As Providence College enters its sixtieth year, it is an opportune time to reflect upon the state of a college that has made its presence felt not only in New England but throughout the nation. In this special report issue of Providence we present the President's Report, which begins on the front cover. In the report, Father Peterson provides an assessment of conditions at an institution that has seen its undergraduate enrollment rise from 75, when its doors opened in the early part of this century, to 3,462 as of last month. The enduring health and vitality of Providence College are intrinsically bound to the support exhibited by its alumni. Thus a major portion of this magazine has been devoted to reports on the Annual Loyalty Fund and the Capital Campaign. It is your assistance that has enabled Providence College to continue development of its excellent academic programs and to provide the physical facilities to support these programs. We have also devoted a substantial section to listing the names of contributors to the Loyalty Fund and the Capital Campaign. We want to publicly acknowledge our debt to these individuals.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

in its sixtieth year.*

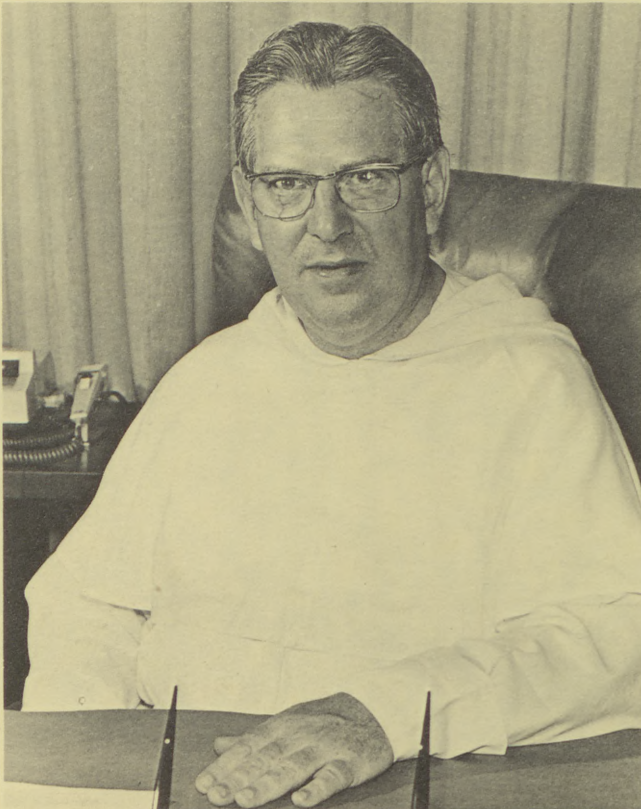

Providence College is in the midst of a period of sustained growth.

Providence College was founded almost sixty years ago on 11 acres by seven Dominicans with a $10,000 budget. Today, there are 65 Dominicans among the college's 225 faculty members. The campus has expanded to 104 acres and this year the projected budget will be almost $15.5 million. The changes are obvious, but so also is the unchanging resolve of the Providence College Community: To imbue each student with a life-long commitment to the pursuit of truth.

ENROLLMENT

In a report on the state of Providence College, perhaps the most apparent indicator of the health of the college is its capacity to attract students. Declining enrollment is among the factors signaling impending or actual distress. I am happy to report that Providence College is in the midst of a period of sustained growth. In the past five years, our undergraduate enrollment has jumped 38% from 2,401 to 3,315.

To place these statistics in perspective let us compare the increase in students attending Providence with national figures. According to tabulations by the government's National Center for Education Statistics, the total enrollment increase at private institutions of higher education was 4.2% last fall. Our enrollment rose by 9% in the same period.

Preliminary enrollment figures for the current academic year indicate that there are now more than 3,400 undergraduates at the college.

For a mix of reasons, however, I do not see this level of growth continuing. In view of national demographic changes — namely, the declining birth rate — and the changing attitudes of high school students toward higher education, there is a long-term contraction of the pool of potential applicants.

But more importantly is our conviction that if our student body keeps expanding at its current pace the character of Providence College will be fundamentally altered. The college was founded to be a relatively small Catholic liberal arts institution of higher education.

It would be difficult to maintain this highly-personal environment with an undergraduate enrollment that would significantly exceed 3,400 students.

While we foresee a leveling off of undergraduate enrollment, a consensus has developed at the college that higher education should not be confined to young people between the ages of 18 and 22. The School of Continuing Education has made an extraordinary effort to serve the needs of new segments within the Rhode Island community. We have developed a program of evening courses for persons who are beyond the traditional age of college attendance, for persons who encounter a need for recurrent learning and for persons who have found that their early education has become somewhat inadequate because of the changing demands of society.

