to right field and was sacrificed to second by Lou LaFontaine. The latter was safe when Dick Arcand's throw pulled Jack Stephans off the bag. Pinch hitter Herb Nicholas worked pitcher Ron Cote for a base on balls, filling the bases.

Frank Tirico then flied out to shallow right field and with Joe Liebler, the Crusaders' alternate pitcher on the job, the Friars elected to take no chances, all runners holding. Liebler fired home anyway and his wide peg took a bad hop away from the plate.

That Fortunate Bounce

Gordon Massa, H.C. catcher, tried to spear the ball with his bare hand but it glanced off in the direction of the stands. Roger Canastrari, who had been sent in to run for Lewis, immediately broke for home but the ball struck a photographer's arm as he tried to duck away and bounced back toward the bewildered Massa. The Crusader receiver scooped it up and just beat Canastrari in the dash to the plate some 20 feet away. That, of course, completed a double play but in making the tag, Massa suffered a bruised right thumb and had to leave the game.

Cote then wrapped up a brilliant pitching job by fanning Bobby Reall for the final out. The 6' 4" righthander struck out 13 all told, fanned the side in two innings and whiffed catcher Tom Cahill four times. He gave up five hits and walked only one.

The Friars nicked Cote for a run in the first inning on a walk to leadoff hitter Art Aloisio, an infield error and Tom Moore's single to right.

The Crusaders went ahead, 2-1, in the fifth on a walk to Massa, Stephans' triple to right center and Jack Brennan's sacrifice fly. A double by Red Raboritor launched P.C.'s deadlocking rally in the seventh. Bobby Galvin ran for Raboritor and scored on Tirico's single to center. Cote prevented further scoring by getting Aloisio on a flyout to left.

Prohovich's homer was a solid smash to left center that was helped along by a strong wind. The ball rolled all the way to the 431-foot mark and there was no play on him at the plate.

Cote picked up his third victory in four starts as the Crusaders scored their sixth in eight games. Larry Cummings started for the Friars and gave up three hits and two runs before departing for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Ed Slattery, who had blanked H.C., 3-0, last week, gave up the homer to Prohovich and was charged with the loss, his first against two victories. Sophomore Bob Ritacco finished up.

P.C.'s record now is 5-4.

Columbia at Brown, PC Away Tomorrow In Baseball Action

Brown's baseball team closes the home part of its Ivy League schedule tomorrow afternoon, meeting Columbia at Aldrich Field. The Lions nipped the Bruins in a well-played game at New York last week, one of the best Brown has played.

Meanwhile, Providence College will be concluding its two-day visit to Maine, opposing Colby at Waterville. The Friars were to meet Bates at Lewiston this afternoon.

Eccleston Takes Fine

Record to P.C.

Burrillville Teams Won Six State Hockey Titles

By BOB ENGLERT

Providence College's hockey stock surged upward today as the way was cleared for the appointment of Tom Eccleston, one of the most successful schoolboy coaches in New England and Rhode Island, to take over the post as head man of the Friars' hockey team.

Eccleston, who in 22 years at Burrillville High School compiled one of the most enviable records in interscholastic sports circles, last night resigned as the Broncos hockey, football and baseball coach "in order to apply for the hockey post at Providence College."

But his appointment to the position recently vacated by Dick Rondeau is a foregone conclusion and only official action by P.C. authorities is necessary. That action is expected to be completed within a few days upon the return to this city of the very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of the college.

First One He Wanted

Eccleston, who has turned down several college coaching offers in recent years, said this morning that the P.C. position was the first that he wanted to consider seriously.

"It's a great opportunity and officials at Providence College have been most cooperative," he said. The material on the hockey squad is very promising and it will be up to me to pick out the best boys and get them to play together."

Among the "boys" are five of Tom's former stars at Burrillville, Red Rabitor, Ray Zifcak, Mike Lovett, Ted Carter and Buzzy Boisvert. Rabitor, Zifcak and Lovett were All-State selections during their high school careers and figured prominently in some of Eccleston's success with the Broncos.

A hard worker who believes in putting in as much time as possible with his players, Eccleston plans to use the same methods at Providence College that he employed at Burrillville.

"We'll play the same style of hockey because that's the game I know best," he said. "There will be a few innovations, mainly concerning practice sessions. I understand the setup, a severe handicap to Rondeau in past seasons, will be improved and that will be a big help."

Splendid Record

Eccleston introduced schoolboy hockey to Burrillville in 1940 and since then his teams have finished first during regular season play the past nine years, winning six state championships and finishing second in the New Englands on three occasions.

He has developed some of the finest schoolboy stars ever to perform in the R.I. Interscholastic League and six of his players, Don Zifcak (St. Lawrence), George Menard (Brown), Rene LeVallee (Colgate), Pete Cavanaugh (Holy Cross), Arnold Piche (Vermont) and Elly Davis (Tufts) later went on and captured their college teams.

Eccleston's athletic success was not confined to hockey. His baseball and football squads also won their share of championships and he figured prominently in the early development of Phil Paine, an All-State pitching selection who is now playing with the Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

He coached the Burrillville football team from 1934 and during his reign Burrillville won 11 Class C titles and at one time held a state schoolboy record of 28 consecutive victories.

He took over in baseball in 1945 and piloted the Broncos to state titles in 1948, '49 and '50 and during those three years his teams won 57 games and lost only three. Each of the losses was by a one-run margin.

A graduate of Brown University, Eccleston joined the high school faculty in 1934. In 1938 he married the former Ruth Frances Whipple of Pawtucket. They have four sons, the eldest, Tom Jr., played this past season on his father's football and hockey teams.

In granting Eccleston permission to "apply" for the P.C. position the Burrillville School Committee took no action in naming coaches to fill the posts vacated but it is believed that Tom's assistants — William (Babe) Mousseau (hockey), Frank Hausser (football) and George Ducharme (baseball) will take over.

Eccleston will continue as school principal and athletic director.

Tom Eccleston Quits as Coach

Burrillville High Man Seen Headed For Post at P.C.

By LLOYD A. TREWHELLA

Tom Eccleston, one of the most successful high school athletics coaches in New England and the man who made Burrillville one of the best "sports towns" in the state, last night stepped out of that community's sports picture.

Eccleston, who has served in some coaching capacity at Burrillville High School for the past 22 years, last night resigned as hockey, football and baseball coach "in order to apply for the hockey coaching post at Providence College."

The resignation apparently has cleared Eccleston's path to the P.C. post.

At Providence College, the Rev. A. B. Begley O.P., the athletic director, said no official action had been taken in filling the vacancy but said "we would be most happy to welcome Mr. Eccleston to our coaching staff." The hockey post has been vacant since the resignation of Dick Rondeau last month.

Eccleston will remain at Burrillville High School as principal and athletic director. The hockey post at Providence College is a part-time position.

Eccleston introduced high school hockey to Burrillville in 1940 and his teams have finished first in the league standings nine years in a row. During that time Bronco teams have won six state championships and have been runnersup in the New England tournament three times.

A graduate of Brown University, Eccleston joined the high school faculty in 1934.

His first coaching job was with the football team that same year and since then he and his teams have compiled an amazing collection of victories. Eccleston has coached the football team for 22 consecutive seasons, though he was out of the Burrillville school system for one year—in 1943 when he coached the East Providence hockey team. While at East Providence he was granted special permission to continue coaching the Burrillville football team. He returned to Burrillville the following year.

Tom was married in June, 1938 to the former Ruth Frances Whipple of Pawtucket. They have four sons. The eldest, Tom Jr., played this year on his father's football and hockey teams.

Eccleston was appointed principal on Sept. 1, 1949.

Here is Eccleston's career in capsule form:

Football—Coach since 1934. Teams won 11 Class C titles. At one time teams set state record of 28 straight victories. Five teams enjoyed undefeated seasons.

Hockey—Coached first team in 1940. Teams finished first in league nine years in row, won six state titles and finished as runnersup in New England tournament three times.

Baseball—Took over team in 1945. Teams won state championships in 1948, '49 and '50. During those three years teams won 57 games and lost three. Each of the losses was by a one-run margin.

What does Tom think of the Providence College job?

"It looks like a wonderful opportunity. I know the material is there. From there on it is up to me. Dick Rondeau has done a fine job in bringing the material along and most of the players from last year will be returning to the team. Also the shift will give me more time to devote to my duties as principal at Burrillville High School. Now I will have the fall and spring seasons free."

The Burrillville School Committee, in granting Eccleston permission to apply for the P.C. post, last night took no action in naming coaches for the vacant positions. However, it is believed that three of Tom's assistants will take over the jobs.

William (Babe) Mousseau is slated for the hockey post, Frank Hauser is expected to coach football and George Ducharme to handle baseball. Hauser and Ducharme are Providence College graduates. Mousseau is a graduate of St. Bonaventure. Hauser and Ducharme are teachers at the high school. Mousseau is principal of Harrisville Grammar School.

Friars' Track Team To Run in Easterns

JB 5/10/56

By PETE MCCARTHY

Providence College will trot out its track team for the first time this season on Saturday when the Friars will compete in the annual Eastern Intercollegiate A.A. championships at Worcester Tech.

P.C. College officials suspended outdoor dual-meet competition last spring because of the lack of sufficient personnel for a complete squad. But several athletes have been practicing all spring and will get their first taste of competition Saturday. P.C. also plans to compete next week in the New England Intercollegiate at Boston.

Coach Harry Coates has named the following squad for the Easterns: Joe Madden, Rod Boucher and Bill Hanlon, two mile; Ed Aron, shot put and discus; Al O'Brien, 880; and Don Fahey, 220 low hurdles. A freshman mile relay team will be selected from among Tom Cummings, James Baker, William O'Loane, Bob Williams, Don Messier and Tony D'Ponte.

About Harry

There's a story they like to tell in New York about Coates. The veteran Hall of Famer has always had a soft spot in his heart for quarter-milers. Why? Because quarter-milers make up relay teams and good relay teams form the backbone of collegiate competition on the winter track circuit. And great ones serve to put both the college and the coach on the map, so to speak. His 1942 Setor Hall two-mile team still holds the world indoor record.

One spring day back some years ago when Harry was assistant to Emil Von Elling at New York University a youngster wearing an NYU freshman warmup suit was striding effortlessly around the track. The youth had worked up a good sweat before Coates noticed him and at once he liked what he saw. The only thing that bothered him was that he didn't have the faintest idea who the boy was.

He was about to ask one of the other boys on the freshman team when Von Elling strolled onto the field. Harry, wanting to report his pleasant discovery as quickly as possible, rushed up to the coach and said, "Von, see that kid out there? I don't know who he is but he's going to make a great quarter-miler."

Von Elling turned for a look and said, "No you don't, Harry. That boy's a high jumper and he's still in high school. He's up here today on a tryout."

"Well, who is he?" Coates asked. "His name is Spitz," came the reply.

George Spitz did, of course, go to NYU and contributed his bit to putting the Violets on the map by becoming a national amateur and collegiate champion and record holder in the high jump.

Tom's Top Records?
On Diamond, Gridiron

By DICK REYNOLDS

Although the hockey season is supposedly away over the hill, the skating sports stays on the scene.

Even in the announcement of Tom Eccleston's retirement from schoolboy coaching, hockey shouldered aside football and baseball, although the Burrillville boss wrote just as big records on the gridiron and diamond as on ice. His 28 straight football victories constitute an all-time high for consecutive conquests and his three straight state baseball championships in 1948, 1949 and 1950 set another unmatched mark.

But Tom, for some reason, seems by far more famous as a hockey strategist. Some people are even surprised to discover that he ever coached anything else, although the records reveal that his football and baseball losses are fewer than in hockey.

Popular Misconception

Another popular misconception is that hockey always existed in Burrillville and that the town grew around it. But Tom tells: "When I first came to Burrillville, I was the best hockey player here because nobody else owned a stick. Everybody used tree branches and the puck was a tin can."

Then as now, Burrillville ice was so excellent that Tom invited others, including his brother, Don, and Dr. Eddie Crane, to try it and this group stimulated hockey interest in the town.

Wes Moulton, Pomfret hockey coach at the time, invited Tom to assemble a squad to play his team. The Broncos lost their first ice venture in history and their only one that season. The next year they took a second setback from Pomfret in their only engagement of that winter. But in 1940, Burrillville beat Pomfret for its first rink victory and when the Broncos topped Hope in an informal match, Dr. William Callahan, then principal and now superintendent, was convinced his team was ready for the league. The Broncos weren't quite ready as they lost every game in 1941 but a year later, they hit the state finals and were beaten in overtime by Mount St. Charles, which hit the New England finals before being checked by Melrose.

Burrillville hockey head, is Tom's logical successor because he was the most prominent pioneer among the early Broncos who were pitted against Pomfret. In the first game with the preppers, Tom recalls that Babe was so unacquainted with rules that he entered the penalty box three times in the first five minutes.

His Own Medicine

Tom also founded Burrillville football, previously pretty much an unknown activity at his high school. Between the halves of one game that first season of 1934, a Bronc griddler complained that he was being held. When Tom suggested that the official be notified, the griddler said he preferred to endure the inconvenience rather than "squeal" on the offender. To stop a prevalent practice among his gridders that first season of referring to their helmets as "hats," Tom announced one afternoon before practice that any violator would thenceforth be assessed laps. Five minutes later, Tom was trotting around the field as he paid the penalty for making the same error.

Providence Nip Bates By 12-10

Providence won 5/11/56
LEWISTON, May 10 — A late rally by the Bates College baseball team fell short here this afternoon as the Bobcats dropped a 12-10 decision to Providence College.

The invaders did all of their scoring in the first six innings while nine of the ten Bates runs were tallied in the final four innings.

The Rhode Islanders sent 11 men to the plate in the sixth inning. Bates pitching was shared by Dave Colby the starter, who gave up nine hits in 5 1/3 innings; Norm Jason, tagged for two hits in a third of an inning, and Bill Snider, who finally put out the fire in the six-run sixth inning. The loss was charged to Colby.

Jimmy Coates, who toiled for seven and a third innings for P. C. drew credit for the win, with Bud Slattery finishing the game. Coates was tagged for six hits, while Slattery gave up two. Providence outfielder Red Rabor was the big sticker, getting three hits in four turns. Al Desantis, with a triple and a single, led the Bates attack.

Providence College has accomplished the coach-

Eccleston, at least they still will have a reward—they will be better men for having known him.

Tom is not an ordinary coach, or an ordinary man. Those who have played for him, to say nothing of those have watched his work closely, hold him in great ect. Opposing coaches, when they can put down
7, consider him a master.

His record at Burrillville tends to bear out this ig. Without going into details, he is a winner. In e major sports, football, hockey and baseball, his is generally have dominated the field. His greatest ess, perhaps, has been in hockey; hence, Provi-e College can look forward to some happy days
e sport.

Assure Off

So, too, by the way, can the Eccleston sons, one of m finally reached the age last year at which he d play for his father's Burrillville team. It was however, the happiest of associations.

"As far as Tom Jr. is concerned," Tom was saying erday, "he's happy to see me take the job because een hard on him. Matter of fact, his brothers tell e was thinking of going to La Salle next year, er than play at Burrillville."

The point is that Tom never showed an filial ritism and, indeed, possibly made his boy work er to prove he belonged on the club.

"He told me once," said Tom, "'Gee, Dad, you e me feel small as a green pea when you yell at

Tom doesn't deny that he bore down slightly in case, but it is all part of a larger theory he has:
ely, that there is much more to be gained from etics than the playing. He is not the sort of coach, is, who feels victory comes before honor, or that etic excellence excuses all scholastic sins.

The most-striking demonstration of this came a few hockey seasons back, when he suspended one of his star players for a rule infraction and did so on the eve of a vital game.

"Actually, as school principal at Burrillville and coach, too, I leaned over backward in not favoring my athletes," Tom said. "It was automatic, if an athlete was sent to me for any disciplinary action, he was out of the next ball game at the least.

"But in that incident, we had lost our best player on ineligibility and the next-best man was out with an injury. And then came this boy. Well, there was a lot of talk that I wouldn't be hurting him as much as I'd be hurting the team, so I left it up to the players to decide. They voted to suspend him and we lost.

"I don't know now if I did right or wrong in this case, but I was proud of the boys for acting as they did and they showed real character in voting as they did."

Another facet of the Eccleston touch is his ability to get his teams mentally prepared for the big games.
Often he employed the tactic of playing directly into the opposition's strength to get his result, and again there is a striking example.

Strategy

In 1948, when Chet Nichols was burning up the schoolboy baseball league, Tom's team had a date with him.

"Chet was striking out something like 19 a game," Tom said, "so the first thing I did was to call off our batting practice. I told the kids, 'What's the use? You won't hit him anyway.'

"But then I told them the plan. 'Our first six batters are going to get struck out,' I said, 'but we're going to beat him anyway. I'm going to give an award to the boy who looks best striking out. Now, when you strike out, I want you to sneer at Nichols, tell him he's a lucky stiff and ask him how he managed to do it.'

"Well, we dressed 44 kids the day of the game and sure enough, Chet struck out the first man. Our kids rushed out and shook our boy's hand and that kind of puzzled Chet. He struck out the first five, but then the plan went off. The sixth man doubled. Then Chet lost control.

Before it was over, we had knocked Chet out, Phil
Paine pitched wonderfully for us and we won, 9-0."

Invasive Friars Jump to Quick Lead Then Outlast Rallying Bates, 12 to 1

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
Lewiston, Maine—A 12-1 lead proved none too safe for Providence College in yesterday's baseball game against Bates, but eventually P.C. fought off Bobcat counterattacks and scored a 12-10 victory.

The success was the season's sixth for Providence, as against four defeats. The Friars continue their Maine invasion today at Colby.

Jimmy Coates, a junior right-hander from Medford, Mass., was coasting along behind 10 strikeouts and a big cushion but the long game player under windy conditions took its toll on the Providence pitcher, who left in the eighth inning with a 12-6 lead. Bud Slattery, right-handed reliever, wobbled as Bates pushed home two men who were on base and was shaky in the last of the ninth when a walk, triple and single accounted for two more tallies.

The decision was the first for Coates, who allowed only one hit until the sixth. Providence bagged 12 hits, with Red Rabor cracking three.

Scoring in five of the first six innings, Providence seemed to have the situation in hand, especially after having worked over two Bates right-handers for a six-run sixth. Bill Snider, a third Bobcat chucker, was more effective. He held the visitors scoreless in the last three innings.

Coates walked only two in the first five innings but passed three in the sixth, in which Bates picked up four runs with the help of two hits and two errors. After two of the first three men to face him had walked in the eighth, Coates was lifted in favor of Slattery.

Bates never quite got as far as putting the tying run on base, but had a man on first with one out in the last half inning, which meant the tying counter was at the plate when Slattery struck out Bill Tobin and forced his mound rival, Snider, to ground out for the game-ending play.

Net Play Washed Out At P.C. Moses Brown

Yesterday's rain washed out scholastic tennis tournaments scheduled at Providence College and Moses Brown School.

The PC invitation team tourney will be contested next Saturday, starting at 9 o'clock. Sixteen teams from 11 schools are entered.

The junior varsity school tourney scheduled at Moses Brown also will be held next Saturday, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Friar Freshman Nine, Nichols in 0-0 Tie

The Providence College freshmen and Nichols Junior College played to a scoreless baseball tie yesterday afternoon at Hendricken Field in a game called at the end of 17 innings.

Bob Plante and Joe Guglielmo combined on pitching a seven-hitter for the freshmen. John Schmidt and Bob Cohan, who shared Nichols' mound duties, limited the young Friars to eight hits.

P.C.'s biggest threat came in the opening inning when runners reached second and third. Nichols' best bid for a score was in the seventh. With a runner on third Dan Mulvey, P.C. catcher, momentarily lost a pitch, but recovered in time to nail the runner at the plate.

La Salle Favored In P.C. Net Play

La Salle is favored to take the first Providence College interscholastic invitation team tennis tournament today on the P.C. courts. Sixteen teams from 11 schools are entered in the USLTA-and-NELTA-sanctioned event, which starts at 9 a.m.

Jack Devereaux, Ed Sheridan, Bob Kachanis and Joe Werbicki are expected to take the team trophy for the Maroon, although teams from Providence Country Day, Moses Brown and De La Salle are rated close behind them.

Each team will play two singles and one doubles match in each round with one point to be awarded for each victory. The team which wins two out of three will advance intact into the next round while the other team will be eliminated.

In the La Salle doubles tournament three weeks ago, Sheridan and Devereaux won while Kachanis and Werbicki finished second. They also comprise the backbone of the La Salle team which is the unbeaten leader of the Interscholastic League.

Cranston, Hope, East Providence, Providence Country Day and La Salle have each entered two teams. Single entries have been received from Classical, De La Salle, Barrington, Moses Brown, Rogers and Tolman.

Ed Aron Better's Shot-Put Mark

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
Worcester, Mass. — Ed Aron of Providence College shattered the meet record in the shot put as Tufts College dominated the team competition in the Eastern Intercollegiate A.A. track and field championships here yesterday.

Aron tossed the 16-pound ball 50 feet, 8½ inches and bettered the previous mark of 49' 9¾" held by Boston University's Bruce Hescok. Aron also lowered his own school record of 48' 9½". He placed second in the discus.

The Friars picked up five more points when Rod Boucher and Bill Hanlon finished second and third, respectively, in the two-mile run.

P.C.'s freshman mile relay team of Jim Baker, William O'Loane, Anthony D'Ponte and Tom Cummings placed second behind Tufts. The winning time was 3:37.5.

The Jumbos walked away with the team title by taking eight firsts en route to their winning total of 56 points. Their Brooks Johnson and Paul Halberg each won two events. Johnson won the 100-yard dash in 10.1 second and the 220 in 22.2. Halberg took the mile in 4:29 and the 880 in 1:57.7.

Bowdoin's Bill Seffens set a meet record in the javelin with a toss of 200 feet, 9 inches. The old mark of 198' 10½" was set by Bill Footrick of Springfield. Springfield was second in the team scoring with 34½ points followed by Boston College, 23, Bowdoin and Providence College, 13 each, Trinity, 10, Middlebury, 9½, and Colby and Worcester Tech, 3 each.

Middlebury's Tom Hart scored all his team's points with a first in the high jump, a tie for second in the pole vault, and a third in the 220.

Colby Tops Erring Friars, 13-4

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Waterville, Me.—Sloppy baseball prevailed here yesterday as Providence College tried and failed to make it two Maine victories in a row.

The Friars went down to a 13-to-4 defeat at the hands of Colby as the Mules came up with eight runs in the bottom half of the eighth frame. Five of the runs were the result of sloppy play.

Providence had five errors during the game, three passed balls and two wild pitches. Colby had four errors but otherwise played a pretty good game.

The Mules hit with men on base and that was the difference. Providence, threatening in every inning except the first, left 16 men on the bases, three of them in the ninth when the Friars attempted to rally.

For the first seven frames it was a close contest despite the bobbles. Moving into the eighth, Colby was in front, 5 to 4.

Providence, which defeated Bates at Lewiston, 12 to 10, Thursday, opened with Bob Ritacco on the mound and finished with Larry Cummings. Cummings' wildness helped the Mules in the eighth. Ritacco gave up four hits and five runs in working six-and-two-thirds innings. Cummings was cuffed for three hits and eight runs.

One of those blows was a 340-foot home run in the big eighth by Ronnie Staples with two men aboard. Staples had two for two, his other blow being a double.

Eddie Laganegro started for Colby and worked seven frames. He allowed eight hits and four runs. Zarren Judd mopped up and allowed five hits and no runs for two innings. Arite Oloiso and Herbie Nicholas were the leading hitters for the Friars, each banging out three safeties. Nicholas had two doubles.

Friars Will Be At Home Today To Bruin Nine

By PETE McCARTHY

Brown and Providence College will square off in baseball today as the local college sports season moves into its final busy week.

There is baseball action galore, with the Bruins and the Friars completing their schedules by week's end. The Friars are down for five games, including a doubleheader with Boston College at Hendricken Field Saturday. In addition to the Bruins, whom they will play again on Friday, the Friars will oppose Springfield away on Wednesday.

Sandwiched between the home-and-home series with P.C. is an Eastern Intercollegiate League game for the Bruins Wednesday against Dartmouth at Hanover.

The New England Intercollegiate A. A. Championships at M.I.T. Friday and Saturday features the week's track schedule. Brown, P.C. and URI will compete and Coach Mal Williams' Rams, who won their ninth straight Yankee Conference title last Saturday at Orono, may be a big factor in the race for team honors. Boston University and Tufts appear to be Rhody's toughest opposition.

Brown's tennis team plays Harvard today at Cambridge and Connecticut at home Wednesday and its golf team takes on Amherst and Holy Cross at Wannamoisett Thursday.

Pitching Rivals Today

For today's baseball game at Hendricken Field, Coach Lefty Lefebvre has named Don Nelson as Brown's starting pitcher. Coach Bob Murray of P.C., who has a good supply of mound talent, probably will start Herb Hearne, former La Salle Academy hurler.

The Friars must sweep the two-game series with the Bruins to tie the Rams for the state collegiate title. URI finished up 1-1 in the intra-state round robin. P.C.'s overall record now is 6-6 and Brown's 1-13.

Old Friars Are Set To Greet Old Friend

By PETE MCCARTHY

An old friend will be back for a visit this week in the person of Hugh Devore, the head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles football team. Hughie will be the principal speaker Thursday night at the Mal Brown chapter dinner at the Sheraton-Biltmore honoring the senior lettermen at Providence College.

Hughie has passed a great many mileposts since he undertook his first football head-coaching job at Providence College back in 1938. The sport became a war casualty at P.C. in 1942 so Hughie moved on, much to the regret of his many friends and associates in Rhode Island.

And move he did. First to Holy Cross, then to Notre Dame, where he assisted Frank Leahy and later became head man at his alma mater until Leahy's return from service. There followed head-coaching posts at St. Bonaventure, New York University and Dayton University until finally last winter the pros beckoned and Hughie found himself where he's belonged all the while — in the big time.

Outstanding Leader

In the minds of many of the Old Friars who came to know him as a great coach and an outstanding leader of men, Hughie's reward was much too slow in coming. That appraisal was shared by all the top football men in the country, but somehow circumstances never seemed to allow the man to hitch his wagon to the right star. Three of his colleges found it necessary to give up football and each time Hughie had to make a fresh start.

But now it appears the crazy merry-go-round has stopped and the Eagles, in particular, and the National Football League, in general, will be the richer for having Hughie with them. Aside from his ability to handle men, perhaps Hughie's outstanding talent has been his skill in diagnosing opponents' strengths and weaknesses. Football men everywhere acknowledge that he is in a class by himself when it comes to a scouting job. After one look at a team in action, Devore knows as much about that club, maybe more, than his own coach.

Speaking of scouting brings to mind the time when this deponent, while an undergraduate at Providence College, tried his hand at counterespionage in Hughie's behalf. At one of P.C.'s home games in the press-box assignments put this agent beside a scout for the Friars' next opponent, which happened to be Catholic University.

Temptation

As the game began and the visiting spy began making copious notes and diagrams, the temptation became too great for the rookie reporter not to steal a glance now and then to see what was being recorded on the P.C. team. The thought occurred that Hughie surely would like to know what his next opponent thought of his club and what steps its coaches were likely to take in preparation for the game.

So on Monday Hughie was told what the Cardinals' scout was like to report on the Friars back in Washington. Judging from both the amusement and surprise the P.C. head coach displayed at receiving such unsolicited information, it was rather obvious that it was the first time in his young coaching career that he had been a party to the operation of scouting a scout. And, considering the breach of ethics involved—there is such a thing as a code of honor, you know, in this rather cold business of coaching—it's safe to assume that was the last time Hughie wanted any part of it.

This much is certain: this agent surrendered his coak-and-dagger credentials for all time after seeing the Friars finish on the short end of a 40-7 score that following Saturday afternoon in Washington

PC Moves Nearer Title Tie

By JOE McHENRY

Providence College's baseball team today was a step nearer division of the state college baseball title with URI after its 6-0 victory over Brown yesterday afternoon at Hendricken Field. Another triumph over the Bruins—they meet again Friday afternoon at Aldrich Field—would do the trick.

