

PROVIDENCE

College Announces Appointments to Key Administrative Positions

REV. CORNELIUS P. FORSTER, O.P., dean of the graduate school, will become Providence College's executive vice-president on June 1, and DR. STEPHEN J. MECCA, chairman of the engineering/physics/systems department, has been elected the new vice-president for academic administration, effective July 1. In addition, REV. ROBERT A. MORRIS, O.P., executive vice-president and vice president for institutional planning and development, will become the resident director of Providence College's Providence-In-Europe program in Fribourg, Switzerland.

Fr. Forster, who is also chairman of the history department, was appointed to his new position by the Very Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., college president. As executive vice-president of the college, Fr. Forster will be the second-ranking administrator of the college and will assume the responsibilities of the college president in his absence.

Fr. Forster earned his undergraduate and doctorate degrees in History from Fordham University in 1941 and 1963 and holds a master's degree from Catholic University. He also holds the Licentiate and Lectorate of sacred theology degree from the Pontifical University, Washington, D.C.

Fr. Forster was ordained in 1948 and assigned to Providence College the following year. He has served as professor of history since that time, and in 1962, was appointed chairman of that department. In 1964, he founded the Graduate Schools of Arts and Sciences. He is also the founder and former moderator of the History Club at Providence.

A native of New York City, Fr. Forster is a member of the National Catholic Education Association, the American History Association, the Catholic History Association, the American Association of University Administrators and the New England Association of Graduate Schools.

He is also the author of The Uncontrolled Chancellor - Charles Townshend and His American Policy, which was published in 1979 by the Rhode Island Bicentennial Foundation.

Fr. Morris has served as vice president for Institutional Planning and Development since 1967 and as executive vice president of the college since 1974. His duties as resident director will involve the general overseeing of approximately 100 American college students who annually enroll in PC's study abroad program in Fribourg.

A 1944 PC graduate, Fr. Morris was ordained in 1950. Following graduate study in drama at Yale University, Fr. Morris was assigned to Providence College as a professor of English from 1957 to 1963. Prior to his appointment as

President Hospitalized

At press time we received news that the V. Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., college president, was being hospitalized at St. Barnabus Medical Center in Livingston, New Jersey, for treatment of gall stones.

In Fr. Peterson's absence, Rev. Robert A. Morris, executive vice president, will handle the day-to-day duties of the president's office.

UPDATE

'80-81 Campaign Wins Slot in Finals for CASE Award

For the sixth consecutive year, the Annual Alumni Giving Program at PC has been selected as a finalist in the Sustained Performance Category in the U.S. Steel Alumni Giving Incentive Awards Program. Sponsored by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE), this program recognizes those institutions and their alumni that have made a significant and successful commitment to encourage private voluntary support of education. Selection is based on data received from the 1980-81 Loyalty Fund Drive. Finalists in the Sustained Performance Category must have shown no year-to-year decline in both the number of alumni donors to their fund, and the dollar value of the gifts received.

Spearheaded by Associate Vice President for Development William T. Nero, and Chairman Eugene T. Voll, PC's 80-81 drive raised $677,180 — $27,000 over its anticipated goal of $650,000. Few colleges and universities in the country can rival PC's outstanding performance in alumni giving; Loyalty Fund participation through the years has continually increased from a respectable 25% in 1973 to an award-winning 41% in 1981.

Statistics aside, this continued support and warm response is especially encouraging and commendable in light of the country's economic situation.

New appointments, cont'd

vice president for institutional planning and development at PC in 1967, Fr. Morris served as chaplain at Catholic University.

Dr. Mecca was elected vice president for academic administration by the Providence College Corporation, which voted on candidates submitted by a Corporation Search Committee for the position. The Very Reverend Edward R. Daley, O.P., chairman of the Corporation, made the announcement of the election results at a recent meeting of the Corporation.

As vice-president for academic administration, Dr. Stephen Mecca will be the principal academic officer of Providence College. He will be responsible for the processes of hiring, promoting and tenure of faculty and will serve as chairman of the Committee on Academic Rank and Tenure. In addition, he will serve on the major administrative committees of the college, including the budget review committee, and will be the administrative representative at all meetings of the college Faculty Senate. In the work of the College Planning Committee, Mecca will be responsible for presenting appropriate data concerning academic departments and programs.

Currently director of the engineering/physics/systems department, Dr. Mecca earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in physics from PC in 1967 and 1966 respectively. He also holds a doctorate from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. A native of New York City, Mecca has been a member of the faculty since 1969. In 1971, he founded the engineering program and has served as its director since then.

