The Star-Spangled Banner
by Francis Scott Key
Led by Danielle I. Maldonado '17

O say, can you see, by the dawn’s early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight
O’er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming!
And the rockets’ red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there:
O say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O’er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

SENIOR SCHOLAR, THE POYNTER INSTITUTE DOCTOR OF JOURNALISM

Dr. Roy Peter Clark '70, "America's writing coach," has devoted his career to creating a nation of writers. A "teacher who writes, and a writer who teaches," he has been associated for nearly 40 years with The Poynter Institute for Media Studies, the world-renowned school for journalists in St. Petersburg, Fla.

As Poynter's first full-time faculty member, dean of the faculty, vice president, and senior scholar, he has taught writing to students at every level, from children in public schools to authors who have won Pulitzer Prizes. Among his clients are The New York Times, The Washington Post, National Public Radio, the World Bank, IBM, and Disney, in addition to many colleges and universities.

A New York City native, Dr. Clark was the first in his family to attend college. He majored in English in the Liberal Arts Honors Program at Providence College, graduated summa cum laude, and presented the class oration at commencement. He earned a Ph.D. in medieval literature from Stony Brook University and then joined Auburn University as an assistant professor of English. In 1977, he became writing coach and staff writer at the St. Petersburg Times, whose owner and chair, the late Nelson Poynter, founded the writing school that became The Poynter Institute.

Dr. Clark is the author or editor of 18 books, including Writing Tools: 50 Essential Strategies for Every Writer (Little, Brown and Company, 2006), which has consistently ranked as one of the top books about writing sold in the United States. He has responded to scandals and controversies in journalism and in literature, especially public cases of plagiarism and fabrication. He has been a guest on the Today show and The Oprah Winfrey Show.

Dr. Clark has maintained his connections to PC. Most recently, he returned to campus in October 2016 to participate in a symposium on Truth and the Liberal Arts. He retired from full-time duties at The Poynter Institute in January 2017 but retains his emeritus title as senior scholar and continues to work on special projects. He also plays keyboard in a rock band.

His is a PC love story. Dr. Clark met his wife, Karen Major Clark, when he was a student at PC and she worked in the Alumni Development Office. Married on campus in 1971, they have three daughters and reside in St. Petersburg.

BARNABY EVANS

CREATOR, WATERFIRE PROVIDENCE DOCTOR OF FINE ARTS

Barnaby Evans is the creator, founder, and artistic director of WaterFire Providence, a spectacular art installation that lights up the three rivers of downtown Providence on weekend nights from March to November.

WaterFire began as First Fire in 1994, an event Mr. Evans created to celebrate the 10th anniversary of First Night Providence. It was followed in 1996 by Second Fire, which he created for an arts festival and sculpture conference. With volunteers and community support, WaterFire has been an ongoing installation since 1997, attracting more than 1 million visitors. Bonfires are lit at sundown on more than 80 wood-filled braziers floating on the city's three rivers. Visitors can stroll the waterfront while listening to instrumental music, or enjoy a gondola ride.

Mr. Evans has brought WaterFire to Columbus, Ohio; Houston, Texas; Tacoma, Wash.; and Kansas City, Mo. He installed WaterFire on the Bedok Reservoir in Singapore in 2011. He is engaged in projects in Venice, Berlin, and Rome, and is exploring installations in St. Petersburg, Fla.; Honolulu; Seoul; and Buenos Aires.

Mr. Evans and WaterFire received the first Rhode Island Arts and Tourism Award, the Rhode Island Council on the Humanities' Tom Roberts Prize for Creative Achievement in the Humanities, a crystal award from Tiffany & Co. for Contributions to the Renaissance of Providence, and the Rudy S. Bruner Silver Award for Urban Excellence.

In 2010, Mr. Evans was honored with a Distinguished Service to the Arts Award from the National Governors Association.

A native of Berkeley, Calif., Mr. Evans graduated in 1975 from Brown University. While studying biology and environmental science, he developed a love for photography and an appreciation for Providence architecture. His photography is included in the permanent collections of the Victoria and Albert Museum, London; Bibliothèque National, Paris; and the Musée d'art et d'histoire, Fribourg, Switzerland, among others, and have been exhibited nationally and internationally.

FOUNDER AND CEO, EDESIA DOCTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE

Navyn Salem is the founder and CEO of Edesia, a Rhode Island-based nonprofit that produces a range of ready-to-use foods to help treat and prevent acute malnutrition in children living in developing countries worldwide. The sweet, peanut-based, fortified pastes come in foil packets and have reached nearly 5 million children in 48 countries since production began in 2010.

Ms. Salem was inspired to launch Edesia after a 2007 visit to her father's native country, Tanzania, and her discovery of Plumpy'Nut, a ready-to-use therapeutic food made by Nutriset, a nutrition company based in France.

With a $2 million grant from the U.S. Agency for International Development and a licensing agreement with Nutriset, Ms. Salem established a factory in Providence in 2009 which relocated to North Kingstown in 2016. She named the company Edesia after the Roman goddess of banquets and plenty.

She is a trustee of Boston College and a member of the Chicago Council's Global Agricultural Development Initiative Advisory Group.

Ms. Salem and her husband, Paul Salem, live in Barrington, R.I., with their four daughters.

The Celebration of the Century

Commencement Weekend represents a key juncture in this remarkable centennial year, during which thousands of members of the Providence College community have celebrated our shared heritage and our hopes for the College's future.

More than 100 events and activities have brought together students, faculty, staff, alumni, and friends to enjoy each other's company, to learn about subjects across academic disciplines, and to support PC's pursuit of the strategic initiatives that will define our second century.