Bob Ritacco, a fast ball pitcher who prepped at Westerly High, hurled the Friars to their victory.

Meanwhile the Massachusetts Redmen wrapped up the Yankee Conference crown with a pair of victories over Rhode Island, 6-5 and 8-5, at Amherst.

Ritacco has been a bright spot in Bob Murray's first season as boss of the Friars. He limited the Bruins to five hits and fanned 10 yesterday but he has been equally effective in some of his other outings as well.

Scouts Impressed

Sitting in on yesterday's game were Jeff Jones, who signed Chet Nichols for the Braves, and the Red Sox' Larry Woodall, and both were impressed with Ritacco's hurling. The sophomore righthander also had a triple that cleaned the bases as the Friars took a 4-0 lead in the fourth.

Vic O'Bryan, the Brown short-stop, had three of the five hits for his club. Lou LaFontaine, Herb Nicholas and Bob Woods hit well for the Friars. The Bruins' Marty Moran robbed LaFontaine of a bingle with a fine catch in the seventh. Don Nelson and Frank Rego hurled for Brown.

Both the Bruins and the Friars will be out of town tomorrow, with Brown opposing Dartmouth at Hanover in its Ivy League windup and PC meeting Archie Allen's Springfield team at Springfield. The Friars have won seven out of 12, with four games remaining.

Rhode Island had the lead in both games against UMass but the home club rallied for its sixth and seventh victories in the Conference. After trailing 4-1, the Rams went ahead, 5-4, in the top of the ninth in the opener. Coach Billy Beck put in Ray Peltier to hold the one-run lead, replacing Dick Nordberg, who hurled the first eight innings.

The Redmen got three hits and Peltier hit a man in the ninth.

George McCafferty singled home the tying run and John Skypeck brought in Charlie Mellen with the deciding tally with another single. UMass exploded for six runs in the fourth inning of the nightcap, erasing Rhody's 4-1 advantage.

Johnny Leach had three hits for the Rams in the opener while Jim Warren and Peltier, who also lost the second game, had two each. The Rams' Sal Ferarra and Mellen each had a homer. It is UMass' first Conference title since 1952 although the Redmen have been NCAA District I representative and runner-up for the past two seasons.

The Friar Frosh scored two runs in the first inning and defeated the Bruin Cubs, 2-1, yesterday at Aldrich Field. Pete McNeish hurled three-hit ball and collected two hits for the losing Bruins. Joe Guglielmo went the route for the young Friars.

Ramlet Trackmen Win

Paced by Bill Bertolini, Fred Lakeway, Tom Hill and Bob DeStefano, the University of Rhode Island Freshmen scored a 77-58 triumph over the Springfield Frosh track team yesterday and ended its season unbeaten. It was the 8th victory for the Rhody Frosh, indoors and outdoors.

With Jim Stinmetz shooting a 74, the Trinity linksmen defeated Rhode Island, 4-3, at Hartford. Sweeping the doubles and all but one of the singles matches, UMass scored an 8-1 tennis triumph over Rhode Island at Amherst. The Quonset tennis forces edged the Brown Frosh, 5-4, on the Manning courts yesterday.

Friar Freshmen Win, 2-1, Over Bruin Cubs on 3 Hits

The Providence College Freshmen got only three hits yesterday against the Brown freshmen but two of these were combined with two errors in the first inning for a pair of runs that held up for a 2-to-1 baseball triumph at Aldrich Field.

Brown got its lone run in the first inning also, the result of an error, a stolen base and a single—one of seven hits the Bruin Cubs collected off Joe Guglielmo, Friar pitcher. Two of the hits were garnered by Pete McNeish, Brown hurler.

McNeish showed excellent control in posting his three-hit-ter in a losing cause. He issued no walks and fanned four. His opponent struck out six and walked two.

Friars Blank Brown, 6-0

Ritacco Shines On Mound; Hits 3-Run Triple

By PETE McCARTHY

Bob Ritacco of Providence College proved a double dose of poison to Brown's baseball team yesterday as he pitched and batted the Friars to a 6-0 victory at Hendricken Field.

The sophomore right-hander from Hope Valley stopped the Bruins cold with a five-hit, 10-strikeout pitching job and broke up a scoreless deadlock in the fourth inning with a bases-loaded triple to left center field. He scored the fourth run of the inning on Lou LaFontaine's double to center.

That was all the Friars needed to record their seventh victory in 12 games but they picked up two more runs at the expense of Frank Rego, who had relieved starter Don Nelson during the P.C. uprising in the fourth.

Ritacco gave up two hits, one a slow roller to short, in the first inning and then spaced the remaining three bingles over three separate innings, the fourth, sixth and eighth. Only in the fourth did the Bruins have more than one base runner at a time. In that frame Ritacco struck out the side after walking the first two batters. He also fanned the side in the sixth.

10 Batters in 4th

The Friars sent 10 men to the plate in the fourth, which Frank Tirico opened with a walk. Herb Nicholas singled to right and Tom Cahill worked Nelson for another walk, filling the bases. That's when Ritacco unloaded his triple and later came home on LaFontaine's two-bagger. Nelson retired the next two batters but loaded the sacks again on successive walks to Buzz Moore and Art Aloisio. Rego then relieved Nelson and checked the rally by getting Tirico on an infield pop-up.

A walk to Red Rabitor and singles by Moore and Aloisio produced P.C.'s run in the sixth. The Friars turned another base on balls into their final run in the eighth. Bob Woods opened with a walk, stole second, moved to third on Rabitor's single to left and scored after Moore's flyout to center field. Scotty Garrett, one of the Bruins' pitchers who was playing center field yesterday, made a fine throw to the plate but the ball took a bad hop high in the air and catcher Russ Chandler was unable to hold it.

Nicholas led the Friars at the plate with three singles in four trips. LaFontaine and Woods each chipped in two hits. Shortstop Vic O'Bryan collected three of the Bruins' five hits, all of which were singles.

Fielding Gem

Brown's Marty Moran, who has alternated at third base much of the season, came up with the top fielding play of the game as a right fielder when he one-handed LaFontaine's drive just inside the foul line in the seventh inning. Moran's catch after a long run saved another score as there were two out and a man on at the time.

P.C.'s short-second combination, Nicholas and Tirico, worked two double plays. Another was started by Brown's first baseman Bob Pinch. After retiring Ritacco on a grounder in the fifth he wheeled and caught Cahill at the plate when the latter tried to score from third on the play.

The loss was Brown's 14th in 15 games. The victory gave the Friars a 2-1 record in the intrastate college series and they must defeat Brown again Friday to tie the University of Rhode Island for the state title.

Coach Bob Believes In an Old Axiom

G.B. 5/16/58

By JOHN HANLON

Bob Murray, Providence College's new baseball coach, is discovering that an old truth he lived by in professional ball still is working out quite well for him.

"Some people seem to think that I treat ball players too easy," Bob was saying yesterday as he sat sunning himself during the early part of his team's workout.

HANLON

"But I have always gone on this: Sugar is better than vinegar. Maybe a coach or a manager can get more out of a man by hollering at him and giving him the dickens. But I never thought so.

"Of course, there are signs that I could be wrong. You take the time I was managing in Nashville and Chuck Dressen had one of the other teams. Well, my third baseman this day made a stupid play and that night Dressen and I were sitting around talking about it.

"What are you going to do about it?" he asks me.

"I said, 'Nothing. Why? What would you do about it?'"

"I would smack him right in the jaw so he'd never forget and never do it again," says Chuck."

The Dressen Method

Murray chuckled over the story and then he added his idea on the matter.

"Maybe Chuck was right," he said. "Maybe that was the way to do it and from the way he's gone ahead, it looks like he had the right idea. But I never could go for it."

Bob said that his system, generally was to hold a meeting each day and go over the previous ball game and there point out mistakes.

"I didn't tell a man too many times about his mistakes," Bob said. "If he kept on making them, he was off my club. Life is too short to worry about those kind of guys."

And how, he was asked, has he treated his college boys—his first such group in a long career in the game, by the way.

"Exactly the same," he said, "and as far as I'm concerned, everything is working out fine for us."

Lenient Pilot

One of the points of Bob's handling of the team that has met with great favor is that he has yet to remove a man from the game for making an outright mistake. His predecessor was not that lenient—this is not a judgment of his action, just a statement of fact—and the boys like the Murray method.

"Some of them," said a man close to the scene, "couldn't understand at first why they weren't yanked right away. Now they have come to appreciate it."

"What's the use of that?" Bob said, when this general subject was mentioned. "Why, the other day we had a man make a wrong play, but I didn't say anything to him that day.

"Then I let it cool a day and the second day I talked to him about it. He knew he had made the mistake and . . . well, if I'd hollered at him on the spot, he's the kind of boy that would have gotten 'down' and what good would that have done him or me or anyone else?"

Help for the Umpires

In addition to such intangibles, Murray as a man who has been around baseball long enough to know the finer points of the game and his ability to put these across has won him such respect among his players.

Yesterday, for instance, he had a young catcher working out in batting practice and Bob kept a near-constant stream of advice going to the boy. Then he noticed one tiny but important point.

"You are lifting that glove too fast and making your throw back to the pitcher in a hurry," he said.

The boy took off the mask and, puzzled, looked over to Bob for a fuller explanation. It came immediately.

"Leave it there for a few seconds," Bob said, "and if the umpire has any doubts in his mind about it being a strike, that could help him make it up.

"I have noticed," he said, his eyes twinkling, "that a lot of them need help, too."

Friars Head For Top Tie If Bear Bows

By BOB ENGLERT

Providence College's Friars, bidding for a share of the state collegiate baseball championship with the University of Rhode Island, invade Aldrich Field tomorrow afternoon to play Brown in the wind-up of their home and home series. Game time is 3 p.m.

Needing a victory to pull abreast of the Rams who have a 3-and-1 record in state title competition, the Friars are expected to send their sophomore star, Bob Ritacco, to the pitcher's mound in quest of this all-important triumph.

Ritacco, a former schoolboy standout at Westerly, blanked the Bruins, 6-0, earlier this week in the opener of the two-game set. He turned in a neat five-hitter. Bruce Barch or Don Nelson are Brown pitching probables.

Rams at Home

While the Friars and the Bruins are going at it at Aldrich Field, the University of Rhode Island will be entertaining the University of New Hampshire at Kingston.

Brown and P.C. each fell victim to fielding miscues yesterday as they bowed to Dartmouth and Springfield, respectively. The Bruins dropped a 3-1 verdict at Hanover in a game called because of rain after five innings, and the Friars bowed, 6-3, at Springfield.

Errors Hurt P.C.

In sweeping their home and home series with the Friars, Springfield spotted P.C. a 3-0 lead but then tied the game in the fourth and added single runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. Four of the markers resulted from P.C. errors.

Two out singles by Red Rabor and Frank Tirico and three consecutive walks gave the Friars two runs in the second and they picked up another in the fourth off Jack Jacobson who took over the Springfield pitching during the P.C. uprising in the second.

The Friars could do little with Jacobson thereafter. In the 7-13 innings he worked he gave up only two hits and although he walked nine, he never was in serious trouble. The P.C. run in the fourth came home on a passed ball.

Two walks and Paul Bean's double accounted for Springfield's first run in the fourth and the other two registered on Bob Wood's wild throw to first on Rog Wickman's grounder for what would have been the final out of the inning.

An error, Bob Litchard's single and an infield ground out produced what proved to be the winning run in the fourth. Rollie Pearson, former East Providence High School star, chased home the fifth Springfield run in the sixth with a base knock and the final run registered in the seventh on a walk and two P.C. errors.

Springfield Beats Friars, 6-3; P.C. Lapses, Afield Prove Costly

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
Springfield, Mass.—Springfield College's baseball team capitalized on some loose fielding by Providence College in defeating the Friars, 6-3, here yesterday.

The victory was the sixth in 13 games for the Gymnasts and gave them a sweep of their home-and-home series with P.C. The defeat was the Friars' sixth in 13 games.

After falling behind, 3-0, Springfield tied it up in the fourth and added single runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh. Four of the winners' runs were made possible by P.C. errors.

The Friars scored twice after two were out in the second inning. Red Rabitor and Frank Tirico singled and then Bob Corlette, Springfield's starting pitcher, forced two runs across by walking Tom Cahill, Ed Slattery and Lou LaFontaine in succession.

That brought Jack Jacobson to the Springfield mound. He released the side. Jacobson gave up the unearned run in the fourth and then blanked the Friars the rest of the way. He gave up nine walks and two hits but never was in serious trouble thereafter. His record now is 2-2.

P.C. loaded the bases in the fourth on walks to Cahill and Slattery and a single by LaFontaine. Cahill scored on Don Burke's passed ball.

Ed Bilik and Burke drew walks in the fourth and the former scored on Paul Bean's double to left field. Burke and Bean then tallied when short-stop Bob Woods threw wildly to first on Roger Wickman's ground ball for what would have been the third out.

Ed Graham scored what proved to be the winning run in the fifth when he reached on an error, moved to third on Bob Litchard's single to right and came home on a grounder to first. Rollie Pearson, former East Providence High School athlete, drove in the Maroon's fifth run in the sixth with a single. Bilik tallied the final run in the seventh on a walk and two P.C. errors.

Slattery picked up his second loss, as against two victories.

New Friar Sports Spirit Hailed at Awards Fete

By JOE McHENRY

The Friars' basketball victory over Notre Dame was hailed as an important milestone in Providence College athletics by the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., its president, last night at the first annual dinner of the Mal Brown Club at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

"We have been seeking ways and means of trying to develop a spirit among our students," Father Slavin said. "We must face the reality that nothing makes for college spirit more than a winning team. And we have seen victories in the past.

"The most noteworthy was the victory of Charlie Reynolds and the Providence College baseball team over Brown in that famous 20-inning game. But nothing since then has captivated our campus and brought a wave of enthusiasm and spirit as the victory of Coach Joe Mullaney and his basketball team over Notre Dame this past season.

"The campus was a new place. Every student had a smile. Everything was animated with something new. Something that we had been aiming at for years was about us, before it had always eluded our grasp. We are on a plateau in our sports and we hope to keep climbing. We hope to push ahead and we hope that we will be able to produce winning teams," Father Slavin said.

The Mal Brown Club, named in honor of the Friars' first and beloved athletic trainer, honored Paul Ryan, who coached the Haverhill, Mass., High School football team to the Class A championship of Massachusetts with an unbeaten season. Ryan, who played end for the Friars in the days of Hank Soar, said he was blessed with some fine players but definitely appreciated the honor of the award as a Providence College alumnus.

Hugh J. Devore, newly appointed coach of the Philadelphia Eagles, talked seriously and humorously in his address. He told how Terry Brennan played on his Notre Dame team as a youth of 16 or so and also noted that Brennan was one of the nation's outstanding young coaches and students of football.

"I always enjoyed my association with Providence College and I know it is a school that turns out sincere, well-rounded men. I would say Mal Brown was just a regular guy. Frequently a football trainer can do more with some boys on the squad than any of the coaches. Mal was among the most sincere trainers I ever worked with and a fine fellow to take the pressure off. I'll never forget his laugh," Devore said.

The Rev. Robert G. Quinn, O.P., who was athletic director when Devore coached at P.C., gave a human talk about Mal that brought back many happy memories to some in his audience of 125 alumni and friends and a gripping feeling in the throats to some others.

Bobby Reall, who was outstanding in Friar hockey for four years, was presented the Cranston Club Trophy by William O'Dea.

The Rev. Herman D. Schneider, O.P., assistant director of athletics, made presentations to the following seniors with the assistance of the Friar coaches: Bob Murray, Joe Mullaney, Harry Coates, Tom Eccleston and the Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., director of athletics:

Reall, Ed Monahan, John Sweeney, Ed Hornstein and Paul Ledoux, hockey; John Janitz, rifle; Gene Amaral, Jack Gagnon and Frank Mastrola, track; Bob Woods, Art Aloisio and Hugh Moore, baseball; Don Moran, Ralph Tedesco, basketball, and Jack Reidy, manager of basketball.

Paul Connolly was an able toastmaster. John Goode Jr., and Thomas Malloy were co-chairmen of the program. Charles Joyce, club president, made the introductory remarks. William C. McCabe, president of the Providence College Alumni Assn., was a guest at the head table.

High School Harriers In Near Upset

Coach Ray Betagh's much-improv- ed Woonsocket High School cross- country team threw a real scare into the Providence College Freshmer yesterday but finally was edged in a triangular meet in which Classi- cal High also participated. The score was 26 for PC Fresh- men, 30 for Woonsocket and 91 for Classical. The race was on the col- lege course and the distance in- volved, 3.2 miles, was considerably longer than the Woonsocket course to which the local lads are accus- tomed, which is 2.5 miles from star- to finish.

Bob Lambert, who usually runs second behind the Villa Novans' Capt. Frankie Krajewski, couldn't bet in there yes- terday, otherwise the locals might have taken top team honors. Bernie Wasserman and Andy Blais finished ahead of Lambert.

Tom Cummings of the Frosh array was the race winner in 17:14 and Dennis Carey, a teammate, was second. Then came three Woon- socket lads, Krajewski, Wasserman and Blais, in that order. Lambert was seventh and Ed Wacker 11th for the Betagh-coached harriers.

PC and Woonsocket shared the first nine spots before Jack Lafferty of Classical managed to sneak home in the 10th position. Others who ran well for Woonsocket were Mike Aridano, Billy McKenna and Mike Messier.

Bert Kenty of Malden Catholic ice hockey fame, denied to the News last night that he had been chosen to direct the variety ice hockey plans at Providence college, starting next fall.

Coach Kenty admitted he had talked with the directors of Providence college, but that nothing had been decided, and if any later arrangements were made, they would not be effective until 1957 as Kenty intends to handle the Bluejackets next season.

Kenty, who has piloted the Highlanders to 13 championships in 11 years, says while he has no contract with the local sent 21 Eagles down on strikes in the two games.

The Friars hardly looked like the same team that lost to Brown on Friday. They handled the ball well in the infield and played heads up throughout in sweeping the Eagles for the first time since the 1941 season. BC is annually one of the Friars' toughest opponents in baseball.

Dick Lucas, the BC football ace, started the opener and pitched good ball. The Friars scored twice in the first inning. Woods scored the first run on a passed ball and Red Rabor's single brought in Hugh Moore with the second.

Alert Relay

Tom Cahill scored PC's other runs in the opener after a single and a walk. Lou LaFontaine drove him home in the second as PC led, 3-0.

BC threatened once in the opener but an alert relay from Ed Lewis, PC first baseman, to Cahill nailed Bernie Teliszewski on a close play at the plate.

Buzz Moore, the PC captain who was playing his final game, hit a booming home run to left center in the third for two runs in the second game. Ritacco also tripled for two more in the same inning. The former West-erly High School pitcher drove in four of the PC tallies in the nightcap.

management he would not be interested in the Providence assignment until he was given a full time job and a long term contract.

"It will be necessary for me to resign my present position to take the Providence assignment, and with a family of three children, I have to be sure that every move is a right one," Coach Kenty said. He is at present employed as a chain store manager in Brighton.

In 11 seasons the Kenty teams have won 117 games, with 29 losses and 15 ties. His local record is recorded as the best ever compiled by a New England schoolboy ice hockey coach. His most recent accomplishment was the Eastern Massachusetts title and into the final round of the state tournament. In previous seasons his club has captured eight Catholic League championships, two Eastern Massachusetts League pennants, one state and two New England championships.

Friars' Bob Ritacco Closes B.C. Eagles Twice, 4-0

By JOE McHENRY

Bob Ritacco, fast-balling sophomore from Hope Valley, pitched the Providence College Friars to a double victory over Boston College yesterday at windswept Hendricken Field, 4-0 and 12-2.

The 20-year-old right-hander had a double shutout within his grasp until the Eagles broke a 13-inning scoring famine and pushed across two runs in the seventh and final inning of the nightcap.

While the Friars have a long and noble baseball heritage highlighted by such people as Charlie Reynolds, the late Jack Flynn and George (Birdie) Tebbetts, Ritacco is believed to be the first Friar to pitch and win two games on the same day.

Ritacco is one of the most impressive pitchers the Friars have had in recent seasons. With yesterday's twin victories, he wound up his first college season with five victories and one setback.

The Eagles could do little with Ritacco's fast ball and curve yesterday. The highly rated BC team, which had an 8-2 record going into the doubleheader, collected only six hits and may have been shut out twice the way Ritacco was pitching.

One Hit

Boston had one hit going the final inning of play and was an infield single by Joe Sell in the fourth. Shortstop Bob Woods of the Friars felt he fielded the ball and Ritacco reached. In the seventh, Ritacco again reached on an error by Buddy Alves from West Wick wick flied out.

If Ritacco had received good backing at this point, he would have needed only one out to win the double shutout. Then Carey nicked the chalkline behind third base for the Eagles' second hit and they scored twice before the Friars got the third out.

The Friars' newest pitcher, who worked last summer to build up his body and also worked in an hour of pitching practice each day. This extra effort has paid dividends as he is a big boy this spring.

Ritacco never had attempted to pitch two games in the same ay before yesterday. Coach Bobby Murray, who completed his first campaign in highly successful fashion, was hard up for hurlers yesterday. He was figuring on Ritacco for some late relief work if he needed him in the nightcap.

But coach and the pitche. er, Ritacco offered to start and try to go as well as he could. He said he didn't feel tired at the finish and was throwing strong at the windup. In addition to pitching 13 shutout innings, Ritacco

Losing Kenty,

Great Hockey Coach

Man Who Won 13 Titles in 11 Years Reported Providence Coll.-Bound

By GENE MACK JR.

The hockey season never ends at Malden Catholic.

Despite the fact that the school's baseball team is in the thick of the Catholic Conference pennant race, the Fellsway fans have been talking hockey. And their main topic is whether or not their great hockey coach, Bert Kenty, is leaving.

The Globe learned today that Kenty, who has piloted M. C. sextets to 13 championships in 11 years, does plan to make a change in coaching jobs.

The move won't be effective until the 1956-57 season, according to a reliable source, but Kenty has agreed to coach the Providence College ice squad.

Providence, aiming for a place in New England's bigtime collegiate hockey picture, recently announced that Tom Eccleston of Burrillville, R. I., High School, will replace Dick Rondeau, former Dartmouth ace as coach of the Friars.

Record One of Best

But Eccleston's contract is good for one year only. The Burrillville mentor will be filling in until Kenty can groom a worthy successor at Malden Catholic.

Kenty's record at Malden Catholic stands as one of the best ever compiled by a New England schoolboy ice coach. His most recent accomplishment was directing his M. C. sextet to the Eastern Mass. League title and into the final round of the state tournament this past Winter.

In previous seasons, his clubs captured eight Catholic League championships, two Eastern Mass. League crowns, one state title, and two New England championships.

In 11 seasons Kenty teams have won 117 games against 29 losses and 15 ties.

Among the possible successors to Kenty at Malden Catholic is Mike McDonough, former M. C. and Providence College Star.

UConn Has A Problem

Only a few days after Stan Ward left his freshman football and basketball coaching post at the University of Connecticut, to become Brown's head coach of basketball and freshman football coach, university officials at Storrs let it be known that they had no intentions of filling the job quickly.

Obviously, it was intended that the coaching field would be well scanned before Ward's successor is named. That is as it should be, especially since the top brass in the UConn athletic setup realize that coaches are a dime a dozen but men like Ward are few and far between.

UConn had great reason to be proud of the job which Ward did for it. His worth as a coach is above the record of games won and lost although the scales weighed heavily on the win side. His worth as a teacher was far above his unique ability to transmit printed words into lessons of importance and understanding. His worth as a counsellor transcended mere advice to keep out of trouble.

Armed with those facts, UConn's present position in filling the post is understandable.

What About Vin Cuddy?

On the list of candidates to replace Ward is a pretty important one in Connecticut's sport history. He's James Vincent Cuddy of Naugatuck, one of UConn's finest athletes more than a decade ago, who has been serving Providence College as head basketball coach.

It isn't that Cuddy was a member of former coach Don White's best basketball team and a better than fair end on J. Orleans Christian's good football teams, but he was a type of athlete that personified Naugatuck when the late Pete Foley was a name to conjure with in the state's schoolboy circles.

Small as athletes go, Cuddy had two important assets. He was never beaten until the last gun was fired and he had the ability to think correctly under pressure. Moreover Vin had the remarkable talent of making friends.

Like Ward he also has the faculty of being able to teach over and beyond the mere term. A look at his record at Providence illustrates that.

Providence, especially since abandoning football, is no coach's sinecure. Some baseball talent finds its way into the college, but except where athletes are able to double in a basketball way, its cage teams are staffed with ordinary material. The big names and tall players look to other New England colleges, primarily on the assumption that other pastures are greener in matters of northeastern recognition.

Providence belongs to no conference and its athletic program is shaded in the shadow of bigger universities.

Has Done A Grand Job

But Cuddy has done a fine job there. A good one considers that the basketball personnel is mediocre. Last season when Providence was supposed to be the picture, it was Cuddy's team which had the edge in the early weeks of the campaign knocking out the so-called better clubs.

He accomplished it solely on his ability to get the youngsters believe in themselves, and his ability to get the most out of his players than they know they have. In basketball, there are other factors, of course. They rely on his judgment to outthink the opposition; to scout better; to scout more accurately.

At Providence, he asked only that a boy make a shot. "I can teach him the rest," he says.

Cuddy, in addition to his basketball talents, has provided Providence victories over state rivals and Brown, is an astute football coach. Some would say he is a better football man than basketball.

One of his jobs at Storrs would probably be to replace Ward's shoes as freshman football coach and to handle other grid duties.

Although we don't know for certain, we believe Cuddy would jump at the chance to return to Providence as a coach. He's still a very young man with a solid future ahead. We also have a hunch he would be away from the constant pressure at Providence.

University Should Recognize Own

From the standpoint of the taxpayer, it is a pity that about the state university had one of its own and a state native, on its football staff. At the present time Greer is the only Connecticut man on the coaching staff. Hugh, of course, is head basketball coach and it is a pity that Greer who will be most vitally affected by the loss of Ward.

Ordinarily, it would be unusually difficult to find a replacement for a man like Ward. But in circumstances would have it, UConn can dip right into its graduates to come up with an outstanding replacement for Cuddy. And make no mistake about it, Vin is a player with the New England press. He's as straight as a line they come.

Veteran coach criticizes Olympic trials

HARRY COATES, a veteran of the track coaching profession, is afraid our runners won't be ready for top competition in the Olympic Games (late November and early December) at Melbourne, Australia.

"The field men are impervious to weather and other influences," says Harry, "but how can the runners hold the form they showed in the recent trials at Los Angeles. They've been going all winter, spring and into the summer. It's going to be hell getting them ready to run as well in the winter as they did in the trials.

"It wasn't a good idea to hold the trials at the end of June. Picking a track team for winter competition in June is like picking a football team in the spring. Nobody can do it but Notre Dame.

"However, Los Angeles guaranteed $50,000 to the Olympic committee for the trials and that, plus the insistence of the colleges, brought about the early trials. The colleges wanted to know whether an athlete was going to pull up and go to the Olympics or remain a student during the semester which includes the Olympic period.

"By holding the trials in June we probably have lost a few of the best performers, like Dave Sime from Duke University and Fair Lawn. He strained a muscle in his upper right leg and was shut out of the Olympics as a result.

Poor training hurt Sime

THE QUESTION remains whether it is a good idea to bar a man who has broken three world records from the Olympics on a basis of trials five months in advance.

Mr. Coates, one of the distinguished old timers in track and field, is strictly a Newark product. He was born here, attended St. Benedict's, Newark Prep and Seton Hall over a span of 30 years. He interrupted his Seton Hall tenure with three years at Villanova and finally moved north to Providence (RI) College where he has worked for the past eight years.

The case of Sime interests him greatly and he points out that the Duke sprinter was poorly prepared for the Olympics.

"The boy went to the trials accompanied by his graduate manager. His coach had a summer camp assignment and couldn't make it.

"Sime qualified for the Olympic 100 by finishing second in the NCAA meet. In the 200-meters he pulled up to Bobby Morrow's shoulder after 50 yards. He was going so fast he couldn't make the turn and strained his leg trying to stay on the track.