Active in energy management activities throughout Rhode Island, Mecca is a consultant for the Governor's Energy Office and has conducted numerous energy management training seminars for city managers, executives, maintenance personnel and other city workers. He has also been project director of a government-sponsored residential energy management institute held during the past few summers at PC.

The author of numerous articles for professional and scientific journals, Mecca is co-author of the book, Problem Solving: A Systems Approach.

Dr. Mecca succeeds Dr. Paul Van K. Thomson, who has been a member of the faculty since 1949 and has served as vice president for academic administration since 1965. Following a one-semester leave of absence, Dr. Thomson will return to teaching in the English and religious studies departments at Providence.

Rising Operating Costs Prompt Tuition Increase

Citing the impact of inflation upon college operating expenses, the V. Rev. Thomas R. Peterson recently announced that there will be a $650 increase in tuition and a $200 increase in room and board, effective in September.

The increases bring the yearly cost of attending PC as a resident student to $8,378.

In a letter to undergraduates, Fr. Peterson noted that while realizing the increases "would bring about additional financial burdens to students and their families, the increases were necessary to insure that the budget would be in balance next year."

PC projects a total operating budget of approximately $29 million for the 1982-1983 fiscal year. Based on current figures, undergraduate tuition and room and board revenue represents about 74% of the college's total yearly operating budget.

Much of next year's revenue will be used to increase financial aid from the college to compensate for cutbacks in federally funded financial aid programs. During the next few years the college will continue its capital improvements program, which includes sorely-needed renovations to the science facilities as well as renovations to Harkins auditorium to accommodate the theatre. The college has budgeted several hundred thousand dollars for these improvements and for upgrading the campus sprinkler system.

To assist parents and students in their financial planning, PC will provide an optional ten month payment plan for those who prefer to make monthly payments rather than payment in full at the beginning of each semester. Information on this new tuition payment agreement, which will be available in September, may be obtained at the Treasurer's Office.

Campaign Goal Within Reach as Deadline Draws Near

With 7,115 commitments totalling $665,363 in pledges, including cash payments amounting to $556,139, the 81-82 Loyalty Fund has entered its final three months considerably ahead of last year's record-setting pace and is closing in on its $700,000 goal. As of April 1 last year, the 80-81 Fund had raised $637,666 in pledges and cash payments amounting to $491,064.

Campaign Chairman Anthony Sion, Jr., '56 was both delighted and cautiously optimistic over the 81-82 Fund's program noting, "though our progress is certainly very encouraging and gratifying, we can't afford to become complacent or overconfident. Our drive doesn't end until June 30 and our goal will not be achieved until payments have topped the $700,000 mark. Furthermore, in view of projected cuts in federal funds for student aid, PC can use all the dollars we can raise. Therefore, I'm hopeful that in our class phonathons and final mailings, our volunteers will continue their efforts with the dedication that has become their hallmark, and that our alumni and other members of the college family will respond more generously and in greater numbers than ever before."

During the final three months of the annual Loyalty Fund, the emphasis is on obtaining gifts and pledges through class phonathons at the college, which this year ran from April 5 through April 15th.

As this issue of the Update was sent to press prior to the completion of the class phonathons, the results of this phase of the Loyalty Fund will be published in the next issue. But Associate Vice President for Development Bill Nero predicted that the excellent performance of the special gift and regional phonathon volunteers will carry over to the class phonathons.

Since only actual payments received by the June 30th closing date can be included in the 81-82 Fund Report, pledgors are once again encouraged to complete their pledges as soon as possible.

PC Establishes Chair to Honor Paul van K. Thomson

Members of the Providence College faculty and alumni of the Arts Honors Program are establishing an academic chair to honor PAUL VAN K. THOMSON, Ph.D., who is retiring after 17 years as vice president for academic affairs. The chair is intended as a vehicle to continually recall Dr. Thomson's academic achievements and to reward distinguished scholarships by providing stipends to outstanding faculty members for one or three year terms. The Thomson professors will be chosen from the college's current faculty, and appointments for visiting professors may also be offered.

To help establish the Thomson Chair, donations are being accepted from members of the college family. Alumni interested in supporting this project should send their donation, payable to Providence College/Thomson Chair, to REV. JOHN B. DAVIS, O.P., Providence College, Providence, RI, 02918. Anyone donating to the Thomson Chair prior to June 30, 1982, will also receive credit for a gift to the 1981-82 Providence College Loyalty Fund.