Over the last five years, the School of Continuing Education has increased its enrollment from 973 students in 1971 to 1710 as of last fall, this represents a rise of 76%.

The number of students seeking advanced degrees through our Graduate School has also grown substantially since 1971. Five years ago, 347 students were enrolled in one of our six graduate concentrations. During this past year, there were 680, an increase of 96%.

The Chapin property has provided some very needed breathing space for our land-locked campus.

PHYSICAL EXPANSION

Almost two years ago, Providence College acquired the Chapin Hospital property from the City of Providence for $780,000. The former hospital complex, which is located immediately adjoining the main campus, includes 10 buildings and 25 acres of land. This addition has greatly enhanced the potential of the college and has provided some very needed breathing space for our landlocked campus. It has provided space and facilities for such long-needed additions as dormitories, faculty offices, classrooms, parking areas and intramural athletic fields.

An engineering survey was conducted to ascertain the best use to which the various buildings might be put. Of the ten buildings, 9 are structurally sound and can be rehabilitated for the diverse needs of the college. Since the college's acquisition, the following has been accomplished on the Chapin property, which is now known as the Lower Campus.

All the power, heat, water, telephone connections, etc., have been tied into the main campus. A parking lot for 430 cars has been finished. An athletic field complex made up of a football field, a soccer field and two softball fields has been added. Two of the buildings on the Chapin property were rehabilitated into dormitories. New roofs were put on these buildings. An upgrading of the plumbing and electrical facilities as well as painting and other preventive maintenance has now been completed. The new buildings now house about 420 resident students. One of the buildings was named for Father Charles V. Fennell, who served the college for 37 years. The other was named for Father Vincent C. Dore, Chancellor of the college. A third building to be named in memory of Father Ambrose Howley has been rehabilitated into a faculty office complex which will provide needed space for approximately 80 faculty members.

Another building is being converted into a Fine Arts Center. It will provide studio space for painting and sculpture, special lecture rooms for art courses, a gallery and photographic darkrooms. A fifth building is being converted into a recreation complex for resident students.

This fall, six of the nine useable structures will have been completely refurbished and open to the faculty and students. These renovations have cost the college more than $2 million.

Studies are in progress to determine how best to use the remaining buildings and any of the additional land. The structure of the buildings and the proximity of the Chapin property to the main campus made the transition and incorporation of Lower Campus a very rapid one.

Beside planning for the further development of the Lower Campus, serious attention must also be given to the possibility of construction of a faculty house for the Dominican community. This is a project which has long since been deferred and delayed. Few institutions of higher education have had the benefit of the substantial contribution of teaching services that is made by the Dominican Fathers at Providence College. In addition it is my strong conviction that those Dominicans who have spent years of service at the college should be most welcome to remain here even after their retirement from the active faculty.

A new residence facility would permit us to accommodate the large number of priests on the faculty and to provide suitable quarters for the retired Dominicans.

To insure the perpetuation of our value-centered education, it is essential to retain the best of traditional learning.

Among the other projects the college is considering is the construction of a theater. Some very preliminary studies on this matter are now being conducted.

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

To insure the perpetuation of Providence College's value-centered education, it is essential to retain the best of traditional learning. But our grasp upon the old is not so rigid that it prevents us from adapting to the changing character of society and the demands and needs of our students.

I mentioned earlier our firm conviction to preserve the cherished personal and Christian character of Providence College. Essential to this purpose is the continuation of a vital liberal arts curriculum. The core of the undergraduate offerings is what has been called the Dimensions of Western Civilization, which is taken by students in their freshman and sophomore years. It attempts to bring together in chronological fashion key elements of ancient, modern and contemporary western civilization.