"I don't understand why he wasn't trained to run the race on a turn. Incidentally, if he can't take the gradual turn in the Olympic-style 200-meters, how is he going to circle first, second and third as a ball player?"

Dave may turn to baseball

I SUSPECT that he'll concentrate on baseball now that he is out of the Olympics. He was a great outfielder at Fair Lawn High.

"As far as I can remember he only ran a couple of special races when he was in high school. He was primarily an outfielder.

"And did you ever hear about the report that was sent in on him by a Cincinnati scout who watched him play for Fair Lawn? The scout emulated Mike Gonzales, the old Cardinal catcher, but went him one better. He characterized Sime as follows:

"'Good field, good hit, no run.'"

"And the scout might not be wrong after all. Maybe Sime can't take the turns around the bases. However, I hear that the Yankees have offered him $100,000 to sign and he'd be worth more than that if he could have won the two Olympic sprints . . . Might be worth it as a world record-holder."

Field event men who have been picked for the Olympics will have no trouble maintaining their form, Mr. Coates thinks . . . But he worries about the runners.

"In addition to having reached their top form too early he says, "they now will have to work with new coaches. I wouldn't want to take on a boy I didn't know in the middle of October (reporting date for Olympic track competitors) and try to get him ready for competition in five or six weeks.

"I wouldn't know how to handle him . . . The ideal plan would be to give him to his own coach but the Olympic Committee can't take 100 coaches to Australia.

"It will be a miracle if the runners do as well in the Games as they did in the trials."

Cahill Will Lead Friars '57 Nine

Tom Cahill, a junior from New Haven, Conn., has been elected captain of the 1957 baseball team at Providence College, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. A. B. Begley, O.P., athletic director for the Friars.

Cahill caught both games last Saturday as the Friars and Coach Bobby Murray wound up a highly successful season with a pair of victories over Boston College.

Cahill is a product of St. Mary's High in New Haven where he played football, baseball and basketball. He was captain of his high school baseball team in both his junior and senior seasons. Horace Marone, former Friar football and basketball star, was one of his schoolboy coaches.

Rego Plays Star Role In His Bruin Finale

By JOE McHENRY

When the Brown-PC baseball game got under way yesterday, Frank Rego stood in the Bruins' dugout and looked out on the diamond where some of his schoolboy and summer opponents were in action for the Friars. It was his final college game and he didn't seem to have much of a part in it.

But when Bruce Bartsch got into difficulty, Coach Lefty Lefebvre called on his senior utility man and Rego pitched the Bruins to a fine victory. In turning back Bob Murray's P.C. Friars, Rego and the Bruins ushered the University of Rhode Island into the state baseball championship.

Friars Had Early Lead

The Friars could have tied things up with Rhody by a victory yesterday. They led the Bruins by a 5-3 margin and that's when Lefebvre decided to go with Rego. Rego, an engineer who plans to work in aviation in California, had just the pitches to bother the Friars.

Providence collected only four hits off the Brown right-hander and got only one man to second base against him. That came in the ninth with two away. Rego got 13 Friars in sequence as the Bruins kept adding to their advantage.

It has been a rough season for the Bruins who dropped all four games on their southern trip. After that the Bruins had won only one out of 16 games when they took the field yesterday. But they were loose and relaxed against the Friars. Bob Stevenson, Russ Chafidler, Scotty Garrett, Bob Pinch and Rego supplied some solid sticking.

Garrett, who will be back next season, had two hits and drove in three runs. He contributed two sparkling catches in left field. Rego had the Friars popping up and grounding out with his good control hurling.

"He was right around the plate all the time," commented the Friars' Murray, "and that kind of pitching is the best kind in college baseball."

"Frank has been a hard luck guy in lots of ways," Lefebvre said, "but he's always singing on the trips and likes to play ball. He has had arm trouble for a couple of seasons and it is only lately that he has been able to throw hard again."

"I pitched and played with some of the P.C. fellows back home around New Haven," Rego said later. "We sure wanted to win this one. Lefty deserved a victory for going along with us like he has. And we played pretty good today."

The Brown Frosh took the P.C. Frosh into camp, 11-2, in their engagement. Here again Vin Cuddy's young Friars were hoping to sweep the series with Jack Heffernan's Cubs. It was quite a day for Bruno.

Joe Kazura shut out the Rhody Rams for the second time this season as New Hampshire swept the season's series with a 4-0 triumph yesterday at Kingston.

DIAMOND DUST—The Holy Cross freshman nine closed its season with a 10-1 record. ... Coach Hop Riopel tabbed it one of the best freshman teams he's coached at Worcester. ... Bob Ritacco, that Providence College sophomore who pitched both ends of the 4-0, 12-2 doubleheader victory over B. C. Saturday, struck out 21 Eagles in 14 innings.

Brown Cubs Subdue Friar Frosh, 11 to 2

With the help of a six-run third inning, the Brown freshmen defeated the Providence College freshmen, 11-2, yesterday at Hendricken Field. Six hits—three of them successive doubles—an error and a wild pitch figured in the Brown scoring in the big frame.

The victory had no bearing on the Rhode Island college freshman championship, which was clinched last Monday by the Friars when they beat the Bruin Cubs, 2-1. Their record of 3-1 is better than that of either the Brown or University of Rhode Island first-year men in intrastate play.

Army's Harriers Win Over Friar, Varsity Frosh

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
 West Point, N.Y. — Army's cross-country teams outlogged the Providence College varsity and freshmen in the rain here yesterday.

In the varsity competition, won by the Friars' Bill Hanlon, the scoring was Army 25, Providence 30. Hanlon was timed in 26:50 for the five-mile course. He was followed over the line by teammate Rod Boucher, but the next five places were taken by Army entries.

The freshman competition was one-sided, with the Plebes making a clean sweep of the first five places. The Friar Frosh were handicapped by lack of conditioning, having reported for practice only last Monday.

Unseeded Hope Team Wins Tennis Tourney

Paced by Elliott Young, who didn't lose a set all day, and George Fleming, who dropped only one set, unseeded Hope captured the first Providence College Interscholastic Invitational Tennis Tournament yesterday at P.C.

On its way to the title, Hope upset top-ranked La Salle in the semi-finals and second-seeded Providence Country Day in the finals, each by a 2-1 score. In each of these rounds the Blue Wave dropped the opening doubles matches but Young and Fleming salvaged the victories with impressive rallies.

In the semi-finals, La Salle took a 1-0 lead over Hope when Bob Kachanis and Joe Werbicki defeated Irwin Hamin and Leonard Dworkis, 6-0, 6-1. But Fleming whipped Ed Sheridan, 6-3, 6-4, and Young trounced Jack Devereaux, 6-4, 6-0, sending La Salle down to its first defeat at the hands of an interscholastic opponent this season.

Providence Country Day, which had reached the finals with a 2-1 victory over East Providence, also took a lead against Hope. Bob Parker and Dave Silberman scored a 6-3, 6-3 victory in the doubles against Hamin and Dworkis. But Young downed Bob Hazelwood, 7-5, 6-2, and Fleming, after having split the first two sets with Bill Davis, clinched the tournament, 6-4, 2-6, 6-0.

Bears Surprise Friars,

P.C. Loss Aids Rams to Back Into State Title

By JOE McHENRY

Turning in one of its top games, the Brown baseball team wound up its season with a surprising 13-5 triumph over Providence College and assured the University of Rhode Island of the state baseball championship yesterday at Aldrich Field.

The Friars, who beat the Bruins, 6-0, last Monday, were shooting for a share of the state crown. They would have got it with a victory over Bruno yesterday. Brown hardly looked like a ball team that was winning only its second game of the season, in its finale.

Key man in Brown's winning operation was senior Frank Rego, who has been bothered by a sore arm this spring. Rego took over the Brown hurling, after Bruce Bartsch had run into a five-run second inning, and shut out PC thereafter.

It was a good climax for a disappointing Brown season and a splendid windup for Rego, a player of good baseball sense and ability who has had arm trouble over parts of the last two seasons. Rego gave up only four hits over the last seven innings.

No Friar got closer to scoring than second base when Rego was serving them up and that didn't happen until Frank Tirico reached that station with two out in the ninth. Rego accounted for 13 Friars in one stretch, faced only three men in each of five innings and five and four in his two others.

Brown took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, which was featured by a delayed double steal on which Bob Stevenson scored. With Lefty Bartsch having trouble with his control, the Friars bounced back with five runs in the second. Bob Woods contributed a two-run single and Ed Lewis connected for a triple that accounted for two more runs. That was the Friars' only scoring inning.

Jim Coates, who had a rough first inning, departed in the second when Stevenson tripled to center field, scoring John Keith and Rego with the tying runs. Leading, 6-5, the Bruins took advantage of two walks and a hit batsmen by Larry Cummings and added four runs in the fourth. Scotty Garrett's double was the big blow in that one.

Cummings, a southpaw from Cambridge, Mass., had the most stuff of the four hurlers. He struck out 10, fanning six out of seven batsmen over a three-inning stretch. He tired in the eighth when Brown added three more.

The Bruins concluded one of their poorest seasons in years, (albeit a spirited one), winning two and losing 15. Yesterday's victory was Brown's first in the state series, which went to Rhody with a 3-1 record for the season. Providence wound up 2-2 in intrastate play.

The Friars face Boston College in a doubleheader today at Hendricken Field, starting at 1 o'clock. Bob Rittaco and Ed Slattery will face the Eagles.

Hanlon, Boucher

1-2 as P.C. Tips

H.C.'s Harriers

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Worcester, Mass.—Bill Hanlon and Rod Boucher ran one-two yesterday as the Providence College cross-country team defeated Holy Cross, 21-35. In freshman competition, the Crusaders downed the Friars, 22-35.

Hanlon was timed in 18:41 for the three-and-seven-eighths mile course. He lead teammate Boucher over the line by about five yards. These two, incidentally, finished in the same positions last week, when the Friars lost to Army in their first meet of the season.

Providence's next competition will be against Harvard Tuesday at Cambridge.

The summary:

Varsity

Providence	Holy Cross
Hanlon 1	Donahue 2
Boucher 2	Salvatore 3

Harvard Harriers Beat Friar Varsity and Frosh

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
Boston—Harvard's varsity and freshman cross-country teams scored victories over Providence College yesterday at Franklin Park, the Crimson varsity winning by 23-38 and the yearlings by 15-46.

Arthur Reider of Harvard finished first in the varsity meet with the Friars' Bill Hanlon second. It was the first defeat of the season for Hanlon, who was first home in both the Holy Cross and Army meets. Reider's time was 20 minutes, 9.5 seconds for the 4.1 miles.

P.C. Harriers Win; Boucher Sets Record

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Brunswick, Maine — Rod Boucher set a course record in leading the Providence College cross-country team to victory yesterday in a triangular meet with Tufts and Bowdoin. The scores were Providence 28, Tufts 47 and Bowdoin 54.

Boucher was timed in 19 minutes, 57.3 seconds over a 4.1-mile course at the Brunswick Golf Club. He led teammate Bill Hanlon, who finished second, by about 10 seconds at the wire. Boucher set the mark despite losing his way over the course for about 15 seconds. Hanlon, too, had drifted off the course.

The victory was the second for the Friars in four meets this season.

The summary:

Providence — Boucher 1, Hanlon 2, Williams 7, Carey 8, O'Brien 10, Tufts—Swanger 4, Powers 6, Pistone 11, Stevenson 12, Benedict 14.
Bowdoin — Packard 3, McGovern 5, Young 9, Daley 18, Chase 19.

Friar Runners Score Double Against Rams

Providence College scored a cross-country double over the University of Rhode Island yesterday at Kingston as the Friar varsity harriers won, 26-30, and the freshmen were victorious by 22-37.

Bill Hanlon of Providence headed the varsity field home. His time of 23 minutes, 14 seconds shaved 26 seconds off the record for the new four-and-one-half-mile course, established by Rhode Island's Tom McIntosh last week.

George Cushmac of the Ramlets finished first in the freshman meet. His time for the two-and-one-half-mile distance was 13 minutes, 45 seconds.

Providence College: Hanlon, 1; Boucher, 2; Carey, 6; Williams, 8; O'Brien, 9. Total, 26. Other finishers: Cummings, 10; Sullivan, 13; Farley, 14; McDonough, 15; Baker, 18; DaPonte, 19; Warren, 22.

Rhode Island: McIntosh, 3; Hampson, 4; Wright, 5; Horne, 7; Conboy, 11. Total, 30. Other finishers: Viladosky, 12; Foster, 16; Schnitzer, 17; Mangili, 20; Brady, 21.

Friars Down B.U. Runners In Dual Meet

George Hillier of Boston University, the Canadian marathon champion, broke the course record while leading the field home, but the Terrier cross-country team bowed, 20-39, to Providence College on the Friars' course yesterday.

The victory was the fifth in seven starts for Providence. The Friars also won the freshman meet, 18-43, with Keer McIntyre of P.C. finishing first and covering the three miles in 18:26.5.

Rhode Island Timers Guild watches caught Hillier in 24:31 for the five-mile varsity course. That time bettered by 13 seconds the record set by Bob Sabara of Manhattan last season. The Friar harriers visit Manhattan Saturday.

The summary:

Friar Harriers Meeting Terriers Here Today

The Providence College cross-country team will open its home season this afternoon at 4 o'clock, meeting Boston University at Hendricken Field.

Coach Harry Coates' Friars are sporting a 4-2 record which includes victories over Holy Cross, Bates, Bowdoin and the University of Rhode Island and losses to Army and Harvard.

Bill Hanlon, victorious in four of the meets, and Rod Boucher are the mainstays for Providence. Doug Raymond's B. U. star is George Hillier, the Canadian marathon champion.

A freshman meet will precede the varsity event.

Beats Providence, 25-36, at Van Cortlandt Park

Manhattan College's cross-country team defeated Providence College yesterday in a dual meet at Van Cortlandt Park, 25 to 36.

The Jaspers placed seven of the first ten men. William Hanlon and Richard Boucher of Providence finished first and second, respectively. Hanlon's winning time was 25:56.

Abundance of Hockey Talent Problem for New Friar Coach

By BOB ENGLERT

Tom Eccleston, Burrillville perfectionist who moves into the intercollegiate coaching field this winter as boss of the Providence College hockey team, is a man with a mission these days and a man with a problem most coaches would envy.

Lured from the schoolboy coaching ranks earlier this year by the Rev. Herman D. Schneider, O.P., assistant athletic director at P.C., after one of the most illustrious careers in R.I. Interscholastic League annals, Eccleston is out to build the Friars into one of the top-ranking hockey powers in the East.

"Don't expect any miracles this year," he said yesterday as he prepared to put his squad through a rugged workout at the Auditorium, "but if we don't have one of the top teams in this area no later than two years from now, you can put the blame on me. It won't be the fault of the players."

Such enthusiasm on the part of the usually restrained Eccleston may come as a surprise to those who know him or have followed his career closely, but a glance at the Providence College roster might offer an explanation for his exuberance.

The Friars are loaded with some of the most sought after youngsters in New England schoolboy circles. The squad oozes talent but it's this abundance of material that has created the problem.

"I've got 28 hockey players," Tom commented. "Twenty-eight real, good hockey players but I can only dress 15 of them, not including the goalie, for any one game and right now I honestly don't know just who I will use."

Despite the abundance of talent—there are 10 boys who made all-tourney teams in the annual N.E. Interscholastic Tournaments and a flock of others who won all-league honors in their respective states—Eccleston still has his work cut out for him.

Right now his chief task is getting the players to adapt themselves to his style of hockey. Eccleston productions have always been noted for their team play, precision passing and pass patterns and he plans to use the same game in collegiate play.

It was a little difficult for some of the boys at the start of practice but Eccleston feels they've finally gotten the hang of things. His former Burrillville stars on the squad, Red Rabitor, Buzz Boisvert, Ted Carter, Ray Zifcak and Mike Lovett had a lot to do with helping their mates catch on to the Eccleston system.

Tom currently plans to concentrate on developing one or possibly two forward lines and two sets of defensemen and then he'll alternate the other players on the squad, sitting some out for one game and playing them in the next.

Basically it's a young squad, lacking in experience. Of the 28 players, 17 are sophomores, eight are juniors and three are seniors—defenseman Mike McDonough, goalie Phil Crawford and forward Bernie McCrink, one-time La Salle standout.

McDonough, Rabitor, Zifcak and Ray Blanchette, a 200-pounder from Notre Dame of Berlin, N.H., with a blazing shot, look like the leading defense candidates but Eccleston says several other lads have been looking equally as proficient in practice and nothing is definite as yet.

The same holds true up front where there has been a constant switching of lines. One unit that could remain intact has Joe Barile of Hamden at center and Lou LaFontaine, also of Hamden, and George Boudreau, younger brother of B.C.'s one-time great, Wally Boudreau, at the wings.

Also on the squad, intact, is St. Dominic's (Lewiston, Me.) great line from its 1954 New England champions. It includes Gil Domingue and the Labbe twins, Bob and Ray. Other waves have included Lovett, Carter and John Bisch from Natick, Mass., Ray Sweeney and Jim Ford of La Salle and Paul Sainato of Malden Catholic, and Ken Costa of La Salle, Sal Carvelli of Boston Tech and Al McMahan of Hamden.

The Friars appear well set in goal with Crawford, Jim Toomey of Boston College High and Don Girard, St. Dom's all-New England goalie.

Manhattan Trips Friar Harriers; Hanlon Cops 1st

New York — Despite fine individual performances by Bill Hanlon and Rod Boucher, who finished one-two, the Providence College cross country team suffered its third defeat against six victories to a strong Manhattan College team, 25-36, yesterday afternoon at Van Cortland Park.

Manhattan, undefeated in dual-meet competition, placed its five top runners right behind Hanlon and Boucher and the next P.C. runner was 10th. John Gormally, a former La Salle star, placed seventh for Manhattan.

Hanlon's winning time over the five-mile course was 25 minutes, 56 seconds.

P.C. Wins, 25-32, Over Huskies In Cross-Country

The winners' trio of Bill Hanlon, Rod Boucher and Dennis Carey crossed the line in a tie for first as the Providence College cross-country team defeated Northeastern, 25-32, yesterday on the Friars' course.

It was the sixth victory in nine starts for the Friars. The winning time for the 4.6 miles was 24 minutes, 28.3 seconds.

Taking four of the first five places, Northeastern won the freshman race, 18-38. Paul Woodland of the visitors was home first, traveling the 3¼ miles in 17:22.

The summary:

Road Race Tomorrow At Providence College

An invitational six-mile road race sponsored by Providence College and open to AAU athletes will be held tomorrow afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock, at Providence College.

Aggregations from Providence College and the Boston AAU will compete for the team trophy.

Bob Black, former intercollegiate, NCAA and AAU cross-country champion, is expected to be among the individual entries.

Black Captures Invitation Race

Bob Black, of the North Medford Club, former NCAA and IC4A cross-country champion in his college days at the University of Rhode Island, won the first annual Providence College Invitation Six-mile Road Race yesterday over the P.C. course.

Black's winning time was 31 minutes, 7.8 seconds. Bob Ruggeri of the Providence College Athletic Association ran second and Ray Lister of the Alumni A.C. placed third.

1, Bob Black, North Medford Club; 2, Bob Ruggeri, P.C.A.A.; 3, Ray Lister, Alumni A. C.; 4, Don Fay, B.A.A.; 5, Art Hewes, P.C.A.A.; 6, Bill Horridge. Time—31:07.8.

P.C. Harriers And Brown Clash Today

The Providence College cross-country team will be seeking to conclude its most successful season in history this afternoon when it meets Brown in its final dual meet over the P.C. course. A race between the schools' freshman teams will precede the varsity competition at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach Harry Coates' Friar harriers have won six and lost three so far and will be favored to make it No. 7 against the Bruins today. Brown's seasonal record is 3-2.

Of particular interest in today's meet will be the battle between the Friars' Bill Hanlon and Rod Boucher and Brown's Ed Sullivan. Sullivan, a junior, has lost only one race this season, that to Connecticut's Lew Stieglitz, who is rated the top runner in New England.

Progress reports of the race will be announced over a public-address system at the finish line as received by walkie-talkies along the course. The R.I. Timers Guild will "staff" the meet.

Friar Harriers Defeat Bruins

Providence College won the mythical state cross-country championship yesterday by defeating Brown, 24-32, at Hendricken Field.

In the much-heralded individual duel between P.C.'s Bill Hanlon and Brown's Ed Sullivan, the Bruin runner came home an easy winner.

Sullivan took the lead with a mile to go in the 4.6-mile event and finished with a time of 23 minutes, 15.1 seconds.

Hanlon, who had led for the first two miles, dropped to third at the finish behind teammate Rod Boucher. The latter had gone to the front at the three-mile mark but couldn't hold off Sullivan and trailed him across the line by about 100 yards.

The Friars now have taken both Brown and the University of Rhode Island in the annual intrastate series.

In a freshman meet yesterday, Brown's first-year team scored its first victory over the P.C. Freshmen since the start of their series in 1948. The score was 20-35.

Vince MacDonald, Bill McArdle and Allen Osborne paced the Bear Cubs with a three-way tie for first in the 3.4-mile race. The time was 17:07.3.

Brown, P.C., Scarlets Ready for U.S. Sextet

The United States hockey team will play at R.I. Auditorium tomorrow night against the combined forces of Providence College, Brown University and the R.I. Scarlets.

The main event is set for 8:15. In a prelim set for 6:30, the Providence College Freshmen will face the National Hornets of the R.I. Amateur Hockey League.

On the U.S. team will be Russ Kingman, Bob Borah and Danny Keefe, all ex-Brown players. Eddie Zifcak, former Burrillville High star who went on to play at St. Lawrence College, is also set to play a lead role for the United States team.

As now arranged, the Scarlets will play the U.S. team in the first period. P.C. will take over in the second and Brown will finish up.

The Scarlets have some talented hockey players in Pete Tutless, formerly of Brown; Henry and Bob Coupe, who played for Muncie of the International Hockey League, and three Woonsocket standouts—Stubby King, Bill Belisle and Gil Bailargeon. Butch Keeling and Ed Yagnesak, ex-Burrillville players, and Tom Woodcock, Hope all-stater and the Reds' assistant trainer, are set to play for the Scarlets.

Brown will count heavily upon Roddy Dashaw, rated the best college center in the East, and Harry Balcheldor, capable goalie.

Providence College will be playing for the first time under the tutelage of Tom Eccleston, who made a habit of winning schoolboy titles at Burrillville. Ex-Broncos ready to compete for the P.C. team are Rabitor, Zifcak, Lovett, Carter and Boisvert. Bernie McCrink, formerly of La Salle, is the Friar captain.

Friar Harriers Win N.E. AAU 10,000 Meter Title

Thirteen was a lucky enough number for the Providence College varsity harriers yesterday at Franklin Park, Boston, where they won the New England AAU 10,000-meter cross country championship.

Last finisher among the Friars was 13th and the PC delegation compiled a victorious point total of 28, thanks in greater measure, of course, to the one-two posting of Capt. Rod Boucher and Bill Hanlon who crossed the finish line together at the head of the pack.

Bob Ruggieri was third, Bob Williams 10th and Dennis Carey the lucky 13th.

The Friars beat second place Northeastern handily. The Huskies had 55 points. A Boston Athletic Association team was third and Harvard fourth. It was the first time in the history of the race that a college team beat a BAA team.

16 Teams to Compete In Friar Relay Meet

Two late entries have upped the number to 16 teams which will compete in the annual Providence College four-mile relay to be held on the P. C. board track this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The entry list now has nine out-of-state quartets, including St. Francis Prep of Brooklyn, one of the outstanding relay teams in the East. Seven local schools have signified their intentions of having representation in the relay.

According to Harry Coates, Providence College coach, today's lineup will be the largest aggregation of schoolboy milers ever assembled in any meet in the country. The purpose behind the running of the 4-mile relay was to obtain more milers from schoolboy ranks.

The two additional teams entered yesterday are Mt. St. Michael's of New York City and Hartford Public High School. The New York team is coached by Howard Borck, who formerly coached at La Salle. The Hartford team has as its coach Lindy Remigino, former Olympic champion.

The Fordham Prep team will have as one of its members Tom Carroll, who ran a 1:54.7 half-mile, the fastest time for that distance of any schoolboy in the nation.

There will be four heats, based on time, with four teams in each heat. One of the pairings will have La Salle's quartet pitted against St. Francis, Hartford Public and either Fordham Prep or Archbishop Stepanic High School of White Plains, N.Y.

The entry list includes these local teams: La Salle, Hope, St. Raphael, Classical, Coventry, Mount Pleasant and North Providence. The out-of-state teams will represent St. John's Prep, Brooklyn; Chaminade High School of Mineola, L. I.; Cardinal Hayes High School, New York; Fordham Prep; Archbishop Stepanic High School; St. Francis Prep, Brooklyn; New Bedford High School; Mt. St. Michael's and Hartford Public High School.

A trophy will be given to the winning team and medals will be awarded to the members of the three top teams. Members of the Rhode Island Timers' Guild will officiate.

Novice Road Race Set Today at P.C. Course

The Providence College novice road race over a 2.5-mile course will be run this afternoon at 3:30. The race is open to any Rhode Island runner who has not won a medal in an inter-scholastic or A.A.U. sponsored cross-country event, or who did not place among the top 25 in the New England, or the top 15 in either the state meet or the Class A and B championships.

The winning school takes a leg on the Providence College Spiked Shoe Club trophy, which has to be won three times for permanent possession. Mount Pleasant High School has won the race twice and Coventry High School has a single victory to its credit.

The Friars posted a winning total of 28 points. Northeastern University was a distant second with 55 points, Boston A.A. third with 59 and Harvard A.A. fourth with 77. It was the first time in the history of the event that the Boston A.A. was outscored by a college team.

Bob Ruggeri of the Friars was third, some 29 seconds off Boucher and Hanlon's winning time of 36 minutes, 15.5 seconds. Bob Williams in 10th place and Dennis Carey in the 13th spot were the fourth and fifth finishers for Coach Harry Coates' winners.

Boucher was awarded first place by the judges but actually Hanlon could have been an easy winner. Hanlon waited

Relay Meet Listed at P. Tomorrow

Providence College will sponsor its eighth annual schoolboy relay meet tomorrow afternoon on the college's outdoor board track. Fourteen teams are entered.

The meet, encompassing a one-mile relay, was open to all eastern schools which filed entries before midnight Sunday. At the last meeting there were seven schools and seven out-of-state institutions entered. Rev. A.B. Beane, O.P., said that late delivery of entries might swell the entry list.

Bishop Loughlin Memorial High School of New York, winner of the 1955 race, has not entered a team this year, as it was felt that there were better teams in the New York area and some of these will run tomorrow.

Chief among the New York entries are Fordham Prep and St. Francis Prep of Brooklyn. Both schools have strong quartets and will be favored to take the title back to New York again this year.

Locally, La Salle and St. Raphael should give a good account of themselves. There has not been much activity among the relay teams in this area this season, but the schools which have entered teams have been practicing for this meet and will be ready for tomorrow's race.

The race will be fun in heats with local and out-of-state teams pitted against each other. A trophy will be awarded to the winning team and medals to the members of the top three teams. The first heat will get underway at 2 o'clock.

Classical, Coventry, Hope, La Salle, Mount Pleasant, North Providence and St. Raphael are the local teams entered. The out-of-state quartets include St. John's Prep, Brooklyn; Fordham Prep, New York City; Archbishop Stepinac School of White Plains, N.Y.; Chaminade High School of Mineola, Long Island; Cardinal Hayes High School, New York City; St. Francis Prep of Brooklyn and New Bedford High School.

Ed Haire will be chief timer with other members of the Rhode Island Time Guild also officiating.

Modified Optimism Is the Note At P.C. on Basketball Season

By PETE McCATHY

For a man who rang the bell in his first year as Providence College basketball coach, Joe Mullaney is surprisingly optimistic as he approaches the start of his second season.

While frankly admitting that his present squad is better now than his first team was a year ago this time, Mullaney is acutely aware of the things that must be accomplished before he can begin to hope for another winning season. Last year the Friars broke even in their first 12 games. Then, after Mullaney's new system had begun to take hold, his charges won nine of their last 11, including the big one against Notre Dame in overtime.