Winter Sports Wrap-Up

If the Friars were playing horse-shoes instead of basketball this winter, they'd have been big winners!

Consider these statistics: PC lost nine games by a total of 22 points; the team lost only six times in double figures and trailed by as many as 20 points to only two teams -- Connecticut and Georgetown; and, only six times in 27 games did PC's opponents better the Friars' offensive team average.

Though the Friars ended the season with a disappointing 10-17 record, one must look at more than just the record to see how the team fared. The Friars lost their share of heartbreakers, (enough for a dozen seasons let alone just one), and on more than one occasion, PC fell short during the final moments of play before a tension-filled audience.

PC's leading hockey scorer, junior Kurt Kleinendorst.

Some of the close games PC lost include: by one point at the buzzer at Seton Hall; by five against Syracuse; by three at Boston College in the final seven seconds; by two points in FIVE OVERTIMES at Dayton; by two against UConn on a tip-in at the buzzer in overtime; by one against St. John's in two overtimes; and finally, by one point against Villanova on a three point play by Ed Pinckney with five seconds remaining.

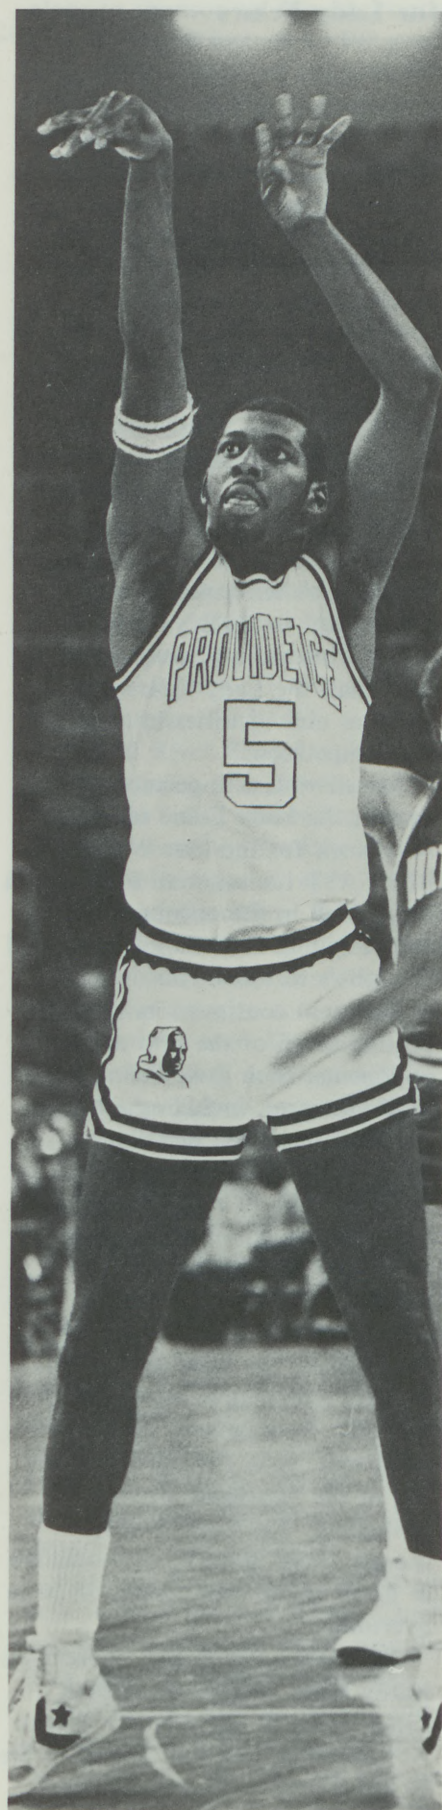

The 1981-82 season also marked the return of Joe Mullaney to the bench, and no one will dispute the fact that he did a remarkable job coaching his young squad through an iron-man schedule of BIG EAST competitions.

Over at Schneider Arena, hockey coach Lou Lamoriello led his team to its first-ever 20-win regular season, its fourth best regular season in history. The pucksters made it to their sixth straight post-season tournament, or their tenth in the past 11 years. Though the defending ECAC champions didn't make it further than one game in the tournament, they ended the season with a respectable 20-12-1 record.

The hockey Friars, like their friends in basketball, also lost of lot of heartbreakers; half of their 12 upsets were decided by just one goal.