Our students — members of the classes of 2017, 2018, 2019, and 2020 — will be forever bonded by the fact that they, uniquely, were Providence College students during both its first century and its second. Those students have participated fully in the year-long centennial celebration, and they have staged several of their own events, including February's unforgettable Black and White Ball.

As our graduates' families and friends gather today, we are pleased to share a screening of The Promise of Providence, a centennial film created by master storyteller Mike Leonard '70 & '00Hon. and executive producer Mary Kay Wall '13P, '15P, '18P, and '20P. The film, which premiered at October's festive St. Dominic Weekend centennial celebration, defines Providence College at its centennial and tells the story of how it came to be an institution of such impact and importance.

To relive the centennial celebration through photos, videos, and stories, and to learn more about the events still to come, visit centennial.providence.edu. ■

What Would the Founders Say Now?

BY RICHARD J. GRACE, PH.D. '62
PROFESSOR EMERITUS OF HISTORY

What would the founders say now, if they were given by divine generosity the chance to see Providence College as it reaches age one hundred?

They would, in all likelihood, be astounded at the physical transformation of the campus, at the pace of new building, at the facilities that were unimaginable in 1917, and at the way that teaching environments have evolved.

No doubt they would be amazed to see women in all aspects of academic life as well as administrative positions. Some might indeed be perplexed that this could happen without spoiling the “healthy all-male atmosphere” that characterized the first half century. But given a few days of observing, surely most of them would come to recognize the enrichment of the College that has happened with the integration of women in all phases of college life over the second half century.

The founders would have to be pleased and hopeful that the College has retained its Catholic identity while also recognizing the rich diversity of the current campus population and the societal trends of the 21st century. The great steeple which marks the prominence of the chapel as one of the centers of the campus would certainly delight the founders and the original faculty of Dominicans. Most assuredly, they would not understand the dress of students in our time (and faculty dress, for that matter). They would, of course, be glad to see a goodly number of Dominican habits on the walks, but the range of attire, from dressy and handsome to casual, more casual, and most casual, would boggle the minds of the men who started the place in 1917 and saw its first male students arrive wearing suit jackets and ties in 1919.

It might take a moment to sink in, but they would assuredly roar their approval upon learning that the first NCAA national championship ever won by a PC sports team belonged to the women's cross country team in 1995, including runners whose homes were thousands of miles away from Providence.

Some would dream about the prospect of participating in the annual zumbathon, but they would have to be given a map of the campus in order to find the Concannon Fitness Center, which sits on what was the wilderness in 1919.

They would be charmed by the reality that, a whole century later, PC students still love to dance — a lot! But they would be mystified to find that the waltz and the foxtrot have been supplanted in our day by unusual gyrations and undulations that Fred Astaire never enticed Ginger Rogers to imitate.

Their jaws would drop when they got a peek at the charges for tuition and residence. Even those who would bother to calculate the element of inflation over the course of a century would wonder at the ability of PC families to meet the costs. Simultaneously, they would probably be astonished by the amount of money the College can commit to financial aid each year.

On the other hand, the founders would be happily surprised to know that the College could raise more than $170 million in its latest appeal, thanks in large part to the abiding affection of many alumni who stand ready to put their money where their hearts are.

Most of the Dominicans who constituted the faculty and administration in 1919 appear unsmiling in the famous photograph of the opening day of Providence College. Perhaps their serious look had something to do with the enormous task they had agreed to take on, virtually a missionary endeavor to make a college succeed on a shoestring, and to keep the Gospel prominent while promoting the importance of math and literature and biology.

Today, they would be smiling, one suspects, because the College has prospered, has survived its family fights, has been recognized far and wide for the value of its education, has seen its children's children join the ranks of alumni, and has made strenuous efforts to honor the single word on its crest — Veritas. ■

This Glorious Place

“What will become of you? A century of evidence suggests a person of great character, intellectual depth, and creative wisdom.”

— MIKE LEONARD '70 & '00HON.

Toward the end of his stirring Providence College centennial film, The Promise of Providence, alumni filmmaker Mike Leonard spoke those words directly to our students. In two artful sentences, his words described the essential, enduring nature of PC as we simultaneously look back and look forward at this milestone anniversary.

For 100 years, the women and men of Providence College have led communities, built businesses, and raised families. They have shared God’s gifts through lives of remarkable generosity, service, and evangelism — modeling the examples of the Dominicans, the professors, and the PC friends who became part of their lives forever. Our common experiences unite us, and our shared ideals, in many ways, define us.

The theme of our year-long centennial celebration is “Values That Endure.” It is our common values — steady and true since 1917 — that give depth and meaning to the “great character, intellectual depth, and creative wisdom” that generations of graduates exemplify. Those values, rooted in our Catholic and Dominican traditions, and amplified in our classrooms and our community, will endure — and so will Providence College, as a place of untold value and relevance, for generations to come.

God has smiled upon Providence College throughout its history. He has provided blessings beyond measure, and we pray for His continued grace as we begin our second century, grateful to be part of this community and looking forward to a future that we may rightfully believe will be as brilliant as our glorious past. ■

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Academic regalia, rooted in traditions that began at 12th century European universities, conveys historical significance and specific meaning to contemporary academic ceremony. Often lacking buildings of their own, those universities would undertake teaching and learning in churches, with academic activities involving both clerics and laypeople. Historians suggest that scholars of the day wore hoods and long robes as a means for staying warm in unheated church buildings. From those origins has evolved a colorful tradition rife with symbolism and meaning.

According to standards adopted by American universities, the cut of the gown signifies whether the wearer has a bachelor's, master's, or doctoral degree, with the doctoral robe adorned with three bars on each sleeve and front panels. The hood represents both the wearer's field of study and the institution that awarded his or her degree. Headwear, both the mortarboard cap and tam, and the tassel itself, may be assigned to represent a specific field of study.