Mullaney lost only two regulars from that team, Capt. Don Moran and Teddy Tedesco, and is counting on three sophomores, Pete Schementi, Ken Clements and Dick Bessette, to offset that loss.

The list of returning veterans comprises two seniors, Capt. John Ritch and Mike Pascale, and six juniors, Ed Donahue, Frank Tirico, Roger Canastrari, Lionel Jenkins, Gordie Holmes and Roland Benoit. These men are thoroughly familiar with the Mullaney system by now; it's simply a question of more effective execution and this, Mullaney hopes, will manifest itself as the season progresses.

Improving the Friars' defenses is Mullaney's biggest project at the moment. Last season P.C. allowed opponents an average of 67 points a game and even though the Friars themselves averaged 70 a game, Mullaney would like to pare the future point yield considerably.

The P.C. coach also would like to have more team speed, but that, is a quality, he says, his present squad does not have. So he is gearing his offense to the respective strengths of his players to take full advantage of individual skills. On this basis, he hopes to get more scoring from Ritch, who is the Friars' tallest player at 6 feet, 6 inches. Pascale, the team's highest scorer last season, is one of the classiest jump-shooters in New England, and Tirico, the smallest member of the team at 5' 10", is deadly with his long set shot.

Donahue, who was handicapped by illness last year, reported back to school in fine physical shape and Mullaney regards him as the best all-around player on the squad. At 6' 3" he will be a big help on rebounds and he possesses a variety of shots that make him effective from the corners and close range.

Holmes, who was used as a spot player last year and who fired the big shot in the victory against the Irish last winter, has moved into the starting five by his hustle during practice. The former Pawtucket West High School star is only 5' 11" but he has an amazing spring and should help out a lot under the boards.

Mullaney plans to substitute individually rather than by platoons because he prefers to keep a nucleus of veterans on the floor at all times. Schementi, who is 6' 5" is expected to see a lot of action as Ritch's replacement at center and the other two sophomores, Clements and Bessette, will work in at the forwards.

Jenkins will get the call over Holmes when height becomes a factor because Lionel is 6' 3" and really can get up there for rebounds. Benoit will spell Tirico in the back court.

The Friars open up Sunday afternoon against Assumption College of Worcester at 3 o'clock. Normally the Greyhounds cause no great apprehension in the Friar camp. But this year it's a little different. You see, last season Assumption defeated the Friars for the first time in their 21-year relationship so it can be assumed the present P.C. team will be well prepared.

P.C. Intramural Meet Scheduled Today

The Spiked Shoe Club of Providence College will sponsor its first annual intramural track meet at Hendricken Field this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The meet has been designed as a battle among regional clubs on the campus, with more than 10 such clubs already entered.

The mile will head the strictly novice meet, which isn't open to varsity athletes. The other events are: high jump, shot put, 50-yard dash, 45-yard hurdles, 300-yard run, 660-yard run and a four-lap relay. Individual awards and a team trophy will be presented to the winners.

Any club that can capture the trophy for three years will retire it.

Mineola, L. I. School Wins In P. C. Invitational Relays

Jay "Red" Bowers, anchor runner of Chaminade High School, Mineola, L.I., nipped Joe Cloidt of Mt. St. Michael's High School, Bronx, N.Y. by a stride at the tape and enabled the Mineola four-mile relay team to capture the eighth annual Providence College invitational interscholastic relay yesterday on the P.C. board track.

Chaminade's victory in the event, based on time, came in the second heat of a three-race program. The winning time for the Mineola quartet was 18:57.5, just 4.3 seconds off the meet record made by St. John's Prep of Brooklyn in 1954.

Mike Barry of Mt. St. Michael's set the early pace in the middle heat and had a five-yard lead at the end of 11 laps, with Chaminade's Mickey Magee second and Larry Reilly of Fordham Prep third. Tom Carroll of Fordham immediately took command, and with a 4:30.6 mile, fastest of the day, led by 20 yards as the third leg got under way. Mt. St. Michael's was in second spot and Chaminade third.

Comes from Last

Greg Rinn of Fordham lengthened the lead to 30 yards on the third lap, with the other two teams keeping their positions. On the sixth lap of the final leg Cloidt took over the lead from Dennis Berberich of Fordham, with Bowers in third place. On the gun lap Bowers passed Berberich and then set out after Cloidt. He caught the Mt. St. Michael runner a yard from the tape, giving Chaminade the victory in the heat. Bowers was timed in 4:35.9 for the mile. Jim Kelly and Brian Lambert complete the lineup of Chaminade.

St. Francis Prep of the Bronx, a pre-race favorite, took the lead on the second leg of the third heat and held on for a decision in that heat. But the winning time of 18:59.6 was not enough to displace either Chaminade or Mt. St. Michael's and St. Francis had to settle for third spot. Fordham Prep was fourth. Mt. St. Michael's is coached by Howie Borck, who coached at La Salle in 1936.

North Providence won the first heat, an all-Rhode Island lineup, in 19:53.9. Pete Martucci was lead off man for the Cougars, with Vin Dexter, Mike Testa and Walter Whittingslow completing the quartet. St. Raphael Academy finished second in the heat, with Classical third and Mount Pleasant fourth. Whittingslow had the best individual time in the heat, finishing the mile in 4:53.9.

La Salle's quartet of Bob Cooper, John Riley, Karl Steimle and Vin Iacono, competing in the final heat of the meet, finished in fourth place behind St. Francis, Archbishop Stepanic High School of White Plains and Cardinal Hayes High School of New York City. Iacono had the best individual time among Rhode Island participants, finishing the 11-laps in 4:50.

The summary:

Won by Chaminade (Magee, Kelly, Lambert, Bowers); 2. Mt. St. Michael (Barry, Sullivan, Clarke, Cloidt); 3. St. Francis Prep (Davis, Hegarty, Kennedy, Rorke); 4. Fordham Prep (Reilly, Carroll, Rinn, Berberich); 5. Archbishop Stepanic (Dempsey, Scully, Verdisco, Christiansen); 6. Cardinal Hayes (Davis, Kennedy, McMahon, O'Brien); 7. St. John's Prep (Kealy, Zagarella, O'Brien, Schuster); 8. La Salle (Cooper, Riley, Steimle, Iacono); 9. North Providence (Martucci, Dexter, Testa, Whittingslow); 10. St. Raphael (N. Dubuc, Jeffrey, D. Dubuc, Brennan); 11. Hartford Public High School (Cross, Barselam, Russell, Lossiter); 12. Classical (Bernstein, Lombardo, Nordquist, Petitpas); 13. Mount Pleasant (Iannetta, Magnani, McDermott, Marciano). Winning time — 18:57.5.

Romps, 11-0, Against Forces of P.C., Brown and Scarlets

The United States hockey team, which will represent this country in the world championships in February in Russia, displayed its wares at R.I. Auditorium last night with an 11-0 victory over the combined forces of Providence College, Brown and the R.I. Scarlets before 1,700 fans.

Eddie Zifcak, former All-Stater from Burrillville High School and later of St. Lawrence College in New York, got two goals for the United States team.

In the first period, playing against the Scarlets, the visitors scored three times. The U.S. team added five against Providence College in the second period and three in the final period against Brown.

Harry Batchelder, Brown's talented goalie, gave the U.S. team a hard time though he did give up three tallies. But he kicked out 18 shots, many of them from close range.

Jackie Hunt, former St. Raphael Academy goalie, turned in a creditable showing in the first period as he kicked out 13 shots and gave up three tallies. Tom Woodcock, the Reds' assistant trainer, came the closest to getting a goal for the Combines. The Scarlet forward fired a hard shot at Willard Ikola from 12 feet out that Ikola barely turned back with his skate.

Off their showing last night, the U.S. team looms as a strong representative for the impending games in Russia. Bill Cleary, former Harvard star, and holder of the intercollegiate scoring record, displayed some nifty stick-handling. He tallied a goal and an assist.

Zifcak got his two goals in the second period. His first came at 9:14 as he unloaded a backhand from six feet out that goalie Phil Crawford of P.C. failed to get. Then Zifcak scored again at 18:18 of the period during a gang attack. Ed picked up a rebound during the onslaught and shot it home.

In the preliminary game, Providence College Freshmen defeated the National Hornets of the R.I. Junior Hockey League by a 4-2 score. The young Friars broke a 2-2 tie with a pair of third-period goals.

P.C. Opens Basketball Season This Afternoon Against Assumption

Friars to Start Strong Team Of Veterans

By JOE McHENRY

The Providence College Friars, who were "surprised" by the Assumption Greyhounds in an early-season game last year, should be in a revengeful mood as they open their season today at Alumni Hall with the Greyhounds as their guests.

Coach Joe Mullaney has a stronger squad this season, one that has had a full year of training and playing under his direction, and will start an all-veteran team. The Friars have been scooting up and down Alumni Hall with precision and sharpness and figure to be ready for the Worcester squad.

The Friars have been meeting the Greyhounds almost annually for many years but it wasn't until last season that Assumption managed to slip over a 60-57 victory on its home court. The Friars' Mullaney wouldn't expect that from an old buddy and teammate like Andy Laska, who also played at Holy Cross, but those things happen in the coaching business.

Easier Said

Since the Friars topped Notre Dame last year, many think they should roll over their New England foes for the most part. That's much easier said than done as most schools have good coaching and good players in today's game. Assumption is fairly strong and while the Friars will be favored, it could be quite a battle.

Capt. Joe O'Brien and Dan Gearin put in key shots in last year's victory and both have been named starters for the Greyhounds along with Herb Dyson, Ron Goba and Fred Scollen. All these men figured in last season's game in which Assumption won out in the final five minutes.

The constant practice and persistent effort Gordie Holmes has upped his status with the Friars and Coach Mullaney plans on starting him today. Holmes, well grounded in basketball fundamentals, has been playing well in the workouts and works into Mullaney's team offense effectively.

The Friars had two pre-season workouts against college opposition, scrimmaging Harvard last week and the University of Massachusetts, coached by another former Cross star, Bobby Curran. Mullaney said the play was better against the Crimson. The outside work helped in many ways, the PC coach explained.

Ritch Sharp

John Ritch, the Friars' captain this season and their "big man" for two years, is showing outstanding leadership and skill and will be a much more important cog in the Friars' attack and defense this season. He led the scorers in one scrimmage while Mike Pascale topped them in the other.

The Providence College lineup will include Ritch, junior Frank Tirico, Eddie Donahue, who has made a fine comeback from a serious illness two years ago, Pascale, PC's top scorer, and Holmes. Lionel Jenkins has been ill and Mullaney is going slow with his conditioning.

The Assumption Jayvees and the Friar Freshmen, reportedly a strong group, will open the program at 1:30, with the varsity encounter starting at 3 p.m. This is the first of two Sunday encounters scheduled by the Friars for their home court, one of the finest playing surfaces in the East.

Assumption Surprises Friar

Quintet in 57-to-56 Overtime

Outhustled P.C. Blows Lead in Final Seconds

By PETE McCARTHY

Assumption's Dan Gearin went from goat to hero in 41 seconds as the Greyhounds from Worcester upset Providence College, 57-56, in overtime yesterday in the basketball opener for both schools at the Friars' Alumni Hall.

With 41 seconds left to play and P.C. leading, 54-53, Gearin and Mike Pascale and the Friar sharpshooter converted twice and gave P.C. a three-point lead. Eleven seconds later, however, Gearin was fouled by Gordie Holmes and he sank both free throws, putting Assumption back within a point of a tie.

Then, with the crowd of 2,000 yelling itself hoarse, the Friars attempted to control the ball and kill the clock. With Assumption striving desperately to gain possession, Joe Sweeney fouled Pascale. The clock showed only eight seconds left and this appeared to be all the Friars needed to wrap up the victory.

But Pascale missed the free throw and the Greyhounds grabbed the rebound after a bit of a struggle under the basket. They quickly fed to Gearin, who broke over the center line, dribbled to the right side and fired his one-hander clean through the hoop. The final buzzer sounded just as the ball dropped to the floor.

Thriller

Hectic Game

It was an almost unbelievable finish to a hectic ball game wherein the Friars performed well below expectations and the Greyhounds outhustled them practically all the way. The action was rough in spots, with a good deal of contact. Fifty personal fouls were assessed, 30 against Assumption and 20 against P.C., but the Friars were unable to capitalize fully from the foul line. They converted only 32 of 51 chances, whereas the Greyhounds sank 23 free throws in 33 tries.

The Friars also had difficulty moving the ball with any consistency and their shooting suffered in proportion. They made good on only 12 shots from the floor in 52 attempts. Percentage-wise, the Greyhounds' marksmanship was no better but they took at least 25 more shots. In fact, had the visitors been hitting more consistently in the first half, the Friars might have been out of contention long before the end of the regulation play.

As it was, P.C. made only three baskets during the first 18 minutes of play and trailed by 11 points, 17-28, before a rally paced by Frank Tirico, Capt. John Ritch and Pascale enabled the Friars to pull up at 25-28 at halftime. It had been tit for tat during the first 10 minutes, with the lead changing hands constantly before Capt. Joe O'Brien, Ron Gabo, Buddy Masterson and Herb Dyson went on a spree that put the Greyhounds well out front. During this stretch the visitors had much the better of the rebounding under both baskets.

Friars Take Command

The Friars took command immediately after the start of the second half and moved ahead, 31-28, after two and a half minutes on points by Holmes, Pascale and Donahue. They couldn't hang onto the lead, however, as O'Brien and Dyson combined in putting the Greyhounds out front again, 40-39, at the 5½-minute mark.

Donahue restored the Friars to the driver's seat with two free throws, Ritch added a basket and then Donahue and Holmes supplied three more points from the foul line. That made it 46-40 with 10 minutes remaining and it looked, to all intents and purposes, that the Friars were now on their way.

But the Greyhounds refused to fold and their everlasting hustle made the Friars lose their poise. P.C.'s lead fluctuated from two to five points and the Greyhounds kept plugging away until they finally tied it up at 49-49, on Fred Scollan's basket with 2:20 remaining. Pascale put P.C. ahead with a one-hander from the side but Masterson matched it with a driving layup.

Donahue was fouled with 1:19 to go but he missed and there followed a mad scramble until the Friars gained possession with less than a minute remaining. Tirico held the ball near center court as the Greyhounds made no effort to play the ball. Then with six seconds left, P.C. called a timeout to set up an out-of-bounds play. But this backfired as Gearin intercepted the pass-in and drove down court for a desperation shot that missed as time ran out.

O'Brien Leads Scorers

The excessive fouling took its toll on both clubs. P.C. lost Ritch on five fouls at the 8:28 mark of the second half and Assumption lost O'Brien and Dyson before the end of regulation play.

O'Brien led all scorers with 21 points and Pascale topped the Friars with 17.

It marked the second straight year that Coach Andy Laska of Assumption has upset his former Holy Cross teammate, Joe Mulaney. Last season the Greyhounds jolted the Friars, 60-57, marking the first Assumption victory in the 21-year series with P.C.

In the preliminary game, the P.C. Freshmen romped to a 61-27 victory over the Assumption junior varsity. Wally DiMasi paced the Friarlets with 21 points. Len Wilkins scored 12 and Phil Aylward, former St. Raphael All-Stater, tallied 12.

Soph-Studded Friar Sextet Set to Entertain Harvard

By BOB ENGLERT

Tom Eccleston takes the wraps off his first Providence College hockey team at the Auditorium tonight when he sends his young Friars against the talent-laden Harvard in the opening game of the season for both clubs.

Bowing in against the three-time Ivy League champions might be likened to leading with your chin but schedule-making isn't the easiest job in the world these days and the Friars had little choice in their desire for an early season game.

Facing the Crimson, though, doesn't disturb Eccleston. He'll field an inexperienced, sophomore-studded club that he feels is at least a year and possibly two years away from reaching its full potential. But the Friars should pick up the needed savvy quicker meeting clubs of Harvard's calibre than they would playing some of the smaller and less talented teams in this area.

"We'll win some games and we'll lose a lot of others," Eccleston said yesterday. "We're a sophomore club and will make mistakes. I'm not looking for any miracles this season."

Eccleston's biggest problem, other than getting the players to adapt themselves to his position style of play and pass patterns, is in goal where two sophomores Tom Girard and Jim Toon, and senior Phil Crawford are battling for the job. All three have fine potential but thus far they've failed to hit their stride.

Offensively and defensively the Friars should do all right. Mike McDonough, the only starting senior unless Crawford gets the call in goal, will open at defense with Red Rabitor, onetime Burrillville All-Stater. They're steady and dependable and any relief they need will be provided by Ray Zifcak, a sophomore, and junior Ray Blanchette, a rugged 200-pounder who could develop into one of the best defensemen the Friars ever have had.

Sophomore Wings

Up front it will be sophs Joe Barile and George Boudreau, and Lou LaFontaine, a talented junior who has been looking great in practice. The Friar second line will consist of the Labbe twins, Ray and Bob, and Ray Domingue. These boys have been skating as a unit for the past five seasons — four at St. Dominic's of Lewiston, Me., and with the P.C. Freshmen last year — and show high promise.

Eccleston plans on using still another line which has Mike Lovett, another Burrillville All-Stater, centering for Ted Carter, also from Burrillville, and Capt. Bernie McCrink, the former La Salle luminary. Jim Ford and Al McMahan will be the spare forwards.

Harvard, ranked fifth in a pre-season poll of Eastern College coaches, is rated only behind Boston College in New England and figures to have another strong team. The defense could stand bolstering as the result of ineligibility and illness that has deprived Coach Cooney Weiland of veterans John Copeland and Dan Ulyot.

Lack of Experience
In their absence, he'll start Woody Harris and Dick McLaughlin, two football players who only recently joined the squad. Neither has had any varsity experience and the same holds true for their replacements, Pete Bragdon and Bill DeFord.

The Crimson is well set in goal where Capt. Jim Bailey will hold forth, and up front where Weiland has a number of veteran forwards. Most notable of these are juniors Bob Cleary, a brother of the famous Bill Cleary, Bob McVay and Lyle Guttu. They accounted for 48 goals last year and will start on the forward line.

In a preliminary game at 6:30 p.m., the P.C. Freshmen will play Burrillville High School.

Talented P.C. Sextet Making Bow Against Harvard at Arena Tonight

By BOB ENGLERT

Providence College's hockey team makes its eagerly awaited debut at the Auditorium tonight when it takes on Harvard's Ivy League champions, in a game that also will be the first start of the year for the Crimson.

This fifth meeting in the brief hockey rivalry between the schools also will serve as Tommy Eccleston's baptism of fire in college-coaching ranks. The former Burrillville High School mentor has moved into the vacancy created last year by the resignation of Dick Rondeau.

One of the most-successful schoolboy coaches in the East, Eccleston's acceptance of the P.C. post sent hockey enthusiasm soaring on Smith Hill and though he's blessed with a squad that oozes raw talent, Eccleston warned yesterday not to expect any miracles this season.

"We're a sophomore club that is at least a year and possibly two years away from being a real good team," he said. "The players will make mistakes, that's to be expected from an inexperienced club." Then, jokingly, he added "and I'll probably make more mistakes than they will."

Improving

Eccleston's major problem has been orientating the players to his position style of play and pass patterns. It took a while for the squad to catch on but Tommy feels they have been making rapid strides of late and will improve as the season moves along. He's more than satisfied with their progress.

Against Harvard, which has won the Ivy League crown for the last three years and is favored to repeat this season, Eccleston will start a team that includes two sophomores, two juniors and one senior, not counting the goalie post, which is still pretty much of a tossup among two sophomores, Dom Girard and Jim Toomey, and a senior, Phil Crawford.

The lone senior is Iron Mike McDonough, steady and dependable defenseman who will team with Red Rabitor, a junior who was one of Eccleston's brightest pupils at Burrillville a few seasons back. Ray Zifcak, another Eccleston product, and big Ray Blanchette from Notre Dame of Berlin, N. H., also are slated for heavy duty at the points.

Handling the Friar offense, which Eccleston says could be one of the team's strong points, will be Joe Barile, Lou LaFontaine and George Boudreau on the starting line. Barile and Boudreau are sophomores and LaFontaine is a junior.

The Labbe twins, Ray and Bob and Ray Domingue, who have played together for five years now—four at St. Dominic's of Lewiston, Maine, and last year on the P.C. freshmen club—will work on the second line and Eccleston will use Mike Lovett, Ted Carter and Bernie McCree as a third attacking wave.

Harvard, coached by Cooney Weiland, former star with the Boston Bruins, will open with a veteran club with the exception of defense where ineligibility and illness have presented Weiland with unexpected problems.

Three Lines

Because of the unavailability of veterans John Copeland and Dan Ulyot, Harvard will start Woody Harris and Dick McLaughlin at defense. Both are football players who only recently joined the squad and neither has had any previous varsity experience. Their replacements, Pete Bragdon and Bill DeFord, are sophomores up from the freshmen squad.

Harvard is strong up front, though, and will skate three lines, headed by the Bill Cleary, Lyle Guttu, Bob McVey wave. They're juniors who accounted for 48 goals last year and Weiland is high on them.

George Higginbottom and Dick Fischer and Ed Owen from Minnesota, all sophomores, will form the second line. Weiland has a flock of candidates from which to select a third unit.

In a preliminary game at 6:30 p.m., the P.C. Freshmen will meet Burrillville High School, which has Eccleston's son, Tommy Jr., playing at defense.

Providence Club Takes Trophy In Track Meet

12/7/56

Four former La Salle Academy athletes played feature roles as the Providence Club won the team trophy yesterday in the first annual intramural novice track meet sponsored by the Spiked Shoe Club at Providence College.

The Providence Club scored 36 points. The Metropolitan New York Club was second with 14 points, the Greater Boston Club third with 10 and the Waterbury, Conn., Club fourth with eight. In all, 20 of the clubs on the campus competed, with about 60 individual entries.

Former La Sallians scoring for the Providence Club were Paul Coleman, who won the featured mile in five minutes, 27 seconds; Pat Conley, who won the high jump and the low hurdles, ran a leg on the winning four-lap relay team and was second in the 45-yard dash; Jim Healey, the former Maroon baseball player, who won the dash, finished second in the hurdles and anchored the winning relay quartet, and Jim O'Brien, who ran on the relay team.

R. I. Quintets Have Lost Weekend

By PETE MCCARTHY

College basketball hereabouts got off to a most-inauspicious start over the weekend as Brown, Rhode Island and Providence College all were victims in their opening games.

Saturday night the Bruins bowed to Boston College, 76-59, and URI was snowed under by St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, one of the Eastern powers, 81-41; and the Friars were upset, 57-56, in overtime yesterday afternoon by Assumption College of Worcester.

Of the three, the PC defeat was the most shocking, in view of the potential the largely veteran Friar team had shown in preseason practice sessions and scrimmages with other college squads. But against the hustling Greyhounds yesterday Coach Joe Mullaney's Friars just couldn't get together. Their offense lacked cohesion and they were outfought for rebounds most of the way.

Cashing In

Nevertheless, they still appeared to have the decision in pocket both during the regulation play and later in the extra five-minute period. But in the closing seconds of both periods they simply lost their poise and the fighting Greyhounds cashed in on their opportunity.

The hero of the day was Dan Gearin, a senior who could well have been the goat had PC won. First Gearin saved the day by intercepting the ball as the Friars were attempting to start a play from out of bounds with six seconds remaining in regulation play and the score tied at 51-all.

Then in the overtime period, with PC leading, 54-53, with 41 seconds to go, Gearin fouled Mike Pascale and the latter converted twice, giving the Friars a three-point bulge. But Gearin was determined to make amends. He was fouled by Gordie Holmes with 30 seconds left and he sank both free throws, putting the Greyhounds back in business again.

One-Hander

With PC striving to control the ball, Joe Sweeney fouled Pascale eight seconds from the end but Mike missed the shot and Assumption won out in the scrap for the rebound. Gearing took the passout and dribbled down the right side with the Friars in hot pursuit. About 15 feet from the hoop, he stopped, drew a quick bead and then let fly with a one-hander that swished through the netting a second before the final buzzer.

Gearin was mobbed by his joyous teammates, who now have given their coach, Andy Laska, two straight upset victories over his former Holy Cross teammate. Prior to last season's 60-57 triumph, Assumption had lost all 20 games to the Friars in their series.

The Greyhounds, with Capt. Joe O'Brien and freshman Buddy Masterson leading the way, had built up a 28-17 lead in the first half before the Friars pulled up to 25-28 at halftime. Frank Tirico, Capt. John Ritch and Pascale were the leaders in this surge.

PC built up a six-point lead at 46-40, midway in the second half but was overtaken by the Greyhounds two minutes before the finish. O'Brien led the scorers with 21 points, four more than Pascale.

Frosh Romp

Ernie Calverley's PC freshman quintet romped to a 61-27 victory over the Assumption junior varsity. Wally DiMasi, Len Wilkins and Phil Aylward paced the Friarlets.

Coach Jack Guy's Rams had the misfortune of running into one of the East's top teams in their opener against the Hawks. Kurt Englebert almost matched URI's total output as he racked up 33 points. This week the Rams entertain Boston College Wednesday night and visit Brown Saturday. The Bruins will make another trip to the Boston area Wednesday to play Northeastern.

Providence College makes its annual New York pilgrimage this weekend, meeting Adelphi Friday night and St. Francis of Brooklyn Saturday.

In hockey, Brown entertains Northeastern tomorrow night and visits Boston College Friday. Providence College opens its season Thursday against Harvard at the Auditorium and plays at Princeton Saturday.

PRINCETON—Louis La Fontaine and Paul Sainato scored two goals apiece as Providence College's hockey team skated to a 5-2 victory over Princeton at Baker Rink yesterday.

With the Tigers ahead, 1-0, Sainato took a pass from Alf McMahon and tallied on a seven-foot shot at 2:13 of the first period. Then in the closing seconds of the frame, Sainato broke a 2-2 deadlock when he scored from in close on assists from McMahon and Bernard McCrink at 19:59.

Banished

McCrink, who was banned from the game after fighting with Princeton goalie Dave Robinson at the end of the first period, La Fontaine tallied on an assist by George Boudreau in the second period, and unassisted in the third.

Friar Hockey Team Outhustles Harvard for 6-3 Upset Victory

Success Greets Eccleston in Debut at Helm

By BOB ENGLERT

Sophomore-studded Providence College, showing tremendous spirit and drive, turned in the first big surprise of the Eastern collegiate hockey season at the Auditorium last night when it shocked highly-regarded Harvard, 6-3, in the opening game for both clubs.

The young Friars, rated in an eighth-place tie with Princeton in a preseason poll of Eastern college coaches, simply outhustled the fifth-ranked Crimson and for the most part, kept the pressure on all the way.

It was P.C.'s second victory in five meetings with Harvard and a great beginning for Tom Eccleston, the former Burrillville High School mentor, who was making his debut as coach of the Friars. The only previous Providence triumph over Harvard came in December of 1955 when it edged the Crimson, 5-4, at Boston Garden.

The entire Friar squad contributed to the conquest, which had the 1,537 fans in a continual uproar in the final period as P.C. started to widen the gap after going into the stanza with a 3-2 lead. After the game Eccleston refused to single out any individual player for praise and you could hardly blame him when a look at the summary revealed that six different players accounted for the goals.

The Friars opened with a furious charge that kept the puck in the Harvard end for most of the first 10 minutes but the Crimson maintained its poise and bided its time and finally struck for the game's first goal at 12:38.

It was a pretty play set up by Dick Fischer, who shoveled a pass through the P.C. defense to Bob Cleary near the edge of the crease. Cleary then pushed the puck to Lyle Guttu who beat Dom Girard, the Friars' soph netminder, from close up.

Still driving, P.C. carried the play to Harvard in the second period and quickly tied the score. Lou LaFontaine, brilliant all the way, tucked in a six-footer after 25 seconds of play on a pass from Joe Barile. The noise had barely subsided when the Friars scored again and once out front they refused to yield.

Ray Labbe got the goal at 1:48 after stealing the puck deep in the Harvard end. Jim Bailey, Crimson goalie, saved on Labbe's initial shot but Ray's twin, Bob, picked up the loose puck and passed back to Ray who didn't fail on his second try.