The top scorers in both sports return next year. In basketball, junior Ron Jackson (16.2) and sophomore Otis Thorpe (14.1 and 8.0 rebounds) return to the PC court next year, and in hockey, junior Kurt Kleinendorst (who led the team with 30 goals, 27 assists and 57 points) returns to PC ice with freshman Paul Guay (23-17-40).

With the help of a couple of new recruits on both teams next year, the Friars may find themselves with just the right ingredients for thrilling, victorious seasons.

The Friars' leading basketball scorer, junior Ron Jackson.

Record Hoop Season for Lady Friars

While many PC sports enthusiasts focused their attention on men's basketball and the team's BIG EAST competitions this winter, another Friar squad was making a name for itself—the Lady Friars basketball team. Led by the coaching duo of Lynn Sheedy and Joe Mullaney, Jr., the young squad (five freshmen) established its best season in history and once again qualified for the Northeast IA Regional Tournament.

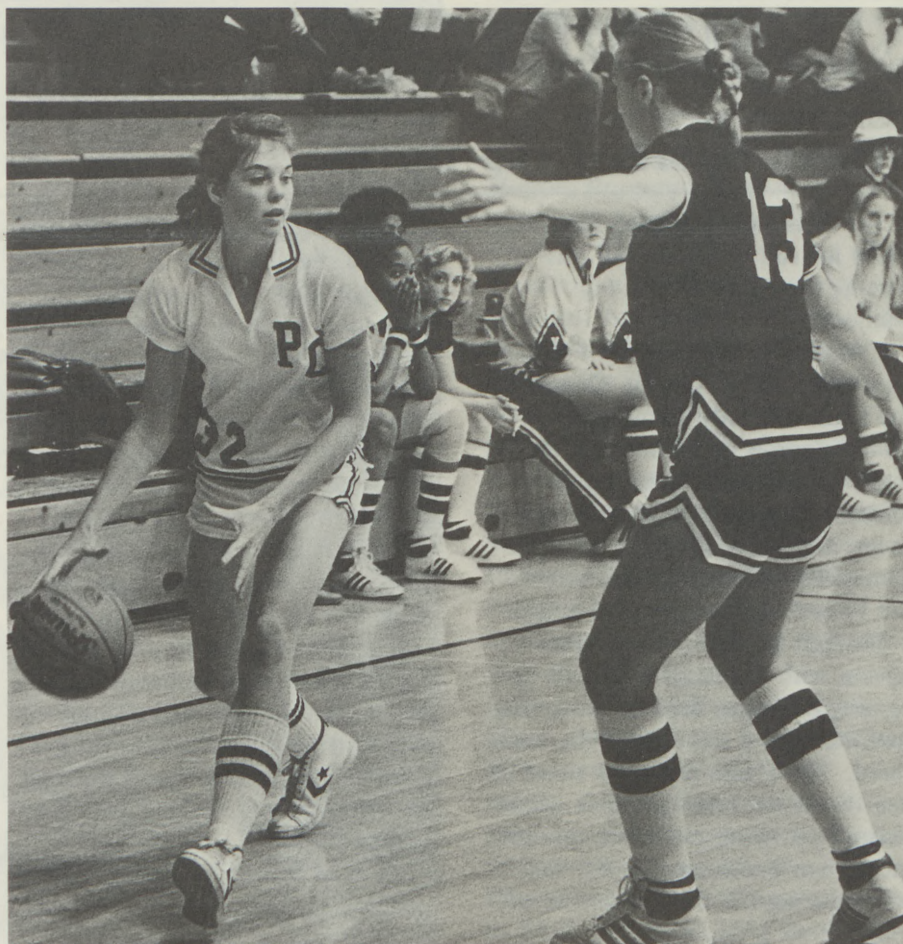

The Lady Friars kicked off the season with big wins on the road, an early indication of the quality of the team. After upsetting BIG EAST rival St. John's in the final of the Concordia Classic in Montreal, the Lady Friars went on to claim nine victories in their first ten competitions.

Armed with a respectable 9-1 record, the Lady Friars travelled to New York for the first Women's BIG EAST Invitational. PC downed Seton Hall in the opening round before falling to both Villanova and St. John's to finish fourth.

The team continued its sweep by beating seven of the next nine opponents, both losses being to TOP 20 teams, including a heart-breaking one-point decision to third-ranked Rutgers. To round out the remainder of the season, PC continued to dominate Eastern basketball by winning eight more games.