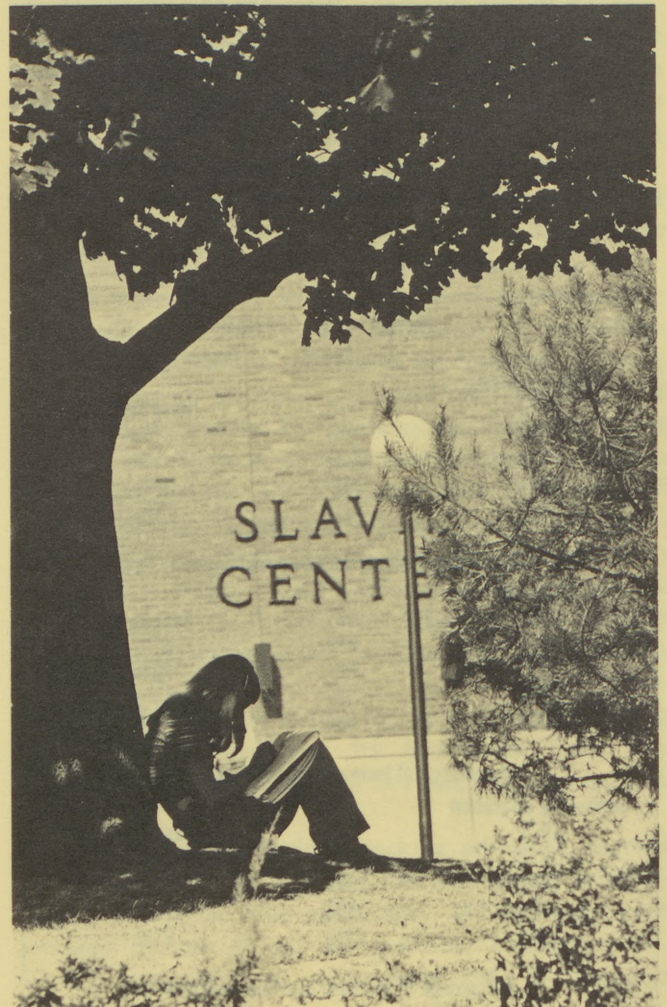

The Western Civilization Program is composed of history, literature, philosophy, religious studies, and art. It is a team taught program whose faculty representatives come from each of the appropriate disciplines. As can be easily understood, the diversity and complexity of the program present certain problems. Most of these have been worked out over the years that "Civ", as the students call it, has been part of our curriculum. We are now quite convinced that the program is both valuable and successful. Last summer a $40,000 grant was received from the National Endowment for the Humanities to re-evaluate and update our program. A number of other schools have sought information concerning it and are in the process of adapting it for their own use.

The traditional academic programs in history, English, the humanities, languages and the physical and social sciences are still prime areas of concentration in the P.C. curriculum. But student interest as well as professional opportunities change from time to time and curriculum revision must take cognizance of this fact.

As a result new programs have been added. The programs in art history, the fine arts, and music are enjoying periods of rather rapid growth. There is now a full department of art and we are working toward a department in music. A program in theater arts has enjoyed significant success, and we hope in the not-to-distant future, it, too, will become a full blown department.

Some traditional areas have diminished significantly particularly since they are very limited in their potential for future job opportunities. Programs to prepare students for teaching at the grammar and high school levels have decreased. Only time will tell how long this trend will continue. Academic offerings in business and accounting and special education have grown at a very rapid rate. We have added a masters program in business administration and in a very short time the participants in this program were more than double the number we had originally anticipated. A new program in health services administration has also proven very successful.

the constant and the increasingly generous support of our alumni.*

An examination of this year's graduating class points up the changing interests of students. The recession-conscious Class of 1976 showed a marked preference for career-oriented courses. While the size of the graduating class grew 39% between 1971 and 1976 — from 463 students to 645 — the number majoring in business jumped 80% from 90 to 162. Biology majors, looking towards careers in the health services, rose 137% during the five years from 27 to 64, and the number receiving bachelors' degrees in political science surged 195% from 21 to 62.

FINANCIAL POSITION

The total estimated worth of Providence College's physical plant is $34 million. Its total indebtedness amounts to a little more than $10 million. Its total indebtedness was brought about by such projects as the building of the Phillips Memorial Library, McVinney Hall, the Slavin Center and Schneider Arena.

The operating budget of Providence College for the academic year 1975-76 was $13.2 million. The operating budget for the 1976-77 academic year will be $15.4 million. For the past five years Providence College has balanced its budget each year and we project a balanced budget for the current academic year. This matter of a balanced budget is a most important one because the continuity of any institution of higher learning is closely related to its financial stability. This budgetary stability has been achieved without any diminution of the academic standards for incoming students or any compromise in the qualifications of faculty members. During the past five years, faculty salaries have been consistently increased and are now very competitive when measured by national standards for state and private colleges and universities.

In July of 1971, Providence College had an accumulated operating deficit of $800,000. I am pleased to report that as of this past July, we have been able to complete the elimination of this deficit.

In order to assure that the budget remains in balance, a constant monitoring process must be carried out during the academic year. During the past year there has been a total reorganization of the business procedures of the college. We have gone from a cash flow to a modified accrual system. This has been done with the assistance of a professional consulting firm. We have also made strides in computerizing virtually all of the business operation.