The Labbes and their linemate, Gil Domingue, were back at it again at 12:58 and this time Bob got credit for the score when he deflected Red Rabitor's long drive, from just inside the blue line, into the Harvard cage. Domingue had passed the puck to Rabitor during a spirited P. C. offensive.

Harvard, frustrated for the most part by the constant for-checking of the Friars and the tight defending of Rabitor, Mike McDonough, Ray Blanchette and Ray Zifeak, got back into contention at 16:54 when Cleary set up Paul Kelly with a deft pass as Kelly came in close from the right side.

After Al McMahon and Jim Ford, reserve forwards, had done a great penalty-killing job while Blanchette was cooped in the early minute of the third period, the Friars proceeded to wrap up the game.

George Boudreau at 4:05, and McDonough at 7:13, lifted Providence into a 5-2 lead and at 11:32, McMahon, on pure hustle, added insult to injury by scoring while the Friars were short-handed. The Crimson's goal came in the last 15 seconds on a blistering 50-footer by George Higginbottom.

Bailey, who had 19 saves in the Harvard goal, received a cut on the head late in the game that required two stitches. It came on a rising shot by Ted Carter.

The Friar Freshmen made it a perfect night for Eccleston by downing Burrillville, 5-4.

Sextet Esprit Light to See

By JOHN HANLON

Tom Eccleston's inaugural last night as Providence College's hockey coach was a ball, to hike this up a touch, and his young men showed a typical Ecclestonian—and most appalling—drive and hustle in defeating Harvard. Hardly anyone who knows Tom, however, expected anything less.

HANLON

But at least a few members of the Friars' official family had their moments of quandary. Hockey, of course, is a relatively-new venture for the Friars and not all in the tribe have made their peace with the sport.

Take Vin Cuddy, for instance. Vin is PC's former basketball coach, now an administrator in athletics, and he was on hand for the opening. Shortly after the start, a puzzled look came across Vin's face as the teams lined up for a faceoff. "Which ones," he asked, as only an ex-basketball coach could ask, "are jumping center?"

Another person who had his moments was the Rev. Herman Schneider, who is what might be described as the faculty head-holder for the squad. He was so nervous he hid out among the spectators at the start, but, when found, provided a full exposition of the surge of the game, in short form.

"I'm scared of this one," he said after the first period. Harvard had a 1-0 at the time. "Now we've got to show whether we have it."

As if on order, the Friars belted home two quick goals, then made it three. Harvard got only one more and young Don Girard in the Friars' cage was positively Bower-like. But Father Schneider wasn't sure.

"This is the one we usually go to pieces in," he said at the start of the third period. He practically quivered as play began.

But, instead of folding, the club got better. Three more goals came to the Friars, to Harvard's one, and Eccleston had a 6-3 victory to show for his first effort after "graduating" to the Friars from his long, starry stay at Burrillville High School.

And as Father Schneider walked out toward the dressing room, he gave the wordless, three-ring sign of approval and, for the first time in the evening, he had some color in his face.

The flush of victory was everywhere, among the Friars. The students, much like a fight crowd, started their applause of appreciation fully 45 seconds from the end and when it was over, a huge bellow of victory rent the air.

In the Friars' locker room, an animal excitement filled the place to overflowing. And none was more charged up by the outcome than Tom Eccleston himself. A man would think that after 22 years of coaching he could take these things more calmly, but, then, if he did, perhaps he wouldn't be the coach he is.

"We," he said afterward, meaning his Burrillville teams, "always had a lot of fire, but I've never seen anything like this gang for spirit."

As indicated, it was almost a fearful thing, the way these Friars charged about the ice. To a man nearing the age when life supposedly begins, it was completely discouraging to see what youth can accomplish on vigor, plus talent.

Possibly the only thing wrong with their entire effort was that scoring a goal brings down such a torrent of affection on the "scoree" that he needs a rest to recover. When Lou Fontaine got the Friars' first one, Joe Barile clamped a paralyzing hug around his neck, for example.

And when Ray Labbe got the second one, his linemates, Gil Domingue and Bob Labbe, smothered him with Gallic fondness. These three, by the way, were linemates back in high school at Lewiston, Maine, and now are in their sixth season as a working combination.

The Labbes are identical twins and their only distinguishing feature is that Ray has a butch haircut and Bob has his long. Or maybe it is Bob who has the butch.

Anyway, all this esprit was a delight to see, but Tom wasn't being carried away by one good game. As he said to all when he came into the dressing room when the deed was done:

"Wonderful job! Just wonderful. But remember —17 more games to go."

Hustle and Drive Give Friar Six Victory Debut

By BOB ENGLERT

Tommy Eccleston wasn't making any predictions today, or changing his estimate of his Providence College hockey team, but there's every indication that his young Friars are going to cause a lot of trouble before the current collegiate season runs its course.

The former Burrillville High School coach said several weeks back that this was one of the most spirited clubs he's ever had and the Friars showed it at the Auditorium last night as they shocked Harvard, 6-3, in a surprisingly well played game for this stage of the campaign.

In giving Eccleston a victory in his college hockey debut, P.C. applied a rather simple formula—HUSTLE. The entire squad, including spare forwards Jim Ford and Al McMahon, who were used mainly as penalty-killers, drove continually and seldom gave the Harvard defense a minute's rest.

No Surprise to Coach

Although obviously pleased by the performance of his team, Eccleston refused to make any rash statements about the future and then disclosed that the way the Friars played came as no surprise to him.

"I told you we had great spirit," he said, accepting congratulations from well-wishers after the game. "I didn't say or do anything special before the game. They were just keyed up and ready to go."

It was strictly a team triumph—six different players accounted for the six goals—but the Friar defense which has been Eccleston's chief concern, deserves praise. Dom Girard, the sophomore goalie, turned in an excellent performance as he kicked out 32 shots, and he had plenty of help from defensemen Mike McDonough, the only starting senior, Red Rabitor, Ray Blanchette and Ray Zifcak.

Friars' took over early in the middle stanza and fought a front-running battle from the second minute on.

LaFontaine got the tying goal after 25 seconds of play and then Ray Labbe put P.C. out front to stay at 1:48 on a play he started by stealing the puck deep in the Harvard end. His brother Bob made it 3-1 at 12:58 by deflecting home Rabitor's 40-footer.

Fine Performer

Bob Cleary, a fine performer in a losing cause, kept the Crimson in the running as he set up Paul Kelly in the 17th minute for Harvard's second goal but any concern in the minds of Friar rooters was erased by Boudreau, in the early minutes of the final period, as he scored on a pretty play with LaFontaine and Barile.

McDonough made it 5-2 at 7:13 and then McMahon got one of the night's biggest ovations when he scored—strictly on hustle—while the Friars were shorthanded. Harvard's final goal came, with 15 seconds remaining, on a 50-footer by George Higginbottom.

Tigers Tomorrow

The Friars will have little time to rest on their laurels because they move on to Princeton for a game with the Tigers tomorrow. Princeton and P.C. were ranked in an eight-place tie by Eastern college coaches in a pre-season poll.

Paul Sainato, a regular last year, and Bob Fillion are scheduled to make the trip in place of Carter and Lovett. Eccleston has a large squad and rather than make any cuts, he plans to alternate his players. He can only dress 15 players, not counting his goalie.

Brown, which got its first victory Tuesday night by beating Northeastern, goes against the top team in New England at the Boston Arena tonight when it faces Boston College in a freshmen-varsity doubleheader.

Kept Pressure On

The top two lines, Lou LaFontaine, Joe Barile and George Boudreau, and the Labbe twins, Ray and Bob, and Gil Domingue, had a hand in the scoring of four goals and although the third wave of Capt. Bernie McCrink, Mike Lovett and Ted Carter, failed to score, it drove continually and kept the pressure on the Crimson.

Harvard, which appeared weak at defense because of the loss of two veterans, grabbed a 1-0 lead in the opening period on a neat score by Dick Fischer but the

3—Friar Hoopsters Win, 79-67

Pascale Leads P.C. in Victory Over Adelphi

Special to the Journal-Bulletin
 Garden City, N.Y. — Providence College's basketball team, with Mike Pascale at the helm, encountered little difficulty last night in trouncing Adelphi, 79-67, for its first victory in two starts this season. The loss was Adelphi's first in three games. Pascale, who posted 28 points, took the Friars out front at the outset and they never were headed. At the end of the first period, they had a 25-9 lead—their largest bulge of the contest, incidentally—and a comfortable 45-31 margin at half-time.

The home team's best threat came in the third period, when it came within seven points of the visitors, but it was quite apparent that the challenge would not go unanswered. Almost immediately the Friars resumed their sharp offensive forays and kept themselves out of reach.

Pascale's Shooting

In scoring his 28 points, Pascale made good on 12 of 23 shots from the floor and four of five from the foul line.

Eddie Donahue, who was next best scorer with 17 points, was successful on nine of 11 shots from the foul line.

Much credit for the triumph also must go to Friar guard John Ritch, who was especially effective under the boards, a phase which the visitors dominated through most of the contest.

Adelphi's biggest point contributor was Vince Quarto, who notched 20 points. It was Quarto, incidentally, who led Adelphi's challenge in the third period.

St. Francis Beats P.C. Five, 73-64

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal
 Brooklyn, N.Y. — St. Francis and three minutes from the end of College of Brooklyn, aided by a slight advantage in height and the sharp-shooting of Anthony D'Elia, last night handed Providence College's basketball forces a 73-64 setback.

D'Elia posted 28 points in leading the game's scorers and the edge his teammates had in height enabled them to control the backboards through most of the game.

The Friars, though never in front, made several serious challenges. With only seven minutes left in the contest, Providence came within two points, at 59-57, and three minutes from the end were only four points behind. Through the final three minutes, however, the visitors, in their overeager attempts to gain possession of the ball, committed numerous fouls, many of which were converted to the advantage of their opponents.

St. Francis kept Providence's top scoring threat, Mike Pascale, under close guard for most of the way, with the result he netted only 13 points. Ed Donahue was top man for the Friars with 18 and Frank Tirico and John Ritch had 13 and 12, respectively.

St. Francis made good on 21 of 32 attempts from the foul line and Providence clicked on 26 of 39.

The game was the first of the season for the home team. Providence, which has played three contests, now has a 1-2 record. St. Francis led, 30-23, at half-time, after having been in command at the end of the first quarter also, 15-11.

The home team jumped off to an early 8-2 advantage, but the Friars cut the gap and closed within a point, at 11-10, with 13 minutes remaining in the half. However, St. Francis, with D'Elia and Al Innis directing the way, increased its margin in the final minutes of the half. D'Elia personally accounted for 19 of St. Francis' 30 points.

Providence Rips Adelphi As Pascale Leads Surge

By JACK E. LEE

Using a two-one-two zone defense to perfection all evening, the Providence College Friars opened their two-game swing through the Metropolitan area on a happy note last night by defeating Adelphi, 79-67, at the Panthers' Garden City court.

Providence, which evened its season's record at 1-1, will meet St. Francis of Brooklyn tonight at the II Corps Armory, Brooklyn.

Mike Pascale, a 6-3 senior from Manual Training High School, spelled the difference on offense for the Providence five with an amazing one-handed jump shot. Pascale connected on 12 of 23 from the field and added four penalty throws to give him a 28-point harvest. Ed Donohue chipped in with 17 to help spark the attack.

Adelphi, in dropping its first contest of the season in three starts, trailed from the outset and could neither match basket for basket with the Friars. Nor could Adelphi control either backboard. Both Providence and Adelphi scored the same number from the field, 27, but Providence's shot seems to have radar in finding their mark.

VINCE QUARTO, a former Newtown High School stand-out, was the only Adelphi player who found the range consistently after entering the game in the first half. Quarto tallied 20 points. Karl Soderstrom and Bernie Ehrlich added 12 apiece while Marty Botwinick notched 11 for Adelphi.

After trailing, 45-31 at halftime, Adelphi made a belated rally and got within seven, 58-51, midway in the second half before Providence took charge for keeps. Manhattan Frosh beat Adelphi in the opener, 93-64.

Friar Six Tops Princeton, 5-2

Goalie Girard Star of P.C.'s 2nd Triumph

Special to the Providence Sunday Journal

Princeton, N.J. — A hustling Providence College hockey team, paced by its third line of Capt. Bernie McCrink, Al McMahon, and Paul Sainato, scored its second victory of the young season by defeating Princeton, 5-2, yesterday afternoon at Baker Rink, Princeton.

The victory by the Friars is also their second over an Ivy League opponent. Harvard fell, 6-3, before Coach Tom Eccleston's sophomore studded sextet on Thursday.

The high flying Friars, after falling behind 1-0 early in the action when Reynolds tallied at the 1:51 mark, roared back with a vengeance. Sainato, who didn't even dress for the Harvard game, got the equalizer in just 24 seconds with assists by McCrink and McMahon.

McCrink put his team in front, 2-1, at 8:14 after passes from Sainato and McMahon but the Tigers pulled even at 13:49 on McLane's tally.

Go Ahead for Keeps

With time running out in the period, the Friars jammed the Princeton zone and Sainato climaxed the attack with a goal just one second from the end. McCrink, who received an assist on the play, was ejected from the game at this point when he hit a Tiger defenseman.

Throughout the final two periods Princeton banged away heavily at the Providence cage but another great performance in the nets by sophomore Don Girard repelled every bid. Girard, who was removed from the game late in the final period, in favor of Phil Crawford, had 33 saves during his tenure in the goal. At least six of his stops bordered on the spectacular.

In contrast, Robinson of Princeton was called on to make only 11 stops in the Tiger nets.

Lou La Fontaine got the other two Friar goals. He converted a pass from George Boudreau at 6:49 of the second period that boosted P.C. into a 4-2 advantage. At the 4:11 mark of the finale the flashy forward clinched the decision with an unassisted tally.

McDonough a Standout

Rough, tough Mike McDonough, hard hitting senior defenseman was Girard's chief assistant in halting the Tigers as he continually broke up their plays and bounced many an enemy forward into the boards.

In a pre-season poll, the Friars and Princeton were

Providence Tops Adelphi, Pascale Nets 28 Points

By Stan Isaacs

Garden City—The will of Providence was aided considerably by a jump shooter named Mike Pascale who scored 28 points and helped the New England college hand Adelphi a 79-67 beating here last night.

It was Adelphi's first loss in the starts, but there was no gloom at the Panther gym following the game. The Adelphi five is not made of unbeatable stuff and things will get worse before they get better if Marty Funk doesn't recover from a hand injury.

Funk, more at home under the basket than in the kitchen, cut himself while washing dishes two weeks ago and the wound hasn't healed enough to allow him to play all out. He appeared during the early moments last night, but was ineffective and sat out the rest of the game.

Providence scored the first four points, hiked its lead to 9-3 and then to 13-7. From that point on, Adelphi never came closer than seven points. The visitors, though outsized, took advantage of a defense that appeared to be a zone, but which was revealed in the clear light of a post-game discussion by coach Joe Mulaney (who did his high school playing at Chaminade) as a "collapsing man-to-man defense which looks like a zone."

Pascale, a senior who has been wowing them around New England for the past few seasons, had little trouble getting screens from his teammates, pogo-sticking and then putting the ball through the basket.

He made them the greater of the evening, but hurt Adelphi most in the third quarter when a six-point spurt by the Panthers cut the score to 58-51. Pascale then made two jump shots and a layup in succession to give the Friars a more comfortable margin again.

Adelphi's only answer to Pascale's popping was sophomore Vin Quarto, who reaches back to the days of the dodo bird for his weapon, the ordinary two-handed set shot. Quarto made 10 of them to lead the home club. Quarto, once he got into the game early in the first quarter, was a take-charge guy, a ball hawk and what the trade used to call, "a city type ball player."

Providence made 27 of 60 field goal attempts. Adelphi made 27 for 70, missing 14 of 27 foul attempts.

Friars, Brown to Tangle in Hockey and Basketball This Week

Ram Quintet Invades N.Y. Saturday Night

By PETE McCARTHY

The opening of the hockey and basketball series between Brown and Providence College, a two-game invasion by Fordham's quintet and an appearance by the University of Rhode Island five in Madison Square Garden will feature the last week of full-scale local college sports activity before the Christmas holidays.

The Bruin and Friar sextets, each of whom scored notable victories last week, will clash tomorrow night at the Auditorium. P.C. has been able to win only one of nine games with Brown so far but the Friars will be the favorites this time. However, their advantage doesn't appear as large as it did a week ago, before the Bruins turned in the first big upset of the Eastern campaign by downing Boston College, New England's ranking college sextet, 6-3.

It was a big one for Coach Jim Fullerton, whose Bruin ranks had been hard hit by graduation and scholastic ineligibility. Goalie Harry Batchelder was the hero of that big upset, coming up with 58 saves.

2 Big Ones For P.C.

The Friars, of course, came up with two major victories themselves as they launched Tom Eccleston's college coaching career. First they upset Harvard, the fifth-ranked sextet in the East, 6-3, and then knocked off another Ivy League rival, Princeton, 5-2. Should be quite a game tomorrow.

The basketball teams of the two schools take over the stage on Wednesday night at Marvel Gym and the Friars of Joe Mullaney will be favored in this one, too. Each club has been able to win only one of its three games so far but the events of the past weekend tend to give the nod to P.C.

After a disappointing performance in their opener, which they lost to Assumption, the Friars showed vast improvement in their two-game swing into New York. They were in command all the way in defeating Adelphi, 79-67, and extended St. Francis College of Brooklyn Saturday night before bowing, 73-64. St. Francis, which has four members on hand from last year's team that gained the semi-finals of the National Invitation Tournament, led by only two points with seven minutes remaining.

Brown's Tebo Injured

Brown coach Stan Ward's problems were compounded by the loss of his scoring star, Joe Tebo, who suffered a sprained ankle in the team's 58-49 loss to URI Saturday night and is not expected to return to action before next week at the earliest. The injury occurred late in the first half and he was sorely missed during the final 20 minutes. Ward will have to rely on several promising though inexperienced sophomores to carry much of the load against P.C.

P. C. Gets Another Nod

By PETE MCCARTHY

For the second straight day Providence College students today were celebrating a victory over Brown. The Friars' basketball team followed the lead of the hockey team 24 hours earlier in producing a 73-61 decision over the Bruins last night at Marvel Gym.

After the hard-fought triumph in the face of surprising Bruin resistance, Coach Joe Mullaney was counting his blessings but he was in no mood to celebrate. His Friars had won, sure. And the final margin of 12 points would seem to be comfortable enough. But the PC coach was not entirely satisfied with the manner in which it was achieved.

The Bruins, weakened by the loss of their scoring star, Joe Tebo, threw up a disconcerting zone defense that kept the Friars from getting set for good shots and as a result the Bears dominated the rebounds and held the lead for the better part of the first 28 minutes.

It wasn't until the Friars went one point up at 48-47 and then forced the Bruins out of their collapsing defensive alignment by holding onto the ball that Mullaney could entertain hopes for a victory. That strategem plus a subsequent all-court press turned the trick as the Friars ran off 11 straight points and the Bruins were never in it thereafter.

Mullaney had high praise for the work of the Bruins, especially that of Jerry Alaimo, who took down scoring laurels with 20 points, limited PC's captain and center, John Ritch, to three baskets, and corralled a major share of the rebounds. Nevertheless the PC coach made no secret of his disappointment in his players' failure to pass more and work the ball in for better shots.

"After all, we expected Brown to use that type of defense and we had geared our offense accordingly in practice," Mullaney said. "But out there tonight we were forcing shots that weren't there. It's hard to explain, really, how it happens in a game when they work so well in prac-

Over Brown

Ward Bewildered

Coach Stan Ward was a bit bewildered by the final outcome after his Bruins had made such a terrific fight of it for almost three quarters of the game. He was pleased with Alaimo's work and that of Capt. John Lyden, Allen Poulsen, his 6'8" sophomore, and Norm Bogar, whom he started in place of the injured Tebo. Bogar chipped in with 11 points, nine of them coming in the first half while the Bruins held the upper hand.

But Stan made no bones about his displeasure at the officiating. He thought there were several bad calls that hurt his club. Actually PC gained its ultimate margin of victory at the foul line, where it converted 25 of 40 free throws whereas the Bruins sank only 13 of 23. Brown was assessed 25 penalties to 14 for the Friars.

Holmes Leads PC Scorers

Gordie Holmes, who led the PC scorers with 16 points, took charge of the payoff drive as he accounted for six of those 11 points, four straight from the foul line. Frank Tirico contributed 15 and scored seven of them in rapid-fire order after the Bruins had made their last big bid with less than five minutes remaining.

PC couldn't wrest the lead from Brown until the 11-minute mark of the first half and then the Friars couldn't hang onto it. Brown tied it up at 35-35 on a basket by Lyden a few seconds before the end of the half. It was touch and go during the early part of the second half and the Bruins enjoyed the biggest lead at 47-44 before the Friars uncorked the drive that sewed up the victory.

The Dancing Friars

TEXT BY BOB ENGLERT—PICTURES BY WILLIAM L. ROONEY

Tommy Eccleston, the Burrillville perfectionist who took over the hockey coaching job at Providence College this year, has turned ballet master.

At least that's the impression a stranger might get if he were to drop in at the R.I. Auditorium one of these afternoons while Eccleston is putting his young Friars through their training paces.

Anyone unfamiliar with the various techniques designed to toughen and strengthen the muscles of the body that come under strain during a rugged hockey game, might think the spirited group cavorting on the ice was part of the Ice Capades' ballet.

With Eccleston in the role of dancing master, the Friars go through a half dozen maneuvers that might come in handy on the dance floor. From the "Conga Line" through the "Follies," the players learn balance, agility, how to stop and start on either foot, how to change direction and a host of other things so necessary to the success of a hockey player.

All this, to Eccleston, spells conditioning. And those who have followed closely the illustrious coaching career of the new P.C. boss man, know he's a stickler for physical fitness among his athletes.

The players themselves, get a big kick out of the dance routines, especially the "Follies."

"That one really kills them," Eccleston says, "but it builds up their leg muscles and is probably the most valuable exercise we go through."

In the "Follies," the players line up in four rows, seven men deep. With Eccleston up front playing the ballet master, the group skates three steps to the left and brakes; skates three steps to the right and brakes, and then repeat the movement both forward and backward.

The "Conga Line" in which the players skate single file crossing their legs, one over the other, is to help the players accustom themselves to turning either right or left with equal dexterity. For some unknown reason, hockey players have a tendency to cut one way and one way only, and they'll do it time and time again as they come down the ice.

There are other routines such as "Figure Eights" and "Stops and Starts," all of which are designed for a purpose. Surprisingly, the players get a kick out of most of them even though they usually come at the end of a busy two-hour workout.

That these conditioning exercises have paid off is evident in P.C.'s record so far this young season. Tuesday night the Friars went against Brown's strong team and made it three wins in three games. Not only did they dance on ice but they had their rooters dancing in the aisles over the 400

Friar Cagers Favored Over Brown Tonight

By PETE McCARTHY

Providence College is batting two-for-two in sports competition against Brown this fall. First it was cross country. Last night it was hockey. Tonight the Friars will be heavily favored to make it three straight, in basketball, against the Bruins at Marvel Gym. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Friars beat the Bruins twice on the court last season and Coach Joe Mullaney has all but two lettermen back from the 1955-56 squad. Brown, which had essentially a sophomore club last season, was expected to be somewhat improved this year but an injury suffered last Saturday by its top scorer, Joe Tebo, has thrown a substantial roadblock into the team's early development.

Tebo, who smashed the school's scoring record as a sophomore last year and finished second in the Ivy League point race, suffered a sprained left ankle in the first half of the Rhode Island game and it proved to be more severe than at first believed. The ankle is encased in a cast and he is getting to classes with the aid of crutches. The present estimate is that he won't be able to return to the lineup until after the Christmas holidays.

The improvement Coach Stan Ward had looked for was to come from his many sophomore prospects and one of them, Norm Bogar, will start in Tebo's place at guard tonight. Another soph, 6'8" Allen Poulsen, will start at center. The other Brown starters will be Captain John Lyden at guard, and Jerry Alaimo and Billy Wadsworth at forwards. Two other sophomores, Ron Harrison and George Forsythe, and junior Max McCreery also are expected to see considerable action tonight.

Each club brings a 1-2 record into the game. Brown has lost to Boston College and URI and holds a victory over Northeastern. The Friars were upset in their opener by Assumption and then broke even in their two-game trip to New York last weekend. They showed decided improvement in both contests as they defeated Adelphi and lost a closely fought game to St. Francis of Brooklyn.

Mullaney, admittedly concerned that his squad might take the Tebo-less Bruins too lightly, will start a veteran team of Captain John Ritch at center, Frank Tirico and Gordie Holmes at guards and Ed Donohue and Mike Pascale at forwards.

Tonight's game affords each school an opportunity to take the lead in the series, which is now deadlocked at 21 games apiece.

Friar Hoopsters Favored; Bruins' Tebo to Miss Tilt

By PETE McCARTHY

The intrastate college basketball series resumes tonight at Marvel Gym where Brown, weakened by the loss of its scoring star, Joe Tebo, will be a decided underdog against Providence College. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The freshman quintets of the two schools will meet in the preliminary game at 6 o'clock.

The loss of Tebo, who suffered a severe ankle sprain in the first half of last Saturday's game with Rhode Island, robs the Bruins of the scoring punch they sorely need against the veteran PC squad that beat them twice last season. Tebo is getting around with the aid of crutches and according to the present estimate, he probably won't be able to return to the lineup until after the Christmas holidays.

Coach Stan Ward has named sophomore Norm Bogar to start in Tebo's backcourt position. Bogar played at length for the first time this season during the second half of the URI contest and Ward was favorably impressed with his work. Capt. John Lyden, whose loss on fouls midway in the second half of the Rhody contest hurt the Bruins appreciably, will start at the other guard post. Allen Poulsen, 6' 8" sophomore, will open at center and Jerry Alaimo and Billy Wadsworth will be the starting forwards.

Good Club

"We're playing a pretty good ball club," Ward commented before practice yesterday. "Our chances will depend on the work of our front line. They'll have to score more than they have been. Our four top players in those positions scored only a total of 17 points against Rhode Island."

Ward indicated he will go to his reserves early if the starters can't hold their own and among the former group, sophomores Ron Harrison, and George Forsythe and junior Max McCreery are expected to see considerable action.

Francis of Brooklyn had they played sounder basketball. He doesn't believe his veteran players have approached the class they showed during their strong 9-2 finish last season and expressed fears that his club might tend to let down against the Tebo-less Bruins tonight.

The PC starting lineup comprises Captain John Ritch at center, Ed Donahue and Mike Pascale at forwards, and Gordie Holmes and Frank Tirico at the guards. The Friars' leading reserves include sophs Pete Schementi, Ken Clements and Dick Bessette and junior Lionel Jenkins.

The basketball series between the Bruins and the Friars stands all square at 21 victories apiece.

Each club brings a 1-2 record into tonight's game but in the Friars' case there has been a gradual improvement in overall team performance since they were upset in their opener by Assumption, 57-56, in overtime. Brown has lost to Boston College and URI and holds a victory over Northeastern.

Better Shooting

The Friars displayed better shooting in defeating Adelphi but Coach Joe Mullaney feels his Friars could have beaten St.

Yearly-Season Classic: Rival defensemen in tonight's Auditorium clash between the strong Providence College and Brown hockey teams will be Mike McDonough of the Friars, left, and George Delaney, Bruins' captain.

Friar-Bruin Hockey Battle Tonight at Arena Shapes Up as Humdinger

By EARL LOPQUIST
Brown plays Providence College at the Auditorium tonight in what promises to be a fine game of college hockey. The variety contest goes on at 8:30. A preliminary game between the freshmen of the two institutions is scheduled for 6:30.
Owning victories over Harvard and Princeton, Providence College has not been defeated on ice since Tom Eccleston of Burrillville High School fame started coaching the team this season.

Although the Friars are favored, Eccleston regards the game as a toss-up. He could be right.
Both teams depend heavily on sophomores, and for both, the sophomores have been producing.
The Providence College victory over Harvard last Saturday was regarded as the first major upset of the college hockey season, as Harvard had been rated the second-best team in New England by coaches in a preseason poll.