Ending the regular season with a 25-7 record, the team qualified for its sixth consecutive Northeast IA Regional Tournament, an achievement that ranks Providence at the top of the Northeast women's basketball. The Lady Friars, though, were upset by Northeastern at home in the first round, 56-56 in overtime.

The team's top scorer, sophomore Kathy Finn, scored her 1,000th career point in the overtime loss to Northeastern. She was named to the Division I All-Region team and nominated for the All-American team.

Lady Pucksters Finish 22-3; Fall Short in Title Chase

Fact: Victories and a winning season are not dependent upon fan attendance at hockey games.

Living proof of this statement are PC's Lady Friars. For despite small attendance at Schneider Arena this season, this young squad (only the eighth in the history of the college) recorded its third-straight 20-win season, finished with a 22-3 record, and achieved the elusive No. 1 ranking in the national standings.

Thankfully, the team's success didn't go unnoticed; the Lady Friars did enjoy some noteworthy recognition, nationally as well as locally. The talented team was featured on both NBC's Today Show and Rhode Island's P.M. Magazine program.

PC started the season with a bang -- 12 straight victories including a stunning upset over rival New Hampshire, snapping the Wildcats' win streak at 73. With the victory over UNH, the Lady Friars received the No. 1 national ranking they had been seeking. The Lady Friars didn't confront any real threatening competition until they travelled to Canada in defense of the Concordia Classic title. Though PC lost the opening game to Toronto (5-4 in overtime), they went on to record wins over both Cornell and Colby, taking the consolation title.

Back in the states, coach John Marchetti's club brought home four more victories, upping their record to an impressive 18-1 before meeting New Hampshire in a rematch. Though the game took place on our home ice, PC bowed 3-1.

The Lady Friars finished their regular season with a 21-2 record and received the No. 1 seeding in the four-team Eastern Championships. Providence downed Northeastern 7-1, but in the finals, again lost to UNH 6-4. Just two goals short of the title, the loss marked the third consecutive year the Lady

AREA CLUB NOTES

● The Greater Providence Chapter of the Alumni Association held its annual Mal Brown Awards dinner on April 24th at the college.

Charles F. Beirne, Jr. '47, a class agent, former chapter president and former national alumni board member, received the Mal Brown Award. This award is the organization's highest accolade to recognize special loyalty and service to Providence College.

Rev. Walter J. Heath, O.P., director of residence and a member of the PC faculty since 1956, was honored with the Dore Award to cite exceptional service from a member of the college community.

The McDonnell Award for outstanding volunteer efforts on behalf of the college was presented to John Parrillo, D.M.D. '45, a class agent and former Mal Brown chapter president.

Awards were also presented to three Providence College seniors. The Helen Bert Award for the senior female athlete with the highest academic average was presented to Elizabeth Flynn who will graduate summa cum laude. The McAndrew Award for the senior male athlete was presented to Phil Orzech, who will graduate magna cum laude. Coincidentally, both Elizabeth and Phil are members of the varsity lacrosse teams.

The Harry Driben Memorial Scholarship was awarded to Joseph Lovett, who will graduate summa cum laude and plans to stay at the college for graduate degree work in religious studies.

Muriel M. Vassett '71, president of the Greater Providence Alumni Chapter welcomed the gathering of 200 people. Aarom Slom '42 served as toastmaster and the awards committee included chairman William Lynch '28, Rev. T.A. Collins, O.P., Joseph Carty, Jr., '69, Hugh Fitzpatrick '58, Kathleen Moretti '73 and Maria Tasca '80. Mary Parrillo '81 served as chairperson for dinner arrangements.

● The Philadelphia Area Alumni Club has been reactivated and plans are being formulated to sponsor an annual program of alumni events in the area. Some of the activities under consideration are an annual alumni/student/faculty reception, a family Mass followed by a brunch and an annual pre-game or post-game party in conjunction with the PC-Villanova basketball game.

Stephen McBride '66 will serve as president of the alumni club and will be assisted by Raymond Heath '65, vice president; Lawrence Moran '62, secretary and Hugh David Prior '66, treasurer. The club's board of directors includes Dr. J. Edward Lynch '31, Daniel Lilly '31 and Albert Paine '38.

● The annual Ascension Day meeting of the New York Area club will take place on Thursday, May 20, 1982. The traditional event will begin with a Mass at St. Vincent Ferrer's Church on Lexington Ave. followed by a dinner and awards program at a Manhattan location to be announced. Details will be sent to area grads by mail.