One very significant element in the budget is scholarship assistance for our students. Nearly 60% of Providence's full-time students received some measure of financial aid last year; but the funds available fall far short of the requirements. During this past year 300 of our students, who qualified for financial aid, were unable to be given assistance because the funds ran out. In the coming academic year, we will provide out of the college's operating revenue almost $1 million in scholarship assistance. (This amount does not include any funds from state or federal sources.) The ability of Providence College to offer such scholarship support is brought about mainly because of the contributed services of the Dominican Fathers.

The financial stability of Providence College has been accomplished only through the concerted efforts of many people. Of special note has been the constant and increasingly generous support of our alumni. As will be reported in greater detail in another section of this magazine, the Annual Loyalty Fund raised this past year about $180,000, an increase of almost 15% over the previous year. This is an outstanding achievement. I would like to thank John F. Capaldi, chairman of the '75 - '76 Loyalty Fund, and all of our graduates who obviously have made personal sacrifices to help the college. This kind of support is essential to insure the continuation of a fiscally sound and independent Providence College.

Counter balancing the need for fiscal stability is the necessity to keep the cost of room, board, tuition and fees at a minimum. This year the tuition will be $2,566 and the cost of room and board will be $1,600. This year's increase was $200 for tuition and fees and $150 for room and board. Even with these increases, the cost of a Providence College education is less than any other comparable private institution of higher education in the New York and New England areas.

The inflationary pressures that continue to push up the cost of a Providence College education are a cause of great concern here at the college. We face the danger of pricing ourselves out of the reach of middle-income students — the segment of the population that has

of our apostolate we ask God's assistance and yours.*

traditionally turned to Providence College.

We are, therefore, looking towards our alumni to help ease the mounting financial burdens. The need is great. The college's long-term debt has passed the $10 million mark. The development of Lower Campus has to date cost more than $2 million. As mentioned previously, the proposed Dominican residence house has been delayed too long.

THE FUTURE

Those involved in higher education are called upon to look to the future and predict things to come. Depending upon the person or group to whom one goes for sage advice, the prophecy may be either painful or pleasant. Prophets of doom predict dire days for the future of Catholic higher education. Prophets of promise see nothing but sunny days for the Catholic college of tomorrow. Both cannot be right but it would seem in all likelihood that neither will be entirely wrong. For one not to see future problems would be to miss the obvious. Perhaps it would be well to indicate just a few of the possible solutions.

The demographic predictions for 1980 indicate that the student population will then be significantly less than it is at the present time. As a result, the number of young people applying to colleges will have decreased. There are those who would conclude from this statistic that all colleges and universities will have a lower enrollment by 1980. There are others who argue equally strongly that colleges which can demonstrate a particular type of education with a particular appeal may not be affected at all or at least will not be affected as greatly as, e.g., the state colleges and universities. All institutions of higher learning will have to take careful cognizance of these predictions. Such forecasts, however, cannot be looked upon as infallible. Ten years ago, we were told that the resident population of colleges and universities would decrease significantly. This year, Providence College will have its largest resident enrollment in the history of the college. Every attempt will be made in the next few years to watch very closely student enrollment trends.

Financial stability will have to continue to be a prime concern for Providence College. There are many areas where increased expenses can be anticipated. These areas include such things as faculty salaries, the cost of energy, the cost of food and maintenance. While it is likely that the cost of tuition will continue to rise somewhat during the next few years, the college must be careful not to price itself out of the market. The computerization of the business management of the college will make the monitoring of financial affairs more efficient and help in the maintenance of fiscal stability.

New and creative academic programs will have to be developed and geared to the needs of changing times.

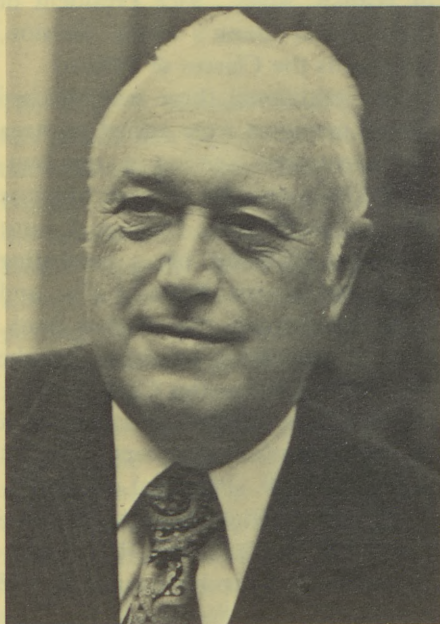

We are now and shall remain for some time in an age of legalism. In instances in which professors are denied either promotion or tenure, in cases where students are brought up on disciplinary matters, even when staff members are replaced, the practice has become quite commonplace for court proceedings to follow. At the present time Providence College is involved in three court cases. A fourth case involving Civil Rights action brought against the college by a female staff member who was not rehired has since been settled in favor of Providence College. Colleges and universities all over the country are finding more and more that legal action has become part of almost ordinary college procedures.