Then on Friday night, 24 hours after the Friars had upset Harvard, Brown came up with an even bigger upset by defeating Boston College, which had been rated New England's best.
Brown has won its last two games after having been defeated by Boston University in the opener. Before taking Boston College by surprise, the Bruins had topped Northeastern.

The experts gave Brown a low rating because it was felt that the team had lost much of its scoring punch through graduation and academic attrition. It is in this department, getting the puck into the net, that the sophomores have performed beyond all expectation.

Rod Dashnaw, a junior and one of the best centers in the Ivy League, leads the team in scoring with three goals and three assists. Right behind him are three sophomores, Don Herbert (3-3-6), Dick Haskell (4-1-5) and Dick Cleary (2-1-3).

Jim Fullerton, the Brown coach, has one of the best goalies in college hockey in junior Harry Batchelder. He made 58 saves as his team was defeating Boston College.

Deep in Talent
Providence College has a sophomore in the nets, Dom Girard, but he is very good, having made the All-New England team while a schoolboy in Lewiston. He was up to all demands made on him in the two games he has played for the Friars this season.

So deep is Eccleston in talent, he does not intend to dress what has been his second line of Gil Domingue and wings Bob and Ray Labbe. This is in no sense a demotion or a matter of dissatisfaction. Rather, following plans made before the season, Eccleston means to see every man on his squad play under game conditions. Tonight he will use a line of Mike Lovett, Ted Carter and Buzz Boisvert, who worked together as a unit four years at Burrillville.

The game will be the ninth between Brown and Providence College. Brown has won eight, Providence one.

PC-Brown Ice Clash

Rated Tossup

Each Six Has Power, Drive

By BOB ENGLERT

Two clubs that have made a pre-season poll of Eastern College hockey coaches look downright silly, collide at the Auditorium tonight when Brown and Providence College meet in the opening game of their annual intrastate series.

Held in light regard by rival coaches before the season got under way, all that the Bruins and the Friars have done in the past six days is knock off the two top-rated sextets in New England, Boston College and Harvard.

P.C. started the pot boiling here last Thursday when it shocked Harvard, 6-3, and then Brown boosted Little Rhody's collegiate hockey prestige the following night in Boston when it upset Boston College, No. 1 in New England and third in the East, by a similar score.

Looms As Close Clash

Off those two outstanding performances, tonight's clash looms as a close one. Normally the Friars would rate an edge but Brown's triumph over B.C., plus the continued brilliance of goalie Harry Batchelder, has completely altered the picture.

Tommy Eccleston, who in his college coaching debut, has seen his Friars win their first two games — they added a triumph over Princeton to their Harvard conquest — is expecting a close, hard fought game.

George Boudreau up front, Iron Mike McDonough and Red Rabinator at defense and sophomore Dom Girard in goal, will remain intact but Eccleston plans a shift in his reserves.

What has been P.C.'s second line, Gil Domingue and the Labbe twins, Bob and Ray, will not dress. This may shock Friar rooters but Eccleston has an understandable explanation.

Sticks To Plan

"I'll probably get killed for doing it," Eccleston said, "but before the season started I mapped out a plan whereby every boy on the squad would get a chance to play in a game before I made up my mind on the final makeup of our squad. It just so happened that this game is the one the Domingue line will sit out.

In their place, P.C. will skate a wave of Mike Lovett, Ted Carter and Buzzy Boisvert. Carter and Lovett sat out the Princeton game but this will mark Boisvert's first appearance. As schoolboys at Burrillville, the trio skated together for four seasons.

Capt. Bernie McCrink, Al McMahon and Paul Sainato, who teamed on three of the five goals against Princeton, will again work as a unit and probably skate as the No. 2 line. Sainato, who didn't dress for Harvard, scored twice against the Tigers.

"It looks like a tossup," he said yesterday. "Brown is a smartly coached club with a lot of hustle and a great goalie in Batchelder. I feel we've got to score three or four goals to win and that won't be easy with Batchelder in the nets."

Jim Fullerton, coach at Brown, said that the Bruins will have to come up with another Boston College performance to beat P.C.

"If we can duplicate the B.C. game, we might do it," he said. "But the question is: Can I get two such games in a row out of the inexperienced squad I have? It should be a slam-bang battle."

Fullerton, admittedly tickled over his team's play in its last two games (Northeastern and B.C.), will again rely mainly on his top two lines and use a third wave in various situations.

Undecided on Starters

He's undecided on which of the top lines will start but they'll consist of Rod Dashnaw centering for wings Don Higgins and Don Herbert and Bob Saltonstall making the plays for Dick Haskell and Art Cleary. Spare forwards Pete Gray and Don Woodley will be worked in on a third line that currently is made up of Hugo Mainelli, Marsh Williams and Lud Miller.

Capt. George Delaney and Kevit Cook will open at defense with Batchelder in goal. Fran Newell and the fast-improving sophomore, Dave Morton, will provide relief at the points for Delaney and Cook.

The Friars starting sextet of Lou LaFontaine, Joe Barile and Blanchette, the big sophomore, and Ray Zifcak, John Cullen who like Boisvert, will be making his first game appearance of the season.

The varsity clash, scheduled for 8:30 p.m., will follow the game between the freshmen teams of the two schools which is scheduled to start at 6:30 o'clock.

One Way to Do It . . . Don Girard, Providence College goalie, leaves his cage and smothers shot by Don Herbert of Brown in hockey game last night at Auditorium.

won by Friars, 4-2. Don Woodley (14) and two P.C. men, Red Rabitor (23) and Mike McDonough (behind Herbert), await developments.

Friar Sextet Does Right Well In League Where Ivy Twineth

By JOE McHENRY

The first week of the college winter sports season finds the Providence College Friars bidding for the "uncrowned championship" of the Ivy hockey teams and all three R.I. college basketball quintets below the .500 mark.

The Friar hockey team, working under Tom Eccleston for the first time, took Harvard and Princeton into camp last week and will be aiming for its third hockey triumph against the Brown Bruins tomorrow night at the Auditorium.

"We didn't play quite as well in beating Princeton as we did against Harvard," comments Eccleston, who is much impressed with the hustle and drive the Friars have displayed to date.

Tremendous Job

"You couldn't expect us to play as well as we did against Harvard. That was a tremendous accomplishment and I don't think we can get "up" like that very often. The boys have been doing a fine job and I hope we can keep it up tomorrow night against Brown.

"We played a good, hustling game against Princeton. Our goalie, Don Girard, played well. He was beat one time on a flukey shot but he made some fine stops. We outshot them and their goalie, Dave Robinson, also did a fine job. He had 33 stops, which is some indication that we were skating well.

"Brown is playing more of a defensive game this year and waiting for the breaks. They have a fine goalie in Harry Batchelder and they are always well-coached," Eccleston said.

The Bruins knocked off Boston College in an upset, a notable hockey triumph anytime.

Hockey Dinner

The Mal Brown Club of P.C. is holding a hockey dinner tomorrow night at Topps Gaylord preceding the game in an effort to stir up more interest among students, alumni and friends, and Friar alumni especially are invited. The pre-game program gets underway at 6 p.m.

Coach Joe Mullaney's Friars gave highly-rated St. Francis a good tussle in Brooklyn after winning from Adelphi on Friday. St. Francis, with Tony U'Elia setting the scoring pace, has another strong team this year. They won 18 straight last year and seldom lose on their Brooklyn Armory court.

Tebo Sidelined

Brown, with Joe Tebo, its star shooter, laid up with a bad left ankle, faces the Friars on Wednesday night at Marvel Gym and Pennsylvania on Saturday night, in a pair of home games. Tebo had just about half the Bruins' points in the first half against Rhody and Coach Stan Ward has a real problem for scoring punch if Tebo is on the shelf for long.

Providence College, surprised by Assumption, played better ball in its second and third games. Eddie Donahue led the scorers against St. Francis while Mike Pascale was top man against Adelphi.

THE SPORTSCOPE

Beating the Irish Has Repercussions

By JOHN HANLON

Possibly the "worst" good thing that has happened to Joe Mullaney in his short term as Providence College basketball coach was his team's 85-83 victory over Notre Dame last season.

This was a monumental accomplishment, all right, and one that Joe relishes. But the after-effects of it, Joe knows now, as the current season gets rolling, are somewhat curious.

"Winning that game," Joe was saying in his office yesterday morning before practice, "was wonderful—for the team, for me, the students and the grads. It was a real tonic.

HANLON

"But it also has made it hard on us. Now the big teams know that we could beat them on a given night, but our reputation nationally isn't high enough yet so that it means anything to beat us.

"Can't you imagine the explaining Notre Dame had to do when they got back home after losing to us? 'Providence College beat you?' people probably asked them. 'Who is that? How come?'

"Another thing, our own people are inclined to put us up on a high level on the basis of our one, very best effort. All I've heard all fall is, 'Wow, you beat Notre Dame last season, you got the same team back, you should win every game!'"

Another Test Tonight

This bubble of enthusiasm, however, wasn't long in exploding. Right off the top of the schedule, first game, Assumption College scored a 57-56 verdict over the Friars. It seemed incredible to Joe, because he says there had been no indication in practice that the team would produce a sloppy opening-game job. But it did and again, Assumption was a burr in the Friars' hopes.

"In a way, it's just as hard for us to play Assumption as it is for Notre Dame to play us," he said. "We should beat them and people expect us to beat them. I knew we'd have a tough game there, but it's hard to convince anyone of this."

Since that game, the Friars have won one and lost one and now they hope to start playing at least to their capabilities—effective tonight, against Brown.

Mullaney, it should be pointed out, is by no means discouraged or perturbed about the beginnings, and he still has fond hopes for the club.

"It's just that I thought our early troubles of last season were gone," he said. "I thought we were by all that. But now I think we should start coming and we'll be all right."

Something to Shoot For

There are many good signs. Capt. John Ritch has played well and Joe considers that his Ed Donohue is a vastly improved player. Lionel Jenkins has been troubled with illness and now has a sore elbow, but he should soon be back in form. Frank Tirico, Joe hopes, will get his good set shot working and, in all, then some progress will be made.

But whatever happens, and despite the effects of it, there still is that Notre Dame effort to shoot for. It remains a major accomplishment of the Mullaney regime and a marking point for all to come. The significance of the victory, by the way, can be noted in that the game ball, properly inscribed, rests in the Friars' trophy case in the lobby of the gymnasium.

This display of Friar mementos is growing all the time and more items are coming. The Rev. A. B. Begley, athletic director, has the latest acquisition in his office, awaiting display.

These are three football jerseys, all bearing the number 15. One is the white of Providence College, another is green as Ireland, with a shamrock on the chest, the uniform of the late Boston Shamrocks. The third is the royal blue of the New York Giants. All belonged to Hank Soar, a star in each shirt in proper sequence.

Mementos

Still to come is a baseball shirt from the Detroit Tigers that Birdie Tebbetts wore when he was with the club, and possibly Birdie's blouse from his Red Sox days.

"And we hope to get the bat with which Birdie made his last hit in the majors," said Father Begley, and after he said it, he chuckled.

"You know the old story about Birdie's bat that got the last hit, don't you?" said Father Begley. No one did.

"Well," he said, "they say that Birdie has about 200 bats in his cellar and every time he gives one out, he says that's the one that got the last hit."

"Tebbetts?" asked a man, incredulously. "Why I didn't think he got 200 hits in his whole career."

Friar Sextet Stays Undefeated, Conquering Bruins in 4-2 Thriller

Brown Makes Bid in 3rd After Trailing, 3 to 0

By EARL LOFQUIST

Favored Providence College defeated Brown, 4-2, in a hockey thriller at the Auditorium last night. The contest was watched by a highly vocal crowd of 3,011.

Although outskated in the first two periods, in each of which the Friars scored a goal, Brown made a bold bid for victory after going three down early in the third. With the Bruins' ace center, Rod Dashnaw making both tallies, the score stood at 3-2 midway through the period. It was anybody's game until Al McMahon scored the clincher less than seven minutes before the end. Only then could supporters of Providence College relax a little.

This was the third victory in as many starts for the team of Tom Eccleston, who this season is coaching college hockey for the first time. His team, heavily studded with sophomores, earlier had defeated Harvard and Princeton.

Brown has a 2-and-2 record, having defeated Northeastern and Boston College, after losing to Boston University.

Batchelder Under Heavy Fire

Only spectacular goal tending by Harry Batchelder prevented Providence College from rolling up the score. Dom Girard had a good night in the other crease, but was not under such heavy fire as was Batchelder. The saves were 35-20.

Junior wing Lou LaFontaine scored for Providence College in the first period and again in the second, and he assisted Joe Barile in the making of the third goal, early in the third period.

Dashnaw scored his two goals unassisted. In each case he got possession of the puck after a teammate had missed the cage and in each case he skated the puck behind the cage before scoring from close in.

Play was reasonably close in the first period with the Friars having somewhat the better of it. The second period was slowed down by a succession of penalties, most of them called against the Friars. But even while shorthanded they spent much of the period in Brown territory.

Bruins Strong in Third

The Bruins came out strong in the third period, and when they went three down their attack increased rather than diminished in fury. Time and again they were down the ice and skillfully setting up plays for a good shot at the goal, but lost opportunities because of poor marksmanship.

For Providence College it was the second victory over Brown in a series of 10 games.

George Boudreau, Providence College wing, suffered a cut on the left cheek in the first period. He returned to action in the second period, after five stitches were taken in the wound.

In a preliminary, Brown's freshman team defeated Providence's yearlings, 6-3.

The summary:

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE (4)

Goal—Girard; defense—McDonough, Rabitor, Blanchette, Cullen, Zifcak, Filion; forwards—Barile, LaFontaine, Boudreau, Sainato, McCrink, Boisvert, McMahon, Lovett, Ford, Carter.

BROWN (2)

Goal—Batchelder; defense—Delaney, Cook, Gray, Morton, Eaton; forwards—Dashnaw, Hebert, Higgins, Cleary, Saltonstall, Haskell, Williams, Miller, Woodley.

First Period

Providence College—LaFontaine (Barile), 8:57.

Penalties—Boudreau, 58 sec.; Blanchette, 2:41; Mainelli, 5:02; Blanchette, 19:30.

Second Period

Providence College—LaFontaine (Blanchette, Barile), 2:45.

Penalties—Gray, 3:50; LaFontaine, 4:20; Barile, 8:46; McCrink, 12:17; LaFontaine, 15:01; Delaney, 18:46.

Third Period

Providence College—Barile (LaFontaine), 2:09; McMahon (Sainato, McCrink), 13:17.

Brown—Dashnaw, 5:16; Dashnaw, 9:55.

Penalties—Boudreau, 19:25; Cook, 19:57.

Friars Stir Up an

Icy Indoor Gale

P.C. Hockey Six Adds to Stature By Topping Bears

By BOB ENGLERT

Storm warnings were flying today all along the Eastern collegiate hockey coastline as a young Providence sextet, showing evidence of maturing sooner than expected, threatened to blow up a real gale.

The word is already out that P.C. is a team to be reckoned with and the Friars did nothing last night to disturb that evaluation as they scored their third straight victory and their third in a row over an Ivy League standard-bearer, when they downed Brown, 4-2, before 3,011 enthusiastic fans at the Auditorium.

Even Tom Eccleston, their usually quiet and reserved coach, couldn't completely mask his feelings. Eccleston has enjoyed some really great moments during his coaching career but it's doubtful whether anything has given him as much of a kick as his youthful but talented Friars.

Moments of Concern

"Their spirit and hustle was wonderful," he said amidst the locker-room uproar. "We made mistakes and still have a lot of polishing to do. The team is playing better than I expected it to, but I still say we'll lose our share of games."

Eccleston admitted that he had moments of concern when P.C. almost blew a 3-0 lead in the final period as Brown's Rod Dashnaw pumped in goals. However, Al Sainato eased the pressure at 13:17 on a combination play with Capt. Bernie McCrink and Paul Sainato.

That goal proved the clincher and all but ended a stirring comeback by Brown, which had been outskated and outplayed throughout the first two periods. Only the fine goaltending of Harry Batchelder prevented P.C. from piling up the score in those sessions.

P.C. struck for its first goal at 8:57 when Lou LaFontaine got the first of his two scores, on a rebound of Joe Barile's drive from the left side.

LaFontaine and Barile teamed for the second goal at 2:45 of the second period on a play started by Ray Blanchette. As Barile's pass from the left glanced off the skate of a Bruin defender, LaFontaine swooped in on the loose puck from the right and beat Batchelder from six feet out.

Barile, who was outstanding for the Friars, got the third goal in the opening minute of the finale on a 15-foot backhander. It looked as if it was all over, but then Brown came to life.

Dashnaw Clicks

Dashnaw, thwarted by Girard on a shot from the left, picked up the rebound, circled the cage and tucked the puck into the open right side before Girard could move to cover, at 5:16. Rod's second score, which put the Bruins back in contention, came less than five minutes later.

After Don Higgins, in alone, had missed the cage on a 3-on-1 break, Dashnaw grabbed the loose puck behind the cage, came out to the left and fired at an almost impossible angle. The puck, however, bounced off Girard's stick and into the netting.

That was the situation when Sainato pounced on a loose puck in the Brown end in the 14th minute and passed to McCrink, who relayed to McMahon from behind the cage. McMahon quickly blasted it past Batchelder from close range.

Short Shots—The victory was only the second P.C. has scored over Brown in 10 meetings. The last Friar victory was a 5-2 triumph during the 1954-55 season.

Batchelder kicked out 35 shots, several of which were labeled goal. Dom Girard, the Friar's young sophomore, also turned in a fine job. He had only 20 saves but a couple of them were real beauties, especially the ones he made on Don Hebert in the opening period and on Dick Haskell in the third when the latter came in alone.

Jim Fullerton, Brown coach, had high praise for P.C. but thought the Bruins might have won the game if they had played the first two periods they played the last.

Brown Misses Opportunities

"We were outskated in the first two periods and made plenty of mistakes," he said. "I thought we might do it when we pulled up to 3-2 but our inexperience cost us and a defensive lapse helped them set up that important fourth goal."

Brown had several scoring opportunities in the first two periods as the Friars were tacked with seven penalties, but inability to mount a concerted attack in the face of some tight defensive play by Mike McDonough, Red Rabor, Ray Zifcak and Jim Ford, the chief penalty killers, hurt the Bruins.

After surviving two penalties in the first five minutes of play,

Among the highly interested spectators was the Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., president of Providence College. Father Slavin is an avid sports fan and frequently watches the Friar athletic teams.

P.C. didn't dress the Domingue line, which also consists of the Labbe twins, Buzz and Ray. Buzz Boisvert and John Cullen were given the game opportunity by Eccleston, who has now given every member of the squad a game assignment except Sal Carvelli and Don DelStritto. They're scheduled to play in the Christmas tournament in Boston.

George Boudreau, Friar who and the last of the famed Boudreaus who starred for Boston College a few years back, received a five-stitch gash in his cheek in the first period but returned to the game after being patched up.

Dick Haskell, Brown's top goal-getter, went scoreless for the first time this season. He had a great chance in the third period when Rabor fell and gave him a wide-open lane to the goal mouth, but Girard turned aside his blistering drive.

In the freshman game, Brown, with Dave Kelly leading the way, topped P.C., 6-3.

Bruin, Friar Sixes Face Vengeful Foes Tonight

By BOB ENGLERT

Brown and Providence College, the early surprises of the New England collegiate hockey season, will go after their fourth victories of the year tonight but each faces a foe intent on revenge.

The Bruins, who pulled off the biggest shocker of the young campaign when they defeated Boston College, 6-3, in Boston a while back, take on the same Eagles at the Auditorium and the Friars, upset victors over Harvard here earlier this month, engage the Crimson at Boston Garden.

Both Jim Fullerton of Brown and Tommy Eccleston of P.C. are a mite fearful over the outcome of the impending battles. Each is afraid that the opposition will be geared for an all-out effort and will be better prepared for the return meetings than it was in the first encounters.

Since bowing to Brown and Providence College, B.C. and Harvard have been playing a vastly improved brand of hockey. The Eagles proved that Saturday when they carried Clarkson, No. 1 in the East, into sudden death overtime before losing, 3-2, and Harvard showed new power as it clobbered Middlebury, 10-0, last week. This was the same Middlebury team that had previously blanked Yale and beaten Princeton.

The Eagles, rated third in the East and No. 1 in New England, have a veteran squad and Coach John (Snooks) Kelly is carrying only four sophomores. Among the B.C. offensive threats is Jim (Wah) Tiernan, former La Salle star, who'll work on the second line with Capt. Joe Moyland and Carl Marino.

B.C. probably will start Joe Colata and Dick Kane on the wings and Bill Leary, the former Arlington High flash, at center. Don Fox and Dick Michaud, two capable veterans, will be at defense and Alvin Pitts will be in goal.

Brown will lead off with its regular unit that consists of Rod Dashnaw, Don Hebert and Don Higgins up front, Capt. George Delaney and Kevit Cook at defense and the spectacular Harry Batchelder in goal. Batchelder was the big factor in Brown's previous triumph over the Eagles as he kicked out 58 shots.

Providence College will go against Harvard (9 p.m.) with only one major change in the squad that whipped Brown in its last start. The Domingue line of Gil Domingue centering for the Labbe twins, Bob and Ray, will return to action and will work as the second unit behind starters Joe Barile, George Boudreau and Lou LaFontaine.

Capt. Bernie McCrink, Al McMahon and Paul Sainato will form a third line. Mike McDonough, Red Rabitor, Ray Zifcak and Ray Blanchette will handle the defensive chores in front of goalie Don Girard, and Jim Ford and Ted Carter will be the spare forwards.

In a preliminary to the B.C.-Brown game at the Auditorium, the Eagle and Bruin freshmen teams will clash at 6:30 o'clock.

Fordham, in Command Most of the Way, Beats Friars, 66-47

Third Period Surge by P.C. Enlivens Fray

By PETE McCARTHY

Fordham University's basketball controlled the ball and the backboards most of the way and, aided by a healthy margin at the free-throw line, easily defeated Providence College, 66-47, last night before 1,500 spectators at Alumni Hall.

The Rams warmed up to their task slowly and then bewildered the Friars with a flurry of points just after the 10-minute that moved them into a 17-point lead. The Friars cut it to 15 at halftime and played their best ball during the first 11 minutes of the second half when they shaved the Rams' advantage to six points. But their bid ended there as the visitors quickly boosted their margin to 15 points again within the next five minutes.

During that concerted drive, the Friars outscored the Rams, 18-9, as the combination of Capt. John Ritch, Ed Donahue, Roger Canestrari, Dick Bessette and Ken Clements worked together effectively on offense and defended strongly.

Brady Revives Rams

A one-hander by Ritch that would have closed the gap to four points teetered momentarily on the rim and with that miss went the Friars' last threat. Jack Brady, the Rams' ubiquitous sophomore guard, converted a pair of free throws and then after PC had missed two shots from close range, Brady again drove in for an easy layup that put the Rams ahead, 54-44.

For the last nine minutes of play the Friars were limited to just three points, one coming on a free throw by Clements and the last two on a basket by Ritch in the final minute of play.

As in some of their previous games this season the Friars had trouble getting their offense functioning last night. Their floorwork was indecisive and they failed to work the ball in for the good shots. As a result, they seldom got more than one pop at the hoop as the Rams' Bill McCadney and Mike Cashman, completely dominated the rebounding under the PC basket.

Fordham, meanwhile, passed the ball around patiently waiting for the PC defense to commit itself. And under this setup, Jim Cunningham, Brady and Cashman were able to drive in for elementary shots. Only during the Friars' strong counter-attack in the second half did the Rams appear to lose their poise in the face of PC's all-court press. But once their lead was seriously threatened at 44-50, the Rams called a timeout and thereafter they were in complete charge.

Cunningham Gets 22

Cunningham captured scoring honors with 22 points, getting 12 of them from the foul line in 16 attempts. Cashman contributed

Brady 12 and McCadney 11. Ed Donahue, who fouled during the Friars' rally at the six-minute mark of the second half, was high man for PC with 11. Ritch, who did a fine job of the defensive board and rebounding, scored three baskets. Cashman and Clements, the PC reserves, made PC's attack click in the second half, tallied eight points each, respectively.

The Rams held only a 20-19 lead at the end of the first half but converted 11 free throws whereas the Friars sank only nine of 17.

Mike Pascale and Frank Tiorico, normally the Friars' best scoring bets, each was limited to one basket.

Fordham took the lead at the outset, was tied at 4-4 after 2½ minutes but never trailed thereafter. The Rams led by 41-26 at halftime.

Fordham Set for Friars After Taking URI Five

By JOE McHENRY

The Fordham Rams, coached by Johnny Bach, took Rhode Island into camp, 85-71, last night at Kingston and will be looking for a sweep of their two-game visit when they oppose the Providence College Friars tonight at Alumni Hall on the PC campus.

The Friars, catching the Rams on the second game of their swing, may prove a better match than Rhody. While Fordham has a potentially dangerous team and played well against Rhode Island, the Friars have been able to come "up" for some of the home games against name foes.

Perhaps we worked a little harder on Von Weyhe but Marozzi is a nice shooter and had a hot night."

"My club is starting to come a little. McCadney gave us some rebounding and Jim Cunningham and Ronnie Kuehn helped with the scoring. I think we had a definite edge on the boards and that helped. This is my first trip through here in years and I hope it continues to be a good one," the Fordham coach explained.

The Friars probably will have as much trouble with McCadney and Cunningham as did Rhody. Cunningham is a deceptive player but a fine shot. He was a school-boy star at Canisius High in Buffalo and has been a high scorer ever since he arrived at Rose Hill in the Bronx. He had 24 last night.

Coach Mullaney of the Friars thought Fordham played well and also had praise for Marozzi's shooting. He says his club was cold at times against Brown and hopes that they have got that out of their systems. He had a chance to study the Fordham squad last night and make his adjustments for tonight's encounter.

The victory was the fourth in six games for Fordham and the loss was the third in five for PC. The Rams have lost to Yale and Columbia.

Friars Lure Bruins Out of Tough Zone Defense, Cash In, 73-61

11 Pts. in Row Midway in 2nd Half Decide It

By PETE McCARTHY

Providence College forced Brown out of its zone defense midway in the second half, cashed in on 11 straight points and rolled on to a 73-61 basketball victory before a crowd of 1,300 last night at Marvel Gym.

Before that payoff spurt, the Bruins' defensive tactics had given the Friars fits. In fact, they kept the visitors trailing until the 11-minute mark of the first half and the Friars were still behind at 47-44 with 13 minutes remaining in the game.

But then Ed Donahue scored on a layup and followed up with two free throws that put the Friars ahead, 47-46. Brown failed to score and on a signal from the PC bench, Frank Tirico held the ball near mid-court, inviting the Bruins to come out of their modified zone that hitherto had kept the Friars from getting in for close shots at the basket.

Strategy Pays Off

The Bruins were reluctant at first but after Tirico and Gordie Holmes had consumed more than a minute passing the ball back and forth, the Bruins moved out into a man-to-man. Holmes climaxed a series of crisp passes with a layup, after which the Friars went into an all-court press.

This strategy paid off in four straight points from the foul line for PC as charging fouls were called against the Bruins, twice as they tried to bring the ball up court. Holmes made all four conversions. A double foul was assessed against PC's captain, John Ritch, and Brown's Jerry Alaimo. Ritch converted but Alaimo didn't and the Friars were now leading, 55-47, with 9:45 to go.

That, as it developed, was all the buge the Friars needed to wrap it up. Thereafter, Alaimo, who performed brilliantly under the boards, led a counterrally with seven points that enabled the Bruins to close the gap to 56-61 but Tirico picked up a hot hand and moved the Friars well out of danger.

24 Baskets Each

Alaimo, who captured scoring honors with 20 points, fouled out of the game with 4:40 remaining. Allen Poulsen, the Bruins 6' 8" sophomore center who also did a fine job of rebounding, had departed on fouls four seconds earlier and Capt. John Lyden picked up his quota of five three minutes from the end.

As a matter of fact, personal fouls played a vital role in the game. The baskets were even, 24 apiece, but the Bruins drew 24 personals and the Friars capitalized to the extent of 25 conversions in 40 attempts. PC was assessed only 14 personals and Brown converted 13 of 23 free throws. Ritch also fouled out but his departure had no effect on the outcome, coming as it did with two minutes remaining and PC 13 points ahead.