● The Waterbury Area Alumni Club will host a Providence College reception at the Waterbury Country Club on Sunday, May 23. The afternoon event will be an informal social gathering for area alumni, students and their families.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served, and the program will feature the presentation of a scholarship grant to an incoming freshman from the Waterbury area. Details will be sent to area alumni by mail.

The new officers of the Waterbury Club are Robert Perugini '56, president; Robert Gaynor '66, vice president; James Gorman '74, treasurer; Richard Davis '74, recording secretary; and Patricia Boland '81, corresponding secretary. The board of directors includes Dominic Minicucci '38, George Regan '54, Thomas Brayton '55 and John Minicucci '67.

● The Fall River Area Alumni Club of PC has reorganized and plans to sponsor an annual program of activities of interest to PC grads in the area.

The new president of the organization is Albert J. Michaud '49, a resident of Somerset, Ma., who is manager and treasurer of St. Anne's Credit Union in Fall River. Santi Di Ruzza '55, a retired Army Lieutenant now in the real estate investment field, will serve as vice president.

Robert Leite '67 of Swansea is the organization's new secretary, and Debra Perry '79 of Fall River will serve as treasurer.

Assisting the new officers in planning and promoting club activities will be a six-person Board of Directors including Edward Haponik '42, James Rogers '63, Leonard Phelan '45, John Raftery '71, Frank Devine '41, and Brian Corey '67.

A "Fall River Friars" reception is currently being planned for the summer to bring alumni, current students, incoming freshmen and their families together with members of the college faculty and administration. The highlight of the reception will be the awarding of a scholarship grant to a deserving student from the area. Complete details of all club activities will be sent to area alumni by mail when plans are complete.

● The New Haven Area Alumni Club will hold its annual Veritas Awards Dinner on Tuesday, May 11, 1982, at 7:30 PM at the Park Plaza Hotel in New Haven.

Over 500 people are expected to attend the dinner and awards program in honor of two of the area's leading citizens, U.S. Congressman Lawrence DeNardis and Mr. Fred-eric Mancheski, Chairman of the Board of Echlin Industries.

Proceeds from the Veritas dinner help to fund the New Haven Club's scholarship program which benefits four area PC students each year.

Tickets cost $20 per person and can be reserved by calling the dinner chairman, Mr. William Mooney at (203) 265-7761 or club president Dr. Dominic Shioppo at (203) 389-0766.

Financial Aid Reductions Cause Students to Job Hunt

Because of the Reagan Administration's cutbacks in federally funded financial aid, college students throughout the nation have been forced to seriously consider how they can continue to finance the cost of higher education. Providence College students are no exception.

As this issue of Update went to press, PC's Financial Aid Office received confirmation of a 26 percent cut in Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG) and an 11 percent reduction in the College Work Study Program (CWSP).

At present, approximately 65 percent of PC's students receive federal aid in the form of either national direct student loans, basic grants, SEOG or CWSP.

In light of these federal cutbacks and the impact they will have upon undergraduates, more and more PC students are seeking part-time employment to compensate for the federal reductions. Recognizing the invaluable resource present in our alumni, the PC Student Employment Office is seeking the assistance of alumni who may be in the position to hire PC undergraduates on a part-time or temporary basis. Employment opportunities may be for the academic year or the summer, in any geographic location. All job opportunities will be posted in the Student Employment Office.

If you can help a PC student defray the cost attending your alma mater, please contact the Student Employment Office at 401-865-2286.

Co-captain Kerry Phayre, second in scoring for the Lady Friars, was one of 30 finalists nominated for the prestigious Wade Trophy awarded to the top woman player in the country.

Though endless praise can be credited to the Lady Friars and their characteristic "team effort," suffice it to say that, with an exceptional 25-8 record, the Lady Friars met their most challenging schedule ever and preserved their tradition of being one of the strongest teams in the East.

Friars finished second to New Hampshire in the Eastern Championship final.

There are 18 individual reasons why the Lady Friars had their best season ever. Every player contributed to the team's success, and the thirteen players finished the season scoring in double figures.

The team's top two scorers this season were sophomore Jackie Gladu, (1981 Female Athlete of the Year) who led the team with a record 69 points, and freshman Cindy Curley, who scored 63 points.

One could go on and on listing all of this season's individual statistics, but in light of the impressive collective record already mentioned, this would surely be redundant!