About 60 years ago, 7 Dominicans with strong courage and great hopes founded a college and made it succeed. Their dream was that they might bring the truth of the words of God and man particularly to young people during their maturing years. They hoped to help transform those whom they taught into the people of God. We at Providence College today hope and pray that we have no less courage and no less hope than the Dominicans of 60 years ago. We, too, work among the young people as they search to find not only the depth of human wisdom but also to appreciate clearly the apex of its Divine dimension. To assure the success of this apostolate we ask God's assistance and yours.

ALUMNI NEWS

Alumni Leadership for '76 - '77 Announced

RICHARD A. RILEY '37 NAMED CHAIRMAN OF
76-77 LOYALTY FUND

Very Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., Providence College President, and Alumni President, Paul J. Pisano '61, have announced the appointment of Richard A. Riley of Akron, Ohio, as General Chairman of the 1976-77 Alumni Loyalty Fund.

Mr. Riley, who received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1937 and an Honorary Doctor of Business Administration in 1969 from Providence College, is currently Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio. With his promotion last month as Board Chairman, Mr. Riley became the first non-Firestone family member to occupy the top position in the $3.7 billion company. A Fall River native, he joined the Firestone Company in 1939 as an accountant in its Fall River plant and rose through the ranks to become a director of the company in 1970 and President on September 7, 1972.

Though his occupation has taken him away from the local area, his loyalty and interest in Providence College have remained strong over the years. In addition, three other members of the Riley family have attended Providence College, namely his brothers John T. Riley '41, President of the Kelco Company in San Diego, California, Dr. George F. Riley '44, a prominent dentist in Southeastern Massachusetts, and Frederick A. Riley '52, Vice President and General Manager of Camelot Motor Inns of Wethersfield, Conn.

Mr. Riley is married to the former Helen Fox of Fall River and they are the parents of two children, Richard A. Riley, jr., and Mrs. Alan G. (Janet) Altenau. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Rubber Manufacturers Association (RMA) and the Highway Users Federation for Safety and Mobility. He also serves on the Board of Trustees of Children's Hospital in Akron and is active in a number of other civic and youth organizations.

Mr. Riley will be leading the most extensive Loyalty Fund Drive in the college's history. A goal in excess of $200,000 is planned for this year's campaign which extends from October 1, 1976 to June 30, 1977. Additional leadership and volunteer recruitment is already underway and organizational plans and details will be announced in the next edition of Providence Magazine.

The annual Alumni Loyalty Fund Drive is one of the college's principal sources of unrestricted revenue and is used primarily for scholarships and student aid, library books, faculty development and other high priority needs.

Contributors to the Loyalty Fund, regardless of the size of their gifts, are considered "active" members of the Alumni Association and entitled to use the college's athletic and academic facilities and receive priority for all alumni-sponsored activities including a full subscription to Providence Magazine.

PAUL J. PISANO '61
HEADS LIST OF NEW LEADERS OF THE ALUMNI

Four attorneys, eight businessmen, two educators, a journalist, a dentist and a physician are supplying the leadership for the national P.C. Alumni Association Board of Governors for the 1976-77 year.

Attorney Paul J. Pisano '61, of East Greenwich, R.I., is the new President of the Alumni Association after serving an elected term as Vice President this past year and Treasurer the year before that. In addition to his elected alumni roles he has served the college as Chairman of Homecoming Weekend, Chairman of the Alumni Planning Committee, member of the College Union Advisory Board and legal adviser to the P.C. Student Congress. Paul is a partner in the Providence law firm of Almonte, Lisa and Pisano and he is chief legal counsel for the R.I. Department of Mental Health.

Washington, D.C., attorney Paul S. Quinn '56, is the new Vice President and will automatically succeed to the presidency in 1977-78. A native of Pawtucket, he is a partner in the law firm of Wilkinson, Cragun and Barker and specializes in international law and trade association practice in the area of travel and tourism.