The Bruins, with several sophomores carrying a good deal of the burden, did a remarkable job, considering they were without the services of their top scorer, Joe Tebo, who was sidelined by a severe ankle sprain suffered in last Saturday's Rhode Island game. His replacement, sophomore Nom Bogar, did a creditable job, especially in the first half when the Bruins held the upper hand. He scored 11 points, one less than Poulsen.

The Bruins took the lead eight seconds after the opening tap-off on Billy Wadsworth's layup and though the Friars tied the score four times they weren't able to go ahead until the 11-minute mark. The Bruins quickly tied it up and it was give and take for the remainder of the half, which ended 35-all. The opening minutes of the second half was more of the same with each team leading briefly until the Friars went off on their 11-point spree.

Holmes and Tirico, the two men who figured most prominently in PC's payoff drive, were the Friars' high-point producers with 16 and 15, respectively. Ritch contributed 10 and was the winners' leading rebounder. The victory was PC's second in four games and put the Friars in a tie with Rhode Island as the state series. Brown, which was lost to both R.I. rivals, as a 1-3 mark.

The PC Freshmen romped to a 79-62 triumph over the Bruin clubs in the preliminary game. Ally DiMasi led the winners with 31 points.

Fordham Five Routs Friars, ^{EB 1/5/53} Brown Hosts Quakers Tonight

By PETE McCARTHY

It looks like a bad week all around for the local college basketball teams. Last night Fordham completed a two-game Rhode Island sweep by routing Providence College, 66-47, and tonight both Brown and the University of Rhode Island face formidable opponents.

The Bruins, with only one victory in four games, open their Ivy League schedule in Marvel Gym, against an experienced Pennsylvania quintet that finished in a tie for second place in the league last season. The varsity game starts at 8 o'clock. The Bruin Freshmen will meet Nichols Junior College in the preliminary game at 6 o'clock.

Coach Jack Guy's URI squad, also sporting only one victory in four starts, returns to Madison Square Garden tonight, to meet a familiar opponent in St. John's, in the second game of a double-header that will be televised in the New York area. Syracuse and Manhattan clash in the opener.

Both the Bruins and the Rams will be underdogs tonight. Brown still is without its scoring star, Joe Tebo, who suffered a severe ankle sprain last week against Rhody and isn't expected back in the lineup until after the holidays. In addition, Cpt. John Lyden hurt his neck in Wednesday's P.C. game and it still bothered him during practice yesterday. Dick Nelson sprained his ankle in practice Thursday and the injury may sideline him for a month.

May Start

If Lyden is sufficiently recovered, he will start at guard along with sophomore Norm Bogar. Allen Poulsen, at center, and Jerry Alaimo and Billy Wadsworth at the forwards round out the Bruins lineup.

The Quakers will start Dick Csencsitz, their leading scorer to date, at forward along with Lou Bayne; Joe Bowman at center; and Alex D'Lucia and

Out for Bear: Dick Csencsitz, a forward.

Fordham and has beaten Brown for its only triumph.

Brown's hockey team, which dropped its only other start this week to PC, travels to Waterville, Maine, tonight to play Colby. Coach Jim Fullerton's sextet should pick up its third victory in five.

Coach Joe Mullaney's PC quintet continued to be plagued by indecisive floorwork last night as it bowed to Fordham. The Rams led all the way, with the exception of a 4-4 tie early and weathered a counterrally by the Friars early in the second half that closed the gap to six points. There were nine minutes left to play at that point and the Rams recovered and outscored PC, 16-3, down to the wire.

Capt. John Ritch. Dick Bessette and Ken Clements, sophomore reserves who paced the PC counterattack in the second half, tallied eight and seven, respectively. During their rally the Friars outscored Fordham, 19-9.

In wrestling yesterday, Brown scored its first victory of the season by defeating Wesleyan, 19-7.

The Wesleyan freshman matmen scored a 20-11 decision over the Bruin Cubs.

Varsity winners for Brown were Ed Eastman, heavyweight; John Cummings, 130; George Seaver, 137; Frank Smith, 147, by default; and Lou Winner, 167.

Gerry Nensel at guards. Penn has won two and lost two so far, including last night's 88-72 defeat by Yale, but the Quakers never have lost to Brown. The series stands at 11-0, with two of those victories coming last season.

The Rams will have their troubles trying to work their iron-man stint against the Redmen tonight. Starters Billy Von Weyhe, Ronnie Marozzi, Brad Southworth, Jim Adams and Steve Madreperla generally have gone most of the way in games thus far but the pace may be too fast against St. John's. Rhody has lost to St. Joseph's, Boston College and

The Leader

Jim Cunningham led the Rams' scoring with 22 points, 12 of them coming at the foul line. Fordham actually held only a 20-19 edge in field goals but capitalized on 26 of 33 free throws, whereas the Friars converted nine of 17. Big Bill McCadney and Mike Cashman combined in giving the Rams control of the backboards and Jack Brady, a promising sophomore guard, got the visitors rolling again in the second half when the Friars pulled up close.

Ed Donahue, who fouled out six minutes after the start of the second half, led the PC scoring with 11, one more than

Harvard Halts Friar Six, 10-2-

P.C.'s 1st; Domingue Hurt Hospitalized

By BOB ENGLERT
 Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

Boston — Uncorking a blistering first period attack, revamped Harvard gained sweet revenge for an earlier loss to Providence College at the Boston Garden last night when it thumped the Friars, 10-2, in a college hockey game marred by an injury to Gil Domingue, P.C.'s sophomore center.

Domingue collided with a Harvard defenseman after getting off a shot midway through the second period and fell heavily to the ice. He was removed on a stretcher and taken to Massachusetts General Hospital. He was to remain there overnight for observation as it was believed he may have suffered a slight brain concussion.

The loss of the Lewiston, Me. pivot deprived the Friars of the effectiveness of one of their top lines, but Harvard practically had wrapped up the decision with that opening onslaught, during which it scored five goals. Four were tallied by Lyle Guttu, smooth-skating junior from Minnesota. The loss was the Friars' first in four starts.

Harvard Defense Improved

A far cry from the team that bowed to Providence College at the R.I. Auditorium two weeks back, the Crimson was ready for this one and its improved defense, resulting from the shifting of wings Bob McVey and Ed Owen back to the points, presented the Friars with a constant source of woe.

P.C., on the other hand, had all kinds of trouble handling Harvard's top line of Bob Cleary, Paul Kelley and Guttu and only some fine goaltending by Don Girard prevented the Crimson from taking an even more commanding lead in the first period.

That blitz temporarily demoralized the Friars and it wasn't until the second period that they started to flash some of the form that had carried them to victory in their first three games. They had a number of scoring chances but aside from goals by George Boudreau and Ray Labbe, they had difficulty finishing off promising scoring patterns.

Two Quick Scores

Harvard, outthrustled by P.C. in their first meeting, got the jump last night and scored twice in the first two minutes. Guttu, after slipping behind the Providence defense, took Cleary's pass and scored from closeup at 1:00. Exactly a minute later, Dick Fischer banged in a 25-foot screen shot.

Guttu, on another pass from Cleary, got his second score at 12:06, his third at 17:56 and his fourth at 18:07 on another Cleary setup.

P.C. started to find itself in the second period and got back into the running as Boudreau, on a pretty play with Lou LaFontaine and Joe Barile, scored at 10:36, and Ray Labbe banged in Jim Ford's rebound at 13:07. However, Domingue's injury seemed to take something out of P.C. and Harvard quickly regained the upper hand as Cleary and Kelley boosted the Crimson into a 7-2 lead before the period closed.

Harvard had things pretty much its own way throughout the final period as it scored three more goals while subjecting Girard and Jim Toomey, who played in the goal for the last four minutes, to continual pressure.

It was a bad day all around for P. C. Its Jayvees bowed to the Crimson junior varsity, 4-1, in an afternoon game at Watson Rink in Cambridge.

Bears, Friars Victims of Revenge

Eagles, Cantabs Put R.I. Sixes In Deep Freeze

By BOB ENGLERT

Boston College and Harvard had their revenge today for earlier setbacks at the hands of Brown and Providence College and were showing signs of reaching the heights in New England collegiate hockey circles predicted for them before the campaign got under way.

Rated as this area's top two sextets in a preseason poll of college coaches, the Eagles and the Crimson put on impressive shows last night as they tripped up the Bruins and the Friars. B.C. blanked Brown, 5-0, here at the Auditorium and Harvard blasted P.C., 10-2, at the Boston Garden.

That the two Providence teams wound up on the short end of the score was not too surprising. B.C. and Harvard are good. But coaches Jim Fullerton of Brown and Tom Eccleston of P.C., although fearful of what happened would happen, neither expected the games would be so one-sided.

Too Many Miscues

"We had our chances in the first period against Boston," Fullerton said this morning. "But we couldn't finish off scoring plays and after that we made all kinds of defensive mistakes. I wasn't disappointed in losing," he continued, "but some of the boys didn't play up to their full capabilities."

Eccleston expressed similar views on the Friars' loss to Harvard although he had high praise for the revamped Crimson and called the Cantabs a real good hockey club.

"They are much tougher defensively since dropping former wings Bob McVey and Ed Owen back to defense," he said. "But we didn't help ourselves any with our poor covering in our own end. We also had trouble setting up our pass patterns."

Domingue Hurt

The Friars not only took a bad beating but they also lost Gil Domingue, sophomore center from Lewiston, Me., who was removed to Massachusetts General Hospital after hitting his head on the ice in a collision with McVey midway through the second period.

Domingue was thought to have suffered a slight brain concussion and was being held at the hospital for observation. He was reported as doing "very well" at the hospital this morning and was expected to be released shortly.

Harvard, geared for the return meeting and determined to make amends, all but wrecked P.C. with a five-goal blitz in the opening period. Lyle Guttu, behind the Friar defense or in close, netted four of the scores and the Crimson might have rolled it up even higher except for the goaltending of Don Girard.

Providence started to collect itself in the second period and looked like it might make a game of it as it pulled up to 5-2 on goals by George Boudreau and Ray Labbe but Domingue's loss seemed to take something out of the Friars and Harvard quickly regained the upper hand.

Four In Second

Brown gave B.C. a battle throughout the first period but the Eagles hiked a 1-0 lead at the end of that session to 5-0 with a four-goal spree in the second period. During that bombardment the Hub sextet subjected Harry Batchelder, Brown goalie, to continual pressure. Harry had 37 saves for the game and Alvin Pitts of B.C. had 26.

Brown and P.C. will now be idle until the Christmas tournament at the Boston Arena, Dec. 27, 28 and 29. The Bruins take on Northeastern in the first game of a doubleheader on the 27th at 7 p.m. and the Friars face Boston College in the second game at 9 o'clock.

In an afternoon twin bill at Harvard's Watson Rink, Boston University plays Dartmouth at 2 o'clock and Harvard takes on Army at 4. The two winners and two losers in each bracket will clash on the 28th and the winners in each bracket and the second place finishers in each sector will play on the 29th.

Both the Friars and Bruins disbanded for the Christmas holidays after last night's games but will get together again Dec. 26 for practice sessions, Brown at Boston and P.C. at the Auditorium.

Brown's record is now three victories and three losses and P.C.'s record is 3 and 1. For B.C., it was the Eagles' third triumph in six outings. Harvard has won three and lost one.

Brown, P.C. Sextets Start Tourney Action

Brown University and Providence College will be two of eight colleges playing in Boston beginning this afternoon in the fourth annual Christmas Week hockey tournament held up that away.

Both Brown and Providence College will play in the Boston Arena tonight, Brown going against Northeastern at 7 o'clock and Providence against Boston College at 9.

The four other teams in the tournament will have already met at Harvard's Watson Rink. In these games Boston University will play Dartmouth and Harvard will play Army. Game time are 2 and 4.

12/21/56
tomorrow, the winning teams will put forth their efforts in the Arena and the losers will clash in the Harvard rink. By the time the tournament ends Saturday night, each of the teams will have played three games. To the overall winner will go the John W. Babine Trophy, a memorial.

Brown and Northeastern met early in the season, and Brown was the winner over a team that since has improved.

Providence College and Boston College have not met this season, are not scheduled to in a regular season game.

The Friars will be without the services of Gil Domingue, who suffered a concussion in the Harvard game nine days ago. His place as center on the second line will be filled by Mike Lovett, who played for Coach Tom Eccleston while he was at Burrillville.

Providence College has won three games this season and lost one, that to Harvard, which had been defeated by the Friars earlier in the season.

Brown has won three games and lost three.

Brown, P.C. Have Outside Chance In Boston Hockey Tournament

By BOB ENGLERT

Brown and Providence College were rated no better than outside title possibilities today in the fourth annual Christmas Week hockey tournament which got under way this afternoon at Harvard's Watson rink and which continues tonight with a doubleheader at the Boston Arena.

The two Rhody representatives make their bow in the eight-team tourney field tonight with Brown facing off against Northeastern at 7 o'clock and Providence College taking on Boston College at approximately 9 o'clock.

This afternoon's action pitted Boston University against Dartmouth and Harvard against Army. All eight teams are scheduled to play three games during the competition which will continue tomorrow and wind up Saturday.

Consolation Series

The losing sextets in today's opening round will pair off in a consolation series that will be played at Harvard tomorrow and Saturday afternoons. Today's victors will meet in the semifinals at the arena tomorrow night and the championship final and the game to decide third place, will also be played there Saturday night.

Of the two Rhode Island teams, Providence College appears to have the tougher row to hoe in the opening round. The Friars will be without the services of Gil Domingue, second line center from Lewiston, Maine, who suffered a mild concussion in the Harvard game nine days ago.

Domingue has been running and skating since being discharged from the hospital two days after his accident and Coach Tom Eccleston is hopeful the youngster may get a medical okay before the tourney ends. Mike Lovett, the former Burrillville All-Stater, will take over Domingue's spot and center for wings Ray and Bob Labbe.

Face Top Ranker

In Boston College, the Friars will be facing the top-ranked team in New England and the club many folks expect to top the tourney and win the John W. Babine memorial trophy. The trophy has been put up in memory of the late Mr. Babine, a college hockey enthusiast and father of two former B.C. stars. Mr. Babine died a year ago.

The Eagles have a 3 and 3 record but they've faced much stiffer competition than P.C. which has won three and lost one. The Eagles have bowed to Clarkson, St. Lawrence and Brown. Clarkson is rated No. 1 in the East and St. Lawrence second.

Eccleston put the Friars through two drills yesterday, one here at the Auditorium and another last night at Harvard. Aside from Domingue, the squad is in top shape and anxious to atone for its poor showing in Boston against Harvard. That setback has rankled the men of Eccleston and they're ready for an all out effort.

Choice Over Huskies

Brown figures to be favored over Northeastern although the Huskies are a vastly improved team over the one that dropped a 6-2 decision to the Bruins here Dec. 4. They whipped Princeton in their last start and should make a closer game of it tonight.

Coach Jim Fullerton of Brown at Harvard yesterday, sent his squad through its first workout since the B.C. game last week. Fullerton is hoping the Bruins are ready for one of their better performances because he feels his club will have to play up to its full potential if it is to go anywhere in this tournament.

Win or lose, one of the Bruins who will be closely watched is goalie Harry Batchelder. The Peabody, Mass., junior has drawn raves in every game and could establish himself as the best netminder in the East if he continues his brilliant play.

This year's tournament will mark the first year the event has been played to a show-down. In past tourneys the teams were paired off and at the conclusion of the competition, newspapermen selected the outstanding sextet. This year there will be quarterfinals, semifinals and the championship final, in addition to the consolation setup.

Harvard Six, B.U. Advance To Semi-Finals

By BOB ENGLERT

Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

Boston, Mass — Grabbing an early lead and then staving off a belated Northeastern comeback, Brown University's hockey team gained the semi-finals of the fourth annual Christmas Week Tournament here at the Arena last night when it downed the Huskies, 6-4, before 1,200 spectators.

Providence College, pitted against Boston College, New England's No. 1 sextet, made a fight of it for two periods but finally bowed to the poised and well balanced Eagles, 6-2.

Harvard and Boston University also gained the semi-final round by victories in an afternoon twin bill at Harvard's Watkinson Rink. The Crimson nipped Army, 4-3, and Boston University overtook Dartmouth, 6-2.

Brown and Boston College will play tonight in the second game of a doubleheader at the Arena at 9 o'clock. Harvard and B.U. will meet in the opener at 7 o'clock.

This afternoon at Harvard, Dartmouth and Army play at 2 o'clock and P.C. faces Northeastern at 4, in a consolation-round doubleheader.

Brown, controlling the puck most of the way and setting up pass patterns with smoothness and imagination, looked like it would win in a romp as it led out to a 3-1 first-period score but Northeastern, taking advantage of a second-period goal, struck for two quick goals and forced the Bruins to the rest of the way.

Dick Haskell, the California sophomore, got the Bruins off and running in the seventh minute of play when he rammed home a 12-footer after taking Art Cleary's passout from behind the Northeastern cage. Kevit Cook made it 2-0 less than four minutes later on a Rod Dashnaw setup.

Harry Batchelder, who had made several scintillating saves in the Brown goal, was finally beaten at 14:51 when Marc Wenhams fired in a deep angle shot from the right as Batchelder was partially screened by two huskies forwards.

Don Hebert matched Wenhams' score before the period's close on the first of his two successive goals. He broke on a 2-and-1 situation with Dashnaw and easily converted Rod's clever pass at the right corner of the crease. Herbert's second score and another by Don Woodley in the first six minutes of the second period, upped the Bruin lead to 5-1 before Northeastern struck back.

With Brown's Wyd Eaton off for tripping, Dick Cavanaugh scored twice within a span of 15 seconds and the Huskies were back in business. Batchelder had little chance on either goal, the first at 11:18 and the second at 11:33.

Northeastern continued to press in the finale and made it 5-4 at 9:10 on Dick Johnson's conversion of Don Cronin's rebound, but Dashnaw eased the pressure for Brown when he put the puck into an open cage at 12:39 after goalie Ed Kerr of N.U. had been drawn out during a scramble in front of the cage.

Goalies on Hop

Providence College and Boston College hooked up in a brilliantly played battle that kept the rival goalies, Don Girard of P.C. and Al Pitts of B.C., on the hop repeatedly. The Friars, paying little heed to the Eagles' press clippings, started with a rush and had much the better of the going in the opening period but scoring opportunities went by the boards when they were unable to finish off promising plays.

They had penalty advantages on four occasions, but couldn't make the most of them. In fact, B.C.'s first goal came while the Eagles were a man down. Jim (Wah) Tiernan, the former LaSalle flash, got the counter on a 45-foot chip shot that dropped over Girard's shoulder while he was screened by a B.C. forward.

The Friars kept pressing and finally tied the score at 7:53 of the second period as Paul Sainato rifled the puck home out of a scramble in front of the B.C. cage. The tie lasted until the 17th minute. Then the Eagles broke loose for two quickies and a 3-1 lead.

Army Ties It

Ed Coakley, on a 2-and-1 jump with Dick Michaud, finished off a neat passing exhibition at 16:07 and 17 seconds later, Ned Bunyon went in alone on Girard, faked him out of position and tucked the puck into the open right corner.

That sortie just about settled things, but the Eagles added goals by Bunyon, Don Fox and Tiernan again in the third period for good measure. Bob Labbe got the Friars' final goal on a combination play with Red Rabitor and Mike McDonough.

Harvard was coasting along on a 3-0 lead against Army when the Cadets suddenly came to life. They finally tied the game up early in the third period on goals by Pete Dawkins and Larry Ashley, but Bob McVey ended Army's stirring comeback in the 15th minute with a 40-footer that glanced off the leg of an Army defender.

B.U. also had its troubles in turning back Dartmouth. A costly penalty midway through the final period hurt the Indians and opened the door for the Terriers, who blasted in two goals while enjoying a man advantage that broke a 2-2 deadlock.

Friars Fail

Boston — An unpredictable Brown sextet that has reached unexpected heights and also rock bottom, carries Little Rhody's banner into the semifinals of the fourth annual Christmas Week hockey tournament here at the Arena tonight when it stacks up against classy Boston College in the second game of a semifinal round twin bill.

This will be the "rubber" meeting of the season between the Bruins and Eagles who are scheduled to face-off at approximately 9 p.m. after Harvard and Boston University clash in the opener at 7 o'clock.

Providence College, which gave the Eagles a battle for two periods last night before bowing, 6-2, was to meet Northeastern, 6-4, loser to Brown, in the second game of a consolation round doubleheader this afternoon at Harvard's Watson Rink. In the first game there, Army, beaten by Harvard, 4-3, yesterday, took on Dartmouth which dropped a 6-2 decision to Boston University.

The showdown battle between Brown and B.C. should be a thriller if the Bruins revert to the form they showed in upsetting B.C. at Boston earlier in the month. Brown looked good against Northeastern last night but got a bit careless after taking a 3-1 lead and the Huskies made it closer than it should have been.

B.C., which avenged its first loss to Brown by whipping the Bruins, 5-0, in Providence two weeks ago, has speed, polish and poise and will be favored but the Eagles have high respect for the Bruins and some folks up this way give Brown a good chance of knocking B.C. out of the championship flight.

Brown, controlling the puck most of the way last night, and setting up its pass patterns with smoothness and imagination, looked as if it would win in a romp as it moved out to a 3-1 first-period lead, but Northeastern, taking advantage of a second-period penalty, struck for two quick goals and forced the Bruins to hustle the rest of the way.

B. C. Tops Bears, Now Is Favored Over Harvard

Boston—Boston College's veteran-studded Eagles, ranked as New England's No. 1 collegiate hockey sextet, will be a slight favorite over Harvard tonight when the two Bay State rivals clash in the championship final of the fourth annual Christmas week tournament here at the arena.

The Eagles gained the title round with a 6-2 triumph over Brown and the Crimson came up with an impressive, 4-2, victory over favored Boston University in last night's semifinal doubleheader.

The game will wind up a triple-header that will start at 5:15 p.m. when Providence College and Dartmouth clash in the consolation round final. The Brown-Boston University game to decide third place in the tournament will follow at 7:15 o'clock. In an afternoon game at Harvard's Watson rink, Army will play Northeastern.

Friars Win 10-2

P.C., setting up smoothly and consistently, registered the tourney's highest winning score when it drubbed Northeastern, 10-2, at Watson rink yesterday afternoon in the nightcap of the consolation semis which had Dartmouth dumping Army, 6-2, in the opener.

Brown's Bears, playing below par for the better part of two periods, got off to a poor start against Boston College and didn't offer a serious threat until the final period when they had a bit the better of the early going and pared their deficit to 4-2 on Rod Dashnaw's conversion of a neat pass from the corner by Don Woodley.

The Bruins continued to press thereafter but they had little luck. Several times they worked in close turned them aside or promising plays went unfinished. With Brown battling to close the gap, the Eagles got two goals in the last three minutes that ended Brown's chances.

The Huskies made it close when Art Pareski scored in the opening minutes of the second period after McCrink and McMahon had tallied in the first but then the Friars broke the game wide open as Bob Labbe, Rabitor and LaFontaine moved P.C. out to a commanding 5-1 lead.

Harvard, which twice came back from one-goal deficits, surprised Boston University with a three-goal spurt in the final period that shattered a two-all tie. Dave Vietz got the tie-breaker in the second minute of the finale and then Dick Fischer tipped in Ed Owens' 40-foot blast at 12:03.

Batchelder Shines

Harry Batchelder, although letting two goals get past him that normally he would have handled with ease, turned in another fine performance in the Brown nets. Harry, a top candidate for all-tourney honors, turned back 48 shots while Pitts was handling only 21.

Providence College clicked on all cylinders as it routed Northeastern. Red Rabitor, Lou LaFontaine, and Bobby Labbe, each had two goals for the Friars who jumped off to a quick 2-0 lead and were never headed. Ray Blanchette, George Boudreau, Al McMahon and Capt. Bernie McCrink accounted for the other scores and Joe Barile, hus-

Friars Made Big Hit In Boston Tourney

By BOB ENGLERT

After some 20-odd years as a hockey coach you'd think a fellow like Tom Eccleston would be able to take in stride the doings of his athletic teams. Instead, the likeable Providence College pilot continues to be amazed by the hustle and drive of his youthful Friars.

And Tom wasn't the only one who was impressed by the play of P.C. in the weekend Christmas holiday tournament in Boston. Officials, rival coaches and newspapermen covering the event had nothing but praise for the Friars and all were pretty much in agreement that in another season or two Providence will have a team that will rank with the best in the East.

"They are the most spirited group of boys I've ever had," Eccleston was saying after the Northeastern game. "I felt we were three goals better than the Huskies before the game but I didn't know how the players would react after losing to Boston College in the tourney opener. But they went out and showed me they don't discourage easily. They're a terrific group."

Despite that opening-game loss to B.C., the Friars shared with the Eagles and Boston University the second best mark in the tourney. Each finished with 2-and-1 records and were topped only by Harvard's champions, who went unbeaten in three games.

More Relaxed

P.C. looked as if it might have hit its stride over the weekend. Previously the Friars were tight and tense at the start of their games but they played more relaxed and had more poise against Northeastern and Dartmouth.

Lou LaFontaine, Joe Barile, Red Rabitor and Mike McDonough were the Friars who had them talking along the press row. LaFontaine, one of the top goal-getters in the tourney with five in his last two games, could land a berth on the all-tourney team, which will be announced in a day or two, while Barile, Rabitor and McDonough figure to be well up in the balloting.

Barile, the clever sophomore from Hamden, really found himself in the Northeastern and Dartmouth games and had seven assists. Rabitor and McDonough played their usual steady games at defense. McDonough and Jim Ford, who went on when the Friars were shorthanded, did a great job in killing the penalties with their persistent forechecking.

The Friars disbanded again after the tourney and the players returned to their homes for New Year's. They'll be back at the Year's. They'll practice Wednesday before leaving on a two-game trip to northern New York, where they face Clarkson Friday and St. Lawrence Saturday. The New Yorkers are rated as the top two clubs in the East.

TOURNEY TIDBITS: Harvard is a tremendously improved team since Coach Cooney Weiland shifted Bob McVey and Ed Owen to defense. They give the Crimson a five-man offense and they're also capable defenders. . . . Lack of a top-flight goalie is all that's keeping B.U. from being a real powerhouse. Offensively, the Terriers are a match for anyone.

Keep an eye on Don Girard, the Friars' young goalie. He's getting better in every game. . . . There were a lot of bigger players in the tournament but none was any scrappier than Brown's Dashnaw. He drives continually. . . . Don Whiston, the former Brown coach and All-America goalie, was among the spectators, along with ex-Friars Bob Reall and Bob Petit. . . . Probably the coldest spot in Greater Boston was Harvard's Watson Rink, a real icebox. . . . P.C. finished as the top offensive team in the tournament with 20 goals in three games.

Friars Really Cutting Some Ice In N.E. College Hockey Ranks

While the Rhode Island college basketball teams put aside their hoop chores for the Christmas recess, the roundball game was rolling on high elsewhere and Providence College did well on ice.

The Friars notched their fourth "Ivy" triumph Saturday night when they played sharp, effective hockey in an 8-2 victory over Dartmouth, once the power in New England hockey.

The Friars are beginning to cut some ice in New England college hockey and have far exceeded the most hopeful expectations of their admirers with their work so far this season. Coach Tom Eccleston has made the transition from schoolboy to college hockey in his usual smooth, easy fashion and things look bright for PC hockey of the future.

Two on Weekend

The tempo of the Providence schedule doesn't slacken any this weekend when the Smith Hill squad goes to up-State New York for games with Clarkson and St. Lawrence. The Friars' early season triumph over Harvard was a big one at the time and looms bigger now in the light of the Crimson's 4-2 success in the tourney finale against Boston College.

in the Hub, went on to win the Dixie Classic. The Tarheels are mainly a product of the sidewalks of New York, with McGuire, ex-St. John's player and coach, drawing heavily on metropolitan Gotham for talent.

11 In A Row

North Carolina has won 11 straight, is still unbeaten among major clubs, and may lead the country as the season progresses. Manhattan, winner over Notre Dame in the Garden final Saturday night, is remindful of the Holy Cross teams of other years. The Jaspers don't have a big gun like Bob Cousy, Tom Heinsolin or Togo Palazzi, but they move the ball around well and are good shooters.