This year's Treasurer is Dr. William F. Varr '52, an anesthesiology specialist at Kent County Hospital in Warwick, R.I. Dr. Varr served as Chairman of the 1973 Homecoming Weekend and resides in West Warwick.

The position of Secretary belongs to John E. Martinelli '65, an attorney from Scituate, R.I. John's law office is located in Providence. He is a Class Agent for the Class of 1965 and served a prior three-year term as a regular member of the Alumni Board from 1970-73.

Alumni Officers

Three new regular members of the Alumni Board were elected for a three-year term. John P. McGarry, Sr. '47, Providence real estate developer; represents the classes from 1943-47. Warren Howe of Wallingford, Conn., a Vice President of Travelers Insurance, represents the Classes of 1958-62. Kevin Phelan '66, of Waban, Mass., Vice President of State Street Bank's realty division, represents the Classes of 1962-67.

An additional three new Alumni Board members were added as Area Representatives serving a one-year-term. They are: Dr. Joseph Siracuse '58, a dentist from Orange, Conn.; E. James Mulcahy '66, a marketing executive for the Polaroid Co. and John Rossomondo '61, of Red Bank, N.J., a marketing executive for the Este Lauder Cosmetics Co.

The new Board members join holdover regular members, Charles Bresnahan '49, Principal of Smithfield Junior High School; Wallace Tasca '40, of Cranston, R.I., Secretary of Tasca Lincol-Mercury; Gerald Hughes '68, of Westfield, N.J., an insurance executive; Dr. William Robinson '35, Associate Commissioner of Education for R.I.; Henry Kaveny '27, of Warwick, a retired retailing executive and Robert Finneran '53, Editor of the North Andover newspaper, "The Townsman."

Last year's President, attorney Stephen A. Fanning, Jr., '50, of Providence, is also a hold-over serving a term this year as immediate Past President. Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., is a permanent member of the Alumni Board in his capacity as Chaplain of the Alumni Association.

The Alumni Board of Governors is the policy setting body of the Alumni Association which now has over 18,000 P.C. graduates and former students on its rolls. Since the Association does not collect dues a contribution to the Annual Alumni Loyalty Fund is the criterion for being placed on the "active" membership list. Any inquiries regarding the Alumni Association program of activities should be addressed to the Alumni Office, Providence College.

1975 - 1976 Loyalty Fund Tops Goal

The 1975-76 Alumni Loyalty Fund has passed into history but not without shattering some long-standing Loyalty Fund records. According to the results announced by Chairman John F. Capaldi '52, a total of 3,718 alumni contributed $181,147.82 surpassing the fund's goal of $175,000 and the total of $158,259 contributed in 1974-75.

The amount contributed this past year is the second largest in the college's history but in reality the 75-76 Fund has probably been the most successful. The record 1968-69 Loyalty Fund resulted in $203,782 but this figure included $58,100 in restricted gifts for capital purposes. Gifts of this type are no longer credited to the Alumni Loyalty Fund but are more accurately reflected in the college's capital development program reports.

Chairman Capaldi, the Alumni Association and Providence College can find much to be proud of in the results of this past year's campaign. Besides the increase in the number of dollars raised over previous years, the new records were reached in participation figures and average gifts contributed on a class basis.

In total dollars raised, the Class of 1953 led all others with 88 members contributing a total of $8,263.78. Second in this category was the Class of 1952 with 119 contributions totalling $7,671.00. The classes of 1949, 1955, and 1961 all succeeded in topping the $6,000 mark while the classes of 1940, 1950, 1958 and 1966 surpassed $5,000 each.

The leaders in the number of donors per class category were the classes of 1959 (138 donors), 1966 (133 donors), 1961 (130 donors), 1962

(129 donors) and the most recent participating class, 1975 (121 donors). The classes of 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1960, 1963, 1964, 1965 and 1968 were other classes that topped the 100 donor mark.

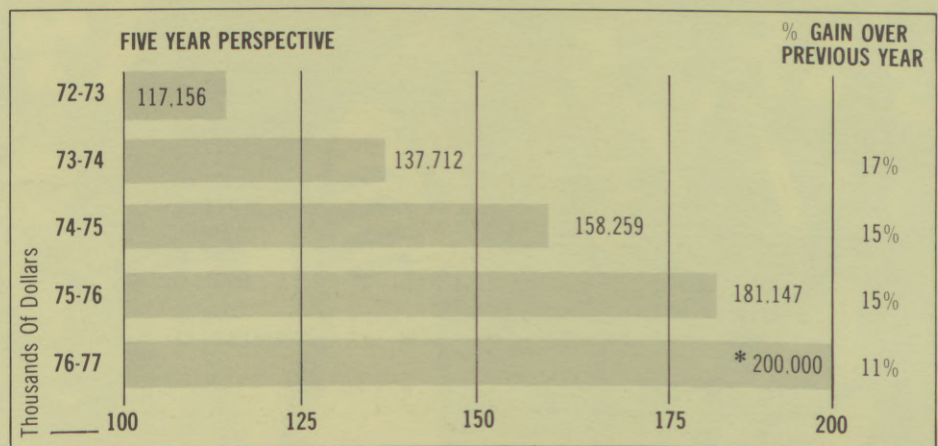

In the average gift category, where a new total high of $48.72 was achieved, honorary alumni led the field with an average contribution of $187.73, followed by the Class of 1937 with an average gift of $147.96. Other average gift leaders were the Classes of 1935 with $98.38, 1939 with $97.79, 1926 with $97.68 and 1953 with $93.90. Other classes successful in recording an average gift above the $75.00 level were the classes of 1932, 1940, 1942D, 1942M, 1946 and 1955.

In the all-important rating of percentage of participation, the Class of 1923 achieved 92%, closely followed by the Class of 1926 with 86%. Other classes with outstanding participation figures were the Classes of 1924 (70%), 1925 (68%), 1927 (72%), 1928 (51%), 1932 (58%), 1934 (65%), and 1936 (53%). Classes in the 1940 decade were led by the 1940 and 1941 classes with 44% each. In the 1950's, 1955 achieved 36%. In the 1960's, 1961 was the leader with 33%. And in the 1970's, the Classes of 1972 and 1975 Evening School tied with 20% each while the most recent Class of 1975 achieved 19%.

A complete breakdown of the 1975-76 totals by class is shown on a subsequent page of the magazine and all classes, volunteers, donors and staff are to be commended for a job well-done.

In announcing the final results, Chairman Capaldi said, "I am truly grateful for the excellent cooperation, assistance and generosity exhibited by fellow alumni of Providence College. Their response was terrific and I was thrilled upon reaching goal, for I know today more than ever before how much alumni support means to our school. The 1975-76 Fund's success gave me a great deal of personal satisfaction and the only thing that could please me more is to witness a much greater participation, maybe even a doubling of this year's figures, in 1976-77. The opportunity is there and achieving at least 50% participation and doubling this year's results would be a tremendous achievement of which our entire alumni family could be proud."

*$200,000 is the proposed '76-77 goal

Capital Campaign Enters Final Phase

The pledge redemption phase of the Second Half-Century Capital Campaign has now entered its final year. As of September 10, $6,191,404 had been collected on pledges totalling $7,812,112 from 24,388 individuals, corporations, foundations and other groups.

Of the totals realized to date, 2,615 alumni have pledged $1,737,149 and paid $1,180,945 to the Campaign. These gifts are of course exclusive from gifts contributed by alumni to the Alumni Loyalty Fund during the last several years.

Besides the alumni payments noted above, the Campaign totals include receipts of $1,519,492 from other individuals, $972,765 from non-alumni members of the President's Council, $26,587 from non-alumni faculty and staff, $1,164,279 from corporations, $133,873 from foundations, $978,842 through the Diocesan and Dominican Fathers Committees and $214,621 from miscellaneous groups and organizations.