Manhattan did some phenomenal shooting in its three big New York games, hitting for 51, 59 and 46 per cent. The Jaspers outhustled a much rangier Ohio State team and outshot the Irish. Manhattan was by far the class of the tourney. The Jaspers have speed, out-fox their opponents with sure, quick passes and play with a vim and drive that is refreshing after so much possession-type play this season.

Manhattan is probably the best team in the East at the moment with Connecticut heading the New England entries. The UConns play Dartmouth on Wednesday at Storrs in another test of power. Connecticut played a terrific game against University of Miami, coached by Bruce Hale, the former BAA pro. The Hurricanes played one of their top games in several seasons but still couldn't take the UConns.

Play Rams Friday

Providence College reported back for basketball drills at Alumni Hall yesterday. Coach Joe Mulaney hopes to have his team up for the Rhody Rams on Friday at Kingston and has been a mite disappointed in the efforts of his charges so far. The Friars didn't play as well as their coach and many of their fans figured in their last outing against Fordham before the Christmas recess.

The Friars figured to be the top team in the State this year. While it looks as though they will win the smallest state's three-cornered college loop crown, they have not been as impressive as expected. Perhaps we can look for improvement over the second stretch of the schedule but it doesn't get any easier, with URI, St. Anselm's, A.I.C. and Springfield coming up shortly.

Harvard Six Subdues B.C., 4-2; Friars Romp; Bruins Lose to B.U.

By BOB ENGLERT

Journal-Bulletin Sports Writer

Boston—In a bruising, bumping thriller between two intense rivals, Harvard captured the fourth annual Christmas Week Hockey Tournament championship here at the Arena last night with a 4-2 triumph over Boston College, New England's top-ranked collegiate sextet.

It was a brilliantly played encounter in which the lead changed hands twice before the Crimson went ahead to stay at the midway mark of the second period on Paul Kelley's break-away goal. The score came approximately three minutes after Providence and La Salle's Jim (Wah) Tiernan had pulled B.C. into a 2-2 tie on a shot that was kicked into the cage by Jim Bailey, Harvard goalie.

Providence College's youthful Friars, improving with every start, defeated Dartmouth, 8-2, in the opening game of a triple-header.

In the afternoon, Northeastern defeated Army, 7-2, in another consolation game at Harvard's Watson Rink.

Friars Sharp

Providence College, displaying new-found poise and playing a more relaxed game than in the past, blitzed Dartmouth with a five-goal barrage in the opening period as Lou LaFontaine and Joe Barille triggered the attack. LaFontaine turned in a three-goal stint, all on setups by Barille, one of the smoothest playmakers in the tournament.

That onslaught settled matters for all intents and purposes and the Friars never were seriously threatened. Their passing and pass patterns frequently enabled men to get in behind the Dartmouth defense. Don Girard turned in a fine game in goal, ably assisted by the P.C. defense of Red Rabor, Mike McDonough, Ray Blanchette and Ray Zifcak.

The triumph, P.C.'s fifth in seven games, came more easily than expected but it was obvious in the early minutes that the Friars were superior. LaFontaine opened the scoring at 1:26 and then Bob Labbe, on a pass from his brother Ray, made it 2-0 at 3:59.

Lafontaine scored again at 11:41 and a 45-foot blast by Rabor 21 seconds later made it 4-0 before LaFontaine closed out the first-period scoring at 16:18 with a 20-footer from the right side after stickhandling his way around a Dartmouth defender.

Shoutout Bid Spoiled

The Hanover Indians spoiled Girard's bid for his first shutout in the second minute of the second period when Dan Goggin scored on a long drive while the Friars were a man short. Blanchette, however, got the goal back at 6:34 on a pass from Barile. Ray poked the puck in from the edge of the crease.

P.C., which now has scored 18 goals in its last two games, continued to make merry in the finale. Blanchette clicked at 1:51 and Capt. Bernie McCrink, on a brilliant effort in which he split the Dartmouth defense, tallied at 15:15 in closing out the Friar scoring. Dartmouth's final score came in the last minute while P.C. was shorthanded.

Brown, coming up with one of its poorest efforts of the season, could do little that was right against Boston University and was outplayed all the way. The Terriers, despite their scoring total, weren't overly impressive, either, with the possible exception of Ed Carriere, a hustling forward who had a goal and two assists.

Harry Batchelder, though not as sharp as usual, had 41 saves in the Bruins' goal, 18 of them in the final period, in which B.U., taking advantage of a penalty on Kevit Cook, racked up its final two goals. The Terriers' fourth goal, by Sarge Kinlin, also came while Brown was short-handed.

Brown, guilty of faulty clearing and unable to get its offense organized, seldom threatened. It looked as if the Bruins might make a game of it in the second period when Bob Saltonstall pulled them up to 2-1 by scoring on his own rebound but the lethargic Terriers then came to life and put the game out of reach on scores by Jack Carruthers and Kinlin in the period's closing minutes.

In an afternoon game at Harvard's Watson Rink, Northeastern handed Army its third straight tourney setback, 7-2, in something of a surprise. The Cadets had played well against Harvard and Dartmouth, but disappointed against the Huskies.

P.C. Loses Tirico on Eve of U.R.I. Game

The Providence College Friars will be minus spunky Frank Tirico tomorrow night when they tackle the University of Rhode Island Rams at Frank Keaney gymnasium, Kingston.

While the Friars would normally be slight favorites over the Rams, even on the latter's home surface, Tirico's absence might change the complexion of things from the Providence viewpoint.

Coach Joe Mullaney said today that he didn't expect Tirico to be available. The Friars' second highest scorer last season, Tirico sprained his ankle badly in a workout during the Christmas holidays and had the lower part of his leg in a cast yesterday.

Tebo Out, Too

Tirico is the second Rhode Island collegian to come up with an ankle injury that will keep him on the sidelines. Brown's Joe Tebo is also nursing an injured ankle and coach Stan Ward doesn't figure on his star shooter for tomorrow night's game with Colby at Waterville.

The University of Rhode Island squad apparently is in fairly good shape for its test with the Friars. Coach Jack Guy instructed the players to work out whenever they could during the recess and some of them got together for a group drill down in Jersey.

The Friars' biggest problems at Kingston are a couple of fellows named Bill Von Weyhe and Ron Marozzi. While the Rams were well-taken by the Redmen of St. John's in their recent excursion to Madison Square Garden, the Rams' scoring twins played about as well as any collegians who have appeared there this season.

Lineup Undecided

With Tirico out of the PC lineup, Coach Mullaney is undecided on his starting team.

"We'll definitely have Johnny Ritch and Eddie Donahue in there," Mullaney said. "Those two fellows have been playing the best ball among our group. We need John because of his height and Eddie has also been doing a fine job."

"Some of the others have been hot and cold. Rhody has been playing some man-to-man and some zone against Fordham, so we'll just have to wait and see what they do and adjust accordingly. Von Weyhe and Marozzi are tough for any club and Jimmy Adams can be troublesome with his driving tactics."

The Friars took their first game in the State series with a 73-61 triumph over Brown. The URI Rams also scored a 58-49 victory over Bruno. PC bowed to Fordham in its last outing while Rhody was stopped by Fordham and St. John's in the same week.

Better Rested

Usually the Rams have been tournament jousting during the holiday period. Perhaps they will play better without this extra activity although few coaches will agree on that. Rhody, with its limited manpower, could be better rested for PC without the extra effort that would have been expended against strong tourney foes as was the story in other years.

Coach Lee Williams believes he has one of the best shooting teams in Colby history. His charges, led by Johnny Edes and Dick Campbell, play host to the Bruins tomorrow night and Springfield Saturday.

Coach Ward of the Bruins took in the Dartmouth-Connecticut game last night, which the Big Green won, 70-67, in a tight one. The Bruins have been working out since last Saturday with the exception of New Year's, with Jerry Alaimo setting the scoring pace in their game activity.

JOE McHENRY

Friars' Six Invading N.Y. for Two Games

Providence College's frisky Friars, hopeful of duplicating the upset antics of the 1954 P.C. hockey team, open a two-game invasion of upstate New York tonight when they take on Clarkson University at the latter's rink in Potsdam.

Just as they were on a wintry night three seasons back, when they rocked the collegiate world with a surprising 4-3 conquest of the Golden Knights, the sophomore-studded Friars again will occupy the underdog role.

Clarkson, rated the No. 1 team in the East in a preseason poll, lived up to advance notices during a recent Boston invasion and is ranked as a likely candidate for a berth in the NCAA championships at Colorado in March.

For P.C. to take the measure of a team of Clarkson's caliber will require considerable doing, but the Friars have the manpower and the potential to make it close and any overconfidence on the part of the New Yorkers could prove fatal.

Coach Tommy Eccleston frankly admits that tonight's game and tomorrow's with St. Lawrence at Canton, N.Y., loom as two of the toughest on the P.C. schedule. He'd gladly settle for a split and is hoping that the Friars haven't lost the form they displayed in the Christmas Week tournament in Boston.

With Gil Domingue, the Lewiston, Maine, sophomore still sidelined by the after-effects of the concussion he received three weeks back, Eccleston plans to use Mike McDonough at center on the line with the Labbe twins, Ray and Bob, in addition to having him take a turn at his normal defense post.

Mike handled that twin assignment in the Hub tournament and did a fine job. The other two lines, Joe Barile, George Boudreau, Lou LaFontaine and Capt. Bernie McCrink, Al McMahon and Paul Sainato, will remain intact.

Rounding out the 17-man squad that will make the trip will be defensemen Red Rabitor, Ray Blanchette, Ray Zifeak and Bob Fillion, spare forwards Jim Ford and Ted Carter, and goalies Don Girard and Phil Crawford.

The Friars, who left by bus for Potsdam yesterday, will carry a 5-and-2 record into tonight's game. They'll make their next Providence appearance at the Auditorium Wednesday night, when they entertain American International College.

Batchelder, LaFontaine Get All-Tourney Team Berths

Special to The Providence Journal
Boston — Brown's stellar goalie, Harry Batchelder, and Providence College forward Lou LaFontaine yesterday were named to the Boston Christmas Hockey Tournament "All Tourney" team. The team was selected by a board of 11 coaches and sports writers.

Batchelder, who had close to 90 saves in three games, was the top vote-getter. Batchelder drew nine first-place ballots and two seconds. LaFontaine received eight firsts and a second. The Friar ace scored five goals in his last two tournament games.

Harvard, the tournament champion, placed two men on the first team, forward Bob Cleary and defenseman Bob McVey.

Don MacLeod of Boston University landed the other defense post. Ned Bunyon of Boston College, the runnerup team, was named to complete the forward line.

James Bailey of Harvard and Alvin Pitts of Boston College wound up in a tie for the goalie spot on the second team. Defensemen are Bob Owen of Harvard and Mike McDonough of Providence. The forward line is composed of Jim Tiernan of B.C., John Carruthers of B.C. and Dick Fischer of Harvard.

The honorable mention list:

Goalies — Frankenberg, Dartmouth; Girard, Providence.

Defense — Hickey, Army; Fox and Micaud, B.C.; Dupuis, B.U.; Goggin, Dartmouth.

Forwards — Harvey, Army; Kane, Leay, Marino and Moylan, B.C.; Carriers, Manning and Sweeney, BU.; Dashnaw and Hebert, Brown; Lanigan and Wardeman, Dartmouth; Guttu and Vietze, Harvard; Cavanaugh, Northeastern; Barile, Providence.

Local College Teams Resume Full-Scale Competition Tonight

By PETE McCARTHY

College basketball hereabouts makes its 1957 start tonight after the two-week holiday layoff as Providence College travels to Kingston to play the Rams and Brown swings up to Maine to face Colby.

PC's hockey team, which won two of three games in the Boston holiday tournament last week, makes a two-game trip into upper New York State, where it meets Clarkson tonight and St. Lawrence tomorrow night.

The Friars, who are tied with Rhody in the intrastate series, each with a victory over Brown, will be without the services of Frank Tirico, junior guard, who suffered a sprained ankle during a workout while he was home over the holidays. Coach Joe Mullaney said Tirico stretched the ligaments in his left ankle and probably won't play until the end of this month. The injured foot is encased in a cast.

Another Casualty

Lionel Jenkins, junior forward, is another casualty. Jenkins was suffering from an infected elbow before the holidays and he didn't return with the rest of the PC squad for practice earlier this week.

With Tirico sidelined, Mullaney plans to use either Dick Bessette or Ken Clements, both sophomores, in that back-court post. There is a possibility that both may start, with Mike Pascale being held in reserve. The other starters probably will be Capt. John Ritch, Ed Donahue and Gordie Holmes.

With a 2-3 record thus far, the Friars have yet to reach the potential they showed in winning nine of 11 games over the second half of last season. And they'll have to improve, on their performance against Fordham if they are to win tonight despite the fact that the Rams have managed to win only one of five games thus far.

Coach Jack Guy again will bank on another iron-man job from his starters and the Rams could surprise if Co-capt. Billy Von Weyhe and Ronnie Marozzi have a hot night. These two will be augmented by Steve Madreperla, Brad Southworth and Jim Adams. Von Weyhe turned in his top game this season in the victory over Brown, when he scored 25 points and dominated the rebounding.

A freshman game between the two schools will precede the varsity contest. Game time for the preliminary is 6:30 o'clock.

Brown will leave Joe Tebo behind when it entrains for Waterville shortly after 7:30 this morning. Tebo still is troubled by his sprained ankle and Coach Stan Ward said rest appears to be the only solution. Tebo returned to the lineup and played briefly against Penn and Harvard, but the ankle remains swollen. Three sophomores are battling for Tebo's back-court position and Ward plans to give all three a chance tonight. They are Norm Bogar, Bill Suter and George Forsythe.

Pressing

Another sophomore, Jim Wright, is pressing senior Bill Wadsworth for one of the forward positions. Wright turned in a particularly fine game against Massachusetts. Jerry Alaimo, the Bruins' top scorer and the hero of the victory over Penn, will start at the other forward; Allen Poulsen, 6'8" sophomore, will open at center and Capt. John Lyden will start at the other guard position.

Brown brings a 2-5 record into tonight's game with the Mules, who have shown great scoring ability but also a weak defense in winning four and losing five games. Colby has beaten Bates, Maine, Bowdoin and Upsala and has lost to Connecticut, Vermont, Dartmouth, New York A.C. and Brandeis, all solid teams.

Sophomores dominate the Colby squad, but its leading scorer is Charley Twigg, who has averaged 21 points a game. He also paced the Mules last year. Their other top scorers are Johnny Edes, who ranks eighth among small-college players in free shooting with 86.1 per cent, and Dick Campbell, who is 10th in field-goal percentage, 56.3.

Stars Sidelined

The Friars and the Bruins will be without the services of a couple of their best men, who are worth their weight in baskets. That's Frank Tirico of the Friars and Joe Tebo of the Bruins. Each has an ankle injury that will keep them on the sidelines, according to the best information from the respective court headquarters.

Both Tirico, who injured his ankle during the holiday recess, and Tebo, hurt earlier, could be out of action for some time. Tirico looks like the quickest returnee and coach Mullaney says he might miss four games.

Providence will base its attack around center John Ritch and Eddie Donahue and Mike Pascale. Rhody will have Brad Southworth and Jimmy Adams working with Marozzi and Von Weyhe. Two of the Friars' starters and one of the Rams are problematical.

"The layoff didn't help us any," says Mullaney. "We weren't playing too well as a unit but lack of work never improved any basketball team. Rhody might be in the same boat although Von Weyhe and Marozzi will give us trouble and might pick up the rest of that club."

Off to Waterville

Coach Stan Ward's Bruins left for the cold country of Waterville early today via train and minus Tebo. Colby has a high scoring team although dropping decisions to UConn, Yale, Dartmouth and Brandeis among others. Charlie Twigg has averaged 21 points for the Mules.

Ernie Calverley's unbeaten Providence College Frosh meet the promising URI Ramlets at 6:30 at Frank Keaney gym, with the varsity game scheduled for 8:15. The Providence College hockey team that defeated Northeastern and Dartmouth impressively at Boston plays Clarkson tonight and St. Lawrence tomorrow on an up-state New York trip.

Around and About . . . Rhody's Tom Doherty was much impressed with St. John's performance against the Rams. . . . Michael Cuddy, youngest of Vin's three boys, almost had a serious holiday accident when he pinched a Christmas tree ornament and glass fragments got in his eye. . . . Luckily it all turned out well and the Friars' sports co-ordinator and his family had a happy holiday season. . . .

Friars Face Tough Task In URI Tilt

By JOE McHENRY

Billy Von Weyhe has boosted his shooting average from .865 to .923 on the foul line, but conversely he has dropped from No. 1 to No. 3 among the nation's major college foul shooters.

Von Weyhe, who leads the University of Rhode Island Rams against Providence College tonight at Kingston, has a solid touch from the foul line. Coach Jack Guy says he has the touch of an accomplished pianist—a Liberace of the basketball court.

The slim Jersey junior turned in one of the top games of his brilliant college career last time out against St. John's, with Ronnie Marozzi, his talented scoring twin, running him a close second. This is the pair that Coach Joe Mullaney and his Friars have to contain tonight in their intrastate duel.

Great Reception

Von Weyhe, who has to rebound as often as he shoots this season, got a terrific reception from the N.Y. Garden crowd.

"That was about as well as he has ever played in a college game," comments his coach. "He's improved on his defense and he's got that finger-tip control and touch that you have to have to be a top player."

Von Weyhe became the first Ram in history to surpass Ernie Calverley in scoring at Rhody and also the first to lead the nation in any individual shooting activity. Right now, Bill is third nationally with 24 successful foul shots in 26 tries. Eric Back of Western Kentucky is on top 22-23 and .957) and Bob Sietz of North Carolina State second with 38 for 40 and .950 percentage.

With Von Weyhe and Marozzi scoring and playing well, Coach Guy figures the holiday layoff may have dulled some of the edge. He hopes not as he foresees a tough, unpredictable contest with the Friars. Both teams defeated Brown, which plays Colby at Waterville tonight.

Overeager Friar Sextet Falls Prey To Powerful Clarkson Team, 7 to 2

Special to the Journal-Bulletin

Pottdam, N. Y. — Providence College's touring hockey team played powerful Clarkson to a standstill for more than a period here last night before yielding to its more experienced foe, 7-2.

The Friars, opening a two-game swing that will take them to Canton, N. Y., tonight for a game with St. Lawrence, actually led Clarkson for most of the first period.

That goal stood up until 15:07, when Grant Childerhose scored for Clarkson on a 10-footer. He was assisted by Eddie Rowe and Bob Van Lammers, who emerged as the stars of the night for the New Yorkers.

Rowe, the team's leading scorer, wound up with two goals and four assists and Van Lammers collected three goals in addition to his first-period assist.

But before these two started to click, the Friars gave every indication they might spring another upset to compare with their victory over the same Clarkson powerhouse two years ago.

The 1-1 tie held until 6:51 of the second period, in which Clarkson pulled away to a 4-2 lead with three goals. Rowe did the honors at 6:51, Van Lammers connected at 11:32 and Rowe scored again at 14:01.

Capt. Bernie McCrink of P.C. cut the lead to 4-2 shortly before the period ended on a short blast, with Lou La Fontaine and Barile assisting.

McCrink had moved up to the first line in place of Boudreau, who was injured a few minutes after scoring his first-period goal. The Friars wing was hit in the right cheekbone by a flying puck. The cheekbone puffed up and, though Boudreau was able to leave the ice under his own power, he was being held in the hospital overnight for X rays.

The Friars, who had skated right with their more highly touted rivals through the first period, continued their hustle in the second stanza. But overeagerness forced them into mistakes and Clarkson was able to take advantage of the openings.

That was the story of the third period, too, as the New York sextet pumped home three more goals while holding the Rhode Islanders scoreless.

Van Lammers scored his second goal at 1:14 and his third at 7:45. Howell posted the final Clarkson goal, at 11:44.

Sopomore Don Girard had 33 saves in the P.C. nets to 24 for MacDonald.

A capacity crowd of 2,000 watched the contest.

The summary:

CLARKSON (7)

St. Lawrence Sextet Blitzes Friars, 8-2

Special to The Providence Sunday Journal

Canton, N.Y.—A fast-skating, sharp-passing St. Lawrence hockey team scored four goals within eight minutes of the first period and defeated Providence College, 8-2, before a capacity crowd of 3,000 here at the Appleton Arena last night.

The Friars, playing without two of their starters, Ray Blanchette and George Boudreau, hustled all the way but the more experienced Larries continually capitalized on the visitors' mistakes.

The victory enabled the Larries' coach, George Menard, to turn the tables on PC coach Don Eccleston, who had tutored Menard at Burrillville High School.

St. Lawrence's first line of Ron O'Brien, Joe McLean and Lee Fournier did the damage with the opening-period blitz and the Friars never were able to recover from it. Three goals came in rapid-fire order in the seventh minute of play with McLean getting the first two and O'Brien the third. Less than a minute later O'Brien crashed through goalie Don Girard's guard again.

Girard had a busy night in the PC cage, turning aside 35 shots, many of them after the Larries had staged two and three-man breaks past the Friars' defense.

Joe Barile and Mike McDonough.

Thereafter the Friars had several scoring chances but Sarge Whittier, St. Lawrence goalie, thwarted their efforts. Five of his 16 saves were on the spectacular side.

Blanchette suffered an injury to his left ankle and Boudreau sustained a broken jaw in Friday night's game with Clarkson. Boudreau spent Friday night and yesterday in Pottsdam, N. Y., Hospital but he will return home with the PC squad today.

The Friars, who have won five and lost four, will meet American International at the R.I. Auditorium Wednesday night.

The summary:

Friars, Fresh From Defeating Rams, Take On Invading St. Anselm's Today

By JOE McHENRY

The ever-dangerous St. Anselm's Hawks take on the Providence College Friars in their annual basketball game today at 3 o'clock at Alumni Hall on the P.C. campus.

The Friars resumed their campaign with a solid 70-56 victory over the Rhode Island Rams Friday night and should be in good fettle for the high-scoring Hawks. However, the Hawks have much of last year's team available and that crew lost only four games in 23 starts.

St. Anselm's and the Friars have waged some hot encounters over the years. A year ago Joe Mullaney's Friars upset the Hawks at Manchester, breaking a string of 16 straight victories on their home floor.

The Hawks, coached by Al Grenert, who played under Howard Cann at New York University, are a fast-moving team. Annually they have the right combination of small men for hustle and drive and big men to get the ball. Frankie O'Donnell, the Hawks' playmaker, is only 5' 10" but he can give you more trouble than many bigger men.

Tirico Out

In Providence's upset triumph last season, Frank Tirico and Teddy Tedesco did the best scoring jobs. Tirico is out of action presently with his left ankle in a cast as a result of an injury during the holiday period when he worked out with some of his former high school mates at All Hallows High School in the Bronx. Tedesco graduated last June.

The Friars played a surer, tighter defense in their victory over Rhode Island and were not pushing their luck in their shooting. The Hawks are a faster-striking club than Rhody and have better all-around balance.

Providence showed considerable improvement in its offense against Rhode Island after its spotty work against Fordham. Although Tirico was on the sidelines, the Friars showed more poise and had a hot shooting streak that put them in the driver's seat.

The Hawks have dropped decisions to Holy Cross, where they may have been a little too confident, and to American International. They ran up 101 points Friday night against Suffolk in a tuneup for today's contest and hit the 80-90 range in some of their other victories.

Surprise Possible

Roger Canestrari, Dick Bessette and Gordie Holmes generally worked with Donohue, Ritch and Pascale until the Friars got the URI game under control. Bessette is the only sophomore starter and handled things well in his debut against Rhody.

The Hawks' starting lineup will include O'Donnell and Charlie McGrath, who had 22 points each against Suffolk, and Dick Broderick, picked on the All-Garden second team last year. Martin, John Collamore and Bob Barrett, who range from 6'8" to 6'5" work with their shorter mates, one man alternating.

With 19-and-4 last year and 5-and-2 this year, the Hawks could pull a surprise as Assumption did. However, the Friars should be wary of the New

Nichols Junior College, coached by Hal Chalmers, faces the undefeated Friar Frosh in the preliminary at 1:30 o'clock. Ernie Calverley's charges had quite an uphill struggle against the URI Ramlets.

Purple Scores 69-60 Victory Before 3,400

By JOE McHENRY

Closing with a rush that caused the Friars to lose some of their poise, the Holy Cross Crusaders scored a 69-60 triumph over Providence College before an excited standing-room audience of 3,400 last night at PC's Alumni Hall.

The Friars came up with another outstanding performance, one that had the highly-rated Crusaders on uneasy street for much of the thrilling contest. Actually the nine-point difference doesn't tell the great job that Joe Mullaney's crew accomplished against New England's top team that is headed for the NCAA tourney.

Holy Cross had a much tougher scrap on its hands than anticipated and finally got a grip on the situation through the individual efforts of Joe Liebler, George Waddleton and Tommy Heinsohn, more or less in that order.

The Friars were shooting for an upset and the place was jammed. For awhile it looked as though the Friars could beat the big odds that faced them. Providence held a 31-26 half-time edge and was playing a better game than its big league foe. The Cross was missing on its outside shooting as both teams played it reasonably close and careful.

Loss of Ritch Hurts

Although it didn't show up immediately, the tide started turning in the Crusader's favor when the Friar's big man, John Ritch, fouled out early in the second half. During intermission, Coach Roy Leenig of the Cross changed his attack and the Friars couldn't seem to cover all the spots at the same time as well as they had previously.

Holy Cross was nowhere as smooth as in its Notre Dame victory, nor could the Friars match their efforts against the Irish either. Providence was just keyed up and playing well enough to make it a fine evening all around but eventually the class of the Crusaders told.

Scoring honors were divided among Waddleton and Heinsohn, with 22 apiece and Liebler, who had 14, for the Crusaders. Mike Pascale did some nice shooting for the Friars and had 22 points. Frank Tirico and Eddie Donahue were next with 16 and 12, respectively.

Waddleton Leads Surge

The Friars had a five-point edge at intermission but that wasn't enough with Ritch having four fouls and the Cross figuring to play better. The Crusaders were knocking on the door and then took the lead shortly after the second half got underway.

Waddleton fired the Cross attack in the second half. His drive play for a basket put the Crusaders ahead at 15:38 for the first time since about seven minutes along in the first half. And after five minutes, the Cross had a 41-37 lead. This was not insurmountable but it gave them the impetus to play better.

Tirico twice tied the game up with a field goal and a pair of foul shots. Then Heinsohn tapped in a rebound in a scramble that Pascale offset with two free throws at 47-all. Tom Ryan and Waddleton put the Crusaders ahead twice with Pascale tying things up on two baskets. The latter hoop on a setup from Tirico made it 53-37.

Shortly after the 10-minute mark, Waddleton dropped in a pair of free throws, putting the Cross ahead for the rest of the night. Then Liebler, who is a fine player but underrated on his club, made two nifty baskets. One the second hoop, he dribbled more than half-court and put in a hoop from the right that brought a roar from the Cross supporters. It was 59-53 after Liebler's exploits.

Big Basket

The Friars closed it up to 60-57 as Donahue scored two points. Then Heinsohn, who was a bull on the boards, came up with the ball in a wild scramble and dunked it in for a five-point edge, 62-57, with 4:38 remaining. That was a big basket. Providence brought the ball up and lost it, with Central Falls' Joe Hughes picking it off. The Crusaders played a waiting game, passing it around among Liebler, Don Prohovich, Waddleton, Heinsohn and Hughes. The clock was on their side and their sure ballhandling left nothing for the Friars to do but race around and foul if they could.

Waddleton's accurate shooting increased the Cross' margin gradually. The Friars failed to score for more than four minutes in the last five. Tirico put in a pair of free throws in the last minute.

Jack Whalen put in a basket with three seconds left that enabled the Holy Cross Cubs to go into overtime against the PC Frosh. The young Crusaders, paced by Whalen and Jack Farrell, scored a 78-71 triumph in another thriller. Pete Schemenetti (29), Dick Bessette (18) and Ken Clements (16) led the Friars. Whalen had 37 points.