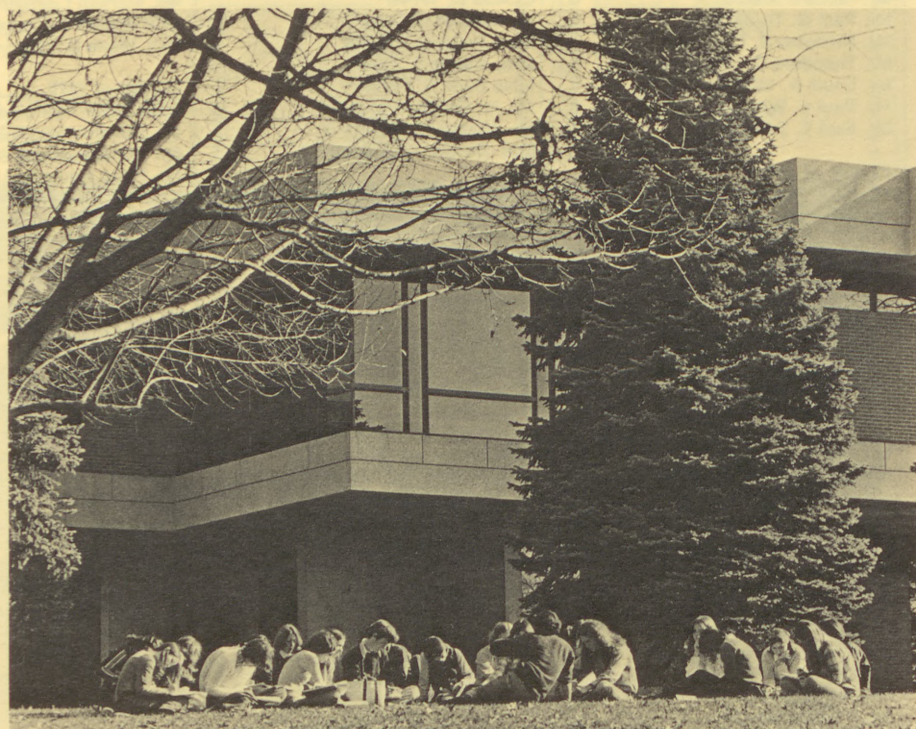

The Capital Campaign was launched in 1969, as part of the college's fiftieth anniversary, to provide the facilities and programs required to cope with the increased demands for a Providence College education.

Because of the success of the Capital Campaign, funds for scholarships were increased, and the Phillips Memorial Library, Slavin Student Center, and McVinney Hall, the highrise dormitory, were constructed. The college has also been able to make needed improvements to some of its older buildings as well as to strengthen its academic research and expand its curriculum. The campaign also enabled the college to accommodate a much larger student body thereby increasing the number of young men and women who can take advantage of a Providence College education. Since the Capital Program was launched, enrollment has increased from 2,541 students to 3,450 students clearly demonstrating the need for additional facilities and programs.

In a recent report concerning the status of the Capital Campaign, William T. Nero '55, Assistant Vice President for Development and the campaign's director, noted, "Everyone at Providence College is extremely grateful for the unprecedented high level of financial support achieved by the donors to the Capital Program. Without this exceptional generosity, needed improvements in the college's academic programs and physical plants could not have been completed and the future of Providence College would have been in serious jeopardy. It is now our firm hope that by the Campaign's official closing on June 30, 1977, those alumni and friends with outstanding balances on their pledges will make a special effort to complete their remaining payments. Then the college can proceed to erase some of the long-term debt entered into in anticipation of receipts from the Campaign as well as to erect the plaques promised to memorial donors in recognition of their generosity. We also hope that during the coming years, the same spirit of generosity shown by the Campaign's donors can be transferred to our Annual Loyalty Fund Drives so that further necessary improvements in the college's academic facilities and resources can be effected."

The Phillips Memorial Library was opened in 1969. The $3.2 million resource center has been awarded first place honors for design by the American Institute of Architects.

Alumni Contributors To Capital Campaign

The following is a list of the contributors to the Second Half-Century Capital Campaign. The gift plans, indicated by an abbreviation after each name, are: Founders (Fdr), Memorials (Mem), Benefactors (Ben), Patrons (Ptn), and Builders (Bld).

Dedicated in 1973, McVinney Hall, the 11-story women's dormitory, is named in honor of the late Most Rev. Russell J. McVinney. The $2 million tower can accommodate 280 resident students.

By this past June, the athletic fields were completed and attention shifted to the renovation of former hospital buildings. Among the facilities developed over this past summer were an art center, faculty office building and student recreation center. To date more than $2 million has been expended on development of Lower Campus.

PC Sports News

For the graduate with more than a casual interest in Providence College athletics, the Alumni Association, in cooperation with the college's Sports Information Office, has come up with PC Sports News. This eight-page newsletter, which is edited by Mike Tranghese, Sports Information Director, goes beyond the superficial reports found on the sports pages of your local newspaper. Sports News, which will be published in October, December, February, April and June, will offer firsthand information regarding recruiting, scheduling, personalities, appointments, and other items of interest to the Providence College athletic fan.

A subscription to Sports News will also bring you the following: the basketball yearbook, hockey brochure, baseball brochure, cross country brochure, women's athletic brochure, pre-season basketball newsletter, and the basketball-hockey schedule card.

The annual subscription fee is $10. To order Sports News send your name and address along with your payment to: Mike Tranghese, Sports Information Director, Providence College, Providence, R.I. 02918 or call (401) 865-2272.
